WINTER MOVES INTO COUNTY ON WEEKEND

Seen & Heard Around MURRAY

Callers at our back yard fence last couple of days, our White Crowned Sparrow, other Sparrows, a flock of Starlings, several Blue Jays, a male Towhee and a female Towhee. The female this time of year is red all underneath with a dark rust on her back. Colored beautifully. The male looks the same with black on his back and reddish underneath.

Be sure not put out something for the birds and squirrels in this kind of weather. Don't just throw it out on top of the snow because it will sink in and they can't get it. Pack the snow down before you put out the food, or if you put out the walk.

Now men, just to show how versatile husbands are, we stepped into the kitchen the other evening and prepared what would be called a gourmet's meal.

Wife had put on some socks and felt bad so we says we will finish this meal up.

Naturally we had to ask her how to tell when the steaks were done and a few other vital questions, but as far as fixing the meal went, we did it in grand style.

Now we happened upon this box of potatoes, and we did you not they tasted just like whipped potatoes when we got through with them.

Our great ability at the stove even surprised us. All you do to fix these whipped potatoes is put some water, salt and butter in a pan, boil it, take it off the stove, pour in some milk then the potatoes and whip them up with the mixer. Simple.

They say that great minds run in the same channel and we guess that after a fellow has been married for several years, he and his wife begin to think alike too.

Got home at noon Saturday and wife says she feels bad but goes to the beauty parlor anyway.

Now, we says ourselves we'll just go out and get the groceries just as soon as this ball game on TV is over, so we do.

We look in the refrigerator, the freezer and the pantry first to get a photographic picture of what is missing and trucked bravely off to the grocery store.

We get a whole bunch of groceries and take them home and start carting them in the house when here comes the wife. Yep, you guessed it. She started feeling better and went by another grocery store and got the walk's groceries.

The terrible pain of having two grocery bills in one week was dissipated by the humor of this thing.

We started putting up all three groceries and the odd thing was that we got just about the same thing, which goes back to this line about "great minds," etc.

We were convinced by the fact that maybe next week we will not have to buy any groceries at all. We sure do have them right now, though.

GAME POSTPONED

Accidents Are Reported By City Police

Three accidents occurred in the city over the long holiday weekend, but none were reported by the sheriff's office.

On Friday at 5:30 p.m. Audrey E. Evans of 405 S. 13th called with Danny Washburn of Dexter, Route One. Police said that Evans was going east on Highway 121 in a 1964 Chevrolet and had stopped for a traffic signal at Five Points. Washburn, in a 1962 Chevrolet was going east also and failed to stop, hitting Evans' car in the rear. The Evans car was damaged in the rear and the Washburn car in the front.

Patrolmen Knight and Spann investigated.

On Sunday afternoon, 4:15 p.m. Luisa Rosetta-Way of Route Six Florence, Alabama had a collision with James H. Sanchez of Route Three Garden, Tennessee.

Police said that the Sanchez car was stopped for a red light at Chestnut and US 641 facing south when the Way car skidded into the back of it. Patrolman Spann and Captain James Brown investigated.

Also, on Sunday police reported a one car accident as Eddie Evans of Murray Route Six was traveling south on South Fourth Street. Police said Evans lost control of his car on the icy street and struck a utility pole. He suffered lacerations on the face and damaged his 1962 Chevrolet on the front end.

Patrolmen Wells and Knight investigated.

Rash Of Auto Accidents Up Holiday Toll

by United Press International

A rash of auto accidents late in the holiday period cost the nation its safest New Year's weekend since 1962.

The safest weekend for drivers over New Years came during the 1961-62 holiday, when 327 persons were reported killed in traffic accidents.

A UPI count at 11 a.m. EST today showed 372 traffic deaths from the start of the holiday period at 4 p.m. Friday until midnight Monday. Other types of accidents also took a toll of lives.

The breakdown:

Traffic 372
 Fire 67
 Phases 8
 Miscellaneous 51
 Total 498

California's count of 46 traffic deaths was the highest in the nation. Texas had 36, Michigan 27 and Illinois 25.

Less multiple-death auto crashes helped drive the toll up in the closing hours of the count.

In El Dorado, Kan., a station wagon carrying a group of children skidded on the icy Kansas Turnpike into the path of an oncoming car. Three youngsters were killed.

Two teen-agers were killed near Mina, N.Y., when their car skidded off an embankment and rolled into a creek.

Two Escape From County Jail Saturday

Two persons escaped from the Calloway County Jail Saturday night and were still at large today.

The fully accredited Naval Postgraduate School confers bachelors, masters and doctors degrees in a variety of scientific and engineering fields. It is the only Naval institution of its kind in the world.

James went back up stairs and called his home and asked his wife to call the jail in order that the phone might be checked. He went back downstairs to the jail and Boyd and Hargrove reported to him the phone still would not work. James went into the cell where the phone is located and the two slammed the door and propped a chair against the door.

They ran up the stairs to the first floor of the courthouse but all the doors were locked, then ran on up to the second floor where they opened a window on the south side and climbed down a fire escape.

Mr. Jones' son came down to the courthouse to check on his father and when he saw the jail door opened, he called the sheriff who released Jones.

Boyd and Hargrove also were being held on charges of dwelling house breaking and entering and were in jail unable to raise the $10,000 bond.

Jailer Jones was not injured in the incident.

Winter Fantasy — Mother Nature shows how simple it is to improve on almost any man made object by utilizing a bird bath to produce this delightful fantasy. The lower portion seems to be filled with frothy goodness while the upper part of the bath has the appearance of a pie piled high with meringue.

NEW POLITICAL GAMBIT

It seems that any would-be candidate on the national level today has to show up in Viet Nam, complete with his own camera man. The more fortunate of these would-be candidates is favored by the Viet Cong with a light mortar attack and possibly some small arms fire which forces the candidate to "hit the dirt".

All of this action is then relayed to the folks back home via television and the voters get the idea that here indeed is a man of courage worthy of a vote.

It may be necessary for some of our national leaders to visit the scene of the Viet Nam conflict in order to ascertain for themselves just what the situation is, but we doubt seriously if people like Charles Percy and Governor Romney of Michigan have much business there.

Their visits to the battle ground are so obviously tainted with political overtones that it "tubs us the wrong way" for them to be making political hay out of the war.

Percy had no business in being there in the first place, and showed a tremendous lack of judgment in taking his wife along. We cannot think of a worse place for a man to take his wife than to Viet Nam.

We feel sure that the American voter can see through this political gambit which seems to be in such vogue today.

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurman Sensing

Executive Vice President, Southern States Industrial Council

TIME FOR AUSTERITY

As the year draws to a close, Americans watch with dismay as gold is sold off the market by gold speculators in Europe, including the French Republic which was once a staunch friend of the United States. Attempts are being made to undermine the value of the dollar and thereby to jeopardize the entire U. S. economy.

This is a grave danger which requires across-the-board effort by the federal government. On the foreign front, the nation needs to stop the flow of gold to France. U. S. Sen. Vance Hartke (D-Ind.) has proposed a legislative ban on further shipments of gold to the French until they resume payments on their World War I debt to the United States. This debt exceeds $6 billion. It is high time that the Johnson administration publicly remind the French that they owe this debt to the American people. Of course, it is only a part of the much larger sum that the United States has devoted to the protection or assistance of France in this century.

Halting the gold flow by law is only one part of the remedial effort that must be undertaken promptly to protect the dollar. Action at home also is needed. What sort of action is required has been succinctly stated by Prof. James C. Dole of the Department of Finance at the University of Texas.

Prof. Dole has stated that the U. S. should take these steps: (1) Balance the federal budget by cutting non-defense spending; (2) balance our international payments by eliminating all foreign economic aid; and (3) take steps to stop the wage-price spiral.

Unfortunately, the Johnson administration apparently is unwilling to take steps of this sort. Instead of cutting non-defense spending, the administration continues to press for new or expanded Great Society programs. The administration bitterly resisted reductions in the foreign aid program this year. Mr. Johnson also is unwilling to incur the enmity of the union bosses by suggesting that wages as well as prices should be restrained. Settlements in the automobile industry, imposed by the union monopoly, virtually guaranteed an additional round of inflation in that key industrial sector. When a manufacturer wants to go up or his prices, he faces heavy administrative pressure. But the union bosses are not repelled by the White House when they upset the wage structure in the country. That's the political pattern of the Great Society.

Holding the line on public spending of a non-defense character and restraining inflation constitute truly vital tasks for this nation in the year ahead. Americans have before them the horrible example of Great Britain. The British are in deep trouble because they have spent more than they earned and because wages were allowed to shoot up to the point where British goods priced themselves out of markets.

Not all the blame should be heaped on the White House. To be sure if the U. S. is to return to fiscal responsibility, there must be a concern for fiscal responsibility at the grassroots and in the state legislative assemblies.

Observers of the 1966 legislative scene note that inflation also is hitting hard at state governments. Costs of public education and other programs are soaring. In addition, state governments are under heavy pressure this winter to provide pay raises for public employees that state revenues often do not cover. In short, the states are being urged to spend more than they have or to deplete their reserve funds created for a Football's longest television day drew a multi-million national audience and featured a generous helping of USC's "Orange Juice" Simpson romping past Indiana in the Rose Bowl, LSU finally losing the Wyoming Cowboy, Texas A&M upsetting Alabama and Oklahoma slipping Tennessee.

A New Year's Day crowd of 102,948 turned out at Pasadena, Calif., to watch Simpson score twice from within 10-yard line as Southern California defeated Indiana 14-3 in the Rose Bowl. There was a live audience of 78,963 at the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans watching LSU surprise unbeaten Wyoming 20-13.

At Dallas, an estimated 75,000 saw an aroused Aggie defense catch Alabama out of its usual Southeastern Conference surroundings and beat the Crimson Tide 20-16, and 77,993 fans were thrilled by a 1st period Oklahoma pass interception that carried the Sooners past second-ranked Tennessee 26-24 in a night game at the Orange Bowl in Miami.

EAST EDGES WEST
The football bowl weekend was kicked off on Saturday when the East topped the West 16-14 despite All-American Gary Babin's two touchdowns for the losers in the Shrine Game at San Francisco. Florida tied Penn State 17-17 in the Gator Bowl by rallying for 24 its points in the second half. Dick Anderson of Colorado scored on punt returns of 69 and 62 yards in the Blue's 22-16 victory over the Gray, and Mississippi Texas-El Paso upset Mississippi State 14-7 in the Sun Bowl on touchdowns by Billy Stevens and

South Has Several Star Grid Players

By DICK JOYCE
Sports Writer

The South is loaded with super-sophomores this season, including LSU's Pete Maravich, the nation's No. 1 scorer. But another name worth remembering is 6-foot-11 Bob Lisenhard of Georgia.

He may make a winner out of the Bulldogs yet. Let by Lisenhard's 15 points and strong rebounding and guard Jerry Spiving's 25 points the Bulldogs scored a 70-64 victory over host Mississippi in their SEC opener Monday night. Georgia, beaten only by Georgia Tech in its second game, now has rung up six victories.

Lisenhard from New York City, played several times against UCLA's Lew Alcindor during their school days. "It was a great experience even though I didn't do too well," admits Bob. Neither has anyone else as evidenced by UCLA's 42-game winning streak.

SANFORD LEADS SCORING
Another New Yorker, 6-foot-9 Ron Sanford, scored 27 points in leading unbeaten New Mexico to its 14th victory, 87-76, over Denver at Albuquerque. In other games Monday night, Mississippi State edged visiting Florida 56-53; and St. Joseph's topped Brigham Young 88-74 and Penn routed Boston University, 76-56 in a Palestra doubleheader.

New Mexico, winner of the Lobo Invitational last week, overcame a 40-36 halftime deficit with a 56 per cent shooting mark in the second half.

Don King's free throw with 33 seconds remaining his only point of the night gave Mississippi State its SEC triumph over Florida. Manuel Washington's 22 points led State.

St. Joseph's winner of last week's Outer Bowl tourney, boosted its record to 7-3 behind sophomores Dan Kelly and Mike Hauer who combined for 54 points. Kelly had 29 and Hauer 25.

UCLA CONTINUES SWEEP
Top-ranked UCLA, which swept its sixth straight Los Angeles Classic Saturday night by beating Wyoming 104-71, seeks to extend its winning streak against Washington State Friday night and Washington Saturday night. Unbeaten Houston, ranked No. 2 and winner of 13 straight this season, swings back into action against Michigan tonight. The Cougars captured the Rainbow Classic Saturday night by slipping North Texas State 45-43.

UCLA and Houston get together Jan. 20 at Houston's Astrodome. Other tournament winners this year's season included Washington in the Sugar Bowl, North Carolina in the Far West, Columbia in the Holiday Festival, Nebraska in the Big Eight, Oklahoma City in the All-College, Detroit in the Motor City, Temple in the Quaker City, Texas A&M in the Seattle Legion, and Drake in the Queen City.

Ballet Lessons Fine for Boy

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A woman signed "TEDDY'S MOTHER" expressed some doubts and fears because her son wanted to take ballet lessons. Why? I have four sons. The youngest takes ballet, but his three older brothers favor sports. (I make sure the sport-minded boys don't ridicule their brother because of his interest in dancing.)

MOTHER OF FOUR: As for ballet being for staves, I'd like to see a sissy hit a 150-pound ballerina with one hand and hold her over his head. And all those strenuous leaps, turns and jumps take muscle-control, coordination and strength the finest athletes would envy.

MOTHER OF FOUR: Ballet does more for a boy's body than football. Getting my son dance is a much prettier sight than seeing him carried off a football field on a stretcher, bleeding, with a smashed jaw and a broken leg. Thank you.

DEAR ABBY: I was outraged when I read the letter in your column from the mother who was afraid that her son wouldn't be "all man" just because he expressed a desire to take ballet dancing. That mother seemed ashamed because her son didn't choose to follow in the footsteps of his father who was a "five handed" in golf.

MOTHER OF FOUR: That mother should realize how much masculinity and discipline goes into becoming a professional ballet dancer. He must be as fit as an Olympic champion and possess the grace and rhythm of an artist. I think that any boy who is fortunate enough to show signs of talent in the dance should be encouraged in it and not made to feel guilty or lacking in manhood.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y.: DEAR ABBY: This is for TEDDY'S MOTHER: Let your son take ballet. The heck with the head junk. There is nothing wrong with a boy taking ballet lessons. In fact, originally ballet was part time workmen. Sandra is usually short of funds for clothes, so when she appeared recently in an especially fetching outfit, I commented on it.

She said Dick, her boy friend, had given it to her. They were not engaged, and I take a dim view of a boy buying clothes for my daughter. I feel that the only female for whom a man buys clothes is his wife, daughter or mistress.

BALLET FAN: Yesterday my wife informed me that Sandra had blown $80 on a matched set of golf clubs for Dick's Christmas present. I nearly turned purple. My wife urged me to let her handle it. She intends to tell Sandra the next time she asks for something that the money is more urgently needed elsewhere. True.

DEAR ABBY: I am fearful that if I remain single, I'll develop an ulcer. And if I experience any criticism, at Christmas there will be a $5 blouse for Mother, and a pair of socks for Dad under the tree from Sandra. What do you and your readers think about this?

DEAR FATHER: You have two separate problems: A daughter who has accepted an inappropriate gift from her boy friend. For this, you have every right to disapprove and to show your disapproval. But, here are some suggestions for fashion cooperation: Dresses that slip over the hand are easy to handle for the woman who has arthritic fingers. Long and looped over the head necklines are fashionable as well as easy to secure. Clip-on earrings are just as beautiful and in as wide a variety of styles as the ones that must be screw-fastened. And the smaller pearl, an "in" style, is easier to carry in a pocket or tucked across the handle of a case than the larger handbag.

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law, who is very beautiful and bossy, told me that she was going to give Lisa, our 11-year-old daughter, an electric shaver for Christmas. I asked her to please give the child something else because we didn't want her to start shaving her legs just yet. Then this sister-in-law said, "Well, it's time you did, because the kid looks like a gorilla."

LISA'S MOTHER: I ignored the remark but sure enough, come Christmas and Lisa received an electric shaver from this aunt. Now Lisa is begging us to let her start shaving her legs. Now what should we do?

DEAR ABBY: Congratulations for advising "SPICELESS" (the woman whose doctor made improper advances to her one afternoon in his office) to find another doctor.

The doctor was apparently going thru this middle-age thing in men that they refuse to recognize, but in women it's called "menopause."

Had the patient been less mal-sure she might have felt drawn to him and broken up not only her marriage, but his as well.

"This happened to me. My doctor-husband walked out on me after 30 years of marriage. He also 'fell in love' with a patient. I don't know who initiated this romance, but it doesn't matter now. I gave him the divorce he asked for and he subsequently married a patient. (Perhaps the same one, perhaps another.)

"I used to think I was the only one discarded along the way. Seven years later I have discovered that we number in the millions. Sincerely,

"There are certain other obvious precautions," Haffner notes, "such as driving more slowly on snowy or icy highways, using the brakes gently rather than 'jamming' them and turning the front wheels INTO a skid, if one occurs, rather than away from it. Turning into a skid tends to straighten out the car, while turning away from the direction in which the rear of the car is sliding tends to put it into a spin.

The Eyes Take It In Winter Driving

NEW YORK (AP)—Winter driving has visual problems for the motorist, and the Society for Visual Care has some tips that can be helpful.

Dr. Allen N. Haffner of the Society's advisory board suggests that to minimize the effects of sun-glare off snow, gray rather than green sunglasses lenses be worn because "green has a tendency to distort the red end of the spectrum."

"It is important that the red full lights and stop lights in front of you be seen clearly so that focus and depth perception will be normal," Haffner said.

Haffner also suggests that when driving in the snow, the hood be wiped clean before the journey. This both cuts down the glare and reduces the danger of snow falling and depth perception will be normal," Haffner said.

Pre-Teen Years Are Difficult

By DAVID NYDICK, UPI Education Specialist. The pre-teen years are often considered quite difficult. This is probably more true for the parents than for the youngsters. What are these children like? Are they really unmanageable? Bob's mother suggested that they go to the movies together on Saturday. She was completely shocked when he said that he preferred to go swimming with his friends. Ed told his father that he wanted to go hiking with the Boy Scout troop instead of on a fishing trip with the family. His father was surprised since they always seemed to have so much fun on those trips. These are typical reactions of pre-teen children. They want to be with their peers. They seem to rebel against the family. They appear to intentionally resist authority just to prove that they can do it. These attitudes and attitudes are certainly difficult for parents to accept. After all, up to this point the child has been almost completely dependent upon his parents. He has enjoyed spending time with them. He has shown only minor signs of independence. Now the change seems to be quite dramatic. The natural reaction of many parents is to block this development. They will either exert more authority or perhaps extend themselves to show their love and affection. The child reacts by becoming more intent on proving his independence. He becomes stubborn and more rebellious. As parents you should realize that this is part of growing up. If you can remember, you too went through this stage of development. Learn to accept the child for what he is. This doesn't mean to drop all standards. It does mean to administer authority with understanding. Demand standards which this age child can maintain. Allow the child to experiment.

She was waiting for him at the entrance to the cathedral. He was a man who was used to being late. He was a man who was used to being late. He was a man who was used to being late.

Although London slept and the great churches were empty as the great blocks of offices, the museums, the stores and schools, the halls and stately homes, at one place there was an ever-watchful eye. That was Scotland Yard, the headquarters of the Metropolitan Police. In fact, however, only one section of the building was wide awake: the section which housed the Information Room and the offices of the Criminal Investigation Department. From here, the center of the web of London's police, the Division and the subdivisional police stations were controlled.

A police constable named Glenn, on duty that night at Scotland Yard, was in fact from the City of London Police, another force; but the three men who appeared in the powerlit cloak, just after he had seen the man come from the telephone kiosk, were from the Yard. The two forces worked very closely together, sometimes almost as if they were one. The first car had only just stopped when another, from the City, pulled up on the other side of St. Ludd's, close to the Crypt Gate. At once, the men began to station themselves by the exits, and Glenn joined a man who stood by the statue of Queen Anne.

Tobacco Bases Can Be Sold Or Leased Up To Five Years

By W. R. Hoover
 Area Extension Agent - Tobacco
 The 1968 tobacco program allows the sale, or lease up to five years of one-acre and dark-fired bases. Growers do not have to already have an allotment of the kind of tobacco they are obtaining as was the regulation previously. Up to ten acres of each type of tobacco may be transferred to a farm so long as the tobacco acreage does not exceed 50 percent of the crop land on the farm. Hence small farmers with or without these tobacco bases may now obtain adequate size allotments for economical production. Where the actual yield established on the receiving farm exceeds the normal yield established for the transferring farm by over 10 percent, the allotment will be reduced. A farmer may now transfer allotments from one farm he owns to another farm owned.

Growers selling their entire allotment will be ineligible for a new grower allotment for five years. No allotment from the farm receiving the base may be sold for three years.

There are transfer provisions relating to farm having liens in Conservation Reserve, or Cropland Adjustment Programs. Check those at your local ASCS Office.

Transfer of bases may be made until May 2 at the local ASCS Office. The price of sale or lease of a base is to be mutually agreed on by the seller and buyer, or leasee and lessor. They must have the transfer made at the ASCS Office.

Growers desiring to sell or lease their bases may list them at the local Extension and/or ASCS Office for making available to inquiring growers. The information for listing should include: grower's name, address, phone number, base amount, amount of base, established poundage and price of sale or lease, if so desired to state.

Good dark tobacco growers are grossing from $500 to $800 per acre from one-acre, and from $700 to $1000 per acre on dark-fired. Mechanization for production includes transplanting and weed and insect control. While the Extension Service still does not recommend any sucker inhibiting, many successful growers have been using it. Research is still being done. The use of saw-folds or two-wheel trailer frames for dark tobacco, and hiring or swapping work only in housing is proving successful with many growers to reduce housing cost. Tobacco is still the best cash crop in the area for the small family size farm, especially with some family labor. The 1964 census data shows 4,200 farms growing 9,000 acres of tobacco grossing $7,000,000. This is approximately two acres per farm grossing nearly $1,700.00. Except for housing, one man can produce five to six acres of dark tobacco.

Third Heart Transplant Announced

By NEIL J. SMITH

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Dr. Christian Barnard today performed his second successful heart transplant, doctors announced at the Groote Schuur Hospital.

It was the third such operation ever performed, the second by Barnard and the first between members of the white and colored races.

A team of surgeons under Barnard gave retired dentist Dr. Philip Blumberg, 58, the heart of a 24-year-old man of mixed blood in a five-hour operation.

Hospital superintendent J. Burger announced the successful operation in a terse medical bulletin.

It said simply the transplant operation was completed about 7 p.m. 9 a.m. EST and was successful.

He added that although the operation at that point was not fully complete, "the donor heart is functioning well."

Barnard's first transplant operation Dec. 3 took seven hours and the heart functioned until 15 days later when grocer Rojda Washkansky, 53, died of pneumonia. A heart transplant operation in New York last month to save a baby failed six hours after surgery.

The transplant organ came from the body of Olive L'Amplid, 24, who died from injuries suffered in a traffic accident hospital sources said.

They said tests on Haughid showed his blood and body tissues would match well with those of Blumberg. The tests took seven hours and were conducted before Haughid died, they said.

The operation began less than a day after Barnard flew home

TV CAMEOS: Anita Bryant Vietnam Loses Anita to TV on New Year's

By MEL HEIMER

WHEN THE annual King Orange Jamboree Parade from Miami swims into your television view this year—live from NBC on Saturday evening, Dec. 30 and taped on Monday morning, Jan. 1—the parade-dance of the 50 floats, crawling down Biscayne Blvd. will be described for you by Raymond Burr and Anita Bryant, as co-hosts.

It will be something of a different holiday season for the dark-haired Anita.

One year ago, at just about the time the parade is starting this year, Miss Bryant was arriving back in Los Angeles with the Bob Hope troupe, from Vietnam. The year before, the same thing happened—and the year before, in fact, for seven years now Anita has spent Christmas, and occasionally New Year's, on foreign soil, entertaining American servicemen.

"I GUESS I've traveled more than 150,000 miles and seen hundreds of thousands of soldiers, sailors and marines," she says, "and I imagine it's the biggest thing that ever happened, or will happen to me." She grins. "I got to be such a 'regular' on the tour that Bob didn't even bother telling me to get ready. His secretary just called and said 'Here's the shot list.'"

Her husband and manager, Bob Green, once a top Florida disc jockey, accompanied Anita on each safari—and this year they took a good, hard look at the fact that their little boy Bob Jr., 4, and little girl Gloria, 3, never had seen them at Christmas time. "In fact," Anita adds, "1959 was the last year I spent Christmas at home."

The King Orange people had been after Miss Bryant for several years to be hostess—and that, coupled with wanting to be with the children, and added to the fact that we LIVE in Miami, made up our minds for us this year."

Anita Bryant has her eye on a possible daytime song-talk show, a la Dinah Shore.

OVER THE SEASONS, Anita, born in Barnsdall, Okla., has been familiar to TV watchers, but chiefly as a guest on such shows as Virginia Graham's "Girl Talk," the Ed Sullivan and Johnny Carson programs, Mike Douglas and "Red Skelton. She hasn't been a regular—but she has it in mind.

"What I'd like to do," she says, "is a daytime program, with singing and talking, which none of the networks now has for a girl performer. I suppose the last one to have anything like it was Dinah Shore, but that was nighttime. And since Miami is mushrooming into a likely big TV-center-future, it might work out ideally for us, working right at home."

Miss Bryant will appear in the parade show, as well as on it; she plans to ride at least briefly on one of the floats and sing a song to the thousands of onlookers, before going into the announcers' booth and describing the rest of the program. It's not exactly something new for her; for two years she co-hosted NBC's "Junior Miss" pageant.

Memories of her foreign tour? "I suppose the one that stands out most vividly," she recalls, "is the trip to Vietnam three years ago. With our 72-man troupe, we arrived in Saigon and found thousands of people in the streets, and I remember Bob smiling and saying 'This is security?' It turned out that five minutes before, the bachelor officers' quarters had been bombed, and it turned out later that there had been a definite, specific plot to try to blow up the Bob Hope troupe. Something had misfired and the bomb went off a little too early."

A DEVOUT Baptist, Anita often sings sacred songs. Her latest do-good activity is "Anita's Mailbag" (c/o USO, Box 999, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y.)—in which she's trying to get people to write letters. The idea is that a lonely serviceman can reach into a box and take one, two or more notes when it's mail-call time.
