Conference Of Young People To Be Held

The Murray Sub-district Methodist Youth Fellowship will have a spiritual life conference Sunday, May 3, starting at 1:30 p. m. at the educational building of the First Methodist Church.

This conference is a new and unique idea and there are plans to continue this project in the future year.

Kay Wallis, Sue Ann Watson, Bobby Spillman, and Charles Fennell make up the project committee which has been working throughout the month to make this program both interesting and worthwhile.

The object of the brief program is to encourage young people's interest in the message of the Bible. The sermon on the Mount is the year's theme and the youth will discuss this message included in Matthew 5, 6, and 7 in small groups under the leadership of pastors in the sub-district area. There will also be a group for the adults who come to the conference.

At 3:30 p. m. a short worship service for the group entitled "The Challenge of the Cross" will be held. The program will last approximately thirty minutes and the conference should be concluded by 4 p. m.

All youth in the sub-district are urged to come with their Bibles, having read the Sermon on the Mount, to take part in a conference of Christian thoughts and fellowship, a spokesman for the committee said.

$3 Million Program For Watershed KO'd

PARIS, Tenn., (UPI) — A proposed $3 million federal-state watershed project for the middle fork area of the Obion River was rejected here Tuesday.

Cornell County Judge G. W. Bullock, presiding over the public hearing, rejected the proposal on grounds it was "not in the best interests of the district concerned."

Rejection of the project, which was supported by several local groups, apparently ends any possibility of the proposal becoming a reality.

The planned watershed program would have involved 74,000 acres in Westley and Henry counties which are drained by the river.

"In asking the co-operation of every citizen, I want to remind you that now is the time to take stock of our county," Judge Miller stated. "If everyone, and by that I mean every home owner, every stockholder, every industrialist, every school child, and everyone in city and county government, puts forth an all-out effort, then our area will retain and build its reputation as a progressive county."

"Let's make Calloway County the most beautiful, the cleanest and the best county in the whole State of Kentucky," the Judge urged.

"Let's all of us roll up our sleeves and get in there and 'Clean-up and Beautify' our entire county," the Judge concluded.

Jimmie Hall Proves Jinx Is All Wet

By FRED DOWN

United Press International

Jimmie Hall is too young to know and too good to care how baseball's sophomore jinx started.

He does think, however, that a .345 batting average is proof that it's a lotta bunk. Also that he and fellow musclemen Harmon Killebrew, Bob Allison & Co. are going to make the Minnesota Twins mighty tough to get along with this season.

Jimmie, who set an American League rookie record of 33 homers last season, was a bit off in his timing when the current campaign started. He went 3-for-18 and even Manager Sam Mele wondered whether rival pitchers had discovered a crucial weakness.

But then the six-foot, 27-year old native of Belmont, N.C., regained his timing to go off on a 7-for-11 tear.

Never Looked Better

Jimmie never looked better than Tuesday when he tied the score with a ninth-inning homer and won it with a bases-filled 10th-inning single as the Twins scored a 9-8 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Hall's leadoff homer in the ninth came after a homer by Johnny Romano gave the Indians the lead and his game-winning single off Gary Bell came after three walks filled the bases. Rich Rollins also homered for the Twins while Romano had two homers and Al Smith and Leon Wagner one each for the Indians.

Dick Stuart's grand slam homer gave the Boston Red Sox a 6-4, 11-inning triumph over the Baltimore Orioles, the Kansas City Athletics downed the Detroit Tigers, 5-1, and the Los Angeles Angels nipped the Washington Senators, 2-1, in other American League action.

In the National League, Philadelphia defeated Cincinnati, 4-2, St. Louis beat New York, 8-0, Los Angeles downed Houston, 5-1, and Milwaukee topped Pittsburgh, 9-5.

The Twins routed Dick Donovan in 4½ innings and carried a 7-2 lead into the seventh but Wagner's three-run homer enabled the Indians to tie the score. Bill Dalley, who pitched the last three innings, was Minnesota's winner.

Heffner Gets Win

Stuart doubled home the tying run in the ninth inning and connected for his grand slam in the 11th off Dick Hall, relieving Stu Miller who had issued two walks and a single around a fielder's choice to fill the bases. Beneficiary

Dodgers Not Above Hitting A Good Man When He Is Down

United Press International

World champions though they are, the Los Angeles Dodgers are not above hitting a good man when he's down.

That good man is Ken Johnson of the Houston Colts, who last Thursday became the first pitcher in major league history to lose a nine-inning no-hitter and who Tuesday night turned in another excellent performance only to bow to the Dodgers, 3-1.

The Dodgers, of course, have been having their own troubles with three star pitchers ailing and with various other injuries to important players. So they left their sentiment in the clubhouse and carved out a third straight victory that still leaves them in ninth place in the National League five games behind the front-running Philadelphia Phillies.

But consider Johnson, the 30-year old right-hander who has allowed a total of three earned runs and eight hits in two consecutive games—and lost them both! Alongside him, the hard luck Regis Craig of 1962 and 1963 looks like the guy who hit the $12,000 twin double on Roosevelt Raceway.

The Game

Johnson was tapped for a run in the first inning on Maury Wills' single and Willie Davis' triple but Johnson and the Colts got even in the seventh on a triple by Jerry Grote and Eddie Kaso's squeeze bunt.

Then Johnson's game went down the drain as Dick Tracawski tripped to lead off the eighth. Wills doubled and Wally Moon followed with a single that sent Maury scooting across the plate.

A few moments later Johnson was under a shower in the Houston clubhouse pondering the fortune of pitchers who toil for a team that can't score runs.

The Phillies, so young and vibrant that they can't look back on the ill fortune of others, continued their fast early pace with a 4-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds, the St. Louis Cardinals downed the New York Mets, 8-0, and the Milwaukee Braves beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-5, in the other NL games.

Rookie Jack Smith's four frames of middle-inning relief pitching were rewarded with his first big league victory as the Braves pounded Bob Friend and three successors for 11 hits. Felipe Alou had three hits, Denis Menke had two and Joe Torre homered for the Braves.

Summer Camp For Children Needs Study

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist

Many parents now are considering summer camps for their children. There are several important considerations before a final decision is made. These involve evaluation of the child's needs as well as what a particular camp program can offer.

Some children can gain a great deal from a camp experience while others would benefit more by spending the summer with their families. The answer involves the child's personality, interests, age, home situation, and neighborhood.

● child who loves sports, other children, and is generally self-sufficient probably will love camp and gain a great deal from it. A child who dislikes sports and tends to be a loner may find camp distasteful. It is possible that he could benefit from camp but this will depend upon his own attitude. If he would like to try camping, he could learn much if he is given encouragement by the counselors and attends a camp which emphasizes some activities to match his interests. He may like sleeping outdoors, music, etc.

Age Is Important

Age is an important factor. A day camp is more desirable for the younger child ranging in age from 3 or 4 to 7 or 8. A resident or sleep-away camp should not be considered much before age 7 or 8. Of course, this depends on the individual child. Some may be ready at age 5 or 6 while others would not be ready until age 9.

In a home where both parents work, camp can be very helpful. The child will be a part of a well-planned program with good supervision. He will have the feeling that he is a part of a group rather than being home alone with little attention because his parents are both tired after work.

In such situations it is important that the child understands that he is not being sent away to get rid of him but rather because he is loved and will obtain many benefits. In addition it would be most valuable if some vacation period could be arranged when the entire family could be together.

Check Pattern

● The general pattern of the neighborhood and the child's friends should be considered. If everyone goes away, the child would be most lonely at home. On the other hand, if everyone stays at home and many facilities are available, the child might have a wonderful time at home.

Choosing the right camp is a necessity. Investigate the many camps which are available. Find out the kinds of activities which they emphasize. Consider the distance and facilities. Relate these things to your child's personality and interests.

In any event, the decision of camp or home should be a combined one between parent and child. The child should never feel that he is being sent away because he is not wanted. He must have the feeling that he is involved in the decision and that he will benefit from the experience. Camp can be both enjoyable and helpful. The key is in the planning.

James O. Williams Guest Speaker For Alpha Department

James O. Williams of the department of languages and literature at Murray State College was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Alpha Department of the Murray Women's Club held Saturday at noon at the club house.

He further said that many are hanging on to values that are no longer a part of our age and that we probably could learn more from writers who speak to our own age.

To illustrate his meaning Williams gave excerpts from several books which have been banned in some places.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Robert Perkins.

Mrs. Wayne Williams, chairman, welcomed the members and guests and gave the invocation.

Officers for the new club year are Mrs. Williams, chairman; Mrs. Willie Darnell, vice-chairman; Mrs. M. P. Christopher, secretary; Miss Rosella Henry, treasurer.

Don't Be Hasty!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 20 years old and have three kids. My oldest will be three in February. My husband and I are separated and we are getting a divorce. I met this other man, Abby. He lives across the street from me and we have been seeing each other. He is a good man, and I love him. My problem is that he can't stand my oldest son. He says if I give this boy to his father, he will marry me as soon as my divorce comes through. I just can't see myself giving away any of my children. I asked my mother, and she agreed with him. Now I am turning to you.

DEAR ABBY: I recently married a young man who has two married brothers. Their wives call their mother-in-law "Mother." I saw my mother-in-law only twice before I married her son, and she is still a comparative stranger to me, so I find it impossible to call her "Mother." I simply avoid calling her anything. My own mother is still living, and I can't bring myself to call anyone else "Mother." My mother-in-law has asked me to call her "Mother." I don't want hard feelings, but I'm not the insecure type. Should I force myself to call her "Mother?"

DEAR TROUBLED: Call her "Mom." Meanwhile, keep hoping you become a mother soon. Then you can get around your problem by calling her "Grandma."

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago a very dear friend of mine passed away. Shortly afterwards her daughter brought me a large box of her mother's clothes, as we were about the same size. Abby, my friend had lots of lovely clothes and I could surely use them as we have a large family and my husband hasn't worked steady for a long time due to illness. But I keep thinking, what if I should meet the poor husband and they saw me wearing their dear mother's clothes. Would it not give them a heartache? I wouldn't hurt them if I had to go around in rags. Do you think I really ought to wear these things?

DEAR FRIEND: The daughter, I am sure, expressed the feelings of the entire family when she brought the clothes to you. Wear them with the assurance that you are doing the right thing.

DEAR ABBY: You should quit telling your readers at the foot of your column to "Get it off your chest." Don't you know that teenagers are trying to get it ON their chests, not OFF?

Prepare Kids For Accident Free Lives

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Staff

Parents and teachers have the responsibility to prepare children for accident-free lives. Training in the areas is important since statistics show that accidents are a leading cause of death and disability.

Industry has recognized the large economic loss caused by accidents and spends extensive sums of money for accident prevention.

The most effective approach to accident prevention is through the development of individuals who act safely under all circumstances. Schools have programs which teach safety precautions. Teachers emphasize safety throughout the program. They constantly show students how to perform activities properly to avoid hazards.

The best teacher is always demonstrating the use of tools. The classroom teacher tells students to keep their feet out of the aisle and not to tilt their chairs back. In addition, teachers are aware of safety factors in every class activity.

Learn From Skills

Safety actually is being taught whenever a child learns a skill. Safe and knowledgeable performance is the proper use of a hammer, saw, or knife as versus careless handling of these same tools.

Students should be taught to consider the dangers of an activity. They are taught to be aware of hazards as youngsters, they will continue to do the same as adults. This brings us to the area of safety habits. Habits tend to be unconscious actions. The individual who closes a match book cover before he strikes the match doesn't stop to think of the dangers of leaving it open. He has performed this activity so many times that he doesn't think about it any more. The time to teach him safety was when he first began lighting matches.

Some other factors which seem to prevent accidents are laziness, selfishness, respect for others and careful workmanship. There also are physical factors which affect safety. Poor vision or hearing, fatigue, generally poor physical condition, and poor coordination are contributing causes of many accidents. These should be considered before entering into any activity. Corrective measures should be initiated as soon as possible.

Provide Safe Methods

It is more effective to provide safe methods than to criticize dangerous ones. A child who is told not to hold a hammer a particular way because it is not safe has learned very little unless he is shown the proper way.

Parents and teachers should teach safety in two ways. The first is through direct instruction such as a film on bicycle safety or a discussion concerned with running on stairs.

The second approach is through living safety in daily activities. This would involve putting toys away, watching a ball game from behind a screen, crossing streets at the corners, and generally learning necessary skills before attempting a task.

Safety must be a natural part of one's activities. An individual cannot constantly think about avoiding accidents. Accidents are not intentional. They can only be avoided if each individual has developed what might be called safe attitudes.

Humor Of Christ Told In New Book

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

People do not understand the savings of Christ because they take seriously what He meant as a joke. So says the greater Quaker scholar, Dr. Elton Trueblood, in a "co-operative new book entitled 'The Humor of Christ' Harper & Row.

Somehow, says Trueblood, we have developed a stereotyped picture of a "Christ who never laughed." But the Biblical evidence shows clearly that Christ was a very witty person, who loved to evoke a chuckle from His listeners with remarks which they would recognize as being prophetic.

"We do not know with certainty how much humor there is in Christ's teaching, but we can be sure that there is far more than is normally recognized," Trueblood declares.

"There are numerous passages in His recorded teaching which are practically incomprehensible when regarded as sober prose, but which are luminous once we become liberated from the gratuitous assumption that Christ never joked."

Uses Humor Deftly
Trueblood does not mean that the Gospels are full of funny stories. He used humor deftly and insistently to illuminate a truth, to deflate a pretense, or to make a contrast vividly clear.

A classic example of Christ's humor, cited by Trueblood, is the famous saying that "it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of God."

Tones of learned commentary have been written trying to "explain" what Christ meant by this startling statement. A favorite explanation of Bible scholars is that He was referring to a gate in Jerusalem, known as "The Needle's Eye," which was so low that a camel could wiggle through it only after shedding his load.

Spill The Message
To Trueblood, this tortuous exegesis is simply nonsense.

"Christ MEANT His words to sound preposterous," he says. "We spoil the figure and lose all the robustness when we try to downplay Christ as a revolutionary message to give and He knew that He could not make Himself understood by speaking mildly."

The camel is an inherently ridiculous creature, and it is not surprising that we find the ungainly beast featured in another of Christ's sayings, in which He pokes fun at the legalistic, hair-splitting Pharisees for "straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel." The humorist intent of this metaphor is too plain to be missed even by the authors of Bible commentaries.

Convincing Case
Trueblood also makes a convincing case for the proposition that Christ was really joking in several of the "hard sayings" which have caused great bafflement to straight-

—faced girls because they sound so unlike Him.

This, he believes, is by all odds the simplest and most reasonable explanation of the so-called parable of the unjust steward, in which Christ seems to be commanding the conduct of a thorough going scandal.

It is also, Trueblood contends, the logical explanation for the seemingly harsh words about "throwing the children's meat to the dogs," which Christ addressed to a Gentile woman who sought his help. That the woman herself took his remark as friendly banter is clear from her quick-witted reply that "even the dogs under the table eat the children's crumbs."
