Legislature Votes to End Discrimination

For the second time in its 28 year history, the non-discrimination bill was signed into law. Provided the law remains on the books, unlike in 1997, it will go a long way toward ending discrimination against LGBT people in jobs, housing, education, credit and public accommodations.

Governor Baldacci signed the bill on March 31 and as he dotted the “i” in his name said, “It’s the law.” Although the group gathered for the signing was only big enough to fill a room, his words were heard around the state. Those words will undoubtedly be repeated and celebrated often when we finally uphold the law—which we fully expect to do this time. The long-awaited celebration will take place around June 28 (the day 50,519 signatures are due to the Secretary of State’s office) or around November 8 (election day).

For more information on the presumed upcoming People’s Veto of LD 1196, see pages 4 & 9.

Our goal going into the session was to pass the non-discrimination bill (later titled LD 1196, An Act to Extend Civil Rights Protections to All People Regardless of Sexual Orientation) without a referendum attached. The goal to not send it to referendum was especially challenging for two reasons: Maine voters had twice rejected this same law and the November 2004 elections had seemingly weakened support across the country for LGBT rights.

Many legislators said they supported the bill but only if it went to voters for ratification. While several of these legislators honestly supported ending discrimination against LGBT people (provided voters backed them up), some used this approach as a way to play to voters on both sides of the issue. Sending it to voters didn’t necessarily indicate one way or another whether a legislator supported the bill, but given that defeating it outright was improbable, their next best option was sending it to the voters.

Governor Baldacci signs LD 1196 into law on March 31, 2005 declaring, “It’s the law.” Unlike the bill signed in 1997 by Governor Angus King, this law will be upheld.

Register Your Domestic Partnership at Pride

Haven't registered your domestic partnership with the state of Maine yet? Well, here's your chance to do it efficiently and with pride.

EqualityMaine will provide notary publics at the Pride festival in Portland on June 18. To qualify, couples need to have lived together for at least 12 months and expect to remain the sole domestic partner to each other. Also, neither partner may be married to, or in a domestic partnership with, another individual.

Please bring with you proof of residency. For fun, you might want to bring a camera. Although it's just a piece of paper and the benefits are far from those of marriage, there's something very special about legalizing one's partnership.

The cost to register is $35, but you pay this when you send the notarized form into the Office of Vital Records in Augusta. You will not need any money at Pride to get your form notarized.

For more information about the domestic partner registry and how to register if you cannot do so at Pride, visit EqualityMaine's website at www.equalitymaine.org and click on Maine's statewide DP Registry. •

2005 LGBT Legislative Scorecard

In the last issue of the newsletter, we outlined our legislative agenda, commenting on bills that we were supporting and opposing. Here's an update on those bills as they've wound their way through the legislative process.

EqualityMaine Supported the Following Bills:

PASSED.....LD 1196, An Act to Extend Civil Rights Protections to All People Regardless of Sexual Orientation. The bill currently sits in limbo as the Christian Civic League attempts to collect enough signatures to put it out to a People's Veto. They have until June 28 to submit 50,519 valid signatures. In the meantime, EqualityMaine is working very closely with Maine Won't Discriminate to ensure we have a strong foundation for a winning campaign. More on pages 4 & 5.

PASSED..... LD 19, An Act to Clarify the Law Regarding Transfer Tax Liability for Deeds Between Domestic Partners, sponsored by Rep. Edward Mazurek (D-Rockland). This bill now includes domestic partners in the real estate transfer tax exemption for deeds between certain family members. To qualify, couples must be registered as domestic partners through Maine's domestic partner registry. For more info on the registry, go to www.equality-maine.org, and click on Maine's statewide DP registry on the front page.

Board president Rodney Mondor (right) and Board member Shannon Banks attended Equality Forum's 40th anniversary of the GLBT Civil Rights Movement in Philadelphia on May 1. Amid networking, state receptions, and seminars, they also managed to mingle and have fun.

WITHDRAWN..... LR 21, An Act to Repeal the Prohibition of Same-Sex Marriage, sponsored by Senator Ethan Strimling (D-Portland). This bill would have repealed the Defense of Marriage Act (DOMA) passed in 1997 that defines marriage as one man and one woman. The bill was withdrawn due to the realization that the Christian Civic League was inappropriately linking the non-discrimination bill directly to marriage, and that support for marriage, especially during a People's Veto, was minimal.

WITHDRAWN..... LR 991, An Act to Legalize Same-Sex Marriage, sponsored by Rep. Brian Duprey (R-Hampden). This bill was disingenuous because it was submitted by a right-wing, anti-gay conservative legislator who vehemently opposed it. He withdrew it when his tactic to draw us into a conversation about marriage on their terms (to then say, "See, we told you all they want is marriage") backfired.

Voter ID—A Winning Strategy for Referendum Campaign

Over the past year, EqualityMaine has worked hard to convey a very specific message—if we are to achieve full LGBT equality, we must build long-term political power. Political power is built by identifying our supporters, increasing our number of supporters, and then turning them out in an election.

Through our voter identification project, volunteers have worked toward this goal by talking to thousands of people in 17 door-to-door canvasses. They've talked to thousands more at events like the Common Ground Country Fair, Southern Maine Pride, and polling places on election day. They've talked with members of the faith community in 12 different churches about conducting their own voter identification efforts within their congregations.

One of our greatest challenges has been conveying a sense of urgency for doing voter ID at a level comparable to a campaign, when there was no campaign in sight. Why the urgency? If we wait until a campaign begins, there is not enough time to identify the number of voters needed to win. It's a lesson our community around the country is learning the hard way. Every losing campaign says their biggest regret is not starting this work earlier.

In the first 12 months of voter ID, our volunteers talked one-on-one with 7,114 voters and found that 6,613 of them support a non-discrimination law. In the next five months—if we are in a campaign—we need to talk one-on-one with at least 92,886 voters. The need for urgency is now obvious.

We achieved a hard-sought victory in March when the Maine Legislature passed the non-discrimination bill and did so as leaders—by doing what they were elected to do and not simply sending it to referendum. When Governor Baldacci signed the bill into law on March 31, declaring “It's the law,” we applauded our elected officials. Yet we knew it was far too early to celebrate.

Later, just yards from where the governor had signed the bill, we stood in silent protest as Michael Heath and his supporters kicked off a signature petition drive to overturn the law that had been signed only two hours earlier.

As we get closer to the June 28 deadline for submitting signatures (they need 50,519), every voter we identify as a supporter cancels out one of their signatures. If we out-organize our opponents—by identifying our supporters and then turning them out on election day—we will do more than win in November. We will have begun to build real long-term political power so that we can render useless the anti-LGBT ballot measures of which the Christian Civic League is so fond.

To get involved, contact Darlene Huntress at dhuntress@equalitymaine.org, 761-1001 (office), or 749-4628 (cell). •

EqualityMaine hosted its biennial LGBT Exposition at the State House on May 18. LGBT, HIV/AIDS, and allied groups were invited to display information about their services and programs. Here, Howard Solomon stands in front of the traveling exhibition “Charlie Howard, Twenty Years Later: How Far Has Maine Come,” created by Howard of the LGBT Archives at USM and Stephen Wessler of the Center for the Prevention of Hate Violence.

Also at the LGBT Exposition at the State House were Transcare 2000, providing nursing services to transgender people, directed by Marty Hagglund (center) and Transgender Advocacy for Maine, offering education and training on transgender issues, directed by PJ Mears (right). Along with Joan, they talk about their services and programs to a gentleman in the State House.

EqualityMaine Opposed the Following Bills:

DEFEATED.....LD 1294, RESOLUTION, Proposing an Amendment to the Constitution of Maine To Define Marriage, sponsored by Rep. Brian Duprey (R-Hampden). This bill would have amended Maine's constitution to define marriage as one man and one woman, but would have had potentially far reaching consequences for domestic partner benefits and other benefits that unmarried couples currently receive.

For instance, it was assumed that it would have voided all inheritance and funeral & burial rights now provided through the domestic partner registry and domestic partner health insurance policies provided through insurance companies in Maine.

DEFEATED.....LD 908, An Act to Protect Homosexuals from Discrimination, sponsored by Rep. Brian Duprey (R-Hampden). This was an anti-choice abortion bill designed to drive a wedge between groups that have worked together to protect and defend a woman's right to choose and eliminate bias based on sexual orientation. The bill stated that if a fetus was determined to have a "gay gene" (which doesn't even exist), then it would be illegal to abort it. EqualityMaine supports a woman's right to make her own reproductive decisions. The bill was reported out of Judiciary Committee with a unanimous Ought Not to Pass. It never even made to the floor for debate.

DEFEATED.....LD 1488, An Act To Give Parents Control over the Sex Education of Their Children, sponsored by Rep. Brian Duprey (R-Hampden). The bill would have changed the current "opt out" policy for family life education to an "opt in" policy for students. The net result of the bill would have been to deter schools from teaching family life education and add more stigma to sex education. Family Life Education may be the only safe environment for LGBT youth to discuss sexuality issues and mandating an "opt in" policy could have been devastating for LGBT youth living in homophobic homes. The bill was defeated in the House by 79-60 and there was no roll call vote in the Senate.

DEFEATED.....LD 1639, An Act To Allow Abstinence To Be Offered as an Alternative Education Program for Grades 7 to 12, sponsored by Senator Lois Snowe-Mello (R-Androscoggin County). This bill allows the governing body of a school to choose to offer 'abstinence-only-until-marriage' education for grades 7 to 12 in place of or in addition to any comprehensive family life education that takes place in a school. Abstinence-only-until-marriage programs leave no room from healthy, safe discussions around sexual orientation. The bill was defeated in the House by 86-55 and in the Senate by 25-9.

Thank you to Moose Ridge Associates for the success of our legislative priorities. •

The amendment to send the bill to referendum, as happened in 2000, was defeated in the House by a margin of 76-74. In the Senate, the amendment was soundly defeated 22-13. These 76 representatives and 22 senators are current heroes of this decades-long struggle for non-discrimination protection. See pages 10, 11, 13, and 14 for this list of 98 legislators. Please take a moment to thank them for their support.

Once it was settled that the bill would not be sent to referendum by the legislature, several more legislators lined up in support of the bill—but not before Rep. Brian Duprey (R-Hampden) attempted to amend the bill several times. Fortunately, each and every amendment was soundly defeated. His amendments included:

- Removing trans inclusive language and defining sexual orientation as “homosexual” only.
- Making it legal for employers to ask the sexual orientation of its employees.
- Restricting bathrooms and locker room facilities to those appropriate to one’s gender at birth.
- If a person brings a discrimination case to the Maine Human Rights Commission and loses, he/she must pay for all attorneys fees for both parties.

- Exempting religious organizations more than they are for other groups protected in the Maine Human Rights Act.

The final vote in the House was 91-58 and in the Senate was 25-10. See pages 13 and 14 for the final roll call votes.

In addition to the vast thank yous to Governor Baldacci for having the courage to stand on principle while being harshly criticized by the Christian Civic League, many legislators are to be commended for their support. At the top of the list are sponsors of the bill, Senator Karl Turner (R-Cumberland) and Rep. Anne Perry (D-Calais). Select members of the Judiciary Committee, whose commitment to ending discrimination evolved to strong leadership within the committee and on floor debates, include Senate Chair Barry Hobbins (D-York), House Chair Deb Pelletier-Simpson (D-Auburn) and Rep. Sean Faircloth (D-Bangor).

Many thanks to Daryl Fort and Kurt Adams of the Governor's office, whose vision for justice and equality played a major role in passing this historic legislation. Thanks also to the experienced lobbying services of Moose Ridge Associates—Betsy Sweet, Karen Geraghty, John Hennessy, and Kate Simmons.

It would be impossible to thank every volunteer who had a hand in passing the non-discrimination bill, given that we generated over 1,800 contacts with legislators through emails, letters, faxes, phone calls, personal visits, and lobbying at the State House. But some people deserve recognition for the extraordinary efforts they contributed to the process.

Huge thanks once again to Pat Peard, Mary Bonauto, Brenda Buchanan, and Matthew Dubois for their legal and political prowess. Thanks also to Kimm Collins, and to Carisa Cunningham, Rick Dunn, and Alex Wood at Gay & Lesbian Advocates & Defenders.

For their personal testimony at the public hearing, we thank Brad Nadeau, Martin Ripley, George O'Brien, Debbie McBride, Hall Willkie & Thomas Craveiro, Marty Hagglund, Michele Duval, Adam Flanders, Betsy Sweet, and Megan Hannan.

Many volunteers helped us at the State House and in other ways as well. They include: Julie Bedard, Kim Berry, Jim Bishop, Tom Bulger, Amanda Burns, Jenn Curran, Sue Deliberto, Sarah Demarest, Eli Edgcomb, Jane Edwards, Jamie Gibson, Corey Hascall, Laura Harper, Lindsay Harriman, Zach Heiden, Kit Hildebrandt, Denise Harlow, Dee Hutchins, Lauren Waiting for the work session to begin on LD 1196 are, from L to R, John Hennessy and Karen Geraghty of Moose Ridge Associates; Daryl Fort, Governor Baldacci's Director of Community Development; Thom Harnett, Assistant Attorney General and Director of the Civil Rights Team Project; and Mary Bonauto, Civil Rights Project Director at GLAD and key member of EqualityMaine's 2005 legislative committee.

Pam McCann of the Maine Speakout Project lobbies legislators during EqualityMaine's lobby day on LD 1196. We generated over 1800 contacts with legislators through emails, faxes, letters, phone calls, and in-person lobbying.

Matthew Small and Eli Young from the University of Maine speak with Senator Barry Hobbins of York County during lobby day for LD 1196. Senator Hobbins is co-chair of the Judiciary Committee and displayed strong leadership for ending discrimination.

Maine Won't Discriminate Laying Strong Foundation

Maine Won't Discriminate, the campaign to defeat a People's Veto of the non-discrimination bill, is not waiting until June 28 to build an infrastructure or plan a winning strategy. Although the work could be for naught if the Christian Civic League doesn't submit 50,519 valid signatures by June 28, MWD is taking no chances. In fact, the campaign began long before the non-discrimination bill was even signed into law.

MWD is not running a "decline to sign" campaign to prevent the Christian Civic League from collecting signatures. They are instead planning an all-out campaign that ends on election day 2005. If you haven't seen much of them yet, it's because a good campaign has a strong foundation, and that's what they've been building for the last several months.

If the Christian Civic League submits their signatures on June 28, expect to soon see Maine Won't Discriminate on every progressive's car bumper.

EqualityMaine's efforts over the past year to identify pro-LGBT voters is melding nicely with MWD's field plan. Both organizations are committed to building long-term political power so that we can be successful in both legislative and referenda campaigns.

MWD has hired Jesse Connolly as its campaign manager and former Maine Republican Party chair Ted O'Meara as campaign consultant.

Maine Won't Discriminate's website is www.mainewontdiscriminate.com. Please sign up and be part of this historic effort to secure non-discrimination protection for LGBT people in Maine. •

Q: What's even more fun than canvassing for voters or holding signs at the State House?

A: Hiking and biking with EqualityMaine at Bradbury Mountain!

Join Erica, Darlene and others from EqualityMaine in hitting the road or the trail at MaineShare's annual fundraising Hike & Bike this September.

Bradbury Mountain State Park is located in Pownal, near Freeport and just a few miles off Exit 22 of I-295. For hikers, the park offers several diverse trails with the Bradbury Mountain peak a fine location for viewing hawks, mountains to the west, and water views to the east. For bikers, the day offers three different touring rides of 100K, 50K and 25K as well as the popular trails in the park for mountain biking. The event is family-friendly, with music and great food for all participants.

It's easy to participate:

1. Mark September 18 on your calendar and get out your hiking shoes or your bike.
2. Ask six friends, co-workers or family members to each donate $10 to support you in the Hike & Bike. Your $60 registration fee benefits MaineShare and all its 36 member organizations (including EqualityMaine) working for social justice in Maine.
3. Email Erica Quin-Easter at quineast@equalitymaine.org or call us at (207) 761-3732 to let us know you'll be joining the EqualityMaine team. We'll send you a Hike & Bike registration form, and we'll see you at the mountain!
