Our new decorator phones. They're almost more like art than telephones.

Consider our Antique Gold above, for example. Inside there beats the heart and working parts of Northwestern Bell. But outside, there's beautiful, graceful styling straight out of Europe of the 1920's.

And whether you want the outside of your decorator phone to be white or gold or simulated carved walnut or old-looking or new-looking, we have something to match or contrast with every decor.

They cost from $39.95 to $110.00, plus connecting charge and any applicable tax, depending on which of our models you select. You can pay cash or take up to 24 months to pay in easy monthly payments. For your convenience, the payments (including carrying charges) are included on your phone bill.

By the way, if you already have a jack, you can save by carrying your new decorator phone home and plugging it in yourself.

Now, a word as to what you're buying. The distinctive decorator telephone housing belongs to you. It will be replaced free of charge if any material or manufacturing defects appear during the first six months. With good care and normal use, your decorator telephone housing will retain its beauty for many years.

To assure you of quality telephone service, all working parts such as the dial, cord and electrical components remain the property and responsibility of Northwestern Bell.

We think they're the prettiest rings anywhere.

300 Palestinians target of Israeli assassination squads

By HOLGER JENSEN
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Fewer than 300 embittered young Palestinians are thought to make up the extremist Black September organization, the main target of Israeli assassination squads.

There have been cracks in its wall of secrecy.

The group has been linked with Al Fatah, largest of the Arab guerrilla movements.

One of three Fatah chieftains gunned down by Israeli commandos here last Tuesday was labeled a Black September leader by a self-confessed terrorist imprisoned in Jordan.

But Arab, Israeli and Western intelligence experts admit it is hard to separate fact from supposition about Black September's chain of command, its financing and its headquarters.

Beirut is a good guess for headquarters. Lebanon's attempts to promote tourism rather than terrorism have not prevented most Palestinian guerrilla organizations from establishing head offices in this sun-kissed Mediterranean capital.

Investigators have pieced together a picture of fanatical young men, educated mainly in Egypt and disillusioned by the ineffectiveness of such regular guerrilla groups as Fatah and the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine.

They are thought to be organized in loosely knit cells, based in the Middle East and several countries where they maintain close ties with other revolutionary groups. Some of their members are believed to be foreigners, such as the Japanese terrorists who massacred Christian pilgrims at Lydda Airport in Israel a year ago.

Estimates of Black September's financial resources go as high as $150 million, mostly oil money, with $5 million thought to have been collected from the hijacking of a Lufthansa jetliner in February 1972.

Black September takes its name from the bloody civil war in Jordan in September 1970, when King Hussein crushed guerrilla groups that were threatening his rule.

denied any involvement with Black September, without disavowing its existence.

The stated purpose of the Khartoum operation was to win the release of Abu Daoud, a member of Fatah's high command, and 16 other guerrillas imprisoned in Jordan on charges of plotting to seize government buildings.

An alleged confession broadcast by Amman's state-run radio quoted Daoud as saying: "Black September doesn't exist. It is merely a code name for Fatah operatives."

Later, in an interview with Britain's commercial television network, Daoud said Black September was actually a branch of Fatah, financed by the parent group and taking orders from the Fatah leadership.

Nation's toughest

Subcommittee may act on drunk driving bill

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — A Senate subcommittee may act Tuesday on a proposal that would give Minnesota one of the toughest drunk-driving laws in the nation.

The proposal, by Sen. David Schaaf, DFL-Fridley, would give a mandatory five-day jail term to virtually all drunken drivers, including first offenders.

The only exceptions would be those referred to alcoholism treatment centers.

Several bills on drunk driving penalties are in a subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee and will be heard at 8 a.m. Tuesday. Schaaf said various proposals will be molded into a single bill.

The bill may reduce the presumptive level of intoxication to .05 per cent of alcohol in the blood—half of what it is now.

Under current law, a blood-alcohol percentage of .10 is the presumed level of intoxication. However, a state Supreme Court ruling last Friday said conviction on that specific charge cannot result in revocation of a driver's license. The bill would close that loophole.

Schaaf said a .05 per cent requirement would be the lowest tolerance of alcohol in any state law. Utah and Idaho employ an .08 per cent tolerance.

Schaaf hopes to bring out a bill recommended by Atty. Gen. Warren Spannaus, making it even tougher than the attorney general recommended.

Schaaf said 500 persons a year are killed in Minnesota traffic accidents involving liquor.

He has proposed another charge to extend penalties for drivers who refuse to take a blood-alcohol test under the implied consent law.

Under present law, drivers refusing the test can have licenses revoked for six months. Schaaf proposes a nine-month revocation for a first offense and 1½ years if the driver had a previous conviction within the last five years.

He also proposes allowing police to make spot checks with a new handheld blood-alcohol tester. Use of this device is authorized now, but only where an officer has probable cause to suspect a driver may be drunk.

Schaaf's plan would allow random spot checks, the idea being to act as a deterrent strong enough to keep all drinking drivers off the road.

House gives OK to Leech Lake plan

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota House has given preliminary approval to a compromise between the state and the Leech Lake Band of Chippewa Indians over hunting and fishing rights on the reservation.

The 83-22 vote Saturday much more one-sided than the 41-25 tally by which the Senate ratified the agreement on March 28.

The bill requires sportsmen to pay $1 for a special hunting or fishing license to be used on the 600,000-acre reservation in northern Minnesota.

The $1 fee, which could yield up to $1 million a year, would go to the Indian band for use as it wished.

Under the agreement, the Indians would give up unlimited hunting and fishing rights they won in a federal court case last year.

Principal gain for the state is the agreement by Indians not to engage in netting or other forms of commercial fishing for game species such as walleye and muskies.

The agreement was negotiated last year by the Department of Natural Resources. Legislative action is necessary to permit the license surcharge and to turn the money over to the Indians.

Feelings ran high in the wake of the federal court decision. Many white resort owners in the 940-square mile reservation said they feared the ruling would result in commercial fishing to the detriment of the tourist industry. There are more than 203 resorts within the reservation.

Rep. Glen Sherwood, DFL-Pine River, whose district takes in part of the Leech Lake area, called the agreement "a reasonable and peaceful settlement."

Its self-proclaimed founder is Munzer Suleiman Khalifah, a 29-year-old Palestinian who took part in Black September's first operation on Nov. 29, 1971 — the assassination in Cairo of Prime Minister Wasfi Tell of Jordan.

Khalifah and three other Septemberists were released from a Cairo jail on bail last spring. Egyptian authorities said there was insufficient evidence to hold them.

Tell's assassination was followed by an unsuccessful attempt to kill Jordan's ambassador in London. It was the first indication that the group intended to operate beyond the Middle East arena.

In April 1972, the group hijacked a Belgian airliner in an unsuccessful attempt to free 300 Palestinian guerrillas from Israeli jails. In October, it gunned down 11 Israeli athletes at the Munich Olympics.

In December, Black September seized the Israeli Embassy in Bangkok for 19 hours and in January this year it hijacked a West German airliner to win freedom for the three surviving Munich commandos.

In March, eight Black September guerrillas — some of whom later turned out to be Fatah members — stormed a diplomatic reception at the Saudi Arabian Embassy in Khartoum, seized five diplomats hostage and killed three of them before surrendering after a 60-hour siege.

The dead included U.S. Ambassador Cleo A. Noel, his charge d'affaires, Curtis Moore, and Belgian diplomat Guy Eid. An execution order radioed to the guerrillas in Khartoum reportedly used the code words "Cold River," the name of a Palestinian refugee camp in northern Lebanon previously hit by Israeli commandos.

Some informants claim the death message was transmitted from Beirut, and Al Fatah leader Yasir Arafat was in the radio room at the time. He has

Many Americans disgusted

Tax filing deadline nears

By LEE BYRD
WASHINGTON (AP) — With a midnight filing deadline only hours away, some Americans aimed disgust as well as dollars at the federal tax collector today.

Demonstrations designed to spur sweeping tax reforms were staged in 31 cities. All were organized by the Tax Action Campaign headed by former Democratic Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma.

The Harris group, claiming 25,000 enlistees, and other reform advocates have yet to agree on precise proposals for tax change. But they agree on one thing: The working man pays too much, the corporate giants too little.

Harris planned to illustrate that point by conferring a "Tax Avoider" award upon International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. during his scheduled speech to an afternoon taxpayers' rally in front of the New York Stock Exchange.

ITT, said Harris, paid $20.2 million in federal taxes in 1971 while reporting profits that year of $413.9 million—for an effective tax rate of only 4.9 per cent. The statutory limit on corporations is 48 per cent.

In Washington, ITT spokesman Bernie Goodrich said the firm would not comment on Harris' criticism.

Activities elsewhere in the country included news conferences, speeches by sympathetic congressmen, marches, picketing of IRS buildings, pamphlet-distributing and the presentation of other "tax avoider" awards.

Rallies were scheduled for

Los Angeles, San Francisco, Chicago, Boston and Milwaukee.

In Washington, Democratic Sens. Edmund S. Muskie and George McGovern planned to urge tax reforms before the House Ways and Means Committee even though Chairman Wilbur Mills has said chances are slim for major action this year.

McGovern said in his prepared testimony that Congress should combine tax reform legislation with the trade bill President Nixon has asked it to pass. Mills has said he would lay aside tax reform and start hearings on the trade bill May 7.

"I think we must enact both bills," said McGovern, adding that it is "interesting that the urgency the White House has given to trade legislation has grown in direct proportion to the threat that the Congress might pass meaningful tax reform."

On the House floor, seven congressmen headed by Reps. Donald Corman, D-Calif., and Henry Reuss, D-Wis., were to advance their own loophole-closing proposals in speeches.

Harris said in an interview representatives of his group will meet soon with labor and congressional leaders to decide on a detailed course of strategy. But at the least, he said, legislation should emerge this year which would restore total payroll taxes to 1971 levels. That would mean a reduction of about $250 for the average worker—and elimination of some corporation breaks.

POW: little about war to be cheered

CLINTON, Wis. (AP)—There is little in the Vietnam war over which to cheer, and the desire to applaud something may explain why citizens celebrate the return of prisoners of war, a Wisconsin serviceman said Sunday.

Air Force Lt. William Reich, returning home after a year in North Vietnamese captivity, was mobbed by kiss-seeking elderly women and autograph-seeking youngsters in a school gymnasium.

He was serenaded by the school band in which he used to blow a trombone.

The band played: "When Johnny Comes Marching Home."

"Our faith has finally become a fact. Our hope has become this occasion. This is the day which the Lord hath made," the Rev. John Bauserman told an audience of 600 persons.

Reich, 26, who stands 6-feet-7 and who used to play basketball in the gymnasium, remarked to a newsman that he knew the war was not universally popular.

He said he even anticipated a hostile reaction from his countrymen. Instead, they celebrate his return, he said.

"I think people have just picked the POWs as something they can be happy about," Reich said.

Those who greet him, he said, don't often ask his opinion of amnesty for draft dodgers or other war-related issues.

Reich said he intends to travel, including collecting on offer of a free tour of Florida's Disney amusement park.

The offer, he said, "is nice. But it makes me feel kind of funny. I know there are lots of other people just as deserving."

In Milwaukee, there was a crowd of 500 persons at an airport to greet Air Force Capt. William Henderson, a POW for a year.

Henderson, 25, was handed flags, a dozen POW memorial bracelets and palm branches.

The Milwaukee serviceman said it was "wonderful to be home and to be greeted everywhere by such wonderful people."

YMCA schedules day camp sessions

The YMCA has announced the day camp schedule for all boys and girls in grades three through seven. The child need not be a Y member to participate.

Early registration for the desired dates is urged.

Camp schedule is: June 11-22; June 25-July 6; July 9-July 20, and July 23-Aug. 3.

Registration for Camp Olson, the YMCA's resident camp are also being accepted. Further information is available by calling the YMCA.

Design R-7 has a living room, dining room, kitchen, family room, three bedrooms, two bathrooms and a foyer, totaling 1864 square feet. There is a basement which can be finished as desired, but if basementless construction is preferred, the L formed by the basement stairs and the pantry can be used to fit in laundry and utility equipment. The over-all dimensions of 83' 2" by 31' 2" include the two-car garage.

ALTHOUGH time-tested traditional materials are used on the exterior of this three-bedroom ranch, its simple lines give it a contemporary feeling that would make it sit well on any property.

House of the week

House geared for convenience

By ANDY LANG
Convenience in a house floor plan has become something of a modern synonym for luxury. Grouping related areas in an open-planned manner minimizes unnecessary traffic and creates visual as well as actual spaciousness.

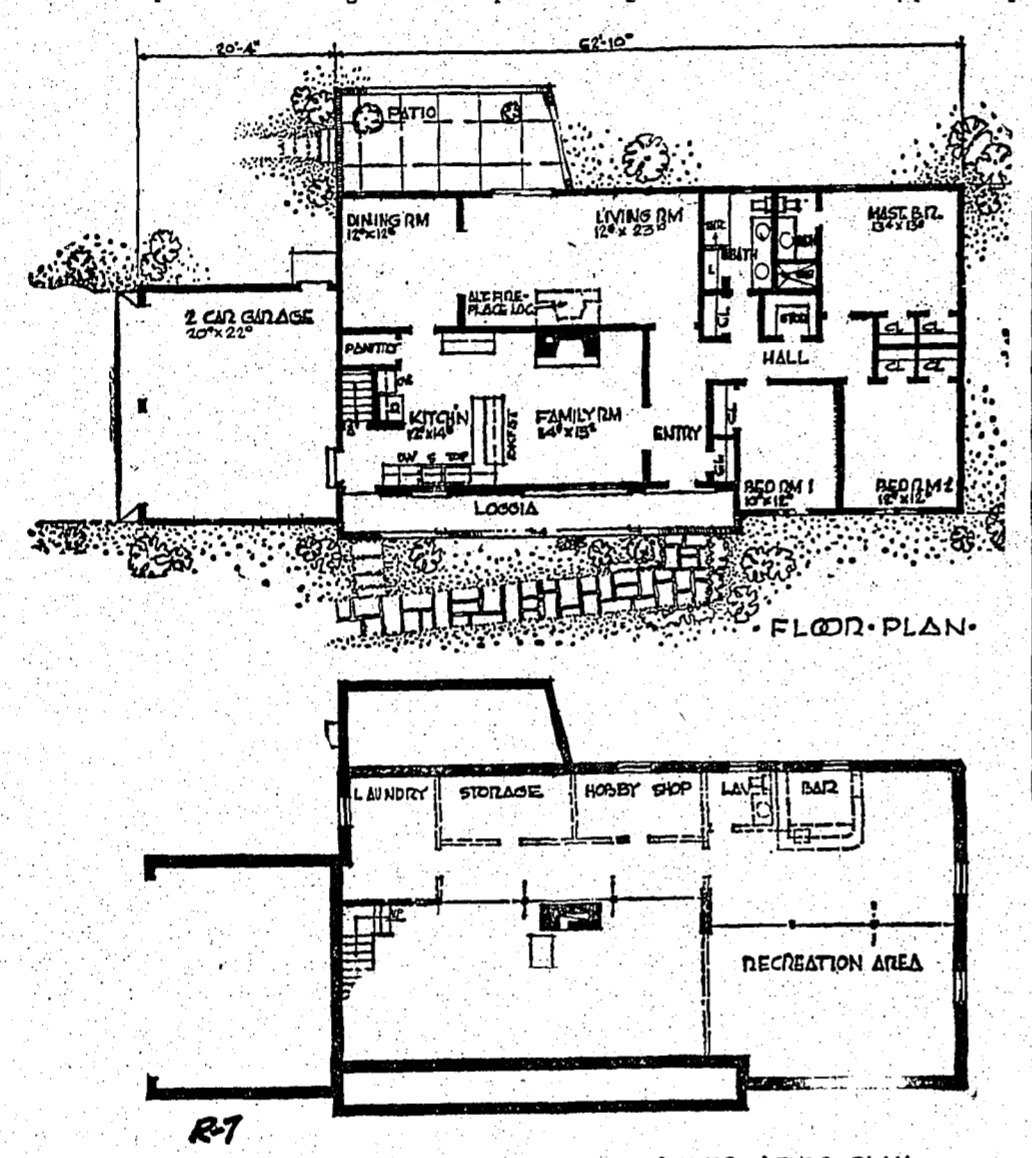

This long, low ranch utilizes that concept to advantage. The family room and kitchen are placed in line at the front of the house, with a sweep of 27'. The living room and dining room stretch over 36' at the rear of the house.

effectively solved the problem of traffic circulation by providing a second entrance door at the front. Going in the main door to the foyer gives easy access to the family room kitchen-combination, the living room-dining room area or the bedroom wing. But a second front door leads directly to the kitchen, which also can be reached from the garage. No walking through the house with grocery packages under that arrangement.

Ice Age trail being planned

WAUKESHA, Wis. (AP) — The Ice Age Park and Trail Foundation, seeking to blaze a trail between glacially carved geological features in Wisconsin, mapped strategy in a weekend meeting.

The foundation was set up after creation in 1970 of the state-federal Ice Age National Scientific Reserve. The private group hopes to map a wandering trail between the reserve's nine geological features.

It plans to use easements and purchases as well as gifts of land to develop the trail.

Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., said Saturday that regional foundation meetings could stimulate interest of hikers who might use the trails and from landowners who might donate land.

State and federal officials reported that work is progressing on the reserve.

Robert S. Chandler, a U.S. Park Service assistant, said a conceptual master plan was being developed to designate general areas. State planners will take planning from that point.

He said emphasis will be on nature interpretation, with guides not just pointing out natural results of glaciation but explaining their relationship to man or the environment.

"We want a live kind of interpretation, so the man from New York City can see how the area was used," Chandler said.

As park planner for the state Natural Resources Department said land acquisitions for the nine study areas are progressing.

The sites, which create a U shape across the state, include: The Two Creeks Buried Forest; Sheboygan Marsh north and south units of the Kettle Moraine State Forest; Campbellsport dunes; Cross Plains unglaciated area; Devils Lake State Park; Mill Bluff State Park; Bloomer terminal moraine area, and Interstate Park.

UW-Milwaukee prof hit for moonlighting

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A professor has been nominated for disciplinary action on grounds he has allowed off-campus employment to interfere with his teaching duties, a dean said Sunday.

Dean Richard G. Griskey of the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee's engineering and applied science college said the complaint has been filed with a faculty committee against Prof. Donald R. Buettner.

It requests that Buettner be given part-time status, that his salary be reduced and that he either resign his UWM job or quit moonlighting.

UW replied earlier this month to a Board of Regents inquiry about moonlighting that only seven per cent of its full-time faculty has appreciable extra-curricular employment.

Griskey's complaint against Buettner is believed to be the first formal citation involving moonlighting. A hearing on the matter is tentatively scheduled Wednesday.

Buettner, with UWM since 1965 and earning $17,507 annually, is president of a mechanical design office which was incorporated in 1968.

Griskey's complaint says Buettner has not kept campus and private business matters separate, and that professional engineers have objected to what they call the use of college affiliation to solicit business.

The dean said he had attempted several times to negotiate with Buettner. The professor declined immediate comment when asked about Griskey's action.

Griskey himself is leaving his job July 1 amid reports he is being removed because of his opposition to faculty moonlighting.

The dean uses the term hit-and-run faculty in reference to professors who use the classroom only as a base of operations for jobs elsewhere.

Chancellor J. Martin Klotzsch, identified as the man behind Griskey's removal, has been quoted as saying he encourages off-campus employment if it doesn't interfere with UWM contract responsibilities.

Regents have demanded UW President John C. Weaver explain the university's moon-

Playing good guy rates no Oscar

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a delivery man, and he keeps telling me how many opportunities he has to get something going with the women on his route.

I know it's true because Al is good-looking, well-built, and has a friendly easy-to-know way about him. He says the women keep telling him that their husbands are at work and their kids are in school all day, and wouldn't he like a cup of coffee "or something." Al says, "Of course I turn them all down because I'm true-blue."

Nevertheless it annoys me to be reminded of his loyalty nearly every day. I told my girl friend about it and she said:

"O h, he's just trying to make you jealous. Laugh it off and pretend you don't care what he does."

Somehow I'm not very good at pretending. I'm 35 and Al's 36, and I'm still slim and attractive. We have three school-age children. What do you advise?

HIGHLAND PARK HOUSEWIFE

DEAR HOUSEWIFE: Don't laugh it off. Let him know you care a lot. And ask him if it ever occurred to him that you are also a woman with a husband at work and kids in school all day. Then tell him you're "true-blue," too, but don't think you're entitled to a good conduct medal. He'll get the message.

DEAR ABBY: I wrote to you about a year ago, telling you how depressed I was because I was dumped by a boy I thought I loved. I wanted to show him I could be "popular," so I threw away my self-respect and went all the way with three different guys on the first date. None of them ever called me back, and I felt so cheap I wanted to die. Then I wrote to you and you told me I would never get a decent boy friend by going all the way with him. You encouraged me to try to rebuild my self-esteem and to keep my morals high from then on, and it would pay off.

That's exactly what I did, and you were right. I am now going with this really great guy who respects me. We have a lot of fun together, and I am all through worrying and praying and feeling cheap.

If this letter convinces only one girl that premarital sex doesn't pay, it will be worth printing. I am no kid, I'm 22, and I've never been happier in my life. You wished me good luck, Abby, and it finally came my way. Thanks for saving my life.

HAPPY IN HARTFORD

DEAR HAPPY: No thanks due me. I only threw you a rope. You caught it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FEELS BETTER IN TEXAS," whose conscience bothered her for so many years: I sent the $20 to the store you mentioned in your letter, explained the circumstances and kept your identity confidential. Bless you. It's never too late.

Your horoscope — Jeane Dixon

For TUESDAY, APRIL 17

Your birthday today: Much of your inner self floats to the surface this coming year. Whatever you've been sowing will now come to harvest. Relations tend to be poignant and turbulent. Today's natives are usually abrupt in their way of taking action.

Aries (March 21-April 19): You'll be rewarded for using restraint and tact. People of authority are in disagreement on major issues. Later hours favor emotional declarations.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Old problems cannot be avoided. Worry helps nothing. Lump sum final settlements are main solution at the moment.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Once again your old friends are in disagreement. Focus your efforts on fresh ventures. Emotional expression comes more fluently.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Leaving well enough alone is a rare art this Tuesday — most problems are more easily solved than you think. Special conditions exist during religious observance.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Don't rush into anything. Just hold on to momentum and the peace. Strive for serenity.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Nearly everybody seems to have his own idea of what should be done. Seeking compromise is the only realistic course now.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Be satisfied with the impact you have achieved. Begin a study of possible further steps. Avoid haste.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Abruptly, nearly all current trends turn in your favor. This opportunity won't return so correct any mistakes you've made — now!

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): The current challenge is simply how self-contained you can be. What you thought was decided is worth another look.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Communication and transit are subject to delays and distractions which test your patience and temper. Reflect before criticizing.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Be calm, listen attentively, as any effort at overt leadership tends to provoke too much reaction.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Incomplete financial obligations should be closed out, whenever you can manage. Tidying up brings special satisfaction.

Garden authorities address conclave

Arthur (Jerry) Olson, Minneapolis consulting rosarian speaking on "Roses, Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow," Saturday, observed that roses are the most ancient of garden plants, noting that fossil remains date back some 35 million years. Being entirely a plant of the Northern Hemisphere, it apparently originated in Asia and soon became a plant of religious significance. Olson said that specie roses which, unlike hybrids, can reproduce unchanged from seeds, were among the earliest to be cultivated. He showed one species which thrives north of the Arctic Circle. The facts that roses were common in antiquity is known by the historically famous rose gardens of ancient Babylon and King Nebuchadnezzar, about 2,000 B.C.; that the ancient Romans used them for medicinal purposes, and that the Emperor Nero spent $150,000 on roses for one banquet; and that the Greek poet Sappho called the rose the "queen of flowers." The rose fell out of favor with the church due to uses made of it by the Romans, but was restored to favor by St. Jerome about 300 A.D., the speaker continued.

In the feudal period of the Middle Ages, rose culture was confined to castles and monasteries in Europe but prospered in Japan. Olson illustrated species grown at that time, which are still grown. Roses received prominence in the War of Roses between the houses of York and Lancaster in England during that period, he explained. The speaker declared that Napoleon's Empress Josephine did more to promote roses and horticulture in general than all of the emperors ever did, although she was unsuccessful in recreating the roses of the Bulgarian Valley of Roses in France. The hybrid tea area began in France about 1860.

Olson showed slides of new roses that can be expected to be prominent in the future, and concluded by saying that new roses are like new ornaments on the Christmas tree, but don't forget the old tried and true roses in your garden."

Speaking on "House Plants," Dr. Harold F. Wilkins, associate professor, Department of Horticultural Science, University of Minnesota, asserted that if any one of five house plant requirements are not met, the plant will fail. He listed them as temperature, proper watering, nutrition, oxygen and carbon dioxide gases, and sunshine. He said that too high temperatures, lack of sunshine, and low humidity can kill plants, maintaining that house plants thrive in Europe where winter room temperatures are 10 degrees cooler than here.

He pointed out that more plants are killed by over-fertilization than starve to death, and he repeatedly stressed the need to avoid overwatering, which deprives roots of oxygen. He gave additional pointers on care of plants and urged the selection of a plant adapted to existing room conditions.

Dr. Wilkins concluded by describing proper methods of selection and care of cut flowers.

Minnesota Horticultural Society holds spring meet

More than 225 garden club members, representing 22 of the 30 garden clubs in the southeast section of the state, attended the annual spring meeting of the First District of the Minnesota Horticultural Society Saturday at Kryzsko Commons, Winona State College. Winona Flower and Garden Club members served as host club.

Highlighting the day-long meeting were several outstanding speakers and craft demonstrations.

Arthur (Jerry) Olson, Minneapolis consulting rosarian, spoke on "Roses, Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" and Dr. Harold F. Wilkins, associate professor, department of Horticultural Science, University of Minnesota, spoke on "House Plants."

Conducting afternoon workshop craft sessions was Mrs. Arthur Kern, assisted by Mrs. W. W. Lowe and Mrs. Ernest Johnson.

Dr. Robert A. DuFresne, president of WSC, and Mrs. Leo Brom, president of the local club, welcomed the guests to the campus and the city.

Following registration, Mrs. Orvin Stadheim, Ellendale, first district president, presided at a business meeting. A highlight of the meeting was the announcement that Mrs. P. Earl Schwab, past president of the local club, had been selected to receive the award of merit of the Minnesota Horticultural Society, in recognition of special services to horticulture. The presentation will be made at the state society's annual convention June 25 in St. Paul.

It was announced that the annual fall meeting of the first district of the society will be held Sept. 15 and 16 at Rochester.

During the noon luncheon, at which the Rev. G. H. Huggen-vik, Central Lutheran Church gave the invocation, E. M. Hunt, secretary-treasurer of the MHS and editor of the society's publication, "The Minnesota Horticulturalist," complimented the first district on its rise from a time of struggle and low activity to a position of excellence with very good membership, attendance and many activities. He presented a review of activities scheduled for the state convention in June and urged members to attend.

Dr. C. A. Rohrer announced that the annual rose show of the Winona Rose Society will be held June 17 at the Winona National and Savings Bank and Mrs. Brom announced that the Garden Club's Iris and Peony Show will be held June 9 at Merchants National Bank.

Junior members attended special sessions throughout the day. They were taken on a tour of the WSC campus, attended a noon luncheon and then attended a workshop and slide presentation.

SPECIAL GUESTS . . . Two Minneapolis men spoke Saturday to members of the Minnesota Horticultural Society as they attended the First District meeting at Kryzsko Commons, Winona State College. From left, Arthur (Jerry) Olson, Minneapolis consulting rosarian, who spoke to the group on "Roses, Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow;" Dr. Harold Wilkins, associate professor, Department of Horticultural Science, University of Minnesota, who spoke on house plants; Mrs. Ernest Johnson and Mrs. W. W. Lowe, local members who assisted Mrs. Arthur Kern in craft demonstrations during the day-long meeting. (Daily News photos)

SPECIAL RECOGNITION . . . Mrs. Orvin Stadheim, second from right, Ellendale, First District president of the Minnesota Horticultural Society, presents Mrs. P. Earl Schwab, local club member and a past president of group, with a letter of congratulations following the announcement Saturday that Mrs.

Schwab has been selected to receive the award of merit of the MHS in recognition of special service to horticulture. Formal presentation will be made June 26 at the group's annual convention in St. Paul. Looking on Mr. and Mrs. Leo Brom. Mrs. Brom is president of the local club.

Shari Lynn Sanders

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Sanders, Utica, Minn., announce the engagement of their daughter, Shari Lynn, to Rickie Edward Peck son of Mrs. Edward Peck, Altura, Minn.

Miss Sanders is a senior at St. Charles High School. Her fiancé is a graduate of Lewiston High School and is employed by Hubbard Milling Co., Altura.

The wedding is planned for July 7 at Jehovah Lutheran Church, Altura.

Lincoln PTA

Lincoln Elementary PTA will meet tonight at 7:30 at the school. A program of music will be presented of the fourth, fifth and sixth grade students.

DORCAS CIRCLE

The Dorcas Circle of Central Lutheran Church will meet Wednesday at 7:45 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Norman Johnson, 509 Wilson St., with Mrs. Irwin Benson presenting the lesson.

Steuer-Ahlgren vows pledged at Madison

First United Methodist Church, Madison, Wis., was the setting for the April 7 wedding of Miss Janet Steuer, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Otto Steuer, Winona, and David L. Ahlgren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ahlgren, Madison.

The Rev. Carl Stromberg officiated, with Miss Sue Poullette, organist.

Given in marriage by her brother, Sgt. Richard Steuer, the bride wore a gown of eyelet lace over silk with a wide ruffled hemline. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses and blue carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Nicholls attended the couple.

A buffet dinner was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents following the ceremony.

The bride is a graduate of Winona Senior High School and is a stewardess with Northwest Orient Airlines. Her husband is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin-Madison and is cap-
