Son of past governor wins California runoff

TELLS OF PLANS... California Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown, 36, liberal son of a former California governor, tells supporters his plans for progressive reform of the state government after winning the Democratic nomination for governor Tuesday. He will face state controller Houston J. Flournoy, a moderate Republican. (AP Photofax)

By LEE GOULD
Associated Press Writer
California voters will choose between the liberal son of a past governor and a Princeton-educated former college government professor when they elect a governor in November. Democrat Edmund G. Brown Jr., the 36-year-old son and namesake of the man defeated by Ronald Reagan in 1966, and Republican Houston J. Flournoy won party nominations in California's primary election Tuesday.

Tough reform law approved

The University of Mississippi a decade ago, was a surprise leader in a five-way Democratic congressional primary in Mississippi. He faces a run-off election June 25.

● Congressmen seeking reelection in the eight states holding primaries Tuesday had little difficulty securing renomination by their parties. Many faced no-or token-primary opposition.

Flournoy, 44, now state controller and a former state legislator, won the GOP gubernatorial nomination in a landslide victory over Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke. Flournoy, who holds a Ph.D. from Princeton, is considered a moderate Republican.

Reinecke, once considered a favorite, suffered a blow April 3 when a Watergate grand jury indicted him on a perjury charge in the ITT case.

Brown, 36, was one of 18 Democrats, including San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto and State Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, who sought the Democratic nomination.

He had based his campaign on support for Proposition 9, a Watergate-inspired initiative that would reform campaign practices. The proposition was approved.

In South Dakota, Thorsness, 42, who spent six years in a North Vietnam prison camp and who holds the Medal of Honor, said he did not see the war as a major election issue. Thorsness, who had announced his intentions to seek McGovern's seat shortly after returning to the United States last year, said, "The war is over. I hope we've learned our lesson. I hope we don't have to re-fight that war in this campaign."

Election highlights in other states:

IOWA—State Rep. David

cumbent congressmen seeking another term were renominated without serious challenge.

MONTANA — Democrat Max Baucus and Jack McDonald, a Republican who recently bolted the Democratic party, won congressional nominations to face incumbents who were unopposed in the primary. In November, Baucus will challenge Republican Rep. Dick Shoup while McDonald will face Democratic Rep. John Melcher.

NEW MEXICO — State Sen. Jerry Apodaca of Las Cruces, at 39 the youngest candidate in a six-man field, won New Mexico's Democratic gubernatorial primary election. He will oppose Republican Joseph Skeen, a 47-year-old rancher and former state senator, in the November general election. The current governor, Democrat Bruce King, is unable to succeed himself.

MISSISSIPPI — Meredith's opponent in the June 25 runoff will be Jackson television executive Kenneth Dean. In other primary highlights, the state's five congressmen won party endorsements for new terms.

Kissinger to ask $100 million aid for Syria

By JEFFREY MILLS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger says he told Syrian leaders he would ask Congress for $100 million in foreign aid for Syria if a disengagement agreement was reached with Israel.

No commitments "either implied or expressed" were made to Syria during his 34-day peacemaking trip to the Middle East, Kissinger told the House Foreign Affairs Committee Tuesday.

The $100 million, part of $4.2-billion in economic assistance contained in the foreign aid bill, is "a special requirements fund" for use "to reinforce the peace process" in the Middle East, he said.

Kissinger made it clear he felt that U.S. financial aid is essential in continuing evolution of Syria and other Arab governments toward moderate policies.

The bill sets out $900 million for aid to the Middle East, including Israel, Egypt, Jordan and Syria.

In Syria, Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam predicted that U.S.-Syrian diplomatic relations will be restored "very soon." Diplomatic ties were broken during the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

Asked if Syria is doing anything to prevent Palestinian guerrilla activity against Israel, Khaddam replied:

"I assure you no Arab government is capable of preventing the Palestinians from struggling to restore their legitimate rights, no matter what guarantees may be given to Israel by other nations."

This appeared to be a reference to American assurances to Israel of support for any reprisals to guerrilla attacks.

Meanwhile, Israeli security forces captured two Arab guerrillas, both 19, who slipped across the Lebanese border armed with guns, grenades and explosives, police said. Israel's state radio quoted the two as saying they were ordered to "make a slaughter" by firing at random on civilians in the Mediterranean resort of Nahariya or the port city of Haifa.

In Geneva, Israeli and Syrian generals completed details for carrying out the troop disengagement agreement signed by their governments last week.

My Dear Mr. President: The American Club in London, on Piccadilly, wanted to give me a dinner, and you know what I think of these dinners.

You remember the one you and I attended at the Gridiron Club in Washington. I remember we were both equally bored.

It took us until almost one o'clock to eat what little they had, and the speeches, outside of yours and mine, was terrible; if I remember right, even yours wasn't so good.

Rodino decides to wait on Colson Milk price decision probed

By JOHN BECKLER
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee is turning to President Nixon's 1971 decision to raise milk prices to see if it was linked to a $2 million campaign pledge from dairy co-ops.

The investigation to start today, involves bribery, which the Constitution lists as an impeachable offense.

Moving more swiftly now that it has passed the tangled Watergate scandal, the committee completed on Tuesday the presentation of evidence on the settlement of antitrust litigation against International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.

It also decided to have its staff question Charles W. Colson but postponed a decision on whether the former White House counsel would be called as a witness before the committee.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., who overrode strong objections from members who want Colson called now, said he would wait for the staff's report on what Colson says before deciding whether to have him as a witness.

Colson played a major role in the White House's dealings with the dairy industry, outlined in a summary prepared by the Judiciary Committee's staff of the case it will present.

The staff memorandum identifies Colson as the White House contact for the Associated Milk Producers Inc., and says in the spring or summer of 1970 AMPI promised him $2 million for Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign.

On March 12, 1971, former

Secretary of Agriculture Clifford Hardin set milk price supports lower than the dairy industry wanted. Industry representatives called on Colson and other administration officials to set Hardin's order aside and fix a higher support level, the memorandum says.

The crucial part of the staff's presentation centers on March 23, 1971, when Nixon, who had previously been informed of the $2 million pledge, met at the White House with industry representatives and thanked them for their support.

Later that afternoon, says the memorandum, Nixon met with key advisers and decided to increase milk price supports. Nixon has said his decision was influenced by heavy pressure from Congress for an increase.

The committee memorandum says no announcement of Nixon's decision was made and that immediately after the meeting Colson got in touch with the late Murray M. Chotiner. He had left the White House a few weeks earlier after serving as an aide to Nixon, and was then representing the dairy industry.

"Later in the night of March 23, AMPI officials and other dairy representatives engaged in all night meetings... at which they agreed to make political contributions to the President's re-election campaign and to contribute $25,000 by the evening of March 24," the memorandum says.

During the evening of March 24 Chotiner told several dairy men that former White House

B1 bomber to be challenged on fund needs

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force B1 bomber is facing the next challenge in the Senate continuing debate on the $21.8-billion military weapons procurement bill.

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., called for a Senate vote today on his amendment to slow down B1 development by cutting funding to $200 million from the $499 million the Defense Department requested.

Timetable worked out Israel, Syria agree on troop withdrawals

By United Press International
Israel and Syria today signed agreements for a three-stage withdrawal of troops and weapons on the Golan Heights, and Israel went on a massive alert for Arab guerrilla attacks on the seventh anniversary of the 1967 Middle East War.

Maj. Gen. Herzl Shifrar of Israel and Gen. Adnanwahij Tayara of Syria met in the United Nations European headquarters in Geneva and signed maps, a timetable and other technical documents for the pullbacks.

Under the overall Israeli-Syrian disengagement pact signed last Friday, both sides now have to withdraw to demarcation lines by June 25. The maps also precisely laid out the boundary of a buffer zone manned by U.N. troops.

The technical agreements signed today also called for a prisoner of war exchange by Thursday and the creation of a joint Israel-Syrian commission to search the barren battlefield for war dead.

Representatives of the United States, the Soviet Union and Egypt gathered in the muralled Council Chamber of the palace to watch generals from each side sign the documents.

Syria insisted on barring newsmen from the ceremony, as it did when the preliminary agreement was signed Friday.

U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim toured the Golan Heights buffer zone Tuesday with Syrian escorts and an advance party from the 1,200 U.N. troops that will survive

On blame for erasure Tapes experts can't decide

By MIKE SHANAHAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — After seven months of work, a court-appointed panel of sound specialists has left undetermined who is responsible for an 18 1/2-minute erasure in an important White House tape recording.

"Questions of who made the buzz or when, or why, did not come within the scope of our investigation," the group said in releasing its inch-thick report Tuesday.

Instead, the panel focused largely on the tape itself. The report repeated the panel's earlier conclusion that the erasure was the result of manual operation of the record and stop buttons on the machine.

That conclusion was contested by the White House and its own tape report.

White House lawyer James D. St. Clair charged that the panel's report "creates the false impression that all portions of the erasure were done manually and deliberately."

The White House-sponsored report says the gap could have resulted from mechanical malfunction.

Nonetheless, the White House-sponsored report prepared by the Stanford Research Institute said it was in "general agreement" with the court-appointed group.

President Nixon's secretary, Rose Mary Woods, has testified that she accidentally caused four to five minutes of the erasure by keeping the recorder on through the use of a foot pedal.

Miss Woods was transcribing the tape, which included a conversation between the President and his former chief of staff H. R. Haldeman on June 20, 1972, three days after the Watergate break-in.

The panel's seven major conclusions, the same as those delivered in a Jan. 15 preliminary report, were backed up this time with more than 50 pages of technical documentation.

The six members selected jointly by the White House and the special Watergate prosecutor said they had considered several challenges to the original conclusions, but had not changed their minds.

Miss Woods' attorney, Charles S. Rhyne, declared the six members of the court-appointed panel to be unqualified.

Tax-forfeited land auction set Thursday

Real estate by the armload goes on the auction block at the temporary courthouse here Thursday.
Winona County Auditor Alois Wiczek will sell 65 parcels of tax-forfeited land at public auction beginning at 10 a.m. Thursday.
It is the first sale of tax-forfeited property held by the county in more than 10 years, even though state law requires such a sale once a year.
Many of the parcels are tiny strips of almost vertical property adjacent to Highway 61-14, others are land-locked tracts scattered throughout the county, and some are houses in Winona.
The county board has set an approximate value for each parcel, and they range in worth from $25 to $4,400.
The sale is set to begin in Wiczek's office on the first floor of the temporary courthouse at West 3rd and Johnson streets, but will likely move to a vacant courtroom on the second floor if a large number of persons attend.

Negotiators O.K. school cook pact

Agreement on a new contract for cooks in the food service department of the public schools of Winona Independent District 861 was reached Tuesday afternoon by school board and employe negotiators.
The board's chief negotiator, Frank J. Allen, said he would recommend that the school board at its meeting Monday night approve a 28-cent hourly wage increase for the cooks.

THE EMPLOYEES representatives originally had requested a 30-cent across-the-board increase, three additional holidays and inclusion in the district dental insurance coverage.
The present wage rates are $2.71 for the head cook at Winona Junior High School, $2.51 for the head cook at Winona Junior High School, $2.415 an hour for one cook and $2.12 for cook helpers.

The cooks earlier had dropped their request for dental insurance, providing for a 15 1/2 percent improvement in contract and averaging 33 cents an hour including three paid holidays.
At Monday night's board meeting Allen had recommended a 30-cent hourly increase and board members suggested that he attempt to negotiate a compromise.

AT TUESDAY'S session Allen offered a 25-cent hourly increase, the cooks countered with an across-the-board 28-cent increase—dropping the request for the paid holidays—and Allen said he would seek approval of this wage rate by the board Monday.
It approved the head cook at Winona Junior High School would receive $2.99 an hour, the head cook at Senior High School $2.79, cook $2.695 and cook helpers $2.40 an hour.
This would represent a contract improvement of about 13 percent.

THE SOCIETY "got a better understanding of what the urban development group is and the problems they're having in their efforts to go ahead," said William Sillman, 1021 W. Wabasha St., society board member who called the special meeting.
The society emphasized its interest in preservation, although its board has voted to remain neutral on the urban renewal controversy.
Asked what could be done about future preservation in Winona, HRA executive director George Mayer said the society would be better off talking to the city council. With city backing, federal revenue sharing money—or special revenue sharing, if it is enacted—might be made available, he said.

Federal grant to aid new center in Buffalo Co.

INDEPENDENCE, Wis. — A $12,531 federal grant will fund the initial starting costs of a day activity center for developmentally disabled adults in Buffalo County.
The Mississippi River Human Services Center, recipient of the grant, announced the day activity center will provide services to mentally retarded, cerebral palsied and epileptic adults. Activities will be geared toward making them more independent and self-sufficient in their homes and the community.
Scheduled starting date for the center is September 1974. Staffed by a fulltime director and program assistant, the program will operate year round, Monday through Friday, and transportation will be provided.
Proposed activities include recreation, counseling and development of work skills and habits; self-help skills such as grooming, hygiene, meal preparation and housekeeping; and social skills including basic reading and writing.
"The center's location will be announced in July."

THE SOCIETY presented a letter from the Committee to Save Historic Winona which said that "Winona needs action... but it does not need an other empty lot." Development doesn't necessarily mean new construction, the letter added.
The letter also asked if City Design Development Co., St. Paul, the HRA's designated urban renewal developer, had yet entered a firm written contract for the project. The HRA answered it should have a firm contract within two months, according to Sillman.

HRA, historical group discuss urban renewal

Urban renewal principles and hopes for preservation were outlined at a closed meeting Tuesday of the Winona County Historical Society and the Winona Housing and Redevelopment Authority (HRA).
About 20 persons attended the afternoon meeting at the historical society museum, 160 Johnson St.

THE SOCIETY "got a better understanding of what the urban development group is and the problems they're having in their efforts to go ahead," said William Sillman, 1021 W. Wabasha St., society board member who called the special meeting.
The society emphasized its interest in preservation, although its board has voted to remain neutral on the urban renewal controversy.
Asked what could be done about future preservation in Winona, HRA executive director George Mayer said the society would be better off talking to the city council. With city backing, federal revenue sharing money—or special revenue sharing, if it is enacted—might be made available, he said.

HRA commissioner Royal Thern suggested that a catalogue of local historical sites be assembled so that future developers know what Winona wants to save.
The board team of Frank J. Allen, chairman and chief negotiator, Superintendent of Schools C. H. Hopf and E. W. Mueller, assistant superintendent for elementary education, and members of the Winona Teachers Council—Henry Stankiewicz, chief negotiator, Mrs. Harry Losinski, Robert Edel, William Ochs and John Duell—today considered counterproposals and clarification of sections in dispute for renegotiation Thursday.
Most of Tuesday afternoon's session was devoted to a teachers' proposal defining rights of the WEA as exclusive teacher representative.

Amtrak to raise summer fares

Amtrak will boost summer train fares effective Sunday, a spokesman said today.
The hike raises one-way fare between Winona and Minneapolis from $6 to $6.75, and Winona-Chicago fare from $15.25 to $17.50.
The increase is the railroad's second in two months. A five percent across-the-board increase went into effect April 16 to counter rising fuel prices. Most of the summer increase will be rescinded after Sept. 7.
Passengers are reminded that train reservations now are needed for all trains out of Winona. Under Amtrak regulations effective May 19, reservations must be confirmed before tickets can be sold.

Minnesota City, Rollingstone have blackout

Residents at Minnesota City and Rollingstone and in the surrounding area were without electricity this morning.
The outage, at 8:10 a.m., was caused by tangled conductors on a single phase tap-line off the main line along Highway 248, according to Tom Jepson, Northern States Power Co. division manager.
Power at Rollingstone was restored by 9:27 and at Minnesota City at 10.

City woman, 18, reports attempted rape in area town

An 18-year-old Winona woman has reported to the Winona County Sheriff's office that an unidentified man attempted to rape her while she was in his car in the Stockton area about 11 p.m. Tuesday.
The woman said that the man "got pretty rough with me," but that she was able to jump out of the car and escape, running to the Bernard Mullen residence in Stockton where she called sheriff's deputies.
No description of the man or his car was available.

During teacher negotiations

Master contract form takes shape

By C. GORDON HOLTE
Daily News Staff Writer
The form of a new master contract for public school teachers of Winona Independent District 861 for 1974-75 began to emerge Tuesday night during a meeting of school board and teacher negotiators.
Discussions during a bargaining session that began in mid-afternoon and continued into the night centered on a 76-page contract proposal presented by the Winona Education Association (WEA) last week.

WHEN talk was adjourned until Thursday night, employer and employe negotiating teams had considered 11 pages of the proposal and had reached final agreement on three articles and several sections of subsequent articles and had prepared to draft counterproposals on a number of other sections.
Substantial agreement was reached on contractual terms and recognition of the WEA as exclusive bargaining representative for the teachers, under provisions of the Public Employment Labor Relations Act (PELRA), and school board rights.

The board team of Frank J. Allen, chairman and chief negotiator, Superintendent of Schools C. H. Hopf and E. W. Mueller, assistant superintendent for elementary education, and members of the Winona Teachers Council—Henry Stankiewicz, chief negotiator, Mrs. Harry Losinski, Robert Edel, William Ochs and John Duell—today considered counterproposals and clarification of sections in dispute for renegotiation Thursday.
Most of Tuesday afternoon's session was devoted to a teachers' proposal defining rights of the WEA as exclusive teacher representative.

WHEN talk was adjourned until Thursday night, employer and employe negotiating teams had considered 11 pages of the proposal and had reached final agreement on three articles and several sections of subsequent articles and had prepared to draft counterproposals on a number of other sections.
Substantial agreement was reached on contractual terms and recognition of the WEA as exclusive bargaining representative for the teachers, under provisions of the Public Employment Labor Relations Act (PELRA), and school board rights.

Minnesota City, Rollingstone have blackout

Residents at Minnesota City and Rollingstone and in the surrounding area were without electricity this morning.
The outage, at 8:10 a.m., was caused by tangled conductors on a single phase tap-line off the main line along Highway 248, according to Tom Jepson, Northern States Power Co. division manager.
Power at Rollingstone was restored by 9:27 and at Minnesota City at 10.

City woman, 18, reports attempted rape in area town

An 18-year-old Winona woman has reported to the Winona County Sheriff's office that an unidentified man attempted to rape her while she was in his car in the Stockton area about 11 p.m. Tuesday.
The woman said that the man "got pretty rough with me," but that she was able to jump out of the car and escape, running to the Bernard Mullen residence in Stockton where she called sheriff's deputies.
No description of the man or his car was available.

issues might be resolved without resorting to mediation.
Allen agreed, but noted that state law requires that the Department of Mediation Services be notified if substantial agreement on contract terms is not reached by early July.
STANKIEWICZ suggested the possibility that a request for mediation might be necessary but said he hoped that, if such a request is made, negotiation might continue between board and teacher representatives working toward agreement on a contract so that there would be no need to resort to mediation.
Allen said he thought this would be possible.

Cotter board: high school to stay open

Adherence to its previously stated stand that it has no intention of closing Cotter High School at this time was reiterated by the Cotter Board at its meeting Tuesday night.
Reaffirmation of its position on continuance of operation of the high school was made by the board in the wake of a recommendation made by the University of Minnesota Bureau of Field Studies to the School Board of Winona Independent District 861 on measures that might be undertaken to alleviate crowding at Winona Junior High School.

THE FIELD studies team noted that declining enrollments might make it economically feasible sometime in the future for the diocese of Winona to close the high school.
If this should happen, the survey report stated, District 861 should "initiate dialogue with the Cotter Board of Education concerning the possible future operation and utilization of Cotter High School."
If the high school were to suspend operations, the researchers said, District 861 should consider rental or purchase of the building for use as a second junior high school.

Revenue-sharing funds set for County Ditch 3

The Winona County Board late Tuesday decided how it will spend more than $450,000 in federal revenue sharing funds it will receive in the next year, and heading the list is much-discussed County Ditch 3.

Commissioners earmarked $95,000 to begin covering the most criticized of waterways in the county, which runs through the west end of Winona between Boller Lake and Lake Winona.
It was one of six categories to receive portions of the $453,028 in federal revenue sharing funds the county will get in fiscal year 1975, which begins July 1.

CITY, COUNTY and Minnesota Highway Department officials—all of which have some responsibility for portions of the ditch—have been talking for years about enclosing the ditch with a continuous culvert and covering it with a greenway to end problems created by the open, refuse-clogged ditch that runs through residential and commercial neighborhoods.
Commissioners expressed hope the $95,000 allocation would get talk of covering the ditch off "dead center" and into a workable plan that would perhaps see a portion of the ditch-covering project completed in the next year.

Other allocations of the coming year's federal money include funds for senior citizens, the jail, library services, soil and water conservation projects and road construction.
In earmarking the 1975 funds, commissioners learned money already earmarked for jail remodeling or replacement is more than they thought.
The county has $363,045 closed for the jail project, which will cost more than twice that, although $150,000 of that was temporarily removed for use on highway construction. Commissioners until Tuesday afternoon thought the jail fund had only $235,000 in it.

THE $150,000 taken from the jail fund, in fiscal 1974 federal funds will be replaced with an identical allocation in fiscal 1975 funds, keeping the jail money at the same level.
Commissioners allocated $5,000 for aid to senior citizens, although they have received no specific requests and have no clear idea how the money will be spent. The money will likely go to create some sort of free transportation system for the elderly, county-board members said.

Minnesota City post office bids being accepted

MINNESOTA CITY, Minn. — Roger Church, Minnesota City postmaster, has announced that bids are being accepted for a new postal facility.

The structure, to be located within the business district, will be comprised of 1,068 square feet with a platform of 120 square feet.

Land size requirements are 5,200 to 7,500 square feet. Bidders should specify the annual rental for a basic lease term of 10 years with separate and consecutive renewal options for five-year terms.

Bids should be in the office of R. R. Gillette, manager, area real estate and buildings office, U. S. Postal Service, P. O. Box 69069, St. Paul, Minn., 55169, no later than July 12.

The present facility, built in 1956, contains about 384 square feet and is located at the corner of Mill and Front streets.

A total of 1,700 customers, located north, west and south of Minnesota City, are served by the postal facility, according to Church.

Miss Australia 1966, Miss Sue Gattie, has joined the Liberal party as a public relations officer.

The reporting of crime is part of solution

The man who heads the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration — who apparently now has resigned because he has been publicly critical of the Nixon administration — is concerned that many crimes aren't reported to police.

All of us are shocked at the escalation in minor and major crime, but administrator Donald Santarelli estimated recently that, on the basis of a study of 13 cities, fewer than half of all crimes are reported.

Why should this be?

He told U. S. News and World Report magazine that "the survey more than anything proves the point that citizens are turned off by the criminal justice system we now have. They believe that reporting crime, testifying about crime, doing something about crime is not worth their while or is too costly to them in terms of what's likely to result—and they're probably right."

He wants not only victims to report crime, but he wants witnesses to report crime. Not only that, he says our faltering system needs willing jurors, big brothers for precriminal delinquents and volunteers to help those who have fallen victims to the law.

If Santarelli is right, then our crime problem is much worse than reflected in statistical reports.

We believe that it is also a typically human reaction for police to sometimes discourage victims from reporting crimes to them, since the bulk of such reports might be viewed as a reflection on their efficiency. Similarly, police may sometimes withhold reports to the press and the public of crimes that have been committed. They may reason that the crimes are private matters, or that disclosure can await solution of the crime when that will reflect credit on their performance.

However, crime is a problem for all citizens. And if the victim does not report it, and if he does and the police hide the facts of the crime, then the citizens cannot be expected to appreciate the problem nor make an intelligent contribution to its solution. — A.B.

May we never see him again

One night several weeks ago a heavily loaded semi and an old panel truck collided at the intersection of highway 61-14 and 43 in Winona. One died, others were seriously injured.

The other day we were parked at that intersection, westbound on 61-14, awaiting a light for a left turn. A driver ahead of us apparently concluded that no traffic threatened his safety and drove through the red light.

Momentarily, we toyed with the idea of a citizen's arrest, not so much to punish but to remind the driver that when humans evaluate a red light to mean "go" they may develop a frame of mind that one day could be costly. Where evaluation is recommended is in the green light that says "go." When that appears the cautious driver will make an effort to verify a safe crossing.

But we dismissed the thought of the citizen's arrest: 1. he would have been disagreeably offended, and 2. on the supposition that we would not again encounter that driver at a signalized intersection and an opportunity to interpret red to mean "go." — A.B.

The true story about the truce in Vietnam

NEW YORK — The United States bombed North Vietnam over Christmas 1972 in order to persuade South Vietnam to accept the truce agreement. By "brutalizing" Hanoi," as Gen. Alexander Haig put it to Nguyen Van Thieu in Saigon, we aimed to convince President Thieu that he would be militarily secure after the truce.

That conclusion emerges irresistibly from a remarkable study of American negotiating tactics in the years leading up to the signing of the Vietnam agreement in January 1973. The account is by Tad Szulc, a former New York Times correspondent; it appears in the new issue of the magazine Foreign Policy.

Lewis

THE ARTICLE reflects access to previously unpublished documents, giving the first-hand flavor of such things as the Haig-Thieu talk. But its significance, which is considerable, lies not in juicy details but in the picture it gives of the whole sweep of an extended diplomatic event. Szulc is spare in drawing his own inferences: He lets the reader draw them from his powerful array of facts.

The concession that eventually made agreement possible, according to this account, was made secretly by the United States in April 1972—in Moscow. Henry Kissinger told Leonid Brezhnev that the United States would accept a cease-fire without demanding withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops that had been in the South before April 1.

The question that leaps to mind is why the United States waited so long, through so many years and deaths, to make that concession. Szulc says that as early as 1970 a

Anthony Lewis

National Security Council study advised Kissinger that Hanoi would never agree to remove its troops from the South. The answer indicated here is that the prospect of the 1972 election is what concentrated Kissinger's mind — and perhaps his master to give him a freer hand.

Kissinger is inevitably the main focus of this article. His negotiating techniques are laid bare. To a notable extent, they amount to deception: telling each side what it wants to hear. In Vietnam, the technique failed in the end—after a last virtuoso display of two-faced tactics.

IN MAY 1972, during the Nixon-Brezhnev summit, Kissinger confided further American concessions to the Russians. In June he went to Peking and, with Chou En-lai, took a conciliatory philosophical line toward Hanoi.

Then in July he visited Thieu in Saigon—and sounded very different. The Nixon administration had to talk peace because of the upcoming election, he said; it would make seemingly attractive proposals, knowing that Hanoi would reject them. After the election it would be a "different story": America would not hesitate to bring Hanoi to its knees. He recommended that Thieu plan an invasion of North Vietnam after the election.

Thieu was not told about the American negotiating concession. Kissinger was obviously confident that he could bring him along when terms were agreed with Hanoi. But when the secret talks with Le Duc Tho produced a draft agreement in October, Thieu was angry and recalcitrant. He blocked all the carefully made plans, even though Mr. Nixon had cabled Hanoi on Oct. 21 that "the text of the agreement could be considered complete."

In a major move to appease Thieu, the United States immediately began rushing $1 billion in new military equipment to him. On Nov. 20, in a fresh round of talks with Le Duc Tho, Kissinger read "for the record" a South Vietnamese document demanding 69 changes in the text.

At that point, according to Szulc, the North Vietnamese began looking as if they had cold feet about the whole thing. That was hardly surprising, after the United States had set out to transform the battlefield situation and inject new issues into the talks.

ONLY THEN did Hanoi propose textual changes of its own. Kissinger denounced them as perfidious. The Christmas bombing began. By the time it ended, Thieu was much more agreeable.

Many outside observers of the truce negotiations have felt all along that the Christmas bombing was designed mainly to bring Saigon along. We know that the bombing had no measurable effect on the terms reached with Hanoi, because the text signed in January was virtually identical with the October draft. Reading the Szulc study, one perceives an even more cynical possibility: Kissinger may have tabled Saigon's demands on Nov. 20—demands that he knew were unacceptable—precisely in order to provoke new proposals from Hanoi that could serve as an excuse for bombing.

In any event, the record is clear that the United States backed off an agreement, then bombed the other party to mollify a recalcitrant ally. Whatever other diplomatic accomplishments history credits to Henry Kissinger and Richard Nixon, that episode will forever blacken their names, and their country's.

The Chinese extend their political lines

By SYDNEY H. SCHANBERG

SINGAPORE — During the rush to recognize the Peking government, members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations have been taking their time about it. Now the first move has been made.

Malaysia has reached agreement with China to establish full diplomatic relations and the prime minister, Abdul Razak, is in Peking to formalize the step.

MALAYSIA'S move is certain to increase pressure on the other members of the association — Indonesia, the Philippines, Thailand and Singapore — to follow suit. However, there are histories of mutual fear and suspicion to cut through in these countries, as well as some continuing — and active communist insurgencies. So the timetable of these nations for the establishment of relations with Peking is not yet clear.

Most diplomatic observers believe that Thailand will be next, followed by the Philippines, with Indonesia and Singapore last.

Whatever the timing, the new Malaysia-China ties provide some clues to the future of the more than 16 million "overseas" Chinese who live outside China in the countries of Southeast Asia. A highly skilled trading and merchant class, the overseas Chinese have come to dominate the economies of most of the countries to which they immigrated. To some of these countries, they have also come to represent racial and security problems.

IN SINGAPORE, the problems are somewhat different, for here the Chinese comprise 75 percent of the population of 2.3 million and hold both economic and political control. But in the other countries of the association they are minorities — four million in Malaysia out of a population of 11 million, four million of Thailand's 35 million, three to four million of Indonesia's 120 million and about 670,000 of nearly 40 million in the Philippines.

There was a time when Peking regarded all Chinese everywhere as its citizens under the doctrine of jus sanguinis—the right of citizenship by blood. But more recently, Peking has made statements telling the overseas Chinese to be loyal to their countries of adoption.

This was one of the major points in the recent negotiations and Malaysia has apparently won assurances that Peking will not use its embassy in Kuala Lumpur to promote the rights of the local Chinese or tamper with Chinese allegiances.

Diplomatic observers in Southeast Asia are speculating that even after exchanging ambassadors with Malaysia, China may continue to bear the "Voice of the Malayan Revolution" from Yunnan Province, though the tone might be softened somewhat.

CHINA'S GAIN is that she seems to have worked out a formula whereby she can widen her legitimacy and influence in Asia by establishing relations with non-communist countries without appearing to betray the cause of Asian revolution. One of Peking's apparent motives is to offset Soviet influence and growing naval expansion in the region.

Malaysia's gain lies in her confident belief that Chinese recognition will cut the ground from under the communist insurgency and will also defuse her problems with the Chinese population.

Forgotten veterans

In his Memorial Day speech at the Arlington National Cemetery, Vice President Ford asked that the American people remember not only the men who lost their lives in past wars, but the men who survived, often crippled in body or spirit.

For a time there was genuine concern in the country for our prisoners of war in North Vietnam, for the missing in action, and for the returning veterans whose lives were deranged by physical wounds or broken homes.

BUT ONCE the POW's were home, the campaign to employ the veterans lagged, the battle scenes disappeared from the nightly TV news shows, and new issues dominated the American mind — inflation, the Watergate scandals and the possible impeachment and conviction of President Nixon.

What Vice President Ford was saying on that lovely but melancholy hillside between the Lincoln Memorial and the Robert E. Lee mansion was that the act of remembrance for the living veterans, while home and "free," were really still "prisoners of war" in one way or another, crippled, broken and forgotten.

It was a kindly reminder, generally ignored, but the human wreckage of wars, the living casualties, as well as the Vietnam dissenters and deserters in Canada and Sweden, are all part of the tragedy.

The Veterans Administration here in Washington keeps the official facts. It has to pay the bills and keep track of the veterans, their widows and children. Every day is Memorial Day for them, and their figures are startling.

IN ALL of America's wars, from the War of Independence through Vietnam, almost 44 million Americans were involved, and at the first of this year, 29,170,000 veterans of these wars were still alive.

The hangover of wars is easy to forget. For example, from the Spanish-American War (1898-1902) there were still 1,624 living veterans last Jan. 1, and the VA was still paying out compensation and pension benefits to them and to 28,487 widows of that conflict.

The record of the First World War: 4,744,000 participants; 1,128,000 living veterans. World War II: 16,535,000 participants, 13,857,000 living veterans; veterans still receiving government compensation 1,875,011.

The Korean war: almost 300,000 still on the compensation or pension rolls. And the Vietnam war: participants, 9,188,000; deaths in combat, 46,000; deaths from other causes, 51,000; living veterans, 6,826,000; veterans on government compensation, 377,135; widows, 32,531; children, 81,142.

All told the VA is still carrying on its pension and compensation rolls 3,266,722 veterans, 1,179,527 widows, 987,803 children of veterans and 192,536 parents of veterans.

The last veteran of the Civil War lived until Dec. 19, 1959, aged 117. The government did not finish its payments to the dependents of the War of 1812 until March 12, 1946, and of the Revolutionary War until April 25, 1911.

VICE PRESIDENT Ford was trying on Memorial Day to revive interest in the jobs-for-veterans program. Unemployment among the veterans of the Vietnam war is still much higher than the national average. This is particularly true of Negro veterans, and the incidence of crime among the veterans is also higher than the norm for non-veterans of the same age.

This is scarcely surprising in a country that drafted its men into an unpopular war, taught them the techniques of guerrilla combat and then brought many of them home unable to work or unable to find jobs.

So in this sense the American role in the Vietnam war is not over. Steady, patient attention is being given to the drug addicts of the Vietnam conflict, but the unemployment and crime figures are alarming.

The twilight of the Gods

From an editorial by George C. McGhee in Saturday Review World:

What has happened to the "hero" in American public life? Where are those figures who can command our unqualified admiration and whose leadership we would gladly follow?

One answer, perhaps, is that we are going through a discouraging period in our history. Our confidence in this country's mission in the world—once almost an article of religious faith to Americans—has been shaken. We have been highly successful as a nation; we have expanded our influence in the world.

BUT WE have finally come to our limit and are now in a period of retrenchment. Apart from the personal successes of Henry Kissinger in foreign policy, almost every major attempt that we have recently made seems to have failed. There is no glory in failure, it is difficult to find gods in our midst in an era when historical forces are pulling the wrong way.

Also, alas, a whole generation of officials who could have been leaders or elder statesmen has been virtually lost. Practically everyone connected with the Vietnam affair has been tarnished. Similarly, the reputation of everyone even indirectly involved in Watergate, or closely connected with the administration that spawned it, has been seriously damaged.

Some have said that this vacuum results from our failure as a nation — that people get the leadership, or lack of it, that they deserve. But I find this outlook difficult to accept: I have too much confidence in the American people, and I know of too many historical examples that disprove such a notion.

One of our problems is that many potential heroes are cut down early in their careers. There is a persistent public tendency to "level" anyone who seeks to rise above the crowd. There is almost nothing a man in public life can do that does not lend itself to distortion and calumny. Usually, political opponents and sensational elements in the media combine to discredit those who offer themselves for a public career. Few emerge with honor. As a result, the average eligible man is reluctant to expose his reputation — or the well-being of his family — to such attacks.

Our great increase in population is also an important factor. Because the number of top government positions remains the same, the opportunities for personal contact with the voter—and consequently for personal leadership—decrease. We now know our leaders largely through the media—we are perhaps influenced less by what they say on issues than by how well they come across on television.

SOME APPEAR to be drawn to public life out of a feeling of inferiority: They seek confidence through public recognition. Those who feed on such approval are reluctant to take unpopular courses lest they expose themselves to unbearable criticism. If a man's personal advantage, whether from material or psychological gain, transcends the importance of the public contribution he can make, he is of no use to his country.

How can we find leaders who do not suffer these disadvantages — who can approach public tasks with confidence and serenity? We have no hereditary aristocracy, nor would we tolerate one. We do, however, produce many potential leaders who can be singled out for their personal accomplishments. A product of our system who has on his own achieved success in private life should have no feeling of insecurity in government.

I am convinced that there are leaders among us. Times of great stress and peril—such as the present—have traditionally provided the stimulus that brings leaders forth. We must make it possible for them to emerge.

Walkathon leader explains situation

We were distressed to read the letter to the editor May 23. The Walkathon for United Cerebral Palsy held May 11 was, despite the weather, a great success, for which all the citizens of Winona should be proud.

We are sorry to learn that a few people did not feel that the walk lived up to its promise and would like to speak to the issues raised.

A ROCK concert at the end of the walk was impossible because of the inclement weather. With the cold wind and rain the instruments would have been damaged and it is doubtful that walkers would have remained for the entertainment.

Telephones were not available in the high school as planned because it was decorated for the prom that night but telephones were arranged a half block away at a church and no one complained.

United Cerebral Palsy (like other voluntary agencies) does not supply postpaid envelopes to contributors anywhere as a policy.

We are not aware of what "banners" the letter is referring to. Sometimes a particular school will walk as a group with an identifying sign or placard but no Winona school chose to do this.

Perhaps the most unfortunate remark in the letter relates to KAGE. It deserves much praise for helping our walkathon maintain a successful two-year history (especially this year, with the terrible weather). KAGE is in no way responsible for the mechanics of producing the walkathon. These were handled by our local walkathon coordinator.

United Cerebral Palsy organized a combined Rochester-Winona Service Committee in late February. The purpose of this committee is to locate concerned parents, consumers and professionals to develop needed cerebral palsy program and service activities. We urge the cooperation of Winona-area residents in the formation of the service committee. Volunteers may contact Steve James, 1160 W. Wabasha St., for information.

Again, we deeply regret any disappointment experienced by the eight walkers whose letter you published.

People should decide on county change

A personal observation on the county government study commission's decision not to allow the people a choice of updating county government:

Requiring the people to pay for renovation and updating of county buildings and not allowing them to update the mechanics of government is like having a plumber install new bathroom fixtures and then refusing to allow him to open clogged sewer lines.

RITA C. WOODWARD

Why teach immigrants in own language?

Dr. Max Rafferty

Q—"During my 25 years of U.S. foreign service, I have observed that one of the most divisive factors in a nation is the use of more than one language. Canada is an excellent example. We have been fortunate in the United States to have one language. Now, however, a movement has been started to teach Spanish-speaking immigrants in their own tongue. Why begin this dangerous divisive practice?" — Miss J.R.D., Washington, D.C.

A—The problem of Spanish is a perplexing one. For example, it was the original language of California, Texas, Arizona and New Mexico. The present-day descendants of those Spanish-speaking inhabitants wonder why they should not have the right to study and to speak their own language in the schools they help support with their tax money.

The Puerto Rican immigrants in the East present a different aspect of the puzzle. Inasmuch as they are entering an area where English is the native and original language, it is perhaps more reasonable to require them to use only that language in school.

I suppose the best solution is to make English the basic language in these portions of the United States but to teach Spanish as a "second language." After all, none of us would be the worse for learning another tongue. And we do live in the Western Hemisphere, where Spanish is the dominant language, at least geographically.

Q—"Be sure to read the article, 'A Teacher's Right to Privacy,' Page 89 in the November-December 1973 issue of Today's Education magazine, published by the National Education Association. It deals with the DuShane Emergency Fund and how it is used to defend teachers who have pleaded guilty to a charge of 'outraging decency'; being a practicing homosexual, and conceiving an illegitimate child. The object of the article seems to be that it is nobody's business what a teacher does, as long as he is doing a good job in the classroom."

"I am incensed. Am I wrong?" — Mrs. A.A., Leesburg, Fla.

A—Nope. A teacher is more than an 8-hour-a-day technician; he's a 24-hour-a-day example to his wide-eyed, impressionable and captive audience. I know, We're hearing a lot of guff nowadays about a teacher having the same right to raise hell outside his job as a plumber, a salesman or a politician. Drive! By the same kind of foony logic, it would be okay to hire Dillinger, Capone or Bonnie and Clyde, for that matter, as teachers, just as long as they behaved themselves in the classroom.

A teacher is selected because of what he is, not just because of what he does in school. Most parents don't want their kids spending their school time each day under the supervision of a teacher who in his private life is an adulterer, a drug addict or a sex pervert. And neither do I.

Q—"Has there ever been as great a need to return to phonics, syllables and defining words as there is today? It's pitiful to listen to young people try to express themselves with their 'It's like' and 'you know.' They cannot read, write, spell or complete a sentence. A boy of 17 in his junior year in high school who cannot read sufficiently to pass the written exam for his driver's license is surely a concrete example of this need." — Mrs. M.W.H., Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

A—Youth has always been incoherent and bizarre in its speech. In the Twenties, virtually every sentence had to include such attention distractors as "the bee's knees," "The cat's pajamas" and "Vo-do-de-o-do." The Thirties featured "Scram" and "So's your old man." And so it goes.

Yet I have to agree with you that the constant repetition of "Y'know" about every fourth word in an oral sentence these days is getting on my nerves. I hesitate to suggest, however, that our young people come up with a replacement for "Y'know." With things going the way they are, it would probably turn out to be a four-letter word.

Q—"I feel you owe Dr. Margaret Mead an apology. I saw her on the Mike Douglas show and listened to her tell of her experiences with various primitive tribes. Never did I hear her back the usage of drugs, as you said in a recent column." — A.R.L., Indianapolis, Ind.

A—You just weren't listening at the right time. It was back in the mid-Sixties that the busy-bodyish Dr. Mead saw fit to pish-tush the dangers of pot-smoking and other dope ingestion. By so doing, she lent her name and reputation to the strengthening of man's most hellish curse.

Q—"Apparently you're in favor of book-burning! While you may not actually advocate throwing books into the flames, figuratively this is what you are evidently proposing! Don't you realize that young people have brains? They aren't stupid! They'll figure things out!" — Miss B. D., Milton, Wis.

A—There was a lot more to this letter, folks, including even more exclamation points and question marks, but I wanted you to see the first few sentences so that you would know what a columnist is often up against.

You see, I haven't the foggiest notion of what is troubling Miss B. D. The only books except textbooks, I've written about in this column since 1968 have been a few I've admired and have been trying to plug. When you write me "Dear-Sir-You-Cur" letters, friends, please be more explicit. It's okay if you think I'm a SCOUNDREL; I just like to know why.

Q—"You're falling down on the job of keeping us up to date on the many ridiculous food taboos you wrote about in a column a couple of months ago. What's the latest 'gloom and doom' finding about our daily fare?" — N.C., Passaic, N.J.

A—You must have missed the column a few weeks back in which I reprinted a letter asking substantially the same question.

No matter. Here's the most recent no-no. Two Pennsylvania State University researchers, Elliot Diamond and John H. Pfifferling, have found people who drink a lot of cola have "sleeping problems, frequent mood changes and withdrawal symptoms when they stopped drinking."

So now milk is out, booze is deadly, soft drinks will get us in the end and water is polluted. Even as I write this, my tongue is starting to swell and

I can glimpse the beginning of what bids fair to become a perfectly dandy mirage.

16 enter contest for queen's title at annual Durand funfest

DURAND, Wis. (Special) — The 11th annual Durand Funfest, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, will include a variety of entertainment, including parades, two coronation ceremonies, dances, softball tournament and tractor-pulling contests.

The event is sponsored by the Durand Commercial Club. BEER GARDENS will be under the big tent next to the carnival and barbecued chicken will be served all three days. Fountain City Amusements will feature rides on the midway.

Casey Jones, representing a Twin Cities television station, will be parade marshal of a kiddie and pet parade which starts at 2 p.m. Friday. He also will award prizes and entertain at the Durand Theater following the parade.

Any person 12 years or younger can enter the competition, which has four categories: bike, doll buggy, costume (single and multiple) and pets. Prizes will be issued in each group. Duplicate prizes are being offered to those who would rather make their own entries without adult assistance.

The Junior Funfest Prince and Princess coronation will be held at 7:45 p.m. Friday. Immediately following will be the Funfest Queen coronation. Ceremonies will be held next to the carnival grounds across from the old post office. In case of rain, the coronations will be held at the Durand High School.

SIXTEEN HIGH school students at Durand High School have entered the annual queen contest:

Barbara A. Bauer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert H. Bauer, Durand Rt. 1, sponsored by Durand Implement; Rita Brunner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Brunner, sponsored by Gambles and Skogmos.

Linda Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Myers, Eau Claire, the Durand House and Rhie's Furniture; Debbie Poeschel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Poeschel, Durand Rt. 1, sponsored by Bauer Bull.

Peggy McRoberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McRoberts, Eau Claire, sponsored by Durand Federal Savings and Loan; Debbie Pittman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Pittman, Arkansas Rt. 1, Messner TV and Jullen's;

Jane Alme, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Alme, Durand, Rogers IGA and Goodrich Furniture; Mary Beth Brenner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Brenner Jr., Durand, Security National Bank; Leigh Ballard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ballard, Durand Rt. 3, sponsored by Wisconsin Gas Co. and the E & S Auto Supply.

PEGGY WAYNE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Wayne, Durand Rt. 1, sponsored by the Durand Builders and Paul's Super Foods; Connie Berger, daughter of Mrs. Jean Berger, Durand, sponsored by Coast to Coast Store.

Ann Tallford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Tallford, Mondovi Rt. 4, sponsored by Nelson Telephone Co-op and Durand Cooperative; Debbie Hayden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Hayden, Durand Rt. 1, sponsored by Helke and Hoester Pharmacies.

Lori Jevne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Jevne, Rock Falls, sponsored by the Durand Hardware; Pam Fedie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Fedie, Arkansas Rt. 1, sponsored by Durand Cafe.

Theresa Lind, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Galen Lind, Durand, sponsored by Durand Dairy Queen.

Each of the candidates was given 100 Funfest buttons to sell before they advance to judging.

THE QUEEN coronation will be followed by a square dance near the carnival grounds. A teen-age dance will be held over the Durand Theater, featuring a rock group, "Community Band," from Eau Claire.

On Saturday, starting at 10 a.m., a garden-tractor-pulling contest will be held near the big tent next to Main Street.

Machines will be weighed in at 9 a.m. on the Gene Phillips scale. Four classes are available: Class A for 600 pounds and under; Class B for 800 pounds; Class C, 1,000 pounds and Class D, 1,300 pounds.

First place and second place winners will receive trophies, according to Tom Neis and Bill Dorwin.

THE FIFTH annual tractor-pulling contest also will be held on Saturday at Tarrant Park across from Wayne Field. An elimination pull at 1:30 p.m. will be followed by the championship pull at 8 p.m. Cash prizes and trophies will be awarded, according to Gordy Gifford and Sig Weiss.

The grand parade, featuring floats, starts at 2 p.m. on Sunday. Bands and drum and bugle corps will be performing on Main Street during the parade. Drum and bugle corps competition starts at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at Wayne Field. Featured will be the Belles of St. Mary from Rhinelander, Wis.; Mounties from St. Paul, Minn.; Sundowner Kadets from Eau Claire; Sundowners from Eau Claire; St. Paul Drum & Bugle Corps, St. Paul; Zephyrs from Wisconsin Rapids, and Wausau Story, Wausau, Wis. There also will be an exhibition by the Zephyrs from Wisconsin Rapids.

A softball tournament will be held at Wayne Field on Saturday and Sunday.

THE HISTORIC Railroad Depot, donated to the Durand

Women's Club, will be open all three days from 2 to 5 p.m. Art exhibits in the third annual Helen Mears art exhibit and essay entries will be featured.

Work by some 1,000 young persons will be exhibited. Participating are students at Caddie Woodlawn, Grandview, St. Mary's, Sacred Heart and Arkansas schools.

No prizes will be given. Displays will cover various aspects of Funfest and what the celebration means to the community.

The annual Community Arts Festival will be held from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday on the courthouse lawn. There will be a corral for future artists.

Listing of subversive organizations killed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's list of subversive organizations, born of the post-World War II Red scare, has been killed as serving no useful purpose.

President Nixon issued an executive order Tuesday declaring that the list "is hereby abolished and shall not be used for any purpose."

The action prevents government officials from routinely asking job applicants whether they have ever belonged to any of the 300 groups designated subversive.

Though most government agencies gradually have dropped such questions, the Defense Department had continued to use the list in screening job applicants, said Kevin Maroney, head of the Justice Department's internal security section.

Nixon's order does allow government officials to ask job applicants whether they have ever belonged to the Communist party and to inquire in general terms about membership in "any foreign or domestic organization . . . which unlawfully advocates" violence to overthrow the government or deprive others of their constitutional rights.

Maroney said the new standard heightens the burden of proof for rejecting a job applicant as a potential security risk.

But he noted that the order does little more than formalize standards laid down by the Supreme Court from 1951 on.

Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe said Nixon's order allows government personnel security programs to continue with "adequate safeguards for the rights of all individuals."

Saxbe said he recommended doing away with the list created by the Justice Department at President Harry S. Truman's order in 1947. He said

Truman was wrong to allow the department "to assemble the list without the considerations for due process . . ." But he said Truman had some justification for his action because of "a bewildering series of problems in the upheavals of the post-war period."

Saxbe said the designated groups, ranging from the Communist party USA and the Ku Klux Klan to such obscure organizations as the National Blue Star Mothers of America, "were of substantial concern to the government before, during and after the war years."

The Supreme Court in 1951 said no organization could be designated subversive without a hearing. It subsequently has held that applicants cannot be denied jobs solely because they once belonged to a so-called subversive group.

Young girls campaign to save world whales

TOKYO (UPI) — Three young girls representing thousands of youngsters around the world opened a children's crusade today to save the mighty whale from extinction.

The group, sponsored by conservationists, carried letters from 75,000 children pleading with Japan for a 10-year halt to its whaling industry, the world's largest. Whale meat is eaten as a delicacy in this island nation.

"I want generations to come to have the opportunity to see whales," said 13-year-old Christina Laud of Sweden.

"There are many children who haven't seen a whale," said Diana Southgate, 11, of Canada. "I think there are lots of children and adults who would like to see millions of whales swimming free in the ocean."

The two girls, along with Tori Clark, 10, of San Francisco, hoped to present the letters to Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka and appeal for an international moratorium on whaling.

Tanaka was out of the capital on a campaign tour of Southern Japan when the girls arrived and the letters were accepted by Cabinet Chief Secretary Susumu Nikaide.

The girls also met with Tomihiko Ema, director of the Environment Agency's Nature Protection Bureau. He told them the Japanese people feel responsible for saving whales but made no promises of a whaling moratorium.

Japan is one of the few nations to consume whale meat as a source of animal protein.

Sold in cans, in the form of steak, or in spicy thin slices, whale composes 1 per cent of the Japanese protein diet, according to industry sources.

Japan and the Soviet Union, whose combined hauls account for 84 per cent of the world's whale catch, have both so far rejected the moratorium.

Japanese Fishery Agency officials say Japan will do everything it can to prevent the resolution from being adopted at the London meeting.

Man convicted of Wisconsin murder denied new trial

MADISON (UPI) — The state Supreme Court Tuesday denied Willie Marks, convicted murderer, a motion for a new trial.

Kenosha County Circuit Judge Gerald J. Belleau sentenced Marks to 15 years at the Wisconsin State Prison following his conviction of second degree murder in the fatal shooting July 9, 1972 of Dallas Bowen.

Marks sought a new trial arguing the district attorney made an improper closing argument, the lower court failed to instruct the jury on a possible manslaughter conviction, and that the lower court further erred by not instructing the jury on the credibility of a child witness.

The high court disagreed that the lower court erred in proceedings.

Bowen was shot in the heart following an argument over whose car was blocking Marks' driveway.

Madison bank charged with discrimination

MADISON (UPI) — The U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission filed a suit Tuesday in U.S. District Court charging the Randall State Bank with sex discrimination.

The federal agency said the bank refused to hire or recruit women for supervisory or management positions. It also alleged the bank refused to promote women and pay them the same as men doing the same work.

Of governors

Sharp partisanship breaks out at meet

SEATTLE (AP) — The chairman of the nation's Democratic governors has accused Republicans of scare tactics in warning that Democrats could gain a "veto-proof Congress" in the November elections.

"The term 'veto-proof Congress' is merely a cynical ploy to detract from the most important issues of 1974," Gov. Wendell H. Ford, D-Ky., said Tuesday as sharp partisanship broke out at the 66th National Governors' Conference.

The conference was to end today with the annual business session at which the governors were expected to adopt a broad resolution urging campaign reform and other measures to deal with Watergate-type abuses, steps already taken by many states.

The conference also was expected to elect Gov. Calvin L. Rampton, D-Utah, as next year's chairman, succeeding Gov. Daniel J. Eysans, R-Wash.

The partisan verbal battle began when Kenneth R. Cole Jr., President Nixon's top domestic policy aide, said during a panel discussion Tuesday morning that election of a "veto-proof Congress" might doom the revenue-sharing program.

Then Gov. Winfield Dunn, R-Tenn., chairman of the Republican Governors Association, said in an interview he was frightened by the thought of a Congress so heavily Democratic it "would give George McGovern and Hubert Humphrey the opportunity to run our country which they didn't get in the 1968 and 1972 presidential races."

"I take strong exception to a threat of political propaganda which has run through this conference from invited members of the present national administration," Ford told a news conference.

He said he considered it "no less than a rude assault against the integrity of all Democratic members of Congress" by implying they will always vote a certain way.

He said he hopes the Democrats attain a two-thirds control of the House and Senate that would give them the numerical strength to override presidential vetoes, but he said he objected to GOP efforts "to use the term to scare people."

Short of the three-fourths control needed to pass resolutions, Democratic governors at the meeting decided against trying to put the conference on record in favor of a tax cut to fight inflation or to raise any Watergate-related matters other than a bipartisan ethics resolution sponsored by Govs. William G. Milliken, R-Mich., and Patrick J. Lucey, D-Wis.

Instead, they authorized Ford to report they believe the nation needs "tax reform and relief for middle and lower income individuals coupled with selective budget cuts."

In other developments: —The Democrats elected Gov. Wendell R. Anderson, D-Minn., to succeed Ford as conference chairman. Gov. Philip W. Noel of Rhode Island was elected vice chairman.

—The Republican governors decided tentatively to hold their next meeting in St. Louis after the November elections.

—Democratic National Chairman Robert S. Strauss and GOP Chairman George Bush advised the governors at separate party breakfasts of efforts to work with the General Accounting Office to ease strict enforcement of minor campaign infractions now being referred to the Justice Department for prosecution.

Three gunmen kidnap British earl and wife

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Police spokesmen speculated today that the kidnapers of an elderly Irish peer and his wife were holding them hostage for five members of the Irish Republican Army on hunger strikes in British jails.

Three gunmen seized the 71-year-old Earl of Donoughmore and his wife early today when they returned to their 600-acre estate in County Tipperary after a visit to friends. The kidnapers bundled the couple into a car and drove off in the direction of Dublin, 120 miles to the northeast.

A senior police officer said Lord Donoughmore may have been wounded. A fresh bloodstain was found on the driveway, and the son of the earl's chauffeur said he heard a shot fired.

The police launched a search and set up roadblocks for a 30-mile radius.

Police speculated that the kidnapers were spurred by the death Monday night in a British jail of IRA member Michael Gaughan, who had been on a hunger strike since March 31 demanding that he be classified a political prisoner and transferred to a jail in Northern Ireland.

Gaughan was serving a seven-year term for bank robbery. Five other IRA members serving life terms in British jail for bombings in London also are fasting to press the same demands Gaughan made.

If the kidnaping of the Donoughmores was politically motivated, it was not apparent why they were the targets. The earl was a Conservative member of the British House of Commons from 1943 to 1945 but has not been active politically since then. He is grand master of the Free Masonic Grand Lodge of Ireland and a prominent owner and breeder of race horses.

The IRA's Official wing was reported preparing to retaliate for Gaughan's death by ending its two-year cease-fire in Northern Ireland and returning to the battle alongside the guerrillas of the IRA's Provisional branch.

Despite the growing threat on the Catholic side, Merlyn Rees, the British administrator for Northern Ireland, was returning to Belfast today to try to set up another coalition government of Protestants and Catholics. Protestant extremists brought down the province's first last month with a general strike.

'Stories' help smokers to stop

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI) — Cigarette smokers tell themselves all sorts of stories rather than give up the habit, two researchers have concluded.

Associate Professors in Indiana University's School of Business Richard W. Olshavsky and John O. Summers studied 108 students, most of them male, and all of them smokers.

The object was to find out under what conditions consumers will give up harmful products. What the researchers learned will be published this month in the new Journal of Consumer Research.

They are: —Those who plan to continue smoking at their present levels believe the dangers are not personally relevant.

—The more cigarettes smoked, the more the smoker denies responsibility for control over his habit.

—Heavy smokers more often agree that anti-smoking ads are simple-minded.

—Heavy smokers claim to derive more pleasures from smoking than light smokers.

Factual distortions by smokers are evident throughout the study, said Olshavsky.

For instance, there is a tendency to exaggerate the dangers of being overweight, presumed by many to develop when smokers quit, and a misconception that nicotine is addictive, he said.

Other misconceptions include ones that harmful effects can be detected by the smoker in time, that the harmful effects can be offset by exercise, and that cigarettes are only harmful if smoked all the way to the filter.

There was also a number of "distortions of the reasoning process itself," the two men said.

For example, they were given the following statements as reasons why the smoker didn't quit:

—"I don't really want to quit smoking because if I did, I would be able to quit."

—"I personally know of at least one very old person who has smoked most of his life yet who continues to be in fine health."

—"There is no reason to believe that the surgeon general's report was completely unbiased in his reports on cigarette smoking."

—"There is no reason to believe that those smokers who got cancer would not have gotten it if they had not smoked."

Reserve to continue lake ore pollution

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — While conceding it is a "monumental environmental mistake," a three-judge federal appeals court will allow Reserve Mining Company to pollute Lake Superior with ore wastes.

The panel ruled Tuesday that there was not sufficient evidence now to support a District Court judge's finding that an immediate health hazard exists from the company's dumping of 67,000 tons of metal filings into the lake each day.

The metal filings are taconite, a low-grade iron ore. Its processing produces wastes similar to asbestos fibers, which have been found to cause cancer in certain occupational settings.

The panel ordered Reserve to submit within 25 days a plan to dispose of the wastes on land and to control air emissions, but putting such a plan into effect could take a long time.

The panel said it would reconsider Tuesday's ruling in 70 days, after the company files its plan.

The panel's ruling set aside an April 20 finding by Judge Miles W. Lord, who ordered the company's Silver Bay and Babbitt, Minn., iron ore plants shut down, throwing 3,100 employees out of work.

Lord agreed with the states of Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin and various environmental groups that Reserve was causing an immediate health hazard to residents of the North Shore of Lake Superior.

His order came after 142 days of hearings — the nation's longest environmental trial. Evidence submitted during the hearings showed that similar asbestos-like fibers caused cancer and had been found in the drinking water of Duluth, Minn., 50 miles southeast of Silver Bay on the lake.

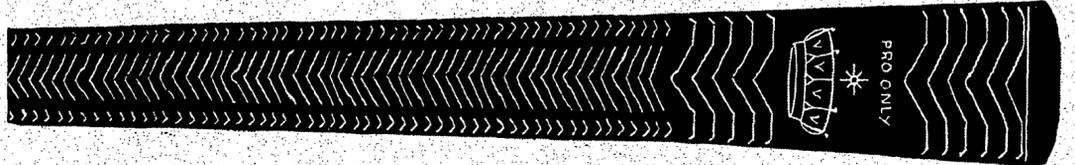

But Reserve Mining's two parent companies, Armco Steel Corp. and Republic Steel Corp., appealed and won a delay in execution of the order. The plants reopened two days after they closed.

The appeals court opinion Tuesday said the evidence did not prove that the discharges were a hazard. The court said, "It is clear that the air of Silver Bay, though polluted by a statistically significant level of excess fibers, is not equivalent to the contaminated air found in an asbestos factory."

Who knocked the chip off the shoulder—AIM or lawmen?

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Who knocked the chip off the shoulder—Indians or government lawmen confronting them in the first heavy gunfire exchange during the siege of Wounded Knee, S.D.

The question came into focus the past two days at the trial of two American Indian Movement (AIM) leaders charged with leading roles in the 71-day occupation last year.

Firearms violations are among alleged felonies that also include burglary, larceny and assault.

A U.S. marshal and an FBI agent who manned a government roadblock testified seven carloads of some 30 to 40 Indians came out of the village, dispersed behind trees and started firing rifles at officers.

John Lelleck, a marshal, said he ordered return fire only after radio communication with the Command Post at Pine Ridge, S.D. The defense contends Indians were provoked by a Justice Department attorney's warning that women and children should leave Wounded Knee by 6 p.m. March 6, 1973.

Defendants Russell Means and Dennis Banks and their attorneys say that amounted to an ultimatum that the government was preparing to move in with force.

Two Indians, Webster Poor Bear and Milo Goings, were wounded in the fray. There were no government casualties.

Lelleck and FBI agent Vernard Grimes denied they heard on March 6 about a government "ultimatum." But Grimes told defense attorney Larry Leventhal he'd heard that anyone trying to leave the village after 5 p.m. would be shot by AIM forces.

The lawyer stiffly challenged that, demanding to know who said so.

Grimes couldn't recall and Leventhal asked if it wasn't true that "it was your purpose to provoke an incident" prior to the 6 o'clock deadline.

The witness denied it, prompting Means to call out, "You're a liar." In the following exchange among Means, U.S. District Judge Fred Nicol and defense attorneys, the judge found Means guilty of contempt. But he revoked that after a half hour's recess and Means' apology to the court for challenging Nicol's ruling.

However, Means did not apologize to the witness.

Six marshals and two FBI agents returned fire with rifles, including M16s, capable of rapid, automatic fire, the officers testified.

Lelleck and Grimes said the firing occurred between 5 and 5:30 p.m. and lasted an hour to an hour and a half.

Joanne Pierce, FBI agent from Pittsburgh, Pa., testified Tuesday that she and two agents went to roadblock 3 the afternoon of March 6. She said her job was to interview residents coming out of Wounded Knee.

Miss Pierce is mentioned in the government's count 3 of a 10-point indictment as having been "forcibly assaulted" by gunfire. However, she took refuge in an armored personnel carrier (APC) and helped reload magazines for officers who fired, she testified.

She said two marshals also were in the APC and that an elderly Indian came up from the village perimeter to take cover there.

Miss Pierce said she also guided three cars of residents away from the area.

Everett Little White Man was recalled to clarify earlier testimony. The Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) criminal investigator told last week of taking part in the arrest of three persons who drove out of the village March 6, 1973.

Little White Man testified they were apprehended after it was determined the car they were in belonged to the co-owner of the Wounded Knee Trading Post. The three were held on car theft, he added.

However, a BIA police arrest report later came to light. It listed a firearms violation—possession of molotov cocktails—as the reason for arrest.

Banks, serving with Means as their own counsel in questioning some witnesses, asked Little White Man about the discrepancy. Little White Man said the charge was changed on the spot, at the government roadblock, on advice of FBI agents who consulted by radio with a U.S. attorney's representative.

Social justice workshop to open June 17 at CST

"The Third World: Christian Search for Justice," a social justice workshop, will open at the College of Saint Teresa June 17 and continue through July 5.

According to Sister James Crumb, course instructor, the workshop has been planned to enable participants to grow into deeper levels of understanding regarding the nature of oppression as experienced by the impoverished and disadvantaged in society, specifically the peoples of the Third World.

The course is designed to assist in an analysis of the deficiencies of today's society and strengthen a program of action for social justice.

Information may be obtained by contacting the Director of the Summer Session, College of Saint Teresa, Winona 55987.

AIM national convention starts on Saturday

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—The American Indian Movement (AIM) will focus on possible new moves to resurrect what it calls long-violated treaty rights during its national convention beginning Saturday.

That's the word of John Trudell, AIM national chairman at the group's headquarters in St. Paul, and William Means, meeting coordinator at Fort Yates, N.D., on the Standing Rock Sioux Reservation.

It's billed as the "International Treaty Convention" and will run through June 16. Among those attending this weekend will be Russell Means and Dennis Banks, AIM leaders on trial in St. Paul in connection with the occupation of Wounded Knee, S.D.

"We're looking for a vehicle to make the government recognize the legality of treaties," Trudell told a reporter. "Treaties must be treated as international law with the government dealing with Indians as a sovereign people."

Trudell, a 28-year-old Santee from Niobrara, Neb., was ejected last week from the Banks-Means trial. He shouted from the spectators' seats the trial was illegal and unconstitutional.

He said AIM has arranged to have several legal experts on treaties attend the Standing Rock convention.

Said Trudell: "The United Nations wouldn't necessarily be a good place to take our case now, because it doesn't have power. The United States has a veto (in the Security Council)."

He said the Wounded Knee occupation—in which he says he did not participate—had to come. He said it was a means of protesting what he termed government mistreatment of Indians in handling tribal lands and "poverty funds."

"The government has always addressed itself to destroying our character and validity as a people," said Trudell.

He said the occupation of historic Wounded Knee opened eyes of some Indians and non-Indians alike to the complaints he cited.

He prefers that nonleadership cases in the Wounded Knee indictments refuse to accept any government plea-bargaining moves at Sioux Falls, S.D.

"We're in the right, we have done nothing wrong, so why should we accept five guilty pleas when all 100-plus are innocent?" he stated.

Means said convention activity will center on an inn near Mobridge, S.D. He said some foreign delegations sympathizing with AIM plan to attend.

He said these include spokespersons from Argentina and Bolivia.

A large campground will accommodate most of the hundreds expected for the convention. Food supplies are being arranged through governmental and tribal sources, church organizations and private donors, said Means.

The program calls for special ceremonies to be held by various tribes, with a poster invitation stating: "All singers-dancers welcome."

The convention is dedicated to Buddy Lamont and Frank Clearwater, two killed in gunfire exchange with federal forces at Wounded Knee, and Pedro Bissonette, killed later in a confrontation with BIA police.

He'll be a candidate for reelection

Spannaus to divulge badly kept political secret

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Minnesota's hardest-running unannounced candidate, Atty. Gen. Warren Spannaus, plans to divulge another of those badly kept political secrets Thursday.

He'll be a candidate for reelection on the Democratic-Farmer-Labor ticket.

It really wasn't much of a secret, since Spannaus has already held a well-attended fund raiser. But he's never gotten around to that political formality, the announcement of candidacy.

Spannaus, 43, was elected in 1970 in what many billed as an upset because of his unrelenting campaign for controls on the sale and carrying of handguns.

He defeated Republican Robert Forsythe by 36,089 votes, about one-third of Gov. Wendell Anderson's margin over Republican Douglas Head.

Since then, however,

Spannaus has tried to broaden his reputation beyond the emotional gun issue, seeking to be labeled as a guardian of consumers.

Gun control bills were defeated in the 1973 and 1974 legislative sessions.

Spannaus once ran what was probably the only state-operated trading stamp center. His staff laboriously counted up books of trading stamps to insure cash payoffs to consumers who had been sparring with a stamp company.

In his office, Spannaus' normal attire includes a blue button-down shirt, collar and tie loosened. He may be wearing shoes, but often greets visitors in stocking feet.

The casual dress typifies Spannaus' approach to politics. He's light on formality, but heavy on the personal touches that seem almost outdated in today's media-oriented campaigns.

Funerals, weddings, building dedications, high school commencement—all turn up frequently on Spannaus' schedule. In the past few months, he has held numerous "consumer hearings" throughout the state.

In each case, he's listened to consumers, told them what he's trying to do in the consumer field and, presumably, leaves voters with some thoughts for November.

Spannaus has two opponents thus far. They are former state Sen. Dean Nyquist, Brooklyn Center, seeking Republican endorsement, and Alan Lamkin, a Waconia independent running under the American party banner.

Since both Spannaus and Anderson will be heavy favorites, one of the delights of the November election will be an informal contest for the most votes or biggest margin.

Once close friends, the governor and attorney general have had coolly formal relations since both took office in 1971.

By most accounts, the coolness stemmed from the 1970 campaign. Spannaus first announced for governor, pitting him against Anderson, Sen. Nicholas Coleman and other contenders.

Spannaus later switched to the attorney general race, with Anderson winning the endorsement for governor. Nevertheless, they were opponents for a time and the episode apparently has not been forgotten.

Although Spannaus is a high state official, his name did not turn up on the guest list recently when the governor was host at a luncheon for Princess Margaret.

"I went to a smelt fry in Mound," Spannaus quipped.

Spannaus is a native of the Rice St. area of St. Paul. He holds a law degree but has spent most of his adult life in politics.

He was on Sen. Walter F. Mondale's staff when Mondale was attorney general, headed Mondale's 1966 campaign for the Senate and later served as state chairman of the DFL party.

Spannaus and his wife, Marjorie, have three children.

The attorney general's staff includes lawyers assigned to virtually every department of state government, an intelligence network of no small worth.

As he did in 1971, Spannaus is monitoring hearings on a rate increase requested by Northwestern Bell Telephone Co., with an eye to opposing them.

Although he has not taken such a step this year, Spannaus appealed a 1972 rate schedule to the state Supreme Court, winning a $1 million cut.

Since Northwestern Bell has more than one million customers, it could make a sizable target for a consumer-minded candidate.

Nature's most complex system in danger of destruction

(EDITOR'S NOTE: For century upon century, coral polyps rose from the seabed, building upon themselves to create an undersea Xanadu. Then came man. Now dredging, pollution, coral collectors and divers may destroy nature's most complex eco-system.)

By ERIC SHARP.

KEY LARGO, Fla. (AP) — Relaxing in the old Caribbean Bar, Humphrey Bogart's hang-out in the movie "Key Largo," diver-biologists spun a tale of the life and death of a coral reef.

Some 5,000 years ago, small animals called polyps got a foothold on the seabed off the Florida Keys. They soon formed small clumps of coral which, though sometimes battered by hurricanes, eventually covered many acres with the spires of an undersea Xanadu.

When Europeans arrived, it was home to millions of marine animals. The whites called it Hen and Chickens Reef, apparently because waves breaking over it reminded them of a hurrying fowl and her brood.

Sea bass weighing 250 pounds lurked in coral caves, casting baleful eyes on the passing scene. Shrimp gleaned a precarious living picking scraps from the mouths of big eels. Jewfish patrolled their territories, blue spots gleaming like iridescent sapphires.

In the 1940s, man invented breathing devices that let him explore a world of breathtaking beauty. Soon, thousands of sports divers enjoyed the clear waters and a thriving industry estered to them.

And with the influx of men came dredge-and-fill and pollution.

Hen and Chickens Reef still lies in 20 feet of water about three miles off Upper Matecumbe Key, 75 miles south of Miami. But 80 per cent of its giant coral heads are dead, and the rest are dying.

Scientists studying its skeleton hope they'll learn how to keep the same thing from happening to the rest of the reefs that lie in a 160-mile arc from Miami to Key West. Divers report that the reefs range from healthy to nearly dead. They've made only spot checks. Only Hen and Chickens Reef, covering a few square miles, and one or two others near Miami, have been studied in detail by scientists.

If the reefs die, tourism and some fishing industries would suffer. Lobster and yellow tail snapper, both important to Florida commercial fishermen, would disappear, scientists believe.

"Man is killing the reefs. I know developers want to blame natural causes, but silt, coral collecting and sewage aren't natural," says Lee Purkerson, a biologist at Everglades National Park. Purkerson has studied the Biscayne National Monument reefs near Miami for two years. He says that unless steps are taken soon to control development in South Florida and the Keys, the entire reef line will meet the same fate as Hen and Chickens.

"We found algae that covered the coral and kept it from letting in light and food. It wasn't pretty. The best way to describe one algae is that it's like tubercular sputum. As long as man keeps dumping garbage into the sea, the reefs are going to suffer."

Purkerson says more needs to be learned about what happens when various inhabitants of a reef are killed by pollution. "A reef is like a large city — everyone has a job. Some jobs don't seem as important as others most of the time, but look what happened to New York City when garbage men went on strike," he says.

Florida boasts the only major coral reefs in the continental United States, but coral reefs are found in warm waters around the world, primarily in the Pacific. The largest is the 1,200-mile Great Barrier Reef that fringes Australia's East Coast.

Reefs are ridges formed in shallow ocean areas by coral polyps, which live in stony cups they themselves secrete. Only the outer layer of coral is alive. Polyps add new layers to build massive reefs millimeter by millimeter. Polyps are animals, varying in size from the microscopic to giants two inches across. They feed by sticking tentacle-fringed mouths out of their cups and grabbing plankton from the living soup that is the ocean.

Each polyp carries a genetic code that tells it what form to take. Some grow branches like elk antlers. Others form convoluted boulders. Some raise shafts like organ pipes.

Around the reef-building corals grow others that form only small clumps. Then there are soft corals, waving fans and plumes that look like plants but are really animals.

Scientists at the Harbour Branch Foundation Laboratory at John Pennekamp Underwater State Park on Key Largo are studying the reefs to learn the extent of danger and what can be done to save them. A private grant finances the study.

"Next to a tropical rain forest, a coral reef is the most complex eco-system we know," says Dr. Alfred Antonius, the laboratory's coral specialist. He adds that scientists are "getting all the information we can about the state of the reefs now so we can compare it with later data and see if things are getting worse."

The Harbour Branch study has concentrated on Pennekamp Park, but scientists say one thing stands out in inspections of the reefs from Miami to Key West. Where man has little to do with the reefs, they are healthy. Where man has the most interaction with the reefs through development, skin diving and boating, the coral is either dying or under stress.

One theory holds dredging indirectly responsible for Hen and Chickens death. This theory says men drained huge areas of water in the Everglades to the north. Then channels were dredged to get boats from Florida Bay on the west side of the Keys to the open Atlantic on the east.

Cold fronts moving down Florida once were warmed by the Everglades. Now, the cold air moves over Florida Bay almost unaffected. The bay cools quickly and the tide takes cold water through dredged channels and over the inshore reefs. Sensitive to temperature, the coral dies or is so weakened it falls prey to natural enemies such as algae.

Pennekamp Park rules prohibit harming the reefs. But so many people use the park that coral in some areas shows damage from anchors, divers standing on it and illegal coral collecting. In other areas, commercial coral hunters have dynamited away huge chunks of the structures, leaving them weakened targets for pollutants and disease.

"We really haven't been studying reefs long enough to make many authoritative statements," says Dr. George Griffin, a sediment specialist. "What happens over the next 10 years in the Keys will provide valuable information."

"We want to find where the danger lies and how to counteract it. It would be sad if the next generation found a pile of rubble in a place that gave us so much pleasure."

Irving hired to ghost-write real life tale

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (UPI) — Writer Clifford Irving, who served a prison sentence for writing a fake interview with Howard Hughes, has been hired to ghost-write a book about three poor farm boys who build a three-truck outfit into a multimillion dollar business.

The plot is the real life story of Cleo Crouch, Irving's new boss. Crouch said Monday he is paying Irving, $40,000 to supervise the writing of the book, tentatively entitled, "One for the Road."

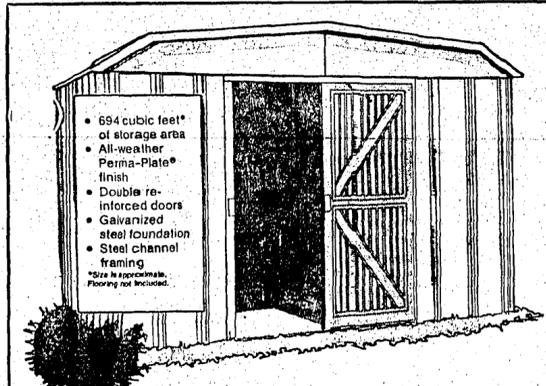

"When I met Clifford in New York, I told some anecdotes and stories from the early days," said Crouch, who built Crouch Brothers, Inc., into one of the largest family owned truck lines in the nation.

MIRACLE MALL - OPEN 9 TO 9 MON. THRU FRI., 9 TO 6 SAT., NOON TO 5 SUNDAY.

MOTHER OF THE YEAR . . . Mrs. Gary Roddel, right, secretary of education of Central Lutheran Church Women, welcomes Mrs. Clarence (Ruth Youngdahl) Nelson, 1973 Mother of the Year, who attended the CLCW luncheon along with her husband. Mrs. Nelson was the guest speaker following the luncheon with the topic, "A Home for Your House." (Daily News photo)

Apologize to son: free your anxieties

DEAR ABBY: I have a son who was my whole life until this happened. He was married for 18 years and had two lovely children. Then all of a sudden he left his wife and family to live with a man!

He called to tell me about it. My world was shattered. When he was younger, I sometimes wondered if he was homosexual. I noticed a few signs, but I never would accept it. In my hysteria, I screamed at him over the phone: "As far as I'm concerned, you just died. In fact, drop dead, I never want to see you again!" Then I hung up.

He and his wife must have some kind of understanding because she doesn't seem nearly as upset as I. I'm told he spent last Christmas Eve with his family, helped with the tree, and everything went smoothly.

Abby, dear, I am not without sin. Was I wrong to sit in

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

judgment and condemn him? Should I accept him for what he is? We were always so close and really loved each other. Should I call him and apologize? Please, Abby, tell me what to do.

BROKENHEARTED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: When we do the right thing, we feel good about it. When we do the wrong thing, we feel bad. Call him.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been considering beginning a family, but we aren't completely certain that we want to, for various reasons. However, here is one reason in particular which bothers me. I have always been a rather possessive person, and it is important to me to be the most important person in my husband's life. I'm afraid if I had a child, the child might become more important to my husband than I am and I would then become jealous of my own child. I've seen it happen in some families.

I have caught myself feeling jealous when my husband shows affection for our dog. Now, wouldn't it be terrible to feel that way about your own child? Does this sound far out to you, or have you come across this problem before? And what should I do about it?

DEAR JEALOUS: If you're jealous of a dog, forget about a family. It shouldn't happen to a child.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FRENCHIE": Please don't call all those escapades "love." Nothing plays a smaller part in phandering than love. (Credit another Frenchman, La Rochefoucauld, with that.)

Cotter class sets reunion

The Class of 1929 of Cotter High School will hold its 45-year reunion June 15 at the Oaks. A social hour is set for 6 p.m. with dinner to be served at 7 p.m. in the Rose Room.

James Mausyck, chairman of the reunion committee, was assisted by Frank Chupita, Vincent Suchomel, George Muras, James Voelker, Julius Gernes Sr. and Harold Haur.

Anyone having a current address for class member, W. T. Leyden, is asked to contact one of the committee members.

'Home should be a launching pad,' says Mother of the Year

By CAROLYN KOSIDOWSKI

Daily News Women's Editor

"A home should be a launching pad, not a fortress to protect you from the rest of the world," said Mrs. Clarence (Ruth Youngdahl) Nelson, 1973 National Mother of the Year, who spoke Tuesday afternoon at Central Lutheran Church.

Mrs. Nelson is the wife of Dr. Clarence T. Nelson, a minister whose pastorates have been in Washington, D.C., Saudi Arabia, Switzerland, Chicago, and various Minnesota cities. He is now the pastor at Augustana Lutheran Church, Minneapolis.

SPEAKING on "A Home for your House," Mrs. Nelson emphasized what she terms "the three H's"—harmony, helpfulness and happiness—as the essentials for a home.

Harmony, she said, does not mean never disagreeing. "Anyone who claims to have been married for 30 or 40 years and never to have had an argument is either dead or a liar," she said. Harmony means being willing to give, she said. "Each person counts the other more worthy." The one sin, she said, is "I."

A mother's heart is not based on biology, she said. Many persons who have never given birth are mothers in the true sense of the word.

She lauded young persons, saying she feels they are more open and honest, more concerned, and inclusive than her own generation. "God has had to do a lot of work on me," she said. She said that, when seeking solutions to a problem, "we should attempt to change ourselves, not the other person."

LIBERALLY punctuating her inspirational talk with lively anecdotes and personal stories, she recounted the story of a small girl in a refugee camp. An American tourist expressed sympathy for the child and said "It's too bad that you don't have a home." The child answered, "Oh, but we have a beautiful home; we just don't have a house to put it in."

Many of her anecdotes centered around children, their reactions and questions. A small boy, she said, asked his mother what it meant to be married and the mother, attempting to answer the child, said it meant loving each other and being kind to each other. The child remarked, "You aren't always married, are you?"

"I was a school teacher before I was married," Mrs. Nelson said, "and would have been ready at that time to offer suggestions on raising children. However, since I have become a mother, I can offer only one suggestion and that is to bring Christ into your home." She encouraged family devotion and prayer, emphasizing that Christ's presence is what really makes a house a home.

The Nelsons have four children and three foster children. Two sons are ministers, a daughter is a missionary's wife in Indonesia and another daughter works in a Chicago ghetto.

MRS. NELSON is the author of six books. A seventh, "You Can Make a Difference," will be released in August. Following her talk, she autographed copies of her books which were available for sale at the church. Central Lutheran Church Women sponsored the event and the luncheon preceding the talk.

Your horoscope — Jeane Dixon

For THURSDAY, JUNE 6

Your birthday today. Brings on the first of many new responsibilities in a year of busy progress. Skills you have mastered fully are called into use now, and overtime efforts are expected of you. Relationships are tested; you soon know where you are with friends. Today's natives include many sensitive individuals with keen intuitive capabilities.

Aries (March 21-April 19): You can make money today, but have to cope with the contrary opinions of all. Parents, other older people are particularly determined. You can make more definite plans tonight.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): You'll do better to stick with things you know well, at or near home base. Relatives and business contacts tend to resist change. You may advance in romance today.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Today's impulsive naysayers border on outright folly. Others follow your example, so that it's more important than ever to be prudent. Simplify home arrangements.

Cancer (June 21-July 21): Your own pet schemes encounter competition, resistance. It's easier in the long run if you seek harmony, cooperation, today. Try not to take things personally.

Leo (July 22-Aug. 22): Much depends on your adaptability. People who usually pay no attention to what you're doing now turn out to be very alert. Where there's nothing you can do about a detail, let it rest.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): If you have it in your mind, avoid speculation, gambling in any form. Time spent in solitary work yields a lasting result.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Firm resolve on your part saves the day. The needs of others create delays. Home conditions conflict with work and business obligations, so priorities are in order.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Advice can be expensive and unwise. Close associates react, having had too much of your determination—give them plenty of room to do so.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): It's up to you today. Chances are you're lazy or not clear as to what you want. Select something requiring no direct cooperation, get done early.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Emotional matters for the unattached come first today, progress being assured. Marital and family ties complicate any career move. Be philosophic; plan another effort.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): It's a day for doing your own specialty. Newer mind stragglers—they can catch up later. You have to carry the duties of others temporarily; no complaint.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Younger people, children tend to develop problem situations. You are called in on all sorts of considerations. Leave your money stowed away, unchanged.

Two convictions of drug possession upheld in court

MADISON (UPI) — The convictions of a Grant County couple on marijuana charges were upheld Tuesday by the state Supreme Court.

The justices rejected an appeal by Mr. and Mrs. William H. Gedko, who were arrested on their 155-acre farm in the town of Castle Rock in 1972 on a tip from a Madison police department informant.

About 60 pounds of marijuana with a value of $8,000 to $12,000 was seized in the police raid.

Gedko was convicted of possession with intent to sell and sentenced to 18 months at the Green Bay Reformatory. His wife, Patricia, was convicted of possession and fined $250.

Where to find vacation spots?

Q: Some of my friends and my family have been talking about visits they'd like to make this summer on short vacation trips. We are interested in seeing historic old bridges, canals, old railroad lines, covered bridges, interesting old buildings, etc. Where could we get a list of famous old spots like these?

A: I can send you one. The American Society of Civil Engineers designates and lists some National Historic Civil Engineering Landmarks each year. They today include things like the Bidwell's Bar Suspension Bridge in Oroville, Calif., the canal and locks of the Potomack Canal in Great Falls, Va., the Cornish-Windsor Covered Bridge in Windsor, Vt., the Mormon Tabernacle in Salt Lake City, Utah and the Cheeseman Dam near Denver, Colo. For a list of 36 fascinating engineering marvels of their day, send me your request with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Q: Is there any really untouched wilderness we could visit, to see a primeval forest?

A: There are — and among the best is the Gila National Forest in southwestern New Mexico. It's 750,000 acres were set aside 50 years ago as the first virtually untouched national forest land. It is still scarcely populated, with tall mountains, sheer-walled canyons and great untouched wildernesses of pine, with here and there a cleared area for a park.

Q: What kinds of vegetables should we buy to obtain the largest supply of vitamin A?

A: All the dark-green and deep-yellow vegetables are especially high in vitamin A. Asparagus, green beans, broccoli, carrots, mustard greens, pumpkin, spinach, winter squash, sweet potatoes, are especially rich in vitamin A.

Q: You mentioned recently that home-canned foods were more often the source of food poisoning than commercially canned foods. Why?

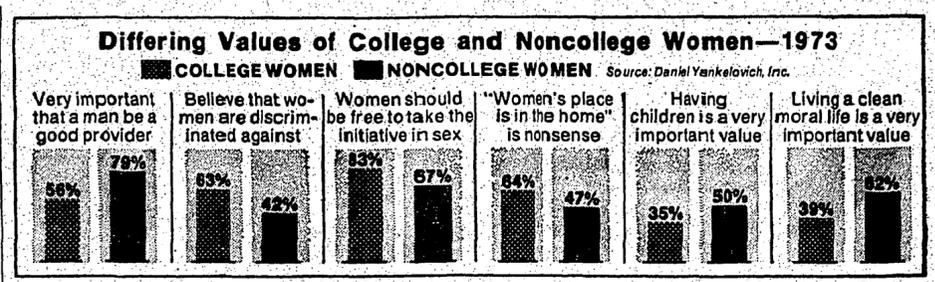

A: Because it is not always the practice of home canners to use the correct method and required heat to destroy organisms that cause food spoilage. Commercial canning methods can do generally make sure of this. At home, for example, while most acid foods such as fruits and tomatoes can safely be canned by using boiling water temperature, low acid foods such as common vegetables and meat and fish need temperatures much higher than boiling water for safety. Generally pressure-canning is recommended for these. Open-kettle canning is not recommended for anything these days.

Q: We want to buy a room air conditioner this month but first would like to have some dependable unbiased information about how to select the right one for our room, but also the one which uses least electricity for its cooling. Can you suggest a good booklet?

A: Yes, an exceedingly practical booklet titled "Energy Efficiency in Room Air Conditioners" has just been issued by the National Bureau of Standards of the U.S. Department of Commerce. It tells consumers how to choose a room air conditioner on the basis of cooling capacity and energy efficiency. It is free, and a single copy may be ordered from the Consumer Product Information Center, Pueblo, Colo. 81002.

Q: We would like to know if any study has been made of the tanning lotions on the market, which are supposed to give your skin a sun-tan-like look. Are they harmful at all?

A: Analysis of tanning lotions by an independent laboratory and by the Food and Drug Administration show them to be performed

Academic gap found to be greatest among young women

NEW YORK — The generation gap appears to be fading, but the academic gap—which has drawn measurable differences in the attitudes, values and aspirations of college-educated and noncollege youths of 16 to 25—is widening. And nowhere is the chasm carved deeper than it is among young women.

That was one of the findings of the recent survey by Daniel Yankelovich, Inc., a research organization.

Whatever the differences to emerge from the interview with 3,522 young people, they were generally more pronounced among the 1,762 women included.

For example, 44 per cent of the noncollege and 51 per cent of the college males would give priority to self-fulfillment over economic security in choosing a job, while 41 per cent of the noncollege and 62 per cent of the college females consider fulfillment more essential.

The same fissure is reflected in attitudes toward having children. Thirty-one per cent of the noncollege and 27 per cent of the college males said having children "is a very important personal value." Among the women, the gap widens again with 50 per cent of the noncollege and 35 per cent of the college women considering children "an important value."

"THE largest single gap between college and noncollege youth is among women," Yankelovich asserted as he reviewed the findings of the mountainous study that is to be published as a book by McGraw-Hill this fall.

Noting that noncollege women suffer a double-pronged disadvantage, he observed, "They are the most dissatisfied work group. The better self-fulfilling careers are not open to them because they didn't go to college and because they're women."

The study concludes that the women's liberation movement has served to exacerbate the discontent of the noncollege female by touting careers that are largely closed off to her as sources of growth and by making her question the merits of marriage and family. "One-out-of-three considers marriage obsolete," Yankelovich pointed out.

Of the women polled, 1,308 had not attended college; 454 were in college last year.

Did they look forward to the prospect of marriage? Fifty per cent of the noncollege and 62 per cent of the college women said yes.

For Ruth Clark, project director of the survey and a vice president of Daniel Yankelovich, that does not represent a paradox.

"To the college women, marriage means a chance to continue a career, to work out a marital relationship where the role of wife has changed. To the noncollege woman, marriage still means entrapment," she said, emphasizing that her observation was personal speculation.

Although the survey indicates that the noncollege youth has picked up the cudgels of rebellion and disenchantment brandished in the 60's by the college students, the noncollege women do not appear to have followed suit as active proponents of women's liberation.

The noncollege women seem to be lagging behind their college counterparts in adopting the new morality. Sixty-two per cent of them, in contrast with 41 per cent on the campus, maintain that "having children without formal marriage is morally wrong."

Supreme Court criticized for search rulings

MADISON (UPI)—The state Supreme Court Tuesday criticized the U.S. Supreme Court for confusing laws on search and seizure of evidence.

"The United States Supreme Court has made the law of search and seizure almost as incomprehensible as the law of obscenity," said Justice Nathan Heffernan.

The criticism came in a decision that affirmed the conviction of a Crandon man for the 1972 slaying of his wife. The man, Dennis E. Conrad, was found guilty of first-degree murder and sentenced to life in prison for killing his wife, Marie.

Mrs. Conrad disappeared and Conrad said his wife had gone to Germany to visit her critically ill mother. Her body was found months later buried on the family farm.

Conrad sought to have the conviction overturned on the ground the sheriff had violated his constitutional rights by digging up the farm on a "hunch."

The justices, however, said the search came under the "open-fields" doctrine and a search warrant was not needed, even though it was private property.

"The evidence of the finding of the body of Marie Conrad in the open fields approximately 450 feet from the house was properly admitted into evidence," said Heffernan.

Chief Justice E. Harold Hallows dissented from the opinion.

"I cannot accept the proposition that a sheriff on suspicion can dig up a person's property with a backhoe or bulldozer, looking for evidence of crime," said Hallows.

Gas supply 'workable'

MADISON (UPI) — State Energy Coordinator Stanley York said Monday Wisconsin drivers will have a tight, but workable, supply of gasoline this month.

York said that if energy conservation efforts stay at their present levels, there will be "no serious problems."

"If the country goes back to its old ways, there will be a problem," York said.

Two Winona youths to participate in camp
Two Winona boys will be among the nearly 150 Minnesota young people participating in a bicycle training and safety camp near Nisswa, Minn., next week.

Stanley Marg and Paul Woodworth will represent the Winona area at the camp beginning Monday and running through Wednesday. The camp is sponsored by the Minnesota Safety Council, the Agricultural Extension Service and the Minnesota Department of Public Safety.

Skills learned at the three-day workshop will enable participants to conduct bicycle safety programs and promote bicycle safety on the local level.

Hiawatha Animal Humane Society slates picnic

LAKE CITY, Minn. (Special) — The Hiawatha Animal Humane Society will hold a picnic supper Thursday at 6 p.m. at Roschen Park here for members and prospective members.

Each family is to bring its own picnic supper and dishes. The society will furnish soft drinks. There will be games for the children.

A meeting of the entire membership will follow the supper.

City police to check bicycles for registration

Winona Police Chief Robert Carstenbrock said today that city police will begin checking bicycles for registration and that any suspicious bicycles will be impounded by the department.

Carstenbrock said that officers will begin issuing tickets to operators of unlicensed bicycles, and that the department is considering refusing to accept reports of stolen bicycles without licenses or if the serial number is unknown.

He said that citizens should be reminded that a license is required by law, and that there is nothing the police can do to recover unlicensed bicycles if they are stolen.

Winona driver charged in Wabasha crash

WABASHA, Minn. — A Winona man, who was the driver of a car involved in a fatal accident near here May 27, was charged on three counts this morning when he appeared in Wabasha County Court before Judge Dennis Weber.

Bruce Sharp, 22, 778 Gilmore Ave., was charged with criminal negligence, a felony; possession of a small amount of marijuana, a misdemeanor, and open bottle, a misdemeanor.

A preliminary hearing on the charge of criminal negligence was scheduled for June 14 at 10 a.m. The misdemeanor charges were continued to that same day for further proceedings.

Sharp continues to be free on his own recognizance.

THE COMPLAINT was read by Wabasha Attorney Jerome Schreiber, Lake City.

He said that the charges stem from an automobile accident May 27 in Wabasha County which allegedly resulted in the death of David R. Schmitt, 24, Winona.

Schmitt, a Wabasha native who had been living in Winona, died when the car in which he was riding went out of control on a Wabasha County bridge and flipped onto its top in the backwaters of the Mississippi River.

The accident took place shortly before 8:35 p.m. on CSAH 24, five miles southeast of Wabasha.

ACCORDING TO Carl Holtan, investigating officer for the Wabasha County Sheriff's office, Sharp made two dives to try to free Schmitt; Deputy Robert Loecherer made one and Deputy David Bremer also dived into the water.

Authorities said Schmitt's head had hit the windshield upon impact and that he may have been unconscious from the crash.

A Wabasha County deputy coroner ruled that Schmitt's death was caused by drowning.

Milk price

aide John D. Ehrlichman expected the dairy industry to reaffirm its $2 million commitment in light of the forthcoming increase in milk prices, which they did, the memorandum says.

"Thereafter an increase in the price support level for milk... was officially announced." The increase reportedly added hundreds of millions of dollars to dairy industry profits.

Most of the evidence bearing on the dairy industry phase of the inquiry came from the Senate Watergate Committee, but the Judiciary Committee also has tapes of some of the key White House conversations around March 23, 1971.

The committee has asked the White House for 66 taped conversations dealing with the ITT and dairy cases, and may issue subpoenas for them later in the week. It has a subpoena outstanding ordering delivery on June 10 of 45 Watergate tapes.

After hearing the ITT evidence some members said they felt no link had been established between the company's pledge of $400,000 for the public National Convention in San Diego and a settlement of the antitrust suit favorable to ITT.

In other Watergate-related developments:
• Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton said Watergate probably has undermined Nixon's ability to speed public acceptance of major new energy programs.

• Sen. Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, said Monday's guilty plea by former White House aide Charles W. Colson came after a long and tearful prayer session at Colson's home the previous night.

• Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., disclosed confidential White House documents that he said reveal a scheme to reward friends and punish enemies in the awarding of federal grants.

La Crescent council approves subdivision

LA CRESCENT, Minn. — A public hearing Monday produced no opposition to D. J. (Duke) Quillan's plans for Crestview Second Addition subdivision here, so the La Crescent City Council approved the final plan and specifications for the Crestview Second Addition.

Work on the 54-101, two-block residential development will begin this summer.

QUILLAN will deed 4.9 acres of land adjacent to the City of La Crescent Park to the city for park land.

Long-range capital improvements plans considered by the council included: construction of a storage building for street salt this year, a police department garage in 1975, expanded water storage facilities in 1976, new wells in 1979, the updating of the sewer treatment plant and construction of a library in 1981, extension of sewer lines to the Twilight Zone and Shore Acres in 1982 and the building of a youth center in 1983.

To qualify for federal funding under the LAWCON Recreation Program of the state. Department of Natural Resources, the council voted to develop a five-year schedule to include the completion of the swimming pool area, construction of a concession stand and warming house for the skating rink, development of bike trails and enclosing the municipal swimming pool.

Mayor Ollis Adamson said the pool's construction and maintenance costs make limiting it to summer use unrealistic.

THE COUNCIL adopted an alternate - day water sprinkling system for summer drought periods that will restrict houses with even numbers to sprinkling lawns and gardens on even-numbered days and houses with odd numbers to odd-numbered days.

Also, the council waived the residency requirement which would have forced Clarence Russell, clerk-administrator, to move his family to La Crescent by July.

Inspection bill on nursing homes signed into law

MADISON (UPI) — A bill requiring annual inspection of nursing homes was signed into law Tuesday by Lt. Gov. Martin J. Schreiber, acting governor while Gov. Patrick J. Lucey is at the national Governor's Conference.

The measure, authored by Schreiber, requires the yearly inspections as a condition for license renewal and it sets up a staggered license renewal system.

Schreiber also signed a bill to license and train ambulance attendants and another measure authorizing the use of paramedics by counties, municipalities and hospitals. The paramedics would have to be licensed by the state.

Another bill requiring the establishment of state standards for adult foster homes and home care institutions, and licensing of those institutions was signed by Schreiber.

Public hearing held

RUSHFORD, Minn. — No decision on a conditional land use permit for the construction of a municipal airport for the city of Rushford was made Tuesday night following a two-hour public hearing.

An estimated 29 persons aired views on the proposed airport at a meeting in Rushford Township Hall.

THE PROPOSED airport would be located about four miles west of the city of Rushford in the former Rushford Village, now a statutory city.

The city of Rushford has an option on about 92 acres of land owned by Dr. John R. Peterson, Clifford Kjos and Edward Peterson. If the airport is approved, Marvin Anderson has consented to grant an easement on a portion of his land.

Speaking in opposition were James Corcoran, mayor of the new city of Rushford, and Joseph Rusekham.

Corcoran said members of the city council had voted against the proposal.

Rusekham said persons had approached him stating their disapproval.

Dale Evavold, Rushford city attorney, gave the main presentation favoring the proposed airport. Others were made by:

Special education graduates honored

ARCADIA, Wis. — Special education graduates and their families were honored at the third annual dinner sponsored by the Trempealeau County Association for Retarded Children.

Also attending the dinner, at the Arcadia Country Club, were teachers, Mrs. Lester Jorgenson and Mrs. Madeline Alvarez. Seniors were presented achievement awards, and the teachers received trophies for outstanding work in special education.

Train blocks tracks after air hose failure

A Milwaukee Road freight train blocked city streets for about 20 minutes this morning because an air hose failed.

A repairman located the problem 24 cars from the caboose, the Milwaukee Road office said. The train arrived at 7:25 a.m. and departed at 7:47 a.m.

Wabasha Co. road resolution dies

WABASHA, Minn. (Special) — A motion Tuesday afternoon by a member of the Wabasha County Board of Commissioners to begin construction of a high water road on CSAH 24, at Sand Prairie, failed to win a second.

Discussion on the controversial road has been held during the past year but no official action has been taken on improvements.

COMMISSIONER Jack Fitzgerald introduced the resolution to begin steps for construction of the U-shaped road.

San Prairie area residents — Mr. and Mrs. Henry Barton and Ronald Kruger — voiced their approval of the road project.

Commissioners, in other action, gave Sheriff Ed Lager permission to purchase a patrol boat and motor at a cost of $4,130. They also authorized Lager to hire a bookkeeper at a $360 monthly salary.

A payment of three cents per capita to Hiawathaland, amounting to $517, was approved. County liquor licenses and fees were set the same as last year; $1,200 for the license and $4,000 for the bond.

THREE COUNTY licenses were approved, subject to the fee and bond: Supper Club, Sand Prairie, Ponderosa, Lake Zumbro, Mazepa Township, and Piper Hill Golf Club, Plainview. The annual resolution to renew the 23 beer licenses in the county was passed.

The payment of $2,329 to the M & R Sign Co. for county highway signs was approved. Bids were accepted in April.

Commissioners passed a resolution to apportion $30,000 of state aid highway funds for the city of Wabasha.

Two conditional use permits were approved: Virril Schurhammer, Wabasha, for a go-cart track, and Herb's Gun, Greenfield Township, to build a house in an agricultural area.

David Meyer, clerk of court, was given permission to attend a seminar the week of June 10 at Grand Rapids, Minn.

Six homestead abatements were approved.

Police report

747 W. Broadway, Itasca over-and-under shotgun in tan canvas case, brown leather purse taken Monday or Tuesday night; $368 loss.

Bicycle taken from Kathy Skelly, Minnetonka City while parked at Winona Senior High School since Saturday; purple girl's Huffy, $35.

Traffic signal not warranted

A traffic signal is not warranted at the Airport Road and 6th Street intersection in Goodview, the Winona County Board was told Tuesday.

A Minnesota Highway Department study has determined traffic congestion there isn't serious enough to warrant installation of signals as requested by representatives of labor unions working in Airport Industrial Park.

District Traffic Engineer D. J. Pickett wrote the county, which owns 6th Street (CSAH 32) and said no change is warranted in the intersection's traffic control or construction.

Free library services popular

New free library services to rural county residents are going over like a hot potato, the county board learned.

The county recently bought into public library services in St. Charles and Winona, and officials have learned the Winona library issued 477 cards to rural residents in May and the St. Charles library issued 37.

Pleased commissioners have already allocated funds to continue the service beyond its initial expiration at the end of 1974.

Courthouse radiator to get added bracing

A worrisome radiator in the temporary courthouse will be braced rather than removed,

Zoning problems to be aired at meeting

Zoning administration problems will be aired at a meeting Friday between the Winona County Board, the county planning commission and the zoning and sanitation staff.

The meeting will be at 10:30 a.m. Friday in the commissioners room of the temporary courthouse.

It was scheduled after an edited version of an open letter from Zoning Administrator Vernold Boynton to the board appeared in the Winona Sunday News, defending himself against board criticism and saying he would resign if the board wouldn't apologize.

Commissioners still have not received the full letter from Boynton.

Central to Friday's discussion will be workloads and possible additional staff needs in Boynton's office.

Sharing Boynton's office is County Sanitary Administrator Larry Rupprecht, who told commissioners Tuesday his schedule has become too busy to allow him to function as the county's weed and seed inspector, a secondary part of his job.

"I really haven't done my job as far as an inspector goes," Rupprecht told commissioners. "In fact, I've done zero."

the county board decided.

Commissioners received permission from building owner Boland Manufacturing Co. to remove the ceiling-hung radiator in the clerk of court's office, but decided to brace it instead since county offices may be moving back into the courthouse soon.

Officials learned this week the $2 million courthouse remodeling project may be finished July 3, enabling a move of offices well before the July 30 contract deadline.

County employees had asked removal of the radiator after a similar 500-pound unit fell to the floor, narrowly missing several people.

Bids to be taken in July for road work

The county board will take bids in July for two more road projects.

Bids will be taken at 11 a.m. July 9 for grading a third of a mile of CSAH 30 west of Beaver and for grading two miles of CSAH 9 in Cedar Valley.

While commissioners will take bids then for the long-awaited Cedar Valley project, it may not be started immediately since land acquisition hasn't been completed.

County interested in surplus station

Anybody want a surplus radar station?

The county board has responded to a federal notice that a radar station on .49 of an acre on North Ridge has been declared surplus.

Commissioners told the federal government the county is interested in purchasing the property, although commissioners aren't sure what they might use it for. They might use it as a picnic area, since it is adjacent to a scenic overlook along CSAH 1, the Hiawatha Apple Blossom Scenic Drive.

Beer license renewed

The county board has renewed another beer license. The on-sale 3.2 beer license went to Pat Shortridge of the Winona County Club in Pleasant Valley.

Other liquor and beer licenses were renewed earlier in the week.

Sewage disposal system installers need licenses

Rural sewage disposal system installers must now be licensed, the county board has ruled.

The county's zoning ordinance has permitted the county to license sewage system installers, but it hasn't been enforced. County Sanitary Administrator Larry Rupprecht said problems with some installers prompted him to ask commissioners to set licensing fees so he can begin enforcing it.

The license will cost installers $25 for the rest of 1974 and $50 each full year after that.

Rural Winona man appears on two counts of assault

A rural Winona man made an initial appearance Tuesday in Winona County Court to face two counts of assault brought in connection with a family dispute at his home.

Judge S. A. Sawyer granted a continuance to Irving Passehl, 43, Winona Rt. 3, to give him time to consult an attorney before entering a plea to the charges at a later date.

Sawyer set $500 bond, but required Passehl to post only $50 to gain release from jail.

Sawyer turned down a request by Passehl that he be assigned an attorney at county expense, but ruled after reviewing Passehl's finances that the county would pay for any attorney's fees exceeding $200.

The case is being prosecuted by Assistant County Attorney Steven Ahlgren.

Brom appreciation dinner set Thursday

Tickets are still on sale for the Art Brom Appreciation Night Thursday at the Oaks Supper Club, Minnesota City, ticket chairman Robert Welch announced today.

The event will honor former city street commissioner Brom, who retired in April after more than 25 years with the department.

Tickets at $5 a person include a 7:30 p.m. dinner followed by dancing to the music of Nick Edstrom.

A cash bar opens at 6:30 p.m.

Winonan appears in robbery case

By TOM JONES Daily News Staff Writer

An initial appearance in Winona County Court was made Tuesday by a Winona man charged with one count each of robbery and aggravated robbery in connection with an incident May 17 at the Handy Corner Bar, 700 E. 5th St.

Robert A. Paetzel, 19, 723 E. 2nd St., is accused of participating in an armed robbery at the bar which netted $1,150. The charges were brought in a complaint filed by Winona County Attorney Julius E. Gernes.

JUDGE S. A. Sawyer released Paetzel on his own recognizance to await a June 13 preliminary hearing. Sawyer told Paetzel that the county will pay attorney's fees in excess of whatever money he can get from the sale of a 1964 Ford hardtop, his only possession of value.

Sawyer said the appointment of an attorney for Paetzel would be referred to Winona County District Court, but indicated Paetzel should have some say in who will represent him since he is contributing to his defense.

Two male Winona juveniles have also been questioned in connection with the robbery which was carried out by masked persons waving rifles.

POLICE last week said that one of the persons questioned is also suspected of two May 24 break-ins at the Winona Athletic Club, East 5th Street and Mankato Avenue, and the Sunshine Bar and Cafe, 70 E. 2nd St. In those incidents, vending machines were forced and money taken from a cash register at the cafe. Two of the suspects, police said, may also be tied in with an attempted robbery at the Handy Corner April 21, when a shotgun-wielding robber fled empty-handed after being refused money by bartender Lois Schwartz.

The investigation of the robbery is being conducted by Police Detective Jerris Selbert.

Meetings set on Highway 35-54 reconstruction

BLUFF SIDING, Wis. — L. G. Schneider, district engineer of the Wisconsin Division of Highways, announced today that meetings will be set up with the citizens of Bluff Siding and surrounding area to discuss proposals for reconstruction of State Trunk Highway 35-54 between Bluff Siding and Marshland.

Representatives of the highways division will be available at the town hall in the town of Buffalo at Fountain City from June 11-13.

"Our purpose is to be able to sit down and talk on a one-to-one basis with people who will be affected by this proposed project and to provide an opportunity for local citizens to present their views and desires or to discuss their problems on an informal basis," said Schneider.

Tentative discussion hours: June 11 — noon to 8 p.m.; June 12 — 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; and June 13 — 1 to 9 p.m.

Following this exchange of information and discussion, he said, the division of highways will further analyze the public input with the intention of proceeding with a formal hearing at a later date on the final project proposal.

Schneider suggested that appointments be set up by calling the division office in La Crosse, Wis.

Temporary permit granted blacktop mixing operation

A temporary equipment use permit has been given a blacktop mixing operation near Minnesota City and a similar permit will be sought in two weeks.

The Winona County Board granted the permit to W. Hodgman & Son, Fairmont, Minn., for continued operation of the firm's blacktop mixing plant in a gravel pit on the edge of Minnesota City.

Commissioners and company officials agreed there have been no complaints about air pollution from the operation. Similar operations near Minnesota City have drawn stiff opposition.

HODGMAN officials said the permit was needed to complete operations there in connection with reconstruction of Highway 248 through Rollingstone and the portable plant will then be moved to a site south of Utica near Interstate 60.

A hearing on a temporary equipment permit for that site has been set for 9:30 a.m. June 17, Hodgman wants the permit to produce blacktop for several county road projects it has in that area.

A number of other routine zoning matters were handled by the county board Tuesday, including two variances to permit recording of under-sized lots and 10 conditional use permits.

The variances went to Leo Kryzer, Lewiston, for a parcel four miles south of Wyatville in Hart Township, and to Philip Behrends, St. Charles, for a parcel two miles southeast of St. Charles in St. Charles Township.

The conditional use permits: • Hubbard Milling Co., Altura, for construction of two turkey-rearing buildings just northwest of Fremont in Fremont Township.

• Scott Rolbecki, Minnesota City, for construction of a basement house off Highway 61 three miles north of Minnesota City in Rollingstone Township.

• James Galowski, Stockton Hill, for a non-farm home on Stockton Hill in Hillsdale Township.

• Gary Huebner, La Crescent, for a house near County Road

101 three miles south of Nodine in New Hartford Township.

• Martin Luehrs, Stockton, for a house on CSAH 17 in Pleasant Valley in Wilson Township.

• C. L. McCarthy, St. Charles, for a house near Highway 74, one mile south of Elba in Elba Township.

• Allyn Hoppe, Winona Rt. 2, for a mobile home between Wilson and Centerville in Wilson Township.

• Howard Todd, Dakota, for a mobile home in New Hartford.

• Russell Googins, for a mobile home in Little Trout Valley in Richmond Township.

• Gary Bambenek, 1854 W. 5th St., for a house in Homer Valley in Homer Township.

Soviet scientist gets literary prize

PARIS (UPI) — Soviet scientist Andrei Sakharov was awarded the Cino del Duca Literary Prize Tuesday for "helping towards a better understanding of the message of modern humanism in a scientific form."

Crystal Springs bridge finally to be built

Five years after it was first scheduled for reconstruction, the Crystal Springs bridge will finally be built.

The Winona County Board let contracts totaling just over $300,000 Tuesday for the bridge and related projects, over $18,000 below County Highway Engineer Earl Welshons' estimate.

Low bidder and contract winner for the bridge itself is Northern Contracting Co., Hopkins, Minn., with a bid of $111,553.80.

OTHER BIDDERS included Sullivan Construction Co., Rochester, $118,464.62; H. S. Dresser & Son, Inc., Winona, $112,107.90, and G. H. Griffith Construction Co., Caledonia, Minn., $120,311.40.

Delays by state agencies seeking to protect forests and trout streams in the bridge area held up the project for five years before red tape could be cut with the help of area legislators.

The old Crystal Springs bridge on CSAH 37 was ordered closed by the county last summer after the county board learned it was no longer safe.

Other contracts awarded Tuesday were one for grading in connection with the bridge work and another on CSAH 37 and County Road 106 a few miles south of Crystal Springs.

Grading on CSAH 37 at the bridge site will be done by low bidder and contract winner Freeman Construction Co., Spring Valley, Minn., with a bid of $44,006.75.

OTHER bidders on that job were Leoni Joyce Construction Co., Rochester, $51,610.34; Holm Bros. Construction Co., Goodhue, Minn., $65,125.09; A. J. Ostreng, Inc., La Crosse, Wis., $49,421.65; Sullivan, $53,195.55, and Reitman Contracting, Inc., Rochester, $66,100.45.

The other job will be done by the Ostreng firm, which bid $144,461.19. Other bidders included Joyce, $190,885.22; Holm, $158,251.35; Freeman, $156,216.82; Sullivan, $158,699.15, and Reitman, $160,291.65.

St. Charles retired parish janitor honored

ST. CHARLES, Minn. (Special) — Friends and relatives recently honored a retiring janitor at the St. Charles Catholic School.

William Schafer Jr., 65, retired Saturday as custodian for the church properties in St. Charles. He had been working at St. Charles Borromeo Catholic Church, St. Charles Catholic School, and the Catholic convent, since 1964.

Planning the program and light lunch to say goodbye and thank you to Schafer were Mrs. Carl (Shirley) Fischer and Mrs. Larry (Bonnie) Palnby, sponsored by the local St. Ann's Society. The program consisted of skits and songs as well as presentation of gifts to Schafer.

Board won't choose sides in dispute

State officials will have to make up their own minds whether to order consolidation of Winona County's two soil and water conservation districts, the county board agreed Tuesday afternoon.

Commissioners told Lincoln Paulson, Faribault, a member of the state Soil and Water Conservation Commission, the county board doesn't want to take a position on the hotly disputed proposal to consolidate the Winona Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD) and the Burns-Homer-Pleasant SWCD into a single district.

He cited some work and cost overlaps and noted County Auditor Alois Wiczek would face considerable extra work this fall if he has to create 10 nominating districts — five for each SWCD district — rather than five. The nominating districts must be created before the November general election.

Clinton Dabelstein, chairman of the B-H-P district, argued consolidation supporters have been unable to prove they can run better soil conservation practices with one district than two, adding that B-H-P members had voted earlier Tuesday they would work without pay to cut costs if the districts can remain split.

HE SAID he will continue his fight at the state level.

The B-H-P district was one of the first created in Minnesota and the nation in the 1930s and pioneered soil and water conservation organization and practices now common throughout the nation. Dabelstein has been a member of the district board since the beginning.

Latsch Building public tour to start workshop

A tour of the John A. Latsch Building, Second and Center Streets, at 11 a.m. Saturday, will open the Heritage is a Verb: A Public Workshop on Historic Preservation.

People wishing to take the tour should assemble outside the building, says Patrick Lowther, secretary of the Committee to Save Historic Winona, sponsors of the event in conjunction with and Preservation Association.

THE COMMITTEE met Tuesday night at the Winona County Historical Society museum to complete details of the schedule.

William Stumpf, 207 E. Sanborn St., environmental design architect, will open the conference at 1 p.m. at the Winona County Historical Society Museum, 160 Johnson St.

Speakers will be Georgia DeCoster, Minnesota Arts Council, architectural coordinator, "Architecture: Old and New," 1:15 to 1:45 p.m.; "What is an Historic Resource?" by Foster Dunwiddie, member of the Minnesota Society of Architects and Historic Resources committee, 1:45 to 2:15; and "Economic Results of Historic Preservation in Small Towns in the Midwest," by Mary C. Means, director of the Midwest office of the National Trust for Historic Preservation, 2:15 to 2:45 p.m.

Two workshops, from 3 to 4 p.m., will be "Architectural Relevance of Downtown Winona," conducted by Thomas Lutz, a member of the Minnesota Historical Society, and "Preservation: An Overview," by Evelt Oldendorf, aesthetics task force. From 4 to 5 p.m., workshops will be "Community Survey and Relations," by Lawrence Sommers, private planning consultant on historic preservation, and "Winona County Courthouse in Perspective," by Thomas Horty, architect in charge of the courthouse restoration.

ALSO FEATURED will be a continuous photographic display of significant Winona landmarks by Richard Swift, freelance artist, Briarcomb. Refreshments will be available.

The Committee to Save Historic Winona will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Museum.

Dirlam, key figure in state Legislature, to retire

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — One of the major figures in the Minnesota Legislature confirmed Tuesday that he will retire after 34 years in office.

Rep. Aubrey Dirlam, 60, has served as either majority or minority leader of the House in seven sessions and served as Speaker of the House in 1971.

Only eight legislators in the state's history have served longer than 34 years.

In the last two years, Dirlam has headed a Republican minority that has slipped to 56 members, the smallest GOP contingent of Dirlam's career in the House.

Dirlam dismissed reports that he would be opposed for a leadership spot in the 1975 session, should he have been chosen to run again. He said he was not aware of the reports.

The silver-haired, pipe-smoking lawmaker from Redwood Falls said no single factor had dominated his decision.

DFL candidate Scott to visit Fillmore County

Ulric Scott, DFL candidate for 1st District Representative, will visit with Fillmore County residents Monday.

The day-long campaign tour will begin at Rushford, then go to Mabel, Canton, Harmony, Ostrander, Spring Valley, Wykoff, Fountain, Lanesboro and Preston. Local Democrats in each community will escort Scott.

Scott plans to return on special event days in Fillmore County. The Monday visit will provide an opportunity to meet Fillmore County citizens in local business places.

DFL-Fridley, also said he will not seek re-election. Connors, an attorney, is in his second term.

About 20 lawmakers have announced retirement or are reported considering such announcements, many of them blaming the increased schedule of legislative sessions.

Democrats now hold a 78-56 edge in the House, but Dirlam said Republicans have a chance to pick up some seats this year.

"I don't think it's out of the realm of possibility to regain control...it would be good for the State of Minnesota."

Dirlam, who once served in a 101-member majority, said too big a controlling group tends to become "fat and lazy."

"I didn't get to meet the majority leader for three weeks," he recalled.

In 1972, lawmakers ran in districts drawn by the court after the legislature failed to agree on a reapportionment plan. Dirlam said there were 87 DFL-dominated districts to only 47 Republican-leading areas after the judges drew the lines.

Dirlam and Rep. August Mueller, R-Arlington, were the ranking members of the legislature. Mueller, also elected in 1940, also is retiring.

Senior members next year assuming reelections will be Rep. James Adams, DFL-Minneapolis, and Sen. J. A. Josephson, R-Minnesota, both dating to 1955.

Being mentioned as possible Republican House leaders next year are Reps. Julian Hook, Golden Valley; Henry Savellouki, Albert Lea; Salisbury Adams, and Arlan Stangeland, Barnesville.

Dirlam announced his decision at a news conference that preceded a coffee-and-cake reception attended by numerous staff aides and legislators, including the DFL House Speaker, Martin Sabo.

In a nostalgic review of his career, Dirlam recalled that his first visit to the Capitol came in 1937, when he got a job through his own legislators as a $5.50 per day janitor.

Dirlam said he still favors the new flexible format of the legislature, providing more time for deliberations.

"However, by more time I don't mean fulltime," he said.

He said he hopes legislative leaders will restrict the off-year sessions to top priority items, permitting legislators to retain other jobs rather than becoming fulltime lawmakers.

"Utilizing your neighbor down the street on a parttime basis has served Minnesota well," he said.

Trempealeau Lions complete sign plan

TREMPEALEAU, Wis. (Special) — The Trempealeau Lions Club has completed its project of installing signs with names of village streets. Cost of the project was $1,555.

Prior to 1970 the village had installed street names along Highway 93 and County Trunk Highway K.

The signs are white metal with black letters and contain the Lions Club insignia.

The Lions work crew consisted of Lester Leavitt, Terry Uhl, Earl Malles, Arild Engelen and Jerry Wood. Members of the village crew included Village President Winston Elkins, Mike Ebersold and Lloyd Cowan. Other volunteers were Irvin Diamond and Howard Coyle.

Bodies of two former Minnesota men are found

GIENALLEN, Alaska (AP) — The bodies of two former Minnesota men who drowned last October while hunting near Glenallen have been found.

The victims were Richard G. Berg, 24, and Douglas A. Nelson, 28, both formerly of Wayzata. Berg's body was found June 2, Nelson's body was found May 29.

Berg's parents said he had been in Alaska four or five months working as an apprentice plumber. Nelson, also a plumber, had made Anchorage his home for the past six years.

Clean-up day

THE MEMBERS OF the Minnesota City Boat Club will hold a major work day Saturday, beginning at 9 a.m.

The word is it's a big day so come early and plan to stay late. The Ladies Auxiliary will provide lunch for the work crews and the workers will provide the muscle to get the area in shape for the busy season.

Members coming to work are urged to bring shovels, rakes, paint brushes and the other tools needed to get the job done.

If everyone gets out early Saturday and the job gets finished there'll be nothing to do later but enjoy the river.

The party starts

THE 50TH BIRTHDAY party for the Upper Mississippi River Fish and Wildlife Refuge will get started tonight at 8 in the Izaak Walton League's Cabin on Prairie Island. Members of the refuge staff, headquartered in Winona, will present a slide show on the great river refuge.

The facilities of the refuge are often taken for granted by those of us who live so close to it, and this show might give a little insight into just how extensive and important this area is.

The slides will show some things that many of us have missed. The egrets and herons, the eagles and the ducks or the scenic splendor have been there all the time but we've been too busy to take a good look.

If you've got an hour or so tonight, run out to Prairie Island and see the slides. If you don't, mark June 10 on the calendar and be at the Izaak's Cabin then then when the show is given a second time.

After seeing the slide show, many of us might want to go out and look the place over again for ourselves. Well, the Fish and Wildlife Service has arranged that, too. Saturday at 10 a.m., a boat tour will be leaving Verchota landing to take a look at the local highlights. It's a "bring your own boat" gathering.

If you can't make it Saturday, or the weather is nasty, there will be similar tours June 15 and 22.

The refuge is one of the greatest resources this area has and this month, as it celebrates its birthday, we should try and show our appreciation and perhaps learn a little more about what makes it the great place it is.

Heim an All-American

TRAPSHOOTER Henry Heim, La Crescent, Minn., a familiar face at local gun clubs, has again been named among the best shotguns in the nation by Sports Afield magazine.

Heim was named to the Sports Afield All-American Trap Team — on the second team — which puts him on a list of the top 36 shooters in the country.

Considering the number of fine shooters participating each year, it's quite an honor to be among the best in the nation.

Take a look at the recent issue of Sports Afield, and you'll note a few other Wisconsin and Minnesota names among the list of the nation's best, a testimonial to the caliber of the shooters in this region.

Biesanz opens state Thursday

Winona High's Ted Biesanz will be among 107 golfers teeing off Thursday afternoon when the 46th annual Minnesota State High School Golf Tournament gets under way at the University of Minnesota Golf Course.

Biesanz, who will tee off with Dave Goulson of Granada-Huntley and Bo Grandstaff of Wayzata at 12:56 p.m. Thursday, played the course once last summer during the Minnesota Golf Association Junior Tournament.

The slender junior had scores of 80 and 78 for a 158 total on the par 144 18-hole course on that occasion.

Biesanz, who is the first state qualifier from Winona since 1967, feels Brad Cook of Northfield, Bill Israelson of Bemidji, John Chaffee of Austin, Brian Sund of Edina East and Mark Knutson of Albert Lea will be the strongest contenders.

Sieve Eirheim and Kathy Williams, a pair of freshmen from La Crescent, will be teeing off at 1:03 and 1:10 p.m., respectively, Thursday.

The second round is scheduled for Friday.

THINKING AND WAITING . . . Texas Ranger manager Billy Martin stands solemnly before his bat-in-hand squad shortly before they poured onto the field to battle with fans during Tuesday night's baseball game in Cleveland. The players ran onto the field with their bats after Ranger right-fielder Jeff Burroughs was harassed by fans in the ninth inning. Martin led the charge. The melee lasted about 10 minutes and the Indians forfeited the game to the Rangers. (AP Photo/fax)

Caledonia ousted by Owatonna 5-1

FARIBAULT, Minn. — A four-run outburst in the top of the fifth inning proved to be the difference as Owatonna disposed of Caledonia 5-1 in the second game of the Region One semifinals here at Bell Field Tuesday night.

But Owatonna pitcher John Herrmann deserved most of the credit, despite the fact that his teammates pounded out eight hits, including two home runs and two doubles.

Herrmann, a 6-0 senior left-hander who's normally used as a back-up hurler for hard-throwing Randy Christy, made use of a variety of breaking pitches to keep the Caledonia batters off stride for the entire game.

The southpaw gave up just two hits — both singles by Kris Ballard — didn't walk a single batter and struck out 14.

The game actually started the night before, but a thunder storm forced the postponement with Owatonna leading 1-0 in the top of the second inning on Dan Hartle's first-inning homer over the left-centerfield fence.

According to a special ruling for district and region tournament competition, the game was resumed at that point Tuesday night.

The Indians, now 15-4, will try to make it two in a row over Rochester John Marshall this season when the two teams tangle in the Region One championship game here Thursday beginning at 3 p.m. Owatonna beat the Rockets 6-3 during the Big Nine Conference season.

Caledonia, which concluded the season with a 14-3 mark under veteran coach Bob Stark, tied the score at 1-1 in the bottom of the second on an unearned run.

Dave Otterson reached on a throwing error by Owatonna's second baseman, Steve Voight, and went to second on the first of Ballard's singles. Both runners moved up on a passed ball, and Otterson charged home when Phil Augsahl tapped the ball out in front of the plate and Herrmann was forced to go to first for the out.

Sophomore righthander Bob Conway blanked the Indians through the second, third and fourth innings. But after Hartle drew a walk in the fifth following a brief dispute over a pitch that Stark felt should have been the third strike, the roof fell in on the District One champs.

Conway threw wildly on a pick-off attempt, allowing Hartle to reach second, Dan Horecka delivered a run-scoring single, Jon Kuntz contributed a double to drive in Horecka and catcher Gary Horport unloaded a two-run homer over the fence in straightaway center.

"We don't want to make any alibis," Stark remarked afterwards. "We just don't see that kind of pitching during the regular season, and Herrmann really had good breaking stuff. His coach said he's usually wild but he sure had control tonight."

Indians forfeit as fans harass players

CLEVELAND (AP) — "It's the closest I've ever seen anybody come to getting killed in my more than 25 years in baseball," Texas Ranger manager Billy Martin said.

The Cleveland Indians and the Rangers tried to play baseball Tuesday night, but the fans ran on the field, threw beer bottles, firecrackers, chairs, wielded knives and started an uncontrollable melee in the ninth inning.

The Indians forfeited the game to the Rangers. The second game of the three-game series is scheduled for tonight.

It was 10-cent beer night at Municipal Stadium. Some 25,134 fans turned out on a warm lakefront night.

Early in the game young fans started running on the field in between innings and were cheered by the crowd. Occasionally a firecracker went off. In the sixth inning a streaker was applauded.

The number of persons running on the field increased each inning, and the Indians kept narrowing the Rangers 5-1 lead.

In the sixth inning Martin removed his bullpen crew from the right field area because of missiles being thrown. Firecrackers were thrown into the Rangers' dugout.

In the ninth inning the Indians tied the score at 5-5 and had bases loaded, when fans again poured out of the right field stands and started harassing Ranger outfielder Jeff Burroughs.

The Rangers came off the bench brandishing baseball bats and headed for right field led by Martin. The Indians came out of the dugout to help their baseball opponents.

"You have to realize that the only thing I had to defend myself with was my fists," Burroughs said. "I was happy to get some help. And I thank the Indians for coming out to help me."

There were player-fan skirmishes all over the field.

Chief umpire Nester Chylak, hit on the head with a chair and his hand cut, said, "We were so scared out there we had made plans for our escape. It was 500-to-one odds, and we could have gotten killed out there very easily." He added: "I saw weapons out there, and I'm sure the only other place you would see something like this happen would be in a zoo."

The last forfeited major league game was the final day of the 1971 season in Washington, D.C., when the Senators were to move to Texas.

Martin called Tribe Manager Ken Aspromonte five minutes after he returned to the dressing room to thank Aspromonte for the help the Indians gave the Rangers.

Aspromonte said the entire team was disgusted with the crowd, and he speculated that the club's attitude might suffer because of it.

"Cleveland may have lost a ballclub tonight," Aspromonte said.

Hospitals reported seven fans were treated for minor injuries. No ballplayers were injured seriously. Indians' pitcher Tom Hilbendorf was hit on the head with a chair, but Indian trainer Paul Warfield said it did not appear serious.

Twins-Red Sox rivalry is like big card game

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Twins and Boston Red Sox rivalry in 1974 resembles an unlucky card player with a blind hand in a high-stakes game.

Boston tripped Minnesota 4-3 in 11 innings Tuesday night in the third straight extra inning game between the two teams.

A brewing storm between the teams heightened Tuesday night when Boston pitcher Bill Lee was warned for throwing at Minnesota's Larry Hisle, who doubled and homered in his first two at bats.

"We don't need that explosive," said Minnesota Manager Frank Quilici. "Things like that just make us want to beat them a little more."

Boston veteran Danny Cater, who had been hitless in his last nine attempts, turned up a trump card for the Red Sox with a game-winning single which chased home Juan Beniquez.

"Cater got right out of bed and got a hit," said Johnson. "His bat's been sick lately."

Cater said he got a high fast ball from Minnesota relief pitcher Bill Campbell.

"One ground ball too late," sighed Campbell. "I had good stuff, but I must've been up a little with that pitch to Cater."

Johnson has named Luis Tiant, 6-5, to face Minnesota's Dave Goltz, 1-0, in tonight's series finale.

Barber beats assistant to gain U.S. Open berth

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Former PGA champion Jerry Barber qualified Tuesday for the U.S. Open Golf championship and he had to beat his assistant to do it.

The 58-year-old Barber won the last spot in the San Francisco sectional qualifying as the final 53 spots in the Open were filled at seven sites across the nation.

Barber was one of seven pros who qualified at the par-71, 6,307-yard San Francisco Golf Club. He defeated Charles Montalano, his assistant at Los Angeles' Griffith Park Golf Club.

Barber had a par five on the first playoff hole. Montalano took a six when he three-putted.

Tom Storey, a former singer and dancer who now serves as head pro at Las Vegas' Fairway to the Stars Golf Club, shot a 36-hole total of 141 to lead the qualifying at San Francisco.

The U.S. Open will be played June 13-16 at Winged Foot Golf Club in Mamaroneck, N.Y. Twenty players in the 150-man field, including defending Open champion Johnny Miller, were exempt from qualifying.

Dewitt Weaver, 34, a tour veteran whose biggest victory was in the 1971 U.S. Match Play championship, coasted to a seven-under-par 137 to pace qualifiers at Atlanta. He fired rounds of 68 and 69.

Denny Lyons turned in a second-round 70 and was the only golfer to break par as he led six qualifiers at Pittsburgh.

Lyons, who finished 20th in last year's Open, fired a 143 over the 7,066-yard, par-72 course.

Also qualifying at Pittsburgh was 51-year-old former U.S. Amateur Champion William Campbell of Huntington, W.Va.

Andy Nusbaum, a former tour regular who now is club pro at Sitawan in Bronxville, N.Y., shot a three-under-par 140 to pace sectional qualifying at Deal, N.J.

Kansas City pro Bob Stone, 43, shot a one-over par 145 to lead the sectional qualifying at St. Louis.

NFL's going to Seattle; 30-team loop possible

NEW YORK (AP) — Seattle is the newest member of the growing National Football League family and Commissioner Pete Rozelle promises more action, some of it possibly in present NFL cities that also have fledgling World Football League clubs.

Seattle got the 28th NFL franchise, carrying with it the healthy initiation tab of $16 million, on the owners' Tuesday, and joins Tampa, added in April. Both teams are scheduled to begin playing in 1976 although that timetable could be moved up one year, according to Rozelle.

Seattle was selected over

Phoenix, Honolulu and Memphis but the losers aren't out of the NFL picture yet. The commissioner said their bids will remain under consideration.

"I wouldn't expect another city to be added this week," said Rozelle, but he added the expansion committee would explore it.

"Future expansion is a totally open deck," he said. "We are not restricting ourselves from going into any city, including current NFL cities. There are no limitations on the cities considered. New York, Chicago and Los Angeles were on our original list as NFL cities to be considered for additional franchises."

Two of those cities have franchises in the WFL and the third, Los Angeles, is home base for the WFL's Southern California club.

"Going from 28 to 30 clubs is probably the next logical step," said Rozelle. Asked if he would favor moving into a city that already had a WFL team, Rozelle said, "Sure, I might be. It depends on the circumstances."

Seattle currently has a new domed stadium under construction.

"It is the 16th largest market in the country and falls into the NFL schedule for the largest cities in the country," said the commissioner. "It is the only part of the country in which we didn't have a franchise."

Rozelle said that the vote to accept Seattle, the lone city recommended by the expansion committee, was not unanimous.

He said the Seattle and Tampa franchises might not be placed in any conference at once. "We're keeping our options open," he said. "We might float them for a year or two. Alignment is a tedious process."

No ownership decision was announced.

In Memphis, Mayor Wyeth Chandler said that the failure of the National Football League to grant the city an expansion franchise Tuesday justifies an earlier decision to welcome a World Football League team.

Gabrielson now U.S.'s hope in British Amateur

MURFIELD, Scotland (AP) — Jim Gabrielson seemed surprised when someone suggested he might win the 1974 British Amateur Golf Championship.

The U.S. Walker Cup star from Atlanta, paused for a moment and then modestly said: "Oh, I don't know. I've been playing quite well recently. But I don't know."

Gabrielson was suddenly the big hope of the United States after reaching Wednesday's third round with an explosive surge of five birdies to beat Scotland's Morrison Zull 6 and 5.

The reputation of the seeding committee of the royal and ancient club has been blown away on Muirfield's windy 6,862-yard par-71 links.

Experts had predicted Dick Siterow would go into the record books by winning this match play prize for the second straight year. But a virtually unknown Scot, 23-year-old Mike Miller, upset the top-seeded stockbroker from Westport, Conn., by one hole in the second round.

Gabrielson faced William Trowley of Dallas in an all-American third-round match.

Aaron hits 731st HR

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hank Aaron has become, once and for all, major league baseball's all-time leading home run hitter.

Aaron slugged the 16th grand slam homer of his career—a National League record—against the Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday night, leading the Atlanta Braves to a 7-3 triumph.

It was the 731st home run of his career, counting regular season, post-season and All-Star games, breaking a tie with Ruth for the all-time lead.

"Jeez, I thought I broke the record last month," said Aaron, with a smile. Then he added, "Now they can start interviewing the guy who is chasing me."

The Atlanta superstar said he hoped things would calm down a little now, and he could get back to thinking about baseball.

"My concentration hasn't been good," he said. "I've been thinking about celebrations and speeches and how to talk to the politicians."

He has only 29 hits this season but has driven in 29 runs.

Brewers snap streak with 7th-inning rally

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Kevin Kobel started, Ed Rodriguez got the win but Tom Murphy did the job for the Milwaukee Brewers Tuesday night.

The Brewers snapped a three-game losing streak by battling back for a 4-3 victory over the California Angels but the win seemed in doubt in the top of the eighth inning.

Murphy, Milwaukee's third pitcher, relieved Rodriguez with the bases full and only one out. Murphy's second pitch was promptly bounced into a double play ball to end the inning. He got the Angels out in order in the ninth for his fifth save.

Rodriguez got the side out in the sixth and seventh before he ran into trouble and Murphy had to bail him out. Rodriguez, now 4-0, Murphy and Kobel rank 1-2-3 in earned run averages on the Brewers' pitching staff.

Bill Singer, who went all the way for the Angels, is now 7-4. He allowed only one run, in the second on a pair of singles and a stolen base, until the Brewers got to him in the seventh.

Trailing 3-1, Milwaukee's three run rally began with a double by Mike Hegan and a single by Bob Coluccio to put runners on first and third.

Rivermen drub Augusta 27-1

ALMA, Wis. — Alma scored eight runs in the third inning and eight more in the fourth and trounced Augusta 27-1 in a Dairyland Conference game played here Tuesday night.

Lee Scharr led the Rivermen with three hits, including a double and a triple. Jerry Hoch had a single and two doubles and Mike Abts also had three hits.

Alma, 1-1, will be in Alma Center Thursday night for another conference game with Lincoln.

Buckskins move into first place

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Buckskins moved into first place in the Gulf-Plains section of World Team Tennis Tuesday night with a 25-20 victory over the Baltimore Banners.

The Buckskins are now 10-6 in the Gulf-Plains Section, one-half game ahead of second-place Houston.

The Buckskins survived a 6-0 loss in women's doubles by winning the other four sets.

Ann Hayden Jones beat Baltimore's Joyce Williams Hume 6-3 in women's singles and Minnesota's Bob Hewitt beat Baltimore's Bob Carmichael 6-4.

In men's doubles, Minnesota's Owen Davidson and Bob Hewitt beat Ian Crookenden and Byron Bertram 7-5.

It was Minnesota's 9th victory in its last 12 matches.
