Fogler Library Coronavirus Service Updates and Information

Beginning Thursday, March 19th, Raymond H. Fogler Library will be closed to all users. During this time, only library employees will be permitted in the building. We believe this is the best course of action in order to protect the health of our patrons and employees.

Raymond H. Fogler Library is committed to serving the University of Maine community as best as possible throughout the disruption caused by the COVID-19 pandemic. Our staff will be working to provide resources and services to the UMS community. We will be available through our chat service, through zoom, and by email.

We know online courses and working remotely will pose challenges. The following resources, information, and services may help you during this transition. As we add more resources, we will post those here. You may also find answers to common questions about our services in our Coronavirus Service Resources FAQ.
