Mission

This dialogue was designed to provide a space for Dégagé patrons, staff, and volunteers to share their stories, prioritize key values, and identify a broad range of possible interventions for housing and homelessness in Grand Rapids.

Vision

Collaboratively design, facilitate, summarize, and widely disseminate a community dialogue around issue(s) of homelessness and housing in Grand Rapids.

Values

- Motivate Community Involvement
- Bottom-up Dialogic Engagement
- Reciprocity and Mutuality
- Grand Rapids Resident, Dégagé Staff, & Student Empowerment
- Increased understanding of community members through empathetic listening

Project Introduction

This community dialogue was designed to identify current gaps in responses to homelessness in Grand Rapids as well as options for addressing those gaps. Given the feedback received, this report focuses on (1) mentorship programs similar to the aftercare program at Dégagé, (2) facilitated housing, and (3) ideas for fostering social connectedness.

Through primary and secondary research as well as an analysis of our dialogue, our team was able to identify key areas of need in the fight for consistent, stable housing. Below you will find an outline of those ideas, more theoretical research on the subject, and data on homelessness/home-finding in general.

The results will be shared with Dégagé, Seeds of Promise, nonprofit leaders, Grand Rapids businesses and openly published so any interested stakeholders can access the lessons learned.

Report Findings:

Defining a Home:

First, we find it beneficial to note that 'home' was defined by our dialogue participants (students, patrons, and employees of Dégagé) as a place where they feel safe and comfortable to be themselves.

Affordable Housing:

Dialogue participants collectively noted that affordable housing does not exist for many low-income persons. Section 8 housing is available, but for those with no disabilities, the housing market in Grand Rapids is far too competitive.

Proposed solution: Petitions for more low-income, non-Section 8 housing

Dégagé as Home:

Patrons have a sense of home at Dégagé, therefore it is a naturally trying process to leave.

Proposed solutions:

1. Increase Mentorship: Given that mentorship programs have shown great success in aiding in the transition of patrons into permanent housing, we propose efforts to increase mentors and raise awareness will be particularly effective strategies for reintegration. For example, at this time, Dégagé has only one male mentor (after-care helper) to assist far too many individuals attempting the difficult transition.
2. Increase Awareness: There must also be greater awareness and understanding of the productivity of mentors. Without them, the number of persons who remain on the streets or end up back on the streets after failed attempts to re-integrate into permanent housing is much greater. Mentors are a key factor in increasing the number of persons successfully re-integrated.
3. Consider House facilitators as an additional half-step between living on the streets and permanent, independent housing. The implementation of a community house/cluster of homes where there are affordable rooms, apartments, or small homes available. Bring a facilitator or mentor specifically for that cluster to assist in the day-to-day needs of the participants as they transition.

Conclusion

From our previous research and our dialogue with patrons and staff at Dégagé we have found that the two main needs to be filled are mentorship for the transition process (particularly for those patrons who do not qualify for Section 8 housing or additional government aid), and intentional, structured, and facilitated community-building in the area where the housing is. These interventions could alleviate the sense of isolation common in individuals attempting to gain independence.

Additional Research:

General statistics from 2015:

- There are 86,189 homeless persons in Michigan.
- More than half of homeless persons in families are children.
- 69 percent of homeless Michigan families are single mothers with children.
- The average age of a homeless adult is 32.7 years old.
- The average age of a homeless child is 7.6 years old.

In West Michigan (Region 4) there were nearly 20,000 individuals experiencing homelessness in 2014.

Further Issues Identified:

1. Medical conditions: conditions like diabetes are hard to manage with some types of food that are commonly served in shelters.
2. Sexual Assault: some patrons are victims of sexual assault which requires a greater level of training by staff for counseling purposes. This is just one of the many issues that makes finding qualified mentors so difficult.
3. Trust: Building trust in the staff and facilities is a major issue when encouraging potential patrons to use the services.
4. Transportation: Transportation is a barrier for many who are homeless, and increased options for assistance are desired.

Possible Opportunities and Solutions:

Supportive Assistance, no-cost housing programs like Housing First have been successful in various cities nationwide, saving the municipalities tens of thousands of dollars in emergency-care, law enforcement, sanitation, and other related costs of unattended homelessness.

Transitional Assistance for those gaining a permanent residence but losing their support community helps individuals maintain a sense of belonging and attachment to their friends and supporters. In-home checks provide psychological comfort, and 'pay it back' programs keep individuals connected to others, while fostering a sense of dignity and pride in their ability to return something of value to the community.
