Lists of Selected Full-text Databases by Subscription in East Asian Studies

Compiled and edited by
Vickie Fu Doll, University of Kansas
Wen-ling Liu, Indiana University
Dongyun Ni, University of Hawaii at Manoa
Fabiano Rocha, University of Toronto

This supplement is comprised of three database lists:

1. 172 E-Book Database modules by Subscription,
2. 125 E-Journal Database modules by Subscription, and
3. 25 Multi-Media Audio/Visual Database modules by Subscription

Each list covers Chinese, Japanese, Korean, and Non-CJK databases. In total, 322 databases modules are included in these three lists as of November 2019. Each list consists of the following columns: (1) English Title, (2) CJK Title, (3) Romanized Title, (4) Subtitle/Module, (5) Languages, (6) Sub-series, (7) Publisher, (8) Description/source, (9) Notes, (10) Title counts, and/or (11) Volume counts, and (12) Information Source. For the convenience of readers in North America, the commonly accepted title of the database usually takes precedence over the database's original name. For example, CHANT is a known abbreviation for Chinese Ancient Texts Database 漢達文庫; therefore, the abbreviated name is listed first, with the English and Chinese titles next to it. The same format is applied to the Vendor and Publisher columns.

These lists are a collaborative work by CEAL members who have contributed to the compilation, editing, and review of the content. Among them, Fabiano Rocha (University of Toronto and Chair of the Committee on Japanese Materials) inputted and reviewed all of the Japanese databases with help from members of the CJM. Susan Xue (UC Berkeley and the Chair of the UC System CJK E-Resources Task Force) contributed significantly to the review and editing of the University of California system's Chinese databases. Our thanks also goes to several CEAL Statistics Coordinators who input their local produced databases in East Asian studies. It is worth noting that the descriptions of databases provided by some of the large East Asian electronic collections have been invaluable contributions, namely Princeton, Harvard, Columbia, Stanford, and University of Michigan.

The attached lists are in no way a complete inventory. We hope the databases' information may also serve e-resource collection development needs of the East Asian studies librarians. We welcome feedback for improvements.

It encompasses every aspect of Japan's history and includes entries in related fields such as archaeology, folklore, religion, art, Japanese language, Japanese literature, and geography. The interface of the digital version allows you to search among the main entries (approximately 54,000 entries) as well as sub-entries (approximately 4,000 entries carefully chosen from sub-entries of all levels). In addition, you can conduct a search by specifying only the references or authors, as well as the illustrations.		1	17	https://japanknowledge.com/en/contents/k okushi/index.html
JapanKnowledge Add-on Content	ジャパンナレッジ追加コンテンツ：世界大百科事典	JapanKnowledge tsuika kontentsu : Sekai daihyakka jiten		Jpn		Heibonsha / NetAdvance	Additional content to JapanKnowledge; The new Heibonsha's World Encyclopedia, was completely revised for the first time in 20 years in September 2007, and features about 90,000 entry words and 420,000 index terms. The encyclopedia has been continually revised since then, and the contents from the most recent 6th printing will be used for the JapanKnowledge edition. The World Encyclopedia covers all areas of knowledge with well-balanced information. It is suitable for a variety of uses: from teaching schoolchildren how to research subjects, to writing graduation thesis, to everyday business use. The content of each entry is so exhaustive that the volume of some important entries is equivalent to a stand-alone book. Shuichi Kato serves as the chief editor of a team of over 7,000 contributors. All entries carry the byline of their authors, indicating the encyclopedia's trustworthiness bestowed by authorities in their respective fields. With JapanKnowledge's Advanced Search, the user can search index terms and subject filters. Furthermore, hyperlinks in the contents to The Complete Japanese Encyclopedia (Encyclopedia Nipponica) enable the user to access even more detailed information.		1	31	https://japanknowledge.com/en/contents/k adokawakogo/index.html
JapanKnowledge Add-on Content	ジャパンナレッジ追加コンテンツ：角川古語大辞典	JapanKnowledge tsuika kontentsu : Kadokawa kogo daijiten		Jpn		Kadokawa Shoten / NetAdvance	Additional content to JapanKnowledge Lib; This is the digital version of the epoch-making Kadokawa Kogo Daijiten (The Great Dictionary of Archaic Japanese) (in five volumes). Published after more than 20 years of editorial work, this resource represents the summit of ancient Japanese dictionaries, and opens the way for precise comprehension of classical Japanese literature. The largest of its kind among all existing ancient Japanese dictionaries, Kadokawa Kogo Daijiten contains a rich collection of approximately 100,000 headwords, covering historical, classical, and colloquial terms. The dictionary incorporates up to date research at the time of publication, in particular for the middle ages and early modern age, for which a large number of words including legal terms, economic terms, popular terms and jargon have been selected. Formerly considered to be outside the scope of ancient Japanese dictionaries, this dictionary also covers proper nouns, such as personal and place names, with encyclopedic commentaries as well as examples of usage and sources. Having passed through editorial committees consisting of authorities in the field, this is an exemplary dictionary on the origins and history of Japanese, including detailed commentaries on the evolution of words and pertinent examples of usage. In the JapanKnowledge version, while it is, of course, possible to conduct searches in the historical kana used to display the dictionary headwords as well as in the pronunciations equivalent to these spellings (modern kana readings), search convenience has also been enhanced by the addition of search keys for contracted sounds, double consonants and voiced or unvoiced consonants. In addition to headword search and whole-text search, it is possible to conduct searches from various viewpoints, such as limiting the scope of the search only to historical kana usages or designating example sentences or source information in advanced searches. Furthermore, use of the four facet functions available for advanced searches makes it possible to narrow down search results for instantaneous extraction of the desired entries.		1	5

JapanKnowledge Add-on Content	ジャパンナレッジ追加コンテンツ：新版 角川日本地名大辞典	JapanKnowledge tsuika kontentsu : Shinpan Kadokawa Nihon chime dajiten		Jpn		Kadokawa Shoten / NetAdvance	Additional content to JapanKnowledge Lib; The Kadokawa Great Dictionary of Japanese Place Names (51 volumes) is outstanding in the history of Japanese dictionaries and the remarkable achievement of a huge editorial committee consisting of researchers in place names, geography and history, as well as local historians from all parts of Japan. The digital edition of this great dictionary, the largest of its kind in Japan, compiles place names from all 47 Japanese prefectures. This is an exhaustive dictionary of ancient to modern place names organized according to prefecture by surveys of and with reference to all kinds of place-name geographical source materials. This dictionary clarifies the origin and transformation of place names as well as the history of the area. This includes not only historical administrative place names throughout successive historical periods, but also a wealth of names of geographical features, such as mountains, hills, rivers, lakes and marshes, roads, highways, and railways. By using the "serial entries (for a list of place names for a place from ancient times to the present day)" option it is possible to display a list of place names from current to ancient times. The JK edition includes roughly 260,000 place-name entries from all volumes, based on the DVD-ROM containing data on the great Heisei era municipal mergers of cities, towns and villages. The place names covering extensive regions, which exceed the prefecture boundaries in the book version, are shown in each of the prefecture volumes. While it is naturally possible to conduct entry and full-text searches of this vast amount of data by individual searches, it is also possible to narrow down searches by prefecture, historical period, and former country name. Furthermore, we recommend the bookshelf, which can be browsed by each city, ward, town, and village, to perform careful inquiries into the transformation of the place names of a region. This comprehensive place-name dictionary is a work that transmits Japan's ethnic inheritance to future generations.				https://japanknowledge.com/en/contents/kadokawachime/index.html
JapanKnowledge Add-on Content	ジャパンナレッジ追加コンテンツ：新編国歌大観	JapanKnowledge tsuika kontentsu : Shinpen Kokka taikan				Kadokawa Shoten / NetAdvance	Additional content to JapanKnowledge Lib; A basic source for Japanese literature research, this is a comprehensive digital version of the Encyclopedia of Japanese Waka Poetry. Originally compiled as an index of old poems, since the Meiji period the Encyclopedia of Japanese Waka Poetry has been used to make contributions to the work of countless researchers. While inheriting the same objectives, this completely re-edited and definitive dictionary has undergone a thorough review of the contents, and incorporates the achievements of a great accumulation of new research. The approximately 450,000 poems from 1,162 anthologies contained in the dictionary include imperial anthologies, personal anthologies, private family anthologies, and anthologies from poetry contests. Moreover, the original text of each poetic work adopts the most reliable from among the popularized volumes. Top-class researchers were also engaged to prepare the main text of the dictionary in a most rigorous fashion. At the time of its publication, the dictionary was esteemed as the long-awaited arrival of a comprehensive collection of waka literature. Two advanced search functions have been prepared for the JapanKnowledge version, a vocabulary search and a next/previous phrase search. The vocabulary search can be conducted by defining various parameters, such as "anthology," "waka poem" or "full text," and it is possible to search for data by narrowing the search down to any of the 1,162 anthologies, or a specific type of anthology, historical period, and so on. It is also possible to display research results sorted by "ascending/descending order of Vol. or No. of Poem," "Year of compilation" or "ascending/descending order of the hiragana reading of the first phrase." The next/previous phrase search, while freely sorting the phrases before and after the search term, enables the user to view each phrase in order. In addition to the same facets available for narrowing down searches as in the vocabulary search, the position of a phrase can also be designated. This enables a clear understanding of where a certain waka is used or how phrases are connected. This Japanese literature research dictionary will allow users to explore waka poetry through a new viewpoint and with novel search types.		1	51	https://japanknowledge.com/en/contents/kokkataikan/index.html

China's Cultural Revolution in Memories: The CR/10 Project			CR/10 Project, The	Streaming Film/Video	Chi	University Library System, University of Pittsburgh	This collection contains video interviews with people who experienced China's Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution (1966-1976). The CR/10 (Cultural Revolution: 10) Project also includes interviews with young Chinese people born after the Cultural Revolution, who discuss how they learned of this historical incident. The Cultural Revolution lasted 10 years, and each interview lasts approximately 10 minutes, hence the name of the project, CR/10. All videos are subtitled in English. The project was initiated by the East Asian Library of the University Library System, University of Pittsburgh in 2015. Most interviews were conducted and recorded in person, while some were recorded via Skype. Most of the interviews were collected in the United States, while others were recorded in China, Canada, or elsewhere. Collection, transcription, and translation of interviews began in 2015 and continues to the present.	https://digital.library.pitt.edu/collection/chinas-cultural-revolution-memories-the-CR10-project	107	https://digital.library.pitt.edu/collection/chinas-cultural-revolution-memories-the-CR10-project

Chinese Political Prisoner Photograph Collection						University Library System, University of Pittsburgh	The collection includes 104 photographs of Chinese political prisoners (all males) taken between 1924 and 1946. Each of the photographs is 2 x 1 inches in size and has information handwritten on the back—usually the French form of the prisoner's name and one or more dates relating to the individual's incarceration. Based on the physical condition and handwriting on the back of the photographs, the photos were taken between 1924 and 1946. It is believed that the men depicted were political prisoners from the French concession in Shanghai. During the 1930's and 1940's the Kuomintang (KMT) and the Chinese Communist Party (CCP) experienced a time of collaboration, split, and conflict.		0
