Dr. Costigan Speaks on Britain's Cold War Role Today at 4 o'clock - Jones

By Bill Baarsma

Dr. Giovanni Costigan, professor of history at the University of Washington, will be giving his lecture on Great Britain's role in the cold war this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Jones Hall Auditorium. The talk is open to all students. A discussion dinner will follow in room 8 of the Student Center.

Dr. Costigan, who was educated in England and attended Oxford University, will be the first speaker in a series sponsored by an ASB speakers committee headed by Steve Dalporto. Dr. Costigan received his doctorate degree at the University of Wisconsin and began teaching history at UW during the 1930's.

Dr. Costigan is a well known commentator on foreign and national affairs. Whenever he speaks on the UW campus, capacity crowds attend.

Among Dr. Costigan's most interesting topics is his crusade against the radical rightists represented by the John Birch organization and other fanatical groups. Dr. Costigan always has demonstrated immense and sincere courage in speaking his mind. Because of this he has been accused of being "disloyal" by a variety of shallow and uninformed individuals and groups.

One can read about Dr. Costigan's other activities and efforts in this week's From the Corner, by Tom Crum.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

To the Editor:

Since the profits of the carnival planned for Saturday night May 9 will go to the World University Service, I thought the students might like to know more about WUS.

WUS was founded 45 years ago in Austria when two Y.M.C.A. students found students living in box cars in desperate conditions. It began as a relief agency but has since developed into a self-help program. A needy country must ask for assistance. WUS raises enough money to help start the project and the country then raises the remaining needed funds.

World University Service covers over 60 different countries. Its headquarters are in Geneva, Switzerland, with offices in 45 different countries. Over 600 campuses from the United States alone supply 50% of the WUS funds. It has broadened its outlook to include educational facilities, food and lodging, and scholarships.

WUS is a private non-profit organization which works closely with international and governmental agencies. It is one of the most important organizations through which students can support each other. Are we at UPS doing our part?

Editorial Comment

Six hundred and fifty dollars was put out by the ASB this last week to send three delegates, the ASB president, 1st vice-president and former president to the Pacific Student Presidents Association convention at Tempe, Arizona.

Exactly what were the benefits gained from the conclave? Well, no one really seems to know for sure. The benefits were "intangible" and can't be conveyed to the student body, said one delegate.

Without a doubt the convention was worthwhile to the individuals who attended. Meeting student leaders from all over the western states, attending luaus and steak fries in the desert, engaging in all-night bull sessions—these things made the conference worthwhile to the delegates. However, what is the convention's worth to the student body?

Perhaps, as one delegate said, the benefits will come out in the long run, but is it worth $650 to the student body to send delegates to a convention from which only intangible benefits can be derived?

Dr. Costigan Will Speak Today

From The Corner

By Crum

Dr. Giovanni Costigan, noted UW professor who will be speaking in Jones Hall Auditorium at 4 o'clock this coming May 6 (Wednesday), recently traced the little-known history of the American Civil Liberties Union before a packed crowd in the UW's Smith Hall. "The spectacular growth of the ACLU in Washington State," stated Dr. Costigan, "has been a prime factor in the increasing attacks upon the organization."

The ACLU drew heavy fire from Northwest right-wing elements when it stood behind the Goldmark's in their recent trial. Because the ACLU aided the Goldmark's, it was accused of being a Communist front. Dr. Costigan admitted that the organization has defended Communists; however, its main concern is "anyone whose civil liberties are threatened."

Commenting further on the Goldmark trial, Dr. Costigan cited the almost total silence of northwest newspapers during the trial. "The Goldmark trial was reported extensively throughout the world," Dr. Costigan said, "in New York, Washington, London—everyplace except Seattle. When the Seattle papers refused to comment on the trial, was it because they believed in the value of silence—or were they displeased with the verdict?" The say-nothing quality of many northwest newspapers is the central reason, according to Dr. Costigan, that increased right-wing activity has developed in the state.

Continuing his intelligent attack on this state's conservative press, Dr. Costigan discussed Tacoma's "own hometown newspaper." Recently the TNT printed a series of 24 articles which showed the ACLU to be a Communist front. "Then they refused to print a single letter of rebuttal," Costigan said. What's that about "the value of science?"

By way of contrast, Dr. Costigan then outlined the mass media efforts of conservative groups. Only two states—Texas and California—have more fundamentalist and ultra-conservative oriented radio stations than Washington. Dan Smoot, and the Mannion Forum are outstanding examples of blind conservative programs. And when the Boeing Company showed "Communism on the Map" for several months to its employees after that film was exposed as John Birch propaganda, the increasing political naivete of the northwest is partially explained.

Choral Society Set '64 Concert Next Tuesday

The Tacoma Choral Society of over 100 voices, assisted by a 27 piece orchestra, will present the famous setting of the Requiem Mass by Mozart on Tuesday evening, May 12, at Mt. Tahoma High School.

Soloists for the occasion will be Dagne Vaswig, soprano; Margaret Myles, contralto; Harry Aldrich, tenor, and Paul Oncley, bass. Dr. Charles M. Fisher of the University of Puget Sound School of Music faculty will conduct the work, which consists of 12 major movements scored for maximum contrast in the employment of a large chorus, soloists and orchestra.

The Requiem was Mozart's final work, and its composition has a most interesting history. In 1791 an anonymous stranger came to Mozart and hired him to compose a setting for the Requiem text, not divulging the commissioner's name. Mozart finished only 40 pages of the score before his death, and the work was finished by Sussmayer, one of Mozart's pupils. The completed work was then delivered to its commissioner, later disclosed to be Count Franz Walsegg of Stuppach, a musical dilettante who passed off the first performance as his own composition.

The true origin of the work was not cleared up publicly until the following year when Sussmayer disclosed the facts in a letter to the publishers, Breithopf and Hartel. Since then the work has become one of the most popularly performed of the great choral masterpieces.

Professors Given Grants For Summer

Dr. R. Franklin Thompson announced last Sunday that three UPS professors have been awarded summer study grants. Recipients of the grants are Dr. Robert D. Sprenger, professor of chemistry; Dr. Wilbur Baisinger, professor of speech and department chairman, and Margaret Myles, associate professor of voice.

Dr. Sprenger, acting director of the UPS Research Institute, will attend lectures pertaining to research programs in biochemistry at Oregon State University and the University of California at Berkeley.

Dr. Baisinger will attend the University of Washington to study speech and hearing disorders. The Department of Speech plays a vital role in helping student teachers gain an understanding of such disorders so that they can help pupils overcome them.

Professor Myles will leave July 11, for a tour of Europe to attend as many musical events as possible. She will be attending operas, ballets and vocal and orchestral concerts at Glynebourn, Dubrovnik, Verona, Vienna, Rome, Florence, Paris and London.

Modern Dancers Will Present Spring Program

Originally scheduled for Friday, May 1, the spring program to be presented by the UPS Modern Dance Group has been postponed to Sunday, May 10, at 8 p.m. in the women's gym. The program is complimentary to the public.

The dances to be seen represent choreography by both the director, Nancy Jane Bare, and by members of the group. The first dances consist of movement based on styles suggested by different periods of history. A primitive study, choreographed by Claudia Keizer, Leslie Ann Doerner, and Janice Claypool, will open the program.

A dance in the style of Greek deals of art has been composed by Lisette Shaw, Sue Ferguson, and Judy Gullander. Other dances in this part of the program include one of the Middle Ages, two of the Renaissance period, two of the 17th century, and one of the twentieth century.

Dancers include Sharyl Gourley, Jean Groth, Linda Ortmeier, Teena Plummer, Anita Sterling, and Karen Chrystal. The concluding dance of this section will be Miss Bare's performance of "Portia," a solo inspired by the heroine of Shakespeare's play, "The Merchant of Venice."

The program will continue with "Luminosities," Miss Bare's choreography of the visual patterns of light. Set to piano music by Claude Debussy, this is a suite of four dances: "Flickering Light," "Lunar Light," "Shadowed Light," and "Deflected Light."

The final dance, choreographed by the group to contemporary jazz, is a spoof of use of leisure time, both at present and what it might become in the future with automation governing working hours.

This spring program brings to a close an active year for the UPS Modern Dance Group. Officers elected in the fall were Lisette Shaw, president; Bonnie Steussy, vice president; Sue Ferguson, secretary. The first project of the fall was to appear with members of the Speech Department in a program for educational television. Then the group presented "Our Lady's Juggler" for a chapel service at Christmas. The suite "Luminosities" was performed in March for a program sponsored by Phi Beta. In April some members of the group and Miss Bare represented UPS at the annual dance symposium for colleges and universities of Washington, Oregon, Idaho, California and Montana, held this year at Western Washington College of Education in Bellingham. Also in April, some members of the group appeared with the swim show presented by Silver Seals.

"People to People" Is New UPS Organization

By Cheryl Hulk

"People to People," a new program for the advancement of communications between foreign and American students, is tentatively being organized on the University of Puget Sound campus. Under this program the International Relations Club and the Foreign Students Club would combine into one organization.

The idea of bringing People to People to the UPS campus first originated when several UPS delegates attended a convention at WSU last week. Here they found out more about the program and invited the regional director of the organization to talk to Central Board about the program.

Frank Conway in his visit last Wednesday told Central Board about the five areas of People to People, especially stressing the university program. This program, Conway said, began a year and a half ago and now has over 100 chapters in the United States, Mexico, Korea, Japan and Europe.

There are 68,000 foreign students on American campuses today, Conway said, and with the ever-closing ties between countries, American students have an obligation to become familiar with the cultures and ideas of these students. They and the visiting students must try to develop a "mutual understanding and appreciation."

The impression foreign students have of Americans when they leave a campus is the one they will keep and communicate to others in their home countries, Conway said.

The regional director of the organization told Central Board that each campus is an autonomous student movement with the programs varying from campus to campus. Ideas used at other campuses have included coffee hours, fireside forums and sometimes campus publications.

The organization of a People to People program awaits the appropriation of $25 membership fee by Central Board.

Barbara Cannella, UPS junior, was recently elected state president of the Student Washington Education Association.

Cannella Is State Prexy

A UPS junior, Barbara Cannella, was recently elected state president of the Student Washington Education Association at the annual convention held in Bellingham. One hundred and forty delegates from 22 Washington schools were present at the confab.

Barbara, an education major and history minor, said her main goal during her year as president would be to "unify and strengthen the association and try to bring the high school counterpart of UEA, the Future Teachers of America, into closer contact with the college association." As part of this goal Barbara would favor inviting the various FTA groups to next year's state convention, which will be held in the UPS campus.

The newly elected president will travel to Seattle this weekend for her first executive meeting. This summer she will attend a leadership conference in Vancouver, British Columbia.

Tri Delta Sponsors Evans Is TV Commentator Group Guest

Marty Camp, producer-moderator of KOMO-TV's "What's New in the Schoolhouse" will be on the UPS campus Monday, May 11. She will be sponsored by Tri Delta sorority.

Mrs. Camp was recently awarded the Golden Mike Award presented to outstanding women in the field of radio and television for valuable contributions to the family, the community, the nation and the future of the country. The subject matter Mrs. Camp deals with in her program ranges from kindergarten through college and adult education. Her guests have included national and international figures from independent, parochial and public schools at all educational levels.

Marty Camp and KOMO-TV received the 1960 National School Bell Award for distinguished service in the interpretation of education from the National Education Association. She has been twice honored by the Washington Education Association, receiving their Service to Education Award in 1961 and again in 1963 for a special series on "Drop-Outs."

In March, 1960, she served as a delegate to President Eisenhower's White House Conference on children and youth, and also acted as chairman of the "Improvement of Education" committee of the Legislative Interim Study of the State of Washington. She appeared before the Curriculum Consultants of the State of Minnesota and addressed the graduating class of the Rochester Minnesota high school in June, 1962.

Dan Evans, one of the candidates running for the position of governor, will be speaking to the Young Republicans and anyone else who are interested, May 12 at 6 p.m. in the North Dining Hall of the Student Center.

For the past several years, Mr. Evans has been very active in the Washington State legislature. During the terms he has served, he has held many prominent positions, one of which was being the Republican minority leader.

Election time is drawing nearer and issues are becoming hotter so that Mr. Evans talk should be of great interest.

Chiefs Top Logger 9

Seattle University pounded out a 10-2 baseball decision over the University of Puget Sound on Burns Memorial Field last week.

Using four pitchers SU limited the Loggers to four hits, the biggest blow being Chris Cherbas's triple. Only a bad leg kept the rap from going as a home run.

Gary Birchler started for the Loggers and was the losing chucker. He was followed to the mound by Gordon Pogorelc. Barry Heathcote got credit for the two runs batted in with a line drive single.

UPS Tennis Squads Each Suffer Setbacks

Girls Beaten

The girls' tennis squad suffered a 3-1 setback in their opening match. Olympic College conquered the Loggerettes.

The second doubles team of Bonnie Bryant and Pat Styrvold were the only UPS victors. Gini Keane and Jan O'Farrell lost their singles match while Pam Besel and Julie Austin dropped their first doubles match.

The girls play host to the Pacific Lutheran girls' racket team this Friday.

Boys Trounced

The University of Puget Sound tennis squad suffered two white-wash thumpings in the past week at the hands of Seattle University and Eastern Washington on the UPS courts.

Outmanned and outclassed in both matches the Loggers were unable to chalk even a lone victory despite being at full strength for one of the few times this season.

Dennis Pederson, ace of the Logger staff, limbers his arms as he prepares himself for the UPS diamond forces defense of their league leading position. Dennis leads the staff, allowing only 0.68 earned runs a game.

With the erection of a new football stadium, the opening of a new baseball field and the renovation of the miserable track facilities the University of Puget Sound is taking its place in the Evergreen conference as a legitimate athletic member of the league.

The athletic department has been taking rapid strides in order to keep UPS on the same level it has enjoyed in the past. Once a leader in the field of athletics, in recent years the university has been forced into a backseat position to the state colleges. With a self-satisfied attitude prevailing, UPS has fallen from its perch atop the league to a second-rate position.

Bob Kain and Joe Peyton make use of new jumping pits recently made available to the track squad.

Luck, determination, coaching and a little skill kept the football team on the top of the heap for many years. With the dynasty starting to crumble this past season a little action was forced upon a heretofore stagnant program.

Now with an athletic plant that rivals that of any in the league, recruiting becomes an easier task. Ball players are more willing to play where they know the facilities are good. "Pneumonia flats" as the old field was referred to by the players was not a good bargaining point with incoming athletes.

There is hope that next season UPS will be able to host track meets, a feat never before accomplished by the university. Baseball supporters also have seen giant strides taken in support of their sport. With the opening of Burns Memorial Field it is no longer necessary for UPS to hold their games on foreign diamonds. It also makes it easier for the students to get out to see the games. This was evident by the fine crowd that turned out for the Seattle University baseball game.

With the athletic department now functioning at a new high and the possibility of new and better athletics on their way to UPS, it is now the duty of the student body to uphold their end. The responsibility has now been shifted from the athletic department to the students of UPS.

Lettermen's Club Organize; Set Meeting

The first meeting of the re-organized UPS letterman's club will be held on Tuesday, May 12, at 10 a.m. in room 9 of the SUB. All lettermen must be present.

To this point only a representative group has been formed. Under the direction of Steve Maddock this small group has organized the formation of a club that has been out of operation since 1957. "It is extremely important for all lettermen to be present for the first meeting as we will be electing officers for the coming year and be discussing the purposes for having this organization," stated Maddocks.

The understood purpose of this club, so far, is to be an active service club rather than the usual passive organization embodied in the majority of lettermen clubs.

Once you wear the gold bars of a second lieutenant in the United States Air Force, what's in store for you?

Well, you may fly an aircraft entrusted with a vital defense mission. Or you may lead a research team tackling problems on the frontier of knowledge. You'll be helping to run an organization that's essential to the safety of the free world.

But when you come right down to it, that's what your college years have been preparing you for. You've got ability and a good education. Now's the time to put them to work!

You'll have every opportunity to prove your talents in the Air Force. By doing so, you can put yourself and your country ahead.

If you're not already enrolled in ROTC, you can earn your commission at Air Force Officer Training School—a three-month course that's open to both men and women college graduates. To apply, you must be within 210 days of graduation.
