By HARRY FERGUSON United Press International

LONDON (AP) — The nation Sir Winston Churchill saved in its most desperate hour began trying to pay back its debt to him today.

The protocol and precedents of centuries are being swept aside to make sure that Britain pays its last full measure of devotion to the 90-year-old man who died Sunday.

Queen Elizabeth, contending a state funeral and Parliament will ratify her decree this afternoon.

And then, in an unprecedented move, it was announced the queen and members of the royal family would attend the funeral in St. Paul's Cathedral on Saturday.

Royalty rarely attends funerals except those of other royals. And Churchill, despite the fact that he was a knight of the realm, was a commoner. Doubtless he could have had any degree in the British peerage he desired, but accepted the nobility because that enabled him to remain in the House of Commons.

The queen's presence will be an honor that not even was accorded to the Duke of Wellington, conqueror of Napoleon at Waterloo.

Two Concerts Are Set Early In February

The New York Baroque Ensemble will present a concert in Martin, Tennessee on February 1 at 8:00 p.m.

On February 5, "The World of Grib Sandburg" will be presented in Paris, Tennessee at the Grove High School Auditorium.

Murray members of the Civic Music Association may attend both of these performances by presenting their local membership cards.

Organized in 1961, the N.Y. Baroque Ensemble has, since that time, given six recitals at Carnegie Recital Hall in New York City and has toured the United States and Canada.

In addition to the violin, flute and oboe, and bassoon, the ensemble features the lute, harpsichord and recorder, typical Baroque instruments.

They specialize in music of the period 1600 through 1770, including the works of Bach, composers as Bach, Handel, Vivaldi, Purcell, Couperin, and Telemann. They have also given some rather unique programs, such as the New York premiere of Martin Maxis' "Gail Blinder Operation" for viola da gamba, harpsichord and narrator, and have had music written especially for them, as was Gary Sherman's "Schizoid Quintet."

In witness to their quality, they have received highly favorable reviews from critics of the New York Times, the New York Herald Tribune, Musical America, and other publications of the United States and Canada.

Will Provide Space For 1000 Ranges Per Day Potential

Plans are being completed for a substantial expansion of manufacturing and storage facilities at the Murray Division of The Tappan Co., it was announced today by Robert Moyer, vice president and general manager.

The construction plans will expand present plant size by some 33,000 square feet.

"Barring any unforeseen conditions which might change initial planning, construction probably will begin within the next 8 weeks," Moyer said.

"The proposed new plant addition will be of steel and masonry construction to conform to the existing plant building."

The planned addition will be tied to the plant directly west of the main office entrance and will involve excavation of a portion of the present parking lot.

Besides providing space for storage of in-process parts and materials, the proposed expansion will include a modern conveyerized paint system.

Overall cost of the planned expansion will exceed a quarter-million dollars, according to Moyer.

The expansion is designed to provide space to increase production potential up to 1,000 units per day.

The local plant currently is producing gas and electric ranges at a rate of 700 per day. Present employment includes more than 600 factory and office workers.

"This substantial investment by The Tappan Company in Murray is needed to improve operations and overall efficiency so that the Murray plant can retain its position in the highly competitive range manufacturing industry," Moyer said.

The proposed expansion plans represent the latest of several expansion moves by the company here. The plant has been increased in size well over two times and the most modern machinery in the business has been installed for the factory which was installed in the last major expansion.

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Monday, Jan. 25, the 25th day of 1965 with 340 to follow. The moon is approaching its new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, and Mars. The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

Scottish poet Robert Burns was born on this day in 1733. On this day in history: In 1787, a Revolutionary Army captain, Daniel Shay, led 2,000 debt-ridden men against the federal arsenal in Springfield, Mass., hoping to overthrow the government. In 1863, General Joseph Hooker succeeded General Ambrose Burnside as commander of the Northern Army of the Potomac. In 1890, the United Mine Workers Union was formed and affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. In 1915, Alexander Graham Bell opened the first cross-country telephone service.

A thought for the day — Robert Burns wrote: "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn."

Rocks From Antarctica Gives Clues

By JOSEPH L. MILLER
United Press International
WASHINGTON 49c — Three scientists are on their way home from Antarctica with 300 pounds of rock which may help to confirm a theory that the Southern Hemisphere once cradled a "super continent" which broke up into drifting parts millions of years ago. The rocks were collected at considerable cost in danger and hardship from "Nunatak," the peaks of mountains 400 miles from the South Pole which are almost buried under ice a mile deep in some places.

Gerald F. Webers and Alan Rogers, University of Minnesota geologists, and Roger Buchanan, a Hawaiian biologist, "camped for a month in a remote and hostile area of the Antarctic ice cap while gathering their rock samples. According to the National Science Foundation, which supported the work, the samples should "provide hints about the appearance of Antarctica beneath a mask of snow and ice."

The samples were collected from the Paganus Nunatak, the Hart Hills, and the Whitemore Mountains, midway between the Ross and Weddell seas. These seas are indentations on opposite sides of the Western Hemisphere half of Antarctica. The peaks, the highest of which rises 2,740 feet above the icecap, apparently are the topmost parts of a ridge that runs under the ice between the two seas.

Scientists once thought that if the ice shielded most of Antarctica would be revealed as an isolated ocean instead of part of a continuous south polar continent. Evidence of the mountains ridge appears, by the three scientists' careful study of this island-under-the-ice theory.

Business Highlights

By United Press International
NEW YORK: Record or sharply higher profits of industry giants are starting to roll in confirming optimistic forecasts and pointing to continuing booming business at least through the first quarter. Republic Steel Corp., the nation's No. 3 steel producer, reported profits soared more than 30 per cent on record sales for 1964. Texaco Inc. had record profits and peak production. Kennecott cleared higher metal price, reduced costs and lower Chilean taxes.

WASHINGTON: The Treasury said it did not look for the increase in the West German discount rate that country. The department said the increase "should not have any significant influence" on the national monetary situation. The central bank hiked the discount rate to 3.5 per cent to curb any overheating of the economy.

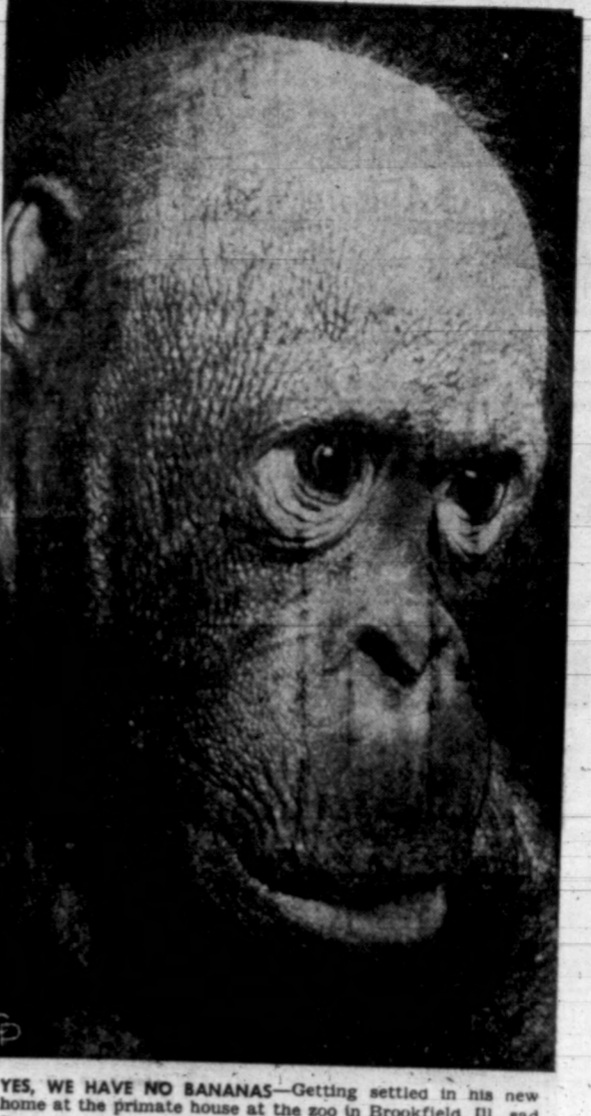

DETROIT: Auto production this week is slated to increase slightly over the previous week and rise 17 per cent over a year ago. Production was scheduled at 209,268 units. Assemblies at General Motors and Chrysler plants will be down from last week, but Ford plans an increase in output.

Representative Questions Bond Issue Set For November

LOUISVILLE 49c — State Rep. Bruce Blythe, R-Jefferson, press secretary for Republican state legislators said today that he and some of his fellow Republicans question whether Kentucky should be "plunged into further debt" with the proposed $176 million bond issue. The bond issue will be submitted to the voters in a referendum next November.

"I would like to see a detailed breakdown of every dollar of the bond issue before I could fully support it," Blythe said. He acknowledged that $942 million of the sum is needed as matching funds to obtain federal highway allocations. As for the additional $82 million, Blythe said, "We surmise that he Gov. Edward T. Breathitt is going to use the something for everybody" technique in spreading this money in small window dressing projects all over Kentucky and then accuse anyone against the bond issue of being against schools, children, motherhood, etcetera."

Blythe said he and several of his GOP colleagues wonder where the state administration will get the money for the projects planned by Breathitt in the next biennium, unless it raises taxes. Breathitt has been quoted as saying that the additional money will be realized from the increased revenue of an expanding economy. The Jefferson County lawmaker said state GOP legislators aim to get the governor "sticks to his no-new-taxes pledge."

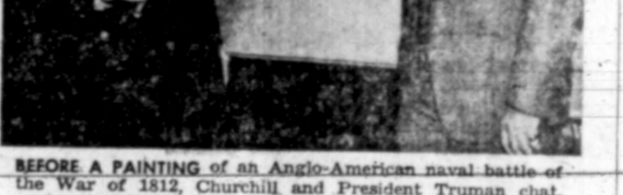

Blythe said Republican legislators in the 1966 General Assembly probably will introduce bills to: —Abolish "unfair production tax"; —Reduce state income taxes proportional to the federal income tax cut of 1964. —Encourage more private enterprise and discourage state and federal interference and bureaucracy.

The Republicans' press secretary said a platform committee of GOP state legislators is working on a proposed safety program which its candidates can run on the November elections. Points suggested for the safety program include: —Require seat belts for all cars; —A compact with neighboring state to provide stricter interstate regulations in driver licensing; —Marking all state cars as "safety vehicles" to give the appearance of a beefed-up state police force, thus serving as a deterrent to would-be violators; —Allocation of funds to equip all state police cars with radar.

Blythe said the GOP legislators will not take a negative posture toward all the programs Breathitt wants. "There are many measures he wants which most of us can find no fault with," Blythe said. "We don't intend to be labeled obstructionists."

Lynn Grove Wins Grade Tourney

The Lynn Grove Wildcats are the 1965 champions of the Calloway County Grade School Tourney. They won the championship by defeating the Kirksby Eagles 22 to 24 in the finals played Saturday night at Jeffrey gym.

Jumping into an early lead the Wildcats led 12 to 2 at the end of the first stanza, but the Eagles came from behind in the second quarter to hold the Wildcats to two points while they were making 10 for the halftime score of 14 to 12.

During the third quarter the Eagles kept right on fighting and led by one point, 18-18 at the end of the third period. However the Lynn Grove team came back strong in the final period to outscore the Eagles with the final score being 22 to 24. Lynn Grove is coached by Raymond Story and Kirksby by M. B. Rogers.

In the consolation game the Hazel Lions, coached by Tom Rushing, defeated the New Concord Redbirds.

The All Tournament team chosen was as follows: R. D. Haneline, Lynn Grove, Mike Ernstberger, New Concord, Jimmy Bramlet, Hazel, Charles Greer, Kirksby, Danny Ross, Faxon, Charlie Hargrove, Kirksby, Pat Lamb, Lynn Grove, Johnny Miller, New Concord, Randy Lassiter, Hazel, and Roger Wilson, Lynn Grove.

The proceeds from the tournament are divided equally among the six elementary schools. Other coaches are Charlie Lassiter for Almo and Fred Curd for Faxon.

Mike Redd May Enter Marshall University

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — Basketball star Mike Redd, thwarted in his bid to re-enter Kentucky Wesleyan College, now hopes to join his brother at Marshall University here.

Sonny Allen, Marshall freshman coach, revealed today that the former All-Star from Louisville Seneca has applied for enrollment at Marshall. His brother, ex-Marine Robert Redd, is a regular on the Marshall freshman basketball team.

Allen said the college is now awaiting a transcript of Redd's academic record from Wesleyan.

If accepted at Marshall, Redd could become eligible for basketball the second semester of next year, providing he meets Marshall's scholastic requirements for two semesters.

"If his grades aren't high enough to get into Marshall now," Allen said, "he might enter some junior college where he could raise his marks high enough to be accepted here next year."

Kentucky Wesleyan rejected Redd's application for readmission earlier this month because he withdrew from school last May without notifying college officials and before completing his semester's work. Consequently, he received all failing grades.

As a freshman, Redd was the leading scorer on the Wesleyan varsity squad last season.

Jimmy Brown Takes Home The $10,800 Hickok Diamond Belt

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — Full-back Jimmy Brown of the Cleveland Browns took home the $10,800 Hickok diamond-studded belt today in a photo finish victory over auto racer, A. J. Foyt.

The 28-year-old Brown was voted "professional athlete of the year" in a nationwide poll of sports writers and sportscasters although Foyt attracted more first-place votes.

Brown had 26 votes for first place and a total of 161 points.

Foyt, currently hospitalized at Riverside, California, drew 38 first place votes but only 154 points.

Dean Chance of the Los Angeles Angels finished third in this year's voting with 97 points, and Johnny Unitas of the Baltimore Colts was fourth with 80 points and Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals and U. S. Open champion Ken Venturi were tied for fifth with 68 points apiece.

LABOUR'S MISCARRIAGE—The candidates in the by-election in London's Leyton section are shown after the election, the Conservative Party's Ronald Buxton (left), the winner, and Labour's Patrick Gordon Walker, smiling, though stunned by defeat. It's Walker's second defeat in three months, and seems to preage the end of him in the post of foreign secretary. Stout tradition requires that cabinet members sit either in the House of Commons or the House of Lords.

If that isn't enough of a hint, try QuickWide-Track. (This is their year.) Or Turbo Hydramatic, the new transmission you can order that does away with roaring between shifts. Coupled with the quicker engines for the '66 Pontiac, it gives the roaring for whenever you need it. When you don't, the extra-torque engines let you just loaf along. Meredith Farley Is Honored At Shower At Fellowship Hall

Miss Meredith Farley, January 27th bride-elect of David H. Miller, was complimented with a miscellaneous shower in the fellowship hall of the Memorial Baptist Church on Friday, January 15, at seven-thirty o'clock in the evening.

The gracious hostesses for the pre-nuptial occasion were Mesdames Cletus Hubbs, Nolan Adams, Colfield Yancey, Kenneth Owen, John Thompson, Criss Spann, and Mason Billington.

For the event the honoree chose to wear a black and white checked suit and was presented a corsage of white carnations by the hostesses. Mrs. Joe Pat Farley, the honoree's mother and Mrs. Claude Miller, the honoree's mother-in-law to be, were also presented hostesses' gift corsages of white carnations.

Games were played with Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Kenneth Owen being the recipients of the gifts. Miss Farley opened her many lovely gifts were displayed on a table overlaid with a yellow cloth centered with a bride and groom statuette and wedding bells.

Refreshments were served from the beautifully appointed table draped in an imported lace cloth over yellow and centered with an arrangement of yellow roses flanked by yellow tapers in crystal candleholders. Yellow punch, individual cakes iced in yellow with wedding bells on top, nuts and mints were served. The appointments were all in crystal.

Dear Abby... Powerfully Suspicious!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A good friend of mine came to me with a problem and not knowing how to advise her, I am writing to you. Her gentleman friend gave her a fur jacket for Christmas. It smelled awful and one of the hooks was missing. The lining looked frayed around the collar, and worse yet, it was several sizes too large for her. She asked him where he got it so she could exchange it for one her size, but he wouldn't tell her. He keeps asking her when she is going to wear it. She thinks the world of this fellow and hates to hurt his feelings, but she says she just couldn't wear that jacket anywhere. What should she do?

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: She should tell him that she appreciates the thoughtfulness, but she isn't able to wear the jacket because it is much too large for her. And if she really "thinks the world of him," she might confide that if he paid antithemans adorned the piano. Fifty persons were present or sent gifts.

for a new jacket, he got skunked. DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a mediocre piano player who fancies himself an accomplished musician and, while a guest in someone's home, would strike a few chords and exclaim in a voice full of gusto, "OH, FOR HEAVEN'S SAKE, WHEN WAS THIS PIANO TUNED LAST?"

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: I would say he had a good ear and bad manners. P. S. Someone should tell the host (in a voice please!) to get the piano tuned.

DEAR ABBY: I am an ex-service woman. After World War II I took my discharge in the Philippines and accepted a "cool" service job in Japan. At that time, my sister called me a "vagabond" and tried to get me home. I didn't, and I loved Japan. A few years later I wrote and told her I was taking a foreign job with the Navy in Guam. She replied, "What do you want to go to a place like THAT for?" I went and I had a ball.

Last year, when I accepted a job in Alaska, I phoned my sister long distance and she yelled so loudly I had to hold the receiver a foot away from my ear. This year I am faced with having to tell my sister I have another job offer. So long, Kenny! I need the money and crave the adventure. My sister is getting on in years and I don't want to upset her. Please advise.

GLOBE-TROTTER

DEAR GLOBE-TROTTER: So far you've done an excellent job of leading an exciting and independent life. I don't know what you owe your sister, but you owe yourself more. Do what you want to do. And don't feel guilty.

CONFIDENTIAL TO DISAPPOINTED FATHER IN KENTFIELD: Don't be too hard on the boy. You can be grateful for one thing — with those grades you know he hasn't been cheating.

Tennis Fashion Winners Champion Players Approve Designs

By SUSAN BARDEN

Many and varied are the specialist sports costumes on view at important tennis matches all over the country. But until recently the players themselves have subscribed to rather regulation outfits. However, this season designers have produced some delightful active sports costumes for the disaffair tennis enthusiast. And both professionals and amateurs have welcomed the new innovations with true feminine enthusiasm.

The three dresses pictured are examples of the trend. They are very dainty and pretty and are equally as practical, being made of washable, durable polyester blend fabrics and constructed on lines that meet the approval of officials of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

STAYS LIKE THIS — German actress Christiane Schmidt, posed stately in Hollywood, turned down Columbia Pictures' request that she change her name to something a bit more pronounceable. She said if she changed her name, people wouldn't know who she was. She makes her American debut in "Ship of Fools," which really is what Columbia wants you to know.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED - Cecily Thompson had reason to be annoyed when she received a letter from New York City. It was from a man she had never met. Cecily's father, Simon, was a man of many talents. He was a successful businessman, a skilled pianist, and a charming host. Cecily had always been proud of her father and his accomplishments. But now, she felt a sense of loss and longing. She had never met the man in the letter, but she felt a deep connection to him. She had heard stories about him from her mother and grandmother, and she had always been fascinated by his life. Now, she was realizing that she had never truly known him. She had only seen the surface of his life, the public persona that he had created for himself. She was beginning to understand the man behind the name, and she was realizing that she had lost a part of herself when she had lost her father.

CHAPTER 9

After so late a breakfast, you won't want any lunch," Cecily told Cecily. "I must go and see how John has arranged the tables and the flowers."

"I'd forgotten. Your bridge club, isn't it?"

"Don't call it a club; it's just a few old friends - all women, unfortunately. The men are all out playing golf, or fooling around in boats pretending to fish or something in the old days."

"Oh, Grandma, don't talk about the old days. Things aren't what they were, and what's more, they never were."

"You're right. I'm beginning to talk like my own mother; but things have changed. When I read the names of the carnival people, half the time I don't know who their grandfathers were."

"As if Octavia Thompson could ever let anyone forget her great-grandfather was Seaborn. Octavia's father, Michael Murphy, Simonie insisted on calling herself a Seaborn and has even got her elected president of the 'Anti Salon. You must know that things have changed. You were invited to all the balls, and the only one you went to was the Conus."

"I did, and danced my feet off, but the only reason I went was because Simon and John belonged to the Conus crew. I did have a good time, but that sort of thing doesn't really interest me much any more."

"Yes," said Eliot sorrowfully. "Wonder what Mama would have said at the idea of your working as a sort of waitress."

"What else could I do? The Ursulines gave me as much education as I could take. When they found that I wasn't any good at the piano - and that my sewing was deplorable and my history awful, Sister Mary Alphonse did suggest that I take a business course, but that didn't interest me, either, at the time. And I remember when I spoke to you about it, you weren't very enthusiastic. So I'm trained for nothing."

"If I hadn't had that dreadful attack of flu just when you graduated, everything would have been different; but I was too weak to do the right things for you, and then it was Lent and..."

"It wouldn't have made any difference, Grandma. I'm sorry you were sick, but if it stopped you from giving lots of parties for me, it was a good thing. Most of the other girls who graduated with me are doing things, except of course the ones who married right away. Patti O'Brien is in the Tourist Bureau and Daphne Collins is a secretary in a bank, and some of them have even gone on to college."

"You could have gone to college if you had wanted to. I had money enough for that."

"I didn't want to," Cecily told her grandmother. "And I don't go now. I like what I'm doing."

"Well, if it amuses you... I must go and dress. You can have the car if you want it. I'm not using it today."

"Thanks, I'll see."

AT THE moment, Cecily couldn't think of anyone she wanted to go. It was pleasant sitting there on the bayou, looking out on the bayou, and beyond its tangled growth of stunted live oaks and swamp cedars to where the main channel of the river could be seen with its river traffic.

Down below her, on their own dock, there was a rowboat and a small modern launch, and off at a little distance, sunk in the mud, she could see the remains of the old pier that Simon and John had fooled around in until they grew older and bought the launch which they named the Firefly.

There was a narrow channel through swampy growth, with just room for the Firefly to move out into the river, though sometimes the water was almost too shallow to carry it. The boys kept the boat here because neither of them had homes near the water and because this had been a second home for them all their lives.

It was very silent now; the birds were always quiet at noon and the chorus of frogs wouldn't begin until dusk. Cecily was lying on the chaise, her slim brown legs stretched out, and she was almost asleep when she was roused by Rose's voice.

"Telephone, Miss Cecily."

There was an extension in her grandmother's bedroom, and Cecily took the call there. It was Simon on the telephone. "I hope you haven't forgotten that you're supposed to go to Louise Thompson's party this afternoon?" he said.

"Yes, I had forgotten. I suppose we have to go."

"Why not? It might be fun. Mrs. Thompson calls it a tea dance. I hope she doesn't serve tea, and someone told me that she made it Saturday afternoon so that some of us working-class people could come. Shall I pick you up?"

"No, thanks. Grandma never offered me the car and I'll meet you there. I've mislaid my invitation, but it's at the Sheraton-Charles, isn't it?"

"That's right - four to whenever."

A year ago, Cecily had been invited to every important party that she hadn't refused most of them, the invitations had become more frequent, a thing that didn't bother Cecily at all but gave Madame Pincheon a feeling of guilt because she hadn't done her part in entertaining.

As she dressed, Cecily thought about Louise Thompson, a year younger than herself, who was doing all the correct things, quite as much from her own inclination as from her mother's management.

Madame Pincheon looked at Cecily approvingly when she came downstairs, beautifully dressed in white. Told where she was going, that also pleased her grandmother.

"Miss Cecily look just like a bride," Philofoine had come in from the kitchen to ask a question about the sandwiches to be served at tea.

"Almost too bride-like," Cecily's grandmother said. "You ought to have at least one touch of color."

"Aren't my yellow eyes, my hair, and my red, red lips color enough, Grandma?"

"Is Octavia entertaining at home?"

"No. At the Sheraton-Charles."

"She would do that. Octavia's house is big enough, but with all her money, she can't keep good servants and those she would present caterers, men even more than they would the extra work. I'm glad you're going, anyway. Have a good time."

MOMENT OF MEDITATION and sadness is spent by Churchill at the Hyde Park, N. Y., grave of President Roosevelt, his wartime friend and co-companion of Allied victory strategy.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La.: Cost of proving... constant aggression is not profitable will be no greater in South Viet Nam than some-where else in the world.

Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev.: "We should increase our aid to Viet Nam to let that country follow the policy of hot pursuit... whatever steps necessary..."

Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark.: Foreign Relations chairman: "We should continue our efforts for the present" in working out a stable Viet Nam solution.

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass.: "We certainly cannot get out of South Viet Nam, at least for the present time. I would not... favor bombing..." North Viet Nam.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash.: "In order for South Viet Nam to survive as a 'neutral,' it must be strong enough to protect its territorial integrity."

Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont.: "We should not withdraw unless and until a satisfactory, internationally-guaranteed settlement is achieved." Anti-expansion.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va.: "I wish we could get out of South Viet Nam, but I don't see how... or greatly expand our effort there without risk of war with China."

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa: "We should take steps to see that those South Vietnamese borders are sealed" Asks a "debarment" policy in South Viet Nam.

SEEN AND HEARD

(Continued From Page 1) the former Shirley Joyce Chiles has a new record out. The last one featured Shirley Joyce on the piano and organ. This one has one side which is similar and the other side has Shirley and her husband singing. We are having some beautiful weather, but it is difficult to enjoy it completely because we know that it is supposed to be bad. That is sort of like taking off from work. On a holiday we can really relax but if it is not a holiday there is a feeling of guilt and the feeling that we should really be at work. Winston Churchill can be called the "Man of the Century" with no reservations. Seldom has a man epitomized a nation so well. As his wife Clementine said, it is as if a part of Britain had died. Policeman out at Sycamore and South 12th Streets directing the traffic. This is a good idea especially at the rush hour. A policeman can suggest the traffic signals and indeed, improve on them. This is one area where the Murray Police Department can render a service to motorists by stepping in at a busy time of the day to keep traffic moving. Holland Drug Store is undergoing a thorough remodeling. The sign on the door says "Pardon Our Dust Remodel We Must". The Murray Paint and Wallpaper Company, now a Sherwin-Williams store, is being remodeled too. Folks are beginning to make known their intentions about running for some office. Lot of rumors about who is going to run for what also. The primary on May 25 will see people seeking city council offices.

(Continued From Page 1) of its findings probably within three months. Dr. Owen Love, coordinator and legal counsel for the committee, issued a statement by the group, which deplored "an apparent lack of appearance attached to education by many Louisville citizens." Love said this conclusion is based upon "unsuccessful efforts by Louisville citizens to enact adequate financial provisions to operate the schools and the sustained unrest among teachers." The investigating committee will meet in another city, probably Washington, to evaluate its findings and to take school job here, urging teachers in the Louisville system not to do unpaid work in any of the schools, and even advising Louisville teachers to leave the system. Mayers, city judge, city prosecuting attorney, magistrate of the Fiscal Court, County Judge, County Attorney, Sheriff, County Court Clerk, County Jailor. John Scott was looking this morning the difference between the city attorney and the city prosecuting attorney. The city attorney is named by the city council and is the "legal" advisor to the mayor and council. The city prosecuting attorney is elected by the people and prosecutes cases in the city police court. Cities in the third, second and first class have them. We did not have one when we were a fourth class city. Wade Crawford holds the position now.

WORLD PAYS

(Continued From Page 1) dered a state funeral but did not attend it. World John Queen. The world joined the queen in paying tribute Every hour throughout Sunday a postal truck halted in front of No. 28 Hyde Park Gate and left a bar. By 3 p.m. more than 400 cables and telegrams had been delivered, and then the delivery ceased to make sure that members of the Churchill family would not be disturbed throughout the evening. This morning the postal authorities again started moving the enormous backlog of condolences which grew by the hour. One message Sunday was from Queen Elizabeth to Lady Churchill: "The news of Sir Winston Churchill's death causes ineffable grief to me and my husband. We send our warmest sympathy to you and your family. The world is in the power by the loss of his many-sided genius, while the survival of this country and the sister nations of the Commonwealth in the face of the greatest danger that has ever threatened them, will be a perpetual memorial to his leadership, his vision and his indomitable courage." People Express Grief. People did not wait for official action to express their sorrow. The little town of Westham, where the Churchills have a country home, announced it would erect a statue and set up an educational fund. The American commander of the Polar submarine base at Holy Loch, Scotland, without waiting for instructions from Washington, brought the Stars and Stripes down to his staff. At the end of Hyde Park Gate a man stood up the rain making rapid motions with his hands to a solemn group around him. He was telling the deaf people Churchill was dead. The Times of London for the first time in 50 years carried the news about Churchill on its front page. Usually the page is filled with classified ads. Starting Wednesday the body will lie in state for three days in Westminster Hall next to be confused with Westminster Abbey at the Parliament building. Churchill drew up his own funeral plans and they will be followed as explicitly as possible. He wanted to be taken on a gun carriage to St. Paul's Cathedral and it will be done on Saturday. He wanted to be taken across the Thames on a barge after the funeral and that will be done. The body will then be placed aboard a train to be carried to the battle town of Blandineum Palace where Churchill was born. A burial ceremony will be attended by members of the family, will last about 10 minutes. His grave will be beside that of his father and his American-born mother, Jennie. Battled Massive Stroke. Since Jan. 15 Churchill had been trying to survive a massive stroke. His fierce and courageous will to live surprised doctors and in the words of Shakespeare, one of Churchill's favorite authors, "nothing in his life became him like the leaving it." But at 8:05 a.m. Sunday, as a blinding rain came pouring out of a grey sky, the tired heart surrendered. Churchill died in a ground-floor room overlooking a garden. He died in peace and without
