

Bank Place, Melbourne
19 June 1883

My dear Andrew,

I have received yours of 16th inst. & its Enclosure which I have handed to Method.

Agency. The Amount of allowance for Agency work varies but the practice adopted in this office & that generally in vogue is to allow the agent $\frac{1}{3}$ of the profits, i.e. the gross profits, merely deducting out of pocket charges.

I Run Morgan very well. He is a comparatively young Lobe with very fair practice & reputation.

The same remarks apply to it of Brady who was one of my preceptors at Allen & Allens.

Several changes have occurred since I last wrote. I have returned to KCTD's taking the general management of the office (by arrangement) bringing Mr. Watson's business with me. Weston has received his congé but I have obtained ~~another~~ another situation for him in an office where he will have better chances of promotion.

His new "Chief" is Mr. J. J.
Myburn, Sobr, Elizabeth St., I don't know why his services were dispensed with but I think on the scores of slackness & Economy. He is in very good health & spirits but I don't at present see much of him owing partly to my health which continues very delicate & to the fact of my ^{father's} ~~brother's~~

This wife being frequently (too frequently) at my house.
Thank Heaven. They leave this week & I can then breathe more freely & indulge my private likings.
I think my brother an unselfish boon & he grows daily more obnoxious. He has also put me in great pecuniary straits owing to his almost total failure to comply with his promise to contribute to my household expenses.
You see I am a little dull & dependant, but I hope to write in a different strain next time.

In haste, I am ever
Aunt Sarah's
Dear Son
