Twin Brothers Go Berserk, Stab Nine

MANILA (UPI) — National police said twin brothers went berserk aboard an express train Friday night, fatally stabbing nine persons and caused five others to jump to their deaths in terror.

The brothers were identified as Jose and Antonio Toleng, 37. Police said that in addition to the dead, four other passengers were seriously wounded.

Officials said the incident started as the train headed toward Manila at 40 m. p. h. A group of men stabbed Jose, apparently in an extortion attempt.

"An official police report said Antonio, enraged by the sight of his bleeding brother, seized a pair of scissors and began 'stabbing left and right' aboard the crowded train. The report continued: "Pandemonium broke loose. All the passengers on the full-capacity coach tried to seek cover. Women and children were crying and screaming for help. Several passengers jumped overboard in terror."

Police said Antonio handed the scissors to his brother, who admitted stabbing two persons.

The incident occurred between the towns of Santa Rosa and Calamba, about 40 miles south of the capital.

Benton Is Swamped By Lakers 64-57

After leading for two quarters the Benton Indians fell before an onslaught by the Calloway County Lakers last night 64-57.

In the final quarter Calloway held the Indians to only six points while crumpling 18 markers through the hoops.

After a 19-13 first quarter and a 30-26 halftime score, both in favor of Benton, Calloway began to move out and at the three-quarter mark held a margin of 46-41.

The Lakers began to pour it on then and stiffened their defenses at the same time. With hot hands Calloway bombed the basket in the last half of the game for 54.2 percent and averaged 48 per cent for the entire fracas.

Benton hit for only 33.3 percent and was shottered on the boards as well 37 to 24.

Jimmy Lamb was high man with 20 with Crick dropping in 16 and B. Miller 15.

Mike Peak was top man for Benton with 14.

Murray Wins Last Night Over Rebels

The Tigers of Murray High School, behind at the end of the first stanza last night, overcame their deficit to down the Rebels of South Marshall, 66 to 54.

Murray was on the short end of a 15-14 score at the first quarter, but went on to hold a commanding 39-30 lead.

The Rebels tried to give up ground in the second half and even extended their lead in the third quarter to 55 to 38.

Glenn Wyatt-bombed the basket for 29 points for South Marshall, but all to no avail, since the Tigers were hungry for a win. Wyatt got nine field goals and hit 11 of 13 free throws for the victors.

Ricky Tidwell was high for Murray with 17 points with Doran adding 13, Fitts 10, Wasson 13, and Wilkins 10.

Filibuster Now Solved, For Two Months Anyway

By STEVEN GERSTEL
United Press International

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has solved its filibuster problem—at least temporarily—but sweeping it under the legislative rug for two months.

The dispute itself was left untouched by the behind-the-scenes agreement reached Friday, but Senate leaders did manage to delay a showdown until at least March 9.

The compromise came as pro-filibuster forces apparently were preparing to filibuster against a motion to bring up the proposed anti-filibuster resolution.

At present, it takes a two-thirds vote of senators present to cut off debate. Sen. Cinton P. Anderson, D-R. I., introduced a resolution which would permit three-fifths of the Senate to kill a filibuster. Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., went him one better by proposing that a simple majority be allowed to end debate.

Compromise Move
—But then a backstage huddle of leaders of all factions produced the

Both sides in the battle indicated their positions remained unchanged by the delay. Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., leader of the Senate's Southern forces, said it made no difference. Anderson said his side would be in the same position to press for the change.

"We just got reasonable," Anderson said. "We want to settle this and settle it right. We don't want to hold up the work of the Senate."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., a key man in the negotiations which produced the compromise, said he expected the rules committee to recommend against tampering with the filibuster rule.

Came As Surprise
The compromise agreement came as a surprise. One source said the decision was worked out less than an hour before it was acted upon. Several Southern senators were prepared to insist speaking against the anti-filibuster proposal and there was every indication that a big battle was in the offing.

In other developments:
—Committee: Senate Democrats transferred their Nov. 3 election triumph into vital legislative strength Friday by increasing the control of such key committees as foreign relations, banking, judiciary and labor.

Without any noticeable fuss, the Senate approved new member rules which in most cases meant more Democrats and less Republicans on the committees.

As a result of the reshuffle, Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., and Claiborne D. Peel, D-R.I., won coveted seats on the influential foreign relations committee, and Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., was assigned to the powerful appropriations committee.

Whip: A group of liberal House Republicans recommended to GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford that he choose either Rep. Peter H. B. Frelighyusen or Rep. Robert T. Stafford as party whip.

The endorsement of Frelighyusen of New Jersey, and Stafford of Vermont, came from the "Wednesday Club," a group of GOP House members generally considered to be the party's liberal bloc.

Of the two, Frelighyusen is generally considered to have the better chance. He has 12 years of service in the House; Stafford four years in the House.

That balmy weather was just too good to last.

We can be glad of one thing however, if it does freeze, the ground will have plenty of moisture in it. Frozes in dry ground or what kills the shrubbery.

Librarian Has Busy Time With Library Open Three Half Days

It is unusual for one to complain about too much business, but Miss Virginia Swann reported to the Public Library Board meeting Thursday night in its regular meeting. Since the bookmobile services in this county and city has been discontinued because of insufficient funds, and she is operating the library half days on Friday, Saturday and Monday, she is checking out books to library customers at the rate of 225 books a day and a half per minute.

She reports that she is completely swamped with demands from children and adults and that it is impossible to give the kind of service that she would like to with no help.

A few adults have volunteered to help shelved books and try to keep books returned on the shelf as that they may be found when needed.

The board commended Mrs. Swann for her sincere interest and efforts in trying to keep the library open to those who need it. Mrs. John Pasco, chairman of the board, commended Mrs. Swann and Mrs. Joan Blankenship and Mrs. Carolyn Adams, of the Regional office for their cooperation in helping keep the program going on a shoestring basis.

Help is badly needed in the library and anyone who knows anything about library work and is willing to give a few hours work would be welcomed, according to Mrs. Swann.

"Bitter sub-zero weather sweeping the northern plains today, producing snow squalls and icy gales in the Great Lakes region. Thunderstorms ahead of the cold front from Arkansas to Ohio.

Atomic Engine To Be Fired Sunday

JACKSON, FLATS, Nev. (AP)—The planned explosion of a deafening nuclear rocket engine, Kiwi-TNT, has been postponed at least until Sunday at this atomic test site.

Lack of winds which usually whip across the desert forced postponement of the firing scheduled for Friday. Atomic Energy Commission men argued the heat area for the safety demonstration.

Project Rover officials said Friday night there would be no firing before Sunday noon.

The force released by the explosion is expected to be less than the equivalent of a detonation of 100 pounds of TNT. However, the TNT in "Kiwi-TNT" stands for "Transient Nuclear Test."

"We hope to be able to show," said an AEC spokesman, "that our nuclear rocket engines are safe no matter what happens." The nuclear reactor is to be destroyed by mixing its two fuel elements together suddenly, as might occur in an earthquake or free accident.

Fire Insurance On Low Cost Dwellings Will Be Increased

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI)—There was no verbal opposition Friday to a proposed rate increase for "fire insurance" on low-cost dwellings.

The companies, members of the Kentucky Inspection Bureau, a rating organization, pleaded their cases at a two-hour public hearing. The only opposition came in the form of telegrams from Independence Volunteer Fire Department Chief Warner Cox, president of the Kentucky Firemen's Association, and Walton Volunteer Fire Chief Harley Worthington.

John L. Thompson, manager of the inspection bureau, said the companies he represented have had to place numerous restrictions on this type of insurance to the point that the market was "drying up."

He said the companies lost approximately $8 million from 1958 through 1963 on this type of policy, which covers "dwelling" that cannot qualify for so-called homeowners package insurance.

If the rates are approved by state Insurance Commissioner William E. Blythe, it would mean an additional $2.3 million a year in revenue for the KIB member companies.

According to the bureau, the average annual premium increase for the typical dwelling property would be $7 to $8 under the proposed rate change.

Roberson's Hib Burger Entered Wednesday

Roberson's Hib Burger Inn was entered sometime between closing time on Wednesday night and early Thursday morning. The break-in was discovered by a cook reporting for work on Thursday.

Entry to the eating establishment was gained by breaking down a back door.

Items stolen included a new radio, a kitchen knife, knife sharpener, about twenty pounds of wafers, some potato salad, several other food items, and some cigars.

The knife and knife sharpener and some of the food containers were found later in the back yard of the Murray Coal and Ice Company.

The juke box in the restaurant had been tampered with, but had not been opened. Apparently no other attempt was made to open the other vending machines.

No other damage or missing items was reported.

Nikita S. Khrushchev Now Lives In Sulking Retirement In Government Dacha Near Capital

By HENRY SHAPIRO

MOSCOW (UPI)—Three months after his fall from power, Nikita S. Khrushchev is living in sulking retirement, bitter at the ingratitude of his former friends and comrades, but not without creature comforts.

This can be reported confidentially today on the basis of investigations this correspondent has conducted during the past several weeks, and checked with authoritative sources who have proved accurately informed in the past.

The former premier, still vigorous and dynamic at 70 after his official retirement last Oct. 15, has declined a spacious and comfortable apartment in the government-held in reserve for him in the exclusive Lenin Hills area of Moscow.

Instead, he apparently has chosen to spend his declining years at the equally comfortable and exclusive country retreat of Ussovo, a government dacha set in a pine forest on the Moscow River, 25 miles west of the capital.

It is the same villa where Khrushchev, at the height of his power, once entertained former U. S. Vice President Richard Nixon, and the family of U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson.

Neither Khrushchev nor his friends or family is in any physical danger whatsoever or suffering from the slightest privations they might have endured in the Stalin era when to be purged was to be cruelly punished—or killed.

Khrushchev has, nevertheless, at least temporarily become an "unperson" and his historic reputation may be tarnished.

He has suffered the profound humiliation that only a man who has reached the apex of power can appreciate. He has been condemned to political inactivity and silence.

However, if the gregarious Nikita Sergeevitch has not been prominent in public since his official fall last October, it has been by his own choice.

Refuses Visitors — He has refused to receive foreign Communist delegations which rushed to Moscow in late October seeking explanations for his disgrace.

And he has turned a deaf ear to all requests for interviews, statements and visits by anyone but his closest friends and relatives.

State Teams Have Full Cage Card

By United Press International

A dozen games featuring Kentucky college teams are on today's schedule, headed by Kentucky's Southeastern Conference clash with Louisiana State at Baton Rouge tonight.

In the only Kentucky college tilt Friday night Villa Madonna polished off Centre 97-88 at Covington.

Kentucky seeks to even its SEC record at 1-1 when it invades LSU on the start of a three-game road swing. The Wildcats, who have yet to win on the road in three tries, will travel to Baton Rouge for the home encounter Jan. 18 against Auburn.

Victory over LSU would give Kentucky a 6-5 season record and its 23rd triumph over the Tigers in 24 meetings.

Louisville, a surprisingly strong entry in the Missouri Valley Conference race, faced Tulsa in the O'Connell regional game.

The remainder of the Kentucky college schedule has Georgetown at Berea for a KMAC contest, Tennessee Wesleyan at Cumberland, and Kentucky State host to archrival Tennessee State at Beaufort.

Kentucky State, Beaufort at Lockport, Ill., to meet Lewis College, Campbellsville at Oakland City, Ind., and Transylvania at Hanover, Ind.

Joe Namath To Start For The South

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI)—Some of pro football's top college rookies, including quarterback Joe Namath of Alabama, square off today as the North meets the South in the 10th annual Senior Bowl classic.

The South was a six-point favorite going into the game, but mostly to Namath's reputation as a passer.

The game figured to become a display of aerial wizardry featuring Namath, who signed a $100,000 contract with the New York Jets, and Steve Test of Florida State, who set Gator Bowl passing records a week ago.

The North also had plenty of scoring punch in quarterback Tom Myers of Northwestern, fullback Tom Nowatzke of Indiana and halfback Dick Gordon of Michigan State.

RAILS WEST By FRANK WYNNE

CHAPTER 23

Riding back toward railroad with Miles Magruder, Chance had the feeling that at last, perhaps, the wind had changed for them. Breaking up the Santiago-Kima band of renegades had been a stout resistance against Owen Murdock's plans. He didn't know whether Lena Murdock had influenced Curt Leasing's unbridled construction of the tunnel, but he was convinced now that Leasing would proceed without hesitation to do a quick and sound job.

Sunup, and light splashed like a glowing liquid across the swells and dips of the desert country. They descended through the foothills and came out onto the hardpan flats, and saw ahead of them the completed bridge across the Smokes. Further away, faintly in the distance, was the advancing line of track. Chance frowned. "The bridge looks deserted."

"Aye."

"There ought to be a guard posted there."

"I'm inclined to agree," Magruder said. "No teller" what Murdock and his hired grizzlies might be up to. I wouldn't put it past 'em to set the bridge afire."

On the heels of his last word, as if by foreordination, the bridge disintegrated. Shock welled down through Chance's nerve fibers. He saw the bridge become a tumbling dusty mass of sticks; he heard the rumbling crack of an explosion. "Son of a snake!" Magruder cried, and Chance put spurs to his horse.

He left the Irishman quickly behind and rushed at a dead run toward the subsiding debris that had been, not two minutes ago, a bridge substantial enough to support an iron locomotive and a train heavy with freight. As he leaped around the end of a low ground-swell, he saw a horseback figure riding away from the bridge.

Chance changed his course to intercept the rider and swept across the flats with the wind beating his face and the horse pounding muscularly under him. Gaining steadily, he saw the fugitive's horse stumble suddenly, probably in a gopher hole, and spill over violently, nursing its shoulder. Through the dust and even from the distance Chance heard his howl of pain as his shoulder hit the earth. Chance plunged forward, galloping until he reined the horse in savagely and leaped from the saddle with his gun up. Ed Craig lay twisted with pain. He looked up dully, recognizing Chance, and suddenly went with feverish speed for his

Magruder grumbled petulantly and went out. Colored Epsom salt might see Mr. McIntosh for an honest deal on new or used quality homes, 4th and Sycamore. J-14-P

Chance kicked him out of his flat. "Get up," he said savagely.

Craig stood up slowly, painfully. "I think I busted my shoulder," he said in a whisper.

Chance grabbed his left shoulder roughly and shook him. Craig winced with pain. Chance said, "Just bruised," in a tone of contempt. Shapes swam into focus. He saw the sloping wall-roof of a tent rising above him; he saw the anxious face of Elleen Magruder nearby, and farther back the round, concerned face of Colonel Evernight. Miles Magruder stood by at the colonel's elbow. Chance looked his dry lips. "What happened?"

"You got wallpooped by that spalpeen," Magruder said.

Chance saw moisture in Elleen's eyes; she bent her head and turned her face against his shoulder. "I was afraid," she whispered. Chance brought up his hand, feeling the clumsy weight of it, and let it rest on her back.

Magruder said, "I was riding up when he hit you with that rock. He started to go after your gun, but I shot in the air, and he ran for your horse. I could have followed him, but you were hurt. I brought you in."

"I'm obliged to you, Miles." He reached up and felt his head. It was swarpped in a thick bandage.

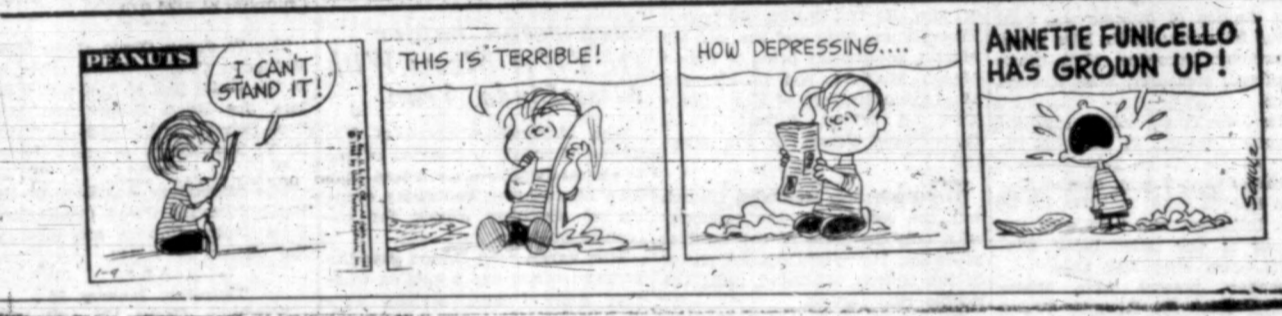

"The doc said you'd be fit as can be in no time," Magruder said.

"You were lucky," the colonel put in. "I've got men scouring the town for Ed Craig. O'Brien's out at the bridge site with a big crew—we're already starting to rebuild. That spot has to be completed before the rains reach it."

"O'Brien can do it if anybody can," Magruder said. "I'm going uptown to have a look around for Craig."

Chance grunted against the throbb of his headache. "If you find him, take him alive. Miles, I want him to talk."

Dear Abby

Diplomatic "Touch"!
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I sent out R. E. V. F. invitations to my daughter's wedding, which included the ceremony, reception and dinner. I received a telephone call from one of the invited guests (not a relative) who said that she and her husband couldn't attend because they were going to be out of town, but she was sending her teen-aged daughter and the girl's boy friend to "represent the family." She said it was considered proper because she read where the President and Mrs. Johnson couldn't attend the wedding of the King of Greece, so they sent their daughter to "represent" them. I didn't know what else to say, so I said, "Your daughter and her boy friend will be very welcome." Would you please tell me if this is really proper?

BRIDE'S MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: Wedding invitations (or any personal invitation, for that matter) are NOT transferable. The heads of state, however, abide by different rules. When a President or King is unable to accept an invitation, it is customary to send someone to represent his country. You got a royal raking.

DEAR ABBY: I am 37, have two children, 11 and 15, and have been divorced for nine years. I met a man who was 38 and good-looking. He said he was single, I fell awfully hard for him. He gave me gifts and money, and we talked of marriage, but something always came up to delay it.

In October I found out I was pregnant. When I told him, he said he would marry me. I called the place where he rooms and a woman answered the phone. She said she was his wife. I almost fainted. I told her who I was and she said she felt "sorry" for me.

When I told my boy friend everything, he said the woman on the phone calls herself his "wife" but they aren't really married. It's more like a common law arrangement. Can a man with a common law wife take a legal wife? I don't want to get mixed up with baggage. Where does all this leave me?

TOO DUMB FOR WORDS
DEAR DUMB: It leaves you with approximately 200,000 other trusting souls, who in 1964, bore illegitimate babies. Ask a lawyer if your state recognizes common law marriages. And if you want the name of a Home for Unwed Mothers, send me your name and address and I will help you.

DEAR ABBY: Every time I go to the bakery for doughnuts, the clerk uses a small piece of waxed paper to nick up the doughnuts and put them in a sack. I assume this is because she also handles money and does not want to transmit the germs from the money to the doughnuts. So far this is just fine. But then she stuffs the waxed paper, which is full of germs into the sack on top of the doughnuts, closes the sack and gives me the doughnuts. What must we do to get the bakerges to KEEP the waxed paper

Suit Story Told In Up And Down Hem

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — The long and short of the suit story for spring is told in the lengthening of jackets and the abbreviation of hemlines. To go with the trend: the return of pleated or flared, swirling skirts.

Some suit jackets were dropped low enough to look like tunics, but most of the longer ones ended at either wrist or fingertip length. As for skirts, such firms as Modist Sans & Frazan shortened them to expose the entire knee. Other firms are less drastic, although all hemlines seem to have inched up.

The skinny suit skirt is in competition with the fuller one. Most skirts have apron-like front panels, gored; front pleating; all-round knife or inverted pleating, kick pleats, or gathers falling from hip yokes.

Don't give up, however, if you are set on a short jacketed suit, for jackets which end at the waistline or a couple of inches below still are plentiful.

Sleeves join hemlines in the shortening trend. You'll find most suit sleeves chopped off just below the elbow. Several designers, however, show the elbow. Several designers, however, show the above-elbow length.

Typical of the new look to suits is one from Nat Kaplan, New York, with a white jacket, wrist length and with above-the-elbow sleeves. The jacket has a hint of a fit and comes with double-row-of-brass buttons for closing.

Kaplan was one of the firms to show collections Wednesday to visiting fashion reporters, in New York for the 44th semi-annual "National Press Week" held this week by the New York Couture

Shoppers Being Caught

More people were caught shoplifting at Department Air Force before in history according to an announcement made today by Ivan Jett, Executive Vice President of the Kentucky Retail Federation.

Losses from this crime are costing consumers approximately $30 million annually in Kentucky. In fact, today shoplifting losses are larger than any other crime committed in the State.

According to the American Bankers' Association, during the first six months of 1964 there were 296 successful bank hold-ups in the nation with total take of $1,405,000. Kentuckians are losing more from shoplifting than all of the bank hold-ups in the Nation.

This has become such a major problem that police departments are now photographing and fingerprinting convicted shoplifters and a circular distributed to police departments, sheriff's offices and retailers throughout the State. Law enforcement agencies, schools, newspapers and retailers are all cooperating together to reduce these losses.

OBTAINS BIG PACT

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (UPI) — Fairchild Hiller Corp. has obtained a $4.62 million Air Force contract for aerial cameras and a $6.2 million follow on contract from McDonnell Aircraft Corp. for electronic equipment for RF4 advanced reconnaissance aircraft.

Group, and for the American Defense Group shows early next week.

Several of the Monte Sano suit jackets came tied with wide leather sashes, ending in bows at the front. Necklines on both suits and suit dresses were airily open with lapels tailored wide and long.
