SCHOOL REPORT.

Report of the Superintendent of Schools.

To the Citizens of Scarborough:

The story is told of a young reporter sent to report a fire who failed to send his material to the paper in time to be published. When taken to task for it, he remonstrated that he found it impossible to write an account while so many things were going on. In attempting to prepare a report at this time I can sympathize with the young man's point of view.

This has been in some ways the most wonderful year for Scarborough schools. Educational aims which started some years ago are on the verge of realization. A building program which was for years merely a hopeful dream has been put into brick and wood. Educational possibilities for which we have earnestly yearned are being put within our reach. Popular knowledge of what the schools are attempting, town-wide personal interest and enthusiasm—those helps for which every superintendent strives, but with which too few are blessed—are at a point perhaps never before reached in the town. We are not over optimistic when we believe that this year will long be remembered as the year when a new era in Scarborough's educational plans began. And the best is yet before us. Our new building is a delight to the eye and a source of pride. But a building is not a school. The real advantages to be attained as a result of this year's work will be the improvement in the efficiency of our educational process made possible. These will be treated more at length later in the report.

THE NEW HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING.

At the time of our last report, the site had been provided for the new high school and the Board of Education had invited several Maine architects to submit drawings. At the annual town meeting in March, 1926, it was voted to build and equip a modern high school building. A bond issue of $75,000.00 was authorized. An advisory committee, composed of Augustus C. Johnson (later selected as chairman), Robert C. Green, Dr. B. F. Wentworth, Edward Higgins and Earle Leary, was selected to act with the Board of Education in the selection of a building plan. This committee, on invitation of the Board of Education, co-operated with it in the solution of all important problems relating to the construction.

Plans drawn by Miller & Mayo, architects, were selected and revised, and contracts let for the actual construction. General construction was let to John J. Maloney & Co.; heating and ventilation, to A. B. Fels; plumbing, to Rice & Reuben; and electrical work, to L. W. Cleveland Co.

The actual construction was started about June 1st, and the building was accepted from the contractors on December 31, 1926.

A premium was received on the bonds, and this, with interest accrued and on deposits, gave us a net amount of $75,689.98 for construction after the cost of issuing the bonds had been met. The building was constructed at a total cost of $74,816.41. This was $2,182.41 greater than anticipated, due almost entirely to additional expense in "working" a vein of rock on the site. Much of the equipment has been provided, through the appropriation and private contributions, and the remainder of it will be financed during the next fiscal year.

THE BUILDING.

The new Scarborough high school is a two-story brick structure, with stone trimmings in Georgian style, located well back from the street on the state road at Oak Hill.

It is planned to accommodate the many requirements of a modern high school and embodies all regulations of the state departments of education and health relating to proper day-lighting, ventilation, sanitation and safety. It is so planned that in the future additions can be made without disturbing the present building.

It is located on a lot of six and one-half acres with a frontage of 350 feet. Ample opportunity is provided for the establishment of an athletic field, for agricultural work, and for out-of-door physical training facilities. Set in correct proportions, with a background of pines, it is most pleasing and artistic in appearance.

Across the front of the ground floor are a manual training room and a domestic science kitchen. Separate stairways serve these two departments, located on opposite sides of the building. Toilets for girls and boys, and the heating plant are also provided on this floor. The central-rear portion of the ground floor is the gymnasium. This is 35 feet by 60 feet, the standard minimum size for a basket-ball court. Bleachers are provided for the spectators.

On the main floor is the assembly room, located directly over the gymnasium and of the same size. One end is provided with a stage for auditorium work—an important factor in any modern school program—and the opposite end will be equipped for a library. This floor also has three class rooms seating 35 pupils each, a recitation room seating 25 pupils, a club room seating 20 pupils, and a typewriting room so connected with the class room as to be self-supervising. In the front on this floor are the principal's office and the room for the teachers. On this floor are also provided the wardrobes for the pupils.

On the upper floor, space is available in the front central area. This was made possible because the large size of the assembly room required a high ceiling for proper lighting. Across this front central upper floor are located a science room and a sewing room.

The building provides for an ultimate growth to 250 pupils. As this is larger than is necessary for present needs, this extra space assures sufficient room for future development, and, perhaps more important, provides space for better educational organization in the immediate future.

THE OUTLOOK.

But, as indicated earlier, a school building is not an end in itself. It is a means to that deeper, more intangible, but at the same time more valuable factor in community life—an improved plan in education.

The schools of Scarborough must, like all schools, maintain and improve through the generations the physical, mental and moral life of the community which they serve. The schools of Scarborough, because of the particular location of the town, must constantly do two things: They must hold before the pupils the best in rural life: they must also provide the basic principles of commerce and industry which are centered more in the larger communities which surround our town.

The schools of Scarborough have one advantage which is not possible in larger schools. Due to the comparatively smaller groups under each teacher, they can give a more thorough training to the individual. They can more frequently check on what is being learned, as compared with what is being taught. There is less opportunity for the individual pupil to loaf, and the pupils realize this.

Along with this, and due to the same small groupings, our schools have the opportunity to adapt the education to the individual pupil. In larger groups, mechanical means are frequently tried in the attempt to gain this end. Departmental instruction, adaptations of the Dalton Plan, the Winnetka Plan for individual instruction and other means are being developed to break the lock-step of education and adapt the school to each individual. Efforts are made to create life situations to this end. In so doing, the larger systems are finding that, while they are gaining their end, they are losing the personal touch of the teacher who can see the boy or girl as an individual rather than merely a mark in a subject. We work under no such handicap. Our teachers can know their pupils as individuals. Thus, if the facilities permit, we may reasonably expect our teachers to give back to us citizens who have been intelligently guided, to the end that each shall be fitted for his place in the world's work and shall be a contributor to the intellectual and moral life of the town.

This has ever been our aim, and we feel that no apology is needed for the results obtained. But as you cannot expect a cabinet maker to turn out a fine product with poor tools so you cannot expect a teacher to achieve the best results without adequate physical equipment.

The start, the big thing—a modern building—has been provided for our secondary education. We know of many improvements which can be effected in our educational organization and methods because of this. It was planned to give us those improvements. We expect also to discover other advantages which had not been anticipated.

Thus, the next task—a most pleasant one—is to review the possible advantages which this big step gives us and gradually, testing each step as we go, to reorganize our plan and improve our methods to achieve the greatest results. This is the responsibility of the entire teaching staff. It is a responsibility which we gladly accept. To put the changes into effect will require the intelligent interest of all the townspeople.

Our elementary schools throughout the town are already showing the advantage of improved housing. In no year has the spirit of the schools and the work accomplished been of higher efficiency than in the present year. This is the more significant when we realize that it was accomplished in spite of a considerable influx of new teachers.

Thus as we start on our period of adjustment and improvement made possible by the new construction covering the last few years, may we warn each of you of our greatest worry. It is that some of the intense interest in the schools may be allowed to wane. Our coming improvements for the next few years are not in brick and wood. They will not involve immense sums of money through taxation. They cannot be clearly seen, analyzed, and admired like a growing building. They will not seriously affect your pocketbook. But they are in ideas and processes. Their results must be more or less anticipated until they begin to appear, perhaps some years later, in the lives of the pupils. Nevertheless, if you will give the care and thought to them that has been given to the building program, they can be understood, analyzed and admired. Your suggestions are just as valuable in these intangible matters as they were in construction.

The building which we have just finished is the product of years of thought and work, not only of those who are "in at the finish," but of other committees, teachers, townspeople, who, in some cases, are not now with us to enjoy the achievement of our plans. The thought and care which all of you have given during the past year were tremendous. There have been twenty-four regular meetings of the board of education and innumerable conferences during the year. In many of these the advisory committee has participated. Individual members of both the board and the committee have given freely of their time to help in plans and supervision of construction. To the members of both bodies the town owes a deep debt of gratitude. Other groups in the town government, especially the selectmen, have worked with us earnestly and harmoniously.

Thus, perhaps of more value than the new building, splendid as that is, is the spirit of unified interest in the schools which the program of the past year has aroused. Organizations, like the Civic League, and citizens not only stimulated the realization of school needs, but have also been most generous in their contributions of money and labor to meet those needs. Many, both in and out of the town, have contributed toward equipment, finishing and assembling furniture and grading grounds. This not only saved expense to the town, but also furnished, in some cases, a completeness of equipment which it would have taken some years to achieve.

If the next step—educational adaptation—is to be the success that this has been, it will be with your help. Let's not allow the interest to subside. We have no specific proposals at this time. No plans for improvement will be proposed until they have been well thought out and tested in the light of general experience and adaptability to our particular needs. But a beginning will be forthcoming during the year that follows. Ample opportunity will be available for understanding the proposals. Study them. Analyze them. Criticize them. Help to support them when they can show their value. Let's keep Scarborough 100 per cent interested in its education—that process which is turning out its most valuable product, earnest, loyal, efficient citizens.

Respectfully submitted,

F. H. B. HEALD,
Superintendent of Schools.

Report of High School.

To Superintendent F. H. B. Heald:

I herewith submit my sixth annual report as principal of Scarborough High School.

The enrollment of pupils for the first semester is as follows: Seniors, eleven; Juniors, seventeen; Sophomores, twenty-three; Freshmen, seventeen; a total of thirty-five boys and thirty-three girls.

Students and teachers of the high school are awaiting with eager anticipation their removal from the old high school building to the new one so generously provided by the citizens of Scarborough—a building which, I believe, is second to none in the State of Maine in its combination of beauty of design, its excellency of construction, and its provision for the activities which a rural high school should engage in.

Some of the most important features which I hope may be incorporated into a new program of work for the high school are the development of a more efficient physical education program, the enlargement of our library and the broadening of our curriculum to better meet the real needs of our pupils.

The utilization of the spacious gymnasium and the rest room, and the continuation of yearly physical examinations by our school physician and health nurse will provide for the working out of a worthwhile physical education and health program.

Poor library facilities have handicapped us greatly in the past, but I am confident that this handicap will shortly be overcome, as provision has been made in the new building for commodious bookcases and library tables. The present library contains about four hundred volumes and a special effort will soon be made to increase this number materially.

The tendency of modern education is to change the school from a place merely for intellectual training into a place where the child can work and live a life which will prepare him for citizenship. Our high school in the past has provided quite satisfactorily for the small percentage of pupils who are to enter college for professional training, but because of a small faculty and limited facilities, this has been done at a sacrifice to the large majority of students, who for various reasons are not able to pursue advance courses of study. To this end I feel that, while we should continue to provide for the college preparatory pupil, we should seriously consider the needs of the large majority, and introduce into our curriculum certain subjects which will train our boys and girls to better meet the physical realities of life.

One of the great aims of education is to provide a program of studies which shall take into consideration the needs and the inclinations of the boys and girls in the particular community in which they live, and I believe that our school, if it is to formulate and maintain a proper standard of efficiency, should develop courses in home-making and the manual arts. The introduction of manual training for the boys, household arts for the girls, and the extension of our commercial work for both boys and girls will tend to hold many in school who would otherwise leave, either from lack of interest or ability, and at the same time would be developing them into more capable and useful citizens, because of their preparation for the practical duties and responsibilities of later life.

I believe that our system would also produce far better results if a closer relation could be established between the work of the last two years in the grades and that of the high school. The junior-senior high school movement is meeting with an increasing success in many towns in Maine, and a program formulated with this end in view would remedy, I am sure, much of the lack of uniformity in the preparation of our eighth-grade graduates and at the same time aid materially in developing a higher standard of efficiency in our secondary work.

I look forward to the future success of Scarborough High School with the greatest optimism, as a new enthusiasm is manifest among our citizens, alumni, school officials and students, an enthusiasm which is bound to lead us to an active realization of the potentialities of our secondary school system.

In conclusion, I wish to thank the Superintendent and the Board of Education for their co-operation in the administration of my duties.

Medical and Dental Inspection.

February 14, 1927.

I will say I have examined the students in the several schools throughout the town in November and December, 1926, and find the condition of the students as regards teeth and tonsils improving from year to year. Much credit should be given the various clinics which have been given the different schools in the past, and I hope it may be continued in the future.

Report of Eye Clinic.

There was an Eye Clinic held at the Dunstan School, Scarborough, January 24, 1927, by Dr. S. J. Beach.

Notices and consent slips were sent to the parents of twenty-one pupils who had defective vision. These pupils were from the High School, Oak Hill Primary and Grammar, Dunstan Primary and Grammar, and the Blue Point School. Sixteen pupils returned the consent slips, signed by their parents. Dr. Beach gave an eye examination to these sixteen children, prescribed glasses for thirteen and referred glasses (for the present) for three. To date (February 11) seven children have had their prescriptions filled and are wearing glasses; three others expect to have their prescriptions filled next week.

Twenty-five visits were made to the schools and to the homes of the children by the Nurse.

Dr. Beach very generously gave his time for this work.

The Cumberland County Public Health Association made all the arrangements for the clinic. Mrs. Milliken, teacher at the Dunstan School, was most helpful.

Respectfully submitted,

MARY G. PRICE,
County Nurse.
