Quotes From The News

WASHINGTON — Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., criticizing the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's hearings on the Viet Nam war: "The attitude of retreat, defeat and national surrender has been heard well enough."

SANTO DOMINGO — Provisional President Hector Garcia Godoy, denying reports that he plans to resign: "I will go on until June 30. The responsibility for governing until elections can be held is mine, and I will yield it to no one else."

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Hollis Victor Robison Jr., a 19-year-old who sent a deadly Valentine to his ex-girl friend which was opened by her sister, who was wounded, telling police why he did it: "I don't know why I did it, but I knew if she opened that case it would kill her."

CHICAGO — Father Richard F. Morrisroe, the Roman Catholic priest who was seriously wounded in a shooting in the South, explaining why he went to Hayneville, Ala., as a layman: "I went not to change the South so much as to understand the rural roots of a lot of Negroes in our city."

Kranepool Inks '66 Contract Last Monday

By FRED McMANE, UPI Sports Writer
First baseman Ed Kranepool of the New York Mets isn't about to miss New York's former Lou Gehrig say two years, but at 21 years of age it's something when your boss mentions you in the same breath with Ken Boyer.
Kranepool, the young infielder who signed out of high school in 1963, inked his 1966 contract with New York Monday and club President George Weiss said that the Mets were hoping to land another pitcher to go with Kranepool and Boyer and make the team's attack more formidable.
"There's Boyer and Kranepool," the Mets president said. "I don't mind the Mets' power. I would prefer a left-handed hitter, the way our club is stacked up now, but I don't say a right-handed hitter would not be desirable."
Infielder Danny Napione and outfielder Al Lingo also agreed to terms with the Mets for the upcoming season, bringing the team's total signings to 30.
Five other teams also got into the signing act Monday with All-Star pitcher Pete Richards of the Washington Senators producing the most notable signature.
Richards, a southpaw, got off to a slow start in his first season with the Senators, but he finished strong with a 15-12 record overall. He also posted a 2.00 earned run average, which was fifth best in the American League.
Weiss, Cranepool, acquired from Philadelphia last month, signed his contract with the Chicago Cubs. The 33-year-old outfielder hit .287 last season but bowled a lifetime .222 this year. His signature left the Cubs with only one player not under contract, pitcher Bob Humphreys.
Shortstop Dick Schofield, who was traded from Pittsburgh over for Jose Pagan last year, came to terms with the San Francisco Giants, but he is expected to receive some strong competition for a starting spot in the outfield.
The Pirates and the Minnesota Twins each signed two players.
Pittsburgh inked rightfielder pitcher Mike Walker and infielder-outfielder Bob Robertson while the Twins corralled pitchers Dave Boswell and Al Mills. The Pirates need only five more signatures to complete their roster while the Minnesota still lacks 12 signed contracts.

Gentile Wants Make Amends In '66 Season

By FRED McMANE, UPI Sports Writer
Jim Gentile, who earned the nickname "Diamond Jim" through his growing reputation as a slugger in the American League, has agreed to the manager as a Houston Astro only in terms of dollars he has cost the club, but the big first baseman is looking to make amends in 1966.
Gentile, who homered in some runs for the Baltimore Orioles in 1965, came to the Astros last season from the Kansas City Athletics in exchange for pitcher Jesse Haskins, second baseman Ernie Fazio and catcher Tommie Agee. He hit .270 last season, but he was also hitting .270 in the National League club, however, and finished the campaign with only seven homers and a .262 batting average in 81 games.
"This season will be different," Gentile promised Tuesday as he signed his new contract. "I took a pretty good cut in salary last year, but I was disappointed. Now I just hope I can show them that I will deserve a pretty good raise next season. I've got about 20 pounds, and I'm going to spend the winter in the gymnasium one hour a day, five days a week."
Nine other teams succeeded in signing players Tuesday and one club, the Detroit Tigers, opened their spring training camp with 37 minor league players participating in light workouts and drills.
The Boston Red Sox inked front-line pitchers Dennis Bennett and Jim Lonborg and also corralled pitchers Pete Maguire and Mike Jackson, outfielder Chris Costen and catcher Jerry Moses.
Lefty B. Behnke, who came to Philadelphia from the California Angels prior to this season, approved his 1966 contract with the Phillies. The Phils also inked 21-year-old second baseman Orlin Carter.
The Chicago White Sox announced the signing of their "big" player, 42-year-old Hoyt Wilhelm, and their youngest, 22-year-old Greg Bello. The Chicago White Sox also inked Tom McCarroll, pitcher, and catcher Bill Wirtz.
The White Sox' Windy City rival, the Cubs, won the major league contract signing derby again by signing their pitcher, Bob Humphreys. The Cubs also inked the outright sale of catcher Ed Baker to the California Angels.
The Atlanta Braves received the second contract of veteran slugger outfielder Frank Thomas and also inked Bill Robinson, an outfielder, and infielder Paul Mitchell.
The St. Louis Cardinals signed outfielder Tommie Agee, first baseman Fred Norman, and pitcher Les Straker, as well as outfielder Paul Dickson, and the Yankees inked the signature of five youngsters, including catcher John Gibsk, Frank Fernandez, Steve Whitaker and John Schoepel and Horace Dooly Womack.

Joe Morgan Signs For $14,000 This Year With Houston

By United Press International
It's a shame that Houston's Joe Morgan is only entering his second major league season.
Probably no one is surrier that Joe himself because anyone who turns in a season like he had last year deserves more than $14,000.
That's what the 3-foot-7 Houston second baseman signed for Wednesday and it came as a surprise to many fans. Covington said he came to terms as quickly as he did.
"After all, the muscle bound native of Houston, Tex., has a solid 275 for the ninth place Astro and 14 home runs and 40 runs batted in and just missed making rookie of the year honors, losing out to Jim Lefebvre of Los Angeles."
"The Cincinnati" Reds reached agreement with five more players, including catcher Johnny Edwards and first baseman Gordon Coleman. The others were outfielder Art Sharnack, second baseman Gus Orr and first baseman Lee May.
The Mets received signed contracts from catcher Jerry Grote, outfielder Bill Murphy and infielder Chris Cannizaro.

Odds Are Against Kentucky Cats This Week-end

By O'NEIL HENDRICK, United Press International
ATLANTA 17 — The odds are overwhelmingly against top-ranked Kentucky's 30-game winning streak being broken this week-end. But that's the kind of stuff from which the upsets are fashioned.
The rampaging Wildcats, firmly established atop the national rankings and the Southeastern Conference standings thanks to Belknapville, Miss., Saturday night to take on unimposing Mississippi State. Equally as deadly on the road as at home, Kentucky should have no trouble brushing aside the Bulldogs, apparently struggling to realize little better than a break-even season.
But it's a good bet Adolph Rupp has "underestimated" his Wildcats about what to expect in the confines of the Mississippi State gymnasium—basketball's answer to the pandemonium that is Tiger Stadium during the Louisiana State football season.
The Cowbells Ring
The 5,000-capacity gym reverberates with raring cowbells, screaming students, stamping feet, and occasionally an errant ball is tossed back dejected.
Rupp's Wildcats venture into this "death trap" is seldom as necessary—playing at Belknapville only twice since 1951. They were beaten 65-52 in 1953 and escaped with a 66-62 victory in 1961.
After successive losses to the Bulldogs in 1962 and 1963, Kentucky defeated Mississippi State the last two years. They play only once a year.
Mississippi State, paced by Dave Williams' 19 points a game, ranks sixth in the SEC in offense (72.2 points per game) and seventh in defense (66.2 points per game).

Eastern's Eddie Bodkin Leads OVC In Scoring

NASHVILLE 17 — Eastern Kentucky's Eddie Bodkin continues to lead the Ohio Valley Conference in scoring with an average of 28.4 points per game.
Clem Haskins of Western Kentucky is in the runner-up spot with 22.2 points in 30 games for an average of 21.6 points per game. Following closely is Herb McPiercen of Murray, who is hitting at 21.5 points per game.
Timmy Woods of East Tennessee State University is the top rebounder in the OVC with 300 rebounds in 17 games for a 17.7 average. His nearest competitor is Dick Cunningham of Murray, who has a 14.1 rebounding average.
Cunningham is leading the league in field goal percentage with 90 of 194 field goal attempts for 46.4 per cent. He is followed by Steve Cunningham of Western Kentucky with 82.1 per cent and Bodkin, who is hitting 81.9 per cent of his shots.
"Movehead" Larry Jordan is tops in free throw accuracy with 92.2 per cent on 36 of 39 attempts. He is closely followed by teammate Charles Adams, who is hitting at a 90.2 per cent clip.

Falcons Get 42 Players NFL Teams

By DAVID M. MOFFIT, UPI Sports Writer
PALM BEACH, Fla. 17 — The new Atlanta Falcons were to find out today which players on the 42-player 14 National Football League NFL teams will be shorn for the season.
The Falcons, who make their debut this coming season, will get to choose a total of 42 veterans through a formula worked out during a lengthy NFL season Monday.
The rather complicated formula allows each of the 14 teams to free 29 of 40 players while the Falcons pick one of the remaining 11; then take back two more before the Falcons get to pick two from the remaining eight.

THE RIGHT TO PRAY

In making an amendment to the U. S. Constitution that will restore to the American people the right to pray in the classrooms, Senator Everett Dirksen of Illinois is leading a cause that has immense popularity with the U. S. public.

Several years ago, after the Supreme Court handed down its edict against prayer in the classroom, the Daily Post reported that over 90 per cent of the American people disapproved of the court's decision.

It was in Washington recently, however, Dirksen summed up his three words:

"I do not intend to let nine men tell 190 million Americans, including children, where and when they can worship."

The immediate cause of Senator Dirksen's intention was the action of the Supreme Court December 12 when it rejected an appeal from a group of parents in New York State. They had sought permission for their children to be allowed to pray voluntarily in their classrooms. It was the first case involving voluntary prayer to reach the Supreme Court since its 1962 decision banning prayers specifically prescribed by public school officials.

One of the prayers that the children wished to say in the New York school case was the familiar grace before meals:

"God is great, God is good, and we thank Thee for our food."

What kind of Supreme Court is it that would forbid children to say such a prayer in their schools? If the court can prevent such a prayer in school, then one must suppose it also can decree that soldiers go into combat in Viet Nam may not attend religious services in military camps. This would be the next logical step for the prayer-bannermen that soldiers ought be allowed to speak of God in their foxholes.

Now, the laws of a country have to be built on a broad consensus in the minds of the people. Surely, there is the widest possible consensus to be found in the United States on the subject of the right to pray.

This isn't an officially Godless state as in the Soviet Union. From the formation of the republic down to the present day religion has been a vital part of American life. Public ceremonies include prayers by clergy.

The Congress begins each day's deliberations with a prayer. American money bears the inscription "In God We Trust." When naval vessels are commissioned, prayers are read while the crews stand with folded hands. The armed services are the chaplains who are commissioned officers paid by the United States government. The President puts his hand on a Bible when he takes the oath of office. So how can the Supreme Court deny to schoolchildren the right to voluntary prayer? The answer is that the court cannot ban prayer with any logic or justice.

The Supreme Court was created to maintain justice in the United States. But it is not dispensing justice when it says a small child cannot thank his God when he is in the classroom. The court has decided itself absolutely opposed to segregation, yet it is determined to segregate schoolchildren from contact with God through prayer.

Can the court argue that such prayer is subversive of our Constitution or way of life? The court has voided all sorts of freedoms to communists, who want to overthrow the United States. It has said that the states may not enact laws dealing with subversives. It has given communists the right to travel to certain places where the government does not want them to go.

The Supreme Court has upheld civil disobedience and permitted near conditions to exist at the expense of respectable communities. But the Supreme Court will not let a child pray to God in the classroom.

Hopefully, the American people will follow Senator Dirksen's splendid effort to regain for the people one of their fundamental rights.

MAFIA GETS SILENT

LONDON (AP) — Italian social reformer Danilo Dolci, dubbed "the man the Mafia forgot to kill," said Wednesday the century-long silence that has protected the notorious society is gradually being broken.

The anti-Mafia commission now sitting in Italy "has made the Mafia more careful and people more courageous in speaking out against them," said Dolci. "If things go on the same way it would be the end of the Mafia."

Miss Vickie Lynn Fields Married Recently To Charles Michael Baker At Mayfield

Mrs. Charles Michael Baker

The sanctuary of the High Point Baptist Church, Mayfield, was the scene of the beautiful wedding of Miss Vickie Lynn Fields, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger M. Fields of Mayfield, to Charles Michael Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Baker of Murray, on Saturday, January 29, at three o'clock in the afternoon.

The minister, Rev. James Sharp read the double-ring ceremony, following a program of musical music presented by Mrs. Lynch Albritten, organist. Her selections included "Always" and "Hawaiian Wedding Song". The traditional wedding marches were used for the processional and recessional.

The altar was decorated with massed greenery interspersed by arrangements of white gladioli and white tapers. Grecian columns, topped with large baskets of gladioli flanked the altar, which was encircled with a splendid arrangement of the flowers. The tapers burning in zinc-branch candelabras shed a soft glow over the wedding scene.

Given in marriage by Rev. Fisher, the attractive young bride wore a floor-length gown of white peau de soie fashioned along princess lines, and featuring an inset panel at the empire waistline. The long, fitted sleeves terminated in points over the hands, and a chapel-train cascaded from a center back bow. Lace applique and scrolls of white seed pearls highlighted both the dress and the train. Her only jewelry was a heart-shaped diamond lavette, a gift of the groom.

Her bridesmaids wore a tulle of white seed pearls and amethyst boric crystals, and in it cascaded the shoulder-length veil of French illusion. She carried a bouquet of white poinsettias, centered with a white orchid and showered with white satin ribbons tied in lovers knots.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Bonnie Lee Fields. She chose an aqua lace and tulle dress, which was designed with a lace bodice, long sleeves and empire waist. The straight skirt was of tulle, and her face veil was attached to a cluster of matching tulle rosettes. Miss Fields' bouquet was of white carnations and aqua net and ribbons.

Best man was the groom's father, Mr. Baker. Roger Lee Fields, brother of the bride, and Richard Baker, the groom's brother, ushered the guests, and also lit the candles.

Mr. Fields selected for her

Dear Abby

Lost In The Shuffle!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My friend, Mary, met John five years ago. They fell deeply in love. John told Mary that he had been separated from his wife for 20 years and had no intention of divorcing and remarriage. Mary gave up all her social contacts to devote her time and attention exclusively to John. John also told Mary that two months each week he had to entertain a girl friend of long standing whom he had great compassion, but to whom he couldn't reveal the fact that he was in love with Mary. Mary is heartbroken and feels she cannot share John with another woman. How can this be worked out?

PUZZLED
DEAR PUZZLED: If you will pardon me, I am "puzzled" as to why you are trying to help "heart-broken Mary" work out an adult-erous dilemma with a swinger like John. As I see it, the only thing John "deeply loves" is his appetite for femmes. So tell Mary she can't win in this game because John is holding all the ace, plus two queens. And the old command-ment is probably dealing from the bottom.

DEAR ABBY: The other evening my husband and I attended a dinner party for four couples at the home of some friends. The hostess thought up that "show and tell" idea but let's time someone put a stop to it. In case you've never heard it, the teacher sets her pupils to bring an interesting object to school, and tell the class about it. She urges them to bring something unusual, that the old class have never seen before, so you can imagine how frightening the possibilities are.

Abby, I always thought teachers were paid to teach kids what's in the books, not to encourage them to bring stuff from home and run off at the mouth about it. Youngsters don't always have the best judgment, you know.

Well, last Halloween my husband went to a costume party dressed as Mae West. This morning the teacher called to tell me that our seven-year-old son had brought a pair of size 41 "shoes" to show the class what his FATHER wore under his DRESS! See what I mean?

AGAINST SHOW AND TELL

DEAR ABBY: I don't know who he was to be rid of HIM.

TEMPER-LOST BY ADVENTURE AND LOVE AT SEA STORM TIDE by Capt. Allan R. Bosworth

CHAPTER 27 HERE came a day when the ship's crew was assembled, and soon Bailey made a little speech.

"Very well," Scow said. "Pick your other five people. Mr. Potter—take six, if you want them."

"Go ahead!" Scow approved. Potter consulted Jonathan Blake, who knew who would handle tools and who could not.

A NEW BIBLE...

for ME!

She really is delighted because her church is presenting her with a new Bible. She understands and appreciates this gift, because in earning it she has committed many verses to memory, and thus learned to value God's word.

Coleman Adv. Serv.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor.
