APOLLO 11 WILL MAKE LANDING

Apollo 10 to Circle Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — High level space officials have decided to send Apollo 10 around the moon for 63 hours, but man's first landing there will have to await the flight of Apollo 11.

A source at the Manned Spacecraft Center said the space agency officials adopted this course at a meeting Tuesday.

Apollo 10 will be launched

May 18, the source said, and fly into lunar orbit. Two of its crew will then fly the landing module to within 10 miles of the lunar surface, leaving the third crewman behind in the command module.

The lunar module descent stage will be jettisoned at 10 miles above the moon and the ascent stage flown up to a rendezvous with the command module. The ascent stage will be left in lunar orbit and the crew will return to earth in the command module.

A successful flight by Apollo 10 will virtually assure a moon landing attempt by Apollo 11, now scheduled for a July blast-off.

The reported decision appeared to end speculation that the first moon landing attempt would be made by Apollo 10, without waiting for the Apollo 11 launch.

According to one source, astronaut Thomas P. Stafford, the commander of Apollo 10, had actively campaigned to have his mission attempt the moon landing.

But, a source said, officials judged it would be more prudent to use Apollo 10 to gather more information about the moon and make the big try later with Apollo 11.

British Land In Anguilla; No Fighting

ANGUILLA (AP) — A task force of British troops landed without resistance on this rebellious Caribbean island by ship and helicopter at dawn today. Paratroopers in red berets of the Red Devil regiment moved quickly to check the people for weapons.

Acting President Ronald Webster had appealed to the islanders late Tuesday night to submit if there was an invasion, saying: "There's no use in shedding blood foolishly."

Paratroopers and marines made up the task force, believed to number 315 men. They had flown from Britain Tuesday to the island of Antigua, in the Leeward chain southeast of Anguilla, and cruised in by night aboard two frigates, the Rothsay and Minerva.

It was an operation the British government named Calypso and Londoners called the Bay of Pigs.

The island population yielded quietly and with some tears. The paratroopers, carrying automatic arms invaded at several points.

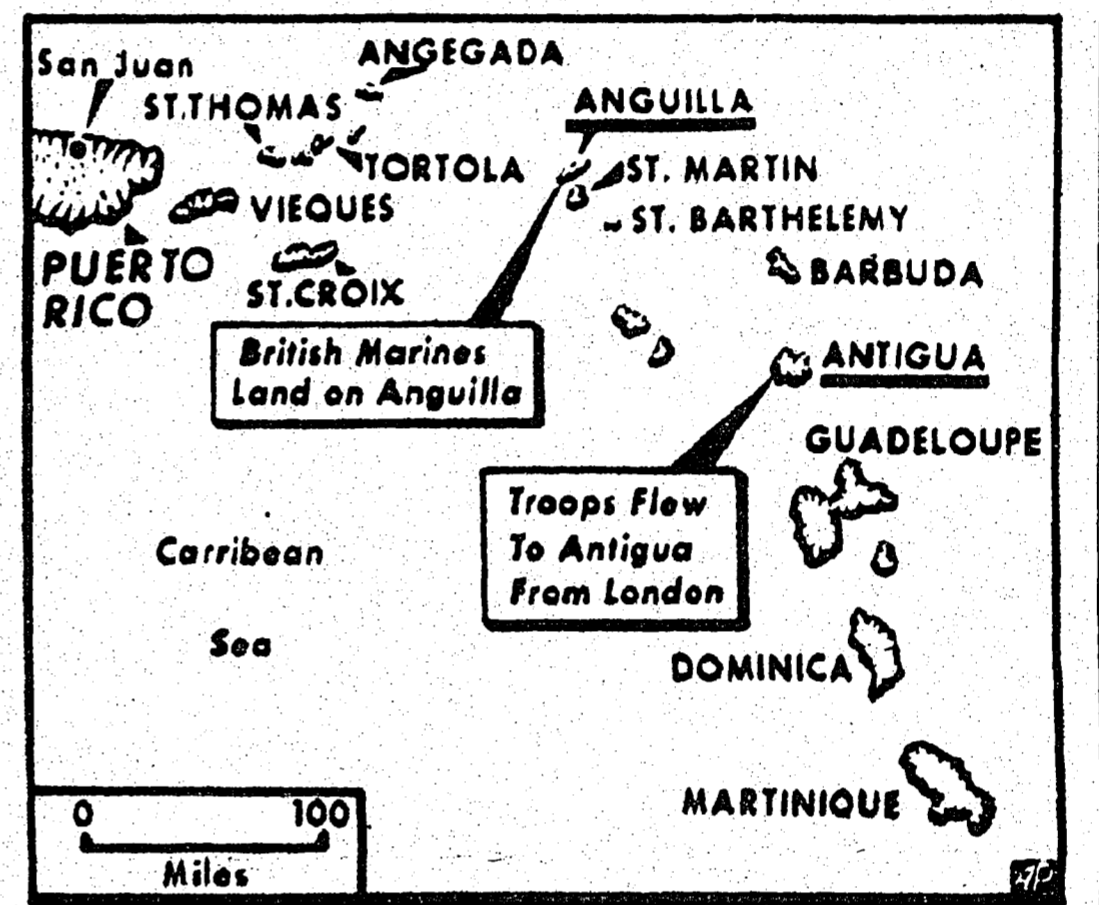

The whereabouts of Webster and other leaders of the rebel government was not known.

The landing force was accompanied by Anthony Lee, a career diplomat the government planned to install as British commissioner in charge of the tiny island.

Before the landing, many of the 6,000 Anguillians had conceded privately that they could not hope to repel British troops. But their comments for publication, made to scores of newsmen who converged on the island, were defiant.

"We are prepared to fight," said Ronald Webster, Anguilla's 31-year-old acting president. "The people of Anguilla have contemplated the possibility of armed invasion for the past 21 months and have prepared themselves accordingly."

But he added: "It is difficult for us to believe that England, as a world power of respected integrity, would proceed contrary to its own stated policy."

Anguilla, an impoverished island whose main product is salt, broke away from federation with the islands of St. Kitts and Nevis on May 31, 1967, claiming the federation was dominated by St. Kitts and they were getting a raw deal. The Anguillians reaffirmed their independence in a referendum last month and scheduled a presidential election April 3.

At the time of the referendum, the Anguillians claimed their quarrel was not with Britain but with Robert L. Bradshaw, prime minister of the St. Kitts-Nevis-Anguilla federation. They said he treated their island as a stepchild and retarded its economic growth.

BERMANU AFEWORK Named in Shootings

Janitor Goes Berserk, Kills 3 at Embassy

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A berserk janitor killed three persons and wounded six others in a shooting spree at the Ethiopian Embassy Tuesday night, then hanged himself in a dingy hotel early this morning, police said.

The ambassador's wife was among the dead and his two small children were wounded seriously.

Police said the killer, Bermanu Afeework, 30, was found hanging by a cord taken from a venetian blind in a hotel room three hours after his rampage. They were called by the hotel manager, who said the Ethiopian rushed in shortly after midnight and booked a room.

A knife and a gun were in his pockets, police said.

Ambassador Gaitachew Bekele had left his apartment in the embassy shortly before the shooting to dine at a hotel with friends. When Bekele learned of the tragedy and returned to the embassy, Foreign Minister Antonio Carrillo Flores took him into seclusion.

Flores said Bekele had thought highly of Afeework and had brought him from Ethiopia on a friend's recommendation to work at the embassy. Embassy personnel described Afeework as quiet and unassuming.

Northern Sector Feels Offensive

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong's spring offensive ripped into South Vietnam's northern sector today as big enemy rockets slammed into a Da Nang shantytown and ground troops made heavy attacks on U.S. and South Vietnamese forces guarding the nation's second largest city.

The U.S. Command also reported that the massive counter offensive by more than 10,000 American troops northwest of Saigon had killed 123 North Vietnamese soldiers Tuesday in its first day of operations. One American was killed and 23 wounded, the command said, indicating most of the attacks on the enemy were by planes and artillery.

AP Correspondent John T. Wheeler reported from Da Nang that 13 Vietnamese civilians were killed and 21 were wounded when ten 100-pound rockets exploded in the slum neighborhood around a Navy pier before dawn. It was the highest civilian toll in the four times Da Nang has been shelled since the enemy's spring offensive started Feb. 23.

A South Korean civilian working for the U.S. Navy also was killed, and three U.S. Marines were wounded.

Twenty miles south of Da Nang, 400 North Vietnamese troops laid down a mortar barrage on a U.S. Marine night camp, then stormed the camp with flamethrowers, machine guns, rocket-propelled grenades and small arms.

The Marines fired their artillery point-blank into the charging enemy troops and reported killing 72 of them, but the fight also took the lives of 12 Americans and 30 were wounded.

ARRIVAL . . . British paratroopers arrive at St. John's airport in Antigua Tuesday before embarking on Royal Navy frigates for a landing on the Caribbean island of Anguilla, presently in a state of revolt under President Ronald Webster. (AP Photofax)

Wheeler reported that two of the North Vietnamese broke through the Marine lines and ran into a mess hall carrying flamethrowers. They killed two Marines but were cut down before they could fight their flamethrowers.

Military spokesmen said the enemy also made several other coordinated but unsuccessful ground attacks south of Da Nang about 2 a.m. In one of them, South Vietnamese rangers and infantrymen threw back an assault on Dien Ban, a key district capital 15 miles south of Da Nang.

One rocket attack being prepared for Saigon was blocked when two alert GIs on a watchtower, James Wales of North Olmsted, Ohio, and Pfc. Eugene Griesing of Weatherley, Pa., observed radar traces of people moving about a mile away.

They called in mortar fire, and the radar scopes showed the people running off. At dawn searching troops found six 122mm rockets aimed at the heart of Saigon, their detonating wires running together into one line.

There have been five rocket attacks on Saigon during the current offensive, all launched from that general area.

The big American counter offensive, code-named Atlas Wedge, was launched 40 miles northwest of Saigon Tuesday to shatter enemy preparations for the assault on Saigon which U.S. intelligence officers insist is coming.

TO AVOID THREATENED SABOTAGE

Railroads Clamp on Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's railroads, under threats of sabotage from anti-Vietnam war groups, have placed the tightest security precautions in history on shipments of munitions and military supplies.

The new safeguards, drawn up jointly by military and railroad representatives, resulted from what FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover termed "a marked increase" in acts of sabotage against government installations.

Government officials have indicated rail shipments of Vietnam-bound material have been listed as prime targets by some antiwar groups who have threatened to use force to impede the war effort.

A railway spokesman said the threats along with reported "isolated incidents" of interference with defense shipments led to the elaborate antisabotage steps.

The new rail security procedures include:

- Sending trains laden with munitions and defense supplies through isolated areas and generally at night.
- Varying routing so no pattern can be detected in defense shipments. In fact, many are routed over a much longer distance than necessary in order to avoid detection.
- Triple sealing doors of box cars containing explosives before shipment.
- Careful inspections of railway track and facilities near Wilmington, N.C., and Oakland, Calif.—primary embarkation points for Vietnam-bound supplies.

Hoover says "terrorist activities" against government installations primarily have involved attacks on Reserve Officers Training Corps and Selective Service facilities.

But there have been cases—the FBI says it has no exact figures—of sabotage against utility towers serving defense plants.

And a railway source reported that a cache of small arms was stolen recently from a boxcar at the Army's Aberdeen, Md., proving grounds.

Government officials, cautious in discussing suspected sabotage because of fears of triggering an alarmist reaction from the public, say the outbreak shows only "a marked increase" and is not a wave of terrorist activities.

Hoover traces the incidents to last June when the Students for a Democratic Society, a militant leftist youth group, held its national convention at Michigan State University.

Despite numerous cases investigated, only two indictments have been returned.

Laird Sees No Reduction In Viet Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird told Congress today, "I see no indication that we presently have a program adequate to bring about a significant reduction in the U.S. military contribution in South Vietnam."

Just back from a personal inspection, the new Pentagon chief criticized U.S. leaders in Vietnam for being oriented more toward military operations "than on assisting the South Vietnamese to acquire the means to defend themselves."

Laird's somber-toned report to a closed session of the Senate Armed Services Committee also amounted to a rap at the policies of his Democratic predecessor, Clark M. Clifford.

Laird asked for another $156 million to speed modernization of South Vietnam's armed forces (RVNAF), and declared "establishment of a new objective for this modernization which has not previously existed, namely, the effective assumption by the RVNAF of a larger share of combat operations from American forces."

LAIRD DROPS PLANS FOR PAY INCREASE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, in his first budget presentation to Congress, announced today he is dropping plans of boosting military pay an additional $1.2 billion this year.

The revised program of military pay will not affect the $1.8 billion pay hike this year which previously was approved by Congress, he told the Senate Armed Services Committee.

But, because of budgetary pressures, he added in his prepared report for the closed-door presentation of the annual "defense posture statement, future pay hikes are being re-examined.

FAULTY BRAKES

G.M. Recalls 1.1 Million Vehicles

DETROIT (AP) — Three weeks after announcing the biggest car recall in the automobile industry's history, General Motors is calling back another 1.1 million vehicles, this time for correction of possible brake defects. The two recalls cover 6 million cars, buses and trucks.

Linked to the latest callback was the crash of a GM-built bus last autumn at Huntsville, Ala. which killed a 4-year-old boy and injured 24 other junior high school pupils.

On Feb. 26 GM asked owners of 4.9 million vehicles to take them back to dealers for correction of possible carburetor and exhaust system defects. GM said then four deaths had been attributed to faulty exhaust systems.

Involved in the new call were

Pontiac cars and Chevrolet and GMC trucks and buses.

GM declined comment Tuesday on the crash of the General Motors bus in Alabama, but noted that an investigator for the National Highway Safety Bureau said that a seal in the bus's master brake cylinder was worn enough to cause a hydraulic pressure failure.

The report, GM said, also stated the vehicle's brake linings were worn and could have been a contributing factor to the crash.

GM also said seven accidents had been reported involving trucks, another involving a school bus and something under 20 involving the Pontiac automobiles—1965 and 1966 Pontiac Catalinas, Star Chiefs, Bonneville and Grand Prix models.

BUT SPIRAL FEARED

Expect to Dampen The Rise of Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fire hose is being turned on the money markets, to wet down inflation. Some officials fear that, like water on gasoline, it may just spread the flames.

In the theory, higher interest rates should discourage borrowing. And since major banks this week raised their basic interest rate to a record 7½ percent, companies which want loans for plant expansion should be thinking about postponing the borrowing.

But if the corporations feel sure of continuing inflation, they may borrow anyhow. To postpone the borrowing would simply mean paying a still higher interest rate later.

The high credit cost doesn't matter much anyway if the corporation can pass it on to consumers by marking up the price of the goods it sells. And if consumers also are conditioned to the expectation of inflation, they'll buy now in fear of still higher prices ahead.

The only way to stop this spiral is to destroy the expectation of inflation — the "inflationary psychology" that economists deplore.

A collapse into a recession would destroy it, in a hurry. But it would be painful with a million or two million people thrown out of jobs, including a disproportionately large number of Negroes and slum dwellers.

The Nixon administration has promised to do it less painfully by "gradual and persistent" restraint, applied steadily for a year or two years if necessary. The Federal Reserve Board concurs. Its chairman, William McChesney Martin, says there can be "disinflation without deflation."

But business is not convinced, seemingly, that the government really means business—that anti-inflationary measures will be applied hard enough and long enough to do the job.

Facts, Faith Heavy Weapons In Fight Against Narcotics

By ALTON BLAKESLEE Associated Press Science Writer

Facts provide a main key to preventing abuse of dangerous drugs.

The more complete and factual information parents have on the "mind" drugs, the more effective they can be in dealing with drug temptations and problems.

Youths and children also need to know the full story, particularly because drug users are the very ones who induce or try to induce other people to try the same drugs.

Those who "push" the mind-affecting drugs, in the beginning at least, are often users who may wish only to share their experiences with others. But they do not always mention the potential or real hazards of the drugs they push.

Beginning at a very young age, "we should teach children respect for drugs of all kinds, even aspirin" (which can cause death by overdose), says John Finlator, associate director of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs.

"We should teach them to take drugs only as needed, and to follow directions when they do. We cannot wait until children reach an age of decision about drugs. We must tell them facts about all kinds of drugs, when they are in their pre-decision, pre-commitment years, when children listen."

"We should tell them that if they take marijuana, they may get into trouble. We should tell them that LSD can lead them to a hospital. We should not only tell them but let them find that what we tell them is true. Let them read about it, all of it. Kids are smart. They're going to make decisions. Let's give them good, informed, intelligent information."

STRESS THE POSITIVE

PARENTS ARE advised to respond with factual discussion if they suspect or know their children, or children's friends, are using or being tempted to use dangerous drugs.

"Stress the positive aspects," one psychiatrist suggests.

"Remind them of the penalties under law. Remind them that anything drugs can do for them, they can achieve in other ways. You can feel good, be sociable, without depending on drugs."

"Ask why they think they should do the drug bit — how do they think drugs help them? What is troubling them or influencing them so they think they ought to play with drugs? Does it serve a social purpose? If there are no real benefits, why are they using drugs?"

Head-on quarrels over drugs, or other subjects, often only create more tensions and wider gulfs than they settle.

Parents should "respond to kids as human beings," says another psychiatrist. "If we are going to let a generation grow up, we have got to let them make some decisions, with a chance they will make some that are wrong."

"If they are taught to make minor decisions at first, and then more important ones as they grow older, they are far less likely to depend upon other people for decisions, and to depend upon crutches such as drugs in order to get along."

"Youngsters should be given a sense of responsibility for their own futures," says Dr. Malcolm B. Bowers Jr., of Yale. "They have to recognize that there are various prices one pays for his future. Drug use and drug dependence are one particularly hedonistic (pleasure seeking) way of selling out the future."

Some children respond to a strong approach, but generally "it is easier to lead them than to drive them, and they all want to be treated as human beings," says a psychiatrist concerned with drug hazards.

Some parents really fear their children will run away if they impose strict standards and discipline. Others advocate strict discipline with no back-talk.

Speaking of teen-agers smoking pot, a police chief in one town says:

"The whole thing is we are replacing the woodshed with a couch. Many of these kids don't need a psychiatrist. They need a little whack-oo on the tail-e-o."

Various specialists stress, however, that youths want authority, but not tyranny.

IF PARENTS DON'T LOVE...

SOME YOUNG persons who became addicted to heroin say they think they would not have done so if their parents had really been concerned about them, and also had set strict standards.

Youngsters want parents to be fair, and to hear them out before pronouncing judgments. No harm is done by being a friend as well as a parent.

Parents also are advised to know and to be interested in where their children spend their time, and with whom, but not to appear as suspicious nags in seeking that knowledge.

Other major points of counsel: Respect the confidence of children and youths, respect their right to some privacy, as in keeping diaries and in talking with their friends. Everyone has some basic rights of privacy.

Give youngsters "general support for flying right, rather then make a special campaign aimed at use of drugs, or at one misfortune in their lives. We must do more than just insist that they do not take drugs."

If — whatever the discipline or family relationships — parents sense they are drifting away from their children, "it is time for a change, but make it a slow rather than a sudden change. No one dramatic step will remedy the situation, and neither will shouting nor a show of force. Do it gradually, but do it."

PUSH-AWAY CHILDREN

IN STUDIES of families where youths are abusing drugs, terrible chasms are often apparent between parents and children, says Dr. Harry A. Wilmer of the University of California School of Medicine. "We see in these parents their rejection of their children, their righteousness, the vain and awful attempts to impose their values on their children," he says. "Most of our runaway children are push-away children."

The moral chasm is almost irreparable."

Dr. Wilmer says that "what troubles me most, from the position of the law and the families, is that the more punitive the laws become, the more rigid the barriers within the family."

"Parents become police surrogates, harassing their children, smelling their rooms, their clothes, examining their (eye) pupils, asking leading and misleading questions, interrogating and acting like 'cops.'"

"The more stringent the laws become for possession, the more this awful chasm is widened," Dr. Wilmer adds. "The more society brands children criminals, and the more likely they are to be felons and lose the rights of citizens, the more unlikely is any family reconciliation. Once the Good-Guy, Bad-Guy dichotomy (division) is set, the picture becomes gloomy, even perhaps hopeless."

TELEVISION REVIEW

Fashion Special Not Successful

By CYNTHIA LOWRY NEW YORK (AP) — Unfortunately there are a few areas of genuine public interest that stubbornly evade television treatment: Financial news, because no one yet has been able to make statistics "visual" in the TV sense, and fashions—women's and men's—probably because the models are likely to attract more attention than the clothes they are wearing.

"The Wonderful World of Pizazz," despite the title was an ambitious NBC special Tuesday night, and it bravely tackled the business of fashion from a non-news angle. It used the business of clothes as an excuse for music, comedy and camera effects.

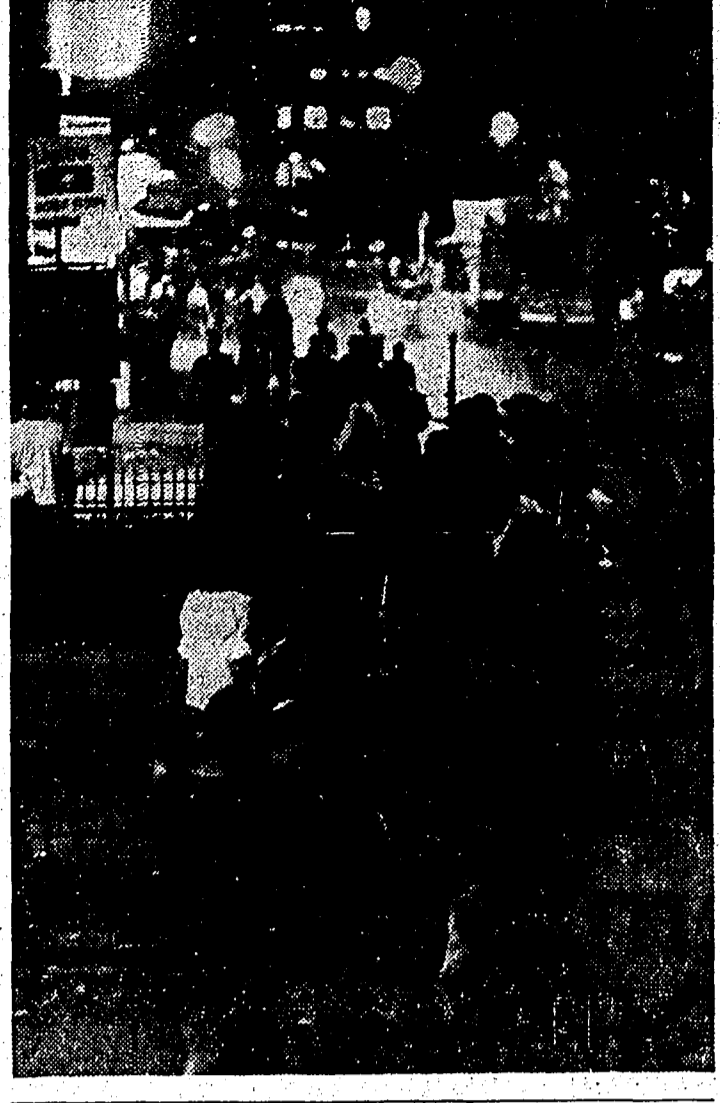

In the course of the hour, women in the audience didn't learn an awful lot about the height of future hemlines, or even current ones. But we saw a large number of skinny models in colorful and mostly way-out clothes coveting merrily.

The program started with some costumes bizarre enough to have captured the hearts of newsreel men in the 30s and 40s. It followed an interesting thread by showing briefly what designers are up to in such places as Hong Kong, Tokyo, Sweden, Australia and Russia as well as in such fashion centers as Paris, London and New York.

NASON ON EDUCATION

Upward Bound Is Successful

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed.D. University of So. Calif.

Helping a student prepare for college while he is still in high school is a sound idea.

Many rural and urban youngsters from poverty backgrounds have the ability to succeed in college when provided with the stimulation, financial help and necessary academic background.

Almost two-thirds of all high school graduates in the Upward Bound program have gone on to college. More than 11,000 students are now enrolled in two and four-year accredited colleges and universities across the country because of this program.

THE 1965 Upward Bound high school graduates entered their senior year of college last fall. More than half reached their senior year in the regular three years. In fact, their retention rate was 54 percent, just two points below the average for all college seniors nationally.

More than 800 accredited colleges and universities, together with the high schools involved in the program, are to be congratulated on their success in this new worthwhile program.

The principle of the Upward Bound program is that students who possess the potential and aptitude for advanced study should be discovered at least a year or two ahead and given special encouragement and training. Following that principle, professional schools are searching for college undergraduate students from minority groups.

Although the schools of medicine and law, for example, already have many more qualified applicants than they can accept, a special place will be made for qualified students from minority groups.

The Northwestern University School of Law which already had eight applicants for every place in its first-year class, is making a country-wide search for the best undergraduate students from minority who could complete the studies leading to a law. A faculty committee is developing a program which will help these prospective students meet the requirements, providing them with counseling and financial aid where needed.

HIGH SCHOOL students with goals, whether they be college or a vocation, don't drop out. In New York City, 95 percent of the high school pupils who work and attend class on alternate weeks stay in school to the completion of their studies. This is contrasted with a 70 percent retention rate for those without such vocation motivation, according to Mrs. Renee Sherline, director of the Cooperative Education Program.

There are 5,000 pupils in junior and senior high school grades currently enrolled in the program. Their annual earnings are in excess of $3 million. More

DEAR ABBY:

Should Widow Move In With Her Beau

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 51 and I have been keeping fairly steady company with a man who is 60. He's very considerate, generous, and I certainly appreciate his company, after having been a lonely widow for four years.

He asked me if I would like to move in and keep house for him so we can find out if we are "compatible" before trying marriage. He says there is nothing wrong with it at our ages.

I refused. Was I foolish? Lately I have been reconsidering his proposition. I don't enjoy being alone. He has money and could get plenty of other women on his terms.

Can you help me come to a decision? LEXINGTON LADY

DEAR LADY: I say, let some other woman have the pleasure of "moving in" with him to find out if she is "compatible." Respectable couples of all ages still marry before they live together. If you want to be a "housekeeper" with sleep-in privileges, it's up to you.

DEAR ABBY: My father-in-law likes to tell about the only time in his life he made a mistake, and that was when he "thought" he was wrong, and then found out he wasn't.

My former roommate was a public health nurse in San Francisco, and her job was to call on welfare cases to see if the children were properly fed and clothed. She told me (and there was no reason for her to lie) that about half the children were adequately cared for, but she usually found plenty of cigars, beer, and liquor in the home, and oftentimes a man in the bedroom. She said one mother had 12 illegitimate children. She got $800 a month, which was maximum, so she put her 13-year-old daughter to work starting a new family.

Abby, $148 (tax free) for one child, plus $1 per day, times 30 days per month, times five or six children, plus free housing, medical care, and food stamps, equals what some working men have to raise their families on. I am not saying that anyone is getting rich on welfare, but I wonder what would happen if these women were required to rise and shine at 6 a.m. and go to work in order to raise their illegitimate children.

You were right the first time when you said you thought that any woman who bears more than one illegitimate child should be taken off welfare. By apologizing for your original statement, I believe you made your first mistake. MRS. R. C. M. JR. GLENDALE, CALIF.

DEAR MRS. R. C. M. JR.: You're mighty kind, ma'am, but if my original statement was a mistake, it wasn't my first.

DEAR ABBY: We are childless after 10 years of marriage, although we would dearly love to have a family. We go out with people about our ages and most of them have children.

Whenever we meet new people, the conversation invariably turns to children. I am often asked, point-blank, "Do you have any children?" It is becoming more and more painful to reply no. WHY do people ask this?

Don't they realize that parents always mention their children if they have any? I have even been asked, after having remarked that I have no children, "WHY NOT?" Abby, this has been a very painful subject for me, and I'd rather not discuss it. Can you say something to stop people from asking such cruel questions? HURT

DEAR HURT: Most cruel questions stem from ignorance. Your best defense is to develop a stiff upper lip, a tougher hide, and believe it or not, compassion for people who don't know any better.

CONFIDENTIAL TO E. J. L.: To answer your questions: Your name and address need NOT accompany your letter in order to have a reply published in this column. For a personal reply, please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope. I DO answer letters personally. All letters to this column are held in the strictest of confidences, and no names are ever used without the writer's permission.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Renewal Plan Clears Chicago

Loan and grant application forms for Winona's first downtown urban renewal project have been forwarded from the Chicago regional office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, the Housing and Redevelopment Authority was told Tuesday night.

According to Robert L. Ferluga, urban renewal director, this means that approval has been given by the regional office and that final work may be expected within 30 to 60 days, unless the project is held up until the new federal fiscal year begins on July 1.

THIS DOESN'T mean the authority will begin buying property immediately, Ferluga cautioned. New appraisals will have to be made and approved by HUD officials, after which negotiations can begin. Ferluga estimated that approaches will not be made to property owners until next fall.

Authority board members questioned Ferluga about channels through which the city government issues directions for redevelopment planning. The questions were prompted by the council's reaction Monday night to a request by Ferluga for city authorization to begin actual studies in connection with proposed redevelopment of a 4-block downtown area. Mayor

Norman E. Indall had criticized authority renewal personnel for approaching various agencies and service clubs with the idea before consulting the council.

Ferluga said council intentions probably would be communicated through the city manager. The City Planning Commission role is that of adviser to the council. Ferluga said the council wants to be involved at all stages in the development of any plan that might be drawn. This precludes the presentation of a finished plan to the council on a take-or-leave basis but it does not tend to create more confusion during the planning process, he explained.

COMMISSIONER R. G. Thern said he hopes the situation will be clarified so the council is informed at all stages and so that the city's wishes can be transmitted to the authority continually. This ought to be accomplished for the protection of authority personnel, he said, as well as for other reasons.

Mayor Indall, a spectator at the meeting, said the matter will be taken up by the council next Monday. The fact that there is no plan at present, but only that preliminary discussions are under way, should be re-emphasized, Thern said.

Settlement Made in Stream Diversion Case

An out-of-court settlement was reached Tuesday afternoon in a District Court action brought by Harvey Krage and Mary Krage, Stockton, against Albert C. Hagemann, Stockton, Edwin Butenhoff, Sr., and Sophie D. Butenhoff, Minnesota City, and Winona Excavating, Inc., 4980 6th St., Goodview.

It was alleged that damage was caused by diversion of a stream on plaintiff's property by the defendants and the moving of heavy equipment across plaintiff's property.

The plaintiffs had asked $3,500 in damages in the action. Principals in the case along with their attorneys conferred in the chambers of Judge Donald T. Franke and settlement was made while a jury waited to be impaneled in the courtroom. Details of the settlement were not made public.

Paul Brewer was attorney for the plaintiffs and Robert Langford was defendant's lawyer. Jury cases will resume April 14 when Judge Daniel T. Foley, Albert Lea, will preside.

1,500 Teachers Attend Rally At Rochester

A solid show of solidarity supporting teachers councils in their negotiations with school boards on 1968-70 contract issues was expressed by more than 1,500 Southeastern Minnesota teachers at a rally Tuesday night in Rochester.

About 65 Winona teachers attended the rally arranged by the Southeastern Minnesota Education Association (SEMREA) and the Rochester Teachers Council.

Principal speaker was Fulton Klinkerfus, president of the Minnesota Education Association.

John Curtin, president of the Winona Education Association, was one of six local teacher council representatives who gave brief reports at the meeting.

Those attending the rally were advised that all possible assistance would be given by the National Education in current negotiations.

Among the speakers were Duane Wilson, negotiations consultant for the MEA; Ron Burland, president of the Minnesota Federation of Teachers; and Ed Bolstad, MPT executive secretary.

Goodview Alert System Operating

The group alerting system for the Goodview volunteer fire department has now been installed, said Ralph Hengel, village clerk.

Therefore, all Goodview residents in placing a fire call, can now use the fire number listed in the latest telephone directory.

This system activates 10 telephones in key personnel homes, alerting them to the location of the fire and enabling them to ready the equipment and reach the fire location in the shortest possible time, said Hengel.

Radio Volunteers Asked to Attend Goodview Meeting

A meeting of volunteers interested in serving with an emergency communications network at Goodview has been called by Victor Ronnenberg, Goodview Civil Defense director.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. today at the Goodview Village Hall. Ronnenberg asked that owners of citizens band radio equipment and mobile units attend the meeting.

Water Main Project OKed In Goodview

The Goodview Village Council approved a resolution ordering the 6th Street water main project following a Tuesday evening public hearing in the Goodview Village Hall.

Estimated cost, provided by James J. Kleinschmidt, consulting engineer, is $6,930. The project calls for construction of water mains on 6th Street from Lot 1, Kohner's Second Addition, to a point 750 feet westerly.

Bid openings will be at 8 p.m. April 7 in the village council room. Plans, specifications and proposal may be obtained from Kleinschmidt at 4240 5th St.

Abutting property owners aired their views at the meeting. All councilmen present voted in favor of the project.

Bill Approved To Put Police On Campuses

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A bill to put municipal police officers on public university campuses was approved Tuesday by the Assembly State Affairs Committee.

The committee also recommended for passage a bill limiting the most freshmen students to dormitories.

University officials have attacked the bill which would force them to contract with local authorities in their areas for campus police protection. The measure is aimed primarily at Wisconsin's Madison and Milwaukee campuses.

Representatives of law enforcement agencies, including Madison police, supported the bill — saying it would eliminate duplication of effort and bring police closer to students.

The bill, approved 9-2, provides that police service at public universities be provided by the community in which the campus is located.

The other bill would require all freshmen — except those over 21, married, or with parental approval to live elsewhere — to live in university housing.

Two Minneapolis Residents Die

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Two suburban Minneapolis residents, a child and a young man, died Tuesday as the result of separate fires.

Beverly Hanson, 5, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hanson of Crystal, died in a fire at the family's home.

Gregory Greenfield, 21, Blaine, an employee of the Glidden-Durkee Co., suffered burns Tuesday in an explosion at the firm's plant. The Minneapolis Fire Department said a container of varnish ignited while being heated. Greenfield, burned over more than 90 per cent of his body, succumbed in a hospital Tuesday evening.

Although Spain recently ceded the 579-square-mile territory of Ifni to Morocco, it retains two enclaves in the country, Melilla, an export center, and Ceuta, a fortified city facing Gibraltar.

Scientist Questions Flood Threat

MADISON, Wis. — Chances of flooding this spring are a lot less likely than most early warnings have indicated, according to Art Peterson, University of Wisconsin extension soils scientist.

He feels that one important factor has been overlooked in flood predictions for the state this year: The condition of the soil and its ability to absorb water.

MOST FLOOD predictions have been based almost exclusively on the water stored above ground in the form of snow. Extremely heavy snows have left from 1 to 6 inches of water above ground in many northern counties. This factor, considered alone, makes a strong argument for serious flooding.

However, soil conditions this spring—mostly the lack of frost—greatly reduce flood chances, Peterson says. Unusually heavy snows that blanketed much of the state early in the winter insulated soil and prevented heavy frost penetration when cold came.

There is little or no frost in the ground north of a line from Prairie du Chien east to the southern tip of Lake Winnebago and north to Green Bay. "Compared to most years, the frost depth in the state is almost insignificant," Peterson states.

This means that even with heavy rains last fall, the soil is in good condition to soak up a lot of melted snow. Lysimeter readings of moisture movement through the soil show that water continued to seep away throughout the winter. Absence of frost made this possible.

FOR THE PAST seven years, frost depths and snow cover readings have been collected in Wisconsin through a unique system that combines reports from more than 300 funeral directors and cemetery caretakers. Reports are compiled and analyzed by the Wisconsin Statistical Reporting Service, with a report issued every two weeks during the winter months.

Absence of frost and water-logged soil lead Peterson to bet that little or no flooding will occur. A warm, heavy rain over much of the state could change things entirely.

"Warm rains and rapidly melting snow would simply overwhelm the soil's ability to take on water," Peterson says. "Flooding would be inevitable."

Given a normal thawing period, however, nearly all of the melted snow should sink into the soil. Peterson defines a normal thawing period as one that runs for about three weeks, starting about mid-March in the southern part of the state and continuing through the first week of April in the north.

A LOT of snow has already left the state. Snow depth averages only about 11 inches—half of what it was Jan. 10. Heavy snows still cover the northwest part of the state with from 13 to 36 inches measured in half of the state's counties. Less than one inch of snow is reported south of a line running from Grant County east to Kewaunee County.

Recent warm days and cool nights have produced nearly perfect thawing conditions. A snow and frost depth reporter from Waupaca County said, "Very little frost, water soaks in every night." From Iowa County, a reporter said, "Snow melting, but no floods." A Rock County reporter indicated, "Melting of last two weeks has been seeping into the ground slow but sure." He added that thawing conditions were "near perfect."

Light Shower Probable; It'll Stay Warm

The Winona area may get a light sprinkling of rain tonight but the period of possible shower activity should end Thursday with no large amount of precipitation.

Unseasonably warm temperatures, meanwhile, will hang on for another day but a slight cooling trend is in prospect for Friday.

TEMPERATURES Tuesday again pushed into the 50 range, reaching an afternoon high of 54 and then dropping to an overnight low of 26 early today.

The mercury was on the rise again this morning and had reached 47 at noon.

Skies, which have been generally fair the past few days, will become partly cloudy later in the day, bringing the chance of some brief, light showers that could continue into Thursday.

Tonight's low will be between 25 and 30 and a high of 38-44 is forecast for Thursday.

It will be locally a little cooler Friday but no important precipitation is expected.

THE EXTENDED forecast for the Winona area calls for temperatures during the next five days to average near the normal high and low of 42 and 24.

Precipitation from Thursday through Monday shouldn't amount to much more than about a tenth of an inch.

Burglar Gets Change At Sugar Loaf Inn

Police are investigating a break-in at the Sugar Loaf Inn, Highway 61-43, which was discovered shortly after 5 a.m. today.

According to Chief James McCabe, entry was gained by smashing glass in a rear door and reaching in and unlocking the door. The only thing missing, said McCabe, was a glass jar containing $7 in change.

Pepin Co. Road Restrictions On

DURAND, Wis. (Special) — Effective today, weight restrictions were posted on town and county roads by Pepin County Highway Commissioner Elwood Myers.

Limits are six tons to one axle and 10 tons to tandem axles.

Dike Building Contract $111,610

Nine contracts, including one at Winona, are being let by the Army Corps of Engineers for raising existing levees and building new ones in communities threatened by spring flooding, according to Col. Richard J. Hesse, district corps engineer, St. Paul.

The Winona contract, taken over from the city by the corps Tuesday, is with Winona Excavating Co. The firm will furnish 22 pieces of equipment, including four bulldozers, two crawler-loaders, motor patrols, sheepfoot roller for compacting work, 11 large trucks and a lowboy trailer.

OVERALL supervision of the work will be rendered by William Pearson, area corps engineer, based at La Crosse. Pearson also is responsible for work at La Crosse, Houston, Peterson, Rochester, Wabasha, Cannon Falls, Red Wing, Preston and St. Charles.

The corps contract with Winona Excavating is for $111,610, according to Col. Hesse. Contract negotiations are under way today at other communities that have asked for assistance. Such communities

Among them are people from Galesville, Independence and Onalaska.

Others have removed appliances and furniture from their buildings, moved their propane fuel tanks, sandbagged or placed cellophane around their cottages.

Simerson said Trempealeau Electric Utility will pull the meters from the cottages if and when the flood comes. No dikes are being built, and if the flood reaches 1965 proportions there's nothing that can be done to protect the cottage area.

Proxmire Meets With Engineers, OEP Official

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) after meeting Tuesday with representatives of the Corps of Engineers and the federal Office of Emergency Preparedness said he would see to it that the full extent of the federal government's power is brought to bear in protecting Wisconsin communities against floods which may be as bad or worse than the disastrous floods of 1965.

The Wisconsin senator met with Lt. Col. Ferd E. Anderson, assistant director of civil works in the central division, Corps of Engineers, and with Fred J. Russell, deputy director of the OEP.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Moving the site of the Wisconsin State Fair from West Allis would place a multimillion dollar financial burden on the backs of the next generation, a legislative committee was told Tuesday.

Assemblyman Robert Huber of West Allis, Democratic minority leader, warned the Senate Agricultural Committee the cost of a new State Fair could approach $100 million.

"THIS IS A horrendous burden to place on the backs of the next generation," Huber said.

Huber spoke in support of a bill by Sen. Martin Schreiber, D-Milwaukee, which officially would designate West Allis as the fair site.

Numerous representatives of agricultural interests spoke in opposition to the bill, including William McKerrrow of Pewaukee, a representative of the Wisconsin Guernsey Breeders Association.

McKerrrow said the Wisconsin State Fair is worse than any state exposition in neighboring states.

To refurbish the West Allis site, he said, would be "pouring money down a rat hole."

Wilbur Runk of Sun Prairie, a former GOP candidate for the U.S. Senate, said a new site should be found. Space limitations which cannot be corrected by rearranging buildings were the main reason given by Runk for his opposition to the West Allis site.

JAMES McKinnon, representing the State Department of Local Affairs and Development, urged legislators to make a decision soon, as the situation "has become critical to urgent."

Schreiber said the cost of remodeling present facilities would run about $10.4 million. Building a new fair, he said, would cost between $30 million and $50 million.

Huber said his $100 million prediction for a new fair included interest costs.

Collage Owners Begin Protection At Trempealeau

TREMPEALEAU, Wis.—Mort Simerson, Trempealeau Village president, said some of the owners of cottages along the Mississippi River below town have raised their cottages in preparation for the flood which is forecast.

Among them are people from Galesville, Independence and Onalaska.

Others have removed appliances and furniture from their buildings, moved their propane fuel tanks, sandbagged or placed cellophane around their cottages.

Simerson said Trempealeau Electric Utility will pull the meters from the cottages if and when the flood comes. No dikes are being built, and if the flood reaches 1965 proportions there's nothing that can be done to protect the cottage area.

They also will be used at the Mississippi headquarters in northern Minnesota, a spokesman from the boatyard said this morning.

The sandbags came by truck from Granite City, Ill. Protecting the dikes of the dams with the sandbags already has begun.

Wabasha Dike Building to Begin Soon

WABASHA, Minn. (Special) — Representatives of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers met with the Wabasha Civil Defense Tuesday night and made plans to begin building three flood dikes Friday or Saturday to protect the city.

The proposed order would regulate milk handling in 20 counties in Southeastern Minnesota and six in northern Iowa. Principal cities in the order area are Winona, Rochester, Austin, Mankato, Albert Lea and Faribault, Minn., and Decorah and Algona, Iowa.

The ballots were received by area producers early this week.

Newsmen to Speak At Teresan Weekend

A trio of newsmen, commentators and correspondents will highlight Newsmen's Weekend on the College of Saint Teresa campus March 27-29.

This weekend, a "first" on the campus, is supported by a grant from the Lee and Rose Warner Foundation and is planned to bring firsthand information on world events to the students, faculty and friends of the college.

SLATED to appear are award-winning foreign correspondent John Havacek, correspondent and author Robert St. John and the commentator and correspondent Bernard Eismann.

ST. JOHN has traveled more than 2,000,000 miles reporting war, revolution and reconstruction in more than 60 countries. He became internationally famous as an NBC war correspondent and has broadcast from the key cities of the world. He is currently heard five minutes a day, five days a week, over 300 radio stations.

As a broadcaster, he tells his news in vignettes of people and has used this same technique in his books. He is one of the few men admitted in both Israel and the Arab countries and has written biographies of both Nasser and Ben-Gurion. "Shalom Means Peace" was called the best book written on Israel by a non-Jew.

Havacek, winner of a Carnegie Fellowship from the Council on Foreign Relations and of a Silver Anniversary All-American Award for career achievement from Sports Illustrated, is a Carleton graduate. A veteran foreign correspondent for NBC, the New York Times and United Press International, he analyzes a major news story, foreign or domestic, every night and does a weekly half-hour interview program over NBC's affiliate station in Omaha, Neb. Most recently Havacek has been in the Far East.

EISMANN has covered major stories at home and abroad for both the American Broadcasting Company and the Columbia Broadcasting Company on TV and radio for more than 12 years.

On National Education Television he serves as moderator of the series, "Inquiry." He was a CBS news correspondent for 10 years and is a former bureau chief in Chicago. Eismann is the author of "The Far Right" and "Two Chinas in American Foreign Policy."

EVENING panel discussions are open to the public and there is no admission. The topic Thursday at 8 p.m. will be "The Middle East" and Friday at 8 p.m., "Student Unrest in the World."

The planning committee has arranged for informal discussions with students and faculty March 27 and 28 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and from 2 to 4 p.m. On March 29 the newsmen will meet in the auditorium with students and faculty from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. for a question-and-answer session. A summary session will be held in the auditorium Saturday from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m.

Miss Rose Mary Curtin is chairman of the planning committee.

Knowles Asks Engineers for Help on Flood

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Gov. Warren P. Knowles today requested the U.S. Corps of Engineers to begin temporary flood and protective measures.

The heavy winter and the cost of snow removal, both by local and state governments in Wisconsin, "has depleted funds usually available for emergency measures," Knowles said in a letter to Col. R. J. Hesse, St. Paul district of the Corps of Engineers.

Knowles said it "is beyond the capabilities of many of our communities to implement the necessary measures to protect property and save lives without additional assistance from either the state or federal authorities."

Knowles said he understood that federal law gives the Corps of Engineers authority to undertake temporary protective measures at a governor's request.

The governor's request was based on needs reported by the city of La Crosse and the counties of La Crosse, Trempealeau, Buffalo, Eau Claire, Chippewa, Crawford, Vernon and Grant.

The counties asked for both technical advice and physical assistance.

Pierce, Pepin and St. Croix counties asked for advice only.

It Happened Last Night

Andy, Claudine Expecting No. 3

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — The Andy Williamses are expecting their third child. That's right. Mrs. Williams, the beautiful Claudine Longet, is "p.g." (pregnant), the baby expected in August. Their Noel is 5, their Christian is 3. Henry Mancini was heard discussing this at a Hollywood party and since he's one of their closest friends, we ran it down and it's true. And if that doesn't choke off the rumors about their splitting, it don't rain in Indianapolis in the summer time, nor snow in Minneapolis, etc. . . . The rumors about a breakup have been so widely noised about that many people accepted them but Andy's spokesmen so calmly assured us they weren't true, and we believed them. So all right, Claudine, happy p.g.

When Jimmie Rodgers opened at the Waldorf Empire Room, first NY appearance since '57, a very lean Eddy Fisher was at the ringside and up on his feet leading the standing ovation. Eddie wore glasses and kept time with the Rodgers beat. Rodgers has a custom of getting a glass of water from a customer's table. Once he got one from Dean Martin's table.

"That's funny, getting a glass of water off Dean Martin's table," Jimmie remarked.

Buddy Hackett who was in the room yelled out, "They pumped it off his knee."

CONNIE Francis blossomed out with a lot of amusing material when she opened at the Copacabana with Comedian Guy Marks.

"Glad to be back here in Lindsayland," is what I thought I heard her say. "Mr. Jules Podell, the very popular owner of the Copacabana, met me at the plane and told me there are no more Copa Girls. I hate to break the news to him but there are a couple of boys in the band I'm not too sure about . . . I love Mayor Lindsay for a good reason . . . I live in New Jersey . . . A couple of Columbia University friends of mine quit college to go to Vietnam. All their college acquaintances called them chicken."

When Ed Sullivan got the International Radio & Television Society Gold medal, Edward P. Shurick, who presented it, reminded the audience that the three major TV critics in NY at the time, all blasted Ed's show. Shrugging that off, Ed said, "As we start on our 23d year, where do we go from here?" . . . (Ed paid the Beatles $10,000 for 3 appearances!) . . . Busy Jeri Archer showed up at Act 1 for a party for "The Dozens" play apparently naked except for a white fur hat and vest. She was of course the hit of the party. She did wear a G-string. More guys claiming to be reporters wanted to interview her! . . . Pearl Bailey will speak to 700 men on "Our America" in Washington at a meeting of the Nat'l Alliance of Business Men — and Richard Nixon and Cabinet members are allegedly coming.

Ted Kennedy made an appointment to meet a top film executive. (Lining up support already for '72?) . . . Jean Crawford's dtr. Christina and director Harvey Medinsky reportedly divorced in Mexico . . . Linda Hayden, star of "Baby Love," ordered a drink at Nepentha — a "double Shirley Temple"; she's 16 . . . Jackie Onassis watched John-John participate in his school gymkhana; it was the best turn-out they've ever had for the event.

EARL'S PEARLS: Taffy Tuttle just decided what to give up for Lent — her New Year's resolutions. Betty Comedienne Tote Fields claims she and Liz Taylor have the same measurements: "I discovered that we're both a perfect size 9 — but hers is in dresses and mine is in shoes." . . . That's earl, brother.

Top Ice Fishermen

Emil Liers, Homer author and naturalist, who says he is within one year of four score, brought us a sample of his patented ice fly the other day on which he and his friends have been catching panfish by the pailful this winter. If the ice holds out we will venture forth and try it.

During our talk he disclosed that the flies were made by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R. Dey of Pontiac, Mich., and each individual fly is tied by Art, while his wife does the painting and mailing. No other help is employed. Making the flies, Art complained, keeps him from fishing.

Emil, however, said the know-how of fishing the fly is all important. Use a very light line, monofilament sewing machine thread less than a pound and a half test, clear color, on a easy reel and short rod. Wash the fly in clear warm water before using. Bait with a small grub or mouse; lower line slowly until it settles on the bottom. The line is now slack. Reel up a turn until line hangs free of bottom.

Lift the rod slightly, raising line two feet, drop the lure back. Work it tussly until fly is just below ice. If the line tightens set the hook and you have a fish. Don't use any bobber, watch the line.

That's Emil's know-how for crappies and sunfish. We asked him who were the best panfish fishermen in this area. Emil covers a lot of territory fishing.

"Men with a steady hand are best, men who know the fine art of jigging," he said. "Offhand, I would put in the top fishermen class Ray Martin, Bud Safranek, and Bob Meyer." All are excellent river fishermen.

New Lake Limit New bag and possession limits on trout and salmon in Lake Michigan, Lake Superior and Green Bay will become effective

April 1, the Department of Natural Resources has announced.

The new daily bag limit will be five trout and salmon in aggregate. This will permit an angler to catch and keep up to five of one species, or a mixed bag of five of different species.

The bag limit has been three lake trout plus three salmon and trout in aggregate, other than lake trout. Possession limits remain at twice the daily bag limit. Minimum size for all trout and salmon in these waters is ten inches. The open season is continuous.

The new regulations are uniform with Michigan regulations, and will be considered for adoption by other states bordering the lakes. They will permit an angler who is catching lake trout, coho salmon, rainbows or any other affected species to take home five fish of one variety, whereas the old rule permits him to keep a maximum of three.

Here and There

Richard A. Woodbury, Bloomington, formerly with North Central Airlines, has been named head of the bureau of information of the Minnesota Conservation Department replacing Carl Moen who is retiring July 1. He has been boss of the department for 22 years.

The coming flood will be the big subject when the Minnesota City Boat Club holds its March meeting at the L-Cove in Minnesota City this evening. It is important that all members attend.

Camping equipment is to be featured at the Northwest Boat, Sports and Travel Show which opens in the Minneapolis Auditorium March 28. This is the 37th annual show.

A dozen towboats are on their way upriver and most of them will be in this area within the next couple of days.

The thaw has had no effect on the stage of the river so far. The melting snow water seems to be seeping into the ground.

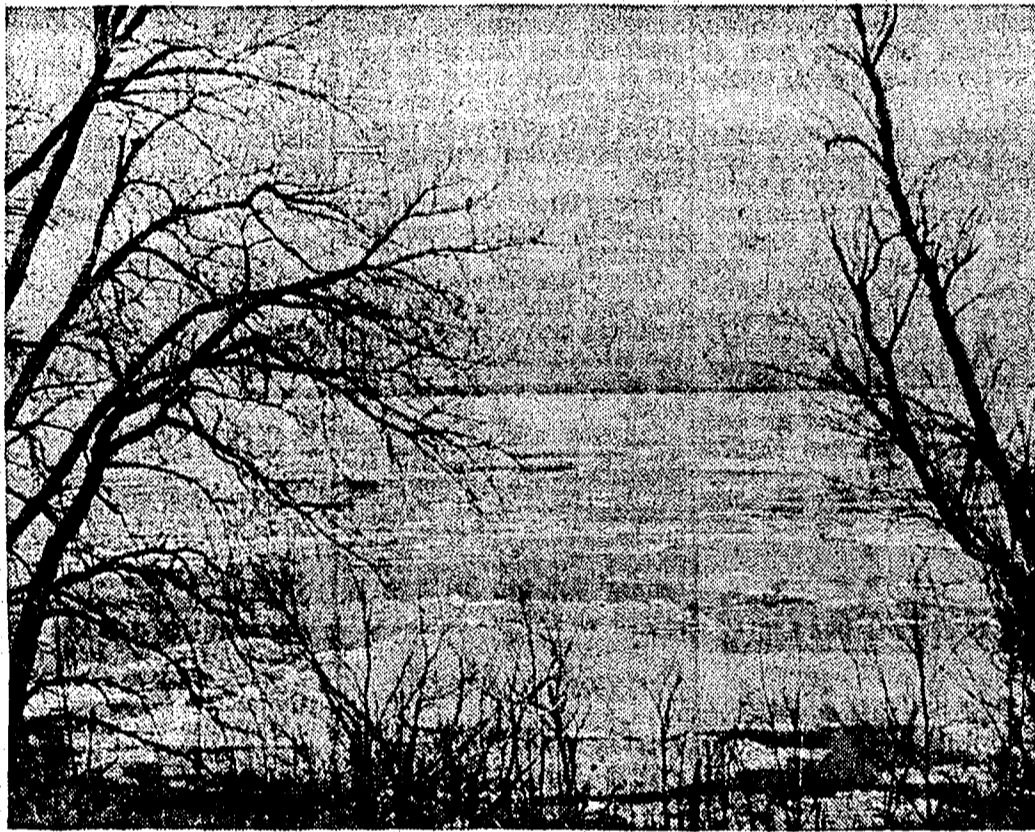

Idaho School Has Bald Eagle As Exhibit

OAKLEY, Idaho (AP) — The Oakley elementary school has a prized new exhibit—an American bald eagle—thanks to high school sophomore David Baker and cooperation from the Interior Department.

Baker found the rare national bird frozen in snow and ice beneath a high power line about a month ago. Apparently, it had flown into the line and was electrocuted.

The bird was removed and Oakley officials asked the Interior Department for permission to keep it and have it mounted. The bird was about 2 years old, has a 7-foot wingspan and weighed 17 pounds.

School principal Gary Masoner said he received a letter Tuesday from the Interior Department which authorized the school to keep the eagle indefinitely, as a loan. Bald eagles are, by law, property of the federal government.

Red Cross Asks Money From Fillmore Co.

RUSHFORD, Minn. — The Southeastern Minnesota Chapter of the American Red Cross will discontinue its blood program in Fillmore County in June, according to Mrs. L. J. Wilson, Rushford, representative of the county on the chapter board.

Ted Beamer, chapter chairman, said the program is being discontinued because Fillmore County isn't furnishing sufficient funds to pay for the bloodmobile visits here and hasn't been doing so since 1956.

Last year Fillmore County people used 1,400 pints of blood received from the Red Cross. Estimated cost of this blood if purchased privately is $49,000. It appeared, Beamer said, that Fillmore County hospitals will have to secure their blood elsewhere. There are two hospitals in the county — Harmony and Spring Valley.

No county-wide Red Cross fund campaign has been organized for this year, so another deficit is indicated.

In order to re-establish the blood program for the county, it is necessary for volunteers to work in all phases of the Red Cross, with immediate em-

Says She Would Make 'Swinging' Mayor of L.A.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A comely red-haired housewife who says Los Angeles "deserves a swinging mayor" is going after the job with green stockings, songs and miniskirts. "Politicians are asleep on the job," Eileen Nora Anderson, 32, tells political rallies. Then she launches into rants: "I would like to do lots of good things for this great big city. "Lower all your taxes, do away with smog and pity. "Legalize gambling and control it by the city. "Take the burden off the taxpayer—today. "Yeh. Yeh. Yeh. Eileen admits "It's a new approach." So is her garb: green mesh opera hose, green miniskirts to accent her long flowing red hair and green eyes. "People remember me." Eileen, 5-foot-4 mother of three, with a 37-24-34 figure, is one of 13 candidates trying to unseat Mayor Sam Yorty in this city's April primary. "I feel very qualified," she says, in her clipped British accent. "I've fought city hall before."

Bill Would Cut Budgets To Pay Deficit

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Overriding Democrat delaying moves, the Senate agreed Tuesday to call up for debate today a controversial Assembly bill cutting $21 from several current budgets to pay a deficit in school aids. Some university and welfare projects would be trimmed to raise the money. "WHERE'S the hue and cry for this bill except in the Assembly?" asked Sen. Martin J. Schreiber of Milwaukee, one of the Democrats who sought to delay the debate till Thursday. The Assembly was handed a bill which would prohibit now legal abortions to save the life of the mother. Under present law, a woman may have an abortion if three physicians agree that removal of the fetus is necessary to save her life. The bill, offered by Kenneth Merkell, R-Brookfield, would allow surgical procedures which are life-saving measures, so long as they are not directly aimed at removal of an unborn child. ASSEMBLYMEN passed, 83-15, measure asking Congress to allow the release of information to local authorities charged with enforcing child support laws. The proposal also asks Congress to enact a law making it a misdemeanor to abandon a child. A constitutional amendment was introduced which would allow the legislature to grant property tax freezes to those more than 65 years old.

Pope to Visit East Africa In July

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI will visit East Africa in July to consecrate a shrine to African martyrs in Kampala, Uganda, and attend a conference of African bishops there. The Pope announced today that he would make his seventh trip outside Italy since he was elected six years ago. He said the trip to Uganda would be "rapid," indicating that he didn't plan to stop in any other African country. It was believed that the pontiff feared political implications would be read into any other stops. It will be Pope Paul's second visit to Africa. In 1962, while archbishop of Milan, he visited South Africa, Ghana and Nigeria. The Pope said he was going to Kampala, the capital of Uganda, in response to repeated invitations to consecrate an altar in a new sanctuary honoring African martyrs he had canonized. Vatican circles said the trip was another demonstration of Pope Paul's view of himself as an "apostle on the move." Since becoming Pope, he has visited the Holy Land, India, the United States, Turkey, Portugal and Colombia. The 71-year-old pontiff made the announcement to a throng of Romans and pilgrims assembled in St. Peter's Basilica for a papal mass on the feast of St. Joseph. The Pope said he would make the trip in the second half of July. The Pope made special mention of "the people of Nigeria whom we know and love so well, who are so tormented for the sorrowful events in their land." But he is not expected to visit Nigeria.

LEGION'S GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY ... Special guests Norm Trye, Mazepa, 1st District vice commander, and Charles Gavin, La Crescent, state Legion commander, chat with Dave T. Morse, commander of Leon J. Wetzel Post 9 Tuesday evening. The local post hosted a banquet and meeting to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Legion March 15, 1919, in Paris, France. (Daily News photo)

Legion Observes 50th Anniversary

Nearly 200 Legionnaires, auxiliary members, and their spouses celebrated the American Legion's 50th anniversary birthday dinner Tuesday evening sponsored by Leon J. Wetzel Post 9. Featured speakers were Charles Gavin, La Crescent, state Legion commander, and Mrs. Don Kienholz, Bird Island, state auxiliary president. They spoke at both the combined banquet session and at meetings of their respective organizations following the dinner. GAVIN traced the beginnings of the Legion from the Paris Caucus in 1919, the St. Louis Caucus held later that year and the first Legion national convention held in Minneapolis in November 1919. Rehabilitation for the returning veteran was the "first cornerstone" in building the organization, he said, and he pointed out that the first Veterans Administration hospital was established in Minneapolis through the efforts of the newly formed organization. The Legion, he said, was instrumental in the passage of the "GI Bill of Rights" for returning veterans of World War II and has continued its efforts for the veterans of the Korean War and Vietnam. The Legion and auxiliary, he said, raised $500,000 to establish a heart research center at the University of Minnesota which has benefited not only veterans, but all persons suffering from heart ailments. The second cornerstone of the Legion's organization has been child welfare and Gavin pointed out that more than $250 million has been spent in this area for the benefit "of all children." AMERICANISM is the third cornerstone, said Gavin, with $235,000 having been spent for scholarships for oratorical contest winners who are not necessarily children of Legionnaires or veterans. Development of a deeper knowledge and understanding of the U.S. Constitution by high school students, while developing leadership and the ability to think clearly and intelligently are the purposes of this program, he said. Gavin said approval and support of the nation's Boy Scout movement is as old as the Legion itself. The Legion unanimously endorsed the movement at its first national convention and presently sponsors some 4,000 units of Scouting throughout the nation and at outposts overseas. National security is the fourth cornerstone, Gavin said, with the organizations on record for a half century supporting preparedness. LATER, AT THE post meeting, Gavin told Legionnaires of his attendance at the spring conference of the national organization in Washington last week and the presentation of the Legion's gift to the country — permanent lighting for the Tomb of the Unknowns in Arlington National Cemetery. The dedication and actual lighting of the tomb and temple facade took place Saturday evening, Gavin said, when President Nixon flicked a switch illuminating the national shrine with the first permanent lighting system in its 50-year history. Gavin also told of first day ceremonies Saturday for the issuance of the 6-cent American Legion postage stamp which is now available at local post offices. Gavin paid high tribute to veterans of World War I, many of whom were in attendance, for their role in developing a permanent and stable organization with posts in practically every inhabited area of the country and in 28 foreign lands and territories. GAVIN was introduced by David T. Morse, commander of the local post, and Mrs. Kienholz by Mrs. Sherman A. Woodward, president of the local auxiliary. Also present as a guest was Norman Trye, Mazepa, 1st District vice commander.

College Grads Cited in Crime Report

MILWAUKEE (AP) — "Many college graduates with a high degree of organizational genius" are part of organized crime in Wisconsin, Atty. Gen. Robert Warren said Tuesday night. "Hard narcotics" used to be the big money maker for organized crime, "but that is no longer true in Wisconsin," Warren told the annual joint meeting of Sigma Delta Chi and Theta Sigma Phi, the men's and women's professional journalism fraternities. Warren said the drug problem on university campuses is not connected with organized crime. Public apathy is a big reason for the success of illegal gambling, he said. "I've wondered if we shouldn't distinguish between friendly betting and commercial gambling," he said, adding he has drafted three or four versions of a bill covering the area, but didn't know how the legislature would react to them. Warren said he had written a letter to U.S. Sen. John McClellan, chairman of a subcommittee investigating organized crime. Citing a federal report listing Wisconsin as one of 17 states in which organized crime has a foothold, Warren wrote he has prepared an "omnibus crime program" of more than 100 bills which he hopes to present to the legislature shortly. He said some of the bills would combat the mob loan racket and their takeovers of legitimate businesses.

Plan Apartment Complex Northwest Of Rochester

ROCHESTER, Minn. — Plans for a 1,236-unit community apartment complex in northwest Rochester — the largest ever proposed in the city — were revealed this week. The City Council referred a petition for annexation of a 110-acre tract of Cascade Township land — the site of the proposed development — to the City Planning and Zoning Commission. Also submitted and referred to Planning and Zoning Commission were community development and zoning plans. The development, consisting of town houses and three-story apartment buildings, will cost an estimated $19 million when completed.

Knowles Favors Replacement of 49 Bridges

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles Tuesday came out in favor of a measure before the legislature to finance replacement of 49 highway bridges and the relocation of 30 more. The governor, in remarks prepared for a Wisconsin Road Builders gathering in Milwaukee, noted the collapse of three bridges during 1968. Knowles said many of the bridges were built more than 50 years ago and obviously needed replacement.

Thoughts at Random — From Editor's Notebook

A FEW RANDOM thoughts following our return from an extended vacation in California and Arizona:

North Central Airlines, attempting to become a trunk line carrier instead of a mere "feeder line" could and should improve its service with back-up equipment in case of mechanical difficulties. When we left Winona Feb. 13, eight persons waiting to board the 9:10 a.m. flight were stranded when the plane, which experienced mechanical trouble at Madison, overflew Winona. Two were bound for Los Angeles, two for Tampa Fla., two for San Francisco and two for Minneapolis. Some chartered a private plane for the Twin Cities, the others were taken to the international airport there by automobile.

SOME MONTHS AGO some self-proclaimed oracle predicted that in April California will be shaken by an earthquake so devastating the entire land mass west of the San Andreas will shudder, split off from the rest of the Continent and crash into the Pacific Ocean.

Los Angeles, Santa Barbara and San Diego will simply no longer exist, San Francisco will be shaken into ruins and inundated and the Imperial and San Joaquin valleys will be flooded with salt water.

Inconceivable? Of course, but believe it or not, Californians are talking about it and a great many are concerned. We heard the matter discussed, often with levity, at San Francisco, in many other coastal communities and finally at the bar in Little Joe's tremendous Italian restaurant at Los Angeles. And when our traveling companion, Ted Shields of Modesto, spread the word that the writer was a newspaper reporter from the east out to cover the pending earthquake, you could almost hear a shudder go through the entire place.

We were fortunate not to run into any smog in L.A. Why? Because it rained all the time we were there. But rain or not, we didn't see an accident and we traveled nearly all the major freeways in the area including Hollywood, Ventura, Harbor, Santa Ana, Riverside, San Bernardino and Long Beach.

California drivers are terrific — they're good. It's a pleasure to note the courtesy they extend to other drivers and to pedestrians — who ALWAYS have the right of way. Incidentally, it's a mere $50 fine to toss a cigarette out your car window — and for the information of the Winona City Council, you can park for 12 minutes anywhere downtown in Long Beach for one cent.

AFTER A FEW fabulous days in San Francisco, our favorite U.S.A. city (Market Street is still torn up) we were met by the Shields — she is the former Corinne Kopp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Webster Kopp, formerly of Winona, all now of Modesto — who were our guides for the next few days.

Lunch at Del Prado on Union Square, one of the fine old dining rooms in the city, then a swing through Golden Gate Park, a look at the Japanese Tea Gardens, a stop at the famous old Cliff House on the ocean, then a freeway sweep around the downtown perimeter into Fisherman's Wharf area, Ghirardelli Square and across the Golden Gate bridge to Sausalito, a quaint artists' colony, now fairly well populated by hippies who have almost deserted the Haight-Ashbury section.

Back through San Francisco via the Bay bridge to the Oakland-Berkeley area and through Oakland Hills to Walnut Creek where we visited the Pete Johnsons (Elizabeth Shackell), formerly of Winona who live in the Rossmore retirement village, then through Livermore Valley into the giant San Joaquin Valley and Modesto. Cote D'Or, a French restaurant, is a good place to eat there.

We toured the Gallo winery, largest in the world, and inspected some of the great industrial tracts in that rapidly-growing community, now at the height of its spring beauty.

THE TRIP FROM Modesto to Los Banos took us past the new San Luis dam, one of the largest earth-dams in the world, and the San Luis reservoir which has been filling for more than a year and won't be filled until late in 1970. Then over the coast range of mountains to Hollister en route to the Monterey Peninsula.

During lunch at the Sandia in Carmel-by-the-sea, famous for clam chowder, we were informed that Highway 1 was closed because of landslides and washouts but we checked and found we could get through.

Then followed 67 miles of the most spectacular scenery in our memory, 67 miles of twists and turns high above the Pacific — a breath-taking drive, ending at San Simeon, the Hearst Castle, then into the quaint fishing town of Morro Bay for an introduction to abalone and California dace. Don't miss "The Hut" if you ever get there.

It's amazing how many long-haired hippies were hitch-hiking along California 1 and it's also amazing that in the heart of that great citrus area, it was difficult to get fresh orange juice for breakfast. Few motels had grapefruit on the menu.

THE FOLLOWING morning we left for Los Angeles, via San Luis Obispo, with stops at the old San Juan Bautista mission and the ornate, sprawling stonepile called The Madonna Inn, where all interior woodwork is hand-carved — a virtual miniature San Simeon. Down to Santa Maria for a brief stop, then into Solvang, the Danish community which is zoned Danish and where almost 100 percent of the village is Danish architecture. We found the Danish pastry there as good as you can get in Copenhagen.

The ocean oil slick which extends almost 30 miles on either side of Santa Barbara is sickening. Beaches are black, driftwood is oil-soaked and the hundreds of workers trying to soak it up with thousands of bales of hay appear to have an endless task. Santa Barbara is a beautiful city but its front yard today is a sad mess.

We took Highway 101 south, passing Pismo Beach and other coastal areas en route to Los Angeles, and made a brief stop at Ventura which a few days later was to be hit by gigantic landslides caused by the prolonged rains.

We stayed at the old Hollywood Roosevelt Hotel and our suite looked down on Grauman's Chinese Theater, famed for the footprints of the stars. Four blocks into the Hollywood Hills is the amazing Magic Castle, a private magician's club where we enjoyed good drinks, a good dinner and good shows. There we were joined by Alan Mahlke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Mahlke of Winona, who is in the investment business in Los Angeles.

The following day included more traveling with a stop at Long Beach and Anaheim and a quick trip through Disneyland, long enough, however, for a jungle cruise, a ride on the Mississippi River steamboat to remind us of home and a creole luncheon in The Blue Bayou.

A visit to the plant of the Los Angeles Herald Examiner, struck by the American Newspaper Guild for nearly a year and a half, was disheartening, then into Corona, hard hit by washouts, Riverside and San Bernardino.

NEXT COLUMN: Palm Springs, Arizona, "Nature's Gaudiest Paintpot," Phoenix, Scottsdale and Sedona which has some of the most gorgeous scenery in the west, winding beside a quicksilver trout stream set in virgin timberland.

Forget Term 'American Boys'

By WILLIAM S. WHITE

WASHINGTON — In a nation of eager joiners, it is surprising and wholly lamentable that nobody has formed a society for the suppression of the phrase "American boys" as descriptive of the military forces of the United States of America.

Let any kind of foreign policy discussion cross any kind of dinner table or let any kind of foreign policy dispute erupt anywhere, from the floor of the Senate to the neighborhood saloon, and the cliché instantly wears the very air. Infinitely, some character will appeal for his case by pointing out that the issue here is one as to what "American boys" should or should not be called upon to do in a world of danger.

THIS IS THE ONLY country on earth which, with the intention of voicing affection and concern for its troops, will so persist in so demeaning them in fact. There is an absurd and dripping sentimentalism and popism here which denies to our fighting forces even that bleak and minimal dignity to which at the very least they are, God knows, entitled.

For our soldiers, our Marines, our airmen and sailors are men, and not "boys"; and this designation of bare respect they have earned, not by reference to calendar age but rather by the profoundly adult nature of the profession of honor to which, voluntarily or not, they repay honor by their actions.

Nor do fighting men themselves in any way appreciate the custom of the noncombatant and the uncommitted to speak of them as though they were really only little blazer-wearing lads sent off to some regrettably military type of prep school. They grow up early in combat, now as always. And surely nothing could be more witlessly disrespectful to them than to apply the term "boys" to the tens of thousands of our men now bearing the cruel burdens of Vietnam.

For, not getting away from it, there is an undeniable degree of smug condescension in the very word "boy" unless applied to someone who really is only a boy, just as there is something that sets the teeth on edge in another

American habit of referring to any clutch of fat women of 55 or so as "girls."

TO BE SURE, the one, the "girl" bit, does no harm, except to the senses of proportion and humor and good taste. But the other, the "boy" bit, is in simple truth harmful, indeed, however extreme this assertion may at first seem. For we live in an age when, for the first time in our history, military service already is seen by many not as the manly discharge of elementary duty but actually and literally as evidence of a "square," boob-like inferiority on the part of the fellow carrying the rifle.

For proof, go to any college campus where "demonstrators" exempted from the draft by their student status are busily scoring and degrading the sacrifices and even the persons of others who are doing their fighting for them.

All this is bad enough; but older people surely should no longer unconsciously add to this ugly mural of misrepresentation by giving the collateral impression, in their dotting fondness for the silly phrase "American boys," that at all events our troops are scarcely more than a new type of Boy Scouts.

Anybody who has ever served in the infantry, especially in combat, can have no possible doubt that the maintenance of morale depends precisely upon a common, and a proudful, assumption that here, indeed, are men — men — and hardly less upon a successful break with the excessive sentimentalities which cost nothing in civilian life.

IF THE MEN themselves wish — as often they do — to deprecate themselves, among themselves, that is one thing. But to suppose that they really enjoy being deprecated and patronized by outsiders — or for that matter even like to be called GIs by non-GIs — is to be wholly unaware of the simplest realities of military life. Those engaged together in any kind of urgent activity may be willing to patronize themselves; but they do not take kindly to patronage, however kindly meant, from outside the lodge.

Anti-Proliferation Treaty Notes

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR.

It is too bad that the debate on the anti-proliferation treaty, just approved by the Senate, failed to stimulate the analytical imagination. Because after all is said and done, the proponents of the treaty were asking us simply to vote against atomic warfare: That is what it came down to. They asked us to vote a symbolic disavowal of the weapon which, in fact, has kept the peace during the past twenty years.

Professor Stefan Possony of the Hoover Institution at Stanford neatly cut through such arguments as the proponents summoned. He insisted that knowing Europeans were not so much afraid that the United States would fail to respond to a Soviet threat with the use of atomic bombs — our credit, he insisted, was pretty good on that score, even with de Gaulle. What they believe is that American defense strategy is so garbled that we have in fact maximized the possibility of a great Gotterdammerung — precisely because we have denied to Western Europe the means of self-defense, namely tactical nuclear weapons. It is true that the tacit ban on their development, primarily the responsibility of Robert McNamara, has had the effect of rendering Europe incapable of resisting a massive Soviet military threat. In so doing we have vested American massive nuclear resources with the primary rather than the secondary responsibility for European defense.

IT MUST BE stressed, Possony reminded us, that NATO does not call for automatic American participation in the protection of Western Europe. If Russia were to strike against West Germany, America is privileged, under the terms of the treaty, to weigh what would be an appropriate response. It is chilling under the circumstances to reflect that Russia has recently laid down the position that her intervention in West Germany would be legally justified as an extension of her rights won on the conclusion of the Second World War. Unbricth of East Germany goes along, adding the filip that action by the East against West Germany would not be a "fraternal war" but a "war of liberation."

The point is not lost on those who are experienced in vacillation: If moves were made against West Germany, and if NATO were unequipped to withstand those moves by the use of tactical nuclear weapons, and if therefore the only response is to trigger massive nuclear retaliation by the United States strategic Air Force, then, surely, there will be those who insist that the moment is for weighing the interesting legal claims of the Soviet Union and West Germany, rather than engaging us in a third world war. Meanwhile, of course, West Germany would disappear.

"THE U.S.," Dr. Possony wrote, "in accepting the non-proliferation pact, provides for the impotence of our allies and, therefore, is writing off its alliance system. Through this treaty, the alliances are transformed into permanent unilateral American guarantees. Hence the main military burdens for the defense of the entire Free World must be borne by the United States and, ironically, we will be compelled, by those who most adamantly argue against our assumption of that role, to remain the world's policemen. American forces will have to fight all the decisive engagements, and American troops, bases, installations, and cities will draw virtually all Soviet nuclear fire."

"THE non proliferation pact," he concluded, "is an attempt to stop the wheel of technological progress. The strategy underlying this treaty could have been invented by an American Don Quixote or, conversely, by a Soviet Machiavelli. Together with U.S. nuclear legislation, the non-proliferation treaty will ensure that our allies will remain unprepared to fight World War III and therefore unable to contribute to its prevention. The European armed forces are oversized gendarmes, not modern armies; whereas the Red Army has been restructured to fight nuclear battles."

DiETING to Make Weight In Wrestling

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is your opinion of high school boys dieting strenuously to get down to a lower weight class in wrestling? I have boys doing this and it worries me. Could it interfere with normal growth and development? — Mrs. L. H.

Good question. The answer depends on what you mean by "strenuous" dieting.

A certain amount of weight reduction can be achieved safely by some boys, not by others. The lanky, bony boy can't lose much if any without harming himself. The boy who is carrying some extra "lard" will be better off for losing some of it.

Fact is that many youngsters in this age bracket are nibblers, erratic in their eating, with a taste for snacks which often are high in calories. Just by restricting food in a sensible way they can sometimes achieve a safe loss of a pound or two a week. To do it safely, and effectively, these rules should apply:

- 1—Regular meals, three meals a day.
- 2—No in-between nibbling.
- 3—No frills — candy and sweet stuff.
- 4—Cut down on fatty foods — fat meat, fried foods, pastries, ice cream. Go easy on butter and margarine.
- 5—Do BU be certain to get adequate protein — eggs, meat, fowl, fish, cheese, milk. Protein is important to maintain muscle strength.

A boy should not be in too much hurry. Conditioning takes time — getting muscles in trim, and working off excess weight. A low carbohydrate, high-protein diet will give him what he needs for healthy growth and development. But obviously I am opposed to crash diets, or starvation diets, trying to "make the weight" in a short time.

If a boy is aiming at wrestling in the fall, he should spend the summer getting in condition, jogging, running, weight lifting, or just about any type of exercise to work off excess fat and get his muscles in trim.

More folks these days are overweight than underweight, in this country, anyway. This applies to a good many high schoolers, and even younger folks.

Thus "making the weight" — within reason, and abiding by the rules I cited above — can cause no harm and, indeed, may teach some boys a better pattern of eating and living, so they won't have to fight the battle of the bulge in later life.

ized ourselves into a situation of relative weakness, even as when we promised to stop the testing of nuclear weapons we abandoned the advantages of a technical lead which had we exploited it, might have endowed us with a scientific breakthrough—a new weapons system, perhaps—as would have made unnecessary our current concern with the multi-billion dollar ABM system. All of this in order to deny the atom bomb to a future Hitler. A remote concern, surely, considering that the present Hitlers have the bomb already, and can, whenever they feel disposed to do so, give that bomb to future Hitlers.

Vote Decides Nothing on Tax Proposal

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A clash between cities and suburbs ended with an indecisive vote by the Senate Labor, Taxation, Insurance and Banking Committee Tuesday.

Milwaukee Mayor Henry Maier led support for the streamlined tax distribution proposal of the Tarr Task Force.

"IT WOULD not greatly alleviate the problems of the city of Milwaukee," he said, but would correct some of the inequities of the tax distribution system.

The proposal would consolidate the system of sharing state collected taxes with more than 1,800 municipalities and counties. It would replace eight formulas and 12 annual payments with one formula and two payments.

Half of the municipal pool of tax funds—which last year was about $270 million—would be refunded on the basis of $30 per person. The other half would be distributed as property tax relief to communities with tax rates exceeding $20 per $1,000 full value.

More than 70 representatives of suburbs, towns and utilities say they would be hurt by the proposal and registered against the bill.

THE MEASURE is intended to discourage "tax islands" formed to benefit from state shared taxes under the present system — and to diminish the return some utility dominated communities now received on the state levied utility property tax.

The proposal "is more sophisticated than those of Karl Marx in his dissertation Das Kapital," said Port Washington Mayor Frank D. Meyer.

He said the bill would create more tax islands than it eliminated.

Maier said the new system would benefit two-thirds of the people of Wisconsin and help 75 percent of the governmental units.

The committee took no formal action.

Amendment to Lower Voting Age Approved

ST. PAUL (AP) — A constitutional amendment to lower Minnesota's voting age to 18 was approved by a wide margin Tuesday in the Senate Elections Committee.

The measure next must clear the Senate Judiciary Committee before it can reach the Senate floor.

Another large crowd of about 150 high school and college-age students was present when the 19-member committee approved the bill on a voice vote. Only three or four "no" votes were heard.

A bill to lower voting to 18-year-olds passed in the House two years ago but failed in the Senate.

Sen. Robert Brown, Stillwater, author of the current bill, cited statistics he contended show that young people are a responsible and interested group.

He said a survey at St. Cloud State College indicated 82.4 percent of those 21 years and over voted in the election last Nov. 5. He added that 80 per cent balloted on national candidates, 68 on state and 56.8 on local issues.

Of the 125 surveyed, 84 per cent said they lived at their address the year round.

One of the objections to giving college students under 21 the vote was that they were not actually residents in the town where they attend school.

The committee approved an amendment which Brown offered providing that a person would not be regarded as a resident simply by virtue of being a student or teacher at a school. Brown said other tests could be used by local election officials, like a change of residence on a driver's license, or the address used on a fishing license.

Sen. Gordon Rosenmeier, Little Falls, told the committee he doubted the amendment would meet a constitutional test. "Either it is meaningless or it is imposing a burden on a class of people—students and teachers," he said.

..And Now, 'Peter the Hermit' Lives No More

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Years ago, he was the resident eccentric, a curiosity for tourists to stare at and natives to shake their heads over.

But when Peter the Hermit died last week at the age of 90, the event was scarcely noticed. Peculiar characters had become so profuse on Hollywood Boulevard that few paid attention to the spindly legged codger with the flowing beard.

For almost 50 years, Peter Howard—that was his real name—plodded up and down the Boulevard ignoring the taunts of the Philistines. Unlike the younger bearded types who now frequent the area, Peter was immaculate. He wore freshly laundered white duck pants and a white T-shirt, sometimes a white robe.

As a lad I had often seen Peter the Hermit on his daily prowls. I had only one encounter with him: five years ago when I sought him out for an interview. It was not easy to do, for Peter resisted the nonsense of the so-called civilized world, and that included publicity.

Finally a meeting was arranged in his one-room home on Ivar Avenue, a short distance from the roaring Hollywood Freeway.

"I'm ageless," he snapped when I inquired of his age. And indeed, with pink face and patriarchal white hair and beard, he might have been 65 or 105. He admitted to having been born in Limerick, sailing the seven seas as a young man and studying the religions of the world—"They're all stepping stones."

He claimed to have come to Hollywood because of its promise. But he was soon disillusioned by what he found.

"I never call it Hollywood," he rallied. "I call it Follywood! The movies could have created the coming church, the universal language, but that promise was never realized.

"Follywood! It has ruined more homes than siege guns. The movies show nothing but war, crime and sex. Follywood never gave anything to anybody. All the moviemakers do is fool the people. Well, movie people mean nothing to me. They're shysters, all of them!"

Peter's bitterness may have stemmed from the fact that the movies had passed him by. In his early years in Hollywood he had earned a fair living as an atmosphere actor in films, especially Biblical epics like "The King of Kings." He lived as a

Last Friday he was once again plodding down Hollywood Boulevard as he had done thousands of days before. He collapsed on the sidewalk and died of a cerebral hemorrhage at a county hospital.

"This is my prophecy," Peter the Hermit had told me when I visited his room. He pointed to framed, typewritten passage from Zeph. 1:14. "The great day of the Lord is near . . ."

Sirhan Observes 25th Birthday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "You're going to be an old man," came the whisper across the courtroom where Sirhan Bishara Sirhan is on trial for the murder of Robert F. Kennedy.

The whisperer was Sirhan's older brother, Adel, in a joking reference to the defendant's 25th birthday—today.

Sirhan didn't quite catch it and, straining to hear, got up from his seat Tuesday and took a tentative step in Adel's direction. Deputy sheriffs gently restrained him.

"You're going to be an old man—your birthday," Adel said, louder this time. Sirhan smiled and nodded and then refocused his attention on the witness, Orville Roderick Richardson, a psychologist.

Alma Club Backs Construction of More Birdhouses

ALMA, Wis. (Special) — Purchase of 250 four-week-old mallard ducklings for release in this area in June or July and construction of 25 bluebird and 25 wood duck houses has been voted by the Alma Rod & Gun Club.

The houses are to be built by the high school class that previously constructed many bluebird houses for the club. About 150 of them have been placed over a large area and were reported to be occupied by the birds last year.

Charles Morgan, La Crosse, president of Ducks Unlimited in the Upper Mississippi, showed two films.

Clem Breen, club president, announced the appointment of committee chairmen for the annual Rieck's Lake Park Festival in June, as follows:

Herbert Ruff, advance sale of tickets; Theodore Buehler and Leonard Purrington, advertising; Harold Wilson, distributing bills; Breen, ground supervision; Fred Glender, police and parking; Robert Hanson, major prizes; Theodore Buehler and Frank Johnston, donated prizes; Wilfred Herrick, food concessions; Ed Giesler, beer stand; Stuart Berg and Charles Michaels, talent contest; William Patterson, canoe riding; Glenn Michaels and Dan Ristow, tug of war; Allen Nuzum, garden tractor pulling; Dwaine Redsek, pony pulling; Breen, cake baking contest; Ronald Davis, dunking machine, and Ed Godel, fireworks.

The last card party of the season will be sponsored by the Cochrane Club in the American Legion hall at Alma.

Says No-Fault Auto Bill Would Help Negligent

ST. PAUL (AP) — George French, Minnesota Bar Association lawyer, Tuesday said the no-fault auto insurance bill would "allow people who are negligent" to recover losses.

The bill, authored by Sen. Jack Davies, Minneapolis, would provide that persons injured in auto accidents would collect from their own insurance companies.

A bill aimed at state tax relief for parents who adopt, was approved Tuesday by the Senate Tax Committee. Up to $450 in expenses could be deducted. Sen. Dean Nyquist, Brooklyn Center, introduced a bill which would finance a $25,000 study of Minnesota prisons.

The Senate Tax Committee recommended that Armando M. De Yoannes be reappointed as Iron Range resources and rehabilitation commissioner and Lelf R. Langsjoen be confirmed a member of the State Tax Court.

A consular convention between the nations was ratified by the United States in 1967 and the Soviet Union last April. Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin discussed the issue at a meeting March 8, McCloskey said.

College Termed 'Pressure Cooker'

"College is not a microcosm — It's more like a pressure cooker."

That was one of the comments of the Rev. Charles Emery of the United Campus Ministry, speaking to the Winona Branch of the American Association of University Women Tuesday evening at the YWCA.

REV. EMERY related the history of the ecumenical movement in campus ministry, outlined his program since his arrival here last summer, and spoke of his hopes for the future.

Co-chairmen for the program were Miss Celesta Hoffman, area representative for community problems, and Mrs. Tibor Rosza, implementation chairman for the topic "Testing Values in a Changing Society."

Rev. Emery related the history of campus ministries, which has swung from an original student ecumenical movement in the beginning through a denomination-oriented push in the late 19th century and back again to ecumenism since the middle 1950s.

REPORTING on his ministry here, Rev. Emery outlined his function in terms of helping the "real ministry," lay students and faculty, develop their own capabilities, and as a supportive function in education, helping the college itself. He spends a great deal of time with students themselves, both in informal conversation and in counseling students with problems.

The program itself is developing in cooperation with the other campus ministries, the Newman and Lutheran centers. Among recent activities have been two retreats, one a sensitivity training session, weekly worship sessions directed by students, Sunday evening "intentional meals" oriented to topics or persons of interest, a film festival, and a student volunteer program of social service with probation, police, retarded children and the Big Brother program. He also teaches courses open to Winona

State students. Hope for a future program entirely planned by all the campus ministries together and for an eventual structure for the United Campus Ministry were outlined. Rev. Emery also spoke of an "ultimate ideal" in which the ministry would be conducted by the faculty and students themselves who are, he feels, in many ways functioning as counselors and aides at the present.

IN RESPONSE to a question from the audience, Rev. Emery noted that pressures on students today are tremendous. There is particular pressure, he said, in terms of the standards students feel they must live up to. Many students have difficulty in seeing the "worthwhileness of what they learn in terms of where the world is going."

Young people have strength, he said, in that even with all their own problems they are very concerned with other people and about the world. They are also willing to be honest in ways which are difficult for older adults, honest with themselves and others. They recognize their problems, the speaker said, and so can deal with them.

Mrs. Donald Burt, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the following names of persons who will be running for office. They are Mr. s. James B. Rowan, second vice president; Miss Marian Kangel, recording secretary, and Mrs. R. E. McCormick, director. Election of officers will take place at the April meeting.

State Legion Women's Head Lists Services

"The Legion Auxiliary does so many things in our state," said Mrs. Donald Kienholz, Bird Island, department president, as she addressed the auxiliary at the 50th anniversary legion meeting Tuesday at the American Legion Club.

Complimenting members on dedication to service projects, Mrs. Kienholz described the founding of the rehabilitation fund in Minnesota, the start of the gift shop, the work on the hospitalized veterans fund and the VA hospital therapy prizes.

"And how proud we can all be," she said, "of our 'square deal for every child' welfare program as well as the forgotten children's fund." She also commented on the 11 scholarship programs sponsored. Stressing that she had no special "president's project" this year she went on to urge units to donate extra money to the rehabilitation and child welfare funds instead.

In remarks to the joint post-auxiliary dinner that preceded her speech at the auxiliary business meeting, Mrs. Kienholz congratulated all the World War I veterans on the founding of the Legion and their faithful service through the years.

Mrs. Donald V. Gray, community service chairman, announced that a party will be given at the Sauer Memorial Home Thursday at 7 p.m. and Mrs. E. G. Callahan announced that a past presidents dinner is planned for late April. The unit will also hold its annual rehabilitation party March 26 for patients at Rochester State Hospital.

AFS Student Addresses Mrs. Jaycees

Miss Wipawee Sukontakorn was the guest speaker when the Winona Mrs. Jaycees held a dinner meeting Tuesday evening at Williams Hotel.

Miss Sukontakorn is an AFS student from Bangkok, Thailand, and makes her home with her "American parents," Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Gasink, 755 Clark's Lane.

MISS Sukontakorn related to the group some of the many traditions of her family and country, as well as the Buddhist religion which is predominant in Thailand. There are also Muslims and Hindus there, she noted.

"We have rice with our meals and it is highly seasoned," said the speaker. "Here in America, I have to use so much salt and pepper and a lot of catsup because the food is so flat." She went on to explain that rice and fish are their main source of food in a land where many other foods cannot be grown.

During a question and answer period that followed, the speaker agreed that Thailand's culture is quite different from that in the U.S. Miss Sukontakorn noted how "free" the American boys and girls are. She noted how they date early in life and marry much younger than in her homeland.

MISS Sukontakorn, sponsored through the American Field Service, arrived in Winona in August and will return to her native land in June. She will have one more year of schooling in Thailand and then hopes to return to the U.S. for her college education.

Further plans for the Mrs. Jaycees breakfast April 12 at Winona Senior High School were announced. Tickets are available from members of the group and at both Ted Maier Drug Stores.

Sex Education Discussed at Lincoln PTA

The filmstrip, "Family Life in Sex Education," was shown and discussed by Victor Gislason, director of health and physical education in the Winona public schools, at the Monday evening Parent-Teacher Association meeting at Lincoln School.

He said a committee in Winona, composed of individuals from different occupations, is trying to bring about an airing in this field to find out how it could best be used to supplement the church and family through the public schools.

STUDENTS WOULD not be exposed to this just once, he explained. If possible a program would be set up with the concepts being carried from kindergarten through grade 12. It would touch on the areas of human growth and development, how to get along in the family unit and the social and emotional contact between humans. This type of education is not included in the present health program, he added.

Mrs. Mary Grendahl, school nurse, described programs that could be used in the school system. Primary grades could build for simple understanding and vocabulary; learning to understand and respect the human body, growth and development. In the intermediate grades more emphasis would be placed on social relationships and family characteristics.

During the business meeting Mrs. Bruce McNally, president, announced the kindergarten roundup was set for April 15. Her co-chairman will be Mrs. Daniel Degallier.

A CARD PARTY will be held April 19 at 7:45 p.m. in the gymnasium. Bridge, 500 and schafskopf will be played. Prizes will be awarded and lunch will be served.

Osseo Couple Vacationing in South America

OSSEO, Wis. (Special)—Mr. and Mrs. Ben Erickson, rural Osseo, who are touring South America with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Froseth and children, have written to friends in Ettrick of their trip.

Mrs. Erickson said: "We arrived at Asuncion, Paraguay, by plane from Buenos Aires March 5. When we stepped off the plane it was so hot and the humidity so high, it was like stepping into a steam bath."

"We are staying in a beautiful hotel that is very modern and has air conditioning made in La Crosse, Wis."

"WHILE WE were in Bahia Blanca, (where the Froseths lived the last 18 months) it was 104 degrees, the hottest it had been in March for 39 years. Our first night we stayed in Bahia Blanca in John and Lee Andrea's home, a lovely place with marble floors, tall shuttered windows, high ceilings with skylights, a rose garden, grape arbor, tiled sidewalks, fancy iron fence and gates, and high garden walls."

"We had a nine-hour bus ride from Asuncion to Iguazu Falls. We passed orange, grapefruit, lemon, avocado and banana trees. Large piles of walnuts were heaped in front yards. The trees in this semi-tropical area are very tall and have large vines twining up the trunks, as in a jungle. We saw bamboo growing, and the cotton fields are being harvested now. Tobacco is stripped from the plant and dried on racks, not cut and stripped later as we do in Wisconsin."

"We saw women drawing water from open wells, and clothes drying on rail fences along the roads. Hand-made lace tablecloths were being made on looms in front yards."

ARRIVING in Rio de Janeiro, Mrs. Erickson wrote: "We can see the Christ the Redeemer statue from our eighth story hotel room. It is of white marble and is more than 100 feet tall. We plan to go up to see it. We also will visit Sugarloaf Mountain by cable car, and the Copacabana Beach. We can see Sugarloaf from our window."

"The traffic in Bahia Blanca and Buenos Aires is like a rat race. It seems the largest vehicle has the right of way."

The Erickson family is formerly of Ettrick. Erickson is an agent for the Rural Insurance Companies of Ettrick and Mrs. Erickson is employed at the Whitehall Floral & Nursery in Whitehall. Their son-in-law, John Froseth, has been doing research for a doctor of philosophy on a Ford Foundation project administered by Purdue University, from which he holds a bachelor of arts degree in animal science. He has completed his work at Bahia Blanca.

Letters to the Editor

Writes About Our Air Pollution Problem To the Editor:

Winona is our hometown, but we moved to La Crosse about six years ago and since then we drive to Winona about once a week. On our way up as soon as we see smoke in the sky we say "There's Winona," not proudly I might add.

Well, last week there were a lot of jet streams in the air also huge clouds of black smoke. At first my husband just wouldn't believe that was coming from Winona as we weren't very far from La Crosse, but it was, whether someone was burning a car or if it was shives or just what, but it wasn't at the dump, although that was also burning, but across the highway from the dump. Anyway you sure can see why the large cities have smog and air pollution.

Then in our La Crosse Sunday paper I see where someone living on Granddad Bluff also knows where Winona is by the smoke in the air. I can't understand why the people living in your area don't complain and try to put a stop to it.

One thing we like about La Crosse is that they collect all the trash and there is no burning in the city. Winona always smells like one big city dump from 5 to 8 and way into the night and has for years.

It will be nice for everyone when the city can afford to collect all the trash and I for one will no longer have to worry about my mother burning her papers every day.

Thank you for reading this and let's all work for less smoke and air pollution.

Mrs. Joseph Bronk
La Crosse, Wis.

Suggests Yellow Flasher
At 61-14-43 Intersection

To the Editor:

A yellow warning flasher near the Hot Fish Shop would make that hazardous stoplight intersection much safer—and for pennies. Who expects a stoplight smack dab in the middle of a prolonged straight speedway? A yellow flasher would definitely help. On our recent trip south we saw several such setups and admired them.

That thick layer of black-top the county put on East Burns Valley Road is really wonderful. It's still narrow and curvaceous but for many years my hay baler would actually bounce two feet in the air on every chuck hole and you couldn't dodge many of them. Now if our valley road only had a decent hookup with Homer Road instead of sending us way over to St. Mary's Cemetery Road and then back again, which is rather stupid considering that there is state-owned land right there being used only for a junk lot. Did you ever try to tell anyone how to find East Burns Valley Road? Let's hope the new armory will remedy this.

That federal forecaster is right in form. On March 3 he predicted a river stage of 17.9 feet if no rain falls and exactly a week later predicted 19 feet, if no rain, and 21 feet with rain. He shows that women are not the only ones who change their minds in a hurry.

George W. Goetzman
East Burns Valley Road.

Teacher Example Of Rebound From Bad Experience

CARROLLTON, Mich. (AP) — Lorne Thompson, the English teacher at Saginaw Township High school, once fractured his skull and both legs leaping out a window to escape arrest on burglary and car theft charges.

Captured and sentenced to three years, he turned to religion in prison, went to a Bible institute after his parole in 1948 and was ordained a Baptist minister in 1954.

He qualified as a school teacher by graduating last August from Eastern Michigan University.

"It doesn't matter what mountain you want to climb, you can do it if you are willing to pay the price," Thompson said Monday.

Arcadia, Union Agree on Contract

ARCADIA, Wis. (Special) — Arcadia City Council has authorized the president and secretary of the Utility Commission to sign a union contract with the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

The council Thursday also granted a request by the utility commission to close the electric generating plant on weekends after April 1 and moved that the city write off water utilities taxes for 1966 and 1968.

Aldermen voted that Alvin Zastrow, city policeman, be required to install a telephone at his residence so a police phone system, for which the city will be liable, can be installed.

The council voted to engage Custom Striping Co., Chilton, Wis., to re-stripe city streets and curbs, four side streets and one parking lot adjacent to the funeral home at a cost $450, plus use of the city park for trailer.

Building permits were granted Aurelius Pehler for interior repair to his residence and Allie Mueller for addition to his house.

Gebel Musa, in southern Sinai, is the traditional Mt. Sinai where Moses received the Ten Commandments, the National Geographic Society says. Scholars, however, have expressed doubt as to which of several mountains actually was the Biblical site.

Will Sell Rail Car Truman Used During Campaign

VERNON, Calif. (AP) — The private railroad car and observation platform from which former President Harry S. Truman "gave 'em hell" in his 1948 campaign will be sold at auction Thursday. The bid could run as high as $50,000.

The platform and car, midnight blue and gold, were the last in which a U.S. president barnstormed the country in an election campaign. The present owner of the 28-year-old car is Thomas F. Baker, San Francisco land developer and cotton planter.

Everybody Won at This Snowball Fight

WELLESLEY, Mass. (AP) — Everybody won at the Phillips School snowball fight.

Principal Willard Woodruff made a deal to halt snowball throwing around the school—if none were thrown for a week, he'd be the target for some free shots.

Woodruff made good, and everybody was happy. "They got it out of their systems all at once," he said.

the flush of the sailing season doesn't receive it. But now that fitting out time is only a calendar page away, Susan K. has become a mental burden.

Oh, it's all well and good to write, as I once did, about the joys of fixing up an old wooden boat. There's hard work, I said, but also there's time for dreams while the red winged blackbirds whistle in the marsh and the springtime sun warms the deck and you.

That's all very true, and I'm glad I never missed a single moment of it—in years past.

Now, however, it's 1968, and Susan K. and I are both a year older.

That good right arm of mine, the one that bears the brunt of scraping and sanding and painting, has a touch of a misery never before noticed. The creaking in Susan K.'s teak deck needs replacement, and her top-sides should be taken down to the wood. Those are items, or let us say major projects, in addition to what is known as routine maintenance. It's going to be a rough spring.

But grouching will get you nowhere. While you've been complaining the fitting-out season has arrived.

You make a call, the first of many, at the marine hardware store and lay your credit on the line. There is paint to be bought, and paint remover, and sandpaper and scrapers and varnish. Ship's stores such as these are no ordinary merchandise: You have to pay handsomely for the privilege of lugging them out to your car.

Next stop is the boatyard. There lies Susan K. in her cunningly shaped beauty. Behind her in silent, canvas-covered rows stand other land-bound hulks, awaiting the magic touch of ardent owners.

You have of course donned

Group of Soviet Intellectuals on Hunger Strike

MOSCOW (AP) — A group of Soviet intellectuals in a labor camp are conducting a hunger strike to seek relaxation of restrictions on visiting rights, reports reaching Moscow said.

Among them is Yuli Daniel, the writer whose trial three years ago marked the beginning of a crackdown on intellectual dissenters.

A similar strike a year ago at the huge Potma complex, 250 miles southwest of Moscow, won concessions on visiting rights that inmates now feel have been revoked, the reports said.

The strike began Friday. There was no indication how many persons are taking part.

your oldest work clothes. You soon get dusty and tired. You are cramped while bending over the cracking deck. Your arms and back ache as you force the electric sander to its task and help lug the heavy spars from their shed. This goes on and on.

But there comes a day when all is ready. The drying seams have been caulked. The topsides shine, the varnish glistens, the newly applied bottom paint glows warmly red. You have only to await the launching.

The blackbirds whistle in the marsh, the springtime sun warms your back, and you have come around once more to the firm conviction that only land-lubbers and turncoats will stoop so low as to forsake well-seasoned wood for fiberglass.

Urge Nixon to 'Weld' Antipoverty Efforts

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government watchdog agency has urged President Nixon to do what it says President Johnson failed to do—weld together the fragmented federal antipoverty efforts.

The General Accounting Office, in its 228-page report on the tribulations of the Office of Economic Opportunity, recommended creation of an "Office of Human Resources" at the White House level "to carry out the planning, coordination and evaluation of all federally-assisted antipoverty efforts."

Antipoverty legislation lodged the coordinating responsibilities with OEO. And that, said the report which took 14 months and more than $1 million for Congress' auditing arm to complete, was "unrealistic."

Needed, said the report—which focused on administrative difficulties and failings in the Johnson-created agency—is a new office which would have the "full support" of the President. Congress gave OEO responsibility for coordinating the various governmental antipoverty measures in 1964, authorizing an Economic Opportunity Council to carry out the task.

"Its restructure by the 90th Congress eliminated the director of OEO as chairman and provided that the council be provided with staff. Since Jan. 1, 1968, the council was never convened by the President. The council, hence, has exercised no coordinative influence."

The report also noted that since 1965 OEO has been devising annual national poverty action plans but the effort has had little effect. "There is no available evidence that the President implemented the plan in decisions relative to legislation or appropriations recommended for education, health, manpower training, social security, housing, urban development or veterans' benefits."

The report recommended that OEO be made an independent agency responsible for programs of an innovative nature, such as community action.

It endorsed the plan already put forward by Nixon to shift programs such as Head Start and the Job Corps to other agencies already carrying out related functions.

Some other key findings: Manpower Programs—"The available data showed that most of the manpower programs experienced high early dropout rates which strongly indicated that many enrollees received little or no actual help." GAO recommended that Congress review the Job Corps, particularly its conservation camp structure, to determine whether it should be retained at current expense levels. Community Action—"It has been an effective advocate for the poor in many communities... It has introduced new or expanded existing services to the poor. However, CAP has achieved these ends in lesser measure than was reasonable to expect in relation to the magnitude of the funds expended." Throughout the report, the GAO mentioned "the difficulties" encountered by OEO, including demand for speed in getting programs started, delays and uncertainties, over congressional funding and the problems of working out relationships with other agencies and state and local governments.

trary to rumors circulating for weeks, GAO found no widespread malfeasance in our program. "Nor is there evidence of political revolutionaries dominating our program as some of our critics have charged."

Rochester Given Funds for Food Service Training

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The Labor Department has approved an on-the-job food service training program for 120 jobless Minnesotans, Rep. Albert H. Quie, R-Minn., said Tuesday.

The Manpower Administration has allocated $257,661 for training projects in six cities. Each will offer 52 weeks of training as cook-chef.

The projects are: Bloomington, 20 trainees, $42,694; Duluth, 20, $43,573; Minneapolis, 20, $42,694; Rochester, 20, $43,042; St. Paul, 20 Core City trainees, $42,829; St. Paul, 20 trainees from suburbs, $42,829.

The projects are set up under the Manpower Development and Training Act.

Split Liquor Falls Four Votes Short in Senate

ST. PAUL (AP)—Four votes short of Senate acceptance, the controversial split liquor amendment was in the hands of a joint Senate-House conference committee today.

After 90 minutes of hot debate, the Senate voted 36-29 Tuesday for a motion by Sen. Jerome Blatz, Bloomington, to turn the question over to a 10-member conference committee.

"I submit this is going to be your only opportunity to vote on the issue here this session," Sen. Carl A. Jensen, Sleepy Eye, the leader of the split liquor forces, told his colleagues.

The House—by a 79-53 vote—had attached the split liquor rider on a bill authored by Blatz to increase the number of private liquor licenses in cities of 20,000 to 100,000 population.

Jensen contended it was impossible to get a split liquor bill moved out of committee and said that an amendment to another measure apparently was the only way to get a vote.

Split liquor—prohibited by state law—would permit communities that have municipal liquor stores to issue private licenses as well.

Spokesmen for Minnesota communities have testified they need split liquor to entice high class motels and other businesses that would be attracted by restaurants that serve alcoholic drinks.

The committee system, dominated by Conservatives who outnumber DFLers 24-1, came under attack by the DFL minority during the debate.

In upholding Blatz, the Senate also upheld its tradition of respecting the wishes of a bill's author, and its committee system.

Blatz launched the debate by proposing the Senate reject the House-passed split liquor amendment.

"It is not germane to this bill," he protested. "And this amendment calls into question our whole committee system. If we go along with this procedure, we will have a new rule—'don't waste your time in committee.'"

Jensen, who is author of a bill which would grant split liquor on local option, charged that the liquor industry favored Blatz' position. "And if you vote for his motion you are voting for the liquor industry."

He and Sen. Walter Franz, Mountain Lake, Senate president pro tem, complained that split liquor bills die in committee. Franz observed, "When you bury this in committee, you never get a chance to vote on it on the floor."

The charge set up Sen. Karl Grittner, minority leader, and Asst. Minority Leader Nicholas Coleman for a sharp attack on the committee way of doing business. They charged that the majority Conservatives were reluctant to permit some issues to reach the floor for debate.

Coleman said not only the liquor issue had languished, but that the Education Committee had tied up bills on busing school children and the Elections Committee had rejected a Senate debate on party designation for legislators.

"Certainly no one has been more abused by the committee system than I have," Coleman said.

Grittner delighted "in seeing the majority stew in their own juice." And he taunted Franz, a Conservative leader, "who is now complaining because his ox is being gored."

Sen. Harold Kalina, Minneapolis DFLer, asked if Franz was charging that the committee makeup denied full hearings to the public, such as on liquor and party designation.

Several other senators joined in the debate before Holmquist took the reins and asked that they get back to the issue. But he took time himself to defend the Senate as "a great organization."

He said that no committee was selected to bypass any rules and that minority members were consulted. "There is no partiality and no special design," he said. "This is a system that makes us great."

Holmquist was lined up with Coleman on the affirmative side in support of Blatz, while Grittner and Franz were among the losers, as the undercurrent of issues brought widespread crossing of party lines.

Conservatives voted 25-18 for Blatz' motion and DFLers split 11-11.

After Blatz' motion to reject the House amendment was upheld on a rollcall vote, the Senate gave voice approval to send it to a conference of five from each body.

Twesme Appointed

WHITEHALL, Wis. — Trempealeau County Judge Albert L. Twesme has been appointed by Chief Justice E. Harold Hallows to a 20-member committee to study and recommend ways to improve Wisconsin's court system. Hallows said the committee will hold its first meeting in Madison next month. Its recommendations will go to the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Ex-Winona Girl To Tour Spain With Study Group

A former Winona girl is one of eight Duluth area high school students planning a summer trip to Spain.

She is Nancy Wenzel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul F. Wenzel, Duluth.

On July 1 the group, under the auspices of the Foreign Study League, will embark from New York on the SS Ryndam for an eight-day cruise terminating in Paris. After three days in Paris touring such sites as the Louvre, the Eiffel Tower, Notre Dame, and Versailles, they will go across the Pyrenees to Pampalona, Spain. On Aug. 14 the travelers will jet back to New York.

This fall Nancy will enter the University of Minnesota at Duluth to continue her study of the Spanish language.

Warren to Appeal Court Order on Three Students

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Atty. Gen. Robert W. Warren has announced plans to appeal a federal judge's order to reinstate three students suspended recently after a destructive protest on the University of Wisconsin campus.

Warren made his decision after U.S. District Judge James E. Doyle ordered Tuesday that the three students be reinstated by noon today.

The attorney general said the appeal would be filed with the U.S. 7th Circuit Court in Chicago. Doyle said his ruling would not prevent the university from suspending the students following a hearing in which the "requirements of procedural-due process" are met.

A hearing for the students, who were suspended March 6, was set by the university for today.

The students are Ronnie Stricklin of Milwaukee, Richard

B. Rosenfelt of Olivette, Mo., and James Strickler of Teaneck, N.J.

In his ruling, Doyle said the only time a university may suspend students without a hearing is when there is "reasonable cause to believe that danger will be present if a student is permitted to remain on the campus."

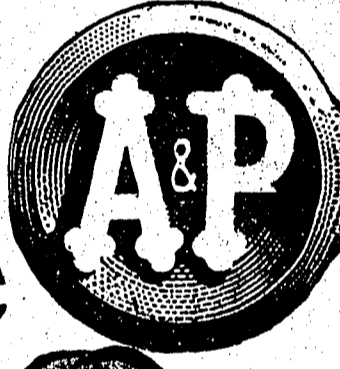

Interim suspensions, he said, may be issued in such cases. Even an interim suspension, however, must be preceded by a "preliminary hearing, unless it can be shown that it is impossible or unreasonably difficult to conduct such a hearing, the judge added.

There was "no showing whatever" by the university that it was impossible or unreasonably difficult for the regents to provide a preliminary hearing for the three students before the March 6 suspensions, Doyle ruled.

'Friendly' Forum to Hear Missile Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration had a generally friendly forum today for the unveiling of its revised missile defense system. Some $800 million in funds for deployment of the modified Sentinel system were contained in budget requests prepared by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird for a closed hearing of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Next skirmish for the administration should come Friday when Laird testifies before the Senate disarmament subcommittee where the balance is against the ABM.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said Tuesday he would await the impact of the first administration forays — and an expected counterattack — before attempting his own firm head count, although he said he believes the administration has the votes.

Packard could be a key man in the buildup toward a Senate vote on an ABM appropriation. Dirksen said Packard did much of the talking as the administration disclosed its ABM decision to congressional leaders at a White House meeting Friday.

It is the vote on these funds—expected in about two months—that will provide the test for Nixon, especially in the Senate. House leaders predict easier going if the funds make it through the Senate.

Since Friday, Nixon has picked up 10 votes in the Senate and an Associated Press survey now shows 44 votes against ABM, 35 for and 21 uncommitted.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said flatly Tuesday that the ABM will be approved in that chamber.

After a White House meeting, Ford said there is more optimism about Senate prospects than was the case before Nixon disclosed his overhaul of the ABM plan.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., announced that foes of the Nixon plan are going to form a panel of scientists to join their efforts at persuasion.

Hart and Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., are to name members of their panel later this week, then hold a briefing for fellow senators next Monday.

Laird will appear publicly before the disarmament subcommittee, headed by Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., a major foe of ABM deployment.

As a preface to that session, Senate critics of the administration decision may stage a series of speeches Thursday. So far they have been generally silent since the Nixon decision was announced. But the Senate has not met since Monday, and its session then was a brief one.

Classical Unit Elects Students

Two Winona and area students have been elected to top offices in the Minnesota Junior Classical League (JCL) for the coming year.

Peter Klug, La Crescent, was elected state president by unanimous vote at the organization's state convention in Owatonna Saturday.

Dorian Colvin, a student at Cotter High School, was named state JCL treasurer.

Jolene Speltz, a student at Winona Senior High School, was a candidate for secretary but was defeated by one vote.

Lois Kreidermacher, a sophomore at WSHS, won first place for costumes in the upper division. Recipient of one of 35 gold medals awarded, she modeled a costume fashioned by Sue DeLano, also in the Latin II class at Senior High School.

Ruth Leggin, sophomore at Cotter, won second place in the lower division contest on derivatives. She also won third place in an upper division oratory contest.

About 450 students from throughout the state attended the convention.

Miss Margaret Schummers, adviser of the Senior High chapter, and Sister Sandra, Cotter adviser, also attended.

SIX BILLS TO SUBCOMMITTEE

LeVander States He Expects Tough Gun Control Measure

ST. PAUL (AP) — Six gun regulation bills were sent to a House subcommittee Tuesday and Gov. Harold LeVander quickly indicated he expects the legislature to pass a tough gun control measure.

Aides to LeVander said the governor plans to veto any bill which would supersede strong municipal ordinances now on the books, such as those in Minneapolis and St. Paul.

The governor favors "stronger gun control legislation than exists in Minnesota," said Robert Hinkley, LeVander's press secretary. "If the state legislature produces something that weakens, not strengthens it, then he's going to veto it."

That comment came after Rep. George Krenik, Le Center, chairman of the House Committee on Crime Prevention, told newsmen he believes some sort of compromise bill will emerge.

Krenik said the compromise legislation will pre-empt local gun ordinances in cities such as Minneapolis and St. Paul, and added: "I'm sure that's what we'd want."

Krenik sent the six gun regulation bills to a subcommittee after brief explanations by the authors.

Bills explained to the subcommittee Tuesday ran the gamut from a tough proposal backed by Gov. Harold LeVander to others which would result in gun permits being given to virtually anyone who asked for them.

One of the bills, by Rep. Joseph Graw, Bloomington, would permit police officers to stop and search persons suspected of having committed crimes or suspected of carrying a weapon. This provision also is included in some of the gun control bills. Here is a brief summary of other gun control bills:

H.F. 544, Rep. Thomas Tice, Bloomington — Prohibits carrying a concealed weapon without a permit; permits free to persons over 21 but denied to felons, drug or alcohol addicts and mental incompetents. It would supersede local ordinances.

H.F. 834, Rep. John Keeffe, Hopkins — Would require sheriffs to issue permits unless a person was under 18 or had a felony conviction.

Report U.S. No Longer Has Naval Superiority

WASHINGTON (AP) — An aging U.S. naval fleet and a jackhammer shipbuilding program here allowed the Soviet Union to cut into United States superiority on the high seas, a House subcommittee said today.

The House Armed Services subcommittee on seapower says in a report prepared for release today that the United States no longer enjoys a clear-cut military and technological advantage over the Soviets in naval matters.

"In this new environment, our present and past methods must be subjected to ruthless appraisal," says the report, the result of seven hearings and staff visits to 13 major shipyards and ship repair facilities.

The report recommends that a well-balanced construction program, extended over a period of years, start immediately.

The subcommittee said the Navy should by the 1980s have a fleet of 850 modern ships, which should include 41 Polaris submarines and only nuclear attack submarines.

Now, it said, the average age of U.S. Navy ships is 17½ years, and 58 per cent of its combat ships are 20 years or more old. In contrast, it said less than 1 per cent of Soviet Navy ships are that old.

It said the Soviets now have 1,575 navy ships, while the U.S. Navy has 894.

Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., chairman of the full committee, said the "report makes crystal clear the gross inadequacy of our shipbuilding programs in past years."

The subcommittee says the Soviet Union is devoting major attention to the sea and modern uses of it.

"It is developing a massive, well-balanced program in virtually all phases of seapower," the report says. "Such a program represents a formidable challenge to traditional freedom of the world's oceans, assured for years by a substantial superiority in seapower."

"This superiority is now eroding by the new Soviet buildup."

The committee said the U.S. Navy could make a greater contribution toward security from nuclear and surprise attack by more utilization of the seas for the dispersal of nuclear weapons.

"More missiles at sea, utilizing missile-age geography, would place expensive burdens upon the Soviet Union's effort to cope with our retaliatory force," the committee said.

Pressure, Dues Big Reasons for Not Joining

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief reason people don't join labor unions is not fear of the boss, but "pressure to join and paying dues," an AFL-CIO official said today.

"Anti-union voters ranked fear of management as one of the least important reasons for voting against" union representation, said Bill Kircher, the labor federation's organizing director.

Reporting on the first independent survey of voters in union organizing campaigns, Kircher said it showed face-to-face persuasion was most effective both in union efforts to win workers' votes and in management campaigns to defeat the union.

San Fernando Valley State College in California conducted the survey of 500 workers who had voted in National Labor Relations Board elections for union representation.

"The survey seems to indicate that unions can enjoy more success by motivating the strongly pro-union employe to motivate the undecided co-worker," Kircher said in his report in the AFL-CIO magazine, "The American Federationist."

Hokah Citizens Help Build Pool and Park

HOKAH, Minn. (Special) — Hokah Swimming Pool Corp., which is planning an extensive recreation area adjacent to the pool which was built last year, is getting support from the entire village.

A home talent show April 20 at 2 p.m. in the village hall will be one money-making event. Every business place has been asked to sponsor one act, and other acts are welcome. Arnold Frick is chairman.

THE DRIVE to get concrete blocks for the bathhouse got under way with a $10 donation from the Rev. Peter Coleman. Charles Sauer doubled it with a gift of $20. Harvey Miller met both contributions with a $30 gift. Sauer is chairman.

A community auction will be held May 4. Father Coleman has offered the use of St. Peter's school yard for the event. Charles Horihan has offered his services as auctioneer, and Ray Benthal as clerk.

Everyone in the community has been urged to donate articles for the auction, and a rummage sale to be held in conjunction with it. Articles may be left at the Gene Geiwitz garage or brought to the auction site the morning of the sale. Geiwitz and Topsy Sheehan have offered the use of their trucks for pickup if needed.

A RUNNING list of articles donated will be posted in the Becker Hardware window and Commercial Bank. Charcoal broiled chicken will be served, with Roy and Ralph Schaffer as chefs. Other lunches and refreshments will be available. Mrs. Elsie Geiwitz is in charge of planning.

It has been suggested that youth of the village offer their services in building the bathhouse and readying the camp site.

Cindy Geiwitz presented Don Walcker, president of the corporation, $18 as a donation from the former Girl Scout troop. Bud Craig presented $12 from the Hokah Chiefettes color guard — money received as tips for serving at the American Legion post commander's banquet.

CINDY, A POOL lifeguard, offered some suggestions about purchasing new life saving equipment. Senior citizens will be contacted and urged to make picnic tables and camping equipment.

Riding trails are to be laid out in the area, with horses furnished by Harry Powell. Family memberships have been discussed but no action taken.

Winner at Mabel

MABEL, Minn. (Special) — Teresa Nelson, Mabel-Canton High School, received an A rating in story telling at the sub-district speech contest at La Crescent Monday. She'll be in the district contest here May 25. The contests will begin at 1 p.m.

LEWISTON PATIENT

LEWISTON, Minn. (Special) — Mrs. Ernest Randall was taken by ambulance to the Community Memorial Hospital, Winona, after a fall down the basement stairs. She broke a hip.

Trempealeau Welfare Budget Rises $248,253

WHITEHALL, Wis. — The budget for the Trempealeau County department of social services this year is $2,105,753 — $248,253 higher than the 1968 budget of $1,857,500.

The county's share this year is $283,309 — $114,469 more than last year's $168,840 county share.

THE ORIGINAL budget request placed the county's share $22,976 higher than 1968, or $191,816. However, the state Department of Health and Social Services in October raised the county's share from 20 to 30 percent, in essence increasing Trempealeau County's share 50 percent.

Reasons for the higher budget this year were listed in the annual department's report to the county board as follows:

- The substantial increase in aid to families with dependent children and old age assistance medical costs as well as general increases in other medical programs.
- The increase in number of disabled — 58 in 1967 and 81 in 1968 — and aid to families with dependent children including children in foster homes — 80 in 1967 and 88 in 1968.
- Reduction of federal reimbursement as much as 4.8 percent in the costly aid to children program and lesser degrees in the other programs.
- The addition of transfer cases from mental hospitals and colonies — 93 in 1967 and 103 in 1968.
- The addition of two new programs — adult foster homes and volunteer services.
- Increase in cost of burials.
- Increase in administration expenses due to increase in mileage allowances, the state merit system salary plan, and subsequent increase in county share of retirement and social security, and the addition of the payment of employees' share of insurance.

This is the way the 1968 and 1969 budgets compare:

	1969	1968
Old age assistance	$ 304,300	$ 308,945
Blind aid	6,227	9,137
Disabled aid	76,500	59,428
Aid to children, families	228,500	211,140
Old age medical	423,100	597,235
Blind medical	20,150	19,743
Disabled medical	287,600	268,500
Children medical	278,638	188,892
General relief	5,000	12,000
Homemaker services	5,000	4,775
Food stamps	750	750
Administration	215,219	176,837
Totals	$2,105,753	$1,857,500

Administration budget for this year is $163,860 in salaries compared with $140,635 last year, plus other costs and non-matchable costs.

The following table shows the case loads for the last two years:

	1968	1967
Medical assistance	538	422
Old age assistance	302	301
Aid to families with dependent children	81	66
Foster home children	7	14
Disabled	81	66
Blind	11	7
Child welfare	45	22
Totals	1,065	899
County hospital cases	77	62
Colony cases	26	31

Services cases were listed at 132 in 1968. Child welfare cases include those going into juvenile court.

FOOD STAMP PROGRAM

Last year the social services department provided an average of 60 public assistance households per month with food stamps, benefitting an average of 225 persons.

The non-assistance households benefitted per month was 20 involving 74 persons.

Foodstamps sales totaled $69,220 in 1968, of which $47,372 was paid in cash and the balance in bonus stamps.

Aid to Dependent Children

New federal legislation limits the number of children which the state may have on the aid to families with dependent children program in the future.

Information is obtained from the AFDC rolls during a three-month period, and the average is used to determine what percentage of the total population of children in the state can be eligible for assistance. Should the percentage of children on AFDC as a result of desertion, divorce or incarceration increase considerably, it appears, says the Trempealeau County social services director, the federal government wouldn't participate in financial reimbursement for children exceeding the ratio established.

Not included in the new limitation would be children of widows or physically or mentally incapacitated fathers. Of prime concern on the part of the federal government, the director said, is the feeling that states are not doing enough to moti-

La Crosse Gets 100,000 Bags For Dikes

LA CROSSE, Wis. — This Mississippi River City, threatened by potential flooding, received 100,000 sandbags Tuesday, said Public Works Director Bob Schroeder.

He said private contractors are being hired to help city workers build dikes to help protect the city, which is threatened on three sides — by the Mississippi, Black and La Crosse rivers.

Red Cross workers moved in Tuesday and began setting up a district headquarters to cover a seven county area. Plans are being made to set up temporary shelters in La Crosse to house people driven from their homes.

Mayor Warren Loveland said he will ask Gov. Warren Knowles today to request the federal government to step in so Wisconsin communities can get help from Washington in preparing for floods.

The Army Corps of Engineers began setting up a district office Tuesday to serve an area from Prescott, Wis., to Guttenberg, Iowa.

Funds Hold Up County Planning

The second half of the planning and zoning program for Winona County will have to wait, members of the Winona County Planning Commission were told Tuesday night.

The 1969 funding from Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has not been advanced to the state planning agency to allow money for the work to continue. Congress has made the needed appropriations to the 701 program to HUD but funds have not been apportioned to the state agency to allow work in Winona and other counties to continue.

C. KEITH Wehrman, planning consultant, Nason, Wehrman, Knight & Chapman, Inc., Minneapolis, told the commission that he had been in contact with the state agency but has been unable to learn any reason for the funds to be withheld at this time. He suggested that the commission members write their congressman.

The members directed their secretary to prepare a letter to Rep. Al Quire and senators Eugene McCarthy and Walter Mondale.

The planning program will stop until the grant is approved, Wehrman said. Funds for Winona County amount to about $10,000 — two-thirds of the $15,000 estimated for the completion of a zoning and planning program for the county. The other portion consists of matching state and county funds. The money is administered through the state planning agency.

PLANNING UNDER the 701 program started in the county a year ago when a grant of about $10,000 for the first half was made through HUD. Application for the initial grant was named in 1966.

Wehrman said that the county's program has been approved so that the release of the funds should be forth coming shortly.

The first half of the program which includes several studies and planning goals and guide lines has been completed at a total cost of $14,350. The actual plan and zoning ordinance will be in the second half.

The interim zoning ordinance, requiring a permit for all residential structures and conditional land use for commercial structures, went into effect in August and will remain in effect until the zoning and planning outline is completed and approved by the county board.

The planning commission will continue its monthly meetings. A LARGE MOTEL sign at Duesbach, which has been discussed at previous commission meetings, was declared in violation of the setback regulations of the interim zoning ordinance and notice will be sent to the property owner, a La Crosse, Wis., man, and the owner of the sign which advertises Western Motels.

The commission and the county board have urged the Minnesota Highway Department to take action against the owners. The sign also is in violation of state highway sign regulations. The former building inspector, Robert Decker, St. Charles, said that in checking on the sign he had learned that the state Department of Highways had refused a permit for the sign twice but had taken no action after it was erected. It is within a few feet of the right of way of Interstate 90.

The matter had been referred to the attorney general's office and has been declared a violation, but still no action has been taken to have the sign removed.

Loafing Barn Burns On Lake City Farm

LAKE CITY, Minn. (Special) — A loafing barn 35 by 80 feet on the Walter Bremer farm in rural Lake City burned late Thursday afternoon. There were no cattle in the structure.

CSA Road 21 Rebuilding To Be Aired

Reconstruction of County State Aid Highway 21, Gilmore Valley Road, will be discussed at a meeting of area residents at the student center at St. Mary's College at 7:30 p.m. today.

The discussion will concern possible relocation of the section still to be rebuilt or only reconstruction and streamlining at the present location.

The length of the section in question is about a mile and a half. The section of the road from State Highway 14 to one mile south was rebuilt last summer and the hill session was completed earlier last year.

There are no plans for rebuilding at this time. This section will be in the next 5-year county highway construction program, beginning in 1973. The views of all the residents will be considered in drawing plans. Winona Township officials will conduct the meeting.

Call One Phase Of Referendum Unconstitutional

PARIS (AP) — An opinion that one phase of President Charles de Gaulle's referendum April 27 is unconstitutional is not expected to change the government's plans.

The referendum is to endorse De Gaulle's plans to create regional governments with some of the central government's powers, and to convert the Senate into a consultative body, removing its powers of delaying legislation.

The Council of State, an advisory body made up of 80 magistrates, informed the government this week that under the constitution the powers of the Senate can be changed only by the National Assembly, not by a referendum.

Population of United States Up Two Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's population increased by 2 million in 1968, but the growth rate of 1 per cent was the lowest since 1940.

The Census Bureau said there were 3.5 million births, 1.9 million deaths and a gain of 444,000 immigrants during the past year.

Last year's birth rate of 17.4 per 1,000 population was a record low and continued a decline uninterrupted since 1958. A postwar peak in the birth rate occurred in 1947 with 26.5 births per 1,000.

The 1968 death rate was 9.6 per 1,000 population, up slightly from the previous year.

Report Hundreds Killed by Floods In Brazil

RECIFE, Brazil (AP) — After six days of torrential rains, skies were clear over northeastern Brazil today and flood waters began to subside. Unofficial reports said hundreds had died and 40,000 were homeless. Officials feared a typhoid epidemic. Reports from Maceio said health officials had discovered two cases in Sao Jose do Lago, the most severely inundated town along the flooded Mandau River. The town mayor, Oscar Andrade, reported that 400 had died in his community of 6,000. Radio Jornal do Brasil in Rio de Janeiro said more than 500 persons were missing in Alagoas state. Air Force helicopters were flying in supplies.

Army Plans to Be Lenient

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army plans to act with considerable leniency reviewing stiff court martial sentences given soldiers convicted of mutiny in a California stockade last October, it was learned today.

The decision reflects a high-level Army conclusion that mutiny charges against 27 inmates of the Presidio, Calif., stockade were ill-advised and that initial convictions brought "outrageous" sentences.

Trials of the first four men prosecuted under the mutiny charge brought prison terms of as much as 16 years.

Records of the first case involving Pvt. Nesery Sood, who originally got 15 years, were slowly to Washington Tuesday so that the Army advocate general could cut the sentence to two years.

Only 24 hours earlier, Lt. Gen. Stanley Larson, Sixth Army commander, had reduced Sood's sentence, from 15 to 7 years. Top Army officers felt even that was too harsh.

Maj. Gen. Kenneth J. Hodson, advocate general, made the further reduction in sentence by acting under a rarely applied clemency authority.

In the normal course of events, he would have left it to the Army Board of Review to pass judgment on the appropriateness of the sentence.

It is understood, however, that Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor has been gravely concerned about controversy surrounding the Army's handling of the Presidio matter and wanted no delay in making amends.

Resor's chief concern was that the public might lose faith in the military system of justice and the whole legal setup would be undermined by dissent.

Rather than pass down improper and quite possibly illegal edicts to first-level legal officers handling the cases, the Army decided to let the trials run the course.

Besides Sood, Pvt. Lawrence Redel, Louis Oszpinski and John Colp all were convicted of mutiny. Oszpinski was assessed 16 years, Redel 14 and Colp 4, each being dishonorably discharged and forfeiting all pay.

Eban Says Arabs Do Not Want War, Only Pretending

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Israeli foreign minister Abba Eban says "the Arabs do not want war" but are trying to make the world believe they are on the verge of war.

As a result, Eban said Arab nations hope to provide an international alarm that would force a "half baked solution" to the Middle East conflict.

"No Arab state in its right mind will seek to change the existing cease fire situation because none of them rationally believes that they can get different results from the 1967 fiasco," Eban told a news conference Tuesday.

The Presidio demonstration occurred Oct. 12, 1968, three days after a stockade guard fatally shot a prisoner who began running after making taunting remarks.

The Army subsequently ruled the slaying as justifiable homicide.

On Oct. 14, 1968, when stockade prisoners were assembled for roll call at 7:30 a.m., the 27 sat in one corner of the stockade enclosure singing protest songs. Later they complained of stockade conditions.

When the group refused to obey an officer's order to get up and begin their day's work routine, Army MPs carried them into the building. The prisoners offered no resistance.

The Army has received 3,000 letters protesting the Presidio cases addressed to President Nixon, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird and Resor.

Under the advocate general's decision Tuesday, Sood's dishonorable discharge and pay forfeiture sentences still stand.

Ask Reserve Officer Plan Be Stripped Of Academic Credit

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — The Brown University faculty has recommended that Reserve Officer Training Corps programs be stripped of academic credit at the university but continue as a special program outside the regular curriculum.

The faculty Tuesday night asked the administration to renegotiate ROTC contracts with the Department of Defense and report back before commencement in May.

Eskimo Arrested for Failure to Report

CHICAGO (AP) — Ole Xavier Lake, an Eskimo, was arrested by the FBI on a charge of failing to report to his draft board in Anchorage, Alaska, for induction into the armed forces.

Lake, 22, told arresting officers Tuesday he came to Chicago looking for work. He said he would be glad to take his physical examination and join the Army here.

Report Crime-Fighting Funds Are Being Wasted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National League of Cities says millions of dollars in federal crime-fighting funds are being wasted on rural areas and the creation of a new level of bureaucracy.

Allocated under the Safe Streets Act of 1968, the federal grants are designed to help control and ultimately lower crime rates.

But the league, representing 14,600 municipalities, released Tuesday a study saying administration of the grants "will fail to achieve Congress' primary goal of controlling crime on the streets of urban high crime areas."

"Instead of focusing dollars on the critical problems of crime in the streets," it said, "local planning funds are being dissipated broadly without regard to need and are being used to finance third levels of bureaucracy as a matter of state administrative convenience."

"Many state allocation formulas favor distribution of a disproportionately large share of the planning funds . . . in rural areas where crime rates are lowest," the report said.

Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Neb., one of the act's sponsors, responded by contending "cities will receive their fair share of funds . . . to meet their urgent law enforcement needs." He said state planning agencies are encouraged to give priority to areas where crime rates are highest.

Under the program, supervised by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, $19 million was set aside initially to develop comprehensive state plans. Of this, 40 per cent was designated for localities or for regions composed of combinations of municipalities.

Another $29 million is being distributed this fiscal year under the various state plans. At least 75 per cent of the $29 million must, under the Safe Streets Act, go either to individual municipalities or regions.

While the bill was before Congress, the league sought to have the money channeled directly to municipalities rather than through the states.

Oshkosh State Seeks Negroes For Faculty

OSHKOSH, Wis. (AP) — A program to recruit Negro faculty members has been established at Oshkosh State University, the administration said Tuesday.

The program includes money for travel in recruiting efforts and a feasibility study of a faculty exchange program with other universities.

Both programs were proposed by a faculty advisory group, said Oshkosh President Roger Guiles.

Recruitment of black faculty members was one of the demands made by black students in November before a destructive demonstration in Guiles' office.

The feasibility study is to have four goals, said P. J. Thompson, chairman of the University Commission. They include integrating faculties and student bodies at Oshkosh and schools participating in an exchange program and providing a means of providing more black instructors.

Guiles said he personally expected to help implement the program.

Mondale Named WSC Speaker

Sen. Walter F. Mondale will be speaker at the 100th commencement exercises of Winona State College June 13.

Dr. Robert A. DuFresne, Winona State president, said that the junior Minnesota senator will address the largest graduating class in the college's history.

Mondale, who is a member of the Senate Subcommittee on Education, recently suggested formation of a "National Professor Corps," which would recruit staff in the late undergraduate years, early graduate years, and outside the academic structure, perhaps including the retired, the disadvantaged, and "the great untapped talents of thousands of men and women in the local community who are seeking new careers away from the ruts of business and homemaking or looking for new meaning in their lives."

Such a faculty would receive special training and might provide both temporary and permanent additions to the faculties of junior and community colleges, the Senator said.

Mondale has been in the Senate since December 1964 when he was appointed to succeed Hubert H. Humphrey. He was elected in 1968. Previously he was in the Information and Education Division of the Army, special assistant attorney general for Minnesota, in the practice of law in Minneapolis and Minnesota attorney general from 1950 to 1964.

He attended Macalester College and is a graduate of the University of Minnesota, holding BA and LL. B. degrees. He is 41 and he and his wife have three children.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tough new guidelines from the Federal Trade Commission would prohibit one brand of non-prescription drug being advertised as superior to another unless it actually is.

Proposals include provisions to assure that benefits of the drugs are not misrepresented,

Peak Higher Enrollments to Be Cut: CCHE

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Reduction of non-resident students at Wisconsin universities will reduce peak higher education enrollments, the Coordinating Council for Higher Education (CCHE) predicted Tuesday.

The CCHE, in a report prepared for the universities, said the peak enrollment in Wisconsin public higher education institutions would be 172,000 in 1980, down about 14,000 from previous estimates.

Last week the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents voted to reduce non-resident undergraduate enrollment to 15 percent by 1975.

A bill pending before the Legislature would cut non-resident enrollments to 15 percent at the university and the state universities.

Knowles Asks Warren to Enter Case

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — At the request of Gov. Warren P. Knowles, Atty. Gen. Robert W. Warren is stepping into a case involving a student who was arrested during a recent demonstration on the University of Wisconsin campus.

Warren said he planned to personally defend in federal court the rulings of Circuit Judges Norris Maloney and William Sachjen in a matter involving Harvey Clay.

The hearing was set for today.

Clay, a freshman from Midland, Tex., contended in a federal suit filed Monday he would be unable to get a fair trial in Madison because he is a Negro.

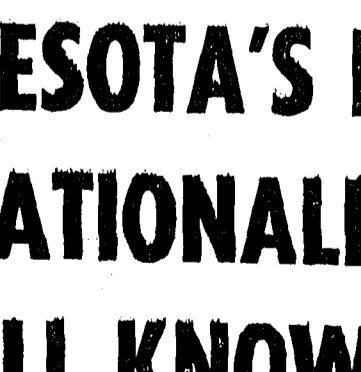

Maloney and Sachjen, in separate rulings on Clay and four other students, held that state law does not allow for a change of venue in misdemeanor cases.

Clay contended the action deprived him of constitutional rights. In his petition to the federal court, Clay said he was arrested while attempting to defend himself against a charge against classroom pickets by a group of students who were opposed to the boycott.

In requesting Warren to enter the case, Knowles said the issue "involves the constitutionality of Wisconsin statutes and is a matter which I deem to be of importance to the people of the state."

The suit also named Dane County Dist. Atty. James Boll as a defendant, saying Boll asked for immediate jury trials to "take advantage of the community prejudice" created by publicity on the demonstrations.

Army, BC Advance to NIT Semis

NEW YORK (AP) — After every surprising basketball victory, Coach Bobby Knight of Army has to defend his rugged

Cadets against critics who label them "butchers, hackers and slashers."

HV Conference Selects First All-Loop Team

For the first time in the history of the conference, the Hiawatha Valley has named an all-conference basketball team.

Ten players from seven of the eight teams in the league were selected by a rather complicated process of having each team pick an all-opponent team and then having the league coaches use these teams as the basis for selecting the honor unit.

Surprisingly, league champion Kenyon put only one player on the team, while Kasson-Mantorville, St. Charles and Zumbrota each had a pair of selections.

Steve Sviggum, a 6-1 senior guard who averaged 19.5 points-per-game to lead Kenyon to its second straight title, was the Vikings' representative.

Representing second place Kasson-Mantorville are 6-1 senior Lee Kellar and 6-4 junior Dean Fiegel. Fiegel was the second leading scorer in the league with a 23.1 average, while Kellar provided the outside punch with a 15.4 standard.

Zumbrota also had a junior and senior named to the squad. The senior was the loop's leading scorer, 6-4 Lyman Johnson who averaged 23.3. The junior is 6-2 Mike Evert who averaged 13.75 points and was Zumbrota's top rebounder.

The only other juniors on the team are both from St. Charles, 6-1 Jim Glover and 5-9 Dick Mathison, the Saints' two top scorers with 17.6 and 13.8 averages, respectively.

Lake City claimed the only sophomore on the All-Conference Ten, 6-1 Terry Kieffer. Kieffer averaged nearly 16 points-per-game.

Rounding out the team are Cannon Falls' 6-3 Todd Prink, a 15.4 scorer, and Plainview's 5-10 Dean Rheingans who played every position for the Gophers and averaged 15.6 points-per-contest. Both are seniors.

North Stars Can Tie for 4th Tonight

ST. PAUL (AP) — The Minnesota North Stars — in pursuit of a berth in the Stanley Cup playoffs — meet the New York Rangers tonight in a National Hockey League game at the Mets Sports Center.

The fifth place Stars have only seven regular season games remaining and are two points behind Philadelphia in their battle for the No. 4 spot in the West Division.

The Flyers, who have one less game left than the North Stars, play host to Minnesota in a key game Thursday night.

The North Stars are unbeaten in their last six games. New York has lost only one of 14 to climb into third place in the East Division.

Claude Larose, whose 50 points tie him with Ray Cullen as Minnesota's No. 2 scorer, may miss tonight's game because of a charley horse suffered in Sunday's 3-2 win over St. Louis.

"It's the worst one I ever had," said Larose. "The guy (Bob Player) got me on the boards and gave me the knee." Rookie Danny Grant continues as the team's top scorer with 62 points, on an equal number of goals and assists.

But the Cadets looked like a bunch of tip-toeing Lord Fauntleroy's Tuesday night compared to the scrap between Boston College and Louisville in Madison Square Garden.

After the Cadets once again used their hard-working defense for a methodically unexciting 59-45 upset over South Carolina in the quarter-finals of the National Invitation Tournament, BC and Louisville did the slapping, slashing and even fighting before BC staggered away with an 88-83 triumph.

The victories matched Army and the Eagles in Thursday night's semifinals, with Monday night's winners, Temple and Tennessee, clashing in the other games. The final is Saturday afternoon.

"We've been accused of being butchers, hackers and slashers on defense, but I don't think we foul any more than the other teams," said Knight, whose bruising Cadets, without a man more than 6-foot-6, have won eight straight in an 18-3 season to become the surprise team in the semis.

Frank McGuire, coach of South Carolina, 21-7, certainly didn't criticize the best defense in the country the last two years.

"Army is a better team than it is given credit for," he said after the Cadets pulled away to a 31-25 halftime lead.

The Gamecocks' ace, John Roche, managed only 16 points.

But Army's way of play was forgotten by the time BC and Louisville finished colliding in a ragged rough-and-tumble, race-horse game marred by 39 fouls and a fight.

"It was not an artistic success," confessed Bob Cousy, the BC coach after the Eagles' 18th straight victory in a 23-3 season.

In the end, it was the play of 6-7 Terry Driscoll, with 29 points and 22 rebounds, and 6-0 Billy Evans, with 15 points and 13 assists, who made the difference. Louisville's Jerry King had 27 points.

Bucks Win Flip For Alcindor

NEW YORK (AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks scored a coin-tossing victory over the Phoenix Suns today and will have first crack at Lew Alcindor, the towering UCLA All-American, in next month's National Basketball Association draft.

Alcindor, the 7-foot-1½ Bruins' star, is closing out his brilliant college career this weekend in Louisville, Ky., where his team is seeking to win a record third straight NCAA championship.

The Bucks, certain last-place finishers in the NBA's Eastern Division, are virtually certain to make Alcindor their No. 1 choice in the annual draft.

Royals Stress Youth

(One of a Series.)

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Joe Gordon has been hired, fired, rehired and traded as a manager but this is his first experience as boss of a brand new expansion club. The former star second baseman is entering about his new job as boss of the Kansas City Royals.

"The owner (Ewing Kauffman) has done a great job promoting the club. They have sold over 7,500 season tickets. It may be up to 8,000 by now. He told me people it is in his will that the club never will be sold to outside interests."

During Kansas City's previous tenure in the American League the club always was owned by outsiders. First it was the late Arnold Johnson who moved the team west from Philadelphia. Then it was Charlie Finley who stirred up a storm by moving to Oakland.

Kansas City was guaranteed an expansion franchise, which

HOPKINS, MOORHEAD, HAYFIELD

Some of Best Not In Minnesota Field

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The eight-team starting field Thursday for the 57th Minnesota High School Basketball Tournament has a respectable cumulative record of 152 victories and 29 losses.

But partisans of Moorhead, Hopkins and Hayfield will be quick to contend that three of the top teams in the state will be watching the action from the sidelines: Moorhead, Hopkins and Hayfield.

Moorhead finished runnerup to Edina the past two seasons and had four starters returning from last year's team, but was upset in district play by Pelican Rapids 75-69.

The Spuds hold one-sided victories over two state tournament entrants—a 74-43 romp past Crosby-Ironton and an 85-52 decision over Bemidji.

Hopkins won the tough Lake Conference championship and ousted three-time state champion Edina 68-52 in district play, only to fall in the District 18 final to Bloomington Lincoln 54-49.

Hayfield, which gave mighty Edina its toughest battle in the state tourney last year, had three starters returning, including all-stars Bill Gross and Ron Evjen. But the 6-foot-7 Gross was troubled by knee injuries most of the season, and Evjen sprained his ankle just before the loss to Albert Lea in the district tournament.

But rangy Rochester Marshall would have to rank as a prime title threat regardless of which teams are in the 1969 meet.

The Rockets—whose starters range from 6-1 to 6-5—rely on scoring balance, and raised some eyebrows when they poured in 70 points in the second half en route to a 96-66 win over Spring Valley in regional play.

Marshall, 20-1, gets its opening test against Wells, 20-3, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Alexander Ramsey, 22-2, and Duluth Central, 19-6, open the meet at 2 p.m. The winner of that game is favored to advance to the title game against Rochester.

Duluth finished third in the past two state meets and Trojan star Richie Pearson, an all-stater a year ago, is a good bet to succeed Gross as the tourney scoring champion.

Minneapolis South, 14-5, faces Crosby-Ironton, 21-2, in the second afternoon game and Gaylord, 20-4, tackles Bemidji, 16-6, in the windup of firstround play Thursday night.

The eight teams were scheduled to work out today at Williams Arena at the University of Minnesota, where 26 of the last 27 state tournaments have been held.

The teams and coaches were feted today at a luncheon at the Radisson Hotel.

McLain Finds Going Rough in Exhibitions

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The little Indians ran circles around Jim Nash in the Arizona desert and left the Oakland pitcher with a fair idea of what Custer went through at the Little Big Horn.

The Cleveland Indians tagged Nash for 10 runs on 11 hits—seven for extra bases—in the second inning Tuesday and neld off the Athletics 10-8 in Mesa, Ariz., for their ninth consecutive exhibition baseball victory.

Nash, a 13-game winner for the A's last season and the club ERA leader at 2.28, was raked for four singles, five doubles and two home runs—by Tony Horton and Duke Sims—before Manager Hank Bauer finally lifted him with two out in the second.

Detroit's Denny McLain, the American League MVP and Cy Young Award winner, also took his lumps on the mound, yielding six runs in four innings—four of them on homers by Bill White and Richie Allen—as the Tigers bowed to the Philadelphia Phillies 6-2.

While McLain and the world champion Tigers floundered, Bob Gibson pitched three scoreless innings, helping St. Louis' National League kings defeat Baltimore 9-5 to snap the Orioles' seven-game winning streak.

Gibson, MVP and Cy Young winner in the NL last year, recorded four of the Cardinal pitchers' 14 strikeouts. Paul Blair homered twice for the Orioles.

The Washington Senators, beaten in 10 of their previous 11 spring starts, turned on Montreal for a 5-0 victory, with Joe Coleman scattering three hits over the first five innings before Dick Bosman and Dave Baldwin combined for four hitless frames.

Tom Seaver, Nolan Ryan and Tug McGraw limited Los Angeles to two singles as the New York Mets topped the Dodgers 3-0 for their second successive shutout victory.

Randy Hundley, smacked three hits, including a home run, in the Chicago Cubs' 8-5 victory over Seattle, and Denny Lemaster teamed with rookie Tom Griffin for a seven-hit win.

Wohlers Honored At Lake City

LAKE CITY, Minn. (Special) — Brent Wohlers, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wohlers who won the state Punt, Pass and Kick competition and was entered in the national contest, was honored guest at the Lake City Kiwanis Club dinner at the American Legion clubrooms last Wednesday.

Present were John Thompson, assistant general manager for the Vikings, three representatives from the Ford Motor Co. from the Twin Cities, and Robert Hoffman, local Ford representative, sponsors of the contest.

Brent was presented with a Vikings 1968 football, autographed by the coaches. Presentation was made by R. P. Harman, district sales manager of Ford.

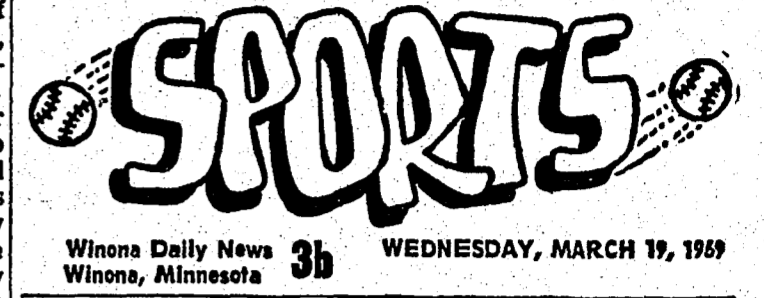

Houston's 4-0 verdict over the Chicago White Sox.

Rookies Rafael Robles and Clarence Gaston each stroked three hits, powering San Diego to a 9-3 victory over California. Robles had two singles, a double and a sacrifice fly; Gaston a single, double and tape-measure homer.

Bobby Murcer drilled a three-run pinch homer in the eighth inning, carrying the New York Yankees from behind to a 7-5 nod over Cincinnati, and Minnesota downed Atlanta 9-4 in a night game, scoring four runs in the fifth with the help of Chuck Manuel's triple and George Mitterwald's double.

The Kansas City-Pittsburgh game was washed out by rain.

Twins Romp to 6th Straight, Nettles Stars

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Two days of rain did not cool off the Minnesota Twins, who posted their sixth straight exhibition baseball victory Tuesday night.

Inactive the previous two days because of rainy weather, the Twins used a 13-hit attack to down Atlanta 9-4 and boost their spring record to 6-3.

Graig Nettles went 3-for-3, including a triple, and Harmon Killebrew had two hits for the Twins. The Twins scored six runs against Braves rookie Ron Thompkins, the starter and loser.

Winner Tom Hall became the first Twins pitcher to work five innings. He gave up a run in the fifth to stop the shutout streak of Twins pitchers at 25.

Speedy Ted Uhlaender produced a run in the second inning when he reached first on a forceout, stole second and came home on an infield hit by rookie Tom Nichols.

Rookie Chuck Manuel tripled to ignite a four-run fifth inning. He scored on Rod Carew's drag bunt single. Manuel doubled to set off a three-run sixth inning. Nettles, Ron Clark and Uhlaender followed with singles.

The Twins move to Pompano, Fla., today to meet the Washington Senators.

Ron Keller, Bob Miller and Charley Walters were named by Manager Bill Martin to pitch for Minnesota. Senators Manager Ted Williams tabbed southpaw Frank Bertina as his starter.

Washington has a 2-10 record this spring.
