Expect North to Increase Troop Infiltration

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (A) - Key U.S. officials expect North Vietnam to increase its troop infiltration into South Vietnam in the near future after almost six months of Such action could pose a threat to President Nixon's timetable for withdrawing American ground combat forces from Vietnam, and authorities here are watching developments closely now that the weather is improving along infiltration reaching Washington, the buildup already has started. But the situation is not vet clear as information on North Vietnamese troop flow along such jungle routes as the Ho Chi Minh trail linking North and South Vietnam through Laos is slow to come in.

Based on present prospects, however, some authorities believe Hanoi will not only substantially strengthen its forces in the South by early next year but will launch an offensive to put new pressures for concessions on President Nix-

If the enemy does not significantly raise infiltration and the level of combat in this period, these experts say, it could mean either Hanoi's ability to escalate the war is limited or that it was sticking to a policy of gradual de-escalation - or

Such a development would fit in with Nixon's program of U.S. de-escalation and withdrawal.

In any event, the next three to five months evidently will be a critical period for judging enemy action in the light of Nixon's policy speech Monday. He made clear then a key factor in keeping to his secret timetable for troop withdrawals is what the enemy does.

North Vietnamese infiltration into the South has been influenced by seasonal factors. Monsoon rains normally have slowed troop movement along the trails through Laos from late spring until November.

Then for about six months better weather has allowed massive reinforcements to Officials say some seasonal increase would be normal now and in coming months, but the question is how much of an effort Hanoi will make and for what purpose.

The present U.S. concept of Hanoi's war policy is that it is geared to a "long haul, low cost" strategy designed to keep pressure on the United States and South Vietnam indefinitely and in the end to outlast Washington.

Some officials believe such a strategy might include provision for a future cease-fire if Hanoi decided a truce was to its advantage. It also could allow for a negotiated settlement. but the Nixon administration's judgment about that prospect is very pessimistic.

Another option is open to the North Vietnamese, one which currently concerns policy makers here. That is to intensify the war from time to time and increase American casualties in order to stimulate domestic antiwar pressures on Nixon to modify his policy.

It was the third straight day of heavy fighting after a nineweek lull in the Vietnam war. The increase in enemy assaults are certain to send American casualties soaring upward, a factor which President Nixon said in his Vietnam war speech Monday could slow his timetable for withdrawal of U.S.

GOP Looking Toward Control

WASHINGTON (AP) - Republican strategists say GOP statehouse victories in New Jersey and Virginia have given the party a running start toward grabbing control of the Senate next year.

Further buoying Republican hopes would be President Nixon's active campaigning in the 1970 congressional elections, a likely prospect in view of the credit going his way from Tuesday's results.

Linwood Holton's victory in Virginia, the first Republican to win the statehouse there in more than 80 years, and William T. Cahill's success in New Jersey were seen as personal triumph's for Nixon since he campaigned in both states. Democrats now control the Senate, 57 votes to 43. A net gain of seven seats next yearwhen 25 Democratic terms expire-would give Republicans effective control, with the tiebreaking vote of Vice President

Spiro T. Agnew. Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton, the Republican national chairman, forecast a GOP pickup of eight or nine Senate seats, to put Republicans in charge. The end of Democratic domination in Virginia, which has a Senate seat up for contest in 1970, also raises the possibility that Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr., might switch to the Republican

Emphasis in '70 to Be on Trailblazing

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) - John D. Ehrlichman, the man who emerged from this week's White House staff shuffle as the President's chief domestic affairs adviser, says the administration's 1970 legislative program will shift from reform to trailblazing.

Ehrlichman, named Tuesday as President Nixon's assistant for domestic affairs, said in an interview the 1970 emphasis will be on "plowing new ground" in dealing with the nation's internal ills. The long-time Nixon associate also indicated the President will submit his new-ideas legislation next year even if Congress doesn't make much headway in acting on the administration's 1969 recommendations. By Nixon's terms, most 1969 proposalsturn the Post Office into a public corporation-

Goldwater Praises Agnew

HONOLULU (AP) - If Vice President Spiro T. Agnew keeps up his criticism of antiwar demonstrators "he may find himself being boomed for president before it's even his turn," Sen, Barry Goldwater said today.

In his prepared keynote address to the Western States Republican Conference, the unsuccessful 1964 GOP presidential candidate said Agnew's strong attacks on the peace movement leaders express "the sentiment of the vast, overwhelming majority of the American people."

Goldwater said the vice president was "accurate and penetrating" in calling the antiwar demonstration leaders 'impudent snobs" and should be praised, not vilified.

"The vice president's crime, it seems, was to describe an effete corps of impudent snobs as 'an effete corps of impudent snobs," Goldwater said. "When a liberal makes any kind of outlandish charge against his nation or his President, it is taken as a proper exercise in the right of free speech and a leglimate expression of political dissent," he said. "However, if a conservative or a supporter of the Nixon administration vigorously attacks an activity which is undermining an American military effort, he automatically becomes 'irresponsible' and 'intemperate' in the view of the leftist media," he added, Goldwater spoke of an Agnew for President boom in the last paragraph of a speech in which he called for Republicans to unite behind President Nixon and the Republican administration's Vietnam policy. He also had his own characterization of participants in antiwar demonstrations: "Many of them are concerned, warm-hearted but, I believe, misguided Americans who sincerely want an end to the war and bloodshed in Southeast Asia. "A few, I suspect, are very sick people. Their ailment can be described as 'delerium treason,'

The demonstrations will be held as a Veteran's Day memorial and in conjunction with former vice president Hubert Humphrey's planned visit to Winona. Humphrey will speak in Winona as part of the National Education Week program.

PLANS FOR the moratorium were outlined by Stephen Speltz, a senior English major at Saint Mary's College. Speltz told the group the purpose of the demonstrations was to pay respect to veterans and demand withdrawal of U.S. forces from Vietnam. ## Rotary Club Hears Report On Post Office

Steps that have been taken to meet the problems of the post office department and reduce its annual loss of a billion dollars, were outlined to members of the Rotary Club by Warren Olson, chief of transportation planning for the Northwest Postal Region, at the Park Plaza Hotel, Wednesday.

The post office income is $5 billion a year, $6 billion is spent he said. A total of 11/2 billion pieces of mail is handled annually. The mail distribution has been changed extensively in the past five years by the adopion of the sectional post office system and the zip code plan. In 1940, mail was carried by 10,000 railroad trains. Today less than 500 trains are used. Air service has replaced trains. All letters carrying a six-cent stamp and dispatched more than 225 miles go air Ninety-eight percent of in-state mail, through the use of 12 sectional centers, is distributed for next-day delivery. A letter mailed here before 5 p.m. reaches every post office in the state during that night. Air taxi service is use to reach remote points. The number of post offices in the United States has been reduced from 76,000 in 1918 to 32,000 in 1968.

Olson warned that Christmas mail should be sent extremely early this year because of the heavy mailing expected and the danger of a major collapse under the pressure it will create, Mike Kenney, Winona Senior High School student, was introduced as a student guest of the

Rolvaag Warns Candidates to Use Soft Sell

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) - Former Gov. Karl F. Rolvaag has a word of advice for the men seeking the DFL endorsement for governor: "Don't try to strongarm delegates."

Rolvaag sought the same endorsement in 1966 as the incumbent governor of Minnesota, but the party gave its support instead to then Lt. Gov. A.M. Keith after a bitter fight.

Rolvaag managed to win the state primary election anyway, but was defeated by Harold Le-Vander in the general election. At the 1966 DFL convention, Rolvaag accused Keith of "arm twisting" to get delegate sup-port, but now he says he doesn't hold a grudge against anyone in the party.

Although the 1970 state DFL convention is still eight months away, four prospects have already announced they are candidates for party endorsement. They are state Sens. ### Flying the flag: · a splendid idea

Russell Baker of the New York Times, who we regard as a perceptive satirist, had good fun on this page Monday in belittling those who display the United States flag.

He has his hero saying, "But suppose everybody in the neighborhood puts a flag on the car. We're right back where we started before. There's nobody left to make you feel that there's somebody less American than you are."

SINCE THE Winona Daily & Sunday News displays the flag every day and every night, a comment is appropriate.

First of all, we don't pretend to be better Americans than those who do not display the flag. However, we do believe those who display the United States flag are better Americans than those who fly the flag of North Vietnam.

The flag is a symbol, like a wedding band, or the outline of the legendary Viking on a helmet, or the handshake, or Churchill's V for victory, or the cross, or long hair on young people.

Symbols are wonderful communicators. They are quick and, although they are not altogether exact nor immune to change, they are in the main unmistakable. They have a usefulness that mass communicators cannot always appreciate. It is this: Most citizens do not have a forum where they can express their views frequently and prominently. An editorial column such as this is an example. Others who want to be heard are advised to write a letter to the editor (good idea), attend a council meeting, sign a petition or talk to their neighbors. All of these, commendable as they are for citizen action, require some effort and time.

AND THERE is the virtue of the symbol. It is effortless to fly your colors - whether they be your team or your country.

Of course, people who fly flags can't always provide an elaborate explanation of why they put the colors on top of their flagpole or on their car or on the podium of their meeting or at their altar. If they did the expressions would vary. This does not diminish its appropriateness; it only emphasizes the flag's utility to communicate a felt

We join the veterans organizations, who, among others, are encouraging citizens to show their colors on Veterans Day, Nov. 11.

THE NATIONAL commander of the American Legion, J. Milton Patrick, says that "a great public display of patriotic unity can:

"1. Reassure our fighting men in Vietnam that people back home are with them.

"2. Reassure the enemy that dissent is the position of a tiny minority.

"3. Restore the resolve of some wavering politicians who think they have heard the call of their constituents when it was really just the loud voices of a few dissidents.

"4. Reassure the President that the clear desire of the American people is for peace with honor in Vietnam for the further insurance of American

You need not necessarily subscribe to these points in flying a flag. Indeed you need not fly one to be a good American. There is nothing that you have to do to be an American; there are a number of things you can do if you love your country. Flying the flag is one of them. - A.B.

"If a presidential study group on causes and prevention of violence had its way, millions of Americans would be forced to turn over to the government as many as 21 million handguns . . . May we remind this gun study group that citizen ownership of firearms is both a right and tradition in the United States, It symbolizes independence, as well as individual responsibility - inseparable elements of freedom under a representative form of government. ## The editors view Nixon's address

MANKATO (MINN.) FREE PRESS - If we are to wait the time when South Vietnam can defend itself, much less determine its own future — enabling us to furl out flag with a sense of honor and a feeling that it all had not been in vain - it will provide the supreme test of patience and fortitude to Nixon's ever-dwindling silent majority.

It just might never happen.

MINNEAPOLIS STAR - Such critics as Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., see the speech as following the same old Lyndon Johnson line. yet Mr. Nixon quite clearly delineated the difference between his and his predecessor's policy. Now the Americanization of the war is being reversed as rapidly as the South Vietnamese can take over. Sixty thousand U.S. soldiers and 20 percent of the combat troops withdrawn by Dec. 15 represents a rather impressive shift. Surely the "silent majority" to which Mr. Nixon appealed must have been impressed by his sincerity and his responsibility in trying to find a just peace. The hope now is that the President's unrevealed timetable for America's pullout won't be delayed, that in fact it can be speeded up by South Vietnamese cooperation.

Mr. Nixon was saying as forcefully as he knew how was that there was just no way for the President of the United States, in the solemn discharge of his sworn duties, to get out of Vietnam any faster than he is doing it. To be precipitate would invite the massacre of South Vietnamese and undermine faith in the United States throughout the world.

LA CROSSE (WIS.) TRIBUNE -Mr. Nixon made one point clear that the get-out-now school has conveniently ignored: The effect on America and the free world if we accept defeat and let the Reds take

The recriminations and the scars on the American spirit he referred to would be bad enough. Equally serious would be the realization that the leader of the free world had accepted defeat and abandoned an ally not for lack of power but for a failure of will.

CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER -No one who listened to Mr. Nixon's speech could fail to realize his intent to withdraw American combat troops from Vietnam. The arguments will concern the length of time he takes to do it. Now the President should make every effort to adhere to his private timetable. It is true that it should be flexible. But the United States' goal should be to Vietnamize the war as quickly as possible so that not a single American ground combat soldier is left in Vietnam.

'He's getting clever—this is about as hard to read as we are!'

ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS -Perhaps the major flaw in President Richard Nixon's speech about Vietnam policy was the ballyhoo it the hope that Nixon has not said all that he intends to say, and that there is more to come in the near

ident Nixon disappointed the nation's hope for a reordering of American priorities with a "plan for peace" that appears rather to be a formula for continued war . . . he proposed no new American initiative . . . preferring instead to reiterate the American position in terms reminiscent of those used by President was given before hand. One tended to expect too much after three weeks of pre-speech publicity. The threeweek buildup of the speech as a major statement had led many Americans to speculate that some new troop withdrawals or de-escalation measure would be announced. As a result, the listener was left with Johnson and Secretary (Dean) Rusk.

The President in effect committed this nation to defend the present government of South Vietnam until it can defend itself. This is at best a remote prospect judging by the record of the past 15 years.

WISCONSIN STATE JOURNAL, MADISON — Some people simply cannot face the fact that President Nixon, who has wound down American involvement ever since taking office, has heard them and has said 'No' and explained that he has a plan for peace. Those who are impatient with the chief executive are not small children either. Nor were they elected to bear the burden of American leadership. The right to be heard and to argue policy is not a right to impose a position on a duly elected government.

ROCHESTER (MINN.) POST-BUL-LETIN - We do not have much sympathy for the anti-war demonstrators who demand complete withdrawal - now! We hope that "the great silent majority of Americans" will indeed support his policy to end the war. Realistically, there can be no other way. But we are disappointed. We think the President made a major blunder in pre-announcing his speech three weeks in advance, and then offering nothing new. The American people reasonably expected more than that. They didn't get it. Thus it seems to us that the President has not only played into the hands of the shrill anti-war mobs, but has disappointed the "silent majority" as well. As things stand today, it appears that the President's very difficult burdens in ending the war with honor will be heavier than

THE MINNEAPOLIS TRIBUNE -In appealing to the American people for their trust as he seeks a way out of Vietnam, President Nixon did little to dispel the doubts so many Americans have about the war. What Mr. Nixon did not do, however, was to level with the people on how long Vietnam would continue after combat troops return home. What Mr. Nixon also did not do was to explain why the South Vietnamese, after 15 years of American assistance and nearly 40,000 American battle deaths, still seem so far away from taking on the burden of the war that American troops can't be brought home more rapidly now."

CHICAGO TRIBUNE - The President had said that one question and only one - the right of the people of South Vietnam to choose their own government, without outside imposition - is not negotiable. Given these commitments, his only option was to say what he said Monday night. This is what the war is all about. If the communists take over South Vietnam, they win; if they don't, we win. Yet the President is under great pressure to install a coalition regime including communists in Saigon. Mr. Nixon's speech was a solemn and persuasive appeal to the reasoned judgment of patriotic Americans, the "great silent majority." rather than the announcement of a new program. In the circumstances it was a courageous performance. If his plan succeeds, he said, what the critics say now will not matter; if it fails, anything he says then will not matter.

WALL STREET JOURNAL - The record on the President's policy of Vietnamization is hopeful if incomplete. The policy took embryo shape only a year ago with the first reforms of Clark Clifford. Its details have been worked out only in the present administration. In this brief span, the trend of escalation has been reversed, American troop levels in Vietnam have been reduced. and American deaths have dropped sharply. Despite the scoffing, in short, the President's plan for ending the American part of the war seems not only reasonable but prom-

We must win war

It was said of Mr. Nixon's speech moments after he had delivered it that it contained nothing new.

What the critics meant was that the speech did not have in it a surprise of the kind they'd have welcomed. Mr. Nixon did not announce that American troops would be withdrawn within 12 months no matter the consequences. He did not announce a cease fire followed by a pray-in that the enemy would itself cease firing. He did not announce that he would no longer support or consult with the government of President Thieu.

NOR DID HE have any surprises of the kind that others among his critics might have been grateful for. He did say that he recognizes that the Soviet Union has been provisioning the enemy for years, and did say that he had had a number of secret conferences with representatives of the Soviet Union. He did not take the occasion to say that he was finally prepared to take steps to prevent the flow of materiel from the Soviet Union from reaching the enemy. He did not announce that he would resume the bombing of North Vietnam in order to intensify the pressure there. He did not announce that an expeditionary force would enter North Vietnam, or close down the Ho Chi Minh trail; or that a naval blockade would close down the harbor at Haiphong.

No: The President stuck by his course. It is a course based, he insists, on a plan, the exact specifications of which he cannot divulge without risking the plan's success,

The plan calls as we all have known for many months, for the "Vietnamization" of the war. In due course, he will be able to pull back all American combat troops. When? He will not say. Because, he says, to divulge the timetable would encourage the enemy to hold out until that day. Here was a flaw in presidential logic. Presumably, if we define Vietnamization as the transfer of military responsibility to the South Vietnamese, then it makes no difference that the enemy should know by when that transfer will be accomplished, because, if we succeed, the enemy would not know the difference. That the shot fired at the ,Viet Cong infantryman was trigger-(ed by a South Vietnamese rather than by an American soldier will not affect its lethalness. If the Presidential timetable is orderly, the enemy will feel an altogether consistent pressure, whether exerted by American soldiers as at present, or by Vietnamese soldiers in the future.

PERHAPS THE president was intentionally vague. It could be that the schedule of Vietnamization presumes a constant pressure from the enemy which, should it intensify, would require the commitment of additional American firepower, whethfillam F. Buckley er on the ground or in the air. That threat was made explicit when Mr.

Nixon warned the enemy that should American casualties mount, or the rate of infiltration rise, so also would the intensity of American resistance Was the speech successful? Did it indeed speak for the silent majority whom Mr. Nixon directly and by name addressed?

It is a tactic of Mr. Nixon's critics to allege now that that majority, whose existence was never doubted through the turbulent political campaigns of 1968, no longer exists. It is worn down, they say, by attrition. They cite Mr. Hubert Humphrey who, the scales having fallen from his eyes since he left public office, now reveals that he had no idea of the extent to which the American people are "sick" of the Vietnam war. Thus the critics insist that Mr. Nixon does not recognize that he is forlorn in his adamant determination on Vietnam.

That is an important contention, though by no means a conclusive one. Mr. Nixon was not elected as commander-in-chief for the duration of the people's pleasure, but for a term of four years, and our republic was not constructed to accommodate spastic changes in the public mood. Still, it is a great question of enormous importance whether the American people are willing to consummate our great endeavor in Southeast Asia, Mr. Nixon, having reflected deeply on the matter, having consulted the men around him whose lives are devoted to the acquisition of such skills as are designed to keep America a free and independent nation, recapitulates essentially the same analysis as moved Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson: We must win this little war, in order to minimize the chances of engaging in a much greater war.

THE PRESIDENT has asked for public support from a silent majority which need not stay silent. As one American, I shall wire him today my support, and hope earnestly that you too will be moved to do so.

Is Nixon listening to people

NEW YORK - When President Nixon stepped before the television cameras for his address to the nation on Vietnam, he undoubtedly had had the benefit of information, expertise, advice and, perhaps, even wisdom from every corner of the government, from members of Congress, from allied governments, and from any private sources he chose to tap. With all that, did he have a sure sense of American public opinion on this vexed question?

Aside from the truism that there can rarely be a single, shared sentiment on any issue, it may well be doubted that he did; in fact, even so shrewd a politician as Nixon, once in the White House, may be in worse position to judge public sentiment than most of his fellow citizens. And the worst of it is that he may never realize it.

THIS WAS suggested by Hubert H. Humphrey in some striking comments to reporters on Oct. 15, the day of the moratorium. As recounted in the Times, "Mr. Humphrey said he had found the country 'sick to the teeth' over the war. He said he had never been able to sense this feeling while he was vice president but that 'Now I'm out and among the people, I can feel it as I never did be-

Granted that Humphrey did not make the policy of the Johnson administration, he still was, of all its high officials, perhaps, the most traveled and the most exposed to public sentiment on Vietnam and other issues. His remarks amount, therefore, to a distressing, if honest, admission that when he was in high office, with at least some ability to influence policy, he knew less about American opinion than he now does as one of the leaders of the opposi-

(One of Johnson's ranking staff assistants made the same point in a recent private conversation; he had not fully realized until out of the White House, he said, how unpopular the Johnson administration had been among young people, particularly students.)

It is, no doubt, true, in Humphrey's defense, that opposition to the war has become far more widespread and noticeable in the nine months he has been out of office. Moreover, any high official in a demanding office, to a certain irreducible extent, is bound to be separated from the mass of the people; it is manifestly impossible for him to live, perceive and experience quite as they do.

Understanding homosexuality

An editorial in Washington Star

It took the National Institute of Mental Health's task force on homosexuality two years to produce a report, but finally, last week, it issued a set of recommendations to July the United States eatch up with other civilized nations in understanding this complex problem: That discreet homosexuality between consenting adults be considered "the private business of the individual rather than a subject for public regulation through statute"; that current restrictive job policies regarding homosexuals be reviewed and revised; that when homosexual behavior does require sanctions, "preference be given to rehabilitation rather than imprisonment," and that the study of homosexuality be included in future general studies of Changing laws alone cannot relieve all the disadvantages now suffered by homosexuals or solve what the task force called "a major problem for our society." But it would be a start, as it has been in Britain. Then rational and mature people on all levels may be willing to break the traditional taboos against discussing homosexuality. And that might even result in development of more tolerant and progressive social poliidency, accompanied by an expanded presidential establishment, the gap between popular sentiment and executive policy has become unacceptably wide. Humphrey went on to explain that, while vice president, most of his daily associations had been necessarily with presidential advisers, State Department and Pentagon officials, members of the National Security Council, the CIA, and the like; and this, of course, is even more true of a President — particularly one whose staff structure may limit the amount or shape the kind of information that comes to him. And it is both a brave staff and a determined President who do not permit bad news to be shunted away from the great man and good news to be exaggerated to him. In late 1967, for instance, Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall was desperately, but to no avail, trying to in-

The mystique of the presidency, the extraordinary primacy that both the Constitution and current practice confer on its occupant, tend, unfortunately, toward the spurious air of infallibility that hangs over the White House. "I am the only President you have," Johnson used to say — from which numerical fact it is an easy jump to the motion that a presidential policy is the only one there can be. To fail to support that policy is to fail to support the only President one has, which is close to letting down the country.

BUT IF IT IS true that no President can or should set his policy solely by what he can divine of public opinion (which, apparently, is what Nixon meant when he seemed to be saying he would pay no attention to the moratorium demonstrations), it is equally true that no President can make policy successfully in ignorance or disregard of public opinion. Even when he believes he must go counter to popular feeling, how he is to do so, how to make his actions more palatable and his policies more

Centralization Danger To Business, Consumer

At present, when the country is in the throes of an inflationary crisis, mergers and the centralization of industries and railroads are taking form on an unprecedented scale. Some industries as our former Swift & Co. are centralizing their smaller plants by relocating them to one city so as to operate at less expense. Recently the Chrysler plant laid off 40,000 men the reason because of dwindling profits. Eventually in the auto manufacturing field only one will remain either Ford or General Motors. What is to be the greatest railroad merger in history awaits a decision by the U.S. Supreme Court. It involves the joining of the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and the Spokane, Portland and Seattle railroads operating on 26,500 miles of tracks in 17 states and two Canadian provinces.

Even Thomas Jefferson the president of the United States foresaw from his day when he warned that this vast centralization process whereby a few will own control and have much, and the many will own less.

Right here in Winona a short time ago our economy was affected when the local brewing company, in operation for over a hundred years, became a victim of monopolies. Their capacity, output and capital did not warrant advertising costs on the same level as other competitive breweries. Failure to patronize the home product (Bub's Beer) locally also affected the permanent shutdown.

Naturally the consumer is influenced by the psychological appeal of any product created by TV, radio, and bill-board advertising. The unwary public wants class by purchasing a popular brand, however, they forget that in part they not only pay for the advertising but as Consumers Guide monthly at one time reported, "It's the name the consumer pays for" says that publication. It even elaborated the fact that certain products on the market, although in-ferior in quality and priced higher, out-sell items with high ratings in construction, durability and which are available at a lower retail price.

LWV ANNIVERSARY . . . The Winona League of Women Voters is conducting its annual fund drive this week in connection with the 50th Anniversary of the League of Women Voters of the U.S. Funds are used to help carry out the purpose of the league which is to promote political responsibility through informed and active participation of citizens in government. Viewing a historic display by the league in St. Clair's Store window are from left, Mrs. Walter Steiner, Mrs. Miller Friesen and Mrs. Karl Lipsohn. Two thirds of the funds raised from the local drive remain in Winona for service to the community. Past funds have been used for voters' service such as school board candidates' meetings, municipal elections' information, voters' registration and other citizen education projects. For the past year and a half the Winona League has been working on the first county survey ever done in Winona County. The survey is expected to be completed early in 1970. (Daily

Overall suggestions given indicate women applying for any iob should first pay attention to their physical appearance. Well-dressed and pleasingly groomed applicants are more apt to impress their prospective employers, indicated several of the panel speakers.

Women re-entering the work world were encouraged to brush up on their particular skills. With over half of the women with high school diplomas working in the clerical field, typing and shorthand are extremely important, according to Mrs. Deeren. Re-vamping these skills with daily practice or refresher courses would be most helpful.

Daughter's Modeling Job Upsets Parents

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Nancy, our 20-year-old daughter, lives at home and we trust her. She works as a salesgirl, Nancy recently brought home a 28-year-old man and introduced him as a commercial artist and photographer.

Last weekend Nancy told us that he was to pick her up at 4 a.m. as he wanted an early start to take pictures of her in the sunrise at a mountain site 70 miles away. They returned at 6 p.m. The young photographer spoke about three words to us and left hastily. Nancy told us that during the day she learned that the man was married with two children. I told her we all should have been told this at the start. When I phoned his residence, his wife answered, and to my surprise she knew all about the photography trip her husband had taken with our daughter, and was surprised that we were worried just because he was married. Later the young man phoned, obviously upset, and said he'd gone on many such professional trips with young ladies and this is the first time his motives were questioned.

I told him that our unmarried daughter had her reputa-tion to think of, and also that I knew many commercial artists and photographers and never heard of any who operated in that manner. He indignantly said he would never ask our daughter to pose for him again, and that we were ask our daughter to pose for him again, and that we were way off base. Nancy agreed with him, We leave it to you.

Abby Were WE "off base"?

OLD HATS Abby. Were WE "off base"?

DEAR OLD HATS: Probably. You could have at least waited to see the photographic results of this "trip" before assuming that there was hanky-panky involved. Also, for you to have called his wife shows an appalling lack of confidence in a daughter you "trust."

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a very conservative (moneywise) woman, for which I am grateful, but I think she overdoes it. She keeps records, and now she tells me that in the last 10 years we have sent wedding gifts to 37 couples, and we spent an average of $22.10 on each gift. She says that of these 37 couples to whom we sent wedding gifts, only 18 are still married to each other.

She says that from now on she is through buying wedding gifts. Instead, she'll send a lovely card of "congratulations," and if their marriage lasts a year she will send an ANNI-VERSARY present! What do you think of this?

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Suggest that she wait five years, and send them a sliver from her head! (It's the "wooden" anniversary).

DEAR ABBY: In nearly nine years of marriage, my husband has rarely told me he loves me. Yet I know he does. How do I know? Let me count the ways:

He appreciates my efforts as a wife, mother and homemaker. Although he doesn't tell me in so many words himself, he brags me up to others. He never corrects me in public. He doesn't drink or gamble or make me jealous by being too attentive to other women in my presence. When he's wrong he says, "I'm sorry." When I'm wrong, he doesn't remind me of it over and over again. He never says MY house or MY children—always "OURS."

I could go on and one. So what if he finds it difficult to put into words what he feels? There are many men to whom words come easily, but they are only "words."

My man has trouble articulating what he feels, but he expresses his feelings more eloquently by what he does.

If women would stop nagging their husbands by asking. "Do you love me?" and pay attention to how their men TREAT them, they wouldn't have to ask. They would KNOW.

Sincerely, "LOVED" IN LOUISVILLE

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FROM RAGS TO RICHES" IN L. A.: Do your givin' while you're livin'. Then you'll be knowin' where it's goin'.

The kick-off organizational meeting of the $9.5 million advancement campaign for Saint Mary's College was held last night in the new College Center. The purpose of the meeting, headed by Brother George Pahl, FSC, president, was to outline plans for the fund raising program.

Raising Drive

He noted that the advancement fund will be used to cancel the debt on the new College Center, to begin construction on a new dormitory and health center, as well as increase endowment for student scholarships and faculty salaries. The first phase of the program, totaling $2.5 million, is hoped to be realized by June, 1970.

The three hour session was attended by Brother J. Leo Northam, secretary of the Board of Trustees; Brother Albert Hanzel, FSC, special assistant to the president; Brothdirector from Community Counseling Services; John Crabbe, executive supervisor of Comily Counseling Services; Thomas J. Ruddy, director of alumni affairs; and Brother Justus Morneau, FSC, vice president for financial affairs.

At least we know that most managements recommending the Dale Carnegie Course offer it to the men and women they feel will be most likely to progress . . . the ones in whom they see personal potential that needs nothing more than a little additional training to bring out.

The point is, if you're asked to take the course, don't fight it

Come to a sample class and see for yourself how the Dale Carnegie Course develops the ability to communicate more effectively and work more productively with other people. See how it helps men and women build poise and confidence. Then you'll know why over 500 major companies have sent thousands of their best people through the Dale Carnegie Course . . . and why such a large number of these have earned promotions.

Snowmobile Registration Necessary

ST. PAUL (AP) - Application forms for snowmobiles registration are available from county auditors, sheriffs, marinas and snowmobiles dealers, the Minnesota Conservation Department said today.

The department said persons owning snowmobiles which have not been registered in the past must obtain permits before using the machines this winter.

Owners of new machines are given a 14-day grace period, provided they carry an affidavit of purchase supplied by the dealer.

Under a new law ,all snowmobiles must be registered before this season. Registration costs $8 for three years. The application forms must be filled out with the name and address of the owner, the make, model, serial number and horsepower of the machine. Owners will be sent a small decal, similar to the one used for boat licenses. Owners then paint an assigned license number on their machines, or affix the numerals with decals they purchase themselves.

The license number must be posted on the cowling of the machine, forward of the handle bars, on each side. Numerals must be three inches high.

Once registered, the ownership of a machine can be transferred in a procedure similar to the sale of a car. Abandoned, stolen or destroyed snowmobiles are to be reported within 15 days, according to new state regulations.

Last year, licenses were required for snowmobiles used on any public lands. The 1969 law requires registration for all machines, even if used on private lands.

Indian Students List Grievances

BLACK RIVER FALLS, Wis. (Special) — A panel of Indian students at Black River Falls listed seven grievances at the monthly meeting of the Falls and Mission Council Monday night in what was described as a landmark confrontation of white and Indian intercultural relations in this

THE GRIEVANCES WERE:

• Teacher injustice in cases of Indian-white student

• Ignorance of teachers about Indian culture. • Attitudes of social superiority on the part of white

• Use of different lunch tickets for students living on mission grounds,

• Too little Indian history taught. • Lack of accurate and recent books on Indian history in the school library. • Need for an Indian teacher or an instructor qualified to teach Indian history.

Answers to the complaints were made chiefly by M. C. Schmallenberg, superintendent of Black River Falls High School. He told them he recognized their sincerity, explaining that he didn't know all the answers. He told them why some of their problems had no immediate solution, but that much could be done now that their problems had been aired. He urged the Indians to talk to their teachers and counselors as problems and questions arise.

Wabasha Bean Crop Nearly In

WABASHA, Minn. - Bean harvesting in Wabasha County is almost complete, according to Matt Metz, county agricultural agent, with reports of average to above average crops. Corn harvesting is just beginning. Those having early varieties are able to harvest with moisture at 25 percent. The moisture is still up to 30 and 35 percent with little drop occurring over the past two weeks.

Farmers storing ear corn in open cribs over 51/2 feet in width should get corn moisture at about 18 to 20 percent, says Metz, unless it is going to be fed this winter. In cribs less than 51/2 feet, stored corn moisture can be 30 percent, especially if the crib is out in the open where When a recipe calls for four cups of cooked macaroni, you're wind can get at it. ## Mondale Asks Commission on School Finance

WASHINGTON (AP) Establishment of a National Advisory Commission on School Finance was proposed Wednes-day by Sen. Walter F. Mondale,

He said the commission would recommend steps to alleviate financial crises faced by the nation's school districts.

The education system is inadequately funded to maintain its present level of efficiency and relevance, he said.

Mondale's proposal would be an amendment to a bill to extend the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965.

He said his proposed commission would study alternative approaches to school financing. The 15 commission members BONOW BLASTS 725 . . . Bill Bonow, bowling in the Retail league at Hal-Rod Lanes, laced 253-260-212-725 Wednesday night to take over second place in the series division for this season's top ten. Bonow resides at 323 East Wabasha and attends Winona Area Technical School. He bowls in four leagues besides the Retail.

Saints Dominate All-Conference

St. Charles, 1969 Hiawatha Valley champions, landed five snots on the All-Conference football team, as did third place Kenyon. The Saints literally dominated the choice offensive backfield, filling three of the four spots available.

Jim Glover and Dick Mathison, both St. Charles representatives, were designated All-Conference offensive halfbacks and Loren Hewitt, also from St. Charles, was judged the Hiawatha Valley's best fullback. The quarterback position went to Kenyon's Jim Sviggum.

The All-Conference line puts Wendell Ring, Kenyon, and Jay Lampland of Kasson-Mantorville at ends; Kenyon's Tom Arndt and Dennis Ohlrogge of Zumbrota in the tackle slots; Brad Nord, Zumbrota, and Mel Binder from Plainview in the guard positions; with Mark O'Gorman of Cannon Falls

Defensively, Mathison and Carroll Korb, both of St. Charles, were selected for the deep secondary along with Lake City's Terry Keiffer. The linebackers are Dale Quam of Kenyon, Dave Keller, Kasson-Mantorville, and Cannon Falls' O'Gorman.

Ring of Kenyon and Steve Busch, Lake City, were the defensive end choices; Bob Nappin of Cannon Falls and Lake City's Bob Plank are All-Conference selections at tackles; and the middle guard spot went to Ohlrogge, Zumbrota.

Halfback Glover compiled 1,135 yards of total offense over the season, 113 passing, 111 receiving, and 911 rushing. Glover carried the ball 114 times on the ground, giving him 8.0 yards per carry.

Mathison totaled 701 yards in 98 attempts on the ground for a 7.1 average. He also caught eight passes for a total of 153 yards. Mathison received All-Conference recognition on offense and defense.

Hewitt ran with the football 90 times for 432 yards, averaging 4.8 yards per attempt. He was also one of the team's leading tacklers on defense.

Winona State Athletes Discuss Budget

By HOWARD LESTRUD Daily News Sports Editor

The athletic letterwinner at Winona State College brought his questions to the college administration, fellow coaches and to the public Wednesday night at a special meeting of the W

Those questions were in regard to an alleged inadequacy of the college athletic budget and the elementary statistics and a challenge were issued.

It was generally agreed by administration officials and athletes that many alternatives exist in improving the athlete's scope.

Dr. Frank Markus, dean of education and one of the last speakers on the program told the club members: "The real problem is that competition for the dollar is getting keener and you ask yourself what can I do?" He then mentioned some suggestions which included fund raising, for example a dance; becoming active in student affairs and knowing who the area legislators are. "The obvious alternatives are to let things go as they are or drop athletics," Markus pointed out. He then added, "You as a group have to decide if you are willing to do the work required and if no one wants to be on the student senate, you won't get what you want." Other administrative officials attending the meeting were Jacque Reidelberger, secretary of the student activity committee; Jerry Varner, business manager of the college; Dwight Marston, Winona State athletic director, and Dr. Luther McCown, division chairman of physical education.

Also attending the meeting were Tom Gorman, president of the student senate and coaches Moon Molinari, Bob Kiester, Myron Smith, Ron Ekker, Fran McCann and Gary Grob.

McCann served as moderator at the meeting and introduced the discussion saying, "We want to upgrade the athletic program of Winona State and want to upgrade the image of the athlete at Winona State." He named one concern of the estimated 75 W Club members in attendance. That concern revolved around the balance of the athletic

"Cross country has no budget and the runners have to buy their own equipment; we don't feel this is right," McCann emphasized. He then explained that the purpose of the meeting was to discover "what the budget is and where it goes."

TOM GORMAN Student President

Reidelberger was the first administrative official to speak. He quoted student activity budget figures from 1965 to the current date. His statistical figures illustrated that the increase in student enrollment increased the amount in dollars and cents but decreased the percentage in regards to the athletic share in the activity budget.

In 1964-65 the athletic budget was 36.9 percent or $19,000 of $54,000. In 1969 the percentage had dropped to 28.6 percent or $32,500 of $100,960.

"It's unrealistic to use 30 percent or more for one activity," said Reidelberger. Gorman, student senate president, then mentioned that an athlete should make his voice loud in finance affairs. "I am on the board and am pro athletics but my suggestion is for you athletes to get on these commit-tees and help yourself."

Gorman's point was re-emphasized by Markus and assistant football and head track coach Bob Kiester later in the meeting. "We have to sell people on our programs and if you don't put somebody in the student senate, your points will not be heard. Wake up now and not later."

The image of the athlete was discussed in the light of the student when Mc-Cann asked Gorman: "What is the general reaction of the student body to the athlete?"
Gorman replied "not too good," explaining that "The biggest reason is the athlete himself."

Gorman chose his own words to describe arrogance in some athletes and also said that some athletes have also been seen with stolen goods, "We must act more professional, irregardless of whether certain people will follow you no matter what."

The student senate president was then asked what developments he foresaw if athletics were discontinued. "About 30 percent would be wild with rage and the other 70 percent would be apathetic." McCann issued a challenge: "Let's change that image." Smith, assistant football coach, pointed out that that the image was created by a "handful of men not 200."

The idea of activating a boosters club was mentioned by Gorman and also by Don Hopkins of KAGE Radio. He told of a junior college at Dodge City, Kan., which was supported mainly by athletic scholarships raised by a quarterback club. "Somewhere along the line we don't have the backing of the community," he

Gorman and others speaking Wednesday pointed out that the Winona State Cagers Club, currently in its second year, has taken a step in the right direction. Dr. McCown said that "things have gone downhill because budget-wise, the figure goes up, but look at the cost of living." He also said that hope for legislation to correct the matter was low. "Let's get busy and get on the finance board," he said.

Final speaker at the meeting was American Legion baseball official Maurice Godsey who said he was attending as an interested citizen.

"I've always contended that an athletic program in school determines the conduct of a student because show us a school with a good athletic program and I will show you an institution we can be proud of." He concluded, "We in Winona are behind you, therefore go out and sell yourselves and we will help you."
