Forty days of snow are registered in the Paris archives of 1435, the trees died and the birds...

—Henry De Vere Stacpoole

Where are the snows of long ago?

(1887)

But where be the last year's Snows ?

(1893)

But where are the snows that were white last year?

(1896)

But what is become of last year's snow?

(1899)

Where are the Snows of Yesterday?

(1902)

But where are the winter's snows?

(1905)

But where, ah where be last year's snows?

(1924)

But where are the snows of last year gone?

(1928)

Ah, where are last winter's snows?

(1930)

But where are they, the snows of yore?

(1935)

But where are the snows that fell last year!

(1937)

But where are the snows of other years?

(1938)

Where are the snows of yesteryear?

(1952)

But last year's snow, where has it gone?

(1957)

But where are the snows of bygone years?

(1960)

The snow melts, and where is it then?

(1961)

Oh, where is last year's snow?

(1961)

But where shall last year's snow be found?

(1969)

Where, Mother of God, is last year's snow?

(1973)

But then where is all of last year's snow?

(1976)

Where is the drift of last year's snow?

(1978)

But where are the snows of last winter?

(1982)

But where are snows of a bygone year?

(1990)

Ay, whaur's the snaws o langsyne?

(1993)

But what's become of last year's snows?

(1994)

But where are the snows of yore?

(1995)

But then, what has become of last year's snows?

(2000)

But where are last year's snows gone?

(2011)

Where are the snows of vanished years?

(2012)

Well, where could last year's snows have gone?

(2013)

And where is the snow that fell last year?

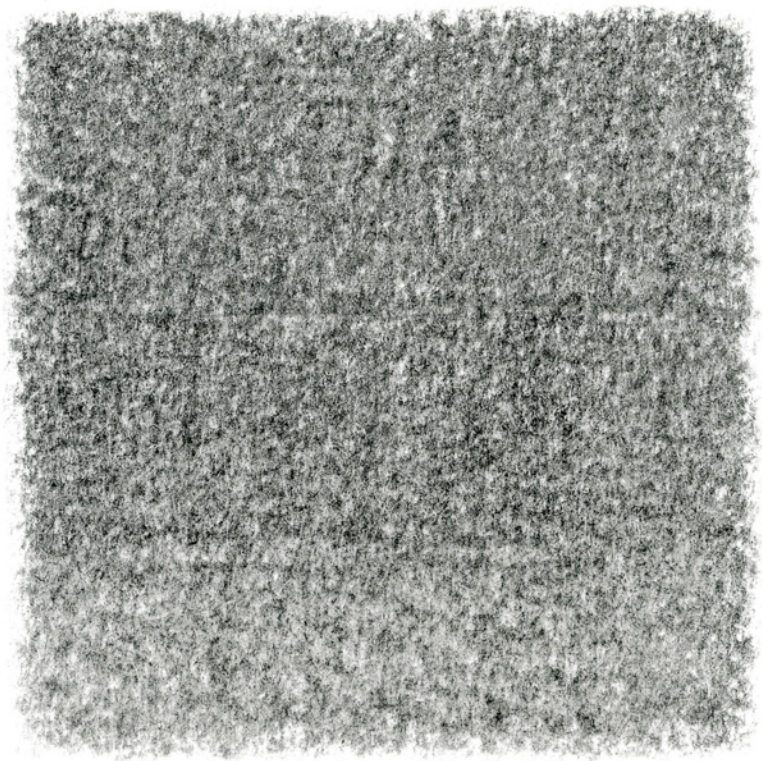

(2013)

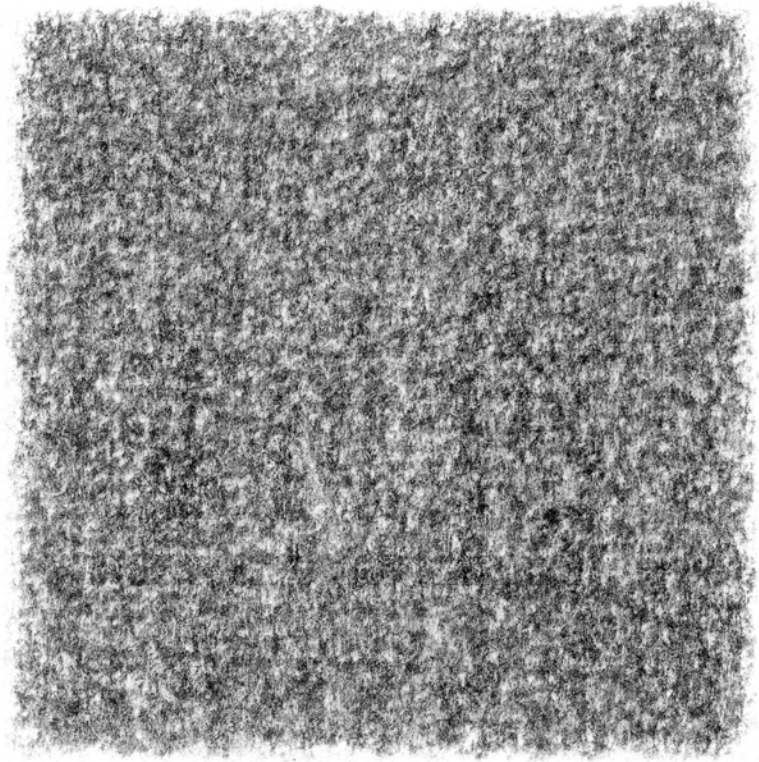

O where are gone the snows of yore?

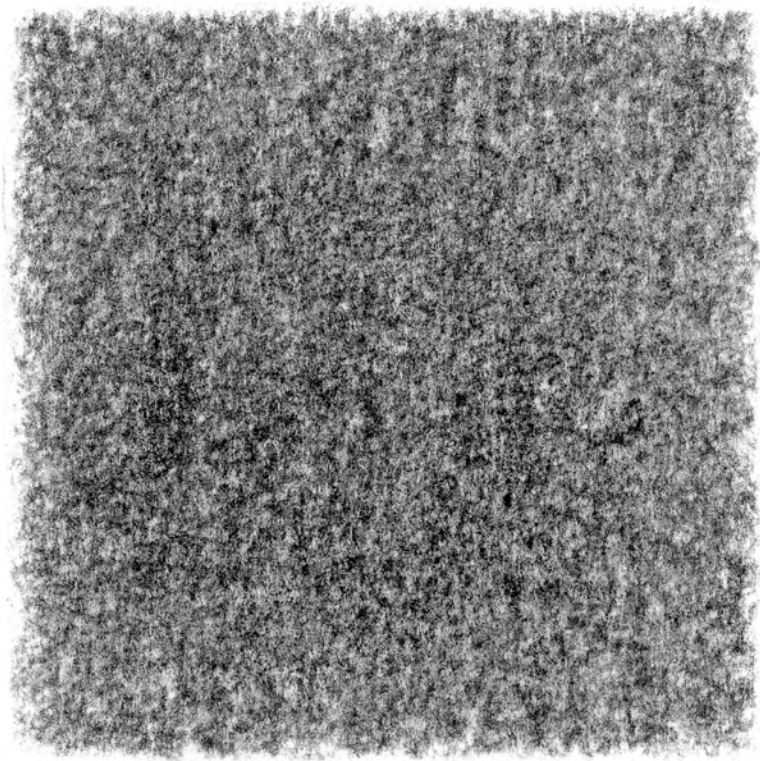

(2013)

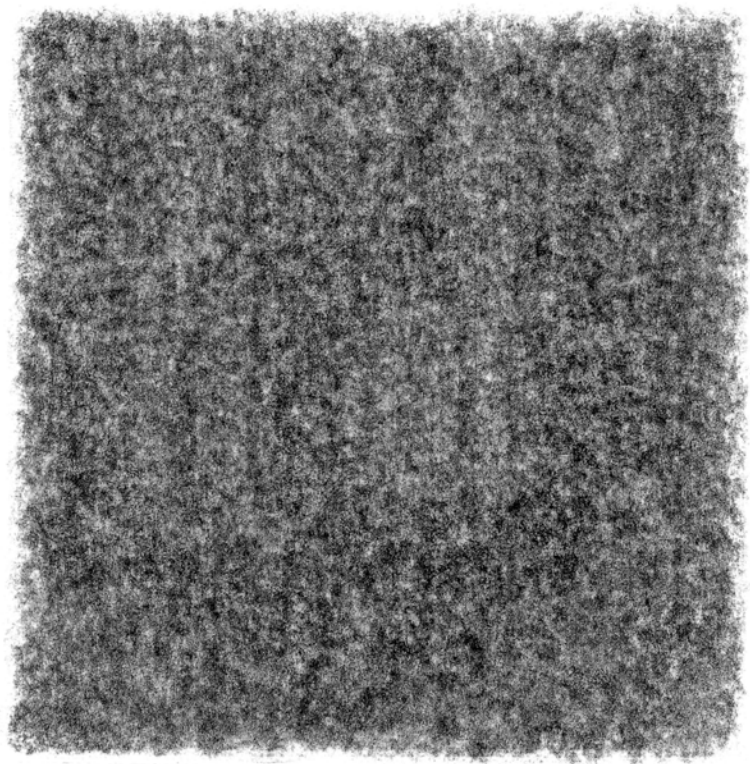

where goes snow when snow goes?
