That is one option being considered by space agency officials today as they cope with what to do about the 120-degree temperatures in Skylab's cabin that presently make the orbiting laboratory uninhabitable.

They say the high readings, which have risen steadily since the craft was launched Monday, are the main barrier tosending astronauts Charles Conrad Jr., Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz into space Sunday to link up with the 85-ton lab.

The problem was caused when protective thermal paint was stripped from the spacecraft during a launch mishap. Another possibility is to dispatch the astronauts on an abbreviated inspection mission that would involve a fly-around of the Skylab to photograph and evaluate problem areas, followed possibly by a docking and brief on-board inspection.

A decision on what to do and when and if to launch may not come until Saturday, reported William C. Schneider, Skylab program director. The count-

"If we could cover 30 to 40 the sun, it would solve the problem," flight controller Don Puddy told newsmen Tuesday

The space agency seemed to be leaning more to having the Skylab 1 crew install a shade rather than merely do a flyaround mission to assess the problem for the Skylab 2 and 3 crews who would inhabit the station later in the year if troubles were corrected.

Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz were to have rocketed into orbit Tuesday in pursuit of Skylab, but the flight was postponed after two of six solar panels failed to deploy after the workshop reached orbit Mon-

The panels collect and convert the sun's rays to electrical power to operate spacecraft batteries. With the two largest ones inoperative, Skylab lost half its power.

(AP) - What if the Skylab space station can't be made livable for man and is left to drift through space as a $294-million monument to failure?

Wat would be the effect on future U.S. manned. space programs?

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration is trying desperately to save the mission, even to fly bobtailed versions of the one 28-day and two 56-day flights that had been planned for three-man astronaut teams.

But the Skylab project, whose total cost is estimate ed at $2.6 billion may be doomed unless heating and power problems are overcome in the 85-ton laboratory, which was launched unmanned Monday.

Enough hardware is available to launch a second Skylab station, including one of two Saturn 5 rockets now in storage. The last Saturn 5 with an assigned mission lofted the first Skylab into orbit. Built for the Apollo moon program, it is the world's most powerful rocket.

Other backup hardware was made mainly for development and testing purposes but could be assembled into a full-scale station.

But Skylab program director William C. Schneider said it would take 15 months to prepare it for a launching. To do this would cost about $450 million, and NASA does not have the

The President and Congress would have to approve extra funds, and they might not be inclined to in the aftermath of the failure of a program with such a heavy price tag.

"We'd have to take a good hard look at whether we'd do it," Schneider said.

If the decision is yes, the three astronaut crews probably would remain the same. If it is no, these men will have wasted a lot of training.

Lost would be data which NASA considers vital in determining whether man can live and work in space for long periods, especially in the medical field. And man will have lost a chance to operate sophisticated solar astronomy and earth resources experiments that almost 1,500 delegates in student housing at St.

Mary's College this weekend. That's just as well, because it would be hard to find even a vacant stable in Winona, what with the College of Saint Toresa commencement, college tennis teams, high school baseball teams, a Baha 'l conclave and normal transient traffic competing with Jaycees delegates for space.

HOLIDAY INN of Winona has had its Saturday night booked since Jan. 15 by CST housing officials arranging rooms for parents and friends due here for graduation activities. "I doubt there's anything left in the city of Winona," the Inn's reservationist said. At Westgate Molel, a few of the 62 units there remain open for Friday night, but Saturday is filled. Cots will be set up in the motel's meeting

Any available space at the Park Plaza Hotel has been set aside for Walt Kelly, Jaycee in charge of housing for the state Jaycees and Mrs. Jaycees.

THIS WILL BE one of the most crowded weekends in the city since the 1966 Lions International District 5M convention drew about 1,500 delegates and wives from Minnesota, Ontario and Manitoba. Lions were scattered in hotel and motel rooms all over the Winona area and as far as La Crosse. Wis. Three Winona State College dormitories were commandeered.

A crowd of 25,000 watched a parado which included over 200 band members - many of whom were lodged somewhere in the area. Jaycee Jim Mausolf, general chairman of the convention, said one of the reasons Winona was chosen as the convention site this year is the plan to centralize activities on the SMC campus. Housing, food and meetings all are headquartered in college facilities.

BUT THERE'S bound to be some off-campus activity, and local hostels and bars are braced for the expected crowds of Jaycees and commencement-Mausoff said the convention will open with registration 11 a.m. Friday, followed by committee meetings starting at noon. A party in the fieldhouse is planned for 9 p.m. and scheduled to break up at 1 a.m. Saturday. Saturday will be the big day for the convening Jaycees and their counterparts in the state Mrs. Jaycees. A new state president for each organization will be elected and awards given at a sit-down banquet at 7:30 p.m. Another party will carry the assembled 21- to sneaking around behind Vice President Spiro Agnew's back. Probably his front, too.

It was supposed to be a joke, but Govs. Rockefeller and Reagan were both nominated for President at the Republican governors' ball at the Rainbow Room. Both seemed to love it. Gov. Rockefeller threw his arm around comedian Joey Adams, who sneaked his nomination in ahead of Art Linkletter's for Reagan, and practically kissed him.

"When asked me to come here where 22 Republican governors were having an affair, I said, "Isn't our party in enough trouble already?' '' Linkletter said.

They agreed not to tell any Watergate jokes. Except for Adams' assertion that a "statesman is a politician who doesn't get caught," and that "Nixon couldn't be here because he's attending to some spring housecleaning," they kept to the promise.

"Now I would like to introduce the next President of the U.S. . . . why are the Republican governors all standing up?" Joey next said. To Nelson Rockefeller, he said. "I don't know why you'd want it - you'd have to move into a smaller house."

For the visiting governors, Gov. Rocky and Happy had invited an array of notables ranging from Jack Dempsey to Floyd Patter-son, Henry Kissingers friend Nancy Maginnes and Thompson Moore, Joan Fontaine, Celeste Holm, Gloria Swanson saying she would have to go to Portugal to write her two books, Cicely Tyson, Lionel Hampton, William Warfield, Cab Calloway, Peggy Cass, the David Merricks, the Otto Premingers, Julia Meade and others. Mayor Lindsay wasn't there, it was reported that he did not have a friend at Chase Manhattan.

"Fat Jack" E. Leonard, the insult comedian, was our neighbor and friend. Under those barks, he was kind, gentle and especially devoted to three stepdaughters, Wanda, Brenda and Linda, whom he publicly teased but privately praised. One of his lines to hecklers was: "Why don't you put your teeth in backwards and bite yourself in the throat?" One of Jack E.'s requests was that friends donate blood to

It just means that more people, including those guilty ones on the side of the government, should be put in jail.

The CONTENTS of the Ellsberg papers are irrelevant. If they said nothing other than: "God is good," and were stamped classified, and if further, Ellsberg released them to the press - he should be jailed.

That doesn't forgive his perse-prosecutors, but shouldn't release him either.

All the talk of whether or not the release of the information aided or did not aid the enemy was beside the point entirely.

Secret means secret - properly or improperly classified. No subordinate government servant should be able to make individual judgments on what should be brought before the public. Ellsberg is guilty.

It's a shame he won't spend a few years breaking rocks with a hammer.

Get ready for an avalanche of visitors

You can expect the city to be crowded this weekend. The Minnesota Jaycees and their wives will be here starting Friday; Masons from three states will be at the Masonic Temple for ritual work Saturday; the Minnesota Council for the Gifted will be holding a one-day meeting Saturday: the College of Saint Teresa will conduct its baccalaureate and commencement Saturday and Sunday. and a five-state meeting of Baha'i Faith will begin Obviously housing is at a premium as an unfortunate number of visitors have already discovered and will learn when they arrive without reservation.

We welcome them all, although we suspect that housing and dining facilities will cause some irritations and some of our visitors may leave the city with impressions that they might not have obtained on a less crowded weekend.

Consequently, without suggesting criticism of any group or institution, we find it regrettable that all of the events should be occurring on the same weekend. Perhaps, a little more attention to scheduling might have avoided one or more of the conflicts. For years the Winona Area Chamber of Commerce has offered its services for scheduling, but it is little used.

It may take a weekend as the upcoming one to stir renewed interest in a calendar of major events. — A.B.

Our billboard for the '73 tourist season

Winona gets a good billing in the 1973 edillons of the two most popular travel guides - AAA and Mobil - whose attractions list tends to be longer generally - does best for us. It mentions Sugar Loaf, the three colleges, Mississippi River and Lake Winona fishing and boating, Lake, Garvin Helghts and Prairie Island parks, and four Historical Society operations — the museum, the Julius C. Wilkie Steamboat Museum, Bunnell House and the Arches Branch museum.

AAA includes Garvin Heights, the Wilkle, Sugar Loaf, the Winona dam and lock, Watkins Art Gallery and the collections at the Winona National & Savings Bank.

The striking aspect of the lists - particularly the Mobil one - is the dominance of the historical society. Obviously this energetic band of volunteers has put together an outstanding group of tourist attractions. And it has been done with a minimum of governmental support.

For this reason - as well as for the educational role if plays for our own county citizens -we're grateful that after an effort extending over a score of years it has finally acquired possession of a permanent home and headquarters in the former National Guard Armory. - A.B.

Saving innocents

PARIS - Two years ago in an Arab capital I attended a dinner where several ambassadors and their wives discussed the increasing risk of the diplomatic trade, now a target for kidnapping, murder and other acts of violence because either an envoy represents a country whose policy is disliked or because terrorists wish to extort ransom or an exchange against imprisoned colleagues.

All members of the group agreed that their only valid and reliable protection would be if their governments let it be known that nothing would be done to obtain the freedom of any official representative captured and held for purposes of extortion — no money would be paid in ransom, and no prisoners released in exchange. This, it was concluded, was the sole way to discourage the growing reign of terror, hijack-

UNFORTUNATELY, since that discussion, the practice of grabbing diplomats to exact political concessions has continued to spread. The case of Terrance Leonhardy, U.S. consul general in a C. L. Sulzberger

Mexican city, is but the latest in a grim roster on which American officialdom has been sadly featured, most terribly at Khartoum.

The United States has maintained a position similar to that recommended by the dinner party consensus and steadfastly refuses to yield to blackmail. But it has sometimes seen its representative brutally slaughtered, sometimes seen them subjected to psychological if not physical torture, and sometimes has felt it necessary to hint that Washington would not disapprove if foreign governments made concessions such as the release of criminals.

The practice of terrorism for political purposes is old. Lenin advised his followers to kill isolated policemen in order to obtain their weapons.

MANY OTHER political groups have attempted similarly ruthless tactics.

Those once called "terrorists" now call themselves "urban guerrillas." They have their own instructional manuals, notably that devised by a Brazilian leftist named Carlos Marighella before his death in a police

To date, no regime has discovered a satisfactory method of dealing with this menace. Moreover, because of a largely successful world crusade against the death sentence, the more terrorists caught, the more probable the suffering of innocent diplomats. Why? Because a convicted terrorist is necessarily imprisoned. Therefore the organization to which he belongs immediately makes his release the goal for a new op-

SECRETARY OF STATE Rogers has reportedly even contemplated the wisdom of requesting capital punishment for terrorist offenders simply in order to terminate this endless chain.

Surely the U.N., which is unable to agree on much more than that the world is round and life is difficult, might at least contemplate the subject of international security on the individual scale, not just on the scale of nations.

It might be wise to recommend reinstituting the death penalty for convicted terrorists. Although philosophically this would be a retrograde step, it could avoid building up new reservoirs of pawns against whose freedom hostages would be

Ironies and hypocrises

WASHINGTON - Like almonds and raisins, ironies and hypocrisies go well with each other.

The most obvious hypocrisy in the Watergate case is that men who have preached "law and order" appear to have broken the law. In the Ellsberg case, the irony is that men took the law in their own hands to investigate a man accused of taking the law in his own hands. There are others, of lesser magnitude, worth examining as well.

HYPOCRISY: The only bug that bugs us is the bug that bugs our friends. With society rightly aroused to the invasion of privacy by snoopers, burglars and microphones, along comes an F.B.I. "source" blasting the Department of Justice for pulling out a bug placed on the teamsters' telephones. To many who call themselves civil libertarians, teamster is a code word for union reactionaries; in this case, the hero-villain stereotype is flip-flopped, as the benefit of the doubt is transferred from the buggee to the bugger.

Irony: You can't tell a package by its packager. The reason why Watergate was permitted to develop, a lawyer friend told me with great inality, is that the Administration is shot through with shallow advertising men trained to be more concerned with appearance than reality. Now, let's examine the professions of those, innocent or not, whose names have been mentioned most in the press: Haldeman and Chaplin are admen. Magruder was in merchandising and you could call that close to an adman.

Mitchell is a lawyer, Colson is a lawyer, Ehrlichman is a lawyer, Dean is a lawyer, Krog is a lawyer, Kalbach, Segretti, Strachan - all lawyers. This is not to suggest that unfair occupational slurs should be directed at the bar, nor should guilt William Safire be presumed in any case, but if I were a lawyer, I wouldn't knock ad-

IRONY: The proof of the pudding is in the cheating. The argument most frequently advanced against the President's New Federalism by liberal critics went this way: "If the power to decide national priorities, presently located in scandal-free Washington, were to be transferred out to states, cities and local communities - then that power would be abused by the well-known venality, greed and irresponsibility of the poltiical hacks who work at the local level."

At some expense to the reputation of several of its officials, the Nixon Administration has finally made the point it had hitherto failed to communicate: No level of government has a monopoly on virtue.

Like the oboe, "an ill wind which nobody blows good," Watergate makes the case of urgency of administrative decentralization, one of the essential tenets of the New Federalism. Nixon men fail to see that the dramatic, vivid demonstration of Watergate - which was not planned for this purpose - enables them to say "I told you so," that the supposedly superclean Federal level of Government has no special claim to the people's trust. In the enormous, bitter lemon of Watergate, there may yet be lemonade.

HYPOCRISY: What is a source for the goose is not a source for the gander. Often, when a defense attorney or prosecutor wants to leak a tidbit from the grand jury room, the following colloquy takes place: Leaksman: You've got to cover my tracks on this.

ry, I'll gladly go to jail before -Leaksman: No, that wouldn't help me, you have to put in the paper

Investigative reporter: Don't worthat when you asked me, I refused to compromise the sanctity of the grand jury room and slammed the phone down on you. The investigative reporter, to protect his source, too often acquieses, and writes something like this:

"The district attorney (or whoever is the leaker), when reached by telephone, declined to comment, citing rule 21 of the Canon of Ethics. etc." Rarely does any journalist want to include a "refused to comment" in his story, unless it serves his purpose of concealment: Thus, when we see a vigorous rejection of comment in print by some public figure in a "source story," we can assume there is a good chance that both he and the writing are protesting too much.

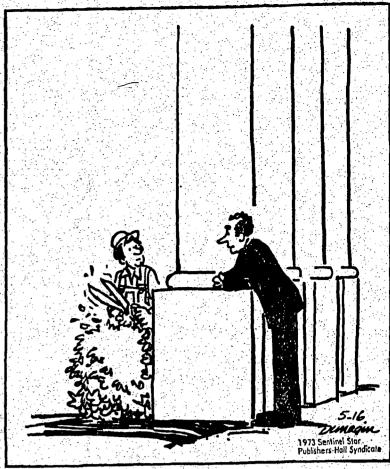

SUCH an overt "grant of anonymity," a standard practice of investigative journalism, is being insisted upon by accomplished leaksmen and is achieving an honored status as a tool in digging out the facts.

Yet, in a story charging a massive governmental cover-up, in righteously flaying zeallots for putting the ends before the means, does not conscience twinge in the reporter who covers up his source in print, using just a little black-and-white lie, putting the noble end of informing the public before the ignoble means of misleading the reader?

Unfair comparison, of course. Matter of degree. After all, when the end is so good, and the means is just a tiny bit deceptive - yes, but isn't that the attitude that turns a moralist into a moralizer and leads good men astray?

DUNAGIN'S PEOPLE

"IT'S REFRESHING TO FIND SOMEONE HERE WHO WASN'T INVOLVED IN WATERGATE."

Bomb math

WASHINGTON - Wearing his secretary of defense hat, Elliot Richardson gave Congress the other day a fascinating glimpse into the mathematics of saving the hearts and minds of remote peoples from whatever our bombers save them from when they bomb their countries.

During one quarter of this year (February, March, April), he said, the U.S. dropped 145,000 tons of bombs on Cambodia and Laos. Population of the two countries is about 10 million persons. Changing tons to pounds, we begin to see light. Territory containing 10 million people has been Baker struck with 290 million pounds of bombs, or, to put it another way, the U.S. has been bombing at the rate of 29 pounds per person per quarter.

EXTRAPOLATING over a full year, we get a more useful mathematical formulation; to wit, that the United States is bombing the average Laotian-Cambodian at the rate of 116 bomb pounds per year.

It is not unreasonable to hypothesize that our average Laotian-Cambodian weighs 87 pounds - or three-quarters of the annual bomb poundage used by the United States to save his heart and mind.

Secretary Richardson suggested that the bombing has done its job (which is to preserve the government of a man named Lon Nol). Thus, for those of us interested solely in the mathematics of the thing, Mr. Richardson may fairly be said to have stated the proposition that the present bombing level is sufficient for the saving of hearts and minds.

If so, then we may state a general mathematical formula for determining the bomb poundage the United States will have to drop to save the hearts and minds of any given nation.

This formula is: HM equals (4W-3) P, where HM represents hearts and minds, W represents weight of the average body containing the heart and mind to be saved, and P represents total population of the bombed country.

Example: Suppose it is necessary to save the hearts and minds of Italy. How many pounds of bombs will we need? To get the answer we multiple the average Italian's weight (111 pounds) by 4 and divide the result (444) by 3, which gives us the hearts - and - minds - winning factor number, 148.

To save the hearts and minds of Italy we would have to drop 148 pounds per year per Italian, of whom there are about 55 million.

"ALL VERY WELL," the taxpayer will say, "But what will it cost me?" Here Mr. Richardson's figures are helpful.

The 63,000 tons dropped on Laos in three months, he reported, cost $99.2-million, or $1,574 per ton.

In Cambodia 82,000 tons were dropped at a cost of $159.5 million, or $1,945 per ton. In short, it costs 97 cents a pound to bomb Cambodia, but only 79 cents a pound to bomb Laos.

Of the two countries, Cambodia is relatively more advanced economically and has much the larger population. Thus, it appears that perpound bombing cost must increase in proportion as size and economic complexity of the target country increases.

The bombing of Italy, which is much more advanced than Cambodia and much more populous, might cost as much as $2.50 a pound. At this price the four million tons needed to save Italy's hearts and minds for one year would cost slightly over $20 billion. Expensive perhaps, but who would say it is not worth it to save Venice for the free world?

IF, FOR EXAMPLE, you have paid taxes of $1,000, you may very reasonably tell yourself that your contribution has made it possible to drop 1,266 pounds of bombs (at 79 cents per pound) on Laos, thereby saving the hearts and minds of ten and 53-58 Laotians for a whole year. At takes 116 bomb pounds per year, remember, to save a single heart and mind there.).

With figures like these, you do not have to ask your country what it will do for you. You can tell Laos and Cambodia what you have done for

To be sure, Watergate is far worse than anything that has gone before, but this is not to say that what has habitually gone before is itself in any way tolerable.

ITEM: For whatever reason and motive, the plainly discernible fact is that Watergate has brought to the Democratic party a rush of responsibility of a kind it has not exhibited for more than a decade,

The arrogant attitude that what Lola wants Lola gets - the belief, that is, that anything goes - has plainly characterized the Nixon men in this squalid affair. It needs, however, to be said that the doctrine of anything goes has not for a long time now been absent from the Democrats as well.

Monetary corruption, true enough, has not been deeply involved. But an intellectual corruption, a conviction that the less articulate majority of the party should and could be forced to swallow all the dogmas of its self-styled "elile," has stained the Democratic party since its 1968 national convention. The abandonment of the most elementary fairness toward its critics by the George McGovern movement was in a way almost as arrogant a perversion of decency and civility as was the deputy sheriff's mentality shown in the Republican

No ice arena factor

May 9 was to most people a normal day. But to a few of us it was not. For we were the recipients of some sad and inevitable news. I am speaking of the resignation of Don Joseph, hockey coach at St. Mary's College. Now to those of you who do not know Mr. Joseph or what hockey is, I will try to advance the puck into the opponents' zone, thus trying to score a goal by putting the puck into a cage. The defending team tries to stop this advancement and right away the game is not so simple. Any searching in the local library will explain

But, there is one major thing I wish to bring out. You see hockey is a game played on ice. No not mud, slush, or even compacted snow, just ice. And more times than I can remember Mr. Joseph's hockey team has had the opportunity to practice in the first three conditions mentioned above.

Sometimes the team would travel to Rochester at outrageous times just to be able to practice. And, depending on the situation the ice here nor there was not available. And so . . . no ice at all. Also, just for fun, let's add a little rule that states all future games in the MIAC are to be played indoors. Now

Most Americans want to stop giving their money away in carload lots to jerky little comicopera nations who hate us at home and who insult us in the United Nations. Our money still flows overseas like Old Man River, however. Somebody keeps it flowing.

During the early Sixties, most Americans wanted to go all out to beat the communists in Vietnam, just as we had gone all out to lick the Kaiser and to stomp Hitler. We didn't do it, though Somebody wouldn't let us.

And to carry the thing right down to weekly TV entertainment, when Lawrence Welk's contract was allowed to lapse by his employing network, old 'Wunnerful, wunnerful" promptly syndicated his program and ended up with more money and a lot more stations running his show than he had had before, thus proving beyond peradventure that the overwhelming majority of his viewers still wanted to watch him. Outboard does no damage to water quality outboard motor does "no acute damage" to water quality in inland lakes, according to preliminary results from a federal study cited by a manufacturer.

The study, financed by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and major outboard motor makers, was released by Outboard Marine Corp.

Seven lakes, four in Michigan and three in Florida, were used for the study. "The stressed lakes were subjected to the equivalent of more than a decade of normal boating use, based on the amount of fuel burned per volume of water," Matt J. Kaufman, Boating Industry Association administrator, said. Research teams from the University of Michigan and Environmental Control Technology

Corp., Ann Arbor, Mich., and from Environmental Engineering, Gainesville, Fla., conducted the study, which has been going on for more than two years.

Taste tests, a report said, showed no flavor difference in fish from the lakes where the outboards were tested.

In ponds where leaded gasoline was used, there was a small increase in the amount of the element in sediment.

However, Outboard Marine said, scientists could not find any evidence of harm to bottom-dwelling organisms.

The study aso showed that such animals as zooplankton caddisflies and mayflies showed no adverse reactions to concentrations of outboard motor exhaust.

Tri-State Masons to hold council festival Saturday

Masons from Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota will converge in Winona this weekend as Tyrian Council 4 hosts the annual Tri-State Council Festival at the Masonic Temple.

Council members from the three states will begin arriving Saturday morning with registration slated for 10 a.m. A noon luncheon will be served in the Central United Methodist Church and official proceedings will begin at 1 p.m.

Following opening ceremonies, Royal Master Degree work will be conducted by Iowa Council 45, Mason City; Select Master Degree Work by Smith Council 10, La Crosse, Wis.; and Super-excellent Master Degree Work by Northfield Council 12 and Southgate Council 15, St. Paul.

The day's festivities will be concluded with a banquet at the temple at 6:30 p.m.

Local representatives, including Masons from Rochester, Winona, Red Wing and the surrounding area, expect more than 275 of their colleagues to attend Saturday's festivities.

NO WHISTLE STOPS FOR ARGENTINA

BUENOS AIRES (AP) There are no Harry Trumanlike whistle stop campaigns in Argentina's elections in 1973.

The Interior Ministry said the reasons range from the State of Siege Law to neutrality of the state-owned railroads.

The State of Siege Law bars public assemblies, so politicians can only meet with their supporters behind closed doors.

The Interior Ministry said railroad stations are public places and the State of Siege prohibits rallies in public places. And it said the government could not compromise its neutrality by permitting candidates to use state railroads.

Question One: Am I still legally Mrs. Joe Blow? I certainly can't be Mrs. John Doe if he is a bigamist, can 1? Question Two: Is there a central United States bureau or agency where ALL divorces are recorded so a person can find out who is legally divorced

DEAR WHO: Answer One: You are still Mrs. Joe Blow-in name only if John Doe is a bigamist. Answer Two: There is NO central bureau or agency where all divorces are recorded.

DEAR ABBY: Our 22-year-old son, Erik, is marrying Heather, who is 21. Erik asked his father to be his best man, and naturally his father was flattered and delighted.

When Heather heard about it she said she had asked her 21-year-old girl friend to be her maid of honor, and it will look ridiculous for a 47-year-old man to stand up for the groom when a 21-year-old girl is standing up for the bride. Heather has asked Erik to reconsider.

Do you thing it will look ridiculous? And how should ERIK'S MOTHER this sticky problem be handled?

DEAR MOTHER: I see nothing ridiculous about it. Heather should be told that the best man and maid of honor do not necessarily have to be the same age.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For THURSDAY, May 17

Your hirthday today: Most of the year promises action—urgent missions or tasks you believe in doing. Be on the alert to take full advantage of a growth opportunity. Today's natives can stand the pace needed for worldly success.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Gently but firmly disentangle friends and relatives from your business. Today is great for ideas, but lacks time for application.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Your regular work is hard enough without adding the uncertainties of experimentation. Substitutes are needed. Anticipate contingencies.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): If you can concentrate with all of today's distractions you're good! Adjust lighting for easy vision and seek quiet.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Emotional crosscurrents exist - you'll be glad you encounter them without troubling associates. Purchasing any long-desired object requires Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Friends differ both with you and among themselves. Extend your loved ones the finest care possible. Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Expect temporary delays and try to be less demanding. All your ideals and ventures will come in due time. Patience and prayer are needed. Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): It's like going back to school, but in an accelerated course, not a comfortably paced routine.

Select, now, from available choices. Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): The tide of incident runs fast today, but don't take your luck for granted.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Although you're ready to go it's too early for most of your ventures. Avoid haste. A favor done for somebody tends to get you off position. Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19); You can upset people even with the best intention. Discussions can build into squabbles. By evening the coast is clear again. Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Serious study may be difficult with today's distractions. Your friends' ideas may work for them, but not for you. Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): The business world and its machines care nothing for your personal affairs - a few people take advantage of an expression of distress.

Gabrych Park WSC haven

By STAN SCHMIDT

Daily News Sports Editor There's no doubt about it. Winona State does have an advantage when it plays before the hometown fans at Ga-

And that's just one reason why the Warriors are favored to beat Augsburg College in the District 13 NAIA baseball championships here Thursday in a best-of-three series to start at 1 p.m.
WSC's Gabrych Park record tells the story.

WHILE WSC HAS chalked up an impressive 96-38-1 record over the past four years - the Warriors haven't had a losing season in more than 26 years - more than half of those wins have come at Gabrych. Forty-nine of them, to be

Since 1970, WSC has compiled a 49-7 record at Gabrych (the Warriors also own a 3-0 mark at Loughrey Field), including a 10-1 record this season.

Their lone home defeat this year was an 8-0 whitewashing at the hands of long-time nemesis UW-La Crosse. Since then, WSC has won 10 in a row here, including the three-game sweep over St. Cloud State last weekend which gave the Warriors their second straight outright Northern Intercollegiate Conference championship.

"We don't lose too many at Gabrych," smiles WSC coach Gary Grob, who earlier this year became the school's winningest baseball coach and now owns a seven-year 154-69-1

THAT'S A .690 winning percentage.

Gabrych has also earned a reputation as a home run park, or what Grob describes as "a pitcher's nightmare." With unusually high 30-foot fences in left and right fields, Gabrych is more conducive to yielding home runs to the high pop fly, even though it measures 300 feet down both lines and 410 in dead center.

"Home runs are something we've always had to worry about," Grob commented this week. "I look at it this way: we need at least a four- or five-run lead to feel comfortable." This year, the Warriors have collected 13 of their record 34 home runs at Gabrych, including three grand slams. WSC's home run leaders, Tad Bothwell and Doug Sauer, have rapped four and three each at Gabrych.

ON THE OTHER HAND, WSC's opponents have hit seven of their 14 round trippers at Gabrych. But there are other reasons for giving WSC the nod the Blugolds, resulted in a 9-1 victory for Cotter in the opener of the doubleheader at Gabrych Park and snapped a five-game losing streak for Coach Steve Krinke's squad.

But Aquinas, which has experienced the same type of difficulties the Ramblers have this season, came back to win the nightcap 5-2 on the four-hit pitching of Mike Allen.

SMITH, MAKING only his fourth appearance of the season, lost his shutout on an unearned run in the top of the seventh inning, and now has given up just two earned runs in 25% innings for a remarkable 0.54 ERA.

Pets by prescription

FOR A LONG TIME, doctors have realized the value as a form of therapy that pets afford both young and old. The responsibility and companionship can do things modern medicine can't even attempt.

A unique program has been developed in Hennepin County to take advantage of this fact.

Pets and people are being brought together through the recommendation of local physicians.

Dr. Stanley King, director of the Animal Humane Soclety of Hennepin County, got the project off the ground two years ago with the cooperation of local doctors.

If a physician has a patient he thinks could benefit from the companionship or responsibility of a pet, all he has to do is contact Dr. King or his staff. After filling out a society form — a prescription of sorts — the society will see to it that the patient gets the right pet. Thus far the program has been quite successful and most requests have been for children's pets, but the society hopes that in the future older patients will be able to take advantage of the unique prescription program.

Field and Stream centerfold

IT'S TRUE, THE June issue of Field and Stream Magazine will have a centerfold, but not quite as revealing as some other national slicks.

F&S, one of the leading outdoor magazines, will feature Miss Fun Fishing 1973 in the first centerfold in the publication's 78-year history

Who is Miss Fun Fishing? None other than Phyllis Diller.

Donning gold boots over her stocking-foot waders she's decked out in fishing garb and a new look (her beauty secrets include having a plastic surgeon handy at all times).

While the foldout idea is a tongue-in-cheek copy of the magazines who've made a reputation with these graphic displays, it is designed to serve a purpose to emphasize that fishing is fun for everyone.

F&S editor Jack Samson offered an explanation: "With 30 million people licensed to fish, including 9.5 million women, the sport is a universally popular source of family entertainment — as is Miss Diller's humor. Field and Stream believes she truly characterizes the lighthearted aspects of fishing.

While the centerfold is not destined to be a major portion of the magazine's subject matter in the future, F&S has added a new department in recent months — a women's

With a woman columnist devoting her time to the woman's side of the spectrum, the magazine becomes a more well-rounded publication and truly represents the outdoor scene — because, let's face it, there are a lot of gals out there every day.

Great Dismal Swamp

THERE HAS BEEN a positive step forward in the attempt to create a Great Dismal Swamp Wildlife Refuge in Virginia and North Carolina. Early this month the move to make this vast area a national wildlife area received support in hearings conducted by two congressional committees. The subcommittee on Fisheries, Wildlife Conservation and the Environment, and the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisherics each received favorable response

There are currently two bills — H.R. 2588 and H.R. 3620 that ask that the swamp lands be made into the national refuge, and Rep. Thomas N. Downing (Va.) and Rep. Robert W. Daniel Jr., (Va.) each spoke in favor of the measures.

Emphasis in each hearing was placed on the fact that if the area were designated a national refuge through an act of Congress it could only be disestablished by Congress, as opposed to an area designated by executive order which could be changed again by a similar order.

The Department of the Interior asked that action on the bill be deferred until a study of the area could be completed. but Assistant Secretary Douglas Wheeler pointed out that he was sure the department would go along with the action.

The Interior Department received more than 50,000 acres of land earmarked for a federal refuge in the Great Dismal Swamp area last February, and it is on this land that the study is being done. As of now it looks like the Great Dismal Swamp, which really isn't so dismal, will be protected from the drainage and development which now threatens it.

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market posted light gains with a 42 and John Miller and today as pressure on the dollar weakened in Europe and the skyrocketing price of gold slowed down.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 1.51 at 918.95. Advancing issues on the New York Stock Exchange led declining issues 666 to 425.

"The market will take its cue from the price of gold today," said Robert Stovall of Reynolds Securities, Inc. "The pullback in the price is giving investors and traders a chance to pick up prices which look to be low."

Stovall also cited the signs that the economic growth was very healthy, the assurance from the administration that the dollar would not be devalued, and the latest developments in the Watergate scandal.

WSC is 21-5-1 and Augsburg, winner of the Minnesota Intercollegiate Athletic Conference for the first time since 1984, is 13-7. WSC was 14-1 in the NIC and Augsburg 11-3 in THE COMPETITION speaks for itself, particularly the victory (3-2) and the tie (3-3) the Warriors dumped on the University of Minnesota, which seems destined to win the Big Ten championship. 'Winona is a fine ball club. They are a super ball club." praised coach Edor Nelson, who's in his 20th your at the Augsburg belm. "You just don't beat the University of Minnesota unless you have a fine ball team. We have a lot of respect for them." Thursday's series - all the games will be seven-inning affairs - will be the first ever between WSC and Augsburg. WSC will put senior righthanders Torry Brocht (7-1, 2.74 ERA), Lee Boettcher (5-1, 3.33) and Sam Shea (5-0, 3.47) on the mound Thursday. Augsburg will counter with junior righthander Bill Nelson (5-1, 0.80), senior southpaw Torry Gilbert (4-1, 1.31) and freshman righthander Bill Randt (1.0). pected to be the first relievers called upon if necessary.

The Warriors are butting at a .207 clip, while Augsburg is at .280, And the Warriors have slammed a school record 34 home runs, while Augsburg boasts just seven.

Sauer and Bothwell need just one more home run apiece to tie the single season record (8) shared by Loren Benz and Todd Spencer, while Jeff Ross is seven short of Benz' single season mark of 46 hits. Sauer, of course, had hit safely in a school record 21 consecutive games until he went 0-for-2 in the third game against St. Cloud and Jeff Youngbauer had hit safely in 15 straight games earlier this year. Now Ross is on a six-game hitting streak as he overtook Sauer to capture the NIC's

TO DATE, WSC HAS outscored its apponents 185-83 and outhit them 241-169 as the Warrior mound staff, boasting a not-so-impressive 3.38 earned run average, has held opponents to a 228 batting average.

This year's pitching, in fact, has not been up to last year's when WSC compiled a near record 1.89 ERA. But with 17 complete-game performances from the three regulars, the record setting .972 fielding percentage - WSC has committed only 24 errors this year - and the surprisingly strong performances at the plate, the mound staff really hasn't had to work all that hard either. Thursday's district champion will advance to the Area

Four championships at Waverly, Iowa, May 24-25. The area champ advances to the NAIA championships in Phoenix, Arizona., which are slated to start May 31.
