ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I am immensely grateful to God Almighty for being with me and giving me the enablement to complete this study successfully.

I thank God for the life of the Chancellor of Covenant University, Dr. David Oyedepo for giving him the inspiration to put up a University of world class standard for the purpose of impacting and transforming lives, building a generation of men and women embedded with the mentality of spirituality, possibility, competence, integrity, responsibility diligence and sacrifice. I also thank the Vice Chancellor Prof A. A. A. Atayero for working out channels for the progress of students of Covenant University. I thank the Deputy Vice Counsellor Prof. S. Chinedu, the Registrar Dr. Olumuyiwa Oludayo, the Dean School of Post Graduate Studies Prof. Samuel Wara, the Secretary school of post graduate studies Mr. Philips John Ainokhai and the Dean of College of Leadership Development studies Prof. A. Alao. I sincerely thank the Head of Psychology Department Dr.G.O. Adejumo for his supportiveness and encouragement throughout the duration of this study, I thank him for always making his door open to all of us and for proffering solutions to our questions and anxieties.

My special and profound gratitude goes to my supervisor Dr .S.O. Adeusi, who I cannot thank enough for her directions, patience, effortlessness, painstaking efforts, support, encouragement and prayers in bringing out the success of this work. I pray God rewards her abundantly and give her good success in every area of her life.

I thank Prof. O. A. Adekeye who built confidence in me at the inception of the study through his warm acceptance and words of encouragement. I also thank him for his in-depth suggestions and counsels throughout the research duration. My thanks goes to Prof. A. Alao for always being there as a supportive father to all who come his way. I thank Prof. M. Gesinde for the necessary ‘motivational push’ to get the work done without delay. I say a very big thank you to all our resourceful and amiable lecturers in no particular order, Dr E. Evbuoma, Dr Igbokwe, Dr. A. Odukoya, Dr. Elegbeleye, Dr. Olowokere and Dr. B.C. Aghoha under whose tutelage I passed in the course of this study and of whose input into the study I benefited. I also thank the Admin. Officer, Miss Tope Akinrinade and Mrs. A. Odeseyi for their valuable assistance at all times.

I am obliged to Dr I. Obigbemi of the Accounting department who was instrumental to the embankment on the journey of this study. Indeed, she has been God sent on this journey. She contributed her time, energy, resources, encouragement and prayers to mention but a few to see that I complete this study successfully. I pray God would continue to be especially mindful of her in all her good desires. I appreciate all my course mates in the psychology department especially our able course representative, Mrs. S. Okunlola who made access to departmental information very easy and served as a coordinating bridge between students, lecturers and the department. God bless you all. To all my friends, thank you for your patience and moral support. Mr. Okorie Uchechukwu, thanks for your statistical inputs in this study. To those who contributed in one way or the other to the success of this study who I have not mentioned, I appreciate you all. The good Lord Himself will reward you.

Finally, I thank my immediate family members for their love, perseverance, encouragement and financial support as I worked from the initial stage to the final stage of this study. I could not have sailed through without all of you. I appreciate you all and my prayer is that God will reward you. Thank you all.

ABSTRACT

Fewer persons in modern times are opting for marriage. Ironically, stability in marriage culminates in stable and productive society. The study examined psychosocial factors determining stability among couples. 332 participants, (133 males and 199 females) were selected from Lagos and Ogun States using convenient sampling method. Descriptive survey research design was adopted and the instrument used titled Psychosocial Factors of Marital Stability Questionnaire (PFMSQ) was developed by the researcher. The instrument consists of 4 sections (A – Demography, B – Communication scale, C – Marital Stability scale, and D – Open-ended questions). Four null hypotheses were raised and tested using descriptive and inferential statistic at 0.05 significant level. Hypothesis 1 was tested with logistic regression and hypotheses 2, 3 and 4 were tested with multiple regression. The findings from the tested hypotheses revealed that the combination of communication, age of spouse, and length of marriage predicted marital stability at  $F_{(3,328)} = 93.534$ ;  $p = 0.05$ ; communication and marital stability revealed at  $F_{(1,330)} = 280.79$ ;  $p = 0.05$ ; age of spouse predicted marital stability at  $F_{(1,330)} = 3.292$ ;  $p = 0.10$  and length of marriage predicted marital stability at  $F_{(1,330)} = 4.391$ ;  $p = 0.05$ . The 4 null hypotheses were thus rejected. The study concluded that communication, age of spouse and length of marriage determine marital stability. It is therefore recommended that government across the 3 tiers (local, state, and federal), non-governmental organizations, marriage counselors / therapists, the family and society at large should promote programmes that would enhance marital stability which would give rise to a healthy society.
