NEW PRESIDENT ADDRESSES CONGRESS

Lyndon Johnson

Johnson Promises To Pursue Policies Of John Kennedy

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON 27P — In ringing phrases, President Johnson today called on Congress to enact John F. Kennedy's civil rights bill as a legislative memorial to the assassinated chief executive.

With lavish praise for his slain predecessor, the new President also appealed to a joint session of the House and Senate for enactment of the $11 billion tax cut bill, and promised in return to conduct the government with "utmost thrift and frugality."

Leaving down the theme of his administration, the President recalled that President Kennedy, upon taking office, declared that this nation's goals might never be reached in the lifetime of the planet, "but let us begin."

"Today in this moment of new resolve," Johnson said, "I would say to fellow Americans: Let us continue."

First as President

Standing before old colleagues of the House and Senate, the new President opened his first address as chief executive by expressing his sorrow over his young predecessor's death.

"All I have I would have given gladly not to be standing here today," he said.

"The greatest leader of our time, has been struck down by the foulest deed of our time."

"Then he spoke of the 'dreams' of the slain Kennedy—conquering space, a strong alliance of friendly nations, full employment, a Peace Corps."

"But, apparently lest there be any doubt about his stand on one of the WASHINGTON 27P — President Johnson will deliver a Thanksgiving Day message to the nation on television and radio at 6:15 p.m. EST Thursday, the White House announced.

Johnson then urged quick congressional action on the $12 billion tax reduction bill and pending education bills. He called for a "new spirit of action" from Congress.

"I will insist that the government set an example of prudence and economy," Johnson said. "I would say to fellow Americans: Let us continue."

Grieving America To Follow The Words Of Late Young President

By United Press International

A grieving and heavy-hearted America prepared today to follow the words of its dead young President and gather in home and sanctuary to give thanks "for the glorious gifts of God."

George Washington, in proclaiming a day of "public thanksgiving and prayer," 174 years ago, asked Americans to call upon God and "beseech Him to pardon our national and other transgressions."

Stunned by a weekend of violence, the nation was ready to do that.

President Johnson called upon churches and synagogues to have the late President John F. Kennedy's Thanksgiving Day proclamation read at services Thursday "as a memorial to him."

"Let us gather in sanctuaries dedicated to worship and in homes blessed by family affection to express our gratitude for the glorious gifts of God," Kennedy said in his proclamation, his last. "Let us earnestly and humbly pray that he will continue to guide and sustain us in the great unfinished business of achieving peace, justice and understanding among all men and nations."

"As we express our gratitude," the President had said, "we must never forget that the highest appreciation is not to utter words but to live by them."

Across the nation, Americans gathered together to heed his words. A big turkey was delivered Tuesday to the home at Hyannis Port, Mass., where the Kennedy family—probably including the President's widow and two children—were expected to gather Thursday.

In Ventura, Calif., 96 descendants of a pioneer family planned to be together on Thanksgiving Day for the traditional turkey dinner.

In Des Moines, Iowa, a tiny neighborhood restaurant will make sure hundreds of needy families enjoy a free turkey dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Sargent, who operate the restaurant, ordinarily serve between 900 and 1,000 persons each Thanksgiving.

The weather bureau said most of the nation would have mild weather for Thanksgiving.

The holiday traffic death count—a grim part of every holiday—will begin at 6 p.m. local time today and continue until midnight Sunday. Last year 484 persons died in traffic accidents during the Thanksgiving holiday, the National Safety Council said.

Letter Of Sympathy Comes From Denmark To Rotary President

James Garrison, president of the Murray Rotary Club has received a letter from G. Juel of Juelberg, Nyborg, Denmark expressing sympathy in the death of President John F. Kennedy.

Members of the Murray Rotary Club plans to correspond with members of the Nyborg club when lists of the members are exchanged.

Mr. Juel wrote "at this time I want to tell you how very sorry we feel when we heard that you had lost your fine and young president. We feel that we also have lost a very good friend. In Denmark we are also crying and our flag has been at half mast all day."

"It is hard to understand that President Kennedy is not here any more and I can't tell you how sorry we feel."

"My wife and I can only send you and yours all our deepest felt sympathy."

The letter was mailed on Saturday and Mr. Garrison received the letter yesterday shortly after noon.

Mrs. Kennedy And Family Plan Future

By HELEN THOMAS
United Press International

WASHINGTON 27P — Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy made plans today for a Thanksgiving gathering at Hyannis Port, Mass., and a future life away from the White House.

The 34-year-old widow of the late President Kennedy has maintained a busy pace to keep her mind occupied in these days of sorrow following her husband's assassination.

But she has visited the grave of the martyred President twice since the aching final rites Monday afternoon. Tuesday night she returned to the grassy knoll in Arlington National Cemetery, and took along daughter Caroline for the child's first visit to the site.

Mother and daughter were driven to the cemetery about 7 p.m. (EST)—two hours after the cemetery gates were closed to the public. They stood together looking down at the head of the floral-covered grave. Mrs. Kennedy had made a return visit to the grave late Monday night.

Going to Cape Cod

She will take Caroline and John Jr. to Cape Cod Thursday morning. They will arrive in time for the traditional Thanksgiving dinner of the Kennedy family.

Mrs. Kennedy planned to stay at her own home in the Kennedy compound. She is expected to return to the White House Sunday or Monday.

Caroline Kennedy, who is six years old today, and John Jr., who was three Monday, both will have a birthday cake with their small cousins at the compound Friday.

After her return to Washington, Mrs. Kennedy will stay at the White House for several days packing and winding up her personal affairs. That is the way President and Mrs. Johnson want it.

Mrs. Johnson said Thursday that she did not even contemplate moving into the White House until Mrs. Kennedy had carried out her last chores.

Talked Over Problems

Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Johnson met Tuesday to talk about the problems of running the official household. Mrs. Johnson also was briefed by J. B. West, the head usher. She saw the floor plans of the House she will soon call "home."

The Johnsons will be seeing Caroline and her playmates around the White House for at least a few weeks more. The White House school will continue until Christmas.

Letters and telegrams of condolence have poured into the White House for Mrs. Kennedy and the children. Flowers also have come in as well as telephone calls from all over the world. The staff is doing all that it can just to open the mail.

Identical Twins Now Six Years Old

Six years ago November 24 these identical twin girls, Nita Gay, and Rita Kay Allison, were born at the Chesmore Hospital, Paris, Tenn. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Alto of Buchanan, Tenn.

Nita Gay weighed four pounds six ounces and Rita Gay weighing four pounds five ounces. They were each sixteen inches in length and were placed in an incubator where they remained for one month.

The girls are now in school at Buchanan, Tenn., with Mrs. Robert Bucy of New Concord as their teacher. She says they both are learning fast and are in the top ten in their class.

The twin girls weigh the same and are the same height. Their parents sometime call them by the wrong name as they look so much alike.

Their father is employed at the Murray Manufacturing Company.

Mrs. T. A. Vaughn of Murray is the great grandmother of the twins. Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Sanders of Puryear are grandparents.

State Senate Passes Amended Version Of Judicial Bill

FRANKFORT, Ky. 27P — The Senate today passed an amended version of the administration's judicial bill, calling for pay raises for appellate judges and commissioners and circuit court judges and providing for voting procedures in judicial elections by a vote of 25-7.

The House, meanwhile had given second reading to the administration's motor vehicle inspection law and adjourned until 1 p.m. EST, next Monday.

Majority Leader R. P. Moloney, D-Fayette, said that he hoped the General Assembly would be able to dispose of the legislation before it by next Wednesday, but admitted the possibility that the special session would not adjourn sine die before next Friday, Dec. 6.

The Senate adopted House Resolution No. 9 today, which requests the administration of Gov.-elect Edward T. Breathitt to consider the establishment of a community college at Hazard.

Lt. Gov. Wilson W. Wyatt, presiding officer of the Senate, also signed a House resolution calling for the funds to pay legislators and General Assembly employees during this special session, and then the upper chamber recessed for caucus meetings.

The Democrats reportedly are trying to muster 20 votes in order to pass an amended version of the administration's judicial bill, the nonpartisan ballot bill. The Senate already has approved an amended motor vehicle inspection bill.

The amended version of the judicial bill would cut the administration-proposed annual salaries of appellate and circuit judges and commissioners of the Court of Appeals by $2,500 each and would eliminate the nonpartisan feature of the administration measure.

The salary levels in the amended version of the bill would be $20,000 instead of $22,500 for appellate judges; $17,500 instead of $20,000 for appellate commissioners and $15,000 instead of $17,500 for circuit judges.

Instead of nonpartisan balloting for judges, judicial candidates would have their names placed on the ballot under a special heading which would not be listed with those that would be voted for on a straight party ticket. The judicial candidates would retain their party designation, but would have to be voted on separately, under the amended version of the bill.

Even if the Senate did take action on the bill today, however, there was no certainty, or even probability, that the bill would become law in its present form.

The Senate bill is the one written and endorsed by the Kentucky State Bar Association. It would boost Court of Appeals judges from $12,000 a year to $22,500; commissioners of the court from $11,500 to $20,000 and circuit judges from $10,800 a year to $17,500.

State Senate Passes Amended Version Of Judicial Bill

This bill also calls for election of judges on a nonpartisan basis.

In the House of Representatives, however, the situation is far from clear.

The House Rules Committee has laid aside the KGBA and Senate version in favor of a bill proposed by Majority Leader R. P. Moloney, D-Fayette.

This bill would peg the salary scale at $20,000 for appellate judges, $17,500 for appellate court commissioners, and $12,500 for judges of circuit term courts and $12,500 plus $2,500 to $5,000 supplemental salaries for judges of continuous session circuit courts.

Furthermore, this bill retains the present system of nominating judicial candidates in party primaries, but listing the candidates apart from party candidates on voting machines in the general election. The judicial candidates would appear with party emblems, but would have to be voted for separately—a straight-ticket lever pull would not record on the judicial portion of the ballot.

There was, however, a third version of the bill which came out of a Republican caucus in the House Tuesday. This called for a still further scaled-down salary schedule.

Under this Republican version appellate judges would be paid $17,500 annually; commissioners $15,000, and circuit judges $12,500, with no differential between continuous and term courts.

The House Rules Committee Tuesday reported out favorably the administration bill providing for annual compulsory inspection of motor vehicles.

The measure, already passed in the Senate by a 19-11 vote last week, received first reading on the floor, was expected to have second reading today, and could come to a vote when the House next convenes, probably next Monday at 1 p.m.

The Senate Tuesday passed by a 24-0 vote a resolution providing $10,500 a day for expenses of the special session, and a resolution by Sen. H. Nick Johnson, R-Harlan, memorializing Congress to "restore the word of God to the public schools of this nation."

Bids For Projects At Murray State College Submitted

FRANKFORT, Ky. 27P — Foster & Creighton Co., Nashville, Tenn., Tuesday submitted the apparent low bid of $1,398,900 for construction of two Murray State College projects, the Applied Science Building and a child development center.

The Applied Science Building will include a pair of four-story towers connected by a one-story section, and will house the Department of Industrial Arts, an assembly room and the Departments of Agriculture and Home Economics.

The plans for the child development facility call for a cross-shaped one-story brick building of 3,360 square feet.

UNITED BY TRAGEDY

As the last sounds of the cannon die away in the hills and valley of Virginia where our beloved former President John F. Kennedy was buried at Arlington National Cemetery and the largest delegation of statesmen that ever gathered anywhere in the world to pay their respects to a leader for world peace take off for their homes in every part of the world, we believe we can turn our attention to our new President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Surely we have never had a man, who had the tremendous duties of the highest office on earth suddenly thrust upon him, who is more capable than the grandson of a Confederate veteran who has demonstrated his leadership ability any more than our new President, and he has no peer in following the advice of the prophet Isaiah when he said, "come let us reason together."

It may take several weeks for the American people to recover from the shock that occurred in Dallas, Texas, President Johnson's home state, last Friday when an assassin's bullet ended the life of President Kennedy, but we believe it will serve us well to become as well informed as possible on what kind of man we will have to move into the White House this week to assume leadership of a confused world.

Intelligent Americans are already thanking Almighty God for the form of government which enables us to survive such emergencies without the slightest impairment of the government processes, but what sort of a man is our new President? In the next few days we believe American newspapers and modern electronic communications media will give folks a pretty good idea of what sort of man Lyndon B. Johnson is. He is certainly one we may all rally behind to unite conflicting factions, interests and political, religious and ideological factions. He was this newspaper's favorite for the 1960 Democratic nomination, as he was the choice of many other loyal Democratic newspapers from coast to coast.

What we want to do in this issue is to inform our readers as nearly as possible what sort of a record President Lyndon Johnson has made as a public servant. The leading Democratic newspaper of the mid-south, the Memphis Commercial Appeal, tells the story so well, in its lead editorial in the Sunday edition, that we are quoting it in full:

ENTER THE JOHNSON ERA

"I will do my best. That's all I can do. I ask for your help . . . and God's."

Those words, uttered in solemnity and humility by Lyndon B. Johnson, initiated the Administration of the 36th President of the United States. They were spoken as he stepped off the plane that brought him — and the assassinated John Fitzgerald Kennedy — back to Washington from Dallas late Friday.

Any person accepting the mantle of the presidency in this difficult time must feel humble. President Johnson revealed that quality.

But Mr. Johnson, as his long political record will show, is by no means a meek man. And in the midst of national grief and sorrow, he has swiftly grasped the leadership of the Government and quickly acquainted himself with the immense problems that are now his responsibility.

Exactly how the Johnson era of the president will evolve it is impossible to forecast now. It is probable, however, that Mr. Johnson will rely less on political theorists, and more on his own experience and power.

He is a skilled legislative leader. He is well versed in foreign affairs. He commands a strong personal following. Although styled as a New Dealer and liberal in his early congressional years, he has since become generally known as a moderate, and a master of political compromise.

As vice president, Lyndon Johnson was conscientiously loyal to the Kennedy Administration. He may not make radical changes in the executive department at first. But President Johnson is his own man. The country may be sure that his manner of meeting the duties of the presidency will reflect his own personality and convictions.

While Mr. Johnson came to the House of Representatives as a protégé of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1937, he made his own name famous as Democratic majority leader of the Senate in the '50s. It has been said that he has a brilliant "sense of the Senate," and his leadership was highly popular among fellow Democratic senators. This should stand him in good stead as President when he submits his own program to Congress early next year.

It must be remembered, too, that he led a Democratic Senate when a Republican, Dwight Eisenhower, was in the White House, and the two worked together without animosity despite political differences. Perhaps it was significant that one of the first persons to confer with Mr. Johnson during his first full day as President was Mr. Eisenhower.

In the foreign field, Lyndon Johnson has a broad first-hand experience. He is a resolute opponent of the communist bloc. In the summer of 1960, when he was seeking the Democratic nomination eventually won by John Kennedy, Mr. Johnson said: "The next president must make it clear to Khrushchev that there will be no appeasement."

It was Mr. Johnson, hastening to West Berlin in the dark days immediately after Khrushchev began erecting "The Wall," that helped rally the worried Berliners.

He knows Europe, the Pacific and the Far East well. Since becoming vice president he has visited 20 foreign countries representing the Kennedy Administration. He has criticized waste and poor management in the foreign aid and information programs.

While representing Texas in the House, Mr. Johnson served on the Naval Affairs Committee and the Armed Services Committee. He also was on the Joint Atomic Energy Committee. In the Senate, he worked on the Armed Services Committee, and its Preparedness- Investigations Subcommittee. Upon becoming vice president, he participated in the decisions of the National Security Committee and headed the National Aeronautics and Space Council.

Through the almost three years of the Kennedy Administration, Mr. Johnson has been kept close to the machinery of decision making, and there is little in his new task that should surprise him.

Grandson of a Confederate veteran, son of a frontier Texas legislator, Lyndon Baines Johnson enters a new era in his 55-year life.

He has promised, "I will do my best."

Kentucky vs. U.L. Saturday

by United Press International
College basketball is stealing softly onto the Kentucky sports scene this week and bursts into full view Saturday night when the Kentucky Wildcats and the Louisville Cardinals open their campaigns as part of a six-game program.

Next in line—Rep. John W. McCormack, D-Mass., speaker of the House of Representatives, is next in line for the presidency following the succession of Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson to the late President Kennedy.

DRAFTS OF PROPOSALS

to be submitted soon to President John F. Kennedy were discussed at a meeting of the President's Appalachian Regional Commission in Frankfort Nov. 12. Principals were Gov. Bert Coombs (left) and Undersecretary of Commerce Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., chairman of P.A.R.C., who headed the list of 35 Federal officials. Among proposals before the Commission is a 2,650-mile network of developmental highways which would serve Southeastern Kentucky and portions of seven other states. Roosevelt also addressed the Kentucky Development Day forum in Lexington where State and Federal P.A.R.C. members met with Eastern Kentucky development leaders.

The Lakers led 11 to 6 at the end of the first stanza. The half time score was still in the home team's favor, 22-21, and continued their lead with a three point advantage at the end of the third quarter.

With three minutes left on the clock, Lowes hit the basket to tie the score and went on for their fifth straight win.

This was the second loss for the Lakers. They will be trying for their fifth win when the Lakers travel to Benton on December 6 to play Billy Joe Parris' basketball team.

Staubach, who also played basketball and baseball at the Naval Academy, was the 29th winner of the Heisman Award. He will be officially presented with the trophy in ceremonies at the Downtown, A.C., on Wednesday, Dec. 4.

Staubach, a junior who has led Navy to eight victories in nine games so far this year, was an easy winner in the balloting with Billy Lofbridge of Georgia Tech second and Sherman Lewis of Michigan State third.

A total of 1,123 sports writers, broadcasters, and telecasters took part in the voting.

Staubach was the second Navy player to win the award in four years. Joe Belline of the Middies won the 1960 award. Last year's winner was Terry Baker of Oregon State.

Staubach captured the award although he is only a junior. The 6-foot, 2-inch quarterback from Cincinnati, Ohio, has completed 101 out of 150 passes thrown in Navy's nine games, including seven for touchdowns, and has had only four interceptions. He passed for 237 yards against Michigan and, against West Virginia, completed a total of 17 passes.

Staubach was voted first in every one of five sections of the country. All told he received 517 first place votes, 132 for second, and 45 for third for a total of 1,860 points. Votes were counted on a basis of 3 points for first, 2 for second, and one for third.

Quarback Lofbridge, also a passing whiz, had 504 points, and Lewis, a swift halfback had 368.

Triangle Inn Scene Of Luncheon For Miss Diane Elkins

Another delightful courtesy extended to Miss Martha Diane Elkins, bride-elect of Willis Mafford, Gooch III, was the luncheon held at the Triangle Inn on Saturday afternoon at twelve-thirty o'clock given by Mrs. Tommy Alexander and Mrs. R. L. Ward.

The honoree chose from her trousseau to wear a Dior blue moiré sheath dress with a hostesses' gift corsage of pink and red roses. Her mother, Mrs. William Clay Elkins, was attired in a navy silk dress with a hostesses' gift corsage of pink roses.

Miss Elkins was presented an electric skillet as a wedding gift from the hostesses.

The luncheon table was centered with a handmade bride doll fashioned of Chantilly lace standing in a small arch covered with French, maline, and pink and blue forget-me-nots. The arrangement was surrounded by springer fern with pink and blue carnations at the base, and pink and blue carnations extended down the table to the arrangements of white stock and pink carnations at each end.

Placecards of nosegays of blue forget-me-nots, marked the places of each person.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Jones of Detroit, Mich., are visiting his brother, Madison Jones and Mrs. Jones, and his father, Pless Jones who is a patient at the Murray Hospital. They will return to their home this weekend.

Coke Party Given At Mott Home For Miss Diane Elkins

The home of Mrs. R. L. Mott was the scene of the coke party given in honor of Miss Martha Diane Elkins, bride-elect of Willis Mafford Gooch III, on Saturday morning at ten o'clock.

Hostesses for the special pre-nuptial event were Mrs. Mott and Mrs. Eugene Colburn.

Miss Elkins chose to wear for the occasion a trousseau ensemble of red and black wool with a white blouse. Her mother, Mrs. William Clay Elkins, wore a black three piece suit with a white overblouse. They were presented hostesses' gift corsages of white carnations.

The honoree was presented with a white blanket as a wedding gift from Mrs. Mott and Mrs. Colburn.

Refreshments of dainty party sandwiches, fruit cake, nuts, mints, and cokes were served from the table covered with a pink cloth under white lace and centered with a miniature bride and groom statuette surrounded by pink gladioli.

The mantel in the living room was adorned with an arrangement of pink gladioli and roses. Other floral arrangements were used at vantage points throughout the house.

Those present were Mesdames A. B. Cross, William H. Smith, Eddie

Magazine Club Has Meeting In Home Of Mrs. A. F. Doran

Mrs. A. F. Doran opened her home for the meeting of the Magazine Club held on Friday afternoon at two-thirty o'clock.

Presenting the very beautiful and interesting program was Mrs. L. E. Owen who used as her subject, "Beauty In The Thankful Heart." She gave quotations from Psalms, Emerson, Victor Hugo, John Keats, and many others.

Mrs. Owen was introduced by Mrs. Henry McKenzie, program chairman.

During the business session the club made donations of twenty-five dollars to Murray-Calloway County Library and five dollars to CARE. Names were voted on for new members.

The hostess served a delicious salad course to the nineteen members present.

The next meeting will be held on the second Thursday, December 12, at 2:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Clyde Downs.

Hute, Wells Pardon Jr., Tommy Alexander, Keith Hill, Kenneth Mott, Nicky Ryan, Fred Wells, Clarence Herndon Jr., Claude D. White Jr., Miss Judy Mott, the honoree, her mother, and the hostesses.

FINER POINTS OF GRAMMAR!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: You said it wasn't proper to say "Congratulations" to a bride. One should say "Best Wishes" to the bride, and "Congratulations" to the groom. Then you said the person who said "Congratulations" to a bride might as well follow it up with, "I didn't think you could land him." I think you're all wrong, Abby. A bride DESERVES to be congratulated. In this day and age it is really an accomplishment to get a man to marry her. How about when a person graduates from high school or college? If I say "Congratulations" to someone, might I just as well follow it up with, "I didn't think you could make it"?

DEAR ABBY: If you did, the graduate is likely to reply, "Thanks, neither did I!"

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is getting married pretty soon. Her father has been locked up in the state insane asylum for the past three years. When we make the announcement and send out the wedding invitations, should we use, "MR. AND MRS. SO AND SO"? According to the law, he is not responsible. He can't sign contracts

DEAR ABBY: About six years ago my husband hurt his back in an accident. He wore a back brace for a while, but he quit wearing it because he said it was heavy and uncomfortable. When he tried on an old corset of mine I thought he was clowning, but he wasn't. He wore it to work one day and said his back never felt better. When I saw he was serious, I bought him a new one. It's been two years and he continues to wear a lady's corset. The worst part of it is that he has started to wear nylon stockings, saying it helps to keep the corset down. His doctor has examined him and has seen these undergarments. When I asked him about it, he told me it wasn't any of his business what his patients wore. Should I stop worrying about this?

DEAR ABBY: My husband is very jealous and this is one of our typical arguments. When we go out for an evening to a place where there is dancing, and friendly strangers ask me to dance, shouldn't I dance with them? I have always been taught that it isn't polite to refuse. My husband says this can lead to trouble and it isn't proper for a woman to dance with strangers. What is your opinion?

NOT SURE
DEAR NOT: Your husband is right. When left alone, would you like him to dig up another partner?

HIS WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Even though your husband is confined in a mental hospital, he is still alive. Announcements and invitations in such circumstances should read "MR. AND MRS. So and So." To deny his existence would be cruel.

LOSTING HIM
DEAR LOSING: And what if the baby DOESN'T save the marriage? You'd be ahead to get some counseling from your clergyman or a marriage counselor, and ignore your ill-advicing friend.

PROUD PLUMBER
DEAR ABBY: What do people have against plumbers? I am tired of hearing educated people say: "A PLUMBER earns more!" Don't people know that in order to become a plumber a man must start out as an apprentice at a very low wage, and attend night school for five years? And when he graduates he receives a diploma just like a college graduate, which entitles him to go out and work for $4.61 an hour.

GRAND ISLAND
DEAR GRAND: There are corsets (without garters) on the market for orthopedic purposes. If it's back comfort your husband wants, he can buy one. As for the nylon stockings, that is where your husband put his foot in it!

BIG ARGUMENT
DEAR BIG: Your relatives will become HIS relatives. If your disagreement is only technical, that's one thing. But if he has mental reservations about your relatives, maybe you'd be wise to review your engagement.

The New Thriller By LESLEY EGAN RUN TO EVIL

CHAPTER 15
"WOULD YOU get a job on Faro Lane?" We varrulo asked L. J. O'Connell.
"O' sure. No trouble. Our Wilma parted with the address right off I don't figure she means it's an illegal business, actually - she's not very smart, of course - these compulsive gamblers never are. As soon as I got back I sent Forbes to pick him up, and anybody who's in it with him. All legal, with a warrant."
Footsteps in the corridor, and Detective Fred Wayne came into the police station looking tired. "We found something for you in the hole, lieutenant. It's a very funny little something, and for pretty certain dropped by X, because we asked all the men on the excavation job and they all say they never saw it before."
Since noon yesterday Wayne, Paot and Katz had been getting some unusual physical exercise, shoveling and sifting all that earth from the cave-in in that hole. Looking over every shovelful for anything extraneous it might contain, very real sense of the word, they'd fill pay dirt.
"We got down to the planks finally," said Wayne flexing weary muscles, "and when we moved them, there it was, right out in plain sight. I figure it fell out of his pocket when he went over. And if you can say what it is, you're smarter than the rest of us."
He said an envelope on the desk and watched while O'Connell opened it. "It hasn't been printed yet."
It rolled out on the desk smartly, bounced off the filtry, and came to rest. A coin. A large silver coin, stamped with strange letters and figures. A foreign coin.
O'Connell examined it. On the side uppermost was a human figure carrying a lute; the figure seemed to be standing on a sea shell, and in the background were the buildings of a city. There were also a raven and some Hebrew letters. Round the edge ran an inscription.
"Was that hell," said O'Connell. He flipped the coin over. On the other side was an elaborate coat of arms. Round the edge was another inscription. It looked like a very old coin.
Varrulo studied it. "You know, Charles," he said meditatively, "what it says to me, this is the sort of thing somebody might carry as a kind of lucky piece. A talisman. . . If so, let's hope his luck is running out, since he's lost it."
THEY now had Jensen's hit-and-run to work on, as well as other things. A couple of

Two Home Family Is Now Common

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS
United Press International
NEW YORK (AP) — Like the two-car family, the family with two homes is fast becoming common—and as their numbers grow the home planners put increasing thought into what makes a satisfactory leisure home.

At the recent opening of "Leisurerama," a new community at Montauk on the tip of New York's Long Island, there went on display probably one of the best examples of leisure home planning for the middle-income family.

Destined for the family which budgets approximately $1,000 a year for all leisure pursuits, including vacation, weekends, sports and other recreational activities, Leisurerama homes offer in one complete package a fully furnished and equipped home, minimum 75 x 100 homestead, including sections with water frontage, surrounding a golf course and on a high ridge overlooking the Atlantic Ocean; complete furniture and accessories, right down to toothbrushes; major kitchen appliances; and privileges for use of such recreational facilities as golf course, swimming pool and private beach.

Built and equipped for year-round use the homes are suitable for the ultimate leisure use — retirement.

MAC WELCOMED TO U.S.—Flown to the United States by the Navy, Mac, an exiles Weddell Antarctic seal, is cuddled at Floyd Bennett Naval Air Station, New York, by Navy scuba diver Lt. David LaValle. Mac is one of three Weddells flown here, the first ever to reach the U.S. alive. Three other seals died en route.

The community of about 7,000 planned homes is a joint effort of All-State Properties, Inc., developers of communities in Long Island, Maryland and Argentina, builders; Raymond Loewy-William Smith, Inc., leading design firm, which has drawn the home plans; General Electric Co., which will supply all convenience equipment; United States Plywood Corp., which will provide maintenance-free building materials such as exterior siding, interior paneling, doors and windows and Macy's New York department store, which will decorate and furnish each of the homes.

The basic Leisurerama home is a four-room, contemporary structure containing living room, dining room, den, kitchen and bath, with the den convertible for night-time use as a twin bedroom and with provisions for an additional two to sleep in the living room. This will be priced to sell for $12,990 as a basic homestead, with purchasers paying $480 down and $73 a month on a 10-year F.H.A. mortgage.

Convenience appliances include range and oven, dishwasher, frost-free refrigerator - freezer, clothes washer-dryer combination.

Counsellor Important To Child

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist
Parents and students should work closely with the high school guidance counsellor.

The counsellor uses many tools in his work. The most important is his knowledge of the individual. He has the student's school records at his disposal, talks with teachers and interviewing parents. He works closely with the psychologist, health department, teachers, and administration. He uses tests which give clues to the student's intelligence, achievement, personality, and interests.

A guidance office must keep in constant touch with the college, trade and business schools industry and government. This aspect of guidance is called vocational in that it is helping the student choose the kind of work he wants to do. As you can realize many important decisions regarding the future must be made by the high school student. The counsellor also assists students with personal problems. The teen-ager is constantly facing difficult social situations. He is learning to adjust to his peers and adults. He needs someone who will listen to him with a sympathetic ear.

The total guidance program falls into two major categories, formal and informal. The formal part of the program involves regular individual group sessions. The subject matter generally is planned but is adjusted to the needs of the individual or group. A variety of jobs are surveyed as to qualifications, procedures for preparing for them, etc. Discussions are held concerning study habits, job seeking, interview techniques, applying to colleges and trade schools.

A great deal of individual guidance also is involved. Problems which are peculiar to each individual are handled on a personal basis. The informal guidance program also is important. This is built on the relationships between teachers and students. It goes on continuously. It occurs every time a teacher talks to a student about behavior or advises him on methods of studying.

Guidance is an important part of the high school program. It should be supported and encouraged by parents.

NAVY NEW—This new U.S. Navy uniform for first and second class petty officers will be introduced on a trial basis next spring. The cap insignia is the big difference.

New Cook Book Is Especially For Children

By PATRICIA MCCOMACK
United Press International
NEW YORK (AP) — The newest cook book's childish.

It's for boys and girls who yet to cook but can't understand the fine print in Momma's cookery books. Author He'en Jill Fletcher includes in the book only child-tested recipes, including some that don't call for work around the oven or stove. The latter are the safest cooking projects for young children.

When knives or stoves are used, mom must supervise — for safety's sake. The "Things to Cook" book (Oxford: Macmillan, Baltimore) shows the children how to make such palate-teasing things as peanut butter pickles, wimpy's bacon-wieners, he-min hamburgers, naray-go-round cake, potato boats, perfect peas and veg-o-mat salads.

The book, written to be understood by the child who has mastered beginning reading, also teaches a bit of arithmetic in the section titled "What We Should Know About Measurements."

Another section instructs the small fry cooks in the mechanics of cooking — batter beating, egg separation, how to dice, chop or mince. Diagram Helps Child

What's bound to please mothers is a section describing the proper way to set a table. There's a diagram, too, so the child whose starting cut can check the set table and correct any mistakes before mom makes a final inspection.

Here's a sample recipe — for peanut-butter pickles.

"Utensils: cookie pan and knife. Ingredients: 10 graham crackers,

12 marshmallows, 10 small cinnamon candies, 1/2 cup of peanut butter.

Procedure: With a knife spread graham crackers with peanut butter. Place a marshmallow in the center of each cracker. Place a cinnamon candy in the center of each marshmallow. Arrange cookies on cookie pan.

Place pan in hot oven (400 degrees F.) until marshmallows begin to melt. Serve either hot or cold.

All of the recipes are outlined in such a plain fashion.

Potato Boats

Here, for example, is the one for potato boats:

"Utensils: measuring cup, bowl, grater, vegetable brush, measuring spoons-knife.

Ingredients: three tablespoons brown, butter, four old potatoes, three tablespoons hot milk, 1/2 teaspoon minced onion, 1/4 cup grated cheese, 1/2 teaspoon salt, paprika.

Procedure: Wash and scrub potatoes, grate them lightly with butter or fat. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) for 45 minutes or more. Test with toothpick to see if soft. When done cut potatoes in half lengthwise. Scoop out pulp into bowl. Add melted butter, hot milk, salt and minced onion. Beat with spoon until light and fluffy.

Refill potato shells with pulp mixture. Heap tops. Sprinkle with grated cheese. Dot with butter. Dust with paprika. Place potato boats on baking sheet and put under broiler to heat and until tops are light brown.

"Ingredients: three tablespoons brown,
