Seen & Heard Around MURRAY

Whimpy Jones seems to be keeping the courthouse in good shape for the first time in several weeks.

Talking with Fire Chief Flavio Robertson about the possibility of fire in the new dormitories. We mentioned that they are fire proof, but he reminded us that when you put flammable material in anything fireproof, you cannot really say it is fireproof.

He cited the five and one-half million fire several years ago in the Pentagon in Washington. The Pentagon is fire proof.

The new dormitories have stand pipes in them with fire hose connections. A stand pipe is just a big water pipe which delivers water for fire purposes.

The strategy is this. You move into the building with fire hose and connect the hose on the floor below the one where the fire is. Then you go up the steps with the hose to the next floor and fight the fire.

We hope that this never becomes necessary, but it certainly is a possibility and Fire Chief Robertson and his men have evolved a plan of action to take in the event of fire.

A completely new look at the city's fire fighting capabilities may be in order with the arrival of high rise buildings in the city. Apparently (Continued on Page Six)

Two Murray High School freshmen, Edwin Schmidt, son of Mrs. E. G. Schmidt, and Guy Battle, son of Dr. and Mrs. Guy A. Battle, won first place trophies in the Western Kentucky Regional Science Fair held recently at Murray State University. Edwin won first place in the junior high chemistry division for his work with crystals. Guy won first place in the junior high physics division for his paper on gravitational waves. First place prizes were a blue ribbon and a cash award for each winner. These boys are students of David Driskill of Murray High School.

Chances Of Surviving Kentucky Automobile Accident At Night Poorer Than In Daytime

Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of three articles on a study of Kentucky traffic accidents. Others are to be published Thursday and Friday. FRANKFORT, Ky., May 4 (Special) — Your chance of surviving a Kentucky traffic accident at night is poorer than in the daytime. Just over 25 per cent of all the state's highway mishaps occur at night, according to a new official study, but they include 40 per cent of the fatal accidents. Another 7 per cent of the fatal crashes happen either during dawn or dusk. Thus, you find that 47 per cent, or nearly half, of the death-dealing accidents occur when driver visibility is lowered. The greater severity of night traffic mishaps and other figures on time factors were pointed up in a study released today by the Kentucky Department of Public Safety. And, as a result of the survey, Public Safety Commissioner Glenn Lovern announced he was calling on State Police to take preventive action. Lovern said he was asking Col. James E. Bassett, the police director, to have officers step up their patrols to apprehend speeders and other traffic-law violators during night-hours. The figures and an analysis are part of a survey of accidents in 1960 and 1964, latest year for which statistics are available. (Continued on Page Six)

Art Auction Will Be Held Next Week

Residents are invited to attend the Sixty Annual Art Auction which will be held in the Student Union Ballroom on Wednesday, May 11. The event is sponsored by the Art Division of the university and Kappa Pi, honorary art fraternity. The doors will open at 6:30 p.m. and auctioning will be held from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. Objects to be auctioned include all types of arts and crafts such as drawings, graphics, paintings, jewelry, weaving, ceramics, sculpture, etc. It is a good time to purchase original art works for your home or business, a spokesman for the art auction said. Fifty per cent of the sale price of each item will go for the benefit of the art scholarship fund which provides for one or more scholarships to Murray State University for high school seniors who show outstanding ability in the art field.

MRS. WALLACE CAMPAIGNING — Mrs. Lurline Wallace (right), wife of Alabama's Gov. George Wallace, talks to a woman in Mobile as she campaigns to succeed her husband, who by law is ineligible. She has announced that if she is elected the governor's office will be run by him.

Wallace Ticket Winner Easily In Alabama Election

By WILLIAM O. BRYANT
BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George Wallace's popularity, so great it overcame the largest Negro vote in Alabama history, swept his wife to the Democratic nomination to seek election as his successor. Attractive Lurline Wallace crushed nine male rivals so badly Tuesday that no primary runoff will be necessary. She faces a strong Republican challenge in a general election showdown to keep the Wallace in the Statehouse from which George can pursue his 1968 presidential ambitions. The Wallace triumph was so complete that the governor's most powerful ally in the Alabama House of Representatives, Rep. Albert Brewer, won renomination for lieutenant governor.

Gray Nominated
Attorney Fred Gray, who defended Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in several civil rights cases, won nomination to the House from a district comprised of predominantly Negro Macon, Bullock and Barbour counties. He defeated two white opponents by a sizeable margin. Another Negro, Thomas Reed, apparently close to winning nomination in another House race. Former state Police Chief Al Lingo failed in his bid for sheriff of Jefferson, Birmingham County. (Continued on Page Six)

Kiwanis Club Do-Nut Sale Set Thursday

The annual spring Do-nut sale of the Murray Kiwanis Club will be held Thursday night starting at 5:00 p.m. and lasting until 7:00 p.m. Proceeds from the sale will go to the club fund for underprivileged children. This fund is used to purchase school lunches, books and other items that are needed by children who otherwise would be denied. Sales Thursday will be held on the North side of Main Street to Chestnut. The area has been divided into nine sections with a Kiwanis captain assisted by the Circle K Club of MSU making the calls. Club members are to meet at the Science Building at MSU. Sales will end at 7:00 p.m. and members will meet at the Women's Club for the regular meeting. There will be no other program than the do-nut sale. The South side of the city will be worked Thursday, May 12 with the same team working.

United Church Women Will Meet Friday

The United Church Women of Murray and Calloway County will meet at the College Presbyterian Church Friday, May 6, at 12 noon to observe the May Fellowship day program. "People, Poverty, Plenty — Discover, Plan, Act" will be the theme of the program to be presented by the women of the College Presbyterian Church. A potluck luncheon will be served at noon and all women of Murray and Calloway County are invited to attend, according to Mrs. Nix Crawford, president of the United Church Women.

Quotes From The News

OTTAWA - Former Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, denouncing Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's probe of a sex and security scandal involving political rivals... "One of the most terrible offenses of any government... Worse than McCarthyism. Calculated to destroy by inference and defile and besmirch by innuendo."

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. - Cob Conner, a 63-year-old Alabama Negro, commenting on his first vote in a public election: "It felt good. I'll vote again if I'm alive."

WASHINGTON - Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., criticizing the Johnson Administration's methods in combating inflation: "Where things begin, other things follow. The farmers therefore are the founders of human civilization."

"He (President Johnson) tells people to stop buying dairy products. He tells them the dairy farmer is responsible for inflation. He tries to cut down the school milk program... I want the President to apply the same brakes on the government he is trying to apply to the private sector."

DETROIT - Henry Ford II, urging all wealthy Americans to take the initiative in the fight against poverty and other social ills:

"Those who are more fortunate, including the leaders of the business world, have a duty to their country and themselves to join the war on poverty, on discrimination, on ignorance, on unemployment. The free enterprise system will not gain the respect and acceptance it needs until all men share in the abundance that system provides."

A Bible Thought For Today

I will extol thee, my God, O King; and I will bless thy name for ever and ever. —Psalm 145:1.
Have we ever wondered if the Psalmist kept his word? It is easy to make such resolutions in periods of spiritual ecstasy, after the experience of deep gratitude for blessings received. Let us reduce the intervals, and shorten the time between our extolling.

Ten Years Ago Today

Mrs. Alice Stealy was chosen as the 1955 Master Homemaker of Calloway County by an out-of-county committee for her outstanding work as a homemaker and helping her two young sons run their farm.
Misses Ann and Gale Douglas won superior in a two piano number in the Kentucky High School Music Festival held in Bowling Green. This is the second year for them to win a superior rating.
Mrs. J. H. Wyman of North 16th Street reached the age of 100 years today and is receiving the best wishes of the many people in Calloway County who know her. She received a telegram from President Dwight D. Eisenhower and from Senator Earle C. Clements today.
Kindergarten sponsored by the Sigma Department of the Murray Women's Club will hold its registration in the room of the new Carter-Elementary School May 10. Forty children will be the maximum that can be accepted.

Scouts Give Program For Men's Club

Boy Scout Troop sponsored by the Methodist Church gave the First Methodist Church gave the program for the monthly meeting Wednesday night April 20. Some of the boys of the troop gave an account and demonstrations of the work they are doing in Conservation in the Land Between the Lakes Area.
They have taken upon themselves quite a project in one of the areas there. The area they are working covers approximately 500 acres. In this area they have cleaned up and are in the process of cleaning up and establishing five camp sites. They are working at soil conservation by building gully plugs and other types of soil erosion control. The demonstration on this phase was given by Alan Weatherly.
Lee Crites opened the program by presenting a map showing the topography of the area. Robert Lowe presented an overview on the map showing the camp sites and ponds they are working on. Between the camp sites they have cleaned up and moved two large playing fields 50 yards wide and 100 yards long. There are also 5 ponds in this area they are cleaning up and plan to stock with fish later on. The demonstration on the ponds was presented by Steve Payne.
Randy Lowe followed up by a talk on the various kinds of wildlife that may be found in their area. These are two kinds of deer, Yellow and White tail, turkeys, bobcats, foxes, red and gray squirrel, quail of all kinds, doves, raccoons, opossums, all kinds of ducks, Canadian geese, snakes, fish of all kinds, birds, owls, our National bird, the Bald Eagle, a large variety of hawks and even packs of wild dogs. They have planted various kinds of cover and food for this wildlife and plan to dam up some of the ponds. They have put out numerous bird houses and plant-enclosed 5000 pine seedlings. Randy Lowe gave the talk on birds and Tom Irwin gave a demonstration on the setting of pine trees.
Jimmy Bamer introduced the program with a talk on the Hornaday Award which is a National Award given for any group that completes a major Conservation program. Troop 45 is working on this award. Although this may seem like a lot of work and I assure you it is these boys have a lot of fun doing this and this will help them to appreciate our Natural Resources that much more. They have been working on this for about three months and have spent several weeks-end of camping while doing this under the leadership of Don McWhorter their Scoutmaster. They have already earned eight merit badges in forestry while doing this. This is a very worthy project and there are many areas that are open to other groups who wish to work on this.

Records For 4-H Members Are Important

By GLEN SIMS
County Extension Agent
When boys and girls become 4-H club members they enroll in a 4-H project. These members are given project record books and project instruction books which tell how to do the project. The record book could be a part of the instruction book or a separate book. Importance of Keeping Good 4-H Records: A project champion is named in each project that is carried by 4-H club members based on record books that they turn in. This year their records will be judged at the County Fair which will be July 18-23. The 4-H members that turn in the top record book in each project will be project champions.
When boys and girls become 4-H club members they enroll in a 4-H project. These events include the 4-H Jr. Leadership conference held on the campus of the University of Kentucky, Ky. Youth Power Conference, National 4-H Club in Washington, D. C. These are the highest awards that 4-H club members can receive. Delegates are selected on the basis of the records that they keep and accumulate during their years of 4-H club work.
College scholarships are available to older 4-H members. Those that receive scholarships are also selected on the basis of their records. While a 4-H club member becomes an adult they will be expected to keep records. Records are required of how much money they earn and how they use it in order to know how much income tax they are to pay each year.
Business men are required to keep records to determine how much profit or loss they have from their business. Records tell the strong and weak points of their business. This helps in determining changes that need to be made in their business.
What is Contained in 4-H Records: 4-H records should consist of how much material and the cost of the material used in the project; how much time members give to the project and a project story. The story should tell how the project was carried out, experience gained, what the 4-H member enjoyed about the project and changes that he would make in the project if he did it over.

Questions-Answers

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions about the new tax withholding system which became effective May 1, 1966.

Q - How many different withholding rates are there under the new law?
A - There are now six rates ranging from 14 percent to 30 percent. They are included in two tables—one for single persons and one for married persons.

Q - I am married and wife works. Can we each take advantage of the rates for married couples on our withholding?
A - Yes. However, you may not claim your wife's exemption if she is taking it herself on her job.

Q - I always itemize deductions because I have high interest, real estate tax, and contributions. I'm always overwithheld and under the new system I will be more overwithheld than before. Isn't there anything that can be done to minimize this?
A - The new law authorizes you to claim additional allowances for situations such as you describe starting next January. Instructions on this will be issued later in the year.

Q - Where can I get a withholding certificate?
A - Ask your employer for a Form W-4. It is also included in IRS Document 5642, a fact sheet for employees. The IRS mailed a supply of these forms to all employers in March along with information on the new system.

Q - My wife and I are separated. Do I list myself as single or married on my withholding form?
A - If you are "legally" separated then you are considered single for tax purposes. Otherwise, you should be considered married.

Q - I'm self-employed. Will the new withholding rates have any effect on me?
A - No. The rates will affect only those who receive wages subject to withholding. You will be required, however, to include self-employment taxes in your Declaration of Estimated Tax, beginning January 1, 1967.

Q - Even with the higher rates tax enough will be withheld from my salary. Can I still have additional amounts taken out?
A - Yes. You can claim fewer exemptions for withholding purposes than you are entitled to claim or ask to have additional amounts withheld. Arrangements for this may be made with your employer, as they have been in the past.

Q - The new withholding will be sufficient to take care of what I owe. Can I stop filing estimated tax declarations?
A - The requirements for filing declarations of estimated tax are unchanged. The declaration of estimated tax and payments may not be necessary, however, if the graduated withholding approximates your total tax liability. Generally, estimates are required to be filed only when the estimated tax liability for the year exceeds tax withheld by $60 or more.

FIRING INCIDENT

JERUSALEM, Israel (AP) - An Israeli military spokesman said Syrian troops opened fire Monday with light arms on Israeli territory near the settlement of Hebron on the southwest shore of the Sea of Galilee. No one was reported injured in the incident, the second of its kind in the last two days.

Construction will begin in the summer of 1966 on Kentucky's educational television network. Funds to set up the network were provided in the 1966-67 State budget.

DISMISS CHARGES

STEAMBOAT SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) - A police magistrate Monday dismissed disturbance charges against six Yampa Valley College students, including the son of television performer Steve Allen.

Brian Allen, 19, and the other youths were charged with disturbance in a March 23 fight with four area cowboys. The incident occurred in a Steamboat Springs beer tavern.
The cowboys were found guilty of disturbance and fined $25 each.

Vacations Now Taking Consideration

By DAYD NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist

Many families are considering plans for the approaching summer vacation. Should children be sent to camp? If so, should it be a day camp or sleep away camp?

The decision is influenced by many circumstances. The neighborhood facilities may or may not be suitable for summer activities. Some areas become lonely during the summer months. These are important factors affecting a child's vacation choice. In some cases, where both parents must work during the summer, camp may serve an important purpose.

Naturally, individual needs vary. Many will profit from some kind of camp experience. The preschool child is probably not ready for a sleep away camp. He still needs his security of being near his parents.

Perhaps a day camp is advantageous for such a child. Parents must carefully investigate camps in regard to facilities, counseling, and program. The types of activities should be considered in light of the child's interests.

As a child grows older, he is more likely to be ready for a sleep away camp. Not all children will benefit from camping. Much depends upon their ability and interests in relation to the particular camp.

There are many camps from which to choose. Don't make a hasty decision. The price range is a personal matter, but you will find many choices. You will hear of camps from friends and neighbors. Others can be located through advertisements, camp information centers, and camping associations.

You will run some general camps and others which emphasize sports, music, science, trips, etc. The choice should be guided by your child's desires. In any case, you will want to make sure that the camp has good facilities, meals, and staff.

Camping is a rewarding experience for many children. The family situation, child's interests and abilities, and careful choice are the keys to help you make a proper decision.

Noises In Man's Head Diagnosed

MIAMI (AP) - Physicians said today they have diagnosed the source of the odd noises that Dr. Ian Figueroa has been hearing inside his head the past two years.

Doctors said the squishing, gushing and whistling sounds are caused by a pinched artery and vein behind Figueroa's right ear.

Figueroa, 38, said he was delighted that the tests had proven "I'm not a crackpot." He said he began hearing the noises, which he described as "squishing, gushing, whistling, whooshing and frogging," inside his head shortly after falling off a step ladder about two years ago.

A surgeon said he hopes a simple operation done with a local anesthetic will stop the noises. If not, Figueroa may have to undergo major surgery.

Willie McCovey Reclaims His Role As The National League Leading Demonstrator

By JOE GERGEN
UPI Sports Writer

Willie McCovey, who wields a pretty mean picket, has reclaimed his role as the National League's leading demonstrator against Don Drysdale—despite some stiff competition from organized labor.

McCovey was only one of many who lodged a formal protest against the Los Angeles Dodgers' tall right-hander Tuesday night at Candlestick Park but he was certainly the most effective.

A group of demonstrators distributed handbills outside the park charging Drysdale with unfair labor practices in his Los Angeles restaurant. He got no sympathy inside, however, as McCovey and his San Francisco Giants mates mauled him for four runs and an eventual 8-1 victory.

McCovey had been Drysdale's personal nemesis prior to 1964 when he suddenly stopped lowering the boom on the Dodger star. He didn't hit a single homer off Drysdale in 1964 or 1965, compared with eight, including six game-winning blows, the previous three seasons.

Like Old Times

But it was like old times for "Stretch" Tuesday night when he smashed a 400-foot shot over the center field fence in the fourth with two aboard to break the game wide open and help send "Big D" to the showers. McCovey also clipped in with a run-scoring single off Joe Moeller to raise his RBI total to 16 and tie teammate Willie Mays for the league lead.

McCovey, with three hits, raised his batting average to .299 after a dismal start and now has belted 370 in his last 13 games to take up some of the slack caused by Mays' slump. Mays has been way off form since tying the NL career home run mark of 511 nearly two weeks ago in Houston.

The Pittsburgh Pirates maintained their half-game lead over the Giants by edging Cincinnati 5-4 in 12 innings. Atlanta ripped Philadelphia 9-8 in 10 innings. Houston battered the Chicago Cubs 10-2 and St. Louis whipped the New York Mets 5-2.

All Action

In the American League, Cleveland blanked the Yankees 1-0 and took over first place from Baltimore, which was shut out 3-0 by Washington. The Detroit Tigers trounced Boston 8-0. Minnesota overpowered the Chicago White Sox 4-2 and California beat Kansas City 6-2 in other games.

Juan Marichal, who never has lost to Los Angeles at Candlestick Park, gained his 11th victory against the Dodgers there and picked up his fifth win of the season in as many decisions with a neat four-hitter. He struck out five and held the Dodgers scoreless until the ninth when Jim Lefebvre tagged the Dominican hurler for his sixth home run with two out.

Drysdale, half of the celebrated holdout team of Koufax and Drysdale, suffered his third loss against one victory after signing a contract for a reported $106,000.

The Pirates continued their late-inning lightning when Donn Clendenon hit a two-run homer in the eighth, and then repeated his performance in the 12th to wrap up the victory. Veteran reliever Elroy Face won his third consecutive game by limiting the Reds to an unearned run over the last 4 1/3 innings.

Alou Gets RBI

Pelpe Alou lined a hit down the left field line with two on in the 10th to score Woody Woodward from second with the winning Atlanta tally. The Braves had belted back into the game with a pair of runs in the eighth. Phil Niekro, the last of seven Atlanta hurlers, was credited with the win in the free-throwing contest.

Joe Morgan, the senior circuit's leading hitter with a .384 batting average, drove in three runs with a home run and double to pace Houston's 11th assault on three Cub pitchers. Rookie Sonny Jackson clipped in with three hits and Dave Giusti went the distance for his third victory.

Little Al Jackson picked up his first victory as a St. Louis Cardinal at the expense of his former teammates, the Mets. Jackson pitched perfect ball over the final four innings to post the win in relief. Lou Brock drove in the winning runs with a two-run double in the fourth inning that capped a three-run St. Louis rally.

Murray High Has Bad Day Yesterday

By GALE GARRISON

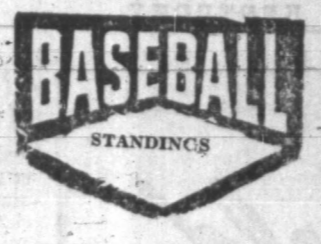

Murray High played a regular marathon baseball yesterday, and was unable to claim a win. They lost the first game 4 to 3, in the tenth inning of a game that was supposed to last only seven innings. Then it was decided to play only five innings of the second game, but alas, the game was tied 4 to 4, and this game also went into extra innings, but was called at the end of the seventh when neither team had managed to score.

Darrel Stalls started the first game, and pitched four and two-thirds innings, giving up only one hit, while striking out six. There were three runs scored off of him due to errors by his teammates, a double and a walk that he gave up. The first Lone Oak run came in the fourth, when Charlie Hamlin got on first on an error, stole second, went to third on a passed ball, then came home on another error.

Then to lead off the fifth, Heaton walked. Farmer sacrificed him to second, Smith went to first and Heaton to third, on an error, then both came home on a double by Leeper. Moore scored the winning run in the tenth on a double by Hamlin, after he had singled.

Murray scored two runs in the third, and one in the fifth. Lynn Stranek led off the third by striking out, Jimmy Felix singled, Tony Thomas walked, Steve West walked, reached first on an error, leading the bases, Duke Dubia also reached first on an error, scoring Felix, Steve Sammons then singled, scoring in Thomas. Felix again started the ball rolling by singling in the fifth, then advanced to second when Thomas walked. Jimmy advanced to third when West hit into a fielders choice, then scored on Sammons' single.

Murray jumped off to an early lead in the night cap when Dubia doubled, driving in Felix and West. They picked up two more in the sixth, on a single by Felix, a triple by Thomas and a double by West. Lone Oak's nine picked up one run in the fourth and three in the fifth to tie the game up and send it into extra innings but they never were able to break the tie.

The Sun Has Never Shone So Bright For Pitcher Luis Tiant

By FRED MEMANE
UPI Sports Writer

The sun has risen for Luis Tiant today just like manager Billie Tiller today. It would, and man, it's never shone so brightly.

Tiant, a 26-year-old right-hander from Cuba, took the Cleveland Indians into the bottom of the ninth inning Tuesday night with a 1-0 lead over the New York Yankees when all of a sudden it looked as if the sky might fall.

Bobby Richardson led off with a single and after two out Tom Tresh walked. At that moment Tietze walked out to the mound for a talk with Tiant, who had not allowed a run in 26 innings of work this season.

"Let him hit it," the Indians skipper advised. "The sun will come up tomorrow even if he does hit a home run."

Caught Fast Ball

Tietze was barely back in the Tenth dugout when the Yankee first baseman caught hold of a low fast ball and drilled it far down the right field line. Tiant shuddered and Tietze swallowed hard but the ball hooked foul. Peppers then slid out to Leon Wagner to give Tiant his third straight shutout and enable the Indians to move back into first place in the American League.

In other AL action, the Washington Senators blanked the Baltimore Orioles 3-0, the Detroit Tigers shut out the Boston Red Sox 8-0, the Minnesota Twins upended the Chicago White Sox 4-3 and the California Angels topped the Kansas City Athletics 6-2.

The San Francisco Giants valoped the Los Angeles Dodgers 8-1, the Pittsburgh Pirates edged the Cincinnati Reds 5-4 in 12 innings, the St. Louis Cardinals tripped the New York Mets 5-2, the Atlanta Braves nipped the Philadelphia Phillies 9-8 in 10 innings and the Houston Astros bombed the Chicago Cubs 10-2 in National League games.

The Tribe scored the only run of the game off southpaw Al Downing in the seventh on successive singles by Fred Whitfield, Larry

Two Girls Honored At Birthday Party

Sherri and Teresa McKinney were honored with a party in celebration of their ninth and fifth birthdays by their mother, Mrs. James H. McKinney at their home last week.

Their birthdays are Sherri on April 25 and Teresa on April 27. Sherri had a birthday cake with pink icing and blue candles while Teresa's was a cake with blue icing and pink candles.

Chick, Coke, hamburgers, and pickles were served by Mrs. McKinney. Games were played by the group. Guests of Sherri were Denise Morton, Rhonda Towery, Patsy Buckner, and Tonya Reeder. Teresa's guests were Lisa Suttor, Jean Carol Cole, and Janet Cole.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth L. Lamb of 504 South Sixth Street are the parents of a son, Rodney Lee, weighing seven pounds 10 1/2 ounces, born at 8:08 a.m. Saturday, April 30, at the Murray-Chalmers County Hospital. Grandparents are Mrs. Madeline Talbot of Murray and Mr. and Mrs. Noble Lamb of Star Route, Mayfield. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lamb of Murray and Mrs. Jerline Calley of North Street, Murray, are great grandparents.

Michael Allen is the name chosen by Mr. and Mrs. John Neely of Murray Route Six for their baby boy, weighing seven pounds fifteen ounces, born at 12:01 a.m. Friday, April 29, at the Murray-Chalmers County Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Morris of Murray Route Six and Mr. and Mrs. Homer McNeely of Hardin Route One are the grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Thomas Rushing of 1401 Henry Street announce the birth of a daughter, LeAnn, weighing nine pounds three ounces, born at 2:34 p.m. on Friday, April 29, at the Murray-Chalmers County Hospital. They have one other daughter, Lori Lynn, age six. Mrs. Corrie Rushing and Lloyd Tucker of Murray are grandparents.

Mrs. Theilma Langan of Chicago, Ill., is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Robert Singleton, Mr. Singleton and daughter, Vicki, at their home on North 17th Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Mae Key of 1709 Miller Avenue, Murray, are the parents of a son, Rodney Scott, weighing seven pounds 14 1/2 ounces, born at 7:08 a.m. Friday, April 29, at the Murray-Chalmers County Hospital. They have one daughter, Estelma, age 2 1/2. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Key of Murray and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Morgan of Colton. Great grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. B. Wyatt, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Morgan, Mrs. Lynn Key, and Mrs. Bruce Adams.

It was learned that children from 6 months to 5 years' aged less age better, could be held for physical examination, and seemed more eager to be held by nurses wearing colored dresses in place of white uniforms. School children were also more at ease.

One mother told the hospital that her child had such a fear of white clothing that he refused to go to the supermarket where clerks wore white jackets. The hospital says it is likely that children come to associate men and women, in white with shoes, medicine and unpleasantness.

CHAPTER 15

THE ATTY lieutenant and his men recovered the body of Patrick O'Toole, whose native curiosity had lured him to his death. The lieutenant sent scouts ahead, for they found Indians in force hidden in the crevices of the plain.

The Sioux, their ambush failing, finally appeared in the open in the distance. It was a sizable party, more than forty warriors. Kirby McClane estimated, and apparently was right, that the Sioux were mounted now. They stood the crest of a small hill, their rifles and arrows out of their scabbards, and their construction men to fight them.

The cavalry lieutenant refused to accept the invitation. Some of his men tried to tempt him into taking up the Sioux challenge.

"No back to work," the cavalryman said. "That's what I want because he refused to obey orders not to wander off any more on you are anxious to do the same, I'm not stopping you. My job is to see that this cursed railroad gets built."

The Sioux finally vanished. The crews angrily settled back into their routine.

Kirby saw that Nora Logan was standing on the steps of Callahan's office. She should have fled out of sight, or right out she had remained there and had seen the killing and the scolding.

As the blanket-covered body of Patrick O'Toole was carried past, she spoke to the stretcher bearers. "See to it that he's given an unction in sacred ground, and that High Mass is sung. I'll pray for the repose of his soul, even though I may not be of his religion. If he leaves a wife or children, I am telling you they will never be left in want. The railroad will see to that. My father will see to it."

She was speaking for both the Grand Pacific and her father. Danger and violence and death were no strangers to the brave men in the steel gang. The majority of them had seen comrades die on battlefields. But they had been talking gloomily among themselves, Patrick O'Toole's death had cast a pall over them.

Many of them had families and responsibilities. Nora Logan had understood that and had faced the real issue. Kirby saw their mood change. They began doffing their hats to her.

"We thank ye, indeed, ma'am," a spokesman said. "This little one may remind Pat O'Toole leaves in Antler."

"I'll call on them as soon as I get back to town tomorrow," Nora Logan said. "I'll see that" they have anything they need." Kirby knew she had solved a situation that might have cost the Grand Pacific many of its workers and set construction back.

"What is she doing here?" he asked Jim Larabee.

"Come out to look out for arrangements for the snidger her father is putting on."

"Standing?"

Larabee pointed toward a crew of men who were clearing and leveling a strip of ground in the distance. "After the banquet is finished in town tomorrow night, they'll move the tent out here, for the general is bringing his whole staff of aides, ladies, all, to end of track on a special train. They'll be wired a direct for three, four days while the men, such as are sober enough, try to shoot themselves a buffalo."

KIRBY watched Patrick O'Toole's body being placed in a baggage car for the trip back to Antler. "Has this happened before?" he asked.

"A man on the grading gang up ahead was killed by an arrow a few days ago. Nobody saw the Indian who stretched the bowstring. There's been a couple of other scares. Young Larabee making fake rushes to try to stampede the men. A lot of yelling, but nothing hurt."

"That was no bunch of young braves this time," Kirby said. "They were full warriors. They were painted. I saw the feathers on a chest among them. If it wasn't mistaken, it was Black Elk himself."

"You see? of surprise ma, McKee. You don't mind to tell me you know Black Elk?"

"I smoked the pipe with him when I was with the cavalry. That was when I was with a detail-guarding Raymond Coleman's survey party. Black Elk didn't like the thought of a railroad through his buffalo country ever then, but Ray Coleman told him he was sure it would be built farther south. That was when Coleman was working for the Union Pacific, of course."

"I take it you're no longer of a mind to go on ahead to the grading camp?"

"Why not?"

"Lawdmighty, man! Didn't you see what just happened? It was twenty five or more to the grading camp. The Indians might—"

Kirby grinned. "I learned back in the life country that a good, granite nose, with a little swift in his legs, usually outruns an Indian pony and keeps a scalp in the right place. That's all I ask. A good horse. I reckon my hair's no more valuable than yours," Larabee said.

The story continues tomorrow.

"I'll damned well see to it that we ride the fastest horses Mike Callahan's got in the string."

"Wait a minute! There's a call for you to go, my friend."

But Larabee was with him when they rode away from the station camp a quarter of an hour later. The horses the wrangler cut to them from the stock in the railroad corral were sound roars that had been enough work to toughen them.

Mike Callahan had also seen it that they were heavily armed. They carried Henry repeating rifles in the boots and saw crates of pistols strapped to their sides, along with a good supply of ammunition.

Looting back, Kirby saw that Nora Logan was watching their departure from a window in Callahan's office—she had no doubt puzzling over the purpose of Kirby's journey.

They passed the beehive of activity where the crews were pushing steel westward. Files of men ran with rails on their shoulders and other squads sprung mallets, spiking steel to the ties that webbed the saw earth of the plains.

The same hectic pace was being set by the crews who were piling ties a mile ahead of the steel gang. This fell astern as they rode along the west of the grading crews had stashed in the plain. Grades usually worked a score of miles ahead. Kirby and Larabee were utterly alone.

The country here was broken and craggy with outcrops of worn buttes, veined by gullies. Except for the graded right-of-way, the country was in its own sense creation. Buffalo country. Indian country.

In spite of himself, Kirby felt tension rising. He was trying to watch every patch of brush every dry wash. He had known this sensation before and it had only one name. Fear. He looked at Larabee and saw the same latent alertness in the older man. They grinned tightly.

"If somebody yelled right now, I'd jump right out'n my britches," Larabee admitted. "As though to mock him, a flock of squawens broke almost at the feet of the horses with their customary thunder of wings. Both Kirby and Larabee had snatched rifles from the boots and were halfway out of the saddles to dive for cover before they realized the truth. They remained their places and laughed.

"Kirby had in his hands the power to disgrace and ruin either Horace Logan or Ray Coleman. Or both."

The story continues tomorrow.

 former to incumbent Mel Batley Sheriff Jim Clark, a target of Negroes in Dallas Selma County where his scrapes with civil rights demonstrators attracted national attention held a slight lead over Selma Public Safety Director Wilson Baker.

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., easily won re-nomination to his fourth term.
 Runoffs were indicated in two other normally democratic states - Oklahoma and Florida.
 From the field of 13 candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor of Oklahoma, former Gov. Raymond Gary Murgey in front. He faced a May 24 run-off primary with either Tulsa County attorney David Hall, or Preston Moore, former American Legion national commander.

Run-off Possible
 A run-off was also a possibility in the three-way race for the Oklahoma GOP gubernatorial nomination.

In Florida, Gov. Haydon Burns let a field of four candidates for the democratic gubernatorial nomination but not by a comfortable margin.

He faces a run-off contest May 24 with Mayor Raymond King High of Miami or Scott Kelly, who were running neck-and-neck for second place.

Claude Kirk, who showed unexpected strength as a candidate for the U.S. Senate two years ago, easily won the Republican nomination for governor of Florida over Richard Multrick.

Ohio's Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes also won re-nomination over his opponent. He will be heavily favored to win Nov. 8 over state Sen. Frank Renna Jr. who won the Democratic nomination from state Rep. Harry McIlwain.

In New Mexico, former state Sen. T. E. Lusk defeated former Gov. John Burroughs, in an upset for the Democratic nomination to succeed Democratic Gov. Jack M. Campbell, who is ineligible for re-election. Fourth incomplete returns, the GOP gubernatorial primary between Clifford Hawley and David F. Carpio was too close to call.

SHIPS CONFERENCE
 WASHINGTON 57 - The United States is sending one of its top diplomats, W. Averell Harriman, to take part in a London conference this week on improving fire safety of passenger ships.

The State Department said during the weekend that the presence of such a high-ranking U. S. government attaches to a satisfactory solution of the fire safety problem as soon as possible.

The United States requested the special meeting of the Maritime Safety Committee on the intergovernmental maritime consultative organization because of the Yarmouth Castle disaster last December. The meeting opens Tuesday.

 seven to nine story buildings on the MSU campus will be the rule for the future rather than the exception.

We have now reached that position in life where all our boys are as large or larger than we are.

The time was when we could look through the laundry and easily pick out our socks, underwear, etc. because of the size. But now we have to look and look because everything is about the same size.

We have the feeling that we are missing a lot of clothes, but we can't prove anything.

However, we did get one bonus last week, we wore the shirt of the oldest at home thinking it was ours.

We have no trouble with the trousers because their trousers are so slim at the bottom it is almost impossible to get a foot through them.

That is the history of dads in general, so we will not complain.

Every time we see the tree growing out of the back of R. L. Ward's store we think of "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn".

Take a look at the Houston-McDewitt Clinic addition. Take a 2' x 7' space and go up with it for four stories and you have a lot of building going on.

The 2 x 4's in that addition if put end to end would reach from here to yonder.

Well, it looks as though Martin Luther King had something to do with the Alabama election, but not in the direction he was hoping for. He urged all colored people in Alabama to vote against "Slater Lurline".

You can imagine the effect this had on folks inside the State of Alabama white and colored alike. There is something about an outsider trying to influence a state election that goes against the grain. Apparently most people did just the opposite of what he urged and voted for Slater Lurline.

A long distance call from New Jersey the other day and we told the operator, "just a minute man". She asked what we had said and we repeated "just a minute man". She reacted as though she thought at first we had called her, a name or something, and when she found out we had not, she was flustered. He was just speaking in our best English too.
