FREED IN TURKEY . . . Two American airmen relax Monday after being released by leftist kidnapers in Ankara, Turkey. S. Sgt. Jimmie J. Four airmen freed

Turkish police 'near' kidnapers

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Turkish police said today they are closing in on the leftist kidnapers of four U.S. airmen who were freed Monday night after five days in captivity.

No ransom was paid to the terrorists of the so-called Turkish People's Liberation Army despite their threat to shoot the Americans if $400,000 was not handed over by last Saturday morning. Both the U.S. and Turkish governments refused to bargain.

Interior Minister Haldun Montesoglu said a police dragnet was "on the kidnapers' trail." Hundreds of uniformed and plainclothes police were seen combing a high-rent residential district near the capital's Embassy Row.

Turkish officials said the kidnapers telephoned acquaintances several times Monday trying to get the captives off their hands. Late in the evening they suddenly gathered up their belongings and left the Americans in the apartment where they had been held.

After waiting a bit "to make sure they were not out there," S.Sgt. Jimmy J. Sexton of San Angelo, Tex., said the four airmen walked out and caught a taxi to their billet.

They were questioned immediately by American officials and Turkish police. Held captive with Sexton were Airman 1/C Richard Caraszi of Stamford, Conn., Larry J. Heaven of Denver, Colo., and James M. Gholson of Alexandria, Va.

The airmen, looking well and composed, said they were treated well by the kidnapers. But "when you are looking down the barrel of a machine gun, anyone would be scared," Caraszi said.

Move to quiet revolt in East Pakistan

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP) — President Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan is flying to East Pakistan in an attempt to quiet a revolt by political leaders that threatens the country with civil war.

Announcing the president's plans, Radio Pakistan gave no date for the visit to the angry province 1,000 miles across India from West Pakistan and the capital at Rawalpindi.

East Pakistan's judges refused Monday to swear in an army general who Yahya Khan had appointed provincial governor, and a highly placed source said the government had ceased to function.

The source, a civil servant in the central government, said East Pakistan's highest ranking permanent officials—the government secretaries—have agreed to stay away from their offices unless the army forces them to return.

Sheik Mujibur Rahman of the Awami League, was reported forming a government of his own, assigning governmental responsibilities to various members of his own staff. The sheik spoke by telephone Monday with Brig. Gulam Zilani Khan, in charge of martial law affairs, but there was no indication what was said.

Yahya Khan proclaimed martial law in East Pakistan last week after protests against his postponement of the new National Assembly turned violent and scores were killed. On Saturday, Yahya Khan rescheduled the assembly for March 25 and named Lt. Gen. Tikka Khan governor and martial law administrator for the 70 million Bengalis of East Pakistan.

By S. Viet thrust into Laos

Red effort set back five months

By GEORGE ESPER

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese thrust into Laos has already set Hanoi's war in Vietnam and Cambodia back five months, according to the latest official assessment of the U.S. Command. And by the time the campaign is over, the command thinks, it could buy more than a year's time for the Vietnamization program.

"Each day the South Vietnamese stall the North Vietnamese in Laos, they gain five days time in South Vietnam," a high-ranking U.S. military official said today.

"Every day they remain in Laos, it is advantageous to the Vietnamization process. It gives the Vietnamese time to build up their training.

Time is on the side of the Vietnamese."

Sporadic fighting continued in the month-old drive across the Ho Chi Minh trail, Saigon's forces are now stretched along 26 miles of east-west Highway 9 from the Vietnamese border to the hills around the transshipment point of Sepone and for nearly 26 miles southeast of Sepone to Muong Nong.

The U.S. Command reckons that a day's full load of war materials and other supplies moved down the Ho Chi Minh trail enables North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops in the field to operate for 10 days.

"By knocking off half that load," said the U.S. official, "the North Vietnamese troops south of Highway 9 are only getting half a load of five days' supplies."

The South Vietnamese have been in Laos 30 days. By the U.S. Command's reckoning, therefore, Hanoi has been set back 150 days, or five months. From all indications, the South Vietnamese plan to stay in Laos until about May 1, or for 53 days more. This would mean another nine months gained for Vietnamization, according to the command's assessment.

"This means more time to do a job of training the Vietnamese," said the source. "The Laotian drive will give the Vietnamese forces a better idea of how they can handle things. It will give them more experience, more confidence, make them more battle hardened so they can better handle the job."

One American killed in Red ambush

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
SAIGON (AP) — War action in South Vietnam focused on the northern front where North Vietnamese troops ambushed a U.S. truck convoy on Highway 9 seven miles west of Cam Lo and 23 miles from the Laotian border.

One American was killed and 21 were wounded. Two trucks were knocked out of service, the U.S. Command said. Enemy casualties were not known.

Although no ground advance in Laos was announced, the allied commands reported more massive destruction of North Vietnamese stockpiles and truck convoys in the area of Sepone, and South Vietnamese headquarters said nine important branches of the Ho Chi Minh trail supply network had been cut.

The South Vietnamese said their troops on Sunday observed 500 secondary explosions set off by U.S. B52 strikes about a mile northeast of Sepone.

"Later," the communique said, "the South Vietnamese unit searched the strike area and found the bodies of 25 enemy, and reported about 500 tons of enemy munitions were destroyed."

The command announced the loss of another helicopter to enemy ground fire in Laos and said three Americans were wounded. This raised to 59 the number of U.S. helicopters acknowledged lost in the Laotian campaign, with 50 Americans killed, 16 missing and 53 wounded.

State Senate OK's war bill

Laird plans to level off U.S. strength

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird today printed a "strategy of realistic deterrence" to war by marshaling total free-world military power and promoting vigorous negotiations from strength.

Laird's annual defense report to Congress was a heavy on philosophy and light on major new programs.

The Pentagon chief proposed leveling off U.S. armed forces at 2.5 million men — about 1 million below the Vietnam war peak — and holding down defense spending.

Laird said some risk is attached to the Nixon administration's $76-billion defense budget for fiscal 1972 "for it continues the downward trend in over-all Defense Department purchasing power at a time when the threats we face around the world continue to increase, not diminish."

Laird presented the new report as the first comprehensive five-year defense program of the Nixon administration, although the specifics dealt chiefly with the budget year ahead.

The new strategy, Laird said, rejects the view that peace is well served if our military power is unilaterally weakened.

As Laird explained it, the new strategy encompasses the total forces of the United States and its allies, including their reserves, and is aimed at preventing any war, from strategic nuclear through localized warfare.

The Kennedy and Johnson administrations, he charged, failed because they concentrated on lowering the probability of nuclear war but did not deter war in Indochina.

In the field of strategic nuclear weapons, Laird said: "We are pursuing moderate programs, preserving our flexibility with regard to both SALT strategic arms limitation talks and keeping our options open for the future."

Laird stuck to the basic administration position that the Soviet and Chinese threats call for full Safeguard antimissile deployment eventually. But he disclosed Nixon's decision to throttle down to a minimum advance in the program until it can be determined whether there is a chance for a U.S.-Soviet agreement on offensive and defensive limitations.

Medina ordered to stand trial on murder charges

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP) — Capt. Ernest Medina, commander of the company which waged the My Lai assault in 1968, has been ordered to stand trial on charges of murdering 102 Vietnamese civilians. "I am innocent of the charges against me," he says.

A platoon leader during the attack was Lt. William L. Calley Jr., who is on trial at Ft. Benning, Ga., and also is accused of slaying 102 Vietnamese civilians.

Calley has testified that he killed on Medina's orders. Medina denies it.

Three specifications of premeditated murder against Medina were cited in the announcement Monday that he would be court-martialed.

The Army charges that he killed not less than 100 Vietnamese persons "with machine guns, rifles and other weapons" and that he fatally shot two other persons — a male and a female.

An Army spokesman said the figure of 100 takes in the village inhabitants whose deaths were caused by members of Company C, which Medina commanded.

The other two alleged slayings, according to the Army, are not included in the victims Calley is charged with murdering.

Medina, 34, of Montrose, Colo., could face the death penalty, the Army said.

No trial date has been set.

The stocky, dark-haired Medina, who is the father of three children, also faces charges of assault with a dangerous weapon.

The accusation contends that on March 17 at My Khe, he shot two persons during interrogation of "suspected enemy personnel."

Calley has testified that he directed a mass execution of unresisting Vietnamese men, women and children at an irrigation ditch east of My Lai and that Medina ordered him to do so.

Medina has been ordered to appear as a witness at the Calley trial on Wednesday.

However, one of his attorneys says Medina can invoke the 5th Amendment and not testify since he has not been ordered court-martialed.

CAPT. ERNEST MEDINA Will stand trial

Protesters out to put war issue on ballots

By ANN BLACKMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — A band of antiwar protesters is busily pushing a campaign to get a "People's Peace Treaty" on municipal election ballots across the country in a new attempt to end the Vietnam war.

"The governments have been so unresponsive that the people have to take the initiative themselves," said Frank Greer, 24-year-old campaign coordinator for the treaty's sponsor, the National Student Association. "We want this to be a grass roots thing."

The treaty calls for immediate withdrawal of all American troops from Vietnam, an immediate and total cease fire, plus negotiations to obtain the release of all American prisoners and guarantee the safety of all withdrawing troops.

Limited by an uncertain budget and only seven full-time workers, all based in New York and Washington, the treaty coordinators are contacting college campuses across the country to set up a network of volunteers.

"Then we want the students to take the treaty into their local communities," Greer said. "We hope to gather enough names in each area that the treaty can be put on local ballots for a referendum."

The National Student Association drive drew a challenge last week from Young Americans for Freedom, a conservative student organization, which announced that it will organize its own referenda on campuses and in communities. YAF National Chairman Ron Docksa predicted that most students would reject the treaty if given a chance to vote on it.

Greer, a 1970 graduate of the University of Maryland, said the idea for a "people's peace treaty" originated at an NSA meeting last August when it was decided that antiwar forces needed a new focal point for generating public support for the peace movement.

Fifteen students — nine student body presidents and six college editors — were chosen to negotiate with students from North and South Vietnam student unions.

In December, the students went to Vietnam.

Yost favors troop withdrawal date

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Charles W. Yost, formerly President Nixon's ambassador to the United Nations, favors setting a date "within the next year or year and a half" for the conditional withdrawal of all U.S. troops from Vietnam.

He also favors bringing communist China into the United Nations "in the near future" without "any conditions."

And he expects the indirect peace talks between Egypt and Israel at U.N.

headquarters to go on even without a declared extension of the cease-fire. He also thinks Israel ought to commit itself to withdraw from all Egyptian territory.

Yost outlined his views in an hour's interview Monday. He retired last month after 40 years in the U.S. diplomatic service and 25 months as head of the U.S. mission to the United Nations, handing over that post to ex-Congressman George Bush of Houston, Tex.

Yost said he had felt mistakes were being made in Vietnam ever since 1965, when "we began to pour in very large numbers of troops and spend the huge amount of resources that we have."

"I approved of the President's winding down the presence, but I think it should be wound down a good deal faster than it is."

Yost said talk of South Vietnam's invading North Vietnam was "probably gamesmanship" on the part of President Nguyen Van Thieu and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky.

"I don't think the South Vietnamese are going to invade North Vietnam," he said. "They've got plenty of trouble without that."

For "stability in East Asia," Yost continued, communist China should be represented in the U.N. in the near future, and would not think that any conditions should be laid down in the invitation.

He said he hoped Taiwan — his term for Nationalist China — could "continue to be represented" and he believed most U.N. members favored a two-China's arrangement. But he said he realizes this is no solution so long as each China says it will not sit in the United Nations with the other.

He said he thought Israel would have more security if a U.N. force removable only by the Security Council guarded her access to the Gulf of Aqaba than if she annexed the Egyptian shore of the gulf and put a small and "highly vulnerable" Israeli force there.

Now 63, Yost in "retirement" will lecture at Columbia University, be an adviser to the United Nations Association of the U.S.A. and write a book "critical of mistakes" in the foreign policies of various countries, he said.

YOST SPEAKS OUT . . . Charles W. Yost, former ambassador to the U.N., outlined some of his views at press conference Monday.

Winona youth heads district teen-age GOP

Carleton Fish, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Fish, 666 Market St., was elected chairman of the 1st District Teen Age Republicans (TAR) at their annual convention in Rochester Saturday.

This will be Fish's first full term as chairman. He was elected vice-chairman a year ago, but advanced to the head of the organization in mid-term when chairman Franklin Michaels, Jr., Rochester, was elected state TAR chairman.

Other newly-elected officers include Patricia Trainor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Trainor, Jr., 518 Hiawatha Blvd., who was elected treasurer.

Resolutions adopted by the district TARs included support of President Nixon's handling of the South Vietnamese invasion of Laos, support of state aid to parochial schools, and support of enforcement of pollution control ordinances locally.

Caledonia names Teacher of Year

CALEDONIA, Minn. — The Caledonia Education Association has selected Mrs. Ruth Pongratz as its Teacher of the Year and as its 1971 candidate for Minnesota Teacher of the Year.

Mrs. Pongratz, who joined the Caledonia school system in 1951, received her bachelor of science degree from Wisconsin State University, La Crosse. R. Pongratz Wis., and has earned several graduate credits from Winona State College.

A teacher of biology and advanced biology, she maintains she enjoys working with young people and teaching them to lead good lives.

"I enjoy observing the learning and accomplishments of my students and former students as they progress through life," said Mrs. Pongratz.

County reimburses 75 percent

City relief payments for 1970 show one-year rise of $21,839

Aid given by the City Welfare Department in 1970 totaled $133,507 in direct and indirect relief, compared to $111,667 for the previous year. This is an increase of $21,839, according to a report given today by Mrs. Lawrence Breitbach, city welfare director.

She has prepared the annual billing to be presented to Winona County for reimbursement to the city welfare department for 1970. This billing indicates that Winona County's share for the billing is $88,090, compared to $72,101 for 1969.

Winona County's share is 75 percent of the net total of the billing, after one mill for the assessed valuation of the City of Winona is deducted, according to the formula set up by state law.

The city's share for the year is $45,416 for 1970—compared to $39,566 for 1969.

Direct relief, totaling $112,128 was dispensed to clients, and indirect relief, which is the administrative costs of the department, came to $21,378.95.

During the year, 1,210 cases were handled and received aid. Of the 1,210 cases, there were 433 family cases with 1,661 persons; and 777 singles, or an average of about 100 cases per month. Of this group, only 163 cases were on straight direct relief for the year, and only seven of those cases received aid for the full 12 months; the other 1,047 cases were given supplemental aid. This means that there was some other source of income, such as part-time employment, unemployment compensation or Social Security benefits prior to age 65. At age 65, our clients are referred to the Winona County Department of Social Services for any further aid.

Intake statistics showed a total of 877 applications taken during the year. Of this group, 482 were approved for some aid; 158 were rejected; and 244 were referred to other agencies or persons for advice or aid. There were 25 cases pending action at the beginning of the year and 28 cases pending at the end.

Of the 284 individual cases that did receive aid during 1970, 94 cases received maintenance aid for more than one month; 46 cases were medical care only; 49 cases were non-resident cases for which the city receives reimbursement from the county or other counties where they may hold their general relief residence. Where local funds are involved, such as in the general relief program, there is a residence requirement for aid. Seventy-two cases were given emergency maintenance, which could be in the form of food or shelter for a period of less than six weeks. Two cases received emergency medical aid only and in one case, the client repaid the city for the emergency aid given him.

The case load has been unusually heavy during recent months because of unemployment in Winona, and also because of rapid turnover of cases as many older clients became eligible for aid under other programs during the course of the year.

During 1970, 28 cases were accepted by Winona County Department of Social Services for aid under its varied programs; five city clients died; 16 were to receive aid from other sources beginning in either January or February 1971.

With such a constantly changing case load, a great deal of work is required in verifications and applications, and referrals. Mrs. Breitbach said. Many cases only received intermittent aid during periods of unemployment, and some received only temporary aid during periods of illness of the Committee OK's compromise plan

Designation of the Winona County courthouse as an historic site was embodied in a bill approved today by the Minnesota House Natural Resources Committee.

The measure represents a compromise from the original bill which would have placed the Winona structure in a listing of historic sites under the protection of the Minnesota Historical Society, an action sought by a Winona group known as the Winona County Progress and Preservation Association, Inc.

Although designated for its historic significance in the draft of the compromise bill, the courthouse would not be added to the state Historical Society's protected list.

The original bill would have required approval of the society before any major changes could be made in the building.

Constructed in 1888, the building has been cited as an excellent example of architecture of the period, including use of stained glass windows.

Action by the citizens group came as a consequence of action by the Winona County Board of Commissioners to erect a new county office building, and eventually, raze the existing structure.

Nodine school may be closed at year's end

Projected enrollment figures have prompted consideration of the possible closing of the Nodine School at the end of the current school year, members of the School Board of District 861 were told Monday night.

E. W. Mueller, assistant superintendent of schools for elementary education, told directors that estimates now indicate that the enrollment at the school for 1971-72 would be only between 27 and 30 children in a two-teacher building.

He said that it would appear uneconomical to operate the school with this enrollment distribution. Mueller said surveys indicate there would be three children in kindergarten, two in first grade, three in the second, four in the third and six each in fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

He told directors that several alternatives were being considered. One would be to transport the kindergarten through fifth grade children to the Ridgeway School and the sixth grade pupils to Winona.

No formal action was taken by the board Monday night to allow the administration additional time for study of the problem but the matter probably will be placed on the agenda for the April board meeting.

In other action Monday night the board authorized payment of payrolls for homebound instruction amounting to $3,078; instruction for special learning disabilities, $5,919; kindergarten substitutes, $125; elementary substitutes, $1,700; secondary substitutes, $1,517; vocational school substitutes, $100; special education substitutes, $87; driver training, $420; evening school instruction, $1,069; Lambert Home instruction, $104; Title I, Phase IV instruction, $468; Title I, Phase III instruction, $284; college work study program, $752; safety patrol, Jefferson School, $135; moon hour supervisors, $915; miscellaneous services, $2,287; student workers, $193; instructional maintenance and other services, $1,603.

Also approved was payment of overtime to custodians amounting to $1,109.

Dakota school could operate another year

The possibility that Dakota School District 2609 might continue to operate on a status quo basis during the next school year, despite school consolidation orders, was mentioned to the School Board of Winona Independent District 861 Monday night by Superintendent of Schools A. L. Nelson.

Attachment of the Dakota district to District 861 had been ordered by the Winona County Board of Commissioners last year — to become effective July 1 — but residents of the Dakota district who favor consolidation with La Crescent appealed the county board action to the district court.

The matter is still in litigation and, Nelson said, the case is scheduled for hearing by the court during the April term.

He said that a ruling could be made as late as late May or early June and that if it were to be unfavorable to the proponents of the La Crescent merger there was a good possibility that the case might be appealed to the Minnesota Supreme Court.

In that event the matter probably would not be resolved until next year and Dakota would operate as it has until a decision is reached.

If there were no Supreme Court appeal the district probably would be attached to Winona on the effective date.

Open house at LC elementary

LAKE CITY, Minn. (Special) — An open house at Jefferson Elementary School will be held Thursday evening from 7 to 9. All parents of children attending the school have been urged to attend.

Classrooms will be open for visitation from 7 to 8 p.m. A program, which has been prepared by sixth grade classes, will begin at 8 in the gym.

Following a business meeting, parents will be asked for suggestions regarding formation of a committee which will act as a "cooperative" among the teachers, parents and children at Jefferson. This committee will serve by recruiting new mothers, organizing and taking care of class pictures, helping with immunizations and other tasks.

229 water meter permits are issued

Winona Fire Marshal Bruce E. Johnstone informed City Manager Carroll J. Fry this week that 228 water meter permits have been issued in the city.

Approximately one-half of those have been installed and inspected, Johnstone said.

Anyone who has a private water supply but is not connected to city sewer is required to install a water meter to facilitate computation of the sewer fee.

School district voting precinct boundaries redefined by board

A realignment of boundaries of election districts within the area of Winona Independent School District 861 was effected Monday night by the School Board as part of its preparations for this year's annual school election May 18.

The action was taken in accordance with state law which provides that redistricting be done whenever new territory is added to the district which affects the voter distribution.

It resulted in the first boundary change since Winona was assigned independent school district status three years ago.

Reapportionment of districts was based on voter turnouts in the 1970 general election.

Essentially, the realignment redistricts the city of Winona — with one exception — on a ward basis with (also with one exception) all of the outlying areas of the district constituting one election district.

The school board membership has one director from each of five districts and one director-at-large.

A director from the 2nd District and a director-at-large will be named in the May election.

The redistricting was done in consequence of school district consolidation proceedings which have been completed within the past year and resulted in a somewhat disproportionate voter distribution in the five election districts.

As a result of Monday's action the 1st District remains the same with its boundaries contiguous with those of the city's 1st Ward.

The 2nd District, which previously embraced the 1st, 2nd and 3rd precincts of the 2nd Ward, was enlarged to cover the entire 2nd Ward.

The 3rd District, previously the 3rd Ward, had its boundaries changed to make them identical to the 3rd Ward.

The 4th District originally was bounded by the lines of the 4th Ward. By Monday's action Homer Township was added to the 4th District to bring its voter population more nearly in line with the other districts.

The 5th District, which previously included the 4th Precinct of the 2nd Ward, the 1st Precinct of the 3rd Ward and all of the area of the district lying outside the city of Winona, now will be exclusively an out-city district with the exception of Homer Township which has been attached to the 4th District.

The offices which will be on the ballot for the May 18 election are held now by Dr. C. R. Kollofski, 2nd District director, and Dr. C. W. Rogers, director-at-large.

Directors will be elected for three-year terms and will take office July 1.

The board Monday night also designated polling places for the May election.

Folls in the 1st District will be at Jefferson School; 2nd District, Madison School; 3rd District, Central Elementary School; 4th District, Washington-Kosciusko School, and 5th District, the e. Rollingsstone School, Goodview fire hall and Pickwick School.

The polls will be open from noon to 8 p.m.

The period for candidates to file for the two posts in this year's election opens April 3 and will close at 5 p.m. April 27.

Filings are made with the clerk of the district in the school business office at Winona Junior High School.

Arraignment of Lake City woman set for Monday

WABASHA, Minn. (Special) — A 27-year-old Lake City woman will be arraigned on a first-degree murder charge Monday at 10 a.m. before Judge Glenn Kelley in Wabasha County District Court.

She is Mrs. Gary Beaman, who has been charged with the shooting death of Harry Francis, 56, a Lake City businessman, on Nov. 29, 1970.

Mrs. Beaman will be represented by Paul Brewer, Winona, her court-appointed attorney. Appearing for the state will be Jerome Schreiber, Lake City, Wabasha County attorney.

Nursing assistant program held

MONDOVI, Wis. (Special) — A nursing assistant training program is being taught in Buffalo and Pepin counties by Mrs. Robert Amidon, a registered nurse from Gilmanston.

Enrolled in the program at Buffalo Memorial Hospital are: Miss Sharon Stoll, Mrs. Roy Synstad, Miss Pat Wood, Mrs. Esther Weber, Miss Mary Steiner, Mrs. Matt George, Miss Lynn Seltrecht, Mrs. Ray Johnston, Miss Mary Moy, Mrs. Alton Goodermote, Mrs. Joseph Rohlik, Mrs. Wayne Rosman, Mrs. Emma Herold, Miss Donna Knecht and Mrs. Kenneth Deetz.

The nursing assistant program has no upper age limit and persons completing the course assist the nurses in hospitals, nursing homes and other agencies. The workers are trained to perform tasks which involve specific services for the patient as delegated and performed under the direction of professional nurses.

Requirements for the course include a minimum of 120 hours in classroom and laboratory work and is designed for trainees employed or those applicants with a specific commitment for employment in hospital and nursing home.

The training involves 65 hours of classroom work at the area vocational school and 55 hours of supervised laboratory work experience at a local hospital.

The course is offered by the District I Vocational and Technical and Adult Education School, Eau Claire.

A course was recently completed at the American Lutheran Home, Mondovi, and 13 received their nursing assistant training certificates: Mrs. Gordon, Brian, Mrs. Sanford Crandall, Mrs. Genevieve Hamilton, Mrs. Albert Koenig, Mrs. La Vern Kruger, Miss Dorothy Litchfield, Mrs. H. E. House, Mrs. Edith Quarberg, Miss Norma Schultz, Miss Evelyn Schwartz, Mrs. Arthur Thompson, Mrs. Felix Weiss and Paul Zillgitt.

A class at the Buffalo Memorial Hospital began March 1. Mrs. Amidon announced that the next class will be held at Durand.

Police check into car parts theft

Winona police investigated the theft of a radiator and battery Monday from the car of Arlyn Brandt, Pleasant Valley, and apprehended a 13-year-old Winona boy for shoplifting.

According to police chief James McCabe, the theft of the car parts occurred sometime between Saturday and Monday as the car was parked in the rear of Winona Auto Parts, 165 E. 2nd St. Loss was estimated at $165.

Snow, water content drop

Another substantial reduction in the water content of Winona's snow cover was noted in analysis of a core sample of snow taken here this morning.

Snow depth today was measured at 8 1/4 inches and the core, melted, yielded a moisture volume of 2.74 inches.

This compares with a 10.75 inch core taken a week ago when water content was found to be 4.26 inches.

In 1969, when Winona experienced its most recent high river stage of 19.44 feet — 6.44 feet over flood stage at Winona — the March 11 core sample showed a snow depth of 4 inches and a water content of 2.71 inches.

There was virtually no frost below the snow cover today, as was the case at this date in 1969.

The series of core samples taken during the past month have shown a steady reduction in both snow depth and water content.

On Feb. 23 there were 23 inches of snow on the ground and the core sample yielded 6.16 inches of water. Shrinking of the snow and the reduction in the water content are consequences of the frequent periods of thawing during the past three weeks with runoff and ground absorption accounting for a major part of the water loss.

Core sample data here have been forwarded to the U.S. Weather Service office in Minneapolis where Joseph Strub Jr., meteorologist, will weigh it and other information from areas throughout the Upper Midwest in the preparation of his forecast of anticipated spring crests of rivers, tributaries and streams which is scheduled for release Thursday.

No additional precipitation appears in the immediate weather forecast for the Winona area.

Variable cloudiness is expected to prevail through tonight with skies to become fair to partly cloudy Wednesday.

Monday's high was 45, a low of 16 was recorded this morning and today's noon reading was 21.

A low of around 18 is seen for tonight and a high of 42 Wednesday.

Board denies its pay exorbitant

Ordinarily Winona School Board President Frank J. Allen doesn't comment at board meetings on letters he receives from constituents, but he felt that one received during the past week would be of interest to fellow board members.

At Monday night's board meeting he observed that most of the telephone calls and letters he had received during the current period of school board-teacher contract negotiations had supported the board on a "hold-the-line" policy on teachers' salaries for the next year.

One of these letters, he said, contained the statement that "It's high time you hold down teachers' salaries or we'll all be in the poorhouse. We also understand school board members receive exorbitant salaries."

That last sentence interested him, Allen said, and he called the sender to inquire about the complaint.

He said that he received a reply that it was his understanding that school board members receive a minimum of $35,000 a year.

It was of interest to the writer, he commented, to learn that school board members in Winona are among the few elected officials these days who receive no pay for their services.

Board opposes central auto title filing

The Winona County Board of Commissioners has gone on record opposing the central filing system for motor vehicle registrations. It voted to support continuation of present systems at a January meeting.

Registrations for automobiles and other personal property are now made at individual county register of deeds offices with the fees going to the individual counties.

The central filing system would mean filing of all registrations in one locale, St. Paul, for all 87 counties. The fees would go to the state treasury.

Commissioners oppose the central filing system because it would mean a loss of funds to the county, and a delay in requested searches, they said. Searches would have to be made through St. Paul, and besides a time delay, there would be more cost involved, commissioners said.

Bids sought on truck for use by school system

An advertisement for bids for the purchase of a new truck for use in Winona Independent School District 861 was authorized Monday night by the School Board.

The board will ask for bids on a one-ton stake truck with a dump mechanism.

It will replace a 21-year-old vehicle that is being used for the maintenance department.

Directors also granted a request of the Winona County Progress and Preservation Association, Inc., for rental of the Winona Junior High School auditorium April 25 for a musical program.

The employment of Mrs. Donald Dooney as an accountant in the board business office to fill a vacancy was approved on the recommendation of the school business manager, Paul W. Sanders.

Blair resident charged with embezzlement

WHITEHALL, Wis. (Special) — A 52-year-old Blair, Wis., man was charged with embezzlement Monday when he appeared in Trempealeau County Court before Judge A. L. Twesme.

William Griffith was charged with embezzling more than $100 and less than $2,500 on Jan. 20 from the Kickapoo Service Station, Town of Preston, owned by Ronald D. Ravenscroft.

A preliminary hearing on the charge was scheduled for March 15 at 2 p.m.

Richard Galstad, Osseo, was named Griffith's court-appointed attorney and bond was set at $500.

The defendant, who was remanded to the Trempealeau County jail, was arrested in Milwaukee Saturday by Sheriff Stanley Amundson.

Also testifying in court were Trempealeau County District Attorney William Mattka; Special Investigator Milo Johnson and Trempealeau County Traffic Officer Steven Hanson.

In another appearance Andrew J. Wortman, 19, Melrose Et. 2, pleaded guilty to a charge of furnishing malt beverages to minors. The offense took place March 5 in the Town of Burnside.

Judge Twesme ordered the defendant to pay a fine and costs totaling $59 or spend 15 days in jail. This morning he still was confined in the Trempealeau County jail.

Arcadia names speech winners

ARCADIA, Wis. (Special) — Thirty Arcadia High School students competed for places on the 1971 forensics team in a local runoff held at Arcadia High School.

The winning team will meet four Coulee Conference schools Saturday when Arcadia hosts the sub-district contest. A change of scheduling has split the eight-school conference contest, four schools each for Arcadia and West Salem. Both contests will be on the same date.

Winners in nine categories are: four-minute speeches, Vicki Benusa, Betty Gamoke, deJamaation, Lori Byom, Nancy Kampa, Interpretive reading of prose, Colleen Maloney, Cindy Glanzer; public address, Pat Kline, Lon Somsalla; original oratory, Julianne Pavlicin, Beverly Biesk; significant speeches, Mike Pavlicin, Cindy Thovich; extemporaneous, David Wolover.

The play cast for the sub-district contest will consist of Ann O'Brien, Jay Flury, Barb Foegen, Kay Maloney and Robert Konkel.

English teachers from all four high school classes aided in selecting candidates for the local contest.

Other students who competed included: Kathy Brom, Carol Glemza, Janice Kreher, Steve Kaldunski, Sandra Smeja, Bea Benusa, John Gamoke, Penny Benning and Judy Sendelbach.

Forensic coaches are Mrs. Joseph R. Fernholz and Arthur O'Brien.

PCA approves regulations for feedlots

ST. PAUL (AP)—Regulations aimed at curbing pollution from animal feedlots were given final approval Monday by the board of the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (PCA).

The rules resulted from six public hearings and more than two years of investigation by legislators, farm groups the state Department of Agriculture and the PCA.

The board approved the rules which will apply to some 15,000 feedlot operators after incorporating some minor changes recently suggested by legislators.

The board also changed the target date for overall compliance from 1980 to "such time as the agency deems acceptable."

Essentially, the rules require that drainage from outdoor feedlots be trapped by dikes to prevent runoff into streams and lakes. They also regulate the location of feedlots and require registration as well as permits in certain instances.

Ann-Margret is a lady in the dark

By EARL WILSON
LAS VEGAS—Ann-Margret's a prisoner on the wicked Las Vegas Strip, being the happy hostage of her husband, Roger Smith, writer-actor-producer, and her manager, Allan Carr, who keep her singing, dancing and changing sexy costumes at the International Hotel in the costliest cafe act ever.

"I never get to leave the hotel," she pretended to pout.

"And nobody tells me anything."

"We're going to the Fontainebleau April 7—first time in Miami Beach," Roger Smith said.

"Really? You didn't tell me!" ... "We keep surprising her," Roger smiled, "We go to Tahiti for a second honeymoon after that."

Ann-Margret's brilliant new show, "A-M PM," staged by Ron Field, has her playing "Headline Ladies," portraying Evelyn Nesbit, the lady in Red, Rosie the Riveter and Marilyn Monroe—and calling attention to UN Delegate Eleanor Roosevelt, Channel Swimmer Gertrude Ederle, Nobel Prize Winner Pearl Buck, Saloon Smasher Carrie Nation, Peace Prize Winner Jane Addams, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, and Senator Margaret Chase Smith.

"You need a wardrobe mister to help you with all your changes and I'll vol-

"Ask Roger and Allan," she said. I did ask them. Darned dictators said No. BACK IN NEW YORK

She looked sexier with her backfield in motion than the hot pants gals. Abbe saluted Laina Kazan and spiritual mate Peter Daniels and the Ed Sullivans. A great lively act, which had only one reference to Xavier Cugat, her ex-husband, but some great takeoffs on Rita Hayworth, Betty Grable, Dorothy Lamour and the Andrews Sisters. Bravo!

Australian defense head has resigned

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Defense Minister Malcolm Fraser has resigned in a government crisis prompted by reports that he was critical of the Australian army's role in Vietnam, Prime Minister John Gorton's press secretary said today.

The spokesman said the Cabinet was meeting today, without Fraser, to discuss the situation. Fraser had no comment but said he would make a statement in the House of Representatives Tuesday.

Observers said the resignation could touch off a new movement to replace Gorton as leader of the Liberal party. The prime minister denied that the chief of the army general staff told him Fraser was disloyal to the service, but he later acknowledged that he had seen before publication an Australian newspaper report to that effect.

Supporters of Fraser said he believes Gorton was trying to eliminate him as a political rival.

Two Sydney newspapers named Fraser as the source of articles that said he ordered a joint intelligence report on army pacification activities in Vietnam and that he said Australian units there were in revolt. Fraser had denied both stories.

French successfully test fire U.S. rocket

CAYENNE, French Guiana (AP) — The first of a series of U.S. Nike-Cajun rockets has been test-fired successfully from the new French launching base at Kourou, the government said. The launch was carried out under an agreement between the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the French National Center for Space Studies.

Introduce land legislation for Voyageurs Park

ST. PAUL (AP) — Legislation outlining steps to be followed by the state in donating land for Voyageurs National Park was introduced today with bipartisan backing.

Congress required donation of state lands when it authorized the park last year.

The bill provides for condemnation of "trust fund lands" those set aside for support of schools when Minnesota became a state.

The state will, in effect, buy these lands from itself, with proceeds going into the state school trust fund.

The state will reserve mineral and water power rights on lands within the park.

Main authors of the bill are Senate Majority Leader Stanley Halmquist and Rep. Thomas Newcome, White Bear Lake, chairman of the Minnesota Resources Commission.

It's expected to take one to two years before the land procedures are at a point where the acreage can be handed over to the federal government.

It was learned that introduction of the bill was delayed a week or more in a minor tiff between the office of DFL Gov. Wendell R. Anderson and Conservative leaders in the House.

The governor's office had sought to have Rep. Irvin Anderson, International Falls DFLer, as the main sponsor, since the national park would be in his area.

Conservatives, who control both the House and Senate, resisted and claimed the No. 1 spot on the bill for one of theirs.

Newcome, as chairman of the Resources Commission, wound up as the chief House sponsor.

The Resources Commission, a joint Senate-House group, had done most of the interim study on procedures which would have to be followed.

Value of land involved in the transfer to the federal government has not been determined although estimates have ranged from $6 to $10 million, with some guesses even higher.

Newcome said the Resources Commission will hire an expert to make an "estimate of value, with a precise appraisal of the lands to be made later.

The legislature could either make an appropriation out of general revenue, thus repaying the trust fund in cash, or it could authorize issuance of bonds and thus spread the cost over several years.

The bill provides that local units of government will be reimbursed for the market value of any tax-forfeited lands taken for the park.

The federal government will purchase private lands in the park area.

Other sponsors of the bill are Sens. Edward Novak, St. Paul, and Gene Mammenga, Bemidji; and Reps. Irvin Anderson; Richard Fitzsimons, Warren; Willard Munger, Duluth, and Jack Fenn, Hibbing.

Cincinnati pastor accepts post once held by King

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Rev. Dr. Otis Moss Jr. of Cincinnati, Ohio, has accepted the post of copastor of the Ebenezer Baptist church, a position held by the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

King's father, who also is a copastor of the church, said Moss becomes the sixth pastor in the church's 85-year history.

Six accounting scholarships given at WSC

Six Winona State College accounting majors are recipients of $250 scholarships from the 3M Company, St. Paul, according to an announcement today by Dr. William Hanlon of the college's Department of Business Administration and Economics.

They are David R. Good of Harmony; Robert J. Noll, Hopkins; Vichai Phaisalakani, Bangkok, Thailand; Thomas J. Sheehan, Holrah; Richard S. Wayne, Albert Lea, and Dean A. Yoost, Brookfield, Wis.

Selection was made by department faculty members on the basis of the students' grade point averages and their "potential for making a contribution to the accounting profession."

The $1,500 gift from 3M was praised by Dr. Hanlon as "a valuable aid in our efforts to prepare Winona State students for top positions in business and public service."

Another hearing scheduled

House subcommittee kills most restrictive abortion measure

By GERRY NELSON
ST. PAUL (AP) — A House subcommittee has killed the most restrictive abortion bill offered in the 1971 session but has scheduled a fourth meeting for next Monday night to decide whether to recommend any change in the present law.

The subcommittee voted 6-5 Monday night against a measure offered by Rep. Warren Chamberlain, Faribault, which would have made it a felony to either advertise abortion services in Minnesota or to counsel any woman to leave the state for an abortion.

A felony would permit sentences of more than a year or fines of more than $1,000.

"I look on abortion as premeditated murder and the penalty ought to be life in prison like it is for anyone else," Chamberlain said.

Chamberlain, a lawyer, loosed some of the harshest language heard during the three meetings of the abortion subcommittee.

He likened abortions to the activities of "Murder, Inc.," called abortionists "death merchants" and "baby butchers" and said out-of-state clinics are openly advertising their services with printed brochures.

"That'll give just an indication of what a big, competitive death machine this is," Chamberlain said.

Much of Chamberlain's comments were aimed at Robert McCoy, a Golden Valley businessman who has operated an abortion referral business from his home.

McCoy said he had been "maliciously maligned" by Chamberlain, but said he agreed that profiting from abortion clinics should not advertise in Minnesota.

"I'm in my service to prevent people going to these profiteers," McCoy said.

Subcommittee Chairman Jon Haviv cast a tie-breaking vote to defeat the Chamberlain bill.

The first abortion measure voted on by the committee.

The group later approved unanimously a "conscience clause" bill, designed to accompany any bill approved later. It would permit doctors and hospitals to decline to perform abortions, even if legal.

Rep. Vernon Sommerdorf, a St. Paul physician personally opposed to abortion, offered a compromise bill that likely will be the one voted on by the subcommittee.

Legislative observers feel that a bill repealing sections of the present law stands no chance of passage.

Sommerdorf's bill is a variation of the "panel" approach approved two years ago by the Minnesota State Medical Association. The association does not specifically support Sommerdorf's new proposal.

Calling his approach a compromise, Sommerdorf said it is not likely to please either side.

"I'm personally, as an individual, opposed to abortion," he said. "I have delivered 3,000 live babies. I have yet to perform an abortion."

"But in spite of my own feelings on abortion, I feel the law ought to be changed."

Sommerdorf offered amendments to his earlier bill which would permit abortions by any physician, without consultation, on women up to 13 weeks pregnant.

After 13 weeks, abortion questions would be referred to a three-doctor panel named by the state Board of Medical Examiners. This differs from the panel of three or five doctors drawn from a hospital staff, as proposed in earlier plans.

In nonhazardous cases, Sommerdorf also would impose a 72-hour wait during which an abortion-seeking patient would be counseled on alternatives by the county Welfare Board staff.

"The state would be neutral in early pregnancies, but the state would be concerned," Sommerdorf said.

"I don't claim that my proposals are the ideal solution—there aren't any ideal solutions to this difficult problem."

Dr. Fred Mecklenburg, president of Minnesota Citizens Concerned for Life (MCCCL), immediately opposed the plan.

"It's no compromise at all, it's simply abortion on demand with a 13-week time limit," he said.

First aid course offered to students

HARMONY, Minn. (Special) — A basic American Red Cross first aid training course will be offered to fourth grade students at Harmony Elementary School.

Instructors will be: Ken Abraham, Marvin Wilt, David Runkel, Jim Hanson and Dr. Franz Sattler.

Purpose of the course is to train children to act calmly in emergency situations. Topics to be covered: how to get help and what to do until help arrives; fires, poisons, choking, wounds, animal bites and molsters; water safety, rescue and mouth to mouth resuscitation.

Legislature today

ST. PAUL (AP) — A bill instructing the Minnesota attorney general to begin a test case on the constitutionality of draftees serving in undeclared wars came for final passage in the Senate today.

The bill sponsored by Minority Leader Nicholas Coleman received seven more than the required constitutionally majority of 34 when given preliminary approval last Friday.

The Senate Regulated Industries Committee considered a bill legalizing pari-mutuel betting on horse racing at 8 a.m.

The House Transportation Committee took up motor vehicle inspection bills at 11 a.m.

The legislative schedule:

Senate convened 11 a.m. Committees — 8 a.m., regulated industries; claims; 9 a.m., commerce and insurance; 1 p.m., highways; 2 p.m., civil administration; 3 p.m., education.

House convened 2 p.m. Committees — 8 a.m., taxes; 9 a.m., government operations; 10 a.m., natural resources; 11 a.m., transportation; 12, commerce and economic development; 1 p.m., regulated industries.

Expect approval for Conservatives' plan

ST. PAUL (AP) — The Minnesota House was expected to pass today a Conservative-sponsored plan to redraw Minnesota congressional districts.

Lawmakers voted 68-63 along straight party lines yesterday to reject a DFL alternative offered by Rep. Martin Sabo, Minneapolis, House DFL leader.

House passage of the measure will be the first in a series of steps leading to negotiations between Conservative leaders and DFL Gov. Wendell R. Anderson for a redistricting plan acceptable to both factions.

The plan places suburban Anoka County into a new 7th District reaching to the northeastern corner of the state. DFL freshman Rep. Joe Connors of Fridley characterized the district as having a tail "wagging a very strange dog."

The Senate is expected to adopt a different version, sending the redistricting bill to conference committee.

A bill approved Monday by the Senate Judiciary Committee would require all corporations engaged in farming in Minnesota to register their holdings with the secretary of state.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. John Olson of Worthington, previously had been approved by the House Agriculture Committee.

It requires all corporations owning or leasing 160 acres of farmland or operating feedlots to file the information by March 15 each year. Family farm corporations also would be required to register under Olson's bill, which would take effect in 1972.

In other legislative action Monday: The Senate Natural Resources and Environment Committee approved a bill which would impose a $3 surtax on new cars and trucks to help finance the cost of recycling junked cars and other scrap metal.

Bills were sent to the governor which would allow youngsters under 16 to work on corn detasseling projects in areas where seed corn is grown, permit the use of flashing emergency lights on farm tractors, suspend the 1951 Liquor Fair Trade Law for two more years and allow local governments to decide whether to ban liquor sales on local election days.

The Senate confirmed the appointment of Jon Wefald as state commissioner of agriculture. Wefald, a former college teacher at St. Peter, was appointed by Gov. Wendell R. Anderson.

An impressive business diversity

Counting the employed — and for that matter, the unemployed — is no easy task. On counting workers you get involved with part- and full-time status, workers with two jobs, the self-employed, etc., the reluctance of a few businesses to provide accurate information, the agreement on a precise date and time for the compilation, etc. And, of course, when the total is obtained, the situation already has changed.

The Winona office of the Minnesota Department of Manpower Resources compiles a monthly employment report, which is based on data from carefully selected employers, and is generally regarded as a reliable barometer of the up and down movements of the size of the labor force. However, between the infrequent times when it attempts to make a total complete count, the overall total may vary a bit from the actual fact.

A COLLEGE professor, expanding on a student's class efforts, has now made an interim report on the effort to call all employers and all employees in the city of Winona and Goodview.

The latest Manpower report, for mid-January, shows 11,984 employed; the official census of firms in the entire county shows 827 of them.

The survey of Dr. J. H. Foegen of Winona State College reveals a total employment of 13,932 among 808 firms in the city of Winona alone with an additional 378 about which no information has been received. It is estimated that they would increase the employment to 14,477.

These impressive totals must be qualified to the extent that the component figures were compiled over a period of two years and that they do not distinguish between part-time (including students) and full-time nor do they recognize moonlighting situations.

Nevertheless, the report does suggest that in the neighborhood of 14,800 people are on the payroll out of the official population of 28,267 in Winona and Goodview.

Here is a breakdown of the reporting employers by size:

| | | | |
|---------------|-----|----------|----|
| 0-25 | 699 | 101-200 | 12 |
| 26-50 | 48 | 201-300 | 4 |
| 51-75 | 26 | 301-400 | 5 |
| 76-100 | 12 | over 400 | 2 |
| (0-100 total) | 785 | | |

IT IS OBVIOUS that the smaller employer is a major employer, but Dr. Foegen notes, "Just as it would be unwise to downgrade the importance of the city's larger employers, so too would it be foolhardy to over-emphasize the importance of the small ones. One important reason would be that many of the small ones are service-providing, or are in some other way dependent ultimately on the people working for the largest employers. It is likely, to make an extreme example, that if the 10 largest employers were to cease operations, more than a few of the smaller ones would also fall by the wayside. . . . Assuming the continued operation of the larger employers, the large number of smaller ones does embody a diversity that makes for stability."

The experience of the last year supports that observation. While numerous other cities have suffered a severe payroll deduction, Winona's has held up remarkably well. According to the latest Manpower report the decline from January 1970 to January 1971 was only 57.

The professor's survey also confirms the ongoing Manpower report about the unusually high proportion of manufacturing employees in the city; roughly 33 percent of the city's workers are in manufacturing compared with 24 percent for the state.

DR. FOEGEN concludes: "One thing is certain; nothing is more basic to an economy than its labor force. (Although the labor theory of value has long since been modified to recognize the importance of capital and management in a highly sophisticated, technology-oriented economy, men continue to be considered more important ultimately than machines.) How that labor force is allocated, as well as how it grows and what part of it is working, remain vital concerns, both locally and nationally. Although improvement is always possible, and although it is not implied here that the local force is ideally allocated, nevertheless Winona's work force is workably allocated, constructively growing and over the long run, fully employed."—A.B.

Put down so and so as being in favor

The Rochester committee to get a branch of the University of Minnesota at Rochester is presently flooding the state with requests for endorsement. And they're getting some, too.

When we were looking at the endorsement list a couple of weeks ago we noticed two Southeastern Minnesota organizations that have representation from each of the counties in the district. They're Hlawahtaland — the regional tourism organization which has its office in Rochester — and the 1st Congressional District Historical Assembly, whose president lives in Rochester.

We asked the Winona County residents who are on the boards for these two organizations how Hlawahtaland and the Historical Assembly came to vote this endorsement.

Neither of the two even knew anything about the endorsement. A subsequent check has revealed that neither of the two organizations has taken any action relative to the proposed branch. In both cases Rochester residents decided for themselves to make the endorsements on behalf of the organizations and without their knowledge. There was no vote of the boards or general membership. — A.B.

Revenue sharing

It sometimes happens — have you noticed? — that a subject gets so sited up, one despairs of trying to pick up a piece of it that will not fragment; and, rather than start again from scratch, the temptation is to give up. It is so, for instance, with the disarmament proposals.

And it is so with the revenue-sharing business. At this point so many people have been heard on the subject, often saying contradictory things, one has the feeling that the public simply turns the dial when the subject comes up, like the English and the Common Market.

WELL, SOME recent figures are in front of me, from which, without very much coaxing, it appears to me that a story line emerges. First, one or two surprises — to stimulate the mind, and to break up the stereotypes. New York is the richest (highest per capita income) state in the union, right? Wrong. Connecticut is. Alaska is one of the poorest, right? It is the second richest; Nevada is third, and only then New York.

Mississippi — surely — is the poorest state in the union? Yes, it is. And socially the most backward? How do you usually define socially progressive states? By the size of state and local taxes. Mississippi takes, in taxes, $117 for every thousand dollars of personal income. By contrast, New York state taxes $140. Inasmuch as New York is one of the very richest states, and Mississippi is the very poorest state, then the tax-strain on the Mississippians can be seen to be far greater than on New Yorkers: which collapses one old saw.

New York has the highest rate of taxation in the nation? No, the second highest. Hawaii's is the highest.

What is the spread between the poorest and the richest state? Alaska's per capita income is $4,460. Mississippi's is $2,218, so that the richest American state has about double the per capita income of the poorest American state. What state is closest to the median? Missouri, whose per capita income is $3,468 (the median is $3,406 — almost three times Japan's).

HOW MANY STATES are poorer than Missouri? I.e., have per capita incomes less than the national average? Twenty-three. They are: Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Georgia, Idaho, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Mississippi, Montana, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia and Wyoming.

How does Missouri, as the median state, make out in the welfare game?

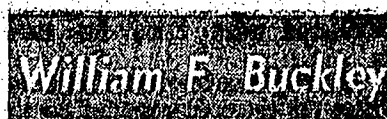

Not at all, pleaded her former employer, Holiday Inn: She was fired because she refused to dress properly, that is, in a tight fitting uniform. In the phrase of the moment she — or her clothes — hung loose and that, decided the Human Rights people, was legitimate ground for being fired.

The equality principle there is just a little baffling but it is better not to think about the same principle being applied to bartenders.

Barred from the bar

An editorial in Washington Evening Star. Slowly, slowly, case by case, the new equality of women gets established before the law, which is sometimes confusing in its application of the principle.

The Human Rights Division of the state of New York, for instance, has just dismissed the complaint of a Syracuse waitress in a cocktail lounge that she had been fired because she was flat-chested.

William F. Buckley

Well, it pays over to the U.S. government $500 million per year in taxes. How much does the U.S. government pay to the state of Missouri in welfare grants? $502 millions.

How does Missouri, as the median state, make out in the welfare game? Well, it pays over to the U.S. government $500 million per year in taxes. How much does the U.S. government pay to the state of Missouri in welfare grants? $502 millions.

Is that round trip really necessary? The Congress of the United States has resolved that henceforward no state richer than the average, i.e., no state whose per capita income exceeds Missouri's, shall qualify for any federal grant.

WHAT ABOUT the poorer states? Let Congress, which in 1969 put out $24 billion in welfare grants, scale down its brokerage function, by addressing itself exclusively to the poorest American cousins. The poorest American state, Mississippi, has been getting federal aid at the rate of about $200 per capita, compared to Missouri's $125 per capita, and (inexplicably, New York's $140 per capita. The parameters are suggested. Why not begin at $100 per capita for the underprivileged states? The total population of the less-than-average states is 83 million. Times $100, you have just over 5 billion dollars. If experience reveals that that is not enough, raise the figure.

Meanwhile, the individual states are emancipated, and can look after their own welfare problems in their own way; and that is the true meaning of decentralization.

The road to Europe

PARIS — "It is going better than it seems, but we shall have to have our crisis."

That is the way the negotiations to bring Britain into the European Economic Community look from here. The comment comes from one insider; it could have come from many.

FOR THE MOOD AMONG the six members of the EEC is more optimistic than many of the newspaper headlines. What remains behind the figures is an ultimate political doubt, one that may be resolvable only at the highest level. Thus the task of future crisis.

New Zealand is one subject on which the British are highly sensitive. They require some consideration for the relative handful of dairy farmers in those distant islands who depend on selling butter to Britain. The Six do not like the idea of preferences for farmers outside the community, but it appears now that they — including the French — are ready to make a meaningful gesture to New Zealand.

The British government, for its part, has already begun to shift from its established agricultural subsidy system to the community's protective mechanism of border levies on food imports. Britain is also prepared to accept the community's view that food prices should rise over a five-year period to the higher continental level.

THE SIX INSIST that from the day of entry, Britain must give preferences to sources within the community in buying food abroad. But they have agreed on an important concession to British and world opinion: to take steps, as a community, to cushion the impact on major food — suppliers in the United States and elsewhere of seeing their British markets decline.

Perhaps most interesting, in this list of steps toward agreement, is implicit. British acceptance of the idea that sterling's role as a reserve currency will have to fade away once Britain is in the community. Labor party spokesmen have said so in no uncertain terms; the Conservative government agrees.

The issue that contains the seeds of trouble is the rate of Britain's transition to the system of financing the community. That system requires each member to pay over to the center all the levies it collects on food imports, and customs duties on manufactured products.

Because Britain is such a big importer, she fears her payments would be disproportionate — and would be an immediate, dangerous drain on her balance of payments. Accordingly, the British have proposed that in the first year after admission they pay no more than 3 percent of the total community budget, with the contribution rising slowly thereafter.

It was this offer that led President Pompidou to remark that British negotiators were still at the humor stage. The Six as a whole find it hard to believe that Britain means that 3 percent. But in London everyone insists it is meant very seriously indeed.

"WE COULD settle it all in a day," one participant in the negotiations said recently. But that can happen only if the mutual suspicions focused on that stubborn figure of 3 percent can be dispelled. The British will have to be convinced that the French are not trying to do them in, the French that the British are not seeking special treatment for weakness.

For all these reasons, it may come eventually to a meeting between Prime Minister Heath and President Pompidou. Then those who dream of a stronger Europe can only hope that the stubborn, proud Englishman and the suave Frenchman who likes to bargain will somehow understand each other.

Bills, bombs and balance

WASHINGTON — Every few days now, somebody introduces a bill in Congress designed to influence the course of the Indochina war or bring America's participation in it to an end, but none of these has any real chance of success.

There are bills to end the fighting by the end of the year or by the middle or end of next year; bills to forbid the President to invade or assist in the invasion of North Vietnam; bills to compel the President's White House aides to testify on Capitol Hill; bills to end any war not approved by the Congress after 30 days of fighting.

BUT ALL THESE are opposed by the President and would have to get a two-thirds vote to pass over his veto, so bills and even bombs on Capitol Hill are ineffective, which leaves the power of the purse and the power of the ballot as the two most effective instruments of protest.

Looked at realistically, the first of these is a very limited political weapon. It might be possible to pass a bill against sending U.S. foot soldiers into North Vietnam, if the President acquiesced in this as he did in Cambodia and Laos, but there is not more than a covey of doves who would vote to cut off funds after a certain date and risk the charge that they were crippling the Commander in Chief and abandoning the troops on the battlefield.

The reaction to all this in the peace movement is frustration and despair. As spring comes on, no doubt there will be more acts of desperation, like the bombing of the Capitol, and more demonstrations, but these could easily reinforce the President's will and his support, and divert attention from the battlefield to the street.

IT DOES NOT follow from this,

Is Texas pivotal?

HOUSTON, Tex. — Some of the real movers and shakers down here — in a state where seldom is heard a discouraging word and never the word "impossible" — are beginning seriously to believe that this colossus of the South will settle the 1972 presidential election.

This is not the mere gusty overstatement for which Texans are commonly, if mistakenly, famous. For, at the most conservative estimate, two things may be said. Present Nixon is unlikely to achieve re-election without carrying this fourth largest electoral vote bloc in the nation.

AND HIS yet-unchosen Democratic opponent has even less chance unless he can win Texas. If he can't make it in Texas, which Mr. Nixon has never carried, he has the chance of that well-known snowball in the fiery furnace.

One has only to visit neighboring Louisiana, which I have just done, to sense that this is so. And one can see in turn why President Nixon is concentrating on Texas as nowhere else.

This is, of course, one of the reasons for his appointment of former Gov. John Connally of Texas to be nominally his Secretary of the Treasury but in truth the most headlined member of his administration.

One of the reasons is that the Democratic party here is in a trauma and disarray. The governor, Preston Smith, is up to his hips in a financial scandal too complicated for anything less than a brace of Philadelphia lawyers.

WHAT THIS MEANS in practical terms is, among other things, this: The long-dominant and so-called however, that the people are helpless or that political action must wait until next year. There is much work to be done. A vast amount of intellectual and physical energy is now going into comparatively hopeless projects to limit the President's war-making powers, while comparatively little is going into the complicated and important business of organizing a massive registration at home and overseas.

For example, over 1 million eligible voters in the armed services did not register or vote in the 1968 presidential election and the number eligible to vote in 1972 will be much larger. It is now possible to register in most of the big states right now, but residency requirements differ from state to state, and this is a particular problem for the highly mobile young 18-to-21 year olds. 11.5 million of whom will be eligible to vote in the presidential election of 1972 for the first time.

Some organizations, of course, are at work on registration, the Federal Voting Assistance Program, the League of Women Voters and Common Cause, among others, but the task is infinitely greater than present machinery to deal with it.

UNIVERSITY students, for example, seem to be complaining more than they are organizing, though the need for organization there, because of the complicated residency requirements in the various states, is greater than most other places.

No doubt this will change by the autumn term, but the sooner there is a demonstration of massive registration, the sooner the political consequences of the present war policy are likely to be noticed in the White House. One rather common reaction, particularly among politically aware university students, is that registering to vote for President Nixon or any of the Democratic candidates mentioned so far is not a very exhilarating prospect. What's the difference? Many of them ask, which was the attitude that helped elect Richard Nixon last time.

What many of them seem to be looking for again is a third or fourth party candidate, who will somehow sweep away all the ambiguities and frustrations, end the war, abolish poverty and pollution, establish justice and equality, and overwhelm both of the old-line parties.

WELL, IT IS AN understandable impulse, and it might just get far enough to resurrect Gene McCarthy or blow John Lindsay off the fence, but with George Wallace running hard on the right and some new Lochinvar running for peace and eternal happiness on the left, nothing would be more likely to fragmentize the vote and guarantee the re-election of Nixon.

The possibilities of the newly enfranchised blacks and young are easily seen against the fact that Richard Nixon lost the 1960 election to Jack Kennedy by 113,000 votes and won the 1968 election with only 43 percent of the votes cast.

No doubt in the end, developments in the economy and the war may very well be decisive in '72 and these cannot now be foreseen, but early organization and registration could also be the key. At least clear evidence of this is likely to have far more effect on the President's decision on the war and the draft than demonstrations or legislation or senseless violence in Washington or elsewhere.

New York Times News Service

conservative wing of the Democratic party — with which Connally had been honorably identified and former President Johnson has been identified willy-nilly and silly-nilly since he is 80 degrees to the left of his state — is in a poor way for candidates for governor in 1972. This raises the distinct if ironic possibility that the very liberal Ralph Yarborough, who suffered an amply justified ouster from the Senate in 1970, could yet return in triumph or perhaps be elected governor.

Yarborough was a shrill anti-Vietnam war critic and was undoubtedly defeated for the Democratic nomination in 1970 by the present Democratic senator Lloyd Bentsen, mainly for this reason. Still, Yarborough's fortunes are now looking up — and this is where yet another wheel enters the wheels within wheels.

The Republicans and a good many anti-Yarborough Democrats believe that "Raff" could be knocked off by George Bush, the unsuccessful Republican opponent of Senator Bentsen last year. Bush is therefore regarded as only in elegant temporary detention in the gilded cage of the United Nations, to which President Nixon sent him as ambassador.

YET, WHEN ALL is said and done, the only man who could not possibly lose, in any combination of circumstances, is John Connally himself. If he does not turn up on the Nixon ticket in 1972 (and it should be emphasized that Spiro Agnew is popular here), he could always re-enter and clean up a Democratic party he never really left; announce that he had done all he could to help Mr. Nixon, and then wind up as a Democratic vice presidential aspirant.

This would help the Democrats in the South, if not in the North. True, about the only chief upon whose ticket Connally could consistently serve as second man is Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington, and Jackson first needs Eastern and Northern, not Southern, help. Given a free choice — which they may not have — the Southern delegations in 1972 would go massively for Jackson for the No. 1 place.

St. Paul drivers walk the line for safety

Former Minnesota family honored by Agriculture Dept.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former Minnesota family has been named National Farm Family of 1970 by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerritt Boerema and their four children, now from Hyde County in North Carolina, met with President Nixon Monday in the White House.

The Boeremas, natives of Holland, worked on a Minnesota dairy farm before moving to North Carolina in 1957.

By DEAN DURKEN
St. Paul Pioneer Press Writer
ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — When 406 motorists hear Johnny Cash's hit record, "I Walk the Line," they could shudder in remorseful remembrance. They've been there.

That number of drivers arrested last year for drunk driving in St. Paul walked the 11-foot, 38-inch line before a video tape camera at the police station.

The camera is the first used by a Minnesota police department, Deputy Chief Robert J. Freischel said.

The closed circuit TV camera was first used last December, replacing a 16mm sound-on-film movie camera used since October, 1964.

DWIs, as they are invariably called by policemen, walk the line after lengthy procedures. They are first advised of their rights, both at the scene of arrest and "sometimes nine or 10 times at the station."

The option of taking a blood or a breath test is then explained by the arresting officer. Blood tests are given at St. Paul-Ramsey Hospital. A breath analysis is administered at the station.

A reading of .11 per cent blood alcohol content means a charge of drink driving.

Breathalyzer apparatus measures alcohol fumes filling a cylinder with a .52 cubic centimeters capacity, an officer said. "The air runs through a solution of sulphuric acid, potassium dichromate and water and a silver nitrate catalyst," he said. "The alcohol is absorbed by the sulphuric acid and a chemical reaction changes the color in the tube from pale yellow to white," he added.

A urine test is "unreliable," a detective said, but is offered if other tests are refused.

If the arrested party refuses all tests, he still must face the TV camera.

Under Minnesota's Implied Consent Law, refusal could cause revocation of the arrested driver's license regardless if found guilty or innocent by a judge or jury.

The driver walks the line after breath or blood tests have been analyzed.

The driver is first asked his name and address, usually by the arresting officer.

Then he walks—or tries to walk—the black line at the rear of the room. The officer asks him to walk back and forth in a normal way and then heel-to-heel.

The next step: Stand with feet together and with hands at sides, tilt head back, close eyes and count to 10.

Patrolmen then ask the driver to open his eyes and balance on each foot while counting to 10.

A third count to 10 includes standing heel-to-toe with open eyes and head tilted back.

Using an extra-large piece of chalk, the driver then writes or prints his name, address and occupation on a blackboard.

Several feet in front of the camera, the driver is asked to repeat his name and address. He is asked, "Were you drinking? Where? Have you been drinking? Where? Do you understand why you have been arrested?"

Many patrolmen also ask why the driver had been drinking and ask questions about what they consider "other pertinent data."

If a driver flunks his tests he is escorted and booked in the jail on the third floor. However if a driver has had no previous convictions in St. Paul the past year, the station commander may release him on his own recognizance at a time he specifies to the jailer.

The video tapes may be shown in courtrooms and to attorneys and defendants before trial, a patrolman said.

A young officer estimated "about half" the arrests for DWI are citizen's arrests. Many arrests follow policemen observing a motorist with defective equipment on his car, failing to signal lane changes, running stop signs and driving too slow, he said.

"Most women cry," one patrolman said. "In fact, I used to keep a box of tissues in the TV room."

A veteran policeman said the highest reading he recorded was .44 per cent. "The woman should have been unconscious," he said. "And there's one gal we keep arresting for DWI who knows the tests better than the officers."

One driver couldn't remember his name and many run out of space before writing their last names, another officer said.

Others, he said, complain of tiredness, recent surgery or a back injury before walking the line.

The repeaters and the very drunk and the "sturliest," an officer said. They use abusive language, threaten patrolmen's lives, claim they know influential people and "will get your job," he said.

Others, men included, cry and plead for mercy, he said. Many tell arresting officers they're being "picked on" and fail to recognize the difference between lawmakers and law enforcers.

"Perhaps the most common complaint, most policemen agreed, was the possibility of loss of job.

Many make a typical remark such as, 'I'm bombed, dammit. Do you have to ask?'

Arrested drivers "invariably" admit to consuming "only two or three beers," he added.

Laughing, the officer said, "Famous last words."

Students at SDSU return to classes

BROOKINGS, S.D. (AP) — More than 6,000 students at South Dakota State University were back in class Monday after the majority of them stayed away late last week in protest against plans to close the College of Engineering.

Some 80 to 90 per cent of the student body left classes Thursday and dedicated themselves to mounting public support to retain the college.

One student, returning to campus Monday, termed it "the best lab course in political science anyone will ever receive."

Meanwhile, at Pierre, Rep. Don Ohlsen, Watertown, speaker of the House, called for passage of a bill that would require the college to be retained.

He said the regents' resolution last Friday to reconsider their decision to move the engineering college to the School of Mines and Technology only upon request of the legislature "hands the ball directly to us."

BURGLARIZED GOVERNOR
SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — A police walkie-talkie radio was stolen from a car belonging to Bruce King Jan. 1, the day he became New Mexico governor. The walkie-talkie was valued at about $700 and was taken from the automobile's dashboard.

To the editor County deserves a better board

Because my wife and I are native Winonans we have followed the dispute involving the Winona County Courthouse with increasing interest for the past 15 years or so and particularly since the very existence of the building has been threatened.

While we are not voters in Winona County and have no legal status in the issue, we nevertheless do feel that when an item or a landmark of such great historic importance is involved there is a great deal more at stake than only the rights of those people residing within the specific political boundaries. Therefore, we feel that we do have some right to speak out on this issue.

MY MEMORY of the Winona County Courthouse begins 35 years ago—when as a "little shaver," I would accompany my uncle on his yearly trek to this seat of authority "to pay the taxes." Even at that time, as a child, I was quite impressed by the solidity and stature of the building, the cool, slightly musty, cigar mellow smell of the interior. My eyes were caught by the variety of colors coming through the stained glass windows of the offices.

A few years later, about 1940, the courthouse was the place where we applied for a Minnesota driver's license, after the brief interrogation and payment of a dollar. Still later, between terms at Winona State College, I had occasion to work in the basement of the courthouse where the engineering offices were at that time located. I have always been struck by the feeling of permanence which this structure gave me, in spite of the long years of neglect.

In my present employment, I frequently check court records, particularly the probate records, of the thirteen counties of Wisconsin which comprise my work area. Nowhere in this area, and I suspect also over a much wider area, is there a building representative of this particular style of architecture. There are several interesting and historic buildings, but none of this type. Where additions have been made, they usually have spoiled the form and feeling of the original building.

AS AN EXAMPLE, Monroe County has been able to keep its county courthouse well maintained. The jail addition is at the rear of the building which does not detract from the style of the original courthouse building. They have done some interior remodeling and have installed an elevator without destroying the original style, and they have done it on a "pay-as-you-go" basis. In many Wisconsin counties, the welfare departments, which are not a part of the court anyway, are located in remodeled downtown business places, and in two instances in my area, are located in former residences which are quite suitable.

It seems to us that Winona County could refurbish and modernize the present building on a similar basis, preserving the style of the building and still maintaining an important link with Winona's colorful past. To say that this cannot be done simply reflects a peculiarly lazy attitude.

THE SECOND PART of this issue is perhaps much more important than the disposition of the courthouse building itself. This involves the lack of response to the will of the people of Winona County as exhibited first by their elected county commissioners, and recently by the failure of the judicial process to date.

After three resounding defeats at the polls on bond issues for a new courthouse, a citizen of Winona County could reasonably expect that repairs and necessary modernization of the present building would proceed, but instead nothing was done. The only plausible excuse for the commissioners is an apparent lack of imagination and certainly no appreciation for aesthetics; there can be no excuse made for their crass disregard of the wishes of their constituents. Winona County voters should surely apply the appropriate remedy to this situation come next election.

As for the judicial decision, this is only the opinion of one court. While the judiciary arm of government should be independent, it nevertheless should, in the main, be responsive to the people and the tempo of the times. Instead, with a quick flourish of the pen, three referendums voted on by the people are summarily dismissed as having little or no validity. How are we supposed to tell our children what the democratic process means? How are we to explain this away to generation-gap youth? Some comparison was made of the Winona County Courthouse and another burned-out building which was to be demolished. We fail to see the basis for such a comparison. The tone of the judicial memorandum was so apologetic that it seemed to remind one of the "washing of the hands."

The late Edward Davis, who taught American history at Winona State College, often observed that "people get just about the kind of government that they deserve."

It seems to us that the people of Winona County do deserve much better representation, and it will take considerably more protest and some confrontation before they can attain that elusive goal.

Bloodmobile leaders express appreciation

The recent visit of the American Red Cross bloodmobile was most successful, having exceeded the quota by a considerable amount. This success was in large measure due to the excellent cooperation of the Winona Daily News, KWNO and KAGE.

It goes without saying that any such program must have a great deal of assistance and in this program there are many volunteers that give of their time and efforts tirelessly. The blood program of the American Red Cross in Winona County is particularly blessed with an outstanding staff of volunteers.

We are particularly proud of the young people of our community who helped to make this last visit so successful. The students of the three colleges in our city and those at the Winona Area Technical School are to be commended.

There are others who deserve credit, but space does not permit listing their names and in most cases, those people prefer not to be mentioned. They know who they are. And then there are those generous donors, all of them. Since they cannot all be thanked personally we rely on your paper to offer our sincere gratitude.

Two former GOP workers quit advisory committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two former Republican party workers have resigned from a federal advisory committee on mine safety research in the wake of charges the committee was composed to pay off political debts rather than advance mine safety.

Rep. Ken Hechler, D-W.Va., had questioned the qualifications of three members of the committee, accusing President Nixon of tolerating "the appointment of party hacks... to pay off political debts."

Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton said he would review the appointments, made before he took office by acting Secretary Fred J. Russell. Russell resigned as undersecretary at the end of February, at Morton's instigation.

The Interior Department confirmed today that two of the committee members had resigned, also in February.

One, Mrs. Sara Abernethy, of Altus, Okla., was among the three whose qualifications were questioned by Hechler; the other, Frank L. Kraft of Aberdeen, S.D., was not.

Both had been active in Republican party politics.

The Federal Mine Health and Safety Act of 1969 requires that appointees, who are paid up to $100 a day plus expenses during infrequent meetings, must be "knowledgeable in the field of coal mine safety research."

Mrs. Abernethy is a former fine arts student, a member of the Board of Regents of Oklahoma College of Liberal Arts, and the widow of a physician. She is also a former co-chairman of her county Republican committee and recently joined the staff of Sen. Henry Belmon, R-Okla.

An Interior Department source said Mrs. Abernethy cited her new job with Bellmon as the reason for her resignation.

Kraft is a former traveling representative of Cargill, Inc., the company that owned a Louisiana salt mine where 21 men were killed in a fire in 1968. He is a former Republican county committeeman of Brown County, S.D.

Kraft said he was forced to resign by the demands of other commitments, the Interior source said.

Hechler had also questioned the mine safety qualifications of Jo Ann Gray of Denver, a former airline stewardess and Republican state committeewoman; and of Robert F. Ziems of Arlington, Va., a patent, trademark and antitrust lawyer and former GOP chairman in Fairfax County.

Council supports stream bank improvements

MONDOVI, Wis. (Special) — Members of the Mondovi City Council adopted a resolution supporting bank-improvements for streams flowing into Mirror Lake at their March meeting.

Gary Parker, president of the Conservation Club, Dell Whelan and Kenneth Svendsen asked that aids be sought for the project.

They explained that before it is feasible to dredge Mirror Lake it is essential that bank improvements be made to check the flow of silt and pollutants in the lake.

Glen Tamke, of Owen Ayres, discussed subdivision regulations with the council and also assessment procedures. He explained how to apply for federal and state funds for water and sewer improvements. A resolution was adopted by the council to accompany its application for such funds.

The following bartenders' licenses were approved: Patricia J. Anibas, Steven W. Crawford and Dale Hoch.

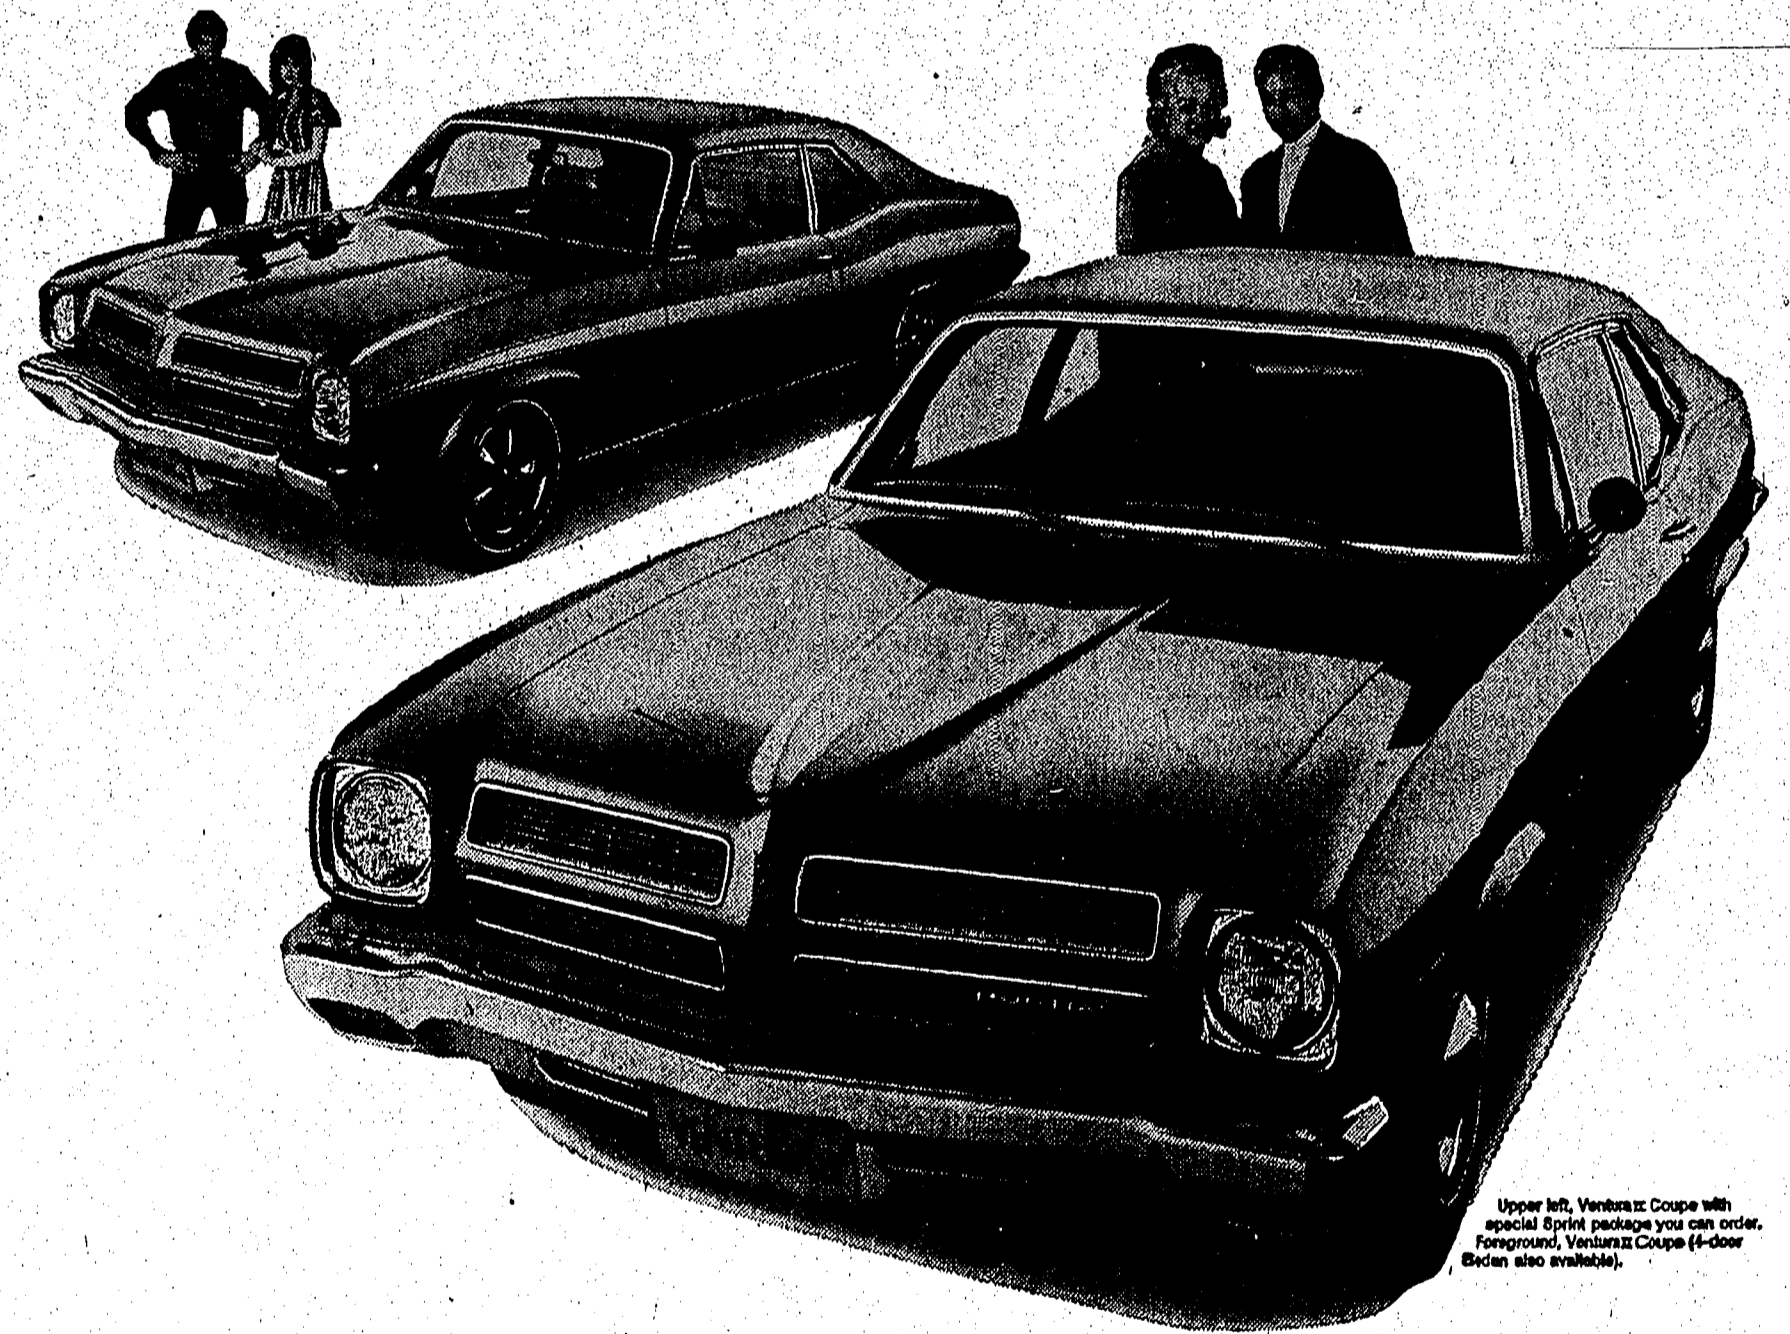

Approved were: the 1970 annual library report, presented by Mrs. John Tanner, and the Fourth of July fireworks display. Two fireworks companies will be considered this year for the best display available.

The following election boards were appointed for two year terms:

First and fourth wards: inspectors, Mrs. Arnold Gunder, Ralph Wood, and Mrs. Norman Hanson; election clerks, Mrs. Lyle Auer and Mrs. Betty Anderson, and ballot clerks, Mrs. Mayme Allison and Mrs. Richard Weiss.

Second and third wards: inspectors, Edwin Juehn, Mrs. Bella Wulff and Mrs. Eleanor Adams; election clerks, Mrs. Curt Olbert and Mrs. Harley Hesselman and ballot clerks, Mrs. Mae Berger and Mrs. Irene Crawford.

Now there's a new, small Pontiac with a small-car price for small-car lovers.

Upper left, Ventura coupe with special Sprint package you can order. Foreground, Ventura Coupe (4-door). Sedan also available.

Wouldn't you know it would be fun to drive, stingy on gas, quick to service and built to last.

Of course you would. We wouldn't build a small car unless we figured it would give you more of what you want a small car for.

Take that low price. Ventura is a small car, so it has a low, small-car price. But it's what you get for that small price that makes Ventura worth a close look.

Ventura is fun to drive. It should be, it's from the Wide-Track people. Which means you get a smooth, comfortable, Wide-Track ride.

The handling's quick. There's a nifty 111-inch wheelbase for easy parking. And both the 250-cu.-in. six and available 307-cu.-in. V-8 respond beautifully in city traffic or on the expressway.

Ventura is stingy with your gas money. Both the standard six-cylinder engine and the V-8 you can order run beautifully on regular gas or the new low-lead and no-lead fuels. The carburetor on the six is an economical one-barrel, and the transmission for both six and V-8 is a practical 3-speed manual.

Ventura is quick to service. If you're a do-it-yourselfer, you'll like fiddling around with the new Ventura.

New twist-lock lamp sockets let you make changes in seconds.

The engine is uncomplicated, and there is plenty of engine-compartment space, especially with the six.

If you ever need to have somebody else work on your car—well, you'll like Ventura, too. Both the standard six and available V-8 are tough, time-tested designs. Same goes for transmissions. The standard 3-speed manual and the available 2-speed automatic, Turbo Hydra-matic or floor-mounted 3-speed are all rugged, dependable units.

Ventura is built to last. There's nothing lightweight about this car. It's welded—not bolted—at hundreds of strategic points to help keep it tight and quiet.

The body is heavy-gauge steel. And it has double paneling in the deck lid, hood and doors. You could probably sum it up best with three little words. Body by Fisher.

So, come on. If you're a small-car lover, stop by your Pontiac dealer's today. Tell him you want to see the new Ventura. It's the small car that gives you more of what you want a small car for.

Senate faced by measure to ease filibuster rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the fourth time in less than a month — and probably the last time this year — the Senate was faced today with an effort to end the filibuster being waged against easing rules on limiting such talkathons.

Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, proposed a compromise Monday in a final effort to win the two-thirds majority needed to break the Southern-led filibuster.

But even Miller had indicated some doubt about his proposal, which called for halting filibusters by a two-thirds majority of senators voting, as under the present rule, or by a three-fifths vote if it included a majority of the senators of both major parties.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said failure today would mean no further efforts on resolving the issue that has been under debate since Jan. 26, and he would move to the next order of business, a proposed constitutional amendment to lower the voting age to 18 in all state and local elections.

Miller offered his compromise as a substitute for the initial proposal of 51 senators that debate could be limited by a three-fifths majority of senators voting.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, a chief sponsor of the three-fifths proposal, told the Senate Monday the change would be only a modest relaxation of the present debate cutoff rule.

"If that kind of proposal cannot even be brought to a Senate vote," he said, "then I fear the United States Senate is doomed to play essentially a negative role in the future..."

Defenders of the present rule argued the Senate's free debate makes it unique among legislative bodies and is essential to protect minority rights, balance the powers of the president, and slow action on highly controversial and divisive legislation.

Agnew: oppose termination of aid to Indians

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Nixon administration firmly advocates self-determination for American Indians and opposes any proposal for terminating federal aid to reservations, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said Monday.

Agnew, chairman of the National Council on Indian Opportunity, told the National Congress of American Indians Conference on Indian Self-Determination "I intend to help you achieve (the) goal" of "freedom to manage your own affairs."

The Vice President informed the 400 delegates decisions they make in the week-long meeting will have a bearing on legislation being prepared by President Nixon relating to Indian self-determination.

Agnew said Congress did not act on the President's request last year "to renounce, repudiate and repeal" the policy of terminating federal aid to Indian reservations expressed in 1953 in House Concurrent Resolution 108.

The administration, Agnew said, "shall not relent" until Congress repeals the measure.

"We believe it should be stricken from the books as a clear Congressional abandonment of the principle of termination," he said.

Departing from a prepared text, the Vice President said he was sympathetic to the Indians' native Alaskan land claims:

"It's true that some of the settlements being discussed by the Indians are not quite realistic... But it is also true we must reach a fair conclusion."

"The present thinking of the Bureau of the Budget is to increase the... deeding of land from 2.9 (million acres) they propose to something over 5 million acres and to 40 million acres for subsistence land."

Agnew said he did not think this was sufficient, adding, "I intend to enter into discussions with the Secretary of Interior and the budget people on our return (and after) we receive from you people your best estimates on these matters."

TV review

NBC film follows book faithfully

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP) — NBC started its most ambitious "World Premiere" feature Monday night, a four-hour, two-part adaptation of Fletcher Knebel's suspense novel, "Vanished."

Judging from the first two hours of the filmed drama, it is a big, lavish and faithful reflection of the 1968 book which was long, had lots of plot and—unfortunately—was recent enough so that a lot of people remember the solution of the mystery.

The story centers in the White House, before and after President Paul Roudebush's best friend and adviser disappears from his golf club. Soon it is learned that the missing man had been meeting weekly in a rented apartment with a nuclear scientist who also disappeared.

Much of the story concentrates on the president's young press secretary who must handle the increasing news corps demands for information while the president refuses to share his knowledge of what is going on.

A lot of the program was filmed on location in Washington and captured some of the flavor of the city. It deals with real government agencies including the FBI and CIA.

Richard Widmark, as the president, and James Farentino as the press secretary, have the heaviest roles, but there is an enormous cast with many prominent names. Among them are Arthur Hill as the missing adviser and Eleanor Parker as his wife. Robert Young, in silver wig and mustache, is a senator with presidential ambitions.

It's an interesting show. The second segment will be broadcast tonight.

With domestic television and radio frozen from on-the-spot, blow-by-blow coverage of the Joe Frazier-Muhammad Ali heavyweight fight, most broadcasters handled the event while it was in progress by using the running report by the news services.

CBS-Radio, for instance, used The Associated Press round-by-round account as fast as it was received. Seconds after Frazier was declared the winner, radio had it on the air. A few minutes later, television stations broke into programs in progress with bulletins.

There were some negotiations by networks for rights to show tape of the fight at a later date. ABC, for one, turned down any deal because the price demanded—reportedly a $500,000—was too high.

Anderson opposed to use of fort as bulk mailing facility

ST. PAUL (AP) — Use of historic Fort Snelling land for a federal bulk mailing facility has been opposed by Gov. Wendell R. Anderson.

Anderson said Monday he will ask the state legislature to adopt a resolution asking the federal government to refrain from any action detracting from the historic and recreational value of the land.

Congressmen Joseph Karth and Donald Fraser also have protested federal plans for the parade and polo grounds at the fort.

STILL FLIES

PARIS, Tex. (AP) — Bill Williams is 72, but he still builds airplanes and flies them.

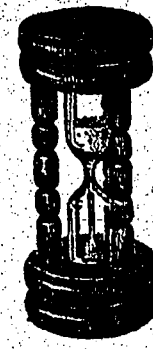

His latest product is a 1941 Taylor Craft powered by its original engine.

The plane was a wreck victim and Williams had to restore the entire left wing. But the frame and engine were usable.

Nancy McKoon

Mr. and Mrs. John McKoon, Maynard, Iowa, announce the engagement of their daughter, Nancy, to Allen Olson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Olson, 1760 Kraemer Drive.

Both Miss McKoon and Mr. Olson will graduate from Luther College, Decorah, Iowa, in May. The bride-elect is a senior in education, and her fiancé is majoring in public accounting.

No wedding date has been set.

Your horoscope — Jeane Dixon

For WEDNESDAY, MARCH 10 YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Intuitive, and sometimes impulsive action, becomes a part of your program this year, with fair results where your intentions are expansive, optimistic.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Begin travel early to get quicker passage and more time for purposes. Go directly to the point in discussions.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Farm out what you can of more tedious work; cut down on added commitments unless you see plenty of help coming. Talkative and indecisive people cross your path.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Expenses run ahead of plans and budgets for the moment. A business deal comes to an end or fails to meet expectations.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Start the day with a firmly settled schedule. Erratic, perhaps lovely people arrive and may distract you. Spend spare time at home.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): The temptation is toward hasty and emphatic expression, impatience. What you say now comes back to you later.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Conventional courtesy makes the difference in dealing with anyone of influence. Friends quarrel over some difference.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your intuition is more reliable than even highly paid, expert advice. Whatever you do alone or with little cooperation is preferable to group action.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Advantage today lies in being called upon rather than doing the calling. Extra hours of work produce little added progress.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21): Associates are easily upset by your whims, impulsive comments. Make no effort to cover gaps with idle talk.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Competitive action pops up, and you have not only your own costs to cover, but something on behalf of a colleague.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Difference of opinion will change plans. Initiative or haste on your part precipitates unwelcome reactions.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Healthy self-interest serves you well as others seek to capitalize on your sympathies, generosity.

BRF auxiliary offers two scholarships

BLACK RIVER FALLS, Wis. — The Black River Memorial Hospital auxiliary will award two scholarships for health-related careers for the second time this spring, according to Mrs. Lawrence Jones, scholarship chairman.

Applications are now in the hands of all Jackson County guidance counselors of the four county high schools where students may apply for them. Applicants not in school who wish to apply may secure application blanks from Mrs. Jones or at the Pink Lady shop in the hospital.

The first scholarship is for $400 for a four year course, payable $100 per year or $100 for each year an enrolled student needs to complete the course. The second scholarship is $100 for a one year course.

Scholarships will be for a hospital related course of study such as registered nurse, licensed practical nurse, therapist, dietitian or the various medical technicians.

Applicants must be residents of Jackson County and have been accepted in an accredited school before applying. The scholarship is paid directly to the school that has accepted the applicant. Applications must be in writing on the form provided by the auxiliary and must be filed with the scholarship chairman before May 1.

On the scholarship committee with Mrs. Jones are Mrs. Duane Hoffman, Mrs. John Noble, and Keith Stevens, guidance counselor of the Black River Falls Senior High School.

BALL PROCEEDS... Persons assisting with the Fourth Annual President's Ball at Winona State College this year attended a luncheon Monday at Kryzsko Commons. Clarence Currier, left, representing the WSC Foundation, received a check for $2,250 from Miss Floretta Murray who served as co-chairman of the ball along with Mrs. Richard Callender, right. Dr. Robert DuFresne, president of WSC, looks on. Others attending the luncheon were hosts and hostesses of pre-ball parties as well as several committee chairmen. Following the luncheon, the group discussed the ball and made suggestions for next year's event. Dr. DuFresne thanked the community on behalf of the college. Proceeds will be used by the foundation to assist students pursuing careers in education. (Daily News photo)

Dear Abby:

Wear pants, but look good in them

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: This is in reply to "FOR DEMOCRACY" who wanted to know why the women in her office couldn't vote about whether or not to wear pants suits.

Perhaps the boss knows the interpretation some women would put on "pants." Here in New York City, female teachers were recently permitted to wear pants suits. Since that time, every kind of pants imaginable has been worn by women teachers of all ages, shapes and sizes, and some of the rear views have been horrendous! I've seen skin-light jeans, ill-fitting knit pants, bell bottoms, ski-type stretch pants, lounging pajamas, hip-huggers, and a few neat, well-tailored pants suits. (Very few.) Let the ladies inflict pants on the world OUTSIDE of business hours. They are, for the most part, hideous. Please omit my name. I am a woman teacher in the Bronx. ANTIPANTS

Abby

DEAR ANTI: "Interpretation" is all important, I agree. One young woman, when arrested for swimming topless at a beach where a sign was posted, "Women must wear two-piece swim suits," explained that hers WAS a two-piece swim suit. Shorts and a cap to match.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of mature adults speaking French (or any other foreign language for that matter) in front of people who don't understand a word?

My future in-laws speak French in front of me, knowing I cannot speak a word of it. They speak English very well, and there is no reason for them to speak French.

This has been going on for two years. Please don't tell me to learn French because I had all I could do to pass Spanish in high school.

Am I making a big deal out of nothing? Or are they just plain rude? NO PAR LAY VOO

DEAR NO PAR LAY VOO: They are rude for sure. But you could also be making a big deal out of nothing. You don't have to "par lay voo" — just pretend to "comprende."

DEAR ABBY: The story about the 16-year-old girl not being able to attend public school because she was not living with her parents may not have made any sense to you, but it is true.

We had reason to investigate that very situation and learned that a student may not attend a Detroit public school unless he is living with his family or a legal guardian. It seems to me that if a student finds living conditions at home intolerable, but is able to live with family friends, he should be permitted to attend school as long as he makes regular grades and attends school regularly.

We hear so much about "drop outs." I think an investigation would show that many are "locked out."

MICHIGAN READER

DEAR READER: I heard the same is true in New Jersey. It still doesn't make any sense to me.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "IN LOVE WITH AN INTELLECTUAL": The correct quote you are searching for is: "If a man does not keep pace with his companions, perhaps it is because he hears a different drummer. Let him step to the music which he hears, however measured or far away." (Thoreau.) The question is whether your intellectual friend is "stepping to the music" of a farout drummer, or making up his own tune as he goes along.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

'Air pollution is worst problem', says speaker

Mrs. John Tweedy, Portia Club speaker, told members Monday that "Of all the forms of environmental decay, air pollution may be considered the most serious, since every one of us must breathe every minute of our lives."

Meeting at the home of Mrs. S. S. Sawyer, Mrs. Tweedy continued her talk on "Air Pollution Is Breathing Down Your Neck," by noting that we inhale 40 to 70 thousand particles of dust and harmful gases each time we take a breath. Because of air pollution, Chicago loses 40 percent of its natural sunlight, and it is projected that within 10 or 15 years urban dwellers will need to wear gas masks to protect themselves from polluted air. It has also been predicted that by 1985 the total amount of sunlight reaching the earth will be cut in half.

"In addition to spreading a blanket of gloom over the country, these pollutants are destructive," Mrs. Tweedy stated. She particularly mentioned that air pollution causes paint to crack, cats away at stone, tarnishes copper and silver, rusts iron, cracks rubber tires and even causes rashes in nylon stockings. She also mentioned that smog destroys plants and crops at an alarming rate. Specifically included were the citrus and orchard industries of California and Florida and the tobacco industry in Kentucky and Maryland.

"CROP damage caused by pollution totals $500 million a year in the United States alone," Mrs. Tweedy said.

Especially susceptible to the pollutant ozone are the pine forests in the U.S. In West Virginia, the Christmas tree industry has nearly been wiped out by the sulfur dioxide from the coal mining industry. Citing the fact that the Parthenon in Athens has been so damaged by air pollution that authorities are considering coating it with a covering of plastic, Mrs. Tweedy emphasized, saying "From Denver to New York, and Tokyo to Moscow, virtually every major city in our world has a pollution problem."

"Even more important and of course impossible to calculate in dollars is the damage to human health," the speaker mentioned. Stating that the World Health Organization has identified more than 100 different air pollutants, Mrs. Tweedy named bronchitis, asthma, emphysema, pneumonia and the common cold as diseases increased in prevalence because of air pollution. Breathing normally in a heavily polluted city may be equivalent to smoking a package of cigarettes daily. Temperature inversion or the cold air holding warm polluted air close to the earth was given as one of the reasons for the disastrous London Black Fog of 1952 when there was complete darkness for days within a 20-mile radius of that city and where 4,000 deaths occurred in six days only to be followed by another 4,000 within a few weeks.

MRS. TWEEDY stated that, "Air pollution has two major causes: from moving sources such as autos, buses and airplanes; and from stationary sources like factories, power plants and oil burning heating units."

"The automobile is the most serious offender, accounting for 60 percent of the air-pollution in the U.S.," she noted.

The alarming fact that there are 90 million autos in the U.S. today and the number is increasing at 2½ times the rate of our population might cause us to seriously consider riding our bicycles or walking.

After encouraging the members to write their federal and state legislators, Mrs. Tweedy concluded saying, "Something can be done and is being done. Reduction of our air pollution is clearly one of our nation's most pressing problems."

AT THE business meeting preceding the program, it was announced that April 1 was the deadline for turning in bridge scores and contributions to the tabulators, two weeks in advance of the Marathon Awards Night set for April 14 at the Congregational Church Fireside Room. Program committee members, Mrs. Stanley Hammer, chairman, Mrs. John Pendleton, Mrs. Leo Murphy Jr. and Mrs. C. Charles Green announced that the vote of the members had produced the subject of "technological advances" for the next year.

Contributions were voted for the Winona Day Activity Center, the Association for Retarded Children and the Music Guild. In closing, Mrs. JAMES Tester explained briefly about the informational meetings she had attended at the Hiawatha Valley Mental Health Center, the gatherings being an effort to better inform the community of the help available through the center and an attempt to involve lay people in its functioning.

YWCA offers golf lessons

Golf lessons for men and women will start Monday at the YWCA. Instruction will be available for beginners and for those who want to improve their game.

Classes will be held at 7, 7:45, and 8:30 p.m. Monday evenings and, if registrations warrant, classes will also be held on Thursday evenings. The term will extend to April 19. The last class in the series will be held on the golf course.

Some clubs are available at the Y for class use. Those who have their own clubs should bring a number five iron to the first class and should wear rubber soled shoes.

Instructor is Harry Kowalczyk. Pre-registration for the activity is urged in order that classes may be kept small. Registration may be made by phoning the YWCA office.

Paintings being exhibited at Watkins Gallery, WSC

An exhibition of paintings entitled "Painterly Realism" is currently being shown at Watkins Gallery, Winona State College. The exhibit is open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and will continue through March 28.

The selection was made by the staff of the American Federation of Arts and is circulating throughout the United States under its auspices.

THE EXHIBITION represents an important contemporary direction in American painting which deals in a special way with figurative images. While the subject matter is representational, it cannot be considered to be traditional realism. In his introduction to the exhibition catalog, Michael Wentworth, former Acting Director of Smith College Museum of Art, discusses definitions of realism. While using the terms figurative and representational interchangeably as the presence of objects drawn from the visual world, he defines painterly as "a system which insists on definite qualities of brushwork and surface as an integral part of its aesthetic." Thus the works were brought together because they share loose, rapid and fluid brushstrokes while representing figurative images such as human figures, still-lives and landscapes.

Such artists as Jane Freilicher, Paul Georges and Fairfield Porter who are included here have been working in this manner for some time; other young-

Egypt hoping for U.S. help

By ELIAS ANTAR
CAIRO (AP) — The Egyptian government still hopes the United States will get Israel to withdraw from the territories occupied in the 1967 war, officials in Cairo say.

They say President Anwar Sadat let the Suez Canal cease-fire expire to keep his options open in case diplomacy fails, but a resumption of shooting in the near future is not being considered.

"We are still hoping the United States will get Israel to undertake a commitment to withdraw from occupied territories," said an official at the Foreign Ministry. "For the time being we are waiting."

Al-Ahram, Cairo's semi-official newspaper, revealed today that Sadat and President Nixon have been exchanging messages. The paper gave no details of what was said between the two, but it said the latest message was sent from Sadat to Nixon last Friday, two days before the Egyptian announced his government was no longer bound by the cease-fire the United States had sponsored.

Sadat in his broadcast announcement also revealed he paid a secret visit to Moscow early last week and said he obtained the Soviet government's complete support for his refusal to continue the cease-fire.

Egyptian officials said the Soviets are giving full support to Egypt's diplomatic campaign to move the Israelis back. But they said Sadat's words implied full Soviet support if hostilities resume.

Egyptian officials feel that Cairo has made a number of significant concessions during the past month. They consider its chief conciliatory move a commitment to sign a peace agreement with the Jewish state if Israel will leave the occupied Arab land.

"Now the question has been narrowed down to one of territory," said an official. "It is a question of whether or not they intend to get out of our hand."

"The Israelis are mistaken if they think we will make further concessions. Withdrawal from our territory is our bedrock demand, and on this we will not budge."

He said the United States knows this Egyptian position and was told in advance what Sadat would say on Sunday.

and again to quash investigations into Crum's operations.

Witnesses have said Cole intervened on behalf of at least two of Crum's clients, Jim Beam whiskey and Carlings beer.

Other witnesses said Cole intervened in attempts to free Crum's slot machines from Vietnamese customs duty.

And Bybee said Crum was successful in getting Cole to call off American participation in a raid on Sari Electronics of Hanoi. Shortly thereafter, he said, Crum initiated with Cole's help a Vietnamese police raid on his leading slot machine competitor, a raid so successful it put the competitor out of business and left Crum in virtual command of slot machine business from the U.S. military.

Former general called to reply to bribe accusations

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former one-star general was called from forced retirement today to reply to accusations that he took bribes from an international slot-machine syndicate and shielded corruptors of the Post Exchange and GI club systems.

Ex-Brig. Gen. Earl F. Cole's testimony is the latest development in an inquiry stretching back to last year by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff's permanent investigations subcommittee into the operations of PXs and clubs.

Last year the Army removed Cole from command of the Army-Air Force exchange service in Europe. Soon after he was demoted to colonel, stripped of the Distinguished Service Medal awarded for his service as PX policy adviser in Vietnam and ordered retired. At the time, the Army would say only that Cole had not met the standard of integrity expected of a general officer.

Cole has constantly denied any wrongdoing and has said he will go to court to defend himself.

Before his assignment in Europe, Cole was in charge of personnel and administration and wielding over-all policy administration for PXs and clubs in Vietnam.

Previous witnesses told the subcommittee Cole misused that position willfully and repeatedly to protect illicit operations of William J. Crum and his firms' dealing with the U.S. military in Vietnam.

Monday, the former chief legal officer at the U.S. Military Systems Command in Saigon said Cole played him a "low-down dirty trick" when he put him up in luxury hotel quarters in Hong Kong without telling him most of the bill was being paid by Price and Co., a liquor distributor owned by Crum.

Col. Robert Ivey said Cole "played me for a patsy" in providing the quarters and later asking for special treatment for another of Crum's companies, Sari Electronics, which had established a near-monopoly in slot machine sales to Army clubs in Vietnam.

Jack Bybee, once a general manager of Crum's Vietnam enterprises, testified Crum told him Gen. Cole cost him at least $1,000 monthly and that he could expect the general to return the favor.

Bybee and other witnesses testified Cole intervened again and again to quash investigations into Crum's operations.

Witnesses have said Cole intervened on behalf of at least two of Crum's clients, Jim Beam whiskey and Carlings beer.

Other witnesses said Cole intervened in attempts to free Crum's slot machines from Vietnamese customs duty.

And Bybee said Crum was successful in getting Cole to call off American participation in a raid on Sari Electronics of Hanoi. Shortly thereafter, he said, Crum initiated with Cole's help a Vietnamese police raid on his leading slot machine competitor, a raid so successful it put the competitor out of business and left Crum in virtual command of slot machine business from the U.S. military.

Court closes door on 'just war' doctrine

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has closed the door on Catholics and others who believe in the "just war" doctrine but evidently not on Muhammad Ali, whose draft appeal is tentatively set for argument next month.

Ali's lawyers will insist the former heavyweight champion's Muslim religion prohibited him not only from fighting in Vietnam but from fighting in any war that did not have Allah's blessing.

This argument, disputed by the Justice Department does not seem imperiled by the 8-1 draft ruling announced by the Court hours before Ali was defeated by Joe Frazier.

The heart of the decision is the findings Congress did not intend to exempt opponents of any one particular war, including the Vietnam war, when it provided conscientious objector status for those "opposed to participation in war in any form."

A "straightforward reading," of the law, said Justice Thurgood Marshall, "can bear out but one meaning: that conscientious scruples relating to war and military service must amount to conscientious opposition to participating personally in any war and all war."

The two men who lost Guy Gillette of Yonkers, N.Y., a self-described humanist, and Louis A. Negre of Bakersfield, Calif., a Catholic, had asserted the "just war" doctrine and said they could not conscientiously fight in Vietnam.

Gillette, particularly, said he would be willing to participate in a war of national defense or in a U.N. peace-keeping measure.

Significantly the ruling did not upset a 1955 decision that a Jehovah's Witness was entitled to C.O. status even though he was not opposed to participation in a "theocratic war" commanded by Jehovah. Since he opposed fighting in secular wars the court said he was a legitimate conscientious objector.

Ali's appeal rests heavily on that decision.

The position the Justice Department will take has not completely crystallized. Undoubtedly the government lawyers will try to convince the court there is ample evidence in the record to conclude Ali objected only to specific wars and not wars in general.

PCA rejects plea to postpone burning ban

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Requests from Minneapolis and St. Paul to postpone the date for an open burning ban were rejected Monday by the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (PCA).

The PCA staff report pointed out that both cities have known since mid July that the ban on backyard burning would take effect last Friday.

MORE MURDER

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Murder was on the increase in Lebanon last year, with 232 killings reported, 20 more than in 1969.

Statistics show guns, knives and machineguns were the most common weapons. But one murderer killed his victim by pushing him into a blast furnace, and another killed a father and his son with a booby-trapped Christmas package.

The youngest murderer was an 8-year-old girl who poisoned a 3-month-old baby. There was one killer-animal, a donkey who kicked and bit his owner to death last summer.

Nine political kidnappings were reported and 500 cars stolen in 1970, the figures show.

One hundred persons were killed and 400 wounded by stray bullets from guns fired at marriages, funerals, election victories and other occasions where it is customary in this country to shoot off guns.

and again to quash investigations into Crum's operations.

Witnesses have said Cole intervened on behalf of at least two of Crum's clients, Jim Beam whiskey and Carlings beer.

Other witnesses said Cole intervened in attempts to free Crum's slot machines from Vietnamese customs duty.

And Bybee said Crum was successful in getting Cole to call off American participation in a raid on Sari Electronics of Hanoi. Shortly thereafter, he said, Crum initiated with Cole's help a Vietnamese police raid on his leading slot machine competitor, a raid so successful it put the competitor out of business and left Crum in virtual command of slot machine business from the U.S. military.

Five Army men plead innocent to fraud charges

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sgt. Maj. William D. Woodriddle and four other Army men pleaded innocent Monday to charges of conspiring to defraud noncommissioned officers clubs in Vietnam.

The other defendants are M. Sgt. William Higdon, Sgt. 1.C. William Bagby, and two retired noncommissioned officers, Narvaez Hatcher and Theodore Bass.

They are accused of conspiring between 1965 and 1969 to defraud the government through bribes and kickbacks, falsifying records and overpaying for supplies.

U.S. District Court Judge Warren Ferguson set Aug. 2 for a hearing on pretrial motions.

Woodriddle was once the Army's highest ranking enlisted man.

Fergus Falls mother of nine 'Mother of Year'

ST. PAUL (AP) — A Fergus Falls mother of nine who returned to college and a teaching career after her husband died has been named Minnesota's Mother of the Year.

The selection of Mrs. I. M. Rotto was announced in St. Paul Monday. She will participate in national competition in New York.

Mrs. Rotto, whose husband died in 1954, teaches fourth grade in Our Lady of Victory School, Fergus Falls. Eight of her children are graduates of Luther College, Decorah, Iowa, where the ninth is a senior.

Construction of three ABM sites is requested

That 1972 minimum program proposes construction of three ABM sites protecting U.S. Minuteman missiles and early moves toward deployment of a fourth site at either Warren Air Force Base, Wyo., or in Washington, D.C.

Officials said Nixon will choose one of those options after he feels out the SALT negotiations which resume in Vienna next week.

The defense secretary made no mention of Soviet moves to deploy an advanced intercontinental ballistic missile as reported Sunday by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash. Defense officials said this development was taken into account in planning next year's budget but there was no explanation why mention was left out of Laird's report.

Laird said there are indications construction work on new Soviet intercontinental-missile silos had slowed during the past year and "implications of these trends are still not clear."

Even if Russia should level off at roughly the present number of ICBMs in operations or under construction, Laird said, it still could have more than 1,900 warheads in its ICBM force by the mid-1970s.

"This force alone would be more than enough to destroy all U.S. cities of any substantial size," Laird said.

The defense secretary reported the Soviet force of missile-launching submarines had grown to 17 in operation and 15 being assembled or fitted out. Two years ago the Soviets had four of these subs in operation and Laird called this the "fastest growing element of the threat."

He reported the Russians are developing a new swing-wing bomber which other officials described as similar to the U.S. FB111 and believed capable of reaching the United States with refueling.

As for the communist Chinese threat, Laird said a "reduced range test" of an ICBM may have been made late last year. But the Chinese have yet to send such a missile over the full 5,000-mile range.

Canada official upset by U.S. pollution control

TORONTO (AP) — A Canadian government minister said Monday there is a gap between "rhetoric and results in U.S. pollution control programs."

J. J. Greene, minister of energy, mines and resources, blamed the United States for 80 per cent of the pollution in the Great Lakes.

Greene said U.S. government leaders have expressed the intention of combatting pollution and quoted Secretary of State William P. Rogers as saying a nation should consult other countries when its industrial practices may affect their environment.

"I wonder if there isn't some credibility gap on the part of our neighbors between pronouncements and policy, he said.

Greene, in his speech to a Toronto audience, announced formation of a Canadian mineral industry advisory committee, but he said Canadian efforts toward pollution control are of no use if the United States does not match them.

Rangers busy with requests to cross Death Valley

DEATH VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Park rangers are hard-put to keep up with requests for information about crossing Death Valley on foot, says Al Schneider, district ranger.

Last summer, when temperatures climbed to 125 degrees or more, a half-dozen persons made the 120-mile trip hiking or jogging.

Now that daytime highs are in the 60s and 70s, Schneider said, "we've got a big list of inquiries from persons who want to walk, run, hike, skip, jump and handstand their way through here and we just can't keep up with them all anymore."

April draft call is reduced slightly

ST. PAUL (AP) — Minnesota's April draft call has been set at 431 men, Selective Service officials announced Monday.

The state quota compares with 468 in February and 367 in March.

7 faculty appointments receive board approval

Employment of seven faculty members for the schools of Winona District 861 was approved Monday night by the School Board.

School Board

The board also accepted resignations submitted by six members of this year's staff and terminated contracts, effective at the end of the current year, of eight instructors who had been employed part-time this year.

In another personnel matter, the board formalized the appointment of Gary Matson, an instructor this year at Jefferson Elementary School, as principal of the Minnesota City and Rollingstone schools, and possibly Stockton, for the 1971-72 school year.

Informal approval of the appointment, made on the recommendation of E. W. Mueller, assistant superintendent of schools for elementary education, had been expressed a week earlier by board members at a committee of the whole meeting.

The appointment was made as a result of the prior appointment of Richard Adank, principal this year at Rollingstone and Minnesota City, to serve as the first principal at the new Goodview Elementary School when it opens next fall.

Mueller had recommended that Matson begin his new duties on at least a part-time basis this spring to free Adank for administrative details in conjunction with preparation for the opening of the new school.

The resignations were received from Cynthia Pontinen, first grade teacher at Lincoln School; Josie Knutson, instructor of grades four through six at the Nodine School; Lee Loerch, mass media instructor at Winona Senior High School; Joan Highum, French teacher at Senior High; Mary Yoki, second grade at Madison, and Marilyn Mortland, Jefferson elementary instructor.

The teachers employed were hired at salaries drawn from the current teachers' salary schedule and these could be adjusted by any amendments to the schedule effected in current negotiations between the school board and the Winona Teachers Council.

The new faculty members hired are: Elisabeth Maleszewski, a 1968 graduate of Winona State College who taught at Phelps School last year. Her salary will be based on the third step of the bachelor's degree schedule, currently $8,155. She has taught two years at Chatfield, Minn.

Joelwyn Howell, a 1966 graduate of Wisconsin State University at Platteville, who taught at Phelps School last year and was hired on the fourth step of the bachelor's plus 30 credit hours step, or $8,320.

Dorothy McBride, a 1969 graduate of Winona State College who taught at Phelps this past year and will be paid on the fourth step of the bachelor's schedule, now $8,540.

Susan Holan, a December 1970 graduate of the College of Saint Teresa has been employed in the system's Title I and Slow Learning Disabilities programs and will be placed at the first step of bachelor's degree schedule at $7,000.

Norman Miller, a 1970 graduate of Winona State College who has taught the past year at Onalaska, Wis., on step one of the bachelor's degree schedule at $7,385.

Mary Benson, a spring graduate of the University of Minnesota-Duluth, as instructor for the hearing impaired and speech therapist for the remainder of the current school year, beginning March 23, at a salary of $1,831.

Those teachers who are to be sent notices of the board's intent to terminate their contracts at the end of the current school year because they were hired as part-time instructors, and because there's no assurance that these positions will be open next year, are:

Kathleen Goke, instructor at the Winona Junior High School, Junior High School and Area Vocational - Technical School; Jacques Gibbs, Barbara Bergstad, Shirley Meska - all Winona Junior High School - Elizabeth Polousky, Winona Junior High School and elementary; Mrs. Gladys DeLano, elementary music; Mrs. Edward Scherneck, vocational - technical school, and Diane Von Bargen, vocational - technical school.

Teacher asks why contract voided

A request that he be furnished a written list of reasons for his action was requested by the probationary teacher of the Winona public schools whose contract was terminated Monday night by the School Board of Independent District 861.

School Board

Board action terminated the contract of Donald Frisby, a mathematics instructor at Winona Junior High School, on the recommendation of the school administration.

Superintendent of Schools A. L. Nelson said that state law provides that a public school teacher be on probationary status during his first two years of employment in Minnesota.

He said that a school board may terminate the contract of any probationary teacher at the end of either of these first two years but that if the teacher requests, he must be furnished a list of reasons for the termination.

The law also stipulates that the probationary teacher have supervision during this period and be made aware of any deficiencies that supervisory personnel might have noted.

After the board had voted for termination, the superintendent said that he had written to Frisby last week informing him of the intent to recommend termination and that Frisby, who was present at Monday night's meeting had requested a list of reasons and the right to refute any statements he might desire.

Board President Frank J. Allen said that he had spoken to Frisby prior to the meeting Monday night and had advised him that he thought it would be best for Frisby, after receiving the list of reasons given for his contract termination, to make any rebuttal in writing to the board.

Although a probationary teacher is not legally entitled to a formal hearing in termination proceedings, Allen said that it might be possible, after the board has reviewed any written statement that the teacher might make, to invite him to appear before the board for any statement if the board feels this is justified.

Frisby agreed to this arrangement.

Preston DFLer candidate for district head

PRESTON, Minn. — A Preston man has become the first person to announce that he is seeking the 1st District DFL party chairmanship vacated last week.

Thomas Lindstroth is a member of the Fillmore County DFL executive board and served on various candidate campaigns in 1970.

Reporting that he has the endorsement of the Fillmore County DFL Central Committee, Lindstroth is seeking to replace Wesley Lane, West St. Paul, who resigned last week after months of speculation that he would do so after being named to a position on Attorney General Warren Spannaus' staff.

Lane's replacement will be elected by the 1st District DFL central committee at a meeting early in April. The district executive committee will meet in Austin, Minn., on Saturday to select a date for the central committee meeting.

Lewiston co-op reports sales of $576,884

LEWISTON, Minn. — Total sales for 1970 of $576,884 were reported for the Lewiston Co-op Association at its meeting Saturday. This is $89,069 more than 1969 sales of $487,815.

There was a 1.13 percent increase in net margins. The 1970 figure, 2.40 percent, was $13,835 compared to 1.27 percent ($6,186) in 1969.

The association has total capital equities of $232,452 including $198,623 in total shares and credits, and $33,829 in reserves. Patronage refunds payable in shares totaled $9,241, as compared to $3,734 in 1969.

Included in the expenses were $423,543 for cost of sales; $75,758 for merchandising; $26,102 administrative cost; and $38,218 in general overhead expense.

Other revenues, including patronage refunds and purchase discounts, totaled $17,491. Howard Volkart, Minnesota City, and Roland Mueller, Lewiston, were re-elected to three-year terms on the board of directors. Hold-over directors are Theodore Thesing, Roslyn Rohrer, Clarence R. E. S. ie, George Sommer, Lewiston, and William Michaelis Jr., Rollingstone. Claire Rice is manager.

BRF draft office on closing list

BLACK RIVER FALLS, Wis. (Special) — The Jackson County Selective Service office is one of 33 in Wisconsin which will be closed in conjunction with a major reorganization of the Selective Service system.

No date has been released for the closing but it is expected it will be by Jan. 1. After that date the work normally handled through the office of Mrs. Lucille Harrison in the courthouse in Black River Falls will most likely be handled at La Crosse. The change is expected to take 60 to 90 days.

Members of the Jackson County Selective Service Board are Bert Skaar, Ernest Buttkie, Harold Cole, Jack Lettingwell and Louis Musser.

Mrs. Harrison, who has held her position as clerk for 18 years, said the first official word she had on the change came about a week ago. She now is awaiting details.

The La Crosse board is expected to have jurisdiction of all draft-eligible men in Monroe, Jackson, Juneau, Trempealeau and La Crosse counties. Currently each county has a draft clerk, except for La Crosse county, which has three.

The reorganization has been called the first major change in the Selective Service system in 20 years by national director Curtis Tarr. The move is being made to prepare for a national goal of zero draft by July 1, 1973.

Other offices which will be closed will include Bayfield, Burnett, Sawyer, Price, Vilas, Forest, Florence, Polk, Rush, St. Croix, Pierce, Pepin, Buffalo, Trempealeau, Monroe, Taylor, Lincoln, Langlad, Oconto, Door, Kewaunee, Calumet, Green Lake, Marquette, Adams, Vernon, Crawford, Iowa, Lafayette and Green counties.

Cattle advisory group sets first meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — A nine-month-old National Cattle Industry Advisory Committee will hold its first meeting here on Thursday and Friday.

Don Pearlberg, Agriculture Department director of economics, is committee chairman. He said the meeting will include "the economic aspects of the cattle industry, import policies, the feed grain situation and inspection and sanitation matters."

Draft counseling center operates 3 days a week

A draft information and counseling center organized here in January is operating three days a week in the basement of the Newman Center, 377 Main St. Called Winona Draft Help, it consists of seven volunteer draft counselors trained in the details of Selective Service System laws.

THE CENTER was the brainchild of Mrs. Ronald Salzberger, 1083 Gale St., who set it up with the training aid of Minnesota Draft and Military Help, Inc., a non-denominational church-oriented draft counseling center in Minneapolis.

Also central to the project here is the Rev. John Preston, Winona State College's Protestant campus minister for the United Campus Ministry.

Both are quick to point out that Winona Draft Help is not a politically-oriented organization for aiding draft resisters. Their work, Rev. Preston explained, centers primarily around explanations of the draft laws and counseling concerning the individual's alternatives within those laws.

"We provide information about the draft laws," he said, "and about the experiences of other people and the options they have taken."

for programs funded by Title I of the Elementary and Secondary School Act, was taken Monday night by the School Board of Independent District 861.

Notices of board intent to terminate their contracts had been submitted previously to each of the teachers involved and none had requested a hearing on the termination proceedings.

THE TITLE I teachers' contracts were terminated on grounds that funding for the programs does not extend beyond the current school year and there is no assurance that the programs will be offered next year.

6 discussions on ethics at St. Mary's

A series of six free panel discussions on contemporary ethical issues will be held at St. Mary's College Center at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday nights beginning March 16.

The March 16 discussion will be held in room ABC of the center. The meeting will consider the topic "Contemporary Ethical Thinking on the Waging of War." The conversation will include the ethics of combat not only in Vietnam but in its many various forms around the world.

The meeting will open with a 45-minute panel discussion by members of the faculty and student bodies of St. Mary's College, the College of Saint Teresa, and Winona State College. Panelists will include Dr. Urie Scott, vice president for academic affairs at St. Mary's College; Dr. Thomas Elten, assistant professor of theology at St. Mary's; Dr. Norman Soblesk, history department, Winona State; Martha Petry, a senior at St. Teresa, Jane Horion, a junior at St. Mary's; Robert Rotering, Vincent Jaccino, and Robert Verde, seniors at St. Mary's. Thomas Gullickson, St. Mary's junior, will moderate.

A 45-minute open conversation with the audience will follow the panel's talk.

Subsequent Tuesday night topics will be decided in consultation with the audience and will be announced one week in advance. Topics might include contemporary ethical thinking on civil disobedience, abortion, terminating the lives of incurables, suicidal organ transplants, genetic control, ecology, the space program, poverty programs, or other current issues.

The discussion will be informal, and the public is invited.

Midwest flooding is seen by NWS

The National Weather Service in Kansas City says if the spring thaw and precipitation are normal, much of the Midwest will experience "severe or record flooding" this year.

The Minneapolis office of the Weather Service, meanwhile, said this morning that its advisory on expected spring river crests along the Mississippi River and other rivers and tributaries is scheduled for issue March 11.

A spokesman said that it was possible that a preliminary report might be made prior to that date and that a statement regarding anticipated conditions was being prepared today.

He said that he did not know exactly when the statement when being drafted would be released.

The National Weather Service said Wednesday moderate or severe flooding could be expected in parts of North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois and Missouri.

Hardest hit will be Minnesota, northern Iowa, Wisconsin and northwestern Illinois, the service said in a release.

The region has accumulated two to three times normal soil moisture and snowpack this year.

"Two years ago, melting of record snows brought massive flooding which caused nine deaths and did $151 million in property damage," the National Weather Service noted.

"Another complicating factor is that ice on the rivers is unusually thick this year. Ice jams could produce crests at some localities three to five feet higher than otherwise could be expected," the service said.

Good things come in little oak barrels.

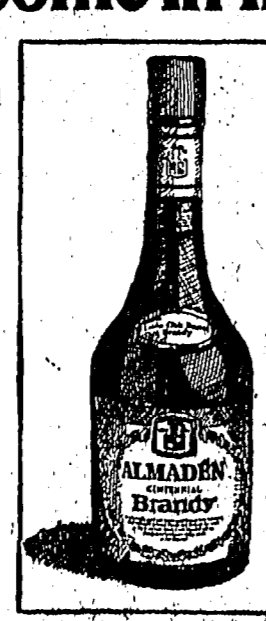

You're a guy who likes brandy. So there's something you should know.

A very important part of making brandy smooth is the oak barrel the brandy is aged in.

Little barrels bring the oak and the brandy closer together. And so they make an outstandingly smooth brandy.

Almadén Brandy is aged in just such little oak barrels. You'll taste the difference the moment you try it.

Try it soon.

Five state legislatures acting to ban the SST

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Proposals have been introduced in five state legislatures to ban the supersonic transport, either through outright prohibition of the SST or by setting limits for aircraft noise.

Bills aimed at trying to ban the plane are in committee in Maine, Massachusetts, New York, Michigan and Illinois, and an Iowa state representative says he plans to submit such legislation.

Proponents of a ban from all six states were told in Washington Monday that their efforts may be the only way to keep the controversial plane from flying.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., an opponent of the SST, told the group that more vigorous administration support, well-financed industry lobbying and the reported backing of AFL-CIO President George Meany may shift the congressional balance of power to proponents of the plane.

Congressional opponents of the SST seek to cut off further funds for development of the plane. The most common approach by state legislators opposing the plane is to propose noise limits.

Typical is a bill introduced in New York State by Democratic Assemblyman Andrew Stein of Manhattan. It would set a maximum noise level of 108 decibels perceived noise in decibels which is the level created by subsonic planes.

Stein claims the indicated landing noise level of the SST would be 124 db. An alternative approach to the problem is taken in six bills now before the Massachusetts Legislature. Most would ban the jet from Logan International Airport in East Boston, the only commercial airport in the state capable of handling the SST.

Others would ban the plane from any airport in the state. State Senator James R. McIntyre, D-Quincy, majority whip, says the SST would cater to the jet set rather than the needs of the average American.

Edward J. King, executive director of the Massachusetts Port Authority, which runs Logan, says development of the plane would improve the economy and provide 4,300 new jobs for the region.

A third approach is that taken in a measure introduced in Maine by Rep. Robert Lee Whitson, D-Portland. His bill would prohibit SSTs from flying over the state.

Violators would be fined not less than $500 nor more than $1,000 for the first offense and not less than $2,000 nor more than $5,000 for any subsequent offense.

In Illinois, the House Environment Committee has recommended passage of a noise limiting bill sponsored by Chicago Democratic Rep. Robert Mann but has not yet sent the bill to the floor.

Iowa State Rep. Arthur Small, D-Iowa City, says he plans to introduce two bills: one to limit aircraft noise and another to ban any plane from causing a sonic boom over Iowa.

Ford education report is called 'significant'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has embraced a Ford Foundation report contending students are right when they say colleges are irrelevant.

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Elliot L. Richardson called the report "provocative, controversial and innovative" and as significant a statement on higher education as he has seen.

Recent reforms in curriculum and governing powers have left untouched major problems of isolation, forced conformity and rigidity in higher education, the report found.

Haven't some students been saying the same things about their colleges? "There is a very substantial core of validity in their anger," said Richardson whose predecessor, Robert Finch, suggested the report.

"The system, with its massive inertia, resists fundamental change, rarely eliminates outmoded programs, ignores the differing needs of students, seldom questions its educational goals, and almost never advocates new and different types of institutions," the task force said.

The Ford group headed by Frank Newman, associate director of university relations at Stanford University, suggested the root problem for all higher education is the university and its credential-faden faculty.

"The modern academic university has, like a magnet, drawn all institutions towards its organizational form until today the same teaching method, the same organization by disciplines, and the same professional academic training for faculty are nearly universal," the report said.

"The shortcomings of the academic university as a model for all other institutions have been obscured by the dazzling success of the best-known examples," it continued.

The study recommended new institutions where students of all ages are educated, with a preference going to older ones; where practical experience and not classroom lectures is the primary teaching tool; where professional practitioners have equal faculty footing with academic Ph.D.s and where instruction is offered by television, off campus and in traditional classes.

It advocates decentralization of state college and university systems; formation of regional examining universities whose sole function would be to test and grant degrees; and complete overhaul of professional accreditation agencies to encourage apprenticeship as an alternative to solely academic preparation.

The visits had not been publicly announced. He said he had told his administrator of Health and Social Services last week of his plans.

Accompanying him were three Assembly Democrats, Edward Jackamoni of Waukesha, Thomas Hanson of Beaver Dam and Midge Miller of Madison.

The governor said Wisconsin penal facilities have earned their reputation as some of the best in the nation.

At Waupun, an inmate in solitary confinement for 17 months told the governor he knew of harassment and beatings by guards.

Warden Elmer O. Cady said the reports aren't to be believed, and the inmate admitted to Lucey he himself hadn't been beaten.

Lucey said he is "inclined to believe the warden."

The governor said he was told 40 of Waupun's 1,000 inmates are virtually illiterate.

The number of academic courses at the prison should be increased, Lucey said.

He added he would like academic programs to provide each inmate with an education equal to that of high school level, and expansion of programs designed to train inmates for domestic trades.

Lucey wants improved prison academic plan

WAUPUN, Wis. (AP) — Gov. Patrick J. Lucey, taking a tour of Wisconsin penal institutions Monday, said academic programs for inmates at Waupun State Prison should be upgraded.

The governor also expressed concern about crowded conditions at the penitentiary, saying more parole for qualified inmates might be a solution.

Probation instead of incarceration would be "ten times as cheap," he remarked.

Lucey began his tour at the State Correctional Institution at Fox Lake, and concluded it at the Wales School for Boys.

Warden Elmer O. Cady said the reports aren't to be believed, and the inmate admitted to Lucey he himself hadn't been beaten.

Lucey said he is "inclined to believe the warden."

The governor said he was told 40 of Waupun's 1,000 inmates are virtually illiterate.

The number of academic courses at the prison should be increased, Lucey said.

To answer new questions on SEC

Casey called before committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York tax lawyer William J. Casey was called before the Senate Banking Committee again today to answer new questions about his qualifications to head the Securities and Exchange Commission.

At issue were three lawsuits growing out of Casey's wide-ranging business activities as well as his relations with a New York race-track represented by Casey's law firm.

The committee tentatively approved Casey's nomination by President Nixon to head the SEC at a meeting Feb. 10.

Since then the issues were raised about the lawsuits and his relations with the race-track. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., a committee member, asked Casey be called back for today's session.

Before the hearing Casey offered a detailed explanation of the questioned transactions in a letter sent last week to Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., the committee chairman.

Casey said the three lawsuits involved business disagreements which could be expected to arise in his case because he invested in a number of high risk projects with uncertain prospects.

Drop pot charges against Carswell's son

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Charges of marijuana possession against Scott Carswell, 20-year-old son of former Judge G. Harold Carswell, have been dropped by the police for lack of evidence.

Young Carswell was one of six Florida State University students arrested in a raid on a house trailer.

Even lawyers on the other side in these cases, Casey said, advised him they were not making accusations of any personal wrongdoing by Casey.

But Proxmire said that two of the suits involved charges of violations of SEC laws which Casey would have to enforce as head of the commission.

If for no other reason, the senator said, the nominee should be required to give a complete accounting of his role in each case.

Proxmire also said he felt Casey was less than frank when he appeared before the committee in February. The senator said one new matter had come to his attention even since Casey sent his letter to Sparkman a week ago.

Proxmire said it involved SEC files indicating that a man named Charles J. Thornton whom Casey chose to handle a sale of stock in a company Casey headed had been expelled from the securities industry for stock manipulation.

Casey said later, however, he did not know of Thornton's record when he arranged for him to handle the stock sale.

Rockefeller would seek nomination if Nixon steps aside

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York says that if President Nixon steps aside in 1972 he may seek the Republican presidential nomination himself.

An interviewer reminded Rockefeller Monday of repeated past assertions that he would support the President for reelection and asked:

"Suppose that President Nixon, for whatever reason, decided not to run again, would you be interested?"

"What I've said there is that would be another ball game," said the governor.

"You're not ruling out the possibility?"

"That's right."

Mismanagement blamed for bank failures

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. told Congress today mismanagement is to blame for the rising failure of banks.

In testimony prepared for the House Banking and Currency Committee, Frank Wille said that of the 19 banks which failed in the last 26 months, four were involved in loan or deposit irregularities and the other 15 folded because of "weaknesses in loan portfolio management."

"Losses resulting from improper loans to officers, directors or owners of the closed banks or their affiliated interests were a major cause of failure," he said.

"While the granting of these loans was not necessarily illegal," he said, "their overall volume and quality were beyond prudent limits and would not have been extended in a well-managed bank."

Wille said officers of four banks which had loan or deposit irregularities have been indicted and one has been convicted.

In addition, he said, losses on loans to borrowers outside a bank's normal lending area proved to be a significant factor in the failure of seven banks.

In eight other failures, misuse of brokered funds played a large role, Wille said.

In brokered deposits, a money broker arranges for funds to be deposited in the bank on the condition they be loaned out to a specific borrower. The money broker bears no risk if the borrower defaults unless, of course, the bank itself goes broke.

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the House Banking Committee, introduced legislation Monday to prohibit certain banking practices such as brokered deposits.

Study funds asked

Navy may bury northern Wisconsin radio project

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy says it wants to spend more than $2 million on studies for drilling tunnels deep in northern Wisconsin bedrock in which to carry on its Sanguine radio project.

The tunnels, proposed in a report prepared for the Navy by a scientific group, could be 30 or 40 miles long and thousands of feet under the surface.

The latest twist in the Navy's campaign to build the communications facility was confirmed Monday by the Naval Electronic Systems Command, the Milwaukee Sentinel reported.

John R. Hennessey, director of congressional affairs for the command, said the tunnel proposal was drawn up in December, and that $2.14 million is being asked from Congress to review it.

"The feasibility studies we are proposing in next year's budget are to determine whether such a thing is possible," Hennessey said.

The Navy originally proposed that it be allowed to lay miles of antenna across wooded land with which to communicate with military facilities throughout the world.

Critics of the project have challenged whether the radio network would work without using electrical currents strong enough to endanger wildlife and humans. The tunnel proposal would be an alternative to laying antenna cable in surface soil.

The Navy has said northern Wisconsin's bedrock is ideal for radio transmission purposes.

The Navy said the $2.14 million in studies would include sample borings deep into the rock to help estimate the cost of tunnels.

Hennessey said the study group feels deeply buried antenna could broadcast as well as an antenna grid near the surface.

The Navy's budget for Project Sanguine for the fiscal year beginning July 1 is $5 million, he said, the same as in the current budget.

The new requests include funds with which to continue tests near Clam Lake, Wis., he added.

The Clam Lake tests are to determine whether Sanguine would interfere with domestic telephone and television operations as critics have charged it would.

Frazier decisions Ali in brawling 15-rounder

Is return match in near future?

By WILL GRIMSLEY
NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Frazier, the "Black Marciano," is the undisputed heavyweight boxing champion but Muhammad Ali—his runaway tongue silenced by a battered jaw—is still on his feet, and hungry promoters already are planning a bigger and more grandiose repeat.

Chartwell Enterprises, Inc., which served as architect of Monday night's $20 million to $30 million spectacular, owns the return match contracts of both fighters. The probable site is the Los Angeles Forum and the time early next year.

"I don't think he wants a rematch—not right away, anyway," said Frazier, winner by decision in a brawling 15-rounder at Madison Square Garden in boxing's richest and most ballyhooed extravaganza.

He didn't ask Ali, the loud-mouthed idol of millions who went to the canvas under a thunderclap Frazier left hook in the 15th round but regained his feet and hung on to avoid the stigma of a knockout.

Immediately after the fight, the previously unbeaten and unmarked Ali, his right jaw swollen like a balloon, was rushed to a hospital where X-rays showed he was suffering not from a fracture but from a blood clot and a massive bruise.

Ironically, Ali for once in his lifetime could not talk and he sent his long-time trainer, Drew "Bundini" Brown, to the interview room to face the writers whom he had constantly chided.

The 20,455 wild, screaming fans, who paid $1,352,961 to watch the fight of unbeaten heavyweights and the 300 million others who reportedly watched it on television around the world must have their doubts that Ali can ever rise again.

The arrogant, garrulous grandson of a runaway Kentucky slave proved his heart and staying power in a gripping struggle but raised doubts that his once nimble legs could any more "float like a butterfly," a tactic for which he became universally famous.

Ali, showing only flashes of his old brilliance, tired visibly in the course of the bout and there were times it seemed his rubbery legs, if not his hard brown body, might wilt under Frazier's incessant pounding.

A tremendous, dramatic fight that will be remembered as long as men pull on pillowed gloves, the highly promoted contest had its disappointing aspects on both sides.

The superman image of Ali, born Cassius Clay, was shattered, undoubtedly bringing grief to his millions of admirers all around the world. They had thought he was unbeatable.

As for Frazier, a grim, 27-year-old onetime slaughterhouse butcher, he failed to prove to be the killer in the tradition of Jack Dempsey, Joe Louis and Rocky Marciano, the latter the late slugger who retired unbeaten and whose style is duplicated by Frazier.

Several times Frazier appeared to have Ali set up for the knockout—in the 11th round particularly and again in the 15th—only to let his quarry get away.

Is Frazier really a Dark Destroyer, or just a Black Buzz-Saw? "I hit him with my best shots, and he took them," Frazier said afterward. "That man takes some punch."

Frazier, never floored, had bruises over both his eyes and on his right cheek. He bled at the nose. He looked more butchered than Ali, despite Ali's enlarged cheek, and even apologized for his hamburger countenance.

"Let me go clean up my face," he told newsmen. "I'm not this ugly."
The rugged Frazier, fighting from a crouch and always moving forward, disdained Ali's

Frazier: 'I think I surprised him'

By HAL BOCK
NEW YORK (AP) — His face puffy and misshapen from a shower of punches thrown by Muhammad Ali, Joe Frazier nevertheless ruled today as undisputed heavyweight champion of the world. And he didn't exactly hide the fact.

"Who's the champ . . . who's the champ," stormed Frazier, who looked more like the loser than the winner after scoring a unanimous 15-round decision over Ali Monday night.

"I felt like the champion right along," said Frazier, whose decision victory was won by a booming left hook that decked Ali in the 15th round and left the ex-champ's jaw painfully swollen.

"I fought everybody they put in front of me and I whipped them all," said Frazier, "and that includes Clay."

Frazier seemed to delight in calling Ali by his former name, Clay. In fact he repeated it three times at one point, each time saying "Clay" louder, as if for emphasis.

"You think he was clowning?" asked Frazier. "I don't. I'll tell you, those shots add up. They slowed him down. He couldn't get off those ropes."

"Let me go straighten my face up," Frazier said, excusing himself from a post-fight press conference. "I ain't this ugly."

Frazier paid Ali a compliment, acknowledging that the ex-champ had taken some of his hardest shots. "That man takes some punch," said Frazier. "I hit him some shots, and he took the best of them."

'We'll be back' promises Ali's handler, Brown

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
NEW YORK (AP) — His once-pretty jaw was painfully swollen and his latest prediction was knocked for a speechless loop by Joe Frazier Monday night, but it was hard to tell which caused Muhammad Ali more discomfort.

It was, to say the least, a bad night for the previously unbeaten former heavyweight champion. His forecast that "Frazier falls in six" went by the boards, he took a smashing left hook on the right side of his jaw late in the 11th round that buckled his knees and he wound up flat on his back early in the 15th round from another crunching hook to the same spot.

Finally, he lost the decision in a fight he had predicted would be rivaled as a spectacle only by the first moonwalk and then he had to rush off to a hospital for X rays, leaving dozens of newsmen to settle for a few words from Drew "Bundini" Brown, one of his handlers.

The X rays proved negative and Ali, his jaw shut for a change with a massive bruise but not broken, returned to his hotel, took some medication and went to bed, his dreams of a quick return to boxing's pinnacle after a three-year layoff ruined.

Tread Wear Expectancy after does not apply to tires used commercially.

But Ali, even in absentia, wasn't through predicting. "We'll be back," promised Brown. "Three years ain't gonna be three years no more. The car's been in the garage for three years but all the bumps and clinks are out now."

He referred to Ali's lengthy absence from the ring while his appeal of a five-year jail sentence for refusing induction into the armed forces was argued in the courts.

"The first thing I asked him was, 'We ain't through, are we?'" Brown told reporters. "He said, 'Get 'em ready; we're gonna set tracks.'"

Although Ali's jaw didn't take on its lopsided look until he was floored 25 seconds into the 15th round, Brown said the injury occurred "sometime between the ninth and 11th rounds." The first sign that Ali was hurt came late in the 11th, when Frazier belted him into the ropes and staggered him.

"He was on queer street," Brown said. "He took three or four good blows and if I ever prayed, I really prayed then."

Ali was his cocky, confident self during the early rounds, taunting the shorter Frazier by keeping him at arm's length with first his left hand and then his right in the champion's face.

All's camp had no quarrel with the unanimous decision.

"I always called Joe Frazier a turkey," Brown said. "But he's not a turkey. He's no ordinary champion. He's a real champ. When we come back we're gonna have to take the title from a champion."

In the final analysis, of course, there will always be the nagging question: Could Ali have beaten Frazier Monday night if he hadn't been inactive for three years? Brown would like to think so.

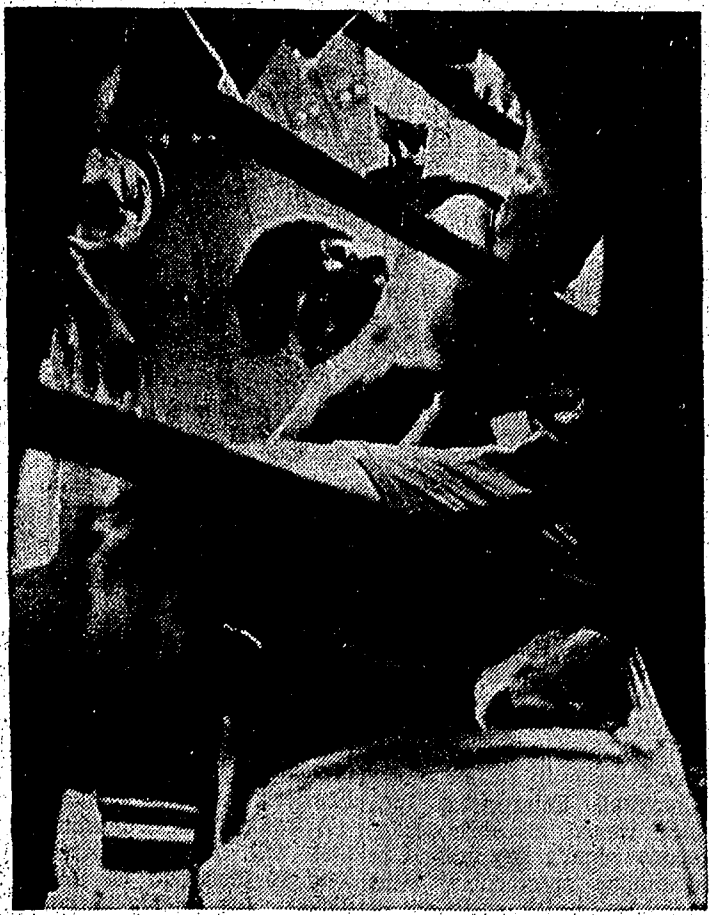

But he added:

"Ali never acted like he won. I think he was satisfied just not being knocked out. But we ain't through yet."

Ali's runaway tongue is silenced

Frazier stole some of Ali's thunder. In the fifth round, he laughed at Ali through bloody teeth. He dropped his arms to his side, dared Ali to hit him and taunted his foe as he laced out with lunging lefts.

Frazier's principal weapon was his lightning-like left hook, almost too fast to see and damaging enough to snap Ali's proud head back so hard it looked as if it might break at the neck.

All, always the clown, teased Frazier frequently when he was backed against the ropes. He pawed at Frazier with his gloves, like a child fondling a toy.

Frazier rested the display and asked afterward, what he thought of Ali's antics, barked crisply:

"Clowning? He wasn't clowning. He was too tired to move."

All, wearing red velvet trunks and tasseled white-and-red shoes, frequently shook off Frazier's hardest jolts and waved consolation to his body of admirers.

Many observers at ringside had All ahead or at least even but the decision was unanimous. Judge Artie Aidala had it 9-6, judge Bill Recht had it 8-1 and referee Art Mercante had it 11-4, all favoring Frazier. The Associated Press scorecard had it 9-5-1 for Frazier. All held his own in the early rounds. The middle rounds—the eighth through the 13th—were all Frazier. After being shaken in the 11th and falling to one knee on a slip, Ali appeared definitely beaten. His legs wobbled. His eyes were glazed. His once sharp punches were flabby and ineffective. But he came back to win the 14th, while the crowd yelled. In the first 20 seconds of the final round Frazier cut loose a murderous hook—"I brought from the country," he said—and Ali hit the deck on his back like a concrete block. He was up at four, took the mandatory eight count and then hung on—only nerve keeping him erect. Then it was over. Frazier's hand was raised. And Bundini cried.

Big Ten denies Bears use of Dyche Stadium

CHICAGO (AP) — The Big Ten, in a surprising and stunning move Monday, denied Northwestern permission to lease Dyche Stadium to the Chicago Bears of the National Football League.

The Bears played their home opener last season in Dyche Stadium when the Big Ten conference voted against approval.

The Bears played their home opener last season in Dyche Stadium when the Big Ten conference voted against approval. Last December, the conference relaxed its rules against professional use of campus facilities. After the Bears had signed a five-year lease with Northwestern last month, it was assumed that Northwestern's request to lease the stadium to the Bears would be approved. But after a two-hour meeting of conference faculty representatives and athletic directors, a divided vote was announced against approval.

The decision revolved around fundamentals of Big Ten athletic policies and implications that might have been had if such permission was granted for the athletic program of the conference as well as the programs of universities throughout the country," said Marcus Flint of Michigan, spokesman for the joint group.

Plant would not elaborate on any other possible reasons for rejection of Northwestern's request. Northwestern Athletic Director Tippy Dye was downcast and said "I knew the vote would be awfully tight but I thought we had a chance." Northwestern reportedly has a projected deficit this year of $1.6 million and would have realized some $2.2 million from the five-year lease with the Bears.

Owner George Halas Sr. of the Bears and club President George Halas Jr. were vacationing in Phoenix and could not be reached for comment.

Because of early season conflict with the Chicago Cubs and a lack of seating, the Bears sought to pull out of ancient Wrigley Field. Dyche Stadium could accommodate about 55,000 or some 8,000 more than Wrigley Field.

In other action, the Big Ten ruled any team other than the champion can accept a bid to compete in the National Invitational Basketball Tournament in New York. In an agreement with the NIT, the runner-up team would be named and any others the NIT wished to invite.

Frazier rules as undisputed champ

Yancy Durham, Frazier's manager, said he couldn't tell how badly Ali was hurt.

"I ain't no doctor and neither is Joe," said Durham. "If he can still talk, his jaw ain't broken."

X-rays confirmed that Ali's jaw was not fractured but that he had suffered a blood clot and massive bruises from Frazier's punch.

"He said he would crawl across the ring on his hands and knees if I beat him," said Frazier. "Well, I didn't make him do that, but I want him to apologize for all the things he called me. He mumbled something to me after the fight but I don't know what it was he said."

Frazier said his future plans were unsettled. There had been talk that he would retire following the fight.

"We haven't talked over the future yet," he said. "Give me a chance. I just finished this fight. I gotta get away and talk it over with Yank (Durham). Man, I've gotta live a little. I've been working for 10 long years."

Asked about a possible rematch, Frazier grinned.

"I don't think he wants a rematch," the unbeaten champion said, "not right now anyway."

Toms whipped, Eau Claire wins in NAIA

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Defending champion and top-seeded Kentucky State romped to first round victory, 100-65, over College of St. Thomas, Minn., as the 34th annual National Association of Intercollegiate Athletic basketball tournament opened Monday.

All of the favorites or seeded teams won as play in the week-long tourney began before a near capacity audience of more than 9,000 in the Municipal Auditorium.

No. 3 seeded Eau Claire, Wis., State trailed by 15 points early in its game with Southern, Ark., State before the Blugolds found the range and raced to a 66-50 victory. Mike Ratliff hit 29 points for Eau Claire.

Stephen F. Austin College turned on its fire-power in the second half to whip North Carolina-Ashville, 91-73. The fourth-seeded Lumberjacks were led by Pete Harris with 28 points and Robert Gord's 23.

No. 5 seed Indiana, Pa., shot past Eastern New Mexico, 81-72; No. 12 Elizabeth City, N.C. blasted Western New England, 90-76; and, No. 14 Earlham, Ind., shackled Lewis and Clark, Ore., 105-83.

Whittier Calif. College, eleventh seeded, advanced to the second go-round with a 65-59 victory against Sacred Heart of Kansas.

The only underdog to win was Glassboro, N.J., a 71-60 winner over eighth-seeded East Central Oklahoma State.

The conference already have clinched a tie for the title and presumably could lose to Indiana and still win the crown if second-place Michigan should lose one of its last two games.

But the Buckeyes, who close their season tonight, would rather not take any chances and do it themselves.

However, if Ohio State (12-1) should lose to Indiana (8-3), Michigan (10-2) could claim a share of the title by winning its last two games and force a playoff as to which team would represent the Big Ten in the NCAA Tournament.

Michigan is at Iowa (4-8) tonight and winds up its regular season at home Saturday against Wisconsin.

In addition to the Indiana-Ohio State and Michigan-Iowa games tonight, Northwestern is at Illinois, Minnesota at Michigan State and Purdue at Wisconsin.

The regular season ends Saturday with Wisconsin at Michigan, Illinois at Indiana, Michigan State at Northwestern and Iowa at Purdue.

Osseo one of five unbeaten 'Super sectional' time for Badger cage preps

By BOB GREENE, Associated Press Sports Writer
It's "super sectional" time. But where did Waupun come from?

Three of the four teams that were predicted to be around when the sectional phase of the 1971 WIAA state basketball tournament began are heading for Manitowish this weekend. The fourth team is Waupun, a school only its strongest supporters felt would still be in the running at this late date.

Waupun has the unenviable task of taking on unbeaten and top-ranked Neenah in the opening sectional round Friday night. Kewaunee and Manitowish, both sporting one loss apiece, meet in the other game at Manitowish.

Five unbeaten teams are still in the running for the state championship, while four others have just a single defeat. The list will be cut drastically after this weekend, although it is possible for all five unbeaten schools to advance to the state field of eight at Madison March 18-20.

UNBEATEN AND third-ranked Eau Claire is at the Whiteside Bay sectional along with unbeaten Milwaukee King, Hartford and Whiteside Bay. King advanced to the sectional by edging Milwaukee North, 83-79, thereby avenging its lone defeat this season.

At Marshfield, undefeated Osseo-Fairchild and once-beaten Rhinelander clash in the opening round.

Rhinelander is ranked fourth in the Associated Press "Big Ten" poll, and Osseo-Fairchild fifth in the "Little Ten." The other schools in the Marshfield sectional are Stratford and Wausau-East.

Greendale, unbeaten and ranked 10th, could be considered the favorite at the Whitewater sectional where Clinton, Milwaukee Boys Tech and Racine Park will also attempt to advance to the state tourney.

AND UNBEATEN Pardeeville, the third-ranked "Little Ten" school is somewhat of an underdog at the Madison sectional. Pardeeville must play Madison West in Friday's game and, if it wins, has to take on the winner of the Blanchardville-Janesville Parker game.

Defending state champion Appleton West is still in the running, as is a host of little powers out west.

Gone are perennial state tourney entry Eau Claire Memorial and, in fact, a small school is assured of replacing the Old Abes. The Spooner sectional is made up of Cumberland, the ninth-rated "Little Ten" school, Elmwood, Clear Lake and Colfax.

Also gone from the sectional field are four other teams that battled in the state tourney field last season. Durand was knocked out early, and since then, Watousa East, Eau Claire Memorial, Monona Grove and West Allis Hale have been shut out to the sidelines.

Only 32 teams remain in the running. By Saturday night, the field will have been cut to just eight.

UCLA holds on to No. 1 spot — by eyelash

By KEN RAPPOPORT, Associated Press Sports Writer
UCLA held on today by an eyelash as the nation's No. 1-ranked college basketball team. Only two points separated the top-rated Bruins, who had 608, and Marquette, with 606. Last week, UCLA topped Marquette 692-676 in the Associated Press poll.

A nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters dealt UCLA 19 first-place votes and Marquette, 13, after the two top clubs swept opponents last week. UCLA beat Washington 71-69, California 103-69 and Stanford 107-72 to bring its record to 24-1. Marquette stopped Creighton 66-61, Bowling Green 96-74 and Xavier of Ohio 70-58 to finish its regular season with a 26-0 mark.

The Top Twenty teams, with first place votes in parentheses, and total points on a 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-6-5-4-3-2-1 scale:

1. UCLA (19) 458
2. Marquette (13) 406
3. Southern Cal 410
4. Notre Dame 448
5. Kansas (1) 410
6. Southern Carolina 323
7. Western Ky 275
