Adlai And Estes Plan Big Tour Of 32 States

By TOM NELSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO, Aug. 27 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver set out on a barnstorming tour today to gather campaign momentum from Democrats in 34 states.

The Democratic presidential nominee and his running mate were scheduled to take off from Midway Airport this morning on a four-day whirlwind trip to set the stage for their campaign.

Their chartered plane headed first for Santa Fe, N.M., where Democrats from seven Southwestern states gathered for a huddle with the candidates late today.

To Run, Friday

From Santa Fe, the candidates will fly to Vancouver, Wash., Tuesday and then to Sioux City, Iowa, Wednesday, and Knoxville, Tenn., Thursday, for similar meetings. They will return to Chicago for a session Friday.

Stevenson said the idea of the tour was to "make sure we strike together in hammering home the great issues of 1956." His campaign manager, James A. Finnegan, said the trip would lay the foundation for "the greatest grass roots campaign of all times."

Congressmen, governors and others high in party circles were invited to the parties. They will be closed to the public and press, presumably so that anyone with complaints will feel free to voice them.

Aides said that Stevenson might brief the press after each meeting on what transpired.

Stimm Named Chairman

John Simms, governor of New Mexico, was named chairman of today's Santa Fe conference. New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Wyoming, Arkansas and Arizona sent representatives.

A score of staff members and many newsmen accompanied Stevenson. The Stevenson staff included Finnegan, who fathered the tour idea, and F. Joseph "Jiggs" Donahue, Kefauver's campaign manager.

A hint that the state of the party's treasury may be a key topic at the conference came from two names on the passenger list—Matt McCloskey, Philadelphia, Pa., treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, and Roger Stevens of New York, treasurer of the Stevenson-Kefauver Campaign Committee.

Gas Installation Regulations Have To Be Strict Says Bryan

Regulations concerning the installation and repair of piping leading to natural gas appliances are strict Jack Bryan, Superintendent of the Murray Gas System said today.

"They have to be, 'of a necessity' he said, because of the possible danger involved in a faulty installation.

The merchants or plumbers who install gas appliances, Bryan said, should have a city license and the also under both performance bond and liability insurance.

"The wording of the city ordinance regulating appliance installations, rules out a home owner doing the work himself, he said, because of the stiff requirements needed to obtain a license.

The section dealing with installation is as follows: City Ordinance 274, Section 3, Property Owners Responsibility: "No person shall cause or permit, any installation, construction, reconstruction or repair of any gas house piping in the City of Murray and its Gas Service Territory, before test person so doing the work shall have first obtained a permit from the inspector to do same; and the mere fact that said work has been done shall be considered sufficient to hold and render said property amenable to this rule."

Bryan said that four steps are necessary before a permit to install a job will be granted.

The applicant must take a written test at the Murray Gas Company office.

He must obtain a $2,000 performance bond and a $50,000 liability insurance policy (if his company does not already have liability insurance, in which case he should obtain an endorsement to his present liability policy) and submit this evidence to the city clerk at the city hall.

The applicant then obtains a city license from C. B. Grogan, City Clerk, to install gas piping and gas appliances in buildings in Murray and its service territory.

The last of the four steps is to take the plans for the installation drawn in black ink to the Murray Gas Company office and secure a permit on each job.

With these strict regulations, Bryan said, all citizens can be assured of top quality work, no leakage and safe installation. Each installation is checked out by the installer and then tested in the presence of the Murray Gas System inspector. Only then is the OK tag placed on the installation and the gas meter installed.

Bryan urged everyone to cooperate in these regulations.

Paducah Bombing Points Toward Labor Troubles

PADUCAH, Aug. 27 (AP)—The FBI Laboratory today checked possible clues to the bomb slaying of band leader Vivian Chaudet after police here questioned a suspect in the case.

Chief of Detectives Tilghman Tade disclosed that a suspect was questioned this weekend but declined to reveal the person's identity or his testimony.

Chaudet, 41, a wholesale produce salesman and dance orchestra pianist, was fatally injured when a bomb exploded under the front seat of his car early Saturday morning.

Metal fragments from the bomb and other evidence have been sent to the FBI crime laboratory for possible clues to the identity of the assassin.

Chaudet apparently triggered the bomb as he slid into the front seat of his car since the ignition key was found, clutched in his hand.

A neighbor called police who reported the explosion.

Ike To Begin Campaign The Middle Of September

President Eisenhower, contrary to most opinions, will start slugging at the Democrats about the middle of next month.

Mr. Eisenhower had been expected to withhold his heavy political firepower until sometime in October, but according to his press secretary, James C. Hagerty, the chief executive will make his move about Sept. 15.

Mr. Eisenhower was expected to remain here at least until Wednesday morning and fly back to Washington for a quick series of conferences with top GOP political chiefs, then leave for a week end at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm sometime Friday.

Mr. Eisenhower Sunday:

1. Announced that Russia had resumed testing nuclear weapons. He said in conjunction with Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission that the Russians on Aug. 24 tested a nuclear weapon of "less than a megaton" power in southwest Siberia.
2. The President and Mrs. Eisenhower visited the historic Catholic mission in nearby Carmel, then worshipped at the Carmel Presbyterian church.
3. The Chief Executive played golf during the afternoon on the Cypress Point course and finished with a "paper" score of about 90, playing the best golf since his June 9 1955 tour.

Hagerty's estimation of the campaign, however, was somewhat different and pending definite word back in Washington, it looks like Mr. Eisenhower would campaign more extensively than originally planned.

Major Speech Soon

His first major campaign speech probably will be sometime about Labor Day, Sept. 3. Whether the speech is made from Washington remains to be announced.

Reportedly, according to a named television interview on "Reporters Roundup," said the President is "no longer a convalescent." He said the Chief Executive's campaign will not be restricted in any way by his health.

Asked if the President would campaign in states where Republicans might need help, Hagerty said: "As far as I will go on that, I will say areas rather than states."

This indicated that Mr. Eisenhower may go to key cities for speeches and even some train platform or airport appearances in regions where the GOP ticket is having tough sledding.

Originally Mr. Eisenhower had planned only a half-dozen or so television speeches during the fall campaign. But GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall modified this recently to say the President might do some travelling, although he ruled out a "whistle-stop" campaign.

Russ Explosion Guided Missile

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 (AP)—Government experts speculated today on whether the recent Russian nuclear explosion was part of a guided missile test.

President Eisenhower announced Sunday that the Soviet Union had set off a "nuclear device" in southwest Siberia on Aug. 24. However, he did not say whether it had been a hydrogen bomb.

Speculation that the Russians had used a nuclear device as a guided missile warhead was stirred by a statement Communist Party boss Nikita Khrushchev made in England April 23.

Khrushchev said in a speech at that time he was "quite sure" that he will have a guided missile with a hydrogen bomb that can fall anywhere in the world.

However, Khrushchev did not say when the Russians would have the device.

He added that the Soviet Union was the first nation to explode the hydrogen bomb from an airplane.

"The Americans are only in tending to do so because their previous explosion was not of a hydrogen bomb but of a hydrogen installation."

The Air Force revealed earlier this year that it already has developed a hydrogen warhead for the city-wrecking intercontinental ballistic missile. It also revealed that no new inventions are needed to build the dread missile, often called the "ultimate weapon."

The White House said the Aug. 24 test was conducted at the usual Soviet proving ground" in Siberia.

The Atomic Energy Commission refused to elaborate on the White House announcement.

Pinza Out For Sometime Because Of Heart Attack

MILANO MARITTIMO, Aug. 27 (AP)—Singer Ezio Pinza who became a matinee idol at the age of 50, has called off all professional engagements "at least until" winter because of a mild heart attack, his wife said today.

But his wife, Doris, denied she ever said the 64-year-old operatic bass and former Metropolitan Opera star would never be able to work again.

She said there must have been confusion over cables she sent on Sunday to New York telling producer David Susskind that Pinza would have to cancel his appearance in the forthcoming play "A Very Special Baby" because of the heart attack suffered Friday.

Pinza had been scheduled to start rehearsals for the play, a straight psychological drama with no singing, on Sept. 17.

Mrs. Pinza said that in addition to the mild heart attack her husband suffered a bruised right hip bone when he fell in his bath at their vacation Villa Pionone here on his vacation.

"We are not sure whether the heart attack caused the fall, or vice versa," she said.

Mrs. Pinza said it was the first time her husband ever had a heart attack, "although his blood pressure was high even at the time I married him 16 years ago."

Dr. Mario Scavarelli, director of the hospital in nearby Cervia, said the attack was mild.

"After study of the cardiograms we authorized Mr. Pinza to leave for home as early as next Saturday," Scavarelli said. He said Pinza had "almost completely recovered from the attack."

The Pinzas have been visiting this small village near the town of Ravenna, where he spent his youth.

Earlier it had been reported Pinza had suffered a stroke.

"We have to drive for eight hours Saturday to make Genoa in time to catch the liner Independence the following day," Mrs. Pinza said.

Booked On Kidnaping

Police arrested Angelo John La Marca, 39, on charges of kidnaping a month-old baby, Peter Weinberger, today in an attempt to discover if Angelo John La Marca had deliberately placed the baby in dense underbrush to silence the infant's cries.

Nassau County Chief Inspector Stuyvesant Pinnell said La Marca insists he placed the living baby gently on the ground near a heavily-traveled highway after a number of people near the spot he was to pick up his $2,000 ransom demand frightened him away.

Pinnell repudiated the statement saying if the swarthy mechanic had wanted Peter to be found he would not have left the child so far from the road, a point five miles from the Westbury home of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Weinberger.

La Marca, scheduled for a Friday hearing in Mineola District Court, refused to divulge the Brooklyn location — or the names of the people — where he said Peter was sheltered overnight after the kidnaping.

He appeared unremorseful, eating and sleeping as if nothing had happened. A detective was posted inside his cell to prevent any suicide attempts.

La Marca was examined by a state psychiatrist last week to determine his sanity. He was scheduled for another examination today.

HEAD DOWN, Angelo John La Marca, is shown manacled to detective as he is lead into Nassau County police headquarters, charged with the July 4th kidnaping of month-old Peter Weinberger. After confession, police were able to locate the body of the infant early Friday, in a clump of woods near roadside in Plainview, N.Y.

Buhl Now Ranks As Dodger killer

- SPORT PARADE -

By OSCAR FRALAY
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK — The U.S. Olympic Committee had better get on the ball today and start paying Marilyn Monroe, Jane Russell and Ava Gardner for duty at the international game Down Under in November.

Any athlete will tell you that for a peak performance he needs an added bit of inspiration. It requires more than mere muscles to break world records.

The Russians already have discovered — and applied — this factor. Word of this is relayed from London by Boris Musel, the Foster Dulles of United Press sports affairs. Musel, an ex-weight lifter, is a great admirer of both beauties and beasts. Thus he keeps a cautious eye on the Soviet strongmen and the other, the appreciative eye on the ladies.

So he reports with some alarm that, at a recent Moscow track meet, Soviet film star Tamara Makarova arose and offered her bouquet of flowers to the man who made the farthest javelin throw.

Vladimir Kuznetsov promptly broke the Soviet record with a heave of 258 feet, four inches.

That's 28 feet farther than the palpitating Vladimir tossed the spear four years ago when he finished sixth behind Cy Young of the United States. And Young's Olympic record at Helsinki was 16 feet less than Vladimir's inspired heave.

So it behooves the U.S. Olympic fathers to get a bit of inspiration on hand for our guys, too. Imagine what would happen if Marilyn, Jane and Ava stood at the finish line and, going the Russian one better, offered a smooch to every Yankee winner.

Our sprinters would go so fast they'd make the opposition look like they ought to be clocked with calendars. Parry O'Brien would sling the shot into the upper deck and Bob Richards would probably pole vault clear out of the stadium, winning the marathon on his way back to collect his reward.

Nationalism Not Enough
An extra bit of inspiration often is necessary in addition to mere nationalism, even though with Musel that usually is enough. Like the day we were in the Russian Olympic village at Helsinki and a watchful commissar learned that some of Bob's antecedents hailed from Russia.

"Always remember mother Russia," the commissar told him. "Listen, mac," growled the indignant Musel. "I'll have you know I'm a hundred per cent Yank from Brooklyn, U.S.A."

As somebody or other once said, a record with a bunch of flowers, our guys ought to rewrite the record books with a victory bus from Marilyn, Jane and Ava. As a matter of fact, I'd compete myself.

But eight of the councils of 25 members including the heads of some of the most powerful unions in the AFL-CIO, are openly committed to supporting the Stevenson-Kefauver ticket. Almost all members were reported leaning toward the Democratic ticket.

David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers and a council member, told reporters he is "solidly backing" the idea of an AFL-CIO endorsement for the Democratic ticket and predicted that the council will go along.

Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers, a strong Stevenson-Kefauver supporter, also was expected to urge the action.

The council is not expected to make an endorsement itself. Dubinsky and other officials said the council probably will schedule a meeting of the general board — which includes heads of all 132 AFL-CIO unions — in time to make an endorsement.

The council could either recommend that the board make an endorsement or simply put the question on the board's agenda.

The political discussion, taking place at a resort called "Unity House," was expected to produce some disunity. In addition to Meany's reported coolness, several council members were expected to oppose endorsement action.

Dave Beck, president of the giant Teamsters Union, has said he thinks the AFL-CIO should leave such action up to the individual unions. Beck supported President Eisenhower in 1952.

Endorsement . . .

Bob Buhl ranks alongside Ed Maglie, Bucky Walters and Sal Reulbach as a "Brooklyn Dodger killer" today with a 7-0 season slate that explains the Milwaukee Braves' three-game National League lead.

The 28-year-old right-hander scored the most important of those seven wins Sunday when he beat the Dodgers, 6-2, in the opener of a key two-game series. In his seven victories over the Dodgers, Buhl has pitched 59 innings, yielding 48 hits and 15 runs for a glittering 2.28 earned run average.

Buhl's performance against the Dodgers this year tops any single-season mark compiled by Maglie when he was public enemy No. 1 in Brooklyn. He is the first pitcher to beat the Dodgers seven times in a campaign since Bucky Walters did it for the Cincinnati Reds in 1950.

It's ironic that Buhl comes from Saginaw, Mich., only 85 miles from the birthplace of the original "Dodger killer" — Reulbach. Back in 1908, Detroit-born Reulbach whipped the Dodgers nine times.

Buhl will get one more crack at the Dodgers next month. Fitches Seven-Hitter
Bob, who is 16-5 against the league, pitched a seven-hitter Sunday and had a shout-out until the ninth when Sandy Amoros hit a two-run homer. The Braves backed him with a 10-hit attack that included home runs by Hank Aaron and Johnny Logan to hand Roger Craig his ninth loss. It was Milwaukee's 11th win in 19 meetings with the defending world champions.

The Redlegs fell 4½ games behind the Braves when they split a doubleheader with the Philadelphia Phillies. The Redlegs pounded out 15 hits, including Ted Kluszewski's 33rd homer to win the opener, 10-5, but the Phillies came back with a 16-hit assault behind Harvey Hadzick to take the nightcap, 11-4.

Bob Friend won his 15th game and Ronnie Kline his 11th as the Pittsburgh Pirates scored 2-0 and 2-1 victories over the Chicago Cubs. Friend fired a four-hitter in the first game and then pitched 1-1-3 innings of hitless relief to preserve Kline's triumph in the nightcap.

The St. Louis Cardinals and New York Giants split a doubleheader by identical 4-3 scores. Hank Sauer's three-run homer sparking the Redbirds in the first game and Johnny Antonelli coming to Dick Littlefield's rescue in the last two innings of the Giants' win.

Tigers-Yanks Split
The Detroit Tigers scored five runs in the third inning for a 5-4 triumph after Tom Sturdivant's

DELAND, Fla. — Big John Mize, who once menaced the home record of his distant cousin, Babe Ruth, looked wistfully back on his glory years today and remembered — "Pressure, pressure, and more pressure" that mounted as he tried for P. B.'s mystic mark of 60.

That's pressure, he said, could be the telling factor in whether Mickey Mantle will be able to achieve a new record with the Yankees this season. It boils up nearly to the bursting point in the September stretch where Babe left a lasting memorial with 17 homers.

"I can't answer the big question," Mize said. "Can he stand up under the pressure the fans and sports writers put on him? I haven't seen him play much in three years and when I did see him, he wasn't playing the kind of ball every one expected from him."

Watches Mantle Develop
Mize, who was a Yankee himself from 1949 to 1953 and watched Mantle develop from a raw rookie thinks he has more poise and polish now.

"I know he has a good chance to break the record," Mize said. "And if he doesn't make it this year, he may later on."

Mize admitted that he never really had any serious hopes of breaking Ruth's mark in the 1947 season when he hit 51 homers for the New York Giants.

"I believe only three of us — Jimmy Foxx, Hank Greenberg and myself — ever were ahead of Ruth's record going into September," he said. "But it was only one game ahead of the Babe then."

and would have had to hit 16 in the last month. And I never hit 16 in one month in my career."

Mize recalled that he didn't even want to play the last two games of the season.

"But the pressure from the fans was pretty tough, so I played and darned if I didn't get it on the elbow the first time I was up. I got a couple of hits that day, but no home runs."

Has Unusual Theory
Mize thinks Mantle's switch-hitting will help him, and he had an unusual theory about it.

"If he gets close he could choose his fence in a park where one field is closer than the other, no matter whether the pitcher was right or left handed," Mize said.

"Another important thing is that he is batting ahead of Yogi Berra and there aren't many pitchers who want to walk Mantle to get at a dangerous hitter like that."

Mize also thinks the big Yankee lead should help Mantle because pitchers "are more liable to pitch to him than they would in a close race where he might find himself walking more often."

Weed Out Hens Now That Are Not Laying
Weed out the hens now that aren't laying, says James Humphrey, Kentucky Agricultural Extension Service poultry specialist.

Get rid of hens with shriveled combs, yellow shanks and beaks, and small body capacity between pin bones near the vent.

If you find a hen now whose beak has started to bleach but whose shanks still are yellow — cull her. This condition usually means the hen didn't lay last winter but wanted till warmer weather.

Humphrey advises close culling if layers aren't producing above the 50 percent level.

And, he says finally, watch for loafers. "Slick chick" hens may be smooth and pretty — but usually are the ones who have not been in the laying nest.

Joins Maglie, Walters And Reulbach As Brooklyn Jinx

By FRED DOWNS
United Press Sports Writer
Bob Buhl ranks alongside Ed Maglie, Bucky Walters and Sal Reulbach as a "Brooklyn Dodger killer" today with a 7-0 season slate that explains the Milwaukee Braves' three-game National League lead.

The 28-year-old right-hander scored the most important of those seven wins Sunday when he beat the Dodgers, 6-2, in the opener of a key two-game series. In his seven victories over the Dodgers, Buhl has pitched 59 innings, yielding 48 hits and 15 runs for a glittering 2.28 earned run average.

Buhl's performance against the Dodgers this year tops any single-season mark compiled by Maglie when he was public enemy No. 1 in Brooklyn. He is the first pitcher to beat the Dodgers seven times in a campaign since Bucky Walters did it for the Cincinnati Reds in 1950.

It's ironic that Buhl comes from Saginaw, Mich., only 85 miles from the birthplace of the original "Dodger killer" — Reulbach. Back in 1908, Detroit-born Reulbach whipped the Dodgers nine times.

Buhl will get one more crack at the Dodgers next month. Fitches Seven-Hitter
Bob, who is 16-5 against the league, pitched a seven-hitter Sunday and had a shout-out until the ninth when Sandy Amoros hit a two-run homer. The Braves backed him with a 10-hit attack that included home runs by Hank Aaron and Johnny Logan to hand Roger Craig his ninth loss. It was Milwaukee's 11th win in 19 meetings with the defending world champions.

The Redlegs fell 4½ games behind the Braves when they split a doubleheader with the Philadelphia Phillies. The Redlegs pounded out 15 hits, including Ted Kluszewski's 33rd homer to win the opener, 10-5, but the Phillies came back with a 16-hit assault behind Harvey Hadzick to take the nightcap, 11-4.

Bob Friend won his 15th game and Ronnie Kline his 11th as the Pittsburgh Pirates scored 2-0 and 2-1 victories over the Chicago Cubs. Friend fired a four-hitter in the first game and then pitched 1-1-3 innings of hitless relief to preserve Kline's triumph in the nightcap.

The St. Louis Cardinals and New York Giants split a doubleheader by identical 4-3 scores. Hank Sauer's three-run homer sparking the Redbirds in the first game and Johnny Antonelli coming to Dick Littlefield's rescue in the last two innings of the Giants' win.

Tigers-Yanks Split
The Detroit Tigers scored five runs in the third inning for a 5-4 triumph after Tom Sturdivant's

six-hitter gave the American League-leading New York Yankees a 7-0 decision.

Rocky Colvito hit a two-run homer and a two-run double to account for all the Cleveland Indians' runs in a 4-1 triumph over the Washington Senators. Early Wynn struck out six to win his 15th game and to 21st of his career.

Gerry Staley's six-hitter enabled the Chicago White Sox to gain a 5-1 win over the Baltimore Orioles snapped Billy Pierce's string of 13 straight victories over them with an 8-1 triumph. Bill Wight struck out five and yielded five hits in winning the opener.

Al Pihlarcik's 10th-inning double drove in the winning run as the Kansas City Athletics beat the Boston Red Sox, 7-6, after a 2-1 deficit.

SYNOPSIS Narcissa Hut traveled by stagecoach to Coyote Creek, Missouri, to marry Ed Kinney. He bragged of being the richest and most powerful man in the territory, and told her to marry him and marry him. Narcissa found comfort in the presence of Ed Kinney. When the stagecoach stopped at Coyote Creek, Ed was not waiting for Narcissa. She was left alone with a rifle and a horse. She was shot in the back and she died. Ed Kinney was arrested for the murder of Narcissa. He was sentenced to life in prison. He was later released and he became a powerful man in the territory. He was shot in the back and he died.

In '66, Springfield had brought out a new rifle, with several distinct improvements. It was a masterpiece, had made changes in '65, making breech-loads out of the previous design. The rifle was a masterpiece, had made changes in '65, making breech-loads out of the previous design. The rifle was a masterpiece, had made changes in '65, making breech-loads out of the previous design.

It was going down, and he strove to throw himself free of the falling animal, to kick loose from cumbering stirrups, knowing that rifles these days were repeating guns, that more bullets would follow hard on the trail of the first.

CHAPTER 8
 ONLY one shot had been fired at Jacobsen, and that at close range. Apparently the killer had ridden up and called for him to get out of the door. Whether he had even bothered to dismount or not was hard to tell. As soon as Jacobsen had stepped outside, in response to the summons, he had been calmly murdered—shot in the heart by a man who knew how to place his bullet accurately.

"There's a chance that the shell's lying out there in the grass somewhere," he reflected, slipping the bullet into his pocket. "If I can find that, the mark of the ejector will just about be a cinch!"

It was the rifling that furnished the immediate clue. It had put a mark upon the speeding bullet that was highly distinctive. And so far as Ed knew, there was only one man in this whole section of country who possessed such a gun!

Presently he had it. It had penetrated deep, striking bone, and was now twisted and misshapen. He washed the heavy slug carefully, balancing it in his palm. Here again he was making a diagnosis, and doing it as expertly as with a sick man.

Though few in these parts guessed it, he had been a gun expert before he ever thought of becoming a doctor. He'd served more than two years in the Army, using several kinds of guns, and even before the war they had been a hobby of his. Since then he hadn't lost his interest in weapons or the shells they fired, and his particular attention had been given to every improvement devised by new adventurers in that field.

He moved with an Indian's stealth, and it took fifteen minutes while the gloom deepened. Then the moon started to come up, later than the night before, but it had almost reached the sun then. Its glow showed him his enemy, a scant five yards away. And it revealed him in the same sudden light.

To his eyes there was more. Soon after the close of the war,

Ed Kinney was arrested for the murder of Narcissa. He was sentenced to life in prison. He was later released and he became a powerful man in the territory. He was shot in the back and he died.

It is the second of four such programs authorized for wheat and the other "basic" crops, according to Mr. Roy C. Gray, Chairman of the Kentucky Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. Winter wheat growers wish to take part in the 1937 program should call at the County ASC office and sign an agreement. Applications are expected to be available toward the end of August and must be signed by Sept. 21.

The Soil Bank legislation, enacted late this spring, authorizes such a program for basic crops over a 4-year period, that is, through 1939. Each Acreage Reserve agreement, however, covers the particular crop for only one year, at a time. For 1937, the program is being made available early enough so that most farmers should be able to make their plans before planting.
