Seen & Heard Around MURRAY

This month's issue of the Rotarian had the following by Helen Gorn Sutin, whoever that is.

It's not a sign of aging So do not flip your lids. Our gray hair is hereditary. We get it from our kids.

Out early yesterday morning and the air was right peart.

Wife fixed a dip the other night and the most difficult thing in the world is to just dip in a potato chip or two. We tend to just go on and on. And on.

We feel at times that we talk too much. This is known as having a "big mouth".

We have found that if you get the bacon out of the refrigerator the first thing when you fix breakfast, then the strips are easier to pull off. Fridge bacon is hard to separate.

Oldest drove in from Dallas Sunday morning and look off again Sunday night. If we had not looked quickly, we would have missed him.

Selen and Mrs. Hale in yesterday. Selen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Hale.

The new Calloway County jail will be nice, however we hope that we will never have need for its facilities. As far as our being in it is concerned.

We notice that it is no novelty today for women to be on the jury. We remember running a headline once on the fact that a woman was serving as a juror.

Top of the morning to our good friend Darrell Shoemaker. Darrell is having a tough time and we hope the best for him.

We hardly ever agree on politics, but we must say that we don't know of a nicer person. We can disagree more congenitally than anybody we know.

J. Edgar Hoover says that no Eagle Scout has ever been convicted of a major crime.

If one realizes what an Eagle Scout goes through to earn this coveted badge it is not difficult to understand why. An Eagle Scout learns respect for property, his own and that which belongs to others, he learns to know himself, his limitations, his weaknesses, and his strengths, he learns loyalty to his community, his church and his nation, he learns to be responsible, dependable, independent, and possibly what might be most important, he learns to have pride in himself, his work, his image, his goals and his life.

We think that Murray and Calloway County produce more Eagle Scouts than any other community of like size. This is a tribute to the Scout leaders who provide the knowhow, the leadership (Continued On Page Six)

Hope Wanes That Skydivers May Be Found Still Alive

By JOEL SHURKIN HURON, Ohio 875 — A Coast Guard air-sea search of Lake Erie waters resumed at dawn today on the slim chance there were possible survivors among 15 skydivers parachuted into the lake by mistake.

For the first time since the search began after Sunday's ill-fated mass parachute jump, bright skies and relative calm prevailed over the lake.

The good weather was favorable to the search, and the Coast Guard officer directing it said there still was "a chance for survivors."

Four boats, a cutter, two helicopters and three airplanes moved out into an area where 11 parachutists' helmets were found floating late Monday.

Hope was aced however that any of the missing parachutists would be found alive in the chilly, choppy lake a dozen miles from where they were supposed to have landed.

An investigation was getting under way with interest focused on why the skydivers jumped through clouds and whether a federal air traffic control error contributed to the mishap.

A night and day of searching was conducted by the Coast Guard. The Parachute Club of America (PCA) also sent an investigator from its headquarters in Monterey, Calif., and another from Dayton, Ohio, to investigate the tragedy.

Jacques A. Istel, developer of U.S. sport parachuting and honorary lifetime president of the PCA, said in New York the main question was whether the jump was made over a cloud cover.

"If it is correct that they jumped through clouds — and an experienced parachutist can't make an eight mile mistake unless he can't see where he's going — it is strictly illegal, against all rules (Continued On Page Six)

Nazis Storm Gate Of Cemetery To Bury The Leader

By JED STOUT CULPEPER, Va. 875 — American Nazis stormed lines of military policemen today in an effort to bury their dead leader, George Lincoln Rockwell, in a national cemetery here.

The military policemen — rubbered Charles Hines is Named To Head Local Holiday Inn

The Board of Directors of The Holiday Inn of Murray, today announced the appointment of Charles A. Hines, Jr. as Innkeeper. Hines graduated from Murray State University in August, 1966, with a Bachelor of Science Degree in Business Administration. He has been employed for the ed here by helicopter and bus from Ft. Belvoir, Va., near Washington — halted the charge. "The Nazi 'stormtroopers' tried to enter the cemetery grounds using the hearse carrying Rockwell's body as a spearhead.

At least three Rockwell followers, one wearing a brown stormtrooper uniform, were arrested. In addition, another Rockwell adherent — said to be a GI on active duty — was also taken into custody by the MPs. They were authorized to make the arrests since the men were on federal property.

Refused To Move The confrontation came after the cemetery superintendent, Edward H. Maxwell, refused the Nazi stormtroopers when they refused to remove their red, white and black swastika armbands.

As the situation grew tense, the Army dispatched its top military policeman, Maj. Gen. Carl E. Turner, to the scene along with a platoon of military policemen.

The Pentagon decreed Monday that the Rockwell burial could not include a display of Nazi banners and troopers wearing Nazi insignia.

The 49-year-old former Navy aviator was killed Friday by a sniper at a small shopping center in Arlington, Va., just outside Washington. He was entitled to burial in a national cemetery as an honorably discharged veteran.

The first arrest at the cemetery came when Douglas Niles, an American Nazi party official, attempted to ride into the cemetery on the roof of the hearse. Since he was on federal property, military policemen jerked him down and he was hustled away by three U.S. marshals.

One of the other two party members arrested — in the uniform of a stormtrooper — had jumped to the roof of the hearse screaming, "come on, let's go! we're going to bury him here!"

Clemente at Odds With Cepeda

By JOE GERGEN
UPI Sports Writer
Roberto Clemente doesn't think much of Orlando Cepeda.

Now don't get Clemente wrong. He has the highest regard for the ability of the St. Louis Cardinals' first baseman, it's just that he'd rather pretend Cepeda doesn't exist at the present time.

Clemente, the National League's Most Valuable Player last season, and a three-time batting titleholder, passed Cepeda in the hot batting race Monday night, lashing two homers and a single in five at bats to raise his average to .345 and lift the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4-3 victory over Atlanta.

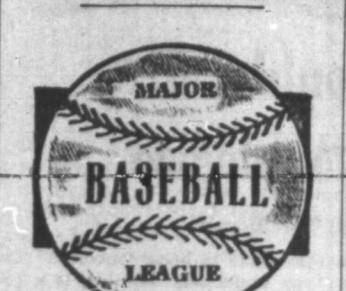

The outburst shot Clemente six points ahead of his Puerto Rican rival in the one race not yet decided in the senior circuit. It failed, however, to change Clemente's closed mind on the subject.

"Thinking Doesn't Pay
"I don't really think about the batting title or Cepeda," he said. "If you start thinking too much, you don't do well. I just go out and get my hits."

Clemente did just that against the Braves. His first homer in the sixth inning staked the Pirates to a 2-1 lead and his second, with two out in the 10th, snapped a 3-3 tie. The homers were his 19th and 20th of the season and boosted his RBI total to 85.

Cepeda played in a twinbill against the Mets and lost four points as he collected only one hit in eight appearances. That hit, however, was a two-run single that two runs, stole a base and scored from second on a wild pitch. Adolfo Phillips doubled leading off the sixth, went to third on Bill Stoneman's sacrifice and scored the winning run for the Cubs on Dave Giusti's wild pitch. Stoneman, who pitched scoreless ball for 2 2/3 innings in relief of starter Ferguson Jenkins, posted his first major league triumph.

Jet's Namath In Trouble Again

NEW YORK (UPI) - Quarterback Joe Namath, the New York Jets' $400,000 problem child, is in trouble again—this time for allegedly assaulting a sports editor.

Papers were filed in New York State Supreme Court Monday charging the pro football star and two other men with assaulting Charles Parmeter, sports editor of Time Magazine, in an East Side night spot.

According to the papers filed in court, the assault took place Aug. 4, shortly after 3 a. m. in the Open End bar.

Parmeter, represented by attorney Stuart M. Speiser of New York, is seeking to learn identity of the two other men allegedly were present.

The applications returnable Sept. 1 in Special Term Par 1 directs Murray Schaaf, owner of the night spot, to reveal in court the names of the two companions.

Parmeter's attorney said it was important that the two men be identified so they can be included as co-defendants with Namath and Schaaf in the court action.

The affidavit charged "without any warning or provocation," Namath grabbed Parmeter by the lapels, slammed his head back over the top of a cigarette machine and held him there for approximately the next 10 or 15 minutes.

During that time Parmeter charged that Namath and another man whom he called "Mickey" joined in striking him in the face. "Mickey" was reported to be a professional boxer.

It also has been charged the second unidentified man hovered around the alleged attackers and prevented other persons in the bar from intervening.

Cal Ermer Twins Manager Praises Al Worthington For Saving 3-2 Win Last Night

By SAM GOLDAPER
UPI Sports Writer
Cal Ermer, the Minnesota Twins manager, counts his blessings in these days of the tight American League pennant race and most of the time they spell out in cap letters AL WORTHINGTON.

"Everytime Al saves one for us, I'm thankful he's around," said the Minnesota manager after the Twins' 3-2 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Monday night retained their 301 American League lead.

"He ran into an unlucky streak for a while," added Ermer, "but he has made a strong comeback in the last few outings when we needed him most. I just hope I can give him enough rest to keep him strong for the rest of the season."

Worthington, 38, has been around baseball since 1951 when he broke in with Nashville of the Southern Association. But, at 38, with 12 years in the majors and 462 games, he remains calm while firing his variety of pitches in tense situations.

Fine Relief Help
The situation was tense Monday night when Worthington made his 50th appearance of the season in the final two innings in relief of Jim Perry.
Pete Riberti's throwing error with one out in the seventh inning had allowed the Twins to break a 2-2 deadlock. Worthington had to face the meat of the Orioles batting order and did it in fine style. He struck out Boog Powell, Paul Blair and Dick Rosnowsky in the eighth, then got Frank and Brooks Robinson to foul out and Curt Blefary to ground out to end the game.

Elsewhere in the American League, Boston blanked the New York Yankees 3-0, Washington edged Chicago 2-1, Cleveland bested Kansas City 8-7 in 11 innings and Detroit walloped California 10-0.

In the National League, the pacesetter St. Louis Cardinals lost the first game of a doubleheader to the New York Mets 4-2 and bounced back 6-0 in the nightcap. Chicago defeated Houston 6-5, Pittsburgh topped Atlanta 4-3, Philadelphia downed Cincinnati 3-2 and San Francisco routed Los Angeles 7-0.

Perry held the Orioles to three hits in the seven innings he worked for his seventh victory in 13 decisions.

Gal Should Call Fiance, Apologize

By Antgail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The other evening I was ready to go out with my fiance when he asked me to please change my dress. He said he didn't like me in "jeans." Abby, I wasn't wearing pants. I was wearing a divided skirt, called "culottes."

My mother said I couldn't go out with him unless I wore the culottes, so there I was, torn between my fiance and my mother. Then my mother told my fiance he should apologize to me, and he said he didn't have anything to apologize for, that he should have the say in what I wear when I go out with him. My mother said after we were married mother, but not until.

Well, my fiance left, and I haven't heard from him since and it's been four days. Abby, I love him and I'm worried, but I don't think I should break down and call him, do you? We've been engaged six months.

DEAR WORRIED: Call him and apologize. You don't say how old you are, but a woman who's been engaged for six months should be able to run her own life without coaching from her mother.

If your fiance accepts your apology, marry him before he changes his mind. A man who insists on wearing the pants in his family can't be all bad.

DEAR ABBY: When I was 13 years old, I and another girl were caught making a wallet from the dime store. The manager caught us, made us give him our names and addresses and said he was going to call our parents. He told us never to see him in his store again. We didn't. Fortunately he never called our parents. We promised ourselves we would never steal another thing, and we have kept that promise.

Years have passed and now our problem is, in filling out job applications, where it asks, "Have you ever been arrested?" Should we say YES or NO?

Please answer in your column as we are so ashamed to sign our names. Thank you.

TWO 18-YEAR-OLDS DEAR TWO: You were only caught and warned. This is not the same as being "arrested." That you would ask, however, is a good sign.

DEAR ABBY: The letter you published from the mother of a retarded child moved me to tears, for my husband and I have also walked thru this valley.

Our second child was severely retarded, and we were also crucified by thoughtless people.

One woman (a total stranger) came up to my door and said, "I hear you have a baby that's an idiot. I've never seen an idiot and I came to see yours."

I told her that my son was not on display to anyone of her cruel curiosity.

What we were also blessed with two normal, brilliant children who have brought us much joy, our little retarded son has given us depth of love and understanding we never could have known without him.

What we considered at first "a cross to bear" has become one of life's richest blessings. If you feel that this will bring a little bit of courage to new parents of a retarded child, please print it.

Buttering Up Chicken

Add Peanut Butter For Fabulous Flavoring

By JOHN O'SULLIVAN

DON'T LET the children monopolize the peanut butter jar. Their favorite sandwich spread is a super addition to recipes, lending a nutty flavor as well as nutritional values.

Peanut butter, for example, gives a new dimension to mixed ground meat. It can be added to batter to make mouthwatering biscuits or to flavor pies, cakes and pastries. It's excellent mixed with milk to sauce up canned chicken soup. In a dressing, peanut butter adds a flavorful flip to fruit salad.

It goes well with a great many foods and is especially great with chicken, so today's recipe butters up the bird to make it outstandingly delicious.

CHICKEN A LA MOAMBE

- 1 (3 lb.) fryer, cut in serving pieces
- 1/2 c. oil
- 1 (6 oz.) can tomato paste
- 2 (4 oz.) c. water
- 1 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. pepper
- 1/2 c. peanut butter

Brown chicken pieces in hot fat in a 12 in. frying pan. Drain and discard oil from pan when chicken is browned.

Combine tomato paste and water; pour over chicken; loosen chicken from pan and simmer for 10 minutes.

Add salt, pepper, and peanut butter; simmer for additional 20 minutes.

CHICKEN WITH SPICED FRUIT-PEANUT STUFFING

- 6 small chicken breasts
- Salt and pepper
- 5/8 c. melted butter or margarine
- 1 onion, chopped
- 1 qt. (1/2 lb) white bread cubes
- 5/8 c. chopped celery
- 1 apple, cored, peeled and chopped
- 1/2 c. orange juice
- 1/4 c. smooth peanut butter
- 1/2 tsp. allspice
- 1 (10% oil) can condensed cream of mushroom soup
- 1/2 c. water

Sprinkle chicken with salt and pepper.

Heat butter; saute onion until golden. Add bread cubes; saute until bread cubes are brown. Toss with celery and apple.

Beat orange juice, peanut butter and allspice until blended. Pour over bread mixture and toss to coat.

Place chicken breasts, side by side, in shallow greased casserole. Spoon stuffing on each breast.

Mix soup and water; spoon over breasts. Cover and bake in a preheated oven (350°F.) for 40 to 45 minutes or until tender. Serve with pan drippings spooned over. Serves 6.

PEANUT BUTTER CHICKEN BARBECUE SAUCE

- 4 tbsp. peanut oil
- 1/2 c. chopped onion
- 1 garlic clove, chopped
- 1/2 c. peanut butter
- (smooth or crunchy)
- 1 (8 oz.) can tomato sauce
- 1 tsp. sugar
- 1 tsp. vinegar
- 1 tsp. chili powder
- 1 c. water

Heat oil in pan. Add onion and garlic and cook until tender but not browned. Add remaining ingredients; stir to blend. Simmer, covered, 5 minutes.

Use as marinade and basting sauce for chicken or spare ribs.

Makes 2 1/2 cups sauce.

A MARVELOUS marinade for barbecued chicken is made from a mixture of peanut butter, garlic and tomato sauce.

TENDER BROILER-FRYER chickens can be served many ways. Chicken a la Moambe, an African recipe, calls for cooking bird in sauce made with tomato paste and peanut butter.

Tappan Makes Dividend For The Quarter

The Tappan Company, Mansfield, Ohio based major appliance manufacturer declared its 11th consecutive quarterly dividend at a meeting of the Board of Directors, held at Corporate Headquarters today.

According to W. R. Tappan, President, who made the announcement, the regular dividend, 20¢ per common share, will be payable September 15, to shareholders of record September 1, 1967.

Mr. Tappan indicated that the meeting was highlighted by a "Research and Development Preview". Mr. Tappan noted that some weeks ago, the company announced a massive research and development program, with expenditures exceeding by far, any amount the company has spent in prior years. This program has subsequently been augmented by additional planned expenditures.

Mr. Tappan indicated that while most of the items could not be revealed in detail, the Board was pleased and enthusiastic with the scope and vigor of the company's forward planning.

As noted in previous releases, Mr. Tappan indicated that 1967 would reflect the same gradual improvement in business which has been evident since the beginning of the second quarter of 1967. He indicated that as the company strengthened its position in the home remodeling market, and as it pressed forward with new products, it would be less and less dependent upon new housing starts. He also noted, however, that improved housing would represent a "plus" and that the total effect of remodeling, strong research and development programming, and new housing, certainly improved the company's near term outlook.

NAZIS STORM . . .

roof and hood of the hearse and made it about two yards inside the first rank of military policemen guarding the cemetery entrance. Again, marshals stepped in and led him away.

The charge on the cemetery came after the Nazis started yelling: "We want in! We want in! He was an American fighting man, let him in!"

Turner, the Army provost marshal general, had appealed to Niles, while he was on the hearse hood, to move back.

"If they try to come in here with those insignias, they will be arrested," Turner told Niles, who replied that removing the arm bands was "against our beliefs."

The outbreak occurred about an hour after Maxwell had halted the hearse and the six uniformed Nazis accompanying it. He told them that under orders from the Pentagon, he could not allow them in the cemetery unless they removed the swastikas.

Rockwell's successor as leader of the party, Matt Koehl, refused to give such an order. "I could not in good conscience, in good faith, order their removal," he said. "We came here to give the commander the burial he wanted. This is no time for an unseemly display."

Maxwell told him, "I must insist. I must keep you out unless you remove them. There is nothing more I can do. I am only passing on the instructions I go from Washington."

Maxwell kept the hearse waiting some 150 yards from the cemetery entrance.

In addition to the uniformed stormtroopers, there were about 20 Nazi supporters in civilian clothes, some carrying red, white and black flowers.

The Pentagon, in ordering that the Nazis should not be allowed on the cemetery grounds, said:

"Unseemly demonstrations, such as the wearing of the uniform, insignias and emblems or the display of flags or banners of the American Nazi party or its members will not be permitted in ceremonies at a national cemetery."

Rockwell's family decided not to attend today's rites.

"We have bowed out of this circus," a family spokesman said. The spokesman said it had also turned down the Nazis' request for an "all occasion" military honor guard from both the Army and Navy for the funeral. A spokesman said such a unit was "just not available" because of the policy of nonparticipation of men among federal troops.

Veterans Groups Protest
Veterans groups, including the Virginia Veterans of Foreign Wars, have strongly protested Rockwell's burial in a national cemetery. But Rockwell served as a naval aviator during two wars and was honorably discharged after 19 years.

"The Restless Ones" a motion picture, will be in Murray, October 11 to 15 in the MHS auditorium and on October 16 in the MSU auditorium.

The picture, which has received much publicity is called a "hard hitting, bold approach to our social problems."

The contemporary plight of both teen-agers and parents is vividly portrayed by the film. This is a film that should be viewed by everybody, teen-agers and parents in particular.

A Squirrel this morning, leaped from the ground to the big Post Oak Tree and used a small Hickory about three feet from the Oak, as a springboard. He just sort of slapped the little tree as he went by to increase his momentum. Climbed up about five feet and disappeared on the other side. After about a minute, he reappeared and assumed a statuesque pose which he held for some time.

of parachuting and of common sense," Intel said. "I just don't have any idea what happened," said the pilot, Robert Kerns of West Vermilion, Ohio. "I just don't know. I just don't know."
