The African Studies Companion: A Resource Guide and Directory

Hans M. Zell and Cecile Lomer, 1997. The African Studies Companion: A Resource Guide and Directory. 2nd revised and expanded edition. Hans Zell Publishers, London. xi + 292 pp. Bibliography and index. $85.00 (cloth).

This reference volume provides annotated listings of major reference tools, including current bibliographies and continuing sources; journals and magazines; major libraries; publishers with African studies lists; dealers and distributors of African studies materials; the major regional and international organizations. Accordingly, it is an incredibly useful and important research tool.

The volume is arranged in 11 sections, carefully broken into subsections according to geography and specialization. Section I brings together a large number of key reference tools, primarily in English, organized from a broad international perspective.

While at $85.00 the volume is perhaps an extravagance for an individual researcher, it would make a useful addition to any institutional collection.
