Seen & Heard Around Murray

We put out a row of Hollyhocks yesterday afternoon. We didn't get the whole day off but did get part of it.

Most of the yard is soaking wet, but in the flower bed it drains pretty well, so we just put out some double Hollyhocks. They will not bloom this year, but will next and thereafter.

We expect our Poncians Tree to bloom this year. It is an exotic like plant which makes sort of a small tree. The bloom is orchid like and small.

The Hibiscus is looking well too. This is the type that grows to about ten or twelve feet and has a huge red bloom that is five or six inches across. It is a joy to behold when it is in full bloom.

Put out a Sugar Maple last week and a Redbud. We don't know why but we seem to have a compulsion to dig in the ground and plant things.

We wonder sometimes just how much a human being has to do with controlling his own actions. He is so beset by drives, compulsions, moods, whims, cravings, desires, urges and what have you, one can hardly tell where he gives in to one of these or does something on his own.

We have come to the conclusion that a human being is a pretty weak form of life given to kidding himself, rationalizing, justifying himself, and his actions, refusing to see himself as others see him, refusing to see himself as he is, and generally attempting to shut out the unpleasant and the shortcomings.

We put out our flag yesterday, both at the office and at home. By golly it gave us a thrill to unroll the American flag and set it up. It is unpopular and square today to be patriotic, but we just can't help getting that feeling of exultation that comes from watching the American flag waving in the breeze.

"CALIFORNIA, HERE I COME," seems to be the tune for smiling Sen. Eugene McCarthy as he enthuses in Portland over his Oregon presidential primary victory over Sen. Robert Kennedy, who seems to be brushing away a tear at post-primary appearance in Portland.

Kennedy, McCarthy Reach The End Of Campaign Trail

By DE VAN L. SHUMWAY LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sens. Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene J. McCarthy, two weary challengers, reach the end of the campaign trail Tuesday in California's primary election. The outcome may prove decisive in their quest for the Democratic presidential nomination. The two Democrats are in a three-way contest with the host candidacy of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey in California's winner-take-all primary. The winner gets 172 of the state's 174 votes at the August Democratic National Convention — and the momentum of winning the biggest test of the primary campaign. A Kennedy or McCarthy loss would, for all practical purposes, eliminate the loser from contention at the Chicago convention — particularly Kennedy, who lost last Tuesday's Oregon primary to McCarthy. Confused Balloting Kennedy and McCarthy are both on the ballot and Humphrey isn't. The vice president's major supporters are gathered in an unpledged slate headed by Atty-

Death Toll On Holiday Falls Behind

The National Safety Council said this year's pace for the four-day holiday weekend was slightly behind last year's, when a record 608 persons died on the highways during the four days. The council has estimated 625 to 725 persons will die on the nation's roads this weekend. A United Press International count at 9 a.m. EDT showed at least 147 persons dead in traffic since the holiday began at 6 p.m. local time Wednesday. The breakdown: Traffic 147 Drownings 50 Planes 2 Miscellaneous 18 Total 217 California and Pennsylvania led the nation with 16 traffic deaths each. New York had 14 and Michigan 10. The worst reported accident was near New Kensington, Pa., where six persons died when their car struck a utility pole along Pennsylvania 56. Two men having a fist fight in the middle of U.S. 96 near Pine-land, Tex., were killed when a car struck them.

Broach of 705 Elm Street, and a 1965 Volkswagen two door driven by Hugh Grey Massey of 1610 Miller Avenue. Broach was headed east on Poplar Street, started to turn right onto 7th Street, but had his left turn signal on, according to the police. The Broach car pulled into the front fender of the Massey car knocking it into light pole, the police said. Damage was reported to the right and left fenders and front bumper of the Massey car.

BULLETIN

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — Navy warships searching for the missing nuclear submarine Scorpion today detected a mysterious hulk, approximately the size of a nuclear submarine lying under 170-foot deep waters about 75 miles off the Virginia capes. Vice Adm. Arnold F. Schade, who has directed what is regarded as the largest search in naval history since the Scorpion and her 99 men failed to arrive at Norfolk Monday, said he doubted the hulk was the missing submarine. "If it were the Scorpion, I'm sure we'd have been able to indicate his condition," Schade told reporters.

KENTUCKY DEPARTMENT of AGRICULTURE NEWS

J. Robert Miller, Commissioner

I would urge 4-H and FFA members who have beef projects to be thinking about the four beef breeding shows which the Kentucky Department of Agriculture will sponsor next month. They should be deciding what animals they plan to exhibit and submit their entry forms.

The four shows will be as follows: June 25, Scott County Fairgrounds, Georgetown; June 26, Hardin County Fairgrounds, Elizabethtown; June 27, Barren County Fairgrounds, Glasgow; and June 28, Hopkins County Fairgrounds, Madisonville. FFA members should send a list of their entries to James Maddox, Executive FFA Secretary, Hardinsburg, Ky., 40143. All 4-H members should submit their entries according to the show in which they plan to enter. They are as follows:

Georgetown: Dr. John Weste, Area Extension Director, University of Kentucky, Lexington, 40506. Elizabethtown: Gene Cables, area extension beef specialist, Lebanon, 40033. Glasgow: Sam McGuire, area extension youth specialist, Courthouse, Glasgow, 42141. Madisonville: Bruce Kell, 4-H Program Leader, Hopkinsville, 42240.

It is important that the entry forms be mailed to the proper persons. All exhibitors must be actively enrolled in either vocational agriculture or 4-H Club work in order to be eligible to participate in these shows.

Since these shows are for breeding animals, only females can be shown. Exhibitors are reminded that these shows are designed to demonstrate the proper conditioning of breeding stock. The judges will grade down animals which appear to be overfitted.

Both registered and unregistered animals can be shown. They will, however, be shown together within their respective breed classes. No one youth can exhibit more than three animals and each exhibitor will be restricted to showing in only one of the four shows.

In discussing shows sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture, I would like to mention the 25th annual Central Kentucky Lamb Show and Sale will be held at the Bluegrass Stockyards in Lexington. This is a show for market lambs and classes will be offered for adult and youth exhibitors. A second lamb show will be held June 1 at Flemingsburg. This is the East Kentucky Graded Lamb Show and Sale and will also offer both adult and youth classes.

The annual Kentucky National Jersey Show and Sale will be held May 31 and June 1 in Louisville. Top Jerseys from a number of states will be shown and sold at the Fair and Exposition Center on Saturday, June 1. This event is sponsored by the Department in cooperation with the Kentucky Jersey Cattle Club.

Gov. Louie B. Nunn has proclaimed May as "Spring Lamb Month" in Kentucky. The Department is cooperating with the Blue Grass Sheep Association in promoting this observance.

In his proclamation the Governor said "Kentucky has long been recognized nationally for its production of quality spring lambs." Some of the earliest livestock exhibitions held in America were staged by sheep producers in Central Kentucky. The production of quality sheep and lambs has long held a prominent place in Kentucky agriculture.

However, the past several years has seen a steady decline in the number of sheep on Kentucky farms. This has been true despite the fact that Kentucky's climate and much of its land is ideally suited for the raising of sheep. Too many of our farmers grow tobacco, winter housing is readily available after the tobacco is marketed and the barns are empty.

Farmers have been receiving good prices for lambs this spring. With a nationwide decline in numbers, the lamb market is expected to remain strong. According to the Crop & Livestock Reporting Service, Kentucky's early lamb crop this year totals 102,000 head. This is an 11 percent decline from a year ago, which is a result of a reduction in the number of ewes on Kentucky farms.

PACKAGED GARBAGE? HARRISON, N.J. (UPI) — "Packaged garbage" is the latest development of the Jet Age. The "package" is deodorized, defibered, pulverized and extruded block of waste matter that is one-tenth the volume of the original mass of garbage, according to Worthington Corporation, which makes special centrifugal pumps for the new space-saving system. The "package" guards against careless use by rejecting all vermin, other metals and cloths.

FOOTFISHING OCEAN SHORES, Wash. (UPI) — John Ban went fishing without a pole or line, and made out very well. He caught a nine-pound steelhead with his feet. Ban, a local resident, was beachcombing near Ocean Shores, on the Pacific Ocean beach, when he saw something moving in a tide pool left behind a jetty. Wading in, Ban herded the steelhead toward shallow water, then flipped it out with a swing of one foot.

WITHDRAWN HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Greek star Irene Papas has withdrawn from the cast of "The Mad Woman of Chailot" starring Katharine Hepburn.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Taming the Kidnapper

Of all the agonies inflicted upon the family of a kidnap victim, probably the worst is the fear that harm will befall their loved one.

To stay the kidnapper's hand, the Federal Kidnapping Act — and some state kidnap laws as well — impose a milder penalty on the kidnapper if he releases the victim unharmed.

What does that mean? What kind of "harm" are these laws talking about? Obviously there is harm inflicted, when the victim has been subjected to a deliberate beating or a criminal assault.

Likewise, a court held that harm had been inflicted when two women and a child were locked in a small, overheated closet, and later bound hand and foot with ropes and wire.

On the other hand, when the only injury was that the kidnapper had gripped the victim's arms hard enough to hurt, the court refused to impose the heavier penalty.

"Such trivial injury," said the judge, "is not sufficient to constitute bodily harm."

Suppose the injury is indeed serious, but — rather than being inflicted by the kidnapper — is the result of the victim's own attempt to escape. Does that kind of an injury "count" against the kidnapper?

The court said yes in one case, in which a girl was hurt when she jumped from a moving car. The court reasoned that, since the kidnapper had been threatening to assault her, the dangers of an attempted flight could fairly be attributed to him.

But in another case, where no threats of harm preceded the escape attempt, the court ruled that the resulting injury could not justify a heavier penalty against the kidnapper.

It may seem strange to draw such careful distinctions in judging someone as reprehensible as a kidnapper. Yet, after all, the law's purpose is not to do the kidnapper any favors but to reduce the danger to his victim. This can be achieved only if the kidnapper has reason to believe that, if he goes easier on the victim, the law will go easier on him.

Local News

I know that just about everyone goes over their boat from stern to stern every year before putting them into the water, but how about those trailers?

Did you check them out before hauling the boat to the lake? If not it might be a good idea to do so before you take off for that weekend fishing trip.

Check the coupler. Most couplers have an adjustment on the bottom so that you can snug up the connection to eliminate any wear-inducing play between the coupler and the ball on your hitch. But if the parts look dangerously worn, replace the coupler. But at least lubricate it thoroughly.

Check the padding the boat rides on. Is the cradle showing through, is the padding worn or torn? Faulty padding could cause a hole to be worn in the boat. Lubricate the holding pins and see that the cradles function properly. If you replace padding, use a synthetic material, such as rugs and carpets are made of. You can get scraps from most rug and carpet shops, very reasonable, and save some money. Remove the old padding completely and get the tacks or staples out of the wood. Lap the new material well down each side and secure it with copper tacks rather than steel ones.

Check those rollers. Do they roll freely? Most new trailers have rollers with bushings that require a squirt of oil periodically. But if a roller is frozen or hard to rotate, which can happen after a winter's storage, it must be freed.

If a roller is cut or shows a sign of a flat spot, it should be replaced. Otherwise the winch, the winch rope, the boat's bow eye, and your arm will be strained when you use the trailer.

Check the winch line. If it is rope and shows frayed spots, replace it. Do the same for a wire cable that shows whiskers or needle-sharp ends of broken small wires. Just one time of pulling the boat in by hand will help you appreciate this.

Check the safety chain. If the hitch should be loosened, and you don't have a chain or it breaks, it could cause a bad accident.

Check the winch. It will need a grease job after setting up all winter. Lubricate it with heavy grease until it works freely, then snug up any loose nuts and bolts, including those that hold the winch to the trailer.

Check those lights. Not just in the spring either, but every time you use it make sure that all lights are working. In the spring however you should give it an extra thorough check. Look for corrosion on lamp sockets, check the contacts an disjunct wiring. Tape wires at points of chafing, but replace them where the covering is badly worn or rotted.

Give the trailer a thorough washing, and use kerosene to remove any road tar, and check all bolts with a socket wrench. While you're at it douse the springs good with oil, they must flex well to do their job. If they are badly rusted they may be well on their way to breaking, and you might save yourself a lot of trouble by replacing them.

Check the tires. Do they have much tread left? How about those sidewalls? The sidewalls on a trailer are apt to go before the tread. During towing they flex continuously and could blow out very easily. Do you have a spare? If you do make sure it is in good shape. If you don't have a spare, it might be money well invested to buy one. Be sure that the jack on your car will double as a spare on the trailer, it wouldn't do much good to have a spare if you don't have any way to change it.

Check the pressure on the tires. Many people usually inflate trailer tires to the same pressure as car tires. Pressures in trailer tires should be two or three times the poundage used in auto tires.

If your trailer has a brake system check it out good, and it might not be a bad idea to have a dealer or someone that has pulled a lot of trailers to check the brake system, on the road, loaded as it will be when you will be pulling it.

All of these are good for anyone, whether he is pulling a fishing boat or a big rig for skiing.

The Twin Lakes Coonhunters Club had a U.K.C. hunt last weekend with a very fine turnout, and some 40 trophies were awarded.

Their next hunt will be the third Saturday in June which will be the 15th. This will be a singles hunt, then on Sunday they will hold a meet that will include a swim, a drag, and a freeling contest.

They also have something big coming up on July 4th, and this big thing is money. It will also include a swim, a drag, and a freeling contest, but there will be no trophies awarded. . . . Just cold hard cash! Eighty percent of the purse to be exact. So set that day aside for the big day at the Twin Lakes Coonhunters club.

Here is a little information that I hope will settle a disagreement over what family of fish the bluegill belongs to. This is a list of all the sunfishes. Warmouth, Green Sunfish, Long-Eared Sunfish, BLUEGILL, Black Croppie, Sacramento Perch, White Croppie, Pumpkinseed, Red-Eared Sunfish, Spotted Sunfish, Rock Bass, Yellow Breasted Sunfish, Largemouth Bass, Smallmouth Bass, and the Spotted Bass.

Yo-Yo on Upswing
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The yo-yo, which has had many ups and downs, may be on the upswing again. The little toy, thought to have begun as a weapon used by Filipino hunters, became a rage in this country in the 30s and has now been launched on a new career.
Millions of yo-yos bearing likenesses of Charlie Brown, Linus, Lucy and Snoopy, the cast of Charles M. Schulz's comic strip, "Peanuts," have been produced by the Hallmark Cards here. For the benefit of a new generation of yo-yoers, instructions have been drawn up for four classical tricks.

Kathleen Farrell Honored At Shower At The Butts Home

Miss Kathleen Farrell, bride-elect of David F. Berry, Jr., of Mayfield, was the honoree at a shower held on Saturday evening, May 18, at the lovely home of Mrs. Ed Butts in Mayfield.
The gracious hostesses were Mrs. Butts, Mrs. Ted Duncan, and Mrs. Amos Cash.
Greeting the guests with the hostesses was Mrs. Frank Berry, Sr., mother of the groom-elect.
Miss Farrell chose to wear for the special occasion a light blue sheer straight line dress. Her corsage was of yellow marguerite daisies and baby's breath, gift of the hostesses.
A yellow and white color scheme was carried out in the decorations for the house.
The serving table was overlaid with a lovely imported linen cutwork cloth. At one end of the table was placed a large silver candelabrum holding white tapers, in the center of which, was an arrangement of yellow trumpet lilies, coreopsis, and baby's breath. Other appointments were of silver.
Centered on the gift table was a large doll in complete lace bridal attire. Four silver candle sticks with yellow tapers, amid greenery and an arrangement of daisies and lilies decorated the mantel.
Approximately forty guests attended or sent gifts including the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Richard Farrell of Murray, her mother-in-law to be, Mrs. Berry, and the hostesses.

Dear Abby Reader Defends 'Dirty' Movies

By Abigail Van Buren
DEAR ABBY: "Sold Out" had her say about dirty movies, and you let Jack Valenti have his say. Now I'd like to have my say.
The movie industry isn't in business to lose money. They make dirty movies because people go to see them. [They also made "Sound of Music," "Mary Poppins," "Dr. Doolittle," and Walt Disney's, which didn't exactly put them in the hole, either.]
However, this is a free country, and I never yet saw a theater manager standing outside with a gun, forcing people to go inside.
Furthermore, what is "dirty"? If they can show cold-blooded murder, torture, crime and violence in every conceivable form, for my money, they can show lovemaking.
DEAR ABBY: My husband never graduated from high school but he has a very good job at the mill. His name keeps coming up for promotion as he is very smart, but here is the problem:
He never learned how to read and write. Somehow he managed to get by anyway. He's no dummy. He can figure out mathematical problems in his head and knows history dates and events like a college graduate. He listens to the news on the radio and is up on everything, but when it comes to reading, he doesn't know dog from cat.
I have tried to teach him, but it's hopeless. His boss keeps after him to take tests for advancement, but my husband keeps ducking them because he doesn't want anyone to know he can't read or write. I filled out the job application for him. That's how he got his job in the first place. How can I help him? He feels so ashamed because of his ignorance. HIS WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Your husband's problem is not as unusual as you think. He could have a "mental block" due to an emotional problem, which is nothing to be ashamed of. Find out what is available for adults thru your local board of public education. If your husband is too self-conscious to attend classes, perhaps private tutoring can be arranged.

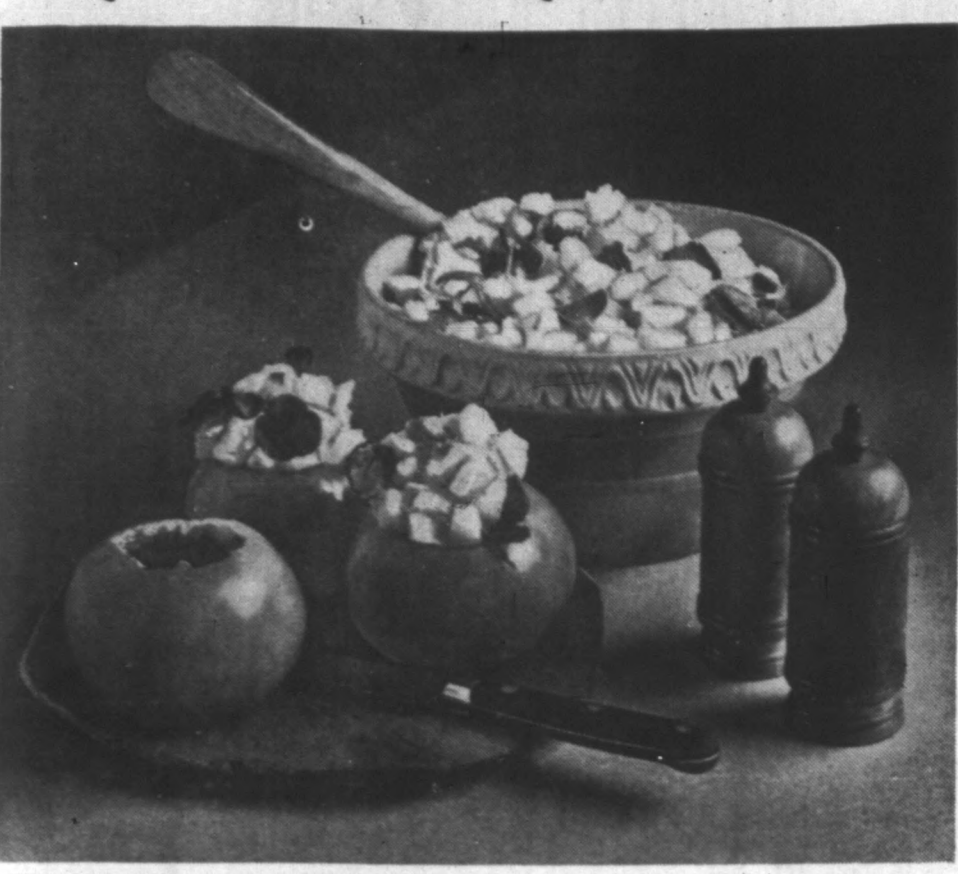

Mr. & Mrs. Smock Hosts For Dinner For Bridal Couple

Miss Ann Kay Sanders and Fred Rawls Barber whose wedding will be an event of Sunday, June 9, were complimented with a lovely dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Smock on North Seventh Street on Saturday, May 25, at seven-thirty o'clock in the evening.
The honoree chose to wear for the occasion a lovely trowsseau; frock and was presented a corsage of white daisies by the hosts. Mr. Barber was presented a boutonniere.
An arrangement of tiny rosebuds and baby's breath adorned the table where the dinner was served buffet style. Arrangements of roses were used in the living room where the hosts served hors'oeuvres.
Those attending the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Grogan, Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Christopher, Miss Kay Minor, Jim Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Larry McIntosh of Mayfield, and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Smock.

Planned Sheep

HOPLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Now it's planned parenthood for sheep.
The idea is not to prevent a population explosion, but to make certain it happens on schedule, according to a University of California animal scientist.
The scientist, Glen M. Spurlock, says field trials utilizing a hormone similar to the one in the "pill" have shown promise in birth control for sheep.

"For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also"

Roller Coaster Spirit

There are days when we feel on top of the world. Everybody loves us and shows it. Nice things are done for us. Sunshine and happiness drenches everything. And then there are other days - when we're blue; people are busy. We're alone. We're afraid. It might as well be raining. Nobody knows the trouble we're in. Needed is a little self-discipline, not a lot of self-pity. We must learn to face the fact that life is not always a flowery bed of ease, and pleasure. Children dodge hard places, responsibility, and painful experiences. A mature person stands on his own two feet under God. Time, insight, and the grace of God can remove mountains - and take away that roller coaster spirit. Begin the road to spiritual maturity by attending church this week.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Steve Carlton Pitches 2nd. Straight Cardinal Victory

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

Steve Carlton is just an old fashioned pitcher — and the St. Louis Cardinals wouldn't have it any other way.

Most modern pitchers laugh at stories that old-time heroes like Walter Johnson, Lefty Grove and Dizzy Dean used only a fast ball, a standard curve and a changeup. They spend hours developing pitches like the slider and the knuckleball or variations of their standard stuff.

A 6-foot-4, 210-pound left-hander who won 14 games for the Cardinals last season, Carton became concerned early this season over the fact that he had only the three standard pitches and told pitching coach Billy Muffett that he wanted to work on a slider.

New Pitches Unnecessary

"Forget it," answered Muffett. "With the kind of stuff you've got you're going to do quite all right without other pitches."

Muffett has turned out to be a sound counselor because Carlton is still just firing his standard stuff and it has been good enough to compile a 6-1 record and a 2.00 earned run average. What's more, he's become the "stopper" of the Cardinal staff, having won the team's last two games, three of its last four and four of its last six dating back to May 8.

Mike Shannon and Tim McCarver hit back-to-back homers in a four-run first inning that routed ex-teammate Ray Sadecki as the Cardinals snapped a four-game losing streak. Carlton struck out five, walked one and didn't allow a baserunner to reach third in scoring his third shutout of the season.

The Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Cincinnati Reds 5-3, the New York Mets swept the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-3 and 5-4 and the Houston Astros whipped the Atlanta Braves 11-0 in other National League games. Chicago at Philadelphia was rained out.

The Detroit Tigers defeated the California Angels 7-3, the Baltimore Orioles beat the Chicago White Sox 5-0, the Cleveland Indians topped the Minnesota Twins 3-1, the Oakland Athletics downed the Boston Red Sox 6-2 and the Washington Senators beat the New York Yankees 6-2 after a 13-4 loss in American League games.

Osteen Takes Victory

Two-run singles by Paul Popovich and Bob Bailey were the big blows for the Dodgers although he took reliever John Billingham to retire Pete Rose, leading the league with a .368 average, with the bases filled and two out in the ninth to preserve the victory. Claude Osteen, who went 8 2-3 innings, won his third game against seven losses.

Jerry Kosman won his eighth game and unbeaten Dick Selma his fourth in a row for the Mets. Ed Kranepool drove in his first two runs of the season with a single that was the big blow of a three-run Met rally in the third inning of the first game. A two-run double by Ron Swoboda and a two-run triple by Art Shamsky powered the Mets' game-winning five-run rally in the fifth inning of the second game.

Denis Menke, Lee Thomas and Bob Aspromonte drove in a total of nine runs with seven hits, enabling Mike Cuellar of the Astros to breeze to his third victory of the season with a seven-hitter. Ron Reed, who had won six straight games, was routed during a four-run rally in the fourth inning and suffered his first loss.

Mrs. Lou Gehrig Is Found Unconscious, Smoke Filled Room

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Lou Gehrig, widow of the New York Yankee's Hall of Famer, today was found unconscious on the floor of her smoke-filled apartment bedroom.

Two firemen crawled down a 100-foot hallway filled with smoke to rescue the 64-year-old Mrs. Gehrig. The firemen carried her to the floor below and revived her with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and a mechanical inhalator.

After regaining consciousness, Mrs. Gehrig was rushed to Bellevue Hospital where she was reported in serious condition. The fire in Mrs. Gehrig's eighth floor apartment at 211 E. 53rd Street apparently started in a mattress, officials said.

Mickey Mantle Hits Homers For The New York Yankees

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

Remember Mickey Mantle? It was memory time at Yankee Stadium Thursday afternoon as the aging slugger had the kind of day he used to have when he was making the name Mickey Mantle a household word.

Five-for-five, two homers, five RBIs, three runs scored.

Those were the statistics for Mantle as he paced the Yanks to a 13-4 rout of Washington in the first game of a Memorial Day doubleheader.

Mantle, who went into the game with a .229 average and boosted it to .254, was the first to admit how rare a day like that is for him these days.

"Now two-for-two is an awfully good day for me," Mantle said.

In the second game he acted like the Mantle of today as he sat out the contest to rest his weary legs and the Yankees lost 6-2.

Mantle's homers were only his fifth and sixth of the season but were the 523rd and 524th of his career and it was the 48th time he's hit two homers in one game.

Indians Down Twins
Elsewhere in the American League, Cleveland topped Minnesota 3-1, Detroit whipped California 7-3, Oakland drubbed Boston 6-2 and Baltimore blanked Chicago 5-0.

In the National League, New York swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh 6-3 and 5-4, Los Angeles topped Cincinnati 5-3, Houston drubbed Atlanta 11-0 and St. Louis blanked San Francisco 6-0. The Chicago Philadelphia game was rained out.

Mantle's first homer was a two-run shot in the first inning.

Mickey Mantle

and his second homer led off the fifth inning. He singled and scored a run in the third, knocked in a run with a ground-rule double during a two-run uprising in the sixth and singled in a run during a six-run outburst in the eighth inning. The victory went to Stan Bahnsen, who pitched an eight-hitter and boosted his record to 5-1.

In the second game, Fred Valentine, Ed Stroud—who also homered in the first game—and Bernie Allen hit solo-homers to give Camilo Pascual the triumph.

Tigers Hold Lead
Detroit maintained its league lead as Jim Northrup hit a solo homer and drove in two more runs with a single and a sacrifice fly to pace the victory over California. Joe Sparna, lifted in the eighth inning after Dog Mincer hit a two-run homer, took the victory while Rich Clark took the setback.

Baltimore remained in second place as rookie Dave Leonard pitched his second shutout of the season in pacing the Orioles past Chicago. Leonard had a two-hitter and Baltimore broke the game open with three runs in the third inning on five walks, a wild pitch and Mark Belanger's single.

Low Krause pitched a four-hitter and drove in two runs as Oakland downed Boston. Krause, now 2-6, doubled in two runs in the second inning after Sal Bando hit a solo homer in the first.

A SMILE on his face, Bobby Unser drives his turbo-charged Offy into the checkered victory lane and receives a big welcome from '500' officials. He led 127 of the 200 laps and won in record time.

Bobby Unser Winning Rider In Indianapolis 500 Race

By ED SAINSBURY
UPI Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Bobby Unser rode a piston-powered racer to victory at record speed in the 500 mile race, but his triumph won't put much of a damper on the war between the piston proponents and the champions of turbine engines for the next year.

For the second straight race, a turbine machine won but in the final laps to let a piston job come from almost certain defeat and grab the top pay check, this time expected to be about $200,000 of a $750,000 gross for Unser.

But Unser's win came because Joe Leonard, the fastest qualifier, went out of the race with nine laps remaining when his turbine engine died as the caution light went out in favor of the green flag signaling full speed.

Similar Situation
It was almost a duplication of the 1967 race when Parnelli Jones in a turbine, had victory wrapped up until a $6 bearing in his gear box gave out with 9 miles to go, and A. J. Foyt got first place with a record speed. Unser, 34, was in his sixth 500 race, and he won at record speed, 152.882 miles per hour compared to Foyt's 151.207 mark. The second place finisher, Dan Gurney, in another piston car, also broke Foyt's record with 152.187.

Jones, near-success in 1967 brought about the first firing from the piston engine boys about the turbine, and resulted in a technical change which was supposed to reduce the turbine power.

Leonard's near success this year can't be classed as a turbine failure, and the fact that two other turbines made a race of it, should help continue the piston-turbine controversy.

Graham Hill, a one-time winner of the 500, had another turbine running in 4th place until he lost a wheel and crashed backwards into the southwest wall, while the third turbine, driven by Art Pollard, went 188 laps before it wore out.

Three Lead Field
Unser's victory came after one of the best races in Speedway history.

Only three drivers ever had the lead. Leonard got off in front, yielded to Unser, and thereafter these two and Lloyd Ruby alternated setting the pace. Ruby, too, apparently had the race won, running two seconds ahead of Leonard and three ahead of Unser with less than 75 miles to go when magno trouble knocked him out of contention.

When Ruby pitted twice in three laps, Leonard moved ahead and boasted an eight-second margin on Unser until his car collapsed.

Fourteen of the 33 starting cars were running at the finish but only five went the full 500 miles. In addition to Unser and Gurney, Mel Kenyon was third at 149.224, Denis Hulme was fourth at 149.146, and Ruby fifth at 148.541.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED In buying Hobe Terrill's rambling ranch in the Sioux Valley of Wyoming with gambling, Greg Corwin also bought the property. He bounded north and east by Bar Y and smaller ranches. Anchor, Rocking Chair and four others, south and west. Riding to Redman to register the sale Corwin was started by a neighborly sunbather. He found an overturned buggy in the brush. She was Amanda Zane, who had to run Rocking Chair while her father recovered from a bush-whack bullet.

Greg brushed a lock of her hair from his face. "Tumbling T, if I had to guess, it'd be logical but maybe Yates figured that would be the very reason I'd be careless. And I was!" Greg's jaw set. "How long has this been going on?" "Since Yates was hired to ramrod Bar Y. But he wouldn't move without Vale Edwards giving the order. Vale's the owner. She pointed east and south. Two small spreads down there have been swigged up one sold out and the other got killed. No heirs, so Bar Y bought it through the courts. Now Tumbling T just south of us. I'm further west and beyond me is Anchor. Unless we get together and fight, it will all be Bar Y before long.

She twisted about to search his face. He became aware of deep pools of brown eyes, of the delicate curve of cheekbone, and her lips, uncomfortably close, moved to ask, "Why not? A good job and a clean ranch. Oh you think I want to buy your gun?" "Well, maybe that's one thing..." "I'm forced to, Mr. Corwin. You saw what happened today. But that will pass—soon, I hope. Then it'll be just a clean, good job of riding for Rocking Chair and no more."

Greg saw the ranch ahead; a small house, bunkhouse and buildings, not quite as big as Tumbling T. They rode through the open gate and approached the house. She drew reins and Greg jumped down and turned to help Amanda dismount. But she had already swung out of the saddle and dropped to her feet, eagerly facing him. "About that job..." "No, ma'am. You put it nice but still you're buying a gun." "I told you why and..." "I've got business of my own, ma'am. Important business. Glad to have been of help."

DANGER VALLEY A new Western thriller BY RICHARD POOLE

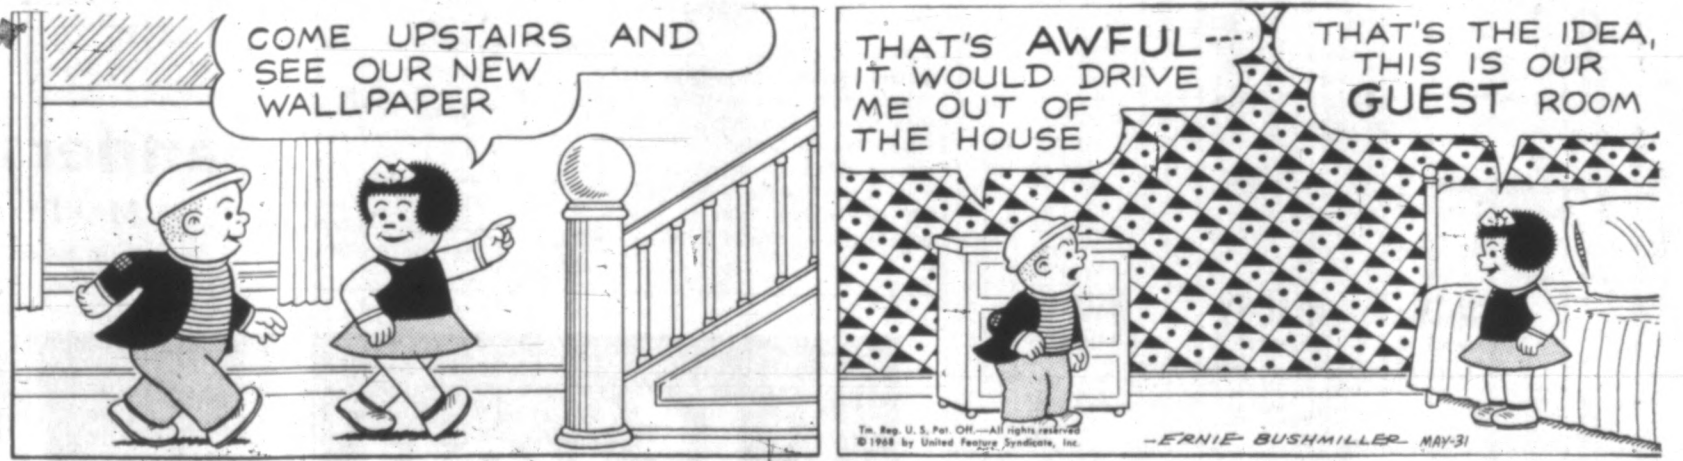

CHAPTER 4 AMANDA ZANE dismissed the pile of supplies with a shrug. "Yates hires killers but he doesn't steal. I'll send a rider and backboard for it. Anyone passing will know the buggy, and poor Darby has the Rocking Chair brand on his flank. They'll know what Yates has done. He's made his first bad mistake." Greg accepted the statement. She placed a slender slipper in the stirrup and with an easy grace swung herself up and into the saddle. He mounted behind her, gingerly placed his hands on the cantle but she said impatiently, "I won't break, Mr. Corwin, and I intend to ride fast. This is no time to be bashful."

SEEN & HEARD

Mowing yesterday and a big gray Toad jumped up under a shrub. He stayed there until we moved on away from him.

Three some bread heels out in the back yard yesterday and a Jay Bird attempted to fly off with a whole one. He almost made it. A Grackle succeeded in carting off a heel back into the woods. Whether he was able to eat it all by himself we don't know. The classic method of eating a heel or piece of toast is to stand on it with both feet and pull chunks of bread out.

The Grackles have an odd way of challenging one another for the role of superiority. They point their heads straight up in the air and fluff out their feathers. Apparently the one that holds this posture the longest or does it the most is the winner.

At any rate on blows are exchanged.

We put out a row of giant Sunflowers the other day, but the Jay Birds ate them all.
