The previous high total casualties for a week was 3,469 during the week ending April 8.

State Police To Emphasize Night Control

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI) — Night traffic on interstate highways and heavily traveled state roads will receive special emphasis by state police this Memorial Day weekend.
Gov. Louie B. Nunn said today that all available troopers and all radar and vascor units were assigned to traffic control during the holiday period.
The weekend extends from 6 p.m. Wednesday night through midnight Sunday.
Last year, nine persons lost their lives and 388 others were injured on state highways over the Memorial Day weekend.
"There is no reason for these tragic traffic statistics, other than driving carelessness," the governor said. He said state police records showed that of the 618 accidents last Memorial Day weekend, 46 were caused by drinking drivers, 57 by driver inattention, and 48 by speeding.
"We're going to place special emphasis on the night traffic coming into Kentucky," the governor said. "Our concentration will be on the interstate highways and the heavily traveled state roads."
Previously, Nunn asked all motorists to keep their headlights on during daylight hours to serve as a traffic safety reminder to others.

Message From Sub May Be Hoax

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Navy Wednesday night reported receiving a voice radio message using the code name of the nuclear submarine Scorpion, missing with 99 men aboard. But a spokesman said "the message could have been a hoax."
At a Norfolk news conference early today, Cmdr. P. L. Ingraham public information for the Atlantic Submarine force, also said that if the sub was on the bottom at the point the signal was picked up, about 110 miles out in the Atlantic, it would be too deep for normal rescue operations.
Ingraham briefed newsmen after a Navy search plane, which also spotted debris, picked up a voice message which said: "Any station this net network — this is the code word for the Scorpion."
Six surface ships engaged in the search for the Scorpion, missing since Monday on a 2-100-mile undersea voyage from the Azores, also picked up the message.
At the location where the plane spotted the debris and received the message, Ingraham said, the Atlantic is about 12,000 feet deep. He said it was "extremely doubtful" that a sub could transmit from this depth, even if it had not burst from the pressure.
"The message could have been a hoax," he added.
Ingraham said there were six Navy destroyers in the general vicinity, and that four more were en route to help check out the developments.
The Navy said that a submarine which also picked up the message was able to get a bearing, which was just north of east from the vessel's position about 300 miles off Cape Hatteras, N. C.

Battle Lines For The Fall Elections Are Shaping Up

By DREW VON BERGEN
FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI) — Less than 24 hours after the polls closed in Kentucky's senatorial primary election, the lines of battle for the fall campaign appear to be drawing up.
Democratic nominee Katherine G. Ford of Hopkinsville, seeking to become the state's first woman U.S. senator, tried to link her Republican opponent with Gov. Louie B. Nunn's 5 per cent sales tax.
Jefferson County Judge Marlow W. Cook, the GOP landslide victor, wasted little time in attacking the Johnson administration.
Miss Peden, former state commerce commissioner under the administration of Gov. Edward T. Breathitt, told a victory luncheon at Louisville Wednesday that she intended to solicit the support of all 11 primary opponents.
"I want a united Democratic party in Kentucky," she said. Among those attending the luncheon were Lt. Gov. Wendell H. Ford, former Gov. Breathitt and her nearest primary rival, former state Rep. John Y. Brown.
Then she accused Cook of making a deal with Nunn in exchange for his support in the primary.
According to Miss Peden, the deal consisted of Cook delivering the Jefferson County state legislative delegation to back the sales tax boost from 3 per cent, if Nunn would support her.
Cook's strategy, meanwhile, appeared to be directed more toward the national scene than statewide politics.
He assailed the Johnson administration for failing in its antipoverty efforts. "Every one of the programs to help the poor has flopped," Cook said. "Resurrection city in Washington is a monument to the administration and the failures of these programs," he added.

Wedding Cake Bride's Choice

By Abigail Van Buren

10 1968 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My younger sister is being married soon, and she wants to have fruitcake for her wedding cake because it can be made earlier and will keep better.

Others we've asked say that the traditional wedding cake should be white.

Sis says that Luci Johnson had fruitcake at her wedding, so there can't be anything wrong with it. Who is right? SIS

DEAR SIS: Having recently researched the history of wedding cakes for a "kooky wedding" article I wrote for the June issue of Ladies' Home Journal, if you'll excuse the plug, I can tell you that there is no such thing as a "traditional" wedding cake. Your sister may properly have anything she wants.

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to a very nice fellow from Italy. We have been dating for four years now. He came to this country when he was only 16 years old. He is now 28. He makes good money and he speaks very good English.

He never mentioned the possibility of his going back to Italy to live until a few months ago. I always thought he liked it here so much. Now he tells me he would like to live in Italy. Do you think I should give up my family and my country for this man? WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: If you have to ask, the answer is no.

DEAR ABBY: After 10 years of a childless marriage, my husband and I adopted a beautiful baby girl. We were—and still are—on cloud nine. She was a gift from heaven because a year later we were blessed with our own little son! And the following year, another son. We should be happier than ever, but here's the problem:

My husband's father, who was against our adopting the little girl in the first place, goes out of his way to hurt the child. He favors the boys with gifts and treats, and leaves the little girl standing without—hurt and pleading for recognition. Behind our backs he refers to the girl as "that illegitimate b—John took to raise." She is a sweet and adorable child, and much prettier than his own "blue blood" granddaughters.

We don't want to cause trouble so we make excuses for Grandpa's slights, but how can I stand by with my blood boiling and say nothing? When we leave his home I promise I'll never take the children there again, but I always weaken and do, hoping he'll behave better. What can be done? NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: If you subject your daughter to Grandpa's cruel treatment you are guilty as Grandpa. Let him know that you will tolerate no more of his unfair and unfeeling conduct. Deny him the privilege of seeing all your children until he agrees to mend his ways. He may never agree, which will be his loss.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WASTED THREE YEARS IN MIAMI:" If a man is admittedly a "playboy" who doesn't want to settle down with one woman—that's HIS business. But he shouldn't do business with a 22-year-old girl who has marriage in mind.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 67796, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Willie Mays Is Adverse To Criticism, Even Leo

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

Willie Mays doesn't like criticism, even when it's from one of his biggest boosters, Leo Durocher.

Durocher accused Mays of "dogging it" for not finishing a game against his Chicago Cubs last Saturday and not participating at all in Sunday's game.

Mays responded to the charge by hitting a two-run homer Tuesday night to beat St. Louis and added frosting to the cake by hammering another Wednesday night to give San Francisco a 2-1 victory over the Cardinals.

Wednesday's homer, Mays' ninth of the season and 573rd of his career, followed a double by Ron Hunt and helped Juan Marichal to his eighth victory of the season, tops in the National League.

"I'm not an iron man," responded Mays to Durocher's charge that there was no reason for him to miss a Giant game at Wrigley Field.

"When I get tired, I'm dead. The best thing to do is rest when you're tired and then come back to play. Even if you lose a game, it's a long, long season," Mays said after his latest heroics.

In other National League games, Cincinnati nipped Los Angeles 6-5 and Chicago and Philadelphia split a two-night doubleheader, the Phils winning the second game 8-3 after dropping the opener 9-2.

The Atlanta-Houston game was halted by rain after three innings. In American League action, Minnesota edged Cleveland 1-0, Chicago snapped a six-game losing streak by beating Baltimore 3-1, Oakland downed Boston 7-4 and Detroit blanked California 3-0.

Marichal said he was happy to get "even" with the Cardinals. "My lifetime record is 14-14 against St. Louis now," Marichal said. "Now no team has a lead over me. It was my best game so far this season. I had good control."

Came From Behind
Cincinnati spotted the Dodgers five runs before rallying for victory when Alex Johnson raced home on shortstop Zoilo Versalles' error.

Johnson opened the ninth with a single, his third hit, and took second on Tony Perez' sacrifice. After Johnny Bench was intentionally walked, Jim Brewer struck out Lee May. Leo Cardenas then sent a routine grounder to short that eluded Versalles. Johnson raced home with the winning run, beating Versalles' belated throw to the plate.

The Dodgers had erupted for five runs in the third inning, highlighted by Len Gabrielson's three-run homer. But Tommy Helms singled home the Reds' first run in the fifth and Pete Rose's bases loaded double triggered a three-run, sixth-inning surge. Johnson singled, stole second and scored on Bench's double to tie the score in the seventh.

Johnny Callison ignited a five-run eighth inning with a two-run pinch homer that lifted Philadelphia over the Cubs in the second game of their doubleheader. The Cubs capitalized on five Philadelphia errors to score five unearned runs and take the opener behind the two-hit pitching of Ken Holtzman.

and the Philadelphia Phillies routed the Chicago Cubs 8-3 after being drubbed 9-2 in National League games. Houston at Atlanta was postponed by rain.

Dave Boswell pitched a three-hitter and Cesar Tovar scored the game's only run on a pop fly which first baseman Tony Horton caught in foul territory to give the Twins their victory over the Indians. Boswell, who gained credit for his fourth win against five losses, struck out 10 and walked two.

Denny McLain pitched a four-hitter and struck out 13 to become the AL's first eight-game winner of the season as the Tigers handed Jim McGlothlin the Angels his third loss.

Danny Cater drove in four runs and Ted Kubiak knocked in two, enabling Jim Hunter to go the distance and win his fifth game for the Athletics. Cater's two-run double was the key in a three-run first inning for the A's and his rap to short in the third scored a third run which gave Oakland a 4-3 lead.

Brewers Use Lots Of Corn Starch
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Brewers are the largest single group of consumers of corn starch among food-product manufacturers, Corn Refiners Association, Inc., reports.

Reason: refined grits — a type of starch — are used as a malt adjunct because grits contain minimum protein to cause beer instability and have virtually no fat to become rancid. The result appeals to the American taste for a less full-bodied beer than the "all-malt European brew."

Most Prolific Scorer
NEW YORK (UPI) — Kicking ace Don Chandler, now with the Green Bay Packers, is the New York Giant's all-time single season scoring champion. Chandler scored 106 points as a member of the 1963 Giants NFL club.

Record Hitsmiths
ST. LOUIS (UPI) — George Sisler's 257 hits in 1920 as a member of the St. Louis Browns is the record number of hits in one season for a major leaguer. The National League record of 254 is held jointly by Bill Terry and Lefty O'Doul.

Wiggins Furniture

has received BAD NEWS

They must vacate their store sooner than they had planned! Originally they had planned to end their Big Sale on July fifteenth, but their contract for a new building calls for them to vacate the building by July first.

This means time is running out on the gigantic wall-to-wall, everything must go sale at Wiggins Furniture . . . and that means even bigger savings for you! Yes, they have slashed prices even lower on living room, bedroom, dining room and even furniture. Rugs, lamps, tables, are lower than ever . . . and famous Hotpoint appliances are at the lowest prices ever offered in this area!

But remember, they must end the sale July first. Because of the tremendous response to the sale, sometimes deliveries are slow . . . so if you have a truck, or trailer bring it with you to Wiggins Furniture for the best values anywhere. Remember, their service department for Hotpoint appliances will remain open while the new store is being built.

TIME IS RUNNING OUT

. . . hurry for Savings to Wiggins Furniture, 2 1/2 miles north of Murray on the Benton Road.

Pitching Coach Comes Up With Right Formula Here

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

What does a $30,000-a-year pitching coach tell a $50,000-a-year pitcher who is struggling to hold a two-run lead in the ninth inning with one out and the potential tying run at the plate?

The 9,175 fans in Chicago's Comiskey Park wondered just that Wednesday night when Marv Grissom trudged to the mound to talk to Joel Horlen. The White Sox were leading the Baltimore Orioles 3-1, but Boog Powell had singled and Brooks Robinson and Dave Johnson were the scheduled hitters.

Horlen, who was four years old when Grissom broke into organized baseball with the San Bernardino club of the California League in 1941, waited patiently for the words of wisdom which might help him end the White Sox six-game losing streak and, at the same time, enable him to nail down his fourth straight victory after losing his first five games of the season.

"Let 'em hit it," said Grissom before doing an about-face and returning to the White Sox dugout.

Right Advice
Armed with such sage advice, Horlen struck out Robinson with a slider and retired Johnson on an infield out to end the game.

"It's the right," said Horlen. "The air was heavy and there wasn't much chance of a homer. I relaxed once I got Robinson because Johnson just didn't figure to hit one into the stands."

"I sent Grissom to the mound in the ninth because I wanted Horlen to challenge the hitters," said Manager Eddie Stanky. "When the air is heavy like that he shouldn't worry about anybody hitting a homer."

Horlen was staked to a 2-0 lead in the first inning on Tom McCraw's triple and the White Sox added a run in the fourth on Buddy Bradford's single, a stolen base and Ker Berry's single. Horlen yielded the Orioles' run in the sixth when Paul Blair doubled and Curt Blefary singled.

The Minnesota Twins shaded the Cleveland Indians 1-0, the Detroit Tigers downed the California Angels 3-0 and the Oakland Athletics beat the Boston Red Sox 7-4 in other American League games.

The San Francisco Giants defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1, the Cincinnati Reds downed the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-5

Mrs. Ralph Robertson opened her beautiful new home for the May meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Martins Chapel Methodist Church.

The leader for the pledge service program was Mrs. Jimmy Hughes who gave the purpose of the program and discussed the local pledges. The worship setting was a "white cross with the words, humility, service, mercy, and compassion on it."

As each word was unveiled, Mrs. Hughes gave very interesting comments. She showed a film strip of places the pledge offering was used. She closed with a prayer poem.

Mrs. Wildie Ellis, president, presided. Mrs. Harmon Whitnell, secretary, read the minutes, and Mrs. Hughes, treasurer, gave her report.

The WSCS will sponsor a ham hock and white bean supper at the church on Friday, June 7, with serving to start at 6:30 p.m. Plates will be $1.00 adults and 50 cents children.

A secret auction of home-made items was conducted during the social hour. Refreshments were served by the hostesses. Mrs. Robertson and Mrs. Ona Whitnell, the eighteen members and two guests, Mrs. Rowland Rogers and Mrs. Jack Peck of Detroit, Mich.

Income Tax Questions and Answers

Q. — My neighbor got his refund check a month after he filed; but I'm still waiting for mine, and it's been two months since I sent in my return. What's the hold-up?
A. — The date the return was filed has a lot to do with how long it takes to issue a refund. Returns filed early can be processed and the check issued much quicker than returns that are received just before the April 15 deadline.

Unless you made an error on your return you should be receiving your refund check within the next several weeks. However, if the refund doesn't come within ten weeks from the time you filed, write the regional service center. Give your name, social security number and the date you filed to help them trace it.

Q. — Can you use the new Form 1040-X to correct a mistake on a 1040-A?
A. — Yes. Form 1040-X can be used to correct mistakes made by taxpayers filing either Form 1040 or 1040-A.

Q. — This year's income looks like it will be lower than what I thought it would be when I filed my estimated tax declaration. How can I change it?
A. — Changes in estimated tax declarations can be made by filing an amended declaration on or before the next filing date—June 17, 1968, Sept. 16, 1968, or Jan. 15, 1969. For this purpose, use the form provided on the bill if one is mailed to you. If you do not receive a bill, obtain Form 1040-ES (Amended) from your IRS office.

Q. — On a refund check made out to a husband and a wife, do they both have to endorse the check before it can be cashed?
A. — Yes, both signatures are needed.
Q. — I plan to rent my house while I'm in Europe for two years. Will this income be taxable?

A. — Yes it will. However, you may deduct from the rentals you receive, depreciation as well as the amounts you spend for taxes, repairs and other expenses.
 Keep good records of both your rental income and rental expenses so that you will be able to file an accurate return next year.
Q. — Why does IRS want the name, address, and social security number of someone who is a big winner at Keno or some other game in Reno?

A. — This information is required so that the casino can report to IRS the payments it makes of $600 or more of gambling winnings. This is similar to the procedure that race tracks follow.

Backstairs At The White House

By MERRICAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter
WASHINGTON 225 — Backstairs at the White House:

Democratic politicians in California have been amazed at the energetic campaigning of Mrs. Rose Kennedy. She gives little evidence of being in her early 70s as she electioneers for her son in the June 4 Democratic primary.

She has been entertaining as often as twice a day for groups of women as large as 300. Based for a time at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco, she remained so busy that the hotel staff joked about setting up a special "Rose Kennedy task force" to meet her requirements.

Shortly after her arrival in San Francisco where she had a heavy schedule already planned, she learned that the California Bankers Association was holding a convention at the hotel. She discovered this fact one night and next afternoon was entertaining gracefully at a tea for 300 of the bankers' wives. Politically, this had to be an exercise in optimism because as one San Francisco Democrat said, "I'd be amazed if there are two Kennedy votes in that entire crowd."

Escaped Criticism
Back in Washington, there has been considerable interest in the way Mrs. Rose Kennedy spoke so frankly about spending the family fortune on the Indiana primary and yet escaped tough political criticism — apparently because she was so open about it. Perhaps more important politically was her ability to joke about the fact that if she talked about finances any more, her son probably would send her home.

Rich people, particularly those in politics, seldom say things such as, "The Rockefellers are like us—we both have lots of money to spend on our campaigns," and, "if you have money, you spend it to win."

But mother Kennedy spoke this way in an interview with Women's Wear Daily and aside from some mild chiding in print and on television, she has drawn nothing like the criticism which has showered down on other political figures for much less.

Some weeks ago, this column referred to a well-known fact—that President Johnson on occasion rode his Texas cattle ranch in a Lincoln Continental. The column resulted in a number of letters saying the Chief Executive was making a mockery of his antipovey program by riding around his ranch in an expensive car.

Mrs. Kennedy must bear a sort of political charm when she says, "It is our money and we are free to spend it in any way we please," people smile charitably. But let Johnson drive his car into a pasture to look at his cattle and it becomes to some a crime against the poor people.

PLANS VISIT
SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Vah Thieu will visit the United States in the latter part of June, an aide said Monday. He said Thieu will visit Washington, New York and San Francisco during his stay expected to last about a week.

"CHICK" GROWS TO "EAGLE" This is a full-scale mock-up of a communications satellite which could simultaneously carry 6,000 two-way telephone calls or 12 color television programs across oceans. This is 25 times the capacity of the still-in-use Early Bird (model at right), built by Hughes at El Segundo, Calif., which proposes the new giant size.

Boating

By JACK WOLISTON

NEW YORK (UPI)—A fleet of 33 yachts is expected to set sail from England Saturday, June 1, for Newport, R.I. in what has been called the longest sailing race in the world. It's the every-four-year Single-Handed Transatlantic Race organized by England's Royal Western Yacht Club and sponsored by the London Observer.

Only one person is permitted aboard each yacht on the 3,000-mile sail from Plymouth, England, to Newport. A sail of that distance alone can have a person talking to himself at the finish line.

In the 1964 event, the winner, Lt. Eric Tabary of the French navy, crossed the finish line—the Brenton Reef light tower off the entrance to Narragansett Bay—after 27 days, 3 hours and 58 minutes at sea. The last yacht to check in made the Atlantic crossing in 87 days.

There are no handicaps as in most open-class races where a finisher's time is based on size of his craft, sail area, etc., in comparison with the largest, or scratch, boat, which has no handicap.

The inaugural race for the single-handers was staged in 1960 and was won by Sir Francis Chichester in 40 days, 12 1/2 hours. Sir Francis, who finished second in the 1964 event, went on to greater fame by sailing solo around the world. Illness prevented his participating this year.

There are a number of requirements for entry in the race, most of them involving safety and condition of vessel.

The toughest probably is that each contestant must complete a 500-mile solo cruise.

This year's event includes for the first time a woman, Edith Baumann of West Germany, who will sail Koala III, a 40-foot trimaran. She is one of four West German entrants.

Other countries represented besides England and West Germany include the United States, France, Sweden, Australia, Italy, Norway and Switzerland.

Among the favorites is Lieutenant Tabary, the defender, who this year will sail a brand new 60-foot trimaran, Pen Duick IV.

Another is the Spirit of Cutty Sark, a 53-foot sloop-rigged fiberglass yacht which will be skippered by Lt. Leslie Williams of the Royal Navy. She is named after the famed China clipper ship Cutty Sark, built 100 years ago.

Geoffrey Williams, an Englishman who will be at the helm of the 57-foot ketch Sir Thomas Lipton, also is listed among the favorites.

American entrants and their boats include Gordon Reed, 40-foot ketch Secret; Billy Higgins, 49-foot cutter Axel Heyat III; Arthur Piver, 33-foot trimaran Stiletto; Bernie Rodriguez, 25-foot sloop Armistad; Tom Pollett, 40-foot catamaran Cheers, and E. J. Palmer, 31-foot sloop Grebe.

Pollett, of Miami, Fla., made his pre-race 500-mile solo requirement by sailing his schooner-rigged trimaran to Plymouth from St. Croix in the Virgin Islands. He made the 4,000-mile voyage in 28 days. The Ida Lewis Yacht Club of Newport is handling race arrangements at the finish line.

DANGER VALLEY
A new Western thriller

WHAT HAS HAPPENED?
In buying Hobe Terrill's rambling ranch in the Sioux Valley of Wyoming, Greg Corwin was troubled. The property was bounded north and east by Bar X and by smaller ranches, Anchor, Rocking Chair and four others, south and west. Riding to Redman to register the sale Corwin was startled by a neighborly gunshot. He found an overturned buggy and a woman.

CHAPTER 3
BURST of rifle fire along the ridge made Greg Corwin hunch ahead, disregarding the whip of branches and the noise he made. Then he checked his rush as, from below, the single Colt boomed a hopeless return challenge.

Greg placed the position of the riflemen along the ridge among the bushes and trees, still hidden from his sight. He angled sharply up the ridge, moving quietly but swiftly. He stopped short when he caught a movement ahead and below. He had a glimpse of the overturned buggy on the dirt road, then his eyes fastened on a slight movement of bushes just ahead.

Greg lined his rifle on an uncertain form half seen through the screen of leaves. His finger tightened on the trigger and then caution checked him. He had no idea who the girl or her attackers were and he preferred to drive off rather than to kill or wound. He lifted the rifle sights and squeezed off the shot.

He heard a startled yell. The bushes thrashed. A man appeared and Greg's second shot whipped so close that the man jerked away. Greg saw a pained, dark face as the ambusher plunged into the bushes and disappeared. Greg sent a bullet whizzing after him, high enough to miss but keep the man running. From below, the Colt blasted again.

Greg hears yells farther along. He raised after the threatening sounds of flight. He glimpsed the man, saw another pop out of bushes. Greg stopped short, fired, jacked shell into the chamber and fired a second time, both slugs whipping close to the startled man. They raced up the slope. Beyond them, another shouted a warning and Greg saw an uncertain shadow move among the trees and bushes. He fired a third ambusher.

He heard nothing for a moment and then came a muffled beat of hoofs, fading into complete silence.

Greg turned downward, now making no attempt at concealment as he threaded through the line of bushes the ambusher had used. The Colt boomed and Greg heard the whip-snap of the heavy slug by his head. A second bullet whipped to his left, a wider miss but still too close.

He yelled, "Hey! Down there! Stop shooting!"

His answer came, a bullet that whipped the air beside his shoulder. He dropped flat. "Hey! I'm a friend! I drove those jaspers off!"

Greg came to a crouch. "Can I come out?"

Silence, then a feminine voice with a dangerous edge. "Come out slow and hands up."

Greg's lips flattened angrily but he realized what the woman must be thinking. He slowly rose, pushed through a final screen of leaves and bushes and emerged, hands held at shoulder level.

Just below him, the buggy lay on its side, the dead horse in the shafts. He slowly moved down the slope. He had taken but a few steps when a clipped voice ordered, "Stop right there. I want a look at you. If your friends up in the bushes try anything, you'll get a bullet."

"They're not my friends. Why do you think they ran off?"

"A good question. Just don't move."

Very slowly a crown of dark hair and then a face appeared around the edge of the wrecked vehicle. Greg saw long, planned cheeks, vivid red lips, now hardly more than an angry slash above a pointed, delicate chin. Dark eyes blazed as she stepped clear and the Colt she held lined directly on him.

She wore a plain gray dress, edged with white at collar and sleeves that ended just above the elbows. The dress was rumpled, stained, yet slender. As she moved, the swing and fall of her long dress suggested shapely legs.

A slight lift of the Colt in a hand seemingly too small to hold it brought his eyes to her face. A lock of dark hair fell down over one eye and, with an impatient jerk of head and sweep of free hand, she pushed it back.

Greg saw little flames of anger in her dark eyes. She ventured a sweeping glance beyond him up the slope. A second later she coldly studied him again.

"Satisfied, ma'am?"

"Not quite. Who are you?"

"Name's Greg Corwin. I first saw this valley just three days ago."

"One of Yates' hired gun-slingers?"

Greg irritably started to lower his hands but the girl's muzzle lifted suggestively. He checked the movement a second and then, tawny eyes locking with hers, slowly lowered his hands to his sides. The gun muzzle leveled and he saw the swift set of her lips. The tension of her body relaxed.

"When Greg came up, she said, 'Can I owe you another favor? I need to get home.'"

"Glad to ride you there, ma'am. But what about that?"
