We have two tickets to the Ringling Bros. and Barnum-Bailey Circus which will be in Memphis on Tuesday and Wednesday, October 26 and 27. These tickets are for Tuesday. Who wants 'em?

Do you have a question on the commission form of government which Calloway voters will accept or reject on November 2? If so, write or call it in and we will find out the answer. We will be glad to print both question and answer for the edification of everybody.

When children get up around 10 or 11 they are a lot of help.

Like last night, going back down town to get the car for you.

Well anyone would have done the same thing. It is perfectly natural to leave your coat hanging in the office with the front door and car keys in the pocket and walk out the front door, and not be able to get back in the office or to drive the car home.

Did make me feel kind of foolish though.

Young Mr. Rowland at Rowland Refrigeration just happened by and took us home which we appreciated.

What took the most time was explaining to the family why we were late. They just could not comprehend what we had done. Families are like that some times.

Took a bath with the new soap Safe Guard and 74 persons was not the street exclaimed "my, how good you smell!"

Son in Alaska says it is 30 degrees there and four inches of snow on the ground.

Hurricane Betsy caused damage amounting to nearly a billion dollars and killed 73 persons.

Today is Columbus Day, but it seems as though this historical fact is beginning to lose ground with other favorite ideas which have existed down through the years.

A group is promoting Left Erison as the original discoverer of America. An old map has been unearthed which, according to these folks, proves without a doubt that Left, son of Eric the Red, sailed to America well before Columbus did.

Today's history students are in a state of confusion as to whom to credit.

However since we have accepted Columbus as the real discoverer of America for a number of years, we will still accept him until somebody presents evidence which is more credible than it has been.

Off to Frankfort Friday to view the State Police in action. Joe Dick made this trip back in May or June.

Present county offices end this December. Cohen Shubertfield takes over as sheriff. Bob Miller as county attorney, and Hall McQuiston as judge. Rest of the officials succeed themselves. There will be some new magistrates. Wimpy Jones succeeds Clyde Steele.

Mrs. Charles Mercer Said Resting Well

Mrs. Charles Mercer is reported to be resting well at the Murray Hospital after suffering a broken hip on October 2. Mr. Mercer said this morning that she is expected to be removed to their home next week.

Mrs. Mercer was walking across the street in front of their home on Main Street when she turned her ankle and fell to the pavement, breaking the right hip.

Dr. Ralph H. Woods, left and George Hart, right, break ground for the new Bob White Dormitory which will house 400 students. In the center is Blair Wright, general contractor of Memphis, Tennessee. This dormitory will be located on the south side of Chestnut street just west of Bailey Pump and Pipe Company and is the first in a complex of four dormitories.

Cuban Refugees Flee Homeland As Castro Begins New Policy

By MATTHEW T. KENNY United Press International

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) - More small boats loaded with refugees seeking freedom under Fidel Castro's open door policy left Cuba today despite rough seas in the Florida Straits.

The Coast Guard said it removed 47 refugees - 20 women, 25 men and 2 children - from three small boats that ventured into the treacherous straits Monday night and this morning. The boats, two 20-foot craft and one 18-footer, were taken in tow by the cutter Cape Darby.

Because the seas were so rough, the Coast Guard said the Darby was not expected to reach port here before 8 p.m. EST.

A dispatch from the debarkation port of Camaricos, Cuba, reported seven more small craft waiting to load with Cuban emigrants for the voyage to freedom from the Communist island.

Such boats were defying U.S. authorities who have threatened prosecution for violating U.S. immigration laws.

Refugees arriving here Monday reported thousands waiting along the north coast of Cuba for transportation to the United States.

More than 100 have fled Cuba since Castro put his open door policy for malcontents prematurely into effect - and before arrangements could be worked out with the U.S. government - last Thursday.

There was speculation Cuban exile boat skippers may have switched to blockade-running tactics to avoid trouble with U.S. authorities.

"A wooden boat that sits low in the water doesn't make a very good radar target, and if the skipper knew about where the picket boats looked he should have a pretty good chance of getting through," said one source familiar with such operations.

No clandestine arrivals were reported among Cuban exiles in Florida.

Since Fidel Castro announced his "open door" policy, two boatloads of refugees have left from Camaricos, the debarkation port he designated, and a third boat made a run for freedom through military's gunfire from another part of the Cuban coast.

The U.S. State Department sent the Castro government last week a summary of proposals for a formal transfer of exiles at a rate of about 5,000 month. As of Monday, no answer had been received and a spokesman said it would take about 10 days after basic agreement.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS ON THE COMMISSION FORM OF GOVERNMENT

Question: Under the commission form of county government in what way is the county divided into three areas?

Answer: Under the commission form of county government the county judge is the person who divides the county. In some counties the city is made one area and the remainder of the county is divided into two other areas. However each of the three areas are supposed to be about equal in population. In Calloway County, Judge Robert Miller has indicated that if the voters approve the commission form of government he will divide the entire county just like a pie, with the courthouse the center of the pie. Each of the pie shaped areas will be about equal in population.

Johnson Is Ordered To Take It Easy

By WILLIAM J. EATON United Press International

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Johnson's pressures and problems of his job never far from his mind, was under doctors' orders today to follow a take-it-easy routine to speed his recuperation from major surgery.

No official callers were scheduled for the Chief Executive on this, his fifth day of convalescence following the operation for removal of his gall bladder and a kidney stone.

Johnson spent more than an hour late Monday afternoon with Secretary of State Dean Rusk. The secretary reported on crises in Indonesia and Rhodesia and other foreign policy matters.

Rusk also had a pleasant surprise: Get-well greetings from the top rulers of the Soviet Union relayed through Soviet Ambassador Anatoly P. Dobrynin.

The President was wished a speedy recovery by Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, Soviet President Anastas I. Mikoyan and Leonid I. Brezhnev, secretary of the Soviet Communist party.

After a 45-minute conference Monday morning with Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Johnson spent most of the day resting and taking naps. The White House said Sunday night and the early hours of Monday morning were the most uncomfortable he has had since the operation.

The Chief Executive continued to show progress - eating some tapioca and soft-boiled eggs in addition to intravenous injections of glucose. He also walked a few steps without assistance Monday morning.

Doctors said checks of his blood pressure, heart and respiration were normal. But White House Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers gave this report on their instructions to Johnson:

"They did advise him that they must insist that he take every opportunity to rest; that he maintain a very minimum schedule in the next few weeks; that he hold his official callers to a minimum."

Questions Are Discussed Today By Fiscal Court

The Fiscal Court met this morning with representatives of the State Highway Department to consider work to be done on county roads in the year 1966-67. This work would come from Rural Secondary and Rural Highway funds.

The list of work, furnished by each magistrate, for a tentative list from which rural highway work will be done.

Each of the seven magistrates listed roads on which he considered that work should be done and these roads were listed by the department's representatives.

The court accepted a check for $5,966.66 from the Federal government which represents the final sum received by the county for funds granted by the Federal government when the Kirksey area was declared a disaster area because of the tornado which struck there last spring a year ago.

The county had already received funds amounting to $25,200.00. A delegation appeared before the court to discuss a road which has been closed on the Hazel Highway. The delegation said that the road was a public road and therefore should remain open.

The area in question is on the land purchased by Taylor Motors from Fred Gardner and lies north of the service station and automobile auction on the Hazel Highway. The road is in the center of the line and proceeds from the Hazel Highway back to another road which runs parallel to the Hazel Highway.

Tommy Taylor told the court when he purchased the land, he was of the understanding that no public roads crossed the land. Mr. Gardner, who owned the land and sold it to Taylor, said that he had no authority.

Injured Couple Reported To Be Improved

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Wilson are reported to be in satisfactory condition by the Murray-Calloway County Hospital this morning. They were injured in an automobile accident yesterday about 11:30 a.m. on U.S. 641 eight-tenths of a mile north of Almo Heights.

Wilson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wilson of Murray Route Four and is the brother of Mrs. Rhoda James and Mrs. Paul Garuga of Murray and James Wilson of Paducah. He is employed at Calvert City and is married to the former Betty Carol Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delphus Collins of Gilbertsville.

The Wilsons' two children, Mike and Cathy, 2, were riding with their parents at the time the semi-truck-trailer, driven by Carl Wiley of Almo and owned by Johnny Parker, hit his brakes as the car in front of him slowed. The truck jackknifed and went across the road and hit the Wilson car, a 1960 Chevrolet, that was going southbound.

Mike was reported to be taking a nap and was laying on the floor board between the seats. Cathy was standing between Mr. and Mrs. Wilson behind the front seat. The children were taken to the hospital in the ambulance with their parents where they were reported to be entertained by the hospital personnel before their uncle, Rubin James, came for them and took them to their grandparents' home. They are now at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James.

Wilson is reported to have cuts on the face and head, but the extent of Mrs. Wilson's injuries has not been determined as yet.

IS THE PICTURE CHANGING?

The past week has been a trying period for international communism and reports from many places indicate impoverished people are restless and disillusioned with failure of dictators to carry out the glowing promises they have been making for the last thirty or more years.

"Is a New Revolution Brewing in the U. S. S. R.?" is the title of an article in the October issue of Reader's Digest by Eugene Lyons that raises doubt as to whether the new regime will be able to get the industrial machine in the Soviet Union going soon enough and build up sufficient speed to provide consumer goods the people have so long denied.

Mr. Lyons is a senior editor of the most widely distributed magazine on earth and was a newspaper correspondent in Russia for six years. He is not the sort of journalist to draw conclusions from unofficial rumors.

The article is entirely objective and one of the most factual unbiased reports on conditions behind the Iron Curtain that has been published since the overthrow of Nikita Khrushchev.

Another incident of major importance is the revolt in Indonesia in which several of the leading army generals were killed. Reports are confused, but most of them insist that Sukarno is safe and still in control of the reins of government. Nevertheless, according to UPI reports from Jakarta thousands of young people stormed the communist headquarters and burned the building to the ground and shouts of "long live America" resounded throughout the troubled area. Additional reports from the interior say the island republic is undergoing a revolution from one end to the other and demands are heard everywhere for the overthrow of the Sukarno regime.

"And what is happening in Cuba?" is a question being asked throughout the Western Hemisphere as thousands rush to take advantage of Fidel Castro's offer to allow anybody who wants to, to leave the island. The only requirement seemed to be that they depart without money or property of any kind.

Last week we stated that "Pope Paul made history when he brought God into the Goddess United Nations." This is indeed true and if the world picture is really changing, the opportunity presented to Americans and Christians is greater than it has ever been. Our form of government and our Christian faith make an unbeatable combination that the world needs to know about. Surely there is no time like the present to convince leaders of all nations that they must "beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks," if mankind is to survive.

COIN Collectors' Corner

By ROBERT SYVENSON

Not everyone can afford to take off to faraway places, but almost everyone can enjoy a moment of a foreign land. If he is a coin collector.

Because of the widespread interest in Proof Coins and Mint Sets, we promised to tell you about such sets produced by foreign countries. As stated in a recent column, many countries produce Proof coins sets in this category comes from Greece. Strictly speaking, the Greece set is not of Proof quality. It is a Mint Set which means the coins are strictly uncirculated, exactly as they come from the Mint.

Early in 1964, Greece announced that it would make Mint Sets available to coin collectors the world over. The price at the time of issue was $5, very modest for such a beautiful set.

Lately Trade

Greece found collectors most responsible and a bank business in the Greek Mint sets quickly developed. Most important, a new set was added a few months after the sets were made available.

Followers of royal romances will recall the wedding of King Constantine of Greece to Princess Ann-Marie of Denmark on September 18, 1964.

To commemorate this happy event, the King ordered the striking of a beautiful Commemorative Wedding coin (See Illustration). This 30 drachma silver coin was added to the $5 set at an increase in price.

Fast Seller

The addition of the new coin—almost the size of our Silver Dollar—was all that was needed to put the Greek Mint sets in the spotlight. The original issue of 1 million was grabbed up by collectors everywhere.

Just like a good business man who has found a fast selling product, Greece stepped up production. The popular Wedding Coin is now being minted by the Royal Norwegian Mint in Kongsberg, Norway.

This has resulted in some unappreciated among collectors who bought the original coins feeling the limited issue would result in much higher prices in years to come. Of course, their reaction is understandable.

For the moment, minded not concerned with new counterfeits, the coin is going to be a longtime favorite, regardless of how many are minted. Like the Maria Theresa Thaler, it could go on forever. For those who want, the Greek Mint set containing this coin, they are still available upon request and a $5 Bank Draft, or stamp or personal checks, to the Bank of Greece, P. O. Box 108, Athens, Greece. Postage is included in the $5 price. Do not write to this column for a set.

HOW TO MAKE PROFITS WITH U. S. QUARTERS is a brand new booklet listing premium prices and mintage on all Quarters from 1786 to date. Fully illustrated, gives historic facts, buying and selling hints, tells which recent Quarters to look for. For copy, send 50c (coin) to COIN COLLECTORS' CORNER, Dept. 25X, P. O. Box 321, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

DAMAGES APPROVED

WASHINGTON 67 — The House approved, 312 to 50, aid returned to the Senate Thursday an amended bill to pay $22 million in damages to citizens of the Ryukyu Islands.

The bill would authorize payments to claimants for damages suffered at the hands of U. S. Armed Services in the Ryukyus during the three years after World War II ended and before the Japanese peace treaty was signed.

Methodists Launch Drive For School

COVINGTON, Ky. 679 — The trial of Carl McIntosh, 61, Louisville, charged with two murders here May 1, was postponed Wednesday until Friday. Justice Circuit Court Judge Melvin T. Stubbins granted the continuance to enable authorities to complete a psychiatric examination of McIntosh.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — More than 2,000 Methodists formally launched a $1.5 million crusade for Lambuth College Tuesday (Oct. 5) in a special called session of the Memphis Conference of The Methodist Church in Memphis.

Delegates came from some 546 churches in West Tennessee and Southwestern Kentucky to hear crusade leaders describe the needs of their college. Lambuth is a four-year, coeducational college located in Jackson, Tennessee. Funds raised during the crusade will be used for Lambuth to construct a new science building, add 30,000 to 35,000 volumes to the library, and add physical education facilities for a growing student body. Lambuth's enrollment, the largest in the school's history, totals more than 800 this year. Bishop H. Ellis Pinner, Jr., resident bishop of the Memphis Conference and presiding officer at Tuesday's conference, called on delegates to support the crusade as the conference supported a Lambuth crusade 12 years ago. In 1953 a similar crusade raised over $1.5 million for Lambuth. Lambuth president Dr. James S. Wilder, Jr., described present needs of the college. He said that rapidly expanding knowledge and a "commitment to excellence" at Lambuth makes it imperative for the college to have additional facilities and more library volumes. Dr. D. O. Oeder, longtime member of Lambuth's faculty, told delegates of the value of close association between faculty members and students on the campus. Other speakers included Dr. Charles W. Grant, pastor of Christ Methodist Church, the host church; Lambuth students Miss Jeanie Nell Barnett, of Hatch, and James C. Cooper of Newport; and Rev. William M. Vannoy, Jr., business president of the conference. Board of trustees: the Rev. Dr. William S. Evans, Sr., Whitehaven; Mrs. James B. Green, Memphis, crusade women's chairman; Walter Barnes, Jackson, crusade chairman; C. L. Vannoy, Memphis, crusade co-chairman; the Rev. Dr. Paul T. Lyles, Jackson; and Dr. Hiram Anderson, president of American University in Washington, D. C.

Face Sudden Death Tomorrow If Dodgers Win Tomorrow's Game

By LEO H. PETERSEN UPI Sports Editor

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Minnesota Twins, trailing three games to two and facing sudden death, hoped Tuesday that a return to their home park would straighten them out and keep them alive in the World Series against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The American League champions beat the Dodgers in the first two games played in their own park only to drop three in a row and fall behind when the Series shifted to Los Angeles.

"We're out of it yet," insisted manager Sam Mele of the Twins. "Playing in our own ball park has meant a lot to us all season and I'm sure we will get back on the beam."

When they resume the Series Wednesday—the Dodgers going to go with left-hander Claude Osteen, who put them back on the winning track and never has lost to the Twins.

Mele said he would not decide who his sixth game pitcher will be until after the Twins hold a workout. "I'd have to guess it'll be Jim Grant, Jim Merritt or Camilo Pascual," Mele said.

He insisted he wasn't too concerned about how the Dodgers had shown up the Twins with their base running speed and bunting power in the three games at Los Angeles.

"They sure kill you with that speed," he said, "and we have the power to overcome it."

Not Evident The power seldom was evident in the three games in Los Angeles, where the Twins' batters "were scared" against the Dodgers. They didn't cover bases on infield grounders, they failed to cut off errant outfield throws and generally acted like they couldn't do anything right.

"Well, we've looked back before and always have come out of it," said Mele about his faulty fielders. "And we better come out of it Wednesday or it will be too late."

Manager Walter Alton of the Dodgers admitted that "it looks like everything is going right for us."

"But I can't forget how they beat us here, so I'm making no predictions," he added. "If there is a seventh game on Thursday Don Drysdale will start for us with all the rest of our pitchers in the bullpen."

That would include Sandy Koufax, who with a four-hit performance put the Dodgers ahead Monday at Los Angeles when he beat Jim Kaat. Kaat had beaten Koufax in the second game here, 5-1.

Mele admitted his Twins looked "bad" in Los Angeles. "We didn't do anything right and they couldn't do anything wrong," he said. "Those infield bleeders they got and their speed on the bases really kill you once they get ahead."

And in Los Angeles, the Dodgers always got ahead—and early. The Twins left on a special chartered plane shortly after their fifth game defeat, but the Dodgers stayed in Los Angeles. They were due to leave after working out at Dodger Stadium in Los Angeles.

Face Sudden Death Tomorrow If Dodgers Win Tomorrow's Game

They scored two runs in the first inning, giving Koufax an unexpected early margin. Usually, the Dodgers don't score for Sandy until the late innings.

They really piled it on for Koufax — giving him a 4-0 lead after three innings and 3-0 after four. That was a lot more than Koufax is accustomed to, and a lot more than he needed.

Koufax, who already has four no-hitters, including one perfect game, had a perfect game going for four innings. Then Twins' third baseman Harmon Killebrew, leading off the fifth, looped a single into centerfield. It should have been an easy out but Davis misjudged the ball.

Outfielder Joe Nieseck out legged a ground ball to deep short in the sixth and singles — both of them clean blows — by Frank Quilici and pinchhitter Sandy Valdespin in the ninth gave the Twins a total of four hits.

Enroute to the victory, Koufax struck out 10 — the 22nd time this season and the 94th time in his career. He has got at least that many batters on strikes in a game. Shortstop Maury Wills, always a thorn for Dodger opponents, started it all in the very first inning when he doubled and scored on Jim Gilliam's single.

The Twins then displayed their fielding jitter. Davis bunted and Quilici missed Killebrew's throw. You don't miss things against the Dodgers. Gilliam scored on the error and Davis went all the way to third.

Nothing more came out of it but the Dodgers knocked Kaat out of the box in the third when they scored two more runs and then polished it off with a single against relief pitcher Dave Roswell in the fourth and two more runs against Jim Perry, the third Twins pitcher, in the seventh.

"I'd have to say without any doubt he is the best pitcher I've ever seen," said Mele.

Now all his Twins have to do is beat Osteen — and that they never have done.

Kaat Left

Davis Tied Record

The Dodger speed wasn't evident in the first two games, but it really came into bloom in the next three games. They stole the Twins' base and their first centerfielder, Willie Davis tied a series record in the Dodgers triumph by swiping three bases. Only one player ever had done it before — back in 1909 when shortstop Honus Wagner of the Pittsburgh Pirates turned the

Jalopy Breakfast Held For Debs By Mrs. Blankenship

An unusual party was the Jalopy Breakfast given Friday morning, October 8, for the Debs by Mrs. Macon Blankenship at her home on Sunset Drive.

The guests had not been invited, but at six o'clock in the morning the hostess drove up to their homes, rang the bell and took them off to the party as they were.

At the breakfast a prize of a package of bobbi-pins was awarded to the most unglamorous guest and this went to Miss Linda Billington. The prize for the most glamorous went to Miss Nancy Duba.

The kitchen of the Blankenship home was very attractively decorated. For the centerpiece a display of kitchen utensils was used. In the center of each table were lovely fall flower arrangements. Each guest's place was marked with a place card and a comb.

The guest list included Misses Mary Hopson, Becky Jo Robertson, Sandy Thomas, Linda Billington, Beverly Herndon, Pam Lassiter, Debbie Brandon, Kathy Converse, Nancy Duba, and Beth Blankenship.

Mrs. Jack Cain Is Hostess For Meet Of Kirksey WMS

"Proclaiming Through Woman's Missionary Society" was the theme of the program presented by Mrs. W. A. Erwin, Mrs. Jim Washer, Mrs. James Washburn, R. W. Shasky, Mrs. Leah Trues, and Mrs. Jack Cain.

Seven members and one visitor were present. The group drew names for sustaining friends at the close of the program.

Polly and Grogan Vows Are Solemnized In Lovely Ceremony At First Baptist Church

Mrs. Jerry Grogan

The auxiliary of the First Baptist Church was the setting for the wedding of Miss Spolia Kaye Polly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lewis Polly, to Jerry Grogan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Grogan, on Friday, October 1, Dr. H. C. Chiles, minister of the church, performed the double ring ceremony at seven-thirty o'clock in the evening.

The altar was flanked with palms and baskets of white gladioli with three candelabras on either side holding cathedral candles. A brass seven branched antique candelabra holding cathedral candles centered the setting which is a symbol of love from the beginning with the bells ringing out "love forever". The remaining candles shone on the future with love and best wishes for the new Christian Home just established.

White silk cord was draped from the center of the baptistry window to each side of the choir loft with three graduated bells tied with white satin bow and loops of silk cord. A huge bouquet completed the central decoration.

The pews were marked with tall single candle holders holding Chalice candles and tied with white satin bows.

Miss Lillian Walters, organist, and Mrs. Charles Ellis of Memphis, Tenn., soloed, presented a lovely program of spiritual music. Miss Walters played several selections including the traditional wedding marches for the processional and the recessional. Mrs. Ellis sang "I Love You Truly," "Blessed Thou Guest," and "Because."

The lovely young bride was escorted to the altar by her father who gave her in marriage. She chose for her wedding a formal gown of white delongre fabric fashioned with a simple steep neckline and long fitted sleeves with tiny covered buttons that closed at the wrist. The natural neckline was accented with a thin band and the skirt was fashioned into a sheath from which flowed a train in graceful panels that fell cathedral length. The bodice, as well as the skirt, was accented with a delicate row of pearls, creating a rose design. Her beautiful tiered veil of silk illusion was caught to a headpiece fashioned entirely of handmade roses accented with pearls and rock crystals, interspersed with sprays of lily of the valley.

The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations centered with a lovely white orchid and streamers of pearls which also symbolized love. The bouquet was tied with a unique bow and low streamers of Italian cut velvet ribbon.

Miss Linda Dibble was the maid of honor and wore a floor length gown of cranberry lace-type velvet designed with a scoop neckline and brief sleeves, featuring an empire waistline accented with bands of silk rose buds and velvet leaves. Their a-line skirts were gracefully flared and unadorned. The headpiece was a miniature pillbox, resembling the trim used at the waistline of the dress, to which a shoulder-length circular veil of silk illusion was attached.

The maid of honor carried a globe shaped bouquet of light pink carnations, American Beauty velvet rose buds, and pink net which hung over the arm with a loop of velvet ribbon. A bow of velvet ribbon and streamers hung from the bottom of the ball which represented the world filled with sunshine and love.

The bridesmaids were Misses Phyllis Mitchell, Ann Kay Sanders, and Betsy Sprunger. Their dresses and bouquets were identical to that of the bride's attendants. Miss Renee Grogan, niece of the groom, was the flower girl. She wore a floor length gown of cranberry velvet fashioned similar to the lines of the attendants. Her hairdress was of pale pink carnations and she dropped rose petals into the path of the bride and her father as she proceeded them to the altar.

Dewey Taylor of Fulton was the best man. The ushers were Don Boaz, Dickie Parrell, and Dickie Grogan. The candlelighters were David Buckingham, cousin of the bride, and Barry Grogan, nephew of the groom, was the ring-bearer.

Mrs. Polly, mother of the bride, selected for the wedding a costume of peonies pink which featured a sheath dress with a jeweled wedding band collar and a fitted jacket. Her hat was a black gownless silk cuff beaded to match, and she completed her ensemble with pink and white accessories.

The groom's mother chose to wear for the wedding a cranberry three piece knit suit with matching feather hat and other accessories of black.

Both of the mothers wore coronas of pink orchids.

The bride's attendants wore coronas of pink gladioli. Mrs. Ray Buckingham, maternal grandmother, wore a robin egg blue dress with navy accessories, and Mrs. Aubrey Polly of Orlando, Fla., paternal grandmother, was attired in an off white sheath dress with coffee brown accessories.

The church register was kept by Mrs. Steve Becker of St. Louis, Mo. The table was covered with green satin under white net with white spray and an arrangement of chrysanthemums.

Reception

Mrs. Bert Weeks of Centertine, Mich., Mrs. Albert Yates of Knoxville, Tenn., and Mrs. Noble Williams of Paris, Tenn., great aunts of the bride, presided with a reception in the fellowship hall of the church following the wedding.

The beautifully appointed table was draped in mint green satin overlaid with white net accented with white swags. An arrangement of still chrysanthemums and white stock in a gorgeous candelabra container with white burning tapers. The three tiered wedding cake was topped with white satin bells.

Miss Charles Adkins III presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Robert Buckingham out the cake. Miss Judy Howard played background piano music during the reception.

Following the ceremony the group left for an unannounced wedding trip with the bride wearing a costume suit of textured eggshell imported knit, fashioned into a three piece design with which she wore accessories of matching shade. Her coronas was the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Grogan are now at home at 1300 Payne Street, Murray.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Noble Williams, Mrs. Roy Williams, Mrs. Jessie Stovne, Mr. and Mrs. Dyer Ridgeway, Miss Betty Williams, Miss Nancy Williams, Mrs. Pat Lockenhill, Tom Cowan, Mrs. Kenneth Russell, and Mr. and Mrs. Quince Watkins, all of Paris, Tenn.; Mrs. Bert Weeks of Centertine, Mich.; Mrs. Mary Cowan, Mrs. Ed Moesta, and Miss Judy Messas, all of Royal Oak, Mich.; Joe Forester of Nashville, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. C. 100 PLANES LOST
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has lost just over 100 planes in North Viet Nam since the bombing raids began last February, an average loss of less than one-half of 1 per cent.
In revealing this Thursday, U. S. officials noted that the loss rate compared with losses of 2 or 3 per cent over Europe in the late stages of World War II.
Exact figures on U. S. aircraft losses in both North and South Viet Nam were not available, but an apparent total in the neighborhood of 400, including four jets shot down by Soviet-built anti-aircraft missiles.

W.R. Burnett's Stirring Novel
The Winning of Mickey Free

CHAPTER 33
CON MOUNT had put on an old jacket, tied a scarf about his neck to hide the tartan waistcoat, and left his cap behind. Except for the corduroy jacket and thick-soled boots he looked, in the ring, just like any gentleman rider.
Mickey Free was sweating and nervous, and occasionally blew through his nostrils to show Con that he was displeased and did not like the proceedings at all, but Con kept him well in hand, waiting for his turn at the jumps.
The fifth horse bobbed the last jump and just barely made it. A twisted landing caused the saddle to slip and the rider took a mild fall, getting up at once and catching his horse, which had stopped. Con smiled to himself. The fifth horse—Carmody King—was supposed to be the best jumper in the district!
When Mickey's number was called a loud murmur of excitement rose from the crowd.
There was a sudden burst of applause as Mickey took the first hurdle with a long, clean leap. Then effortfully, with perfect rhythm and timing Mickey negotiated the next two hurdles, almost as if they weren't there at all and he was merely leaping through strength and joy.
His third landing was a masterpiece of ease and balance, and Con pulled him up with no trouble at all. Then he walked him back to his place by the far railing to wait his turn for the third round.
The General turned and glanced at Mirabelle, who was sitting very still and staring and straw on her skirt and he noticed that she still had her riding-whip in her hand, gripping it so tightly that her knuckles were white.
For the first time in years the General felt sorry for his daughter and it came over him suddenly that she was only sixteen years old, still only a girl, and for that reason doubly vulnerable to the shocks and disappointments of life.
Compensating for this, the General glanced off at the ring. What unlucky combination of circumstances had led him to Ireland, and to the lightning purchase of Mickey Free? He tried to remember the steps but couldn't, and then a loud burst of applause brought him out of his musing and he saw that Con and Mickey were being called up for the third round.
None of the other horses had done too well, and Carmody King had bobbed again at the second jump. But to Mickey, who now seemed to be enjoying himself and even did his little dance before Con straightened him out for the run, the night hairs the aigles, the sharp turns meant nothing at all.

His timing was perfect, his stride as smooth as butter... and he scored several feet over the raised bars like some huge black bird. It looked ridiculously easy the way he did it.
As Con rode back to his place there was a grin smile on his face and an arrogant set to his shoulders. Cheering broke out in the arena.
The judges consulted briefly. An announcement was made through the megaphone, but it was completely unintelligible due to the racketness and excited talking of the crowd. And then at last there was a tremendous roar as the blue ribbon was handed to Con, the first round contained up Con saluted with his whip, then reached forward and pinned the ribbon to Mickey's bridle.
Now the band played as Con rode Mickey out of the arena. O'Meara was waiting for him. He rushed forward and kissed Mickey Free on the muzzle.
"Kiss light of an Irishman, will they?" he shouted, then his face changed and a doleful look pulled down the corners of his mouth. "But you're soaked, kid. Hey, you're soaked. You've soaked yourself."
"I heard them making fun of him," cried Con, bitterly.
Grooms crowded round from other stables as Con started to unsaddle the big stallion. They stood looking at him in awe.
"That's what I call a horse," one said. "The young lady just couldn't manage him."
"Does he always jump like that?" asked another.
"It was not one of his good days," said Con, without looking up.
"The crowd was filling out of the arena, talking about Mickey Free. But the General's face was surrounded by horse people and he and Mirabelle were being congratulated on owning the "finest jumping horse ever seen in this country."
The General's cigar kept going out inwardly he was fretting and fuming, bothered by Mirabelle's white face, but he shook his head all around, pretending not to notice the prying eyes of some, and the slightly ironical smiles of others. Finally the crowd of well-wishers thinned out, and the General managed to get away and move toward the far exit.
Voices came to them vaguely. A woman was saying: "But I never heard of such a thing. A groom...? Perhaps there is more...? The voice trailed off. Greenbough coughed uncomfortably.
The General put his arm around his daughter and guided her past the turnstiles. "Are you sure you're all right, Mira?" he asked. "That was quite a fall."

"I'm quite all right, thank you," said Mirabelle, disengaging herself.
The General left Mirabelle with Greenbough and moved down the sidewalk a few paces to look for old Archie and his carriage. A slight red-faced man with a monocle and wearing a foreign-seeming evening dress stepped up to the General and offered his hand.
"You don't remember me," he queried at a blank look from the General. "But you know me, London. Extraordinary blood Irish horse. Quite the best." His Lordship laughed lightly. "And I must say, Mira, in the disguise and all—well, lark!"
The General's jaw dropped. He stood staring at a moment, speechless. "What was that, Lord Burney?"
Burney's eyes showed immediate concern. "Perhaps I'm completely mistaken," he said, quickly. "The old eyes, you know. Not quite what they used to be—and then all the lights. Quite the brightest place I've ever seen. Yes, quite a show." He looked about him nervously. "Now where the devil did my party get to?"
"What was this about Mount?" the General persisted. "Lord Burney removed his monocle, wiped his monocle and put it back. "This is most unfortunate... but, since I've already interrupted a business party in evening clothes, I'll round Lord Burney and the General, there were a few things, and the General said after hand and tried to smile."
"Well," said Burney, "off, I think. May I come and see the stallion?"
The General took him almost by main force, as you mentioned this matter to anyone, Lord Burney?"
"Oh," said Burney, "I'll make some reference to it, offhand, you know. But the people are all from New York. Central Local matters have no interest for them."
"I'd appreciate it," said the General, "if you say so about it. Will you come with—tonorrow?—Where are you staying? I'll send a carriage for you."
"Splendid," said Lord Burney, then he gave the General the necessary information. He shook hands and parted.
"If Burney was at the horse show," Con realized. "I'm filled, pleased and cocked. The story continues to a maximum tomorrow."

Dear Abby Not To Be Snapped At!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My grandfather cut his THIRD set of teeth when he was 90 years old. It was 100 when he died and he had a fine set of teeth, which he took to his grave. His name was Andrew Simons, and he was written up in "Believe It Or Not" by Ripley.

DEAR ABBY: My cousin had three sets of teeth. When his baby teeth didn't come in, his mother took him to a dentist. The dentist took a full mouth X-ray and discovered that the kid had THREE sets of teeth! The dentist pulled the first after they grew in. Then he pulled the second set. The third didn't come in for a long time, so he gave the kid a set of false choppers until his permanent teeth grew in, which they did.

HEMETT, CALIFORNIA
DEAR ABBY: You were wrong when you said a person could have only two full sets of natural teeth. I know a woman who was born with a full set of teeth. Of course, she lost them all and then her first set of teeth came in. When she lost them her second set came in, and as far as I know she still has them all and she is in her fifties.

CLARA IN DEL MAR
DEAR CLARA: I have heard of babies being born with "a few" teeth. (In fact, I was born with one.) But nowhere in dental history is there a record of a baby having been born with a full set of teeth. Either your friend was misinformed or she exaggerated.

DEAR ABBY: Believe it or not, my father-in-law was growing his THIRD set of teeth when he passed away at the age of 85! I saw them with my own eyes. Whether they would have reached their normal growth I am unable to say, but they did have a good start.

DEAR ABBY: In reference to a person having THREE sets of teeth, and your stating that it could not be so: I have lost several permanent teeth since my teens and with each extraction another tooth has always grown in as a replacement. This matter has been discussed with several dentists, and they state there are a few cases on record where a person has "three" teeth buds. In each case they have found that the next to the oldest child (or in some cases, it skips several children), would have only ONE set of teeth. After having cut two teeth to replace two permanent teeth which were extracted, I received a letter from my brother in Italy. He wrote that he had been advised that the majority of teeth in his mouth were "baby" teeth and his dentist found no indication of permanent tooth buds. He is now advised that his oldest son has exactly the same pattern of "baby" teeth, with no signs of replacements.

ONE IN A MILLION

DEAR ABBY: This is in regard to the item in your column about how many sets of teeth a person can have in a lifetime. You said he can "grow" two full sets and from then on the "dentist" takes over. A friend of mine has grown THREE full sets. After her baby teeth fell out she had her permanent set. Then to her surprise, her dentist found she had a THIRD set when he X-rayed her gums, so he pulled the second set to make room for the third set to come through, which they did. Thank you.

VICKI
DEAR VICKI: Dentists have reported that some patients have been known to grow three or four (and even five) supernumerary (meaning "extra") teeth after the permanent teeth have been extracted. But according to my dental authorities, nowhere in the annals of dental history is there a record of anyone having grown a third FULL set of teeth.

Over The County Agent's Desk

By S. V. FOY
Two different soil types may show the same acidity levels by soil test but they may need different amounts of limestone to obtain the same reduction in soil acidity. Limestone recommendations in Kentucky are made on the soil test report forms for soil loam soils. However, on the back of this form is this statement: Apply lime at one-half the recommended rate when liming sandy soils and increase the rate by one-half on clay clay loam soils. Thus, where three tons of limestone may be recommended on a soil loam soil that is strongly acid, 1.5 tons should do the same job on sandy soils but 4.5 tons may be needed on heavy clay soils. The reason being that these soils have different action exchange capacities. The clay soil has the highest and the sandy soil has the lowest exchange capacity of the three mentioned above.

Dinah Shore Gets Divorce On Friday

INDIO, Calif. (AP) — Singer Dinah Shore Friday was awarded a final divorce decree from Maurice H. Smith, who had asked accused her of committing adultery with four "John Does" in a counter divorce suit.
By signing the final decree, Superior Court Judge Merrill Brown, in effect, tossed out Smith's suit filed Sept. 26, one day after Miss Shore, 47, petitioned to obtain a final decree.
The judge also restored Shore as the singer's legal name.
The blonde entertainer had obtained an interlocutory decree Aug. 21, 1964. She had filed the divorce suit May 10, 1964, less than a year after the couple's marriage May 26, 1963, in Redlands, Calif.
Last week Smith filed the counter suit which claimed Miss Shore had had affairs with other men.
Miss Shore answered, "The charge is outrageous—it is utterly and completely false—and the matter is in the hands of my attorneys."
Prior to her marriage to Smith, the singer was wed more than 17 years to actor George Montgomery whom she divorced May 8, 1962.

Russia Dumps Gold On Paris Market

PARIS (AP) — Soviet Russia is dumping an estimated $100 million worth of gold on the Paris market presumably to get dollars and other hard currency to pay for industrial and farm imports from the West, informed financial sources reported Friday.
The sources said the shipment of nearly 96 tons of gold is the largest this year to Paris from the Soviet Union. Unlike the United States, gold can be purchased and sold freely in France by private persons and corporations.
At the current price of 5,550 francs $1.12 per gold ingot weighing 2.2 kilograms about 4.26 pounds, the shipment will net Russia an estimated $100 million in such hard

Lynn Grove Canning Meeting Is Held At Home Ellen Watson

On October 5 the second canning meeting of the Junior 4-H girls at Lynn Grove was held at the home of the Junior Leader, Ellen Watson. At this meeting the girls canned carrots. Each girl went through all the steps of washing her cans, washing the carrots, scraping the carrots, and cutting them in small pieces for the can, pre-heating the carrots, filling the cans, and putting on the lids. The carrots were canned in the pressure canner. Refreshments were served and the girls played games while the cans were processing. Each girl filled out her record of the work done. Thirteen girls were present for this meeting. They were: Ann McCall, Sharon Kay Darnell, Paula Jo Foy, Brenda Kello, Janey Kello, Cathy Jean Lovett, Vicki Humphreys, Sarah Calhoun, Debbie Roggen, Madeline Taylor, Regina Lockhart, Phyllis Adams, Patricia Fay Foy, and Junior Leader, Ellen Watson. The next meeting will be held October 12 when the girls will make chowchow.

The disagreement ended in a split decision when the man who wanted the tree to go removed his half at a cost of $150 for tree surgery. The surgeon predicted the standing half probably would not survive another year.
