Seen & Heard Around Murray

A psychiatrist was trying to help a man who had gone through life obsessed with the notion that there was a huge tortoise awaiting him somewhere. The habit had become so ingrained that it took the psychiatrist several years to make some progress toward "restoring him to reality."

"And then," sighed the doctor as he told the story to friends, "just as I seemed to have him over the hump, there comes this letter informing him someone had left him a great fortune!"

It's lighter when we get up in the morning now, but doesn't night come in a hurry when you get off from work.

We wish that we would either stay on DST the rest of the year, or the old fashion time, one or the other. This switching back and forth is about to wear us out.

John B. Simpson sends us an article which appeared in the Western Recorder recently entitled "Just How 'Dirty' is Politics?"

Here's one paragraph from it. "If politics is dirty, why do we never hear it said that 'democracy is dirty'?" In twenty years of teaching about government and politics, I have not heard a single person make the statement that democracy is dirty, even though politics is the process by which people rule themselves in a democracy.

The author of the article Daniel R. Grant of Vanderbilt University concluded that one reason people consider politics dirty is because the work of politicians and government officials is so open to public scrutiny while private business, and other organizations is closed to public view.

Another explanation, he says is that we have a double standard of morality for persons in and out of government.

He concluded that "because of its life in a goldfish bowl, the governmental process may act"

Cunningham Charged With Manslaughter

James Floyd Cunningham of Almo has been charged with involuntary manslaughter in the traffic accident death of Allen D. Bean, according to the office of Calloway County Judge Hall McCuiston.

The charges were filed by Kentucky State Trooper Guy Turner following the death of Bean on Monday, October 22, in a car and truck smashup on U. S. Highway 641 near Coler Crossing.

Cunningham, age 41, received lacerations to the forehead and left knee and was hospitalized for a few days after the accident.

Charges of driving while intoxicated, driving while operator's license is revoked, and no registration were also placed against Cunningham, according to the office of Judge McCuiston.

Cunningham is now in the Calloway County jail awaiting bond of $2500. The charge of involuntary manslaughter will be awaiting the action of the Grand Jury, but the other charges will probably be tried in the court of Judge McCuiston.

Bean, age 21, of Route Four, Paducah, was returning to Murray State University to resume his classes when his car, a 1965 white Chevelle, collided with the 1965 GMC pickup driven by Cunningham.

Turner said witness testimony told him that Bean was going south when he met the Cunningham truck which was on the wrong side of the road. Turner said apparently Bean swerved to the other side to try to avoid colliding with Cunningham, but at the same time Cunningham swerved back to the right and hit the right side of the Bean car.

The trooper said that Bean was smashed against the left hand door of the car and that the door had to be pried open in order to get him out of his car. Bean was pronounced dead on arrival at the Murray-Calloway County Hospital.

Bean was a junior agriculture major at Murray State University. Funeral and burial services were held at Sharpe.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK Looking Back to 1868

69-D "Like father, like son," has proven true often in scientific and humanitarian endeavors. The Herschels, William and son, John Frederick, matched achievements in astronomy. Benjamin Silliman, Senior and Junior, earned distinction separately in chemistry and natural history. Researches of the latter inspired drilling of the oil well at Titusville, Pa., that was the genesis of the modern petroleum industry, and systematic distillation of the crude mineral.
Jean Agassiz and son, Alexander, were equally great zoologists, naturalists and teachers. The latter put his knowledge to more practical purposes than his father, it could be said; Alexander's opening and development of the Calumet & Hecla copper mines in the Lake Superior region made him wealthy and an educational philanthropist.
Among other extraordinary examples were the Drapers: John William, physician, chemist, pioneer in photography; his son Henry, physiologist, chemist, astronomer; another son, Daniel, meteorologist.
In 1868, when no United States Weather Service had been organized, Daniel Draper set up New York's first meteorological observatory. Until 1870, when Congress authorized establishment of stations and forecasts by the Signal Corps, U.S. Army, all weather observation and forecasting were principally private enterprise, or subsidiary to regional astronomical institutions.
Daniel aided Henry in constructing the telescopes, grinding lens, and erecting an observatory at which Henry carried on photographic studies in astronomy for the U.S. Government. Interest of both in stellar spectroscopy had been generated and fostered by their father. He was among the first individuals in America whose reading of experiments by Daguerre and associates in France inspired them to prepare glass-plates and exposure devices. Draper, Sr. took the first complete camera portrait of a human—Henry and Daniel's sister—at New York in 1839.
In 1868, Dr. John William Draper was writing a History of the American Civil War as a follow-up to a signal speculation, Thoughts on the Future Civil Policy of America.

11 Daniel Draper with some of scientific equipment at meteorological station in Central Park, New York—as shown some years after he opened it.

ENJOY BREAKFAST with a view on under-window shelf that serves as a table. Designer John Hayden used molding around window to produce stunning black frame in which to show off Spice, a textured shade that filters direct sunshine without shutting out light.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

A ROOM without windows would be dark, dismal and stifling to the spirit because windows are a necessity, providing not just light and air but outlook.
Still, in a small room, windows can present problems for they break into already limited wall space, limiting the area available for furniture.

Use The Space

How to get around this decorating dilemma? By putting windows to work and utilizing otherwise wasted under-window space.

● In a tiny child's bedroom, for example, a desk is set against the wall under the window. The sill is used as an extension of the desk top as a "built-in" shelf for reference books.

● A kitchen window is underlined with a shelf that serves as breakfast "table" and counter.

● A vanity fills in the under-window area in a bedroom.

● Two interesting living room treatments include a bookcase under a wide window and a shelf under a smaller window. The latter serves as an occasional table.

● The under-window area may be just a small one but if every inch of space counts why waste it? Small-scale furniture—a bookcase, occasional table, storage chest, record cabinet, desk or vanity—may fill it in usefully or a special-purpose shelf could be added to put the area to work.

Dicky Lyons And Jake Scott Are Tops In SEC

BIRMINGHAM UPI — Dicky Lyons of Kentucky and Jake Scott of Georgia dominate Southeastern Conference statistics, each claiming top spot in two categories.

Lyons increased his lead in the SEC scoring race by adding two touchdowns in the game against Georgia. He now has a total of 54 points followed by John Riley of Auburn with 44. Rounding out the top four are Larry Smith of Florida and Auburn's Tim Christian.

In kick-off returns, it is Lyons again the leader picking up a total of 368 yards. He is closely followed by Mississippi State's David Smith who has the best return average in the league.

Jake Scott picked off two Kentucky passes and took both into the end zone to wrest the interception lead from Tennessee's Bill Young. Both have six interceptions but Scott's return yardage is much greater.

Scott continued to hold the punt return lead. He has run backs totaling 347 yards. Lyons, who sports a better average per return, is far behind Scott in net yardage.

Herman Weaver of Tennessee managed to regain the punting lead while resting his toe. Tennessee was idle while Georgia's Spike Jones was having a poor day against Kentucky, dropping his average to 42.2 yards per kick. Weaver is kicking for a 42.8 yard average.

Pro-Am Set For Lucky; Stars There

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Willie Mays and Bing Crosby — The Swinger and The Singer — are among a host of celebrities who tee off today in pro-amateur competition preceding the $100,000 Lucky International Golf Tournament.

Mays will be in a foursome which includes Billy Casper, 1968's leading money winner. Crosby is part of a foursome with the colorful Chi Chi Rodriguez who won the 1964 Lucky.

Another foursome features such players of other trades as pitcher Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers and pro tennis great Tony Trabert.

Then the big names of golf take over tomorrow morning in opening round play on the 6,772 yard Harding Park Course. In addition to Casper, other stars going after the top prize of $20,000 will be national Open champion Lee Trevino, Billy Maxwell, Ken Venturi, Charlie Sifford, Dow Finsterwald, Dave Stockton, Dudley Wysong, Tommy Aaron, George Archer, Doug Sanders and Al Geiberger.

The first two days of play will be limited to 144 men. The field will be cut after 36 holes to players in the low 71's, plus ties, for the final two days.

Casper Sure Of Top Cash On PGA Tour

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (UPI)—With only three official tournaments remaining this year, Billy Casper seems assured of the Professional Golfers' Association money-winning title for 1968.

Casper, with five tournament victories, has earned $153,330 for a commanding lead over Jack Nicklaus, who has pocketed $155,285 in official winnings.

Tom Weiskopf, with $152,946, is third followed by Julius Boros ($148,310) and George Archer ($132,726).

The leaders with earnings and tournament victories in parenthesis:

LEROY LOOKS FOR DAYLIGHT—Leroy Kelly of Cleveland has a step lead on Atlanta's Claude Humphrey and looks for running room in the first quarter Sunday. Browns' guard John Mearns (65) comes up to help. Kelly picked up nine yards on this carry and finished with 112 yards in 19 carries in the Browns' 30-7 victory.

Dryden Is Voted Best On Defense

NASHVILLE (UPI)—Rick Dryden, Eastern Kentucky's 215-pound senior guard who led the Colonels' rugged defense Saturday's 18-7 victory over Western Kentucky, was named Monday as Ohio Valley Conference defensive player of the week.

Dryden was credited with 10 individual tackles, nine assists, a pass interception and fumble recovery in the crucial victory, which knocked Western Kentucky from the ranks of the unbeaten and from the OVC lead.

Austin Peay's Ronnie Simpson, a 170-pound sophomore halfback was chosen as the OVC's top offensive player of the week. Simpson gained 119 yards rushing and scored a touchdown in the Gove's 46-13 victory over Middle Tennessee.

Murray State's Larry Tillman, meanwhile, maintained his lead in the total offense and passing departments. He has amassed 1,148 yards total offense, all of the yardage through the air. He has completed 84 of 162 passes for 14 touchdowns.

Larry Schreiber of Tennessee Tech is still the league's top rusher, having carried 161

More Trouble Lies Ahead For Tech Eagles

COOKEVILLE, Tenn. — It looks as though Tennessee Tech's win-starved Golden Eagles are going to have to cinch their belts in another notch.

The Eagles, shoved into the cellar of the Ohio Valley Conference after Saturday's 24-12 loss to Morehead, still have to face powerful Eastern Kentucky, surprising Austin Peay and Middle Tennessee State.

And this Saturday, still searching for their first victory, they entertain Chattanooga's fifth-ranked Meccasins in a non-conference game. Kickoff is at 7:30 p.m.

"WE HAVE SOME good ones coming up," understated Coach Don Wade. "Everyone told me how great Western Kentucky was before we played them and now they're telling me how great Chattanooga is." Wade paused, then added, "and after looking at the films, I'm inclined to agree with them."

Wade said his Eagles "were flat" at Morehead. "We just couldn't get up for the game."

San Diego State Still On Top, But Are Crowded

NEW YORK UPI — San Diego State still reigns as king of the hill among small college football teams, but things keep getting more and more crowded at the top.

The unbeaten Aztecs, who were successful in their first three contests against major colleges this season when they romped past San Jose State 48-6 Saturday, earned 26 first place votes and 328 points from the 35-member United Press International Board of Coaches.

North Dakota State retained second with 287 points and a pair of southern powerhouses, Chattanooga and Tampa, gained considerable ground on the front runners. Both also scored victories over major college opponents, with Chattanooga beating the Citadel 31-9 and Tampa upsetting Mississippi State 24-14. Chattanooga received 228 points in the balloting, seven more than Tampa.

New Mexico Highlands dropped to fifth behind the fast rising southern pair despite a 62-7 romp past Western New Mexico. Weber State and Morgan State moved up one place each to sixth and seventh.

Eastern Kentucky lopped Western Kentucky, sixth last week, from the ranks of the unbeaten Saturday and moved back into the top 10 after a week's absence, capturing the No. 8 slot. Texas A & I and unbeaten Troy State complete the listing of leading small colleges.

San Diego's victory, its sixth this season and 32nd in the last 33 games, enabled it to hold its lead over North Dakota State, which boosted its record to 7-0 by routing Morningside 42-14. Chattanooga's triumph was its sixth without defeat this season while Tampa is now 5-1, its only loss being a last minute decision to major college Cincinnati.

BOATING

By JACK WOLSTON

NEW YORK (UPI) — With four nations seeking to become the challenger for the America's Cup in 1970 — the next time the historic sailing trophy will be up for grabs — sponsors are considering the possibility of an elimination series to determine the contender.

England, Australia, France and Greece have challenged for the Cup, considered emblematic of world yachting supremacy. The United States wrested the battered silver emblem from England more than 100 years ago and has defended it successfully against 20 challenges since.

It is the first time the New York Yacht Club, which acquired the Cup under a deed of gift after it was won from England, has been faced with more than one challenger. And actually, if it chose, it could select any country it prefers.

However, since the challenges poured in after the conclusion of the Cup series this year, in which the American yacht Intrepid completely outclassed the Australian challenger Dawn Patrol, a number of prominent yachtsmen have endorsed the idea of an elimination series to select a challenger.

The elimination plan is used to select the American defender, although even here the NYCC's Cup Committee is not committed to naming the 12-meter yacht which turns in the best performance in pre-race trials.

Since the Cup series was resumed in 1958 with the 12 Meters, however, the committee has certainly made no mistakes in its selections. U.S. representatives have successfully repulsed four challenges — two from England and two from Australia — losing only one race in all of the best-four-out-of-seven series.

Advocates of an elimination series to select the 1970 challenger point out it would enable the eventual winner to tune up to a razor's edge for the Cup series and provide more competition than has been the case in past encounters.

If an elimination series to select the challenger was agreed by the NYCC Cup Committee, which has the problem under study, it probably would be held off Newport, R.I.

The big boat show, winter's outlet for the land-locked pleasure boater, will be getting underway shortly. There are at least eight in January — at San Antonio, Tex., Miami, Fla., San Francisco, Portland, Ore., Seattle, Wash., Philadelphia, Tulsa, Okla., and Cleveland, Ohio.

The big National Boat Show in New York, traditionally one of the earliest on the annual show calendar, will be held in February in 1968 because of a date problem at the New York Coliseum, where the exposition is held. It will return to a January spot in 1969.

Incidentally, the 1968 New York show will have 17 British marine films exhibiting boats and equipment. Many of the boats are sailing and many of them, built for rough weather, have been modified to exploit the lighter winds found in American coastal waters, according to a British spokesman.

Although there are no Russian ocean powerboat racers, there apparently is considerable Soviet interest in the sport. A number of sponsors of powerboat races in this country have received requests for information from Russian sports magazines.

Latest came from Leonid Trzubechnik, editor of Motorboats & Yachts of Leningrad. It went to sponsors of the 200-mile Hurricane Classic, to be run at St. Petersburg Beach, Fla., Dec. 2, and asked for information and final results of the race.

Met Payer Dies

NEW YORK — The New York Mets learned yesterday that Mike McCready, a 19-year-old pitcher from El Segundo, Calif., who had recently been advanced to the major league roster, died Monday afternoon as the result of injuries suffered in an auto accident in Los Angeles Friday.

FERRARI FIRST

ROME 975 — Ernesto "Tino" Brambilla of Italy drove his Dino Ferrari to victory over Italian Andrea de Adamich's Dino Ferrari Sunday in the 20th Grand Prix of Rome.

Jean Pierre Beltoise of France, who already has clinched the European Formula two championship, was fourth in Matra behind Briton Peter Geethin, who missed taking second place by two seconds in the 154.7-mile race in his Brabham.

Bradshaw Reported Finished at Kentucky

CHARLIE BRADSHAW

L EXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — University of Kentucky football coach Charlie Bradshaw, plagued with losing seasons in five of his six years, has resigned, reliable sources said last night.

BRADSHAW WAS reported to have made the decision after a conference with acting university president A. D. Kirwan. He informed his players of it after yesterday's practice session.

In six seasons, the former UK end won 29 games, lost 26 and tied 4. His only winning season came in 1965 when the Wildcats compiled a 6-4 record.

So far this season, Kentucky is at the bottom of the Southeastern Conference with a 2-4 record. Its only victories came against a Missouri conference foe Missouri and Oregon State.

His resignation is to become effective after this season, leaving the way open for him to assume other duties, possibly athletic director. After the 1965 season he was given a unique "lifetime" contract which assured him tenure.

Governors Gird For Findlay After Big Win

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn. — Twenty-three years of frustration against Middle Tennessee State University were wiped out of the minds of the Austin Peay State University football team Saturday night when the Raiders swamped the Governors 46-13 for the Governors' most one-sided win ever over MTSU.

In the long and bitter rivalry, APU had managed two previous wins, but never in such a convincing and devastating manner.

Standouts on defense for APU included Bruce Gibbs (seven tackles and two assists); Doug Pittenger (six tackles, four assists and a pass deflection stopping a first down effort); Bill Blair (four tackles, five assists and a deflection); Jimmy Hardie (two pass interceptions and five punt returns); and Martin Ogles (31 yard TD on a pass interception).

OFFENSIVELY, quarterback Dyer, tailback Ronnie Simpson, wingback Fuqua, fullback Ronnie Hackney and ends Harold Roberts and Chuck Field were outstanding.

Dyer completed nine of 21 passes for 116 yards and three touchdowns; Simpson gained 119 yards in 23 carries and scored one TD; Hackney gained 61 yards in three carries, the big run being a 54 yard touchdown blast, carrying the last MTSU defender 10 yards into the end zone on his back; Roberts established a career mark in touchdown passes caught by snaring his 13th and 14th TD aerials; Field caught five passes; and Fuqua snared three for 81 yards and one touchdown.

The Govs' victory Saturday left them with a 2-3 over-all mark and a 2-2 OVC mark, which puts them in sole possession of fourth place in the conference.

The week the Govs will step out of the league as they play host to the Findlay Oilers of Findlay, Ohio. Last season the Oilers handed the Govs a 14-0 defeat.

THE OILERS had a 2-3 record prior to last Saturday. The game this week will be the first of three straight home games for APU.

similar to university academic personnel.

THE ATHLETIC director post at the university has been vacant since December when Bernie A. Shively, who had served since 1930, died unexpectedly. Assistant basketball coach Harry Lancaster has been serving as acting athletic director.

The UK Board of Trustees this summer voted to postpone action on naming William McCubbins, head of the physical education department at Virginia Tech, as athletic director. Bradshaw was the only other person being seriously considered for the job at that time and it was felt the board's decision virtually assured him of the job.

McCubbins later withdrew his name from consideration upon learning of the board's move.

Bradshaw, 43, a native of Montgomery, Ala., played end for Kentucky during the Paul "Bear" Bryant years at UK in the late 1940s. He returned to his alma mater as head coach in 1962.

SOCCER WIN

ATLANTA 975 — The United States soccer team, which kept its World Cup hopes alive with a 1-0 victory over Canada on Saturday night in a qualification match, will meet Bermuda Nov. 3 in Kansas City in the first of two matches between the teams.

Forward Dietrecht Albrecht scored on a free kick Saturday night for the victory over Canada, previously unbeaten in the three-team tournament. The winner of the U. S.-Canada-Bermuda series will go to the 1970 World Cup competition in Mexico City.

ROCKINGHAM, N. C. 975 — Richard Petty captured the American 500 stock car race with a record speed of 105,000 miles per hour.

Senior Girl Scouts Plan "Speakout" For Next Sunday

Senior Girl Scouts in every Girl Scout Council in the United States are planning a Senior Speakout the first weekend in November.

This is another Senior Scout first—Seniors taking a sharp look at what they can do to break down the walls of prejudice and to cement understanding among all girls.

The Senior planning board, representing each Senior Troop in the Bear Creek Girl Scout Council, has planned the Speakout for Bear Creek at the Temple Israel, Paducah on Sunday, November 3, from two to four o'clock in the afternoon.

Bobbie Max Kaufman will welcome the girls and Bro. Beda Keller of St. Mary's High School will give the kick-off speech.

The girls will then divide into small groups for discussion. The leader of each group will be a man or woman selected by the Senior Planning Board.

Following the discussion groups, the girls will meet to give a summary of their ideas and bring forth any concrete ways of combating prejudice.

Karen Smith of Paducah is the chairman of the speakout and Mrs. David Gold of Paducah is the Senior Volunteer Advisor.

Old Lady Has Eyes for Him

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 21-year-old male and unattached, also a steady worker and mind my own business. My best friend is married, has a wife and baby and they live with HER people.

They have no transportation, so I visit them quite often. While I am there, I am in the company of her parents. Now for my problem: My friend's mother-in-law wrote to me declaring her "love" for me. Abby, I have never even looked sideways at this old lady and I don't know what gave her the idea that I could care for her. I hate to go to their house again, knowing how she feels about me. But if I stay away, my buddy will wonder why.

Should I tell him about this? Or is there a better way to handle it?

INNOCENT VICTIM DEAR VICTIM: Don't mention this to your buddy or his wife, and don't go to his house any more than is necessary. But when you do, be sure you continue to mind your own business and make sure sure you don't look at the old lady sideways or any other way. If she pitches you again, tell her (quietly) to confine her "love" to her own husband.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem you wouldn't believe. I am 16 years old, and for as long as I can remember I haven't done anything without cheating. I have also stolen all my life. I started when I was little, taking small things from my friends. I have even shoplifted and stolen money just to get away with something.

I've never been caught. I guess I'm just lucky, or maybe I'm good at it from so much experience. I am also a terrible liar. I lie just to get people to listen to me. I don't have any friends, but I'd like at least one good friend. I'm always trying to impress people, but I just end up making a fool of myself.

I'd like to be a good person but I don't have the willpower. I need some help before it's too late, if it's not too late already. So, Dear Abby, what can you do for a 16-year-old failure?

FAILURE DEAR FAILURE: No one who knows his faults as well as you know yours can be considered a "failure." Furthermore, you are realistic enough to blame nobody but yourself for your weaknesses, smart enough to know that you lie because you want to attract attention, and sufficiently honest to admit that you want friends. If there is a school counselor or psychologist, make tracks for that office. If not, tell your parents you'd like to see a professional about some "personal emotional" problems. If you get the help you need, I'll put my chips on you!

DEAR ABBY: I baby-sit for a very nice lady I'll call Mrs. Jones. She has a 4-year-old child. Mrs. Jones has a sister who lives on the other side of town who has a pair of wild twin boys about the same age as Mrs. Jones' little girl. When I come to sit for Mrs. Jones, I will very often find the twin cousins there because Mrs. Jones and her sister are going off together. Abby, I don't mind this at all, but when I have to bathe three children, give them their dinners and put them to bed, not to mention trying to keep them from getting into things they shouldn't, and keeping them from fighting, don't you think I should get paid extra?

Well, I don't. The two mothers split the cost between them and I get paid only for taking care of one. Is this fair? How should I explain this to Mrs. Jones the next time this happens?

GYPPED DEAR GYPPED: Don't wait for it to "happen" again. Tell Mrs. Jones before you sit that you charge by the child, and not by the hour.

DEAR ABBY: I am sick to death of hearing widows complain because people call them MRS. JANE.DOE instead of the more proper MRS. JOHN DOE.

I'm a widow, and I couldn't care less about what people call me—as long as they CALL me. LONESOME IN L. A.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69706, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Foreigners Seek U.S. Cosmetics

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Women's cosmetics are one of America's best-selling products abroad, but the potentially large market for men's toiletries remains untapped, says a top executive for an international trading firm.

Peter Kenneth Cameron Scott, London-born cosmetics director for Frazar & Hansen, Ltd. of San Francisco, says, "American-made toiletries are the most universally accepted of all American products" around the world.

"Even the traditionally-famous French cosmetic houses fall to enjoy the world-wide acceptance of U.S. cosmetic manufacturers," Scott added.

Scott recently returned from a tour of 45 countries to drum up cosmetic business for his firm, which handles overseas marketing for U.S. manufacturers.

The tour convinced him of the existence of a large potential market for men's toiletries around the world. Already, Scott added, the demand for hair coloring by men in the Far East is "fantastic."

Let's All Move NEW YORK (UPI)—Residents of Bermuda get Thursday afternoons as well as the weekends off, reports Today's Secretary, a publication for gal Fridays.

The custom began years ago when there would be one ship in port from Monday until Wednesday, another from Friday to Saturday. So people started taking the Thursday afternoons off and enjoyed the custom so much it has remained.

What's newly afoot for men for fall and winter? The buckle boot, reports the American Institute for Men's and Boys' Wear. Look for the boots in ankle lengths with two cross straps in the front, placing the buckle near the back.

Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper
NOT MANY BOOKS or motion pictures created the impact of Pierre Boulle's "Bridge Over the River Kwai"—yet few Americans realize that the anti-war novel and movie is indeed based upon historical fact.

Nor do they know that, near the bridge, some 9,000 English, American, Australian and Dutch prisoners-of-war lie buried in the Donrak War Cemetery, behind the Kanchanaburi railway station, and at Khoo Poon War Cemetery south of town.

The bridge was constructed with the sweat, blood and tears of Allied prisoners in Thailand during World War II.

The Thai Railway Authority operates special trains along the 80-mile route each week-end and on holidays from Bangkok to the bridge, leaving Bangkok station at 9 a.m. and arriving at the bridge at 11:07 a.m. The return trip departs at 12:51 p.m., arriving at Bangkok at 3:50 p.m.

ALTHOUGH the actual facts of the bridge construction differed somewhat from the dramatic detail of the book and film, the structure has its own dynamic history. The bridge was an important rail link the Japanese army built by using Allied prisoners from Ban Pong across the nearby Burmese border.

The line was dubbed "Death Railway" because it reputedly caused the death of one Allied soldier for every sleeper laid—his estimated 9,000 prisoners of war died in the building of the railway.

The famed bridge itself is about three miles from Kanchanaburi, a town of 13,000 at the confluence of the Great and Little Rivers Khwae, in a region which has played a vital role in both modern and ancient Thai history.

UNDER the merciless rays of a steaming jungle Sun, during World War II, a group of prisoners of war worked on the Thailand-Burma railroad. Not far from the Little Khwae, along the railroad bed, an emaciated prisoner found a stone implement bearing the characteristics of a Neolithic pebble tool.

The prisoner was a well-known Dutch archeologist, Dr.

H. R. van Heerken, and he found many other evidences of the Neolithic culture during his long stay in the steaming jungles.

Following the war Dr. Van Heerken published a book on his findings and, in 1966, an American archeologist, Dr. Karl Heider, collected an additional number of the stone age tools and bronze age artifacts. A Thai-Danish prehistoric expedition followed, and eight years ago a preliminary expedition was mounted leading to further dramatic finds which have been enlarged upon ever since.

SKELETONS up to 10,000 years old have been found, as have ceramics, burial gifts, coffins, human bones, and bronze sculptures from the 15th and the 16th centuries.

Kanchanaburi may be reached by road from Bangkok as well as by rail, along a route which leads through the nation's oldest city, Nakorn Pathom, where Buddhism was first introduced into Thailand, and which city dates back to 150 B.C. Daily rail service, slower than the week-end excursions, is unpredictable because the trains stop at remote jungle communities en route.

Wild jungles, rich mineral deposits, green teak forests and rugged hills abound in the province, where some 234,000 people live.

For the visitor wishing to spend the night at Kanchanaburi town, there are small and inexpensive rest-houses with adequate facilities.

Containerized Travelers Seen as Solving Problem Of Long Trip To Airports

By RUTH FEUERSTEIN

CHICAGO (UPI) — An architect says he has an answer to the complaint that the longest and hardest part of a trip often is getting from home to the airport.

Martin B. Schaffer, chairman of the board of an airplane architectural firm, (Avtech), envisions "containerized" passengers transported from near-by their homes to the airplane and then to their destination without ever leaving the seats in which they started out.

Schaffer, who served as project coordinator of construction of O'Hare International Airport in Chicago, says "new airport facilities will be obsolete before they leave the drawing board" unless some drastic changes are made.

"Airlines already have enough equipment in the air and on order to swamp every airport in the country by 1970," he said.

"Getting through traffic to the airport and the handling of passengers and their baggage becomes more of a problem daily," Schaffer said, "but with plans for 500 and 750 passenger planes to go into service in the next few years our airports will become chaotic."

Schaffer emphasized that bigger airports with more buildings are not the answer.

Schaffer's airport of the future has no large terminal buildings but consists mainly of runways for jets and circular landing pads for vertical takeoff planes. These planes are presently in the design stage, Schaffer said, and resemble helicopters except they go faster and are propelled by rotating engines instead of blades.

Schaffer said long, tiring drives out to the airport followed by parking problems, long ticket lines, baggage check-in lines and then the long walk to the boarding area would be eliminated by his new transportation system.

Travel in "Pods" Schaffer foresees passengers with their baggage boarding a "pod" from gathering points in the area serviced by the airport. Schaffer explained that the "pods" would be car-like compartments running on either monorails, through tunnels like a subway system or on an air cushion.

Several "pods", carrying about 75 passengers each, would be scheduled for a specific flight, Schaffer said, and after picking up the passengers at designated stops, would go directly out to the field.

Instead of seats for passengers, airplanes would consist of a large frame in which the "pods" would be inserted, the way baggage compartments are inserted into a frame now, Schaffer said.

The "pods" could then be detached from the air frame upon landing and carry the passengers away to different points at their destination, he said.

"We've got the technology to build this type of system within the next 15 years," Schaffer said.

Schaffer estimated the cost of running the billions but said the 200 to 300 new airports which will be built anyway within the next decade would cost at least as much.

"If the new airports are built the way the present ones are, they'll be outmoded within a few years," he said. "The system I envision would include a very expensive transportation system, but should eliminate the need for large, costly terminal buildings."

"And the system has the added advantage of being a city-wide transportation network for people who are not taking trips."

Anti-Smog War Is Comfortable

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Another front has been opened in the auto industry's war against air pollution and the battle-field is quite comfortable.

This anti-smog battle is being fought in an unusual new building put up by ACP Industries here for the precise testing and adjustment of carburetors so they will meet the strict requirements of the Federal Clean Air Act.

Barometric pressure, temperature and humidity must be closely controlled so that the carburetors will give the necessary uniform performance. The building, therefore, had to be designed to withstand differences in inside and outside air pressure, and employees and materials must enter and exit through air locks to maintain the stable and pleasant climatic conditions.

Incentive RICHMOND, Wash. (UPI) — Justice of the Peace Albert Yencopal has instructed Richmond police to call the parents of minors arrested on charges of drinking immediately after the arrests instead of waiting until the youngsters sober up.

He said he wanted parents to see their sons and daughters in the city "drunk tank" to give them more incentive to influence the youngsters against drinking.

Old Chestnut DULUTH, Minn. (UPI) — Contrary to popular belief, the water chestnut is not a chestnut at all. It is a tuber which grows in the soil under five to 10 feet of water, according to Chun King, producer of American-Oriental food products. It is most often used to add crispness to various Oriental dishes.

Although some of these home-invading insects are "biters" that can bother both pets and humans — chiggers, dog ticks, ants and some flies, for example — most are just crawling nuisances that are unsightly in the home. Among those insects that seek a warm home are earwings, millipedes, clover mites, springtails, box elder bugs and the common roach.

Leaving the window screens on longer than usual is not the answer to barring these home invaders, Geigy says.

To stop these invaders before they penetrate hearth and home, Geigy suggests a "bug barrier" around the house, using one of the newer insecticides designed to control many varieties of insect.

This "bug barrier," Geigy says, should be created by applying a band of insecticide five to 15 feet wide around the entire perimeter of the house.

To be most effective, the insecticide must cover every shrub, lawn, walk and driveway, including patio, steps and even doorsteps that are at ground level.

For shrub areas, as well as walks and drives, a liquid spray has been found to be most effective. Lawns can be treated with either liquid or with a granular insecticide applied with a lawn spreader.

To get any invaders that might escape the barricade, have on hand a pressurized spray. You'll most likely find these pests in dark, moist areas such as basement, under sinks and in the bath.

HOMES Insects Invade Home in Winter

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — When winter comes, the insects go — at last.

That's what a lot of people think, but it isn't always true. There are just as many insects around in winter as in summer. Some of them you can find only if you know where to look. These are the ones that winter over in the soil, in trash or on trees and shrubs in a dormant stage.

There are others, however, that stay active over winter and are easily seen — often in places most homeowners would rather not see them.

This is a select group of insects that know when fall comes it is time to start looking for warmer quarters — the nearest warm building; perhaps your house. These Geigy Chemical Corp. calls the "home invaders."

Although some of these home-invading insects are "biters" that can bother both pets and humans — chiggers, dog ticks, ants and some flies, for example — most are just crawling nuisances that are unsightly in the home. # Young Opponent May Unseat Sen. Morse

By RICHARD H. SYRING

Central Press Association Correspondent

PORTLAND, Ore. — Youth must be served. That fact, youth, plus a lot of disgruntled Democrats in Oregon, could spell defeat this November for U.S. Sen. Wayne D. Morse, Democrat.

The senior senator, age 68, is running behind in many polls. Leader is challenger Robert W. Packwood, vigorous Portland attorney, who was only 36 on Sept. 11. That's Teddy Kennedy's age.

The Republican, who bills himself as "The Constructive Challenger," is perhaps one of the best trained young men in the business when it comes to political skills. In 1960-1962 he was Republican chairman of Oregon's highly populated Multnomah County — the youngest chairman in the county's history.

In 1962 and for three successive sessions, Bob Packwood can, who reportedly has a long memory. When Duncan ran against Hatfield two years ago, Morse supported and campaigned for Republican Hatfield for U.S. senator.

Next month Packwood will go to the polls with a unified Republican party behind him. Against a Medford business man, only in Oregon for a year, Packwood ran up 241,464 votes for the nomination. Morse's total was 185,091. Richard Nixon polled 203,037 votes by comparison, and Oregon has always been Nixon country. He defeated John F. Kennedy in 1960 by 41,000 votes.

"I've been running hard since February," Packwood admits, although there was an important break last March when he was chosen Portland's Junior First Citizen for 1967. He has averaged two major appearances a day since then. And he's shaken the hands of thousands of Oregon voters. He does draw the line at kissing babies, though.

Oregon voters have seen more of Senator Morse than at any time in the last 12 years. Mrs. Morse has returned to Oregon to plump for her husband; so has a married daughter.

The senator has every reason in the world to be worried. In Oregon's primary last May, he had a federal log export curtailment tacked onto the foreign aid bill.

POLLS have shown that Packwood's name familiarity is steadily increasing. A county fair poll in Eugene, situated in Oregon's second most populated Lane County, gave Packwood 1,083 votes to Morse's 859. And Eugene is the Morse family's home address, at least for voting purposes.

Both candidates face the task of firming party lines. Morse did gain some popularity among Oregon rich timber owners and processors, when he successfully had a federal log export curtailment tacked onto the foreign aid bill.

However, Packwood supporters point to the fact that Sen. Ernest Gruening, aged Democrat from Alaska, was defeated even for nomination, showing how old-timers can be unseated. Morse has continually trumpeted how he and Gruening were the only two senators to vote against the Tonkin Bay resolution.

VIETNAM is no issue in Oregon, despite the fact that Morse is a leading dove. Packwood says, "I certainly would not vote against military appropriation or vilify the President, the military or secretary of State."

Packwood believes no military victory can be achieved and that "American policy in Vietnam must insist that Saigon undertake immediate reforms to make the government truly representative. . . . All the arable land in South Vietnam can be purchased for about $500 million — the cost of fighting the war for a week. Land reforms would, for the first time, give the peasants a stake in the government."

Packwood is confident that his youth and "foot power," as he calls it, will carry him to victory. He has yet to be beaten in any election.

Burt — the "Birdman" — Finally Flies

By ARMY ARCHERD

Central Press Association Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — Burt Lancaster says he is basically playing himself in his current film, "The Gypsy Moths." He portrays a sky diver. Burt further plays a rugged, uncomplicated, no-nonsense male who happens to believe sky-diving is simply his way of life, just like other men are cut out to be doctors, lawyers or actors.

Of course, we could say that sky-diving is not too far away from Burt's first love in the circus — on the trapeze. But 12,000 feet in a plane is a little different than 120-feet under the big top — parachute or no chute, net or no net.

"I think that actors are chosen for parts in general, for your very appearance and your natural personality form the basis for the characterization."

WE AGREED Burt has some credits which tend to bear this out. For example, his physical capabilities were well-illustrated in "Brute Force," "Jim Thorpe," "Trapeze" (of course), "From Here to Eternity," to name a few. However, his appearance heavily contrasted with such tender roles as "Separate Tables," "Come Back Little Sheba" — and even "Birdman of Alcatraz." His super-bravado, so well-imitated by comedian-impersonators, was super-illustrated by Burt when he won his Oscar for "Elmer Gantry."

"What I mean," Lancaster smiled, revealing that sometimes cruel, now smiling set of ivory, "is that movies tend to simulate utter realism."

"On the other hand, on the stage, an actor tries to create a character that is something strictly between him and the audience. It doesn't have to do much with what he looks like or what he is. For example, it's possible for a woman of 40 to play Juliet on stage and be fabulous." However, we doubt if any producer would cast a middle-aged Juliet for the film role. As for "Romeo" — well, a producer might think of Lancaster for him — if Juliet were also up-dated — and she happened to be, say Deborah Kerr, with whom Burt co-stars in "Gypsy Moths," and with whom he co-starred also in "From Here to Eternity" and "Separate Tables."

BEFORE returning to Hollywood filming of the sky-diving epic, Lancaster spent a summer filled with memories. The New York-born, world-traveling actor's memories were revived not in some exotic corner of the globe, but on the plains of Burt Lancaster says he's type-cast-as sky-diver.

Kansas. It was there, 30 years ago, when he was hitch-hiking across the country that Burt got his first plane ride — in a biplane in a daredevil show. No global flight (first class) since that time matched the thrill of that flight, recalls Burt.

Further, in his career as a trapeze artist, Lancaster appeared in a Topka theater. But the fondest, or most outstanding memories are those he recalls at Fort Riley and early 1943. He was sent there after the Fort Dix, N.J., center induction for introduction to the Army.

HERE Burt got his feet thoroughly calloused in show biz via Army shoes. He formed a camp show which toured bases throughout the U.S. and overseas. It decided his future — as an actor.

It also made for many lasting friendships, one ended during the making of "Gypsy Moths" — when Irving Burns, who joined Burt at Ft. Riley, died. He remained Lancaster's pal and his wardrobe man up to and including this film, his 40th since starting in Mark Hellinger's "The Killers."

Burt, a perfectionist, spent several weeks on the location, working with professional sky-divers to learn the techniques of their craft, the use of their gear — and their attitudes, as well. They respected his appreciation of their craft and life. And of course his physical stamina.

LANCASTER made a "parashut" flight, soaring 100-plus feet into the air strapped into a chute, while being towed into the wind by a car. However, he did not make an actual jump — although he did crawl into the small foot-stand from which jeans are made — at 12,000 feet.

Had it been up to Burt, we're certain he would have made the jump. However, a few producers, agents, business managers, insurance men, etc. would have jumped out of their skins if they thought Burt did it. Hmmm, we wonder if he really did — or did not make it?

Knowing Burt's penchant for realism, we suspect perhaps he and his close pal, director John Frankenheimer, aren't telling everything. Both believe in accuracy. Both believe in today's action. As a matter of fact, both believe so much in today's speed, they both got speeding tickets while making the picture. But that was on the ground, of course.

Big Paper-Making ST. HELENS, Ore. (UPI) — Chinese inventor Tsai Lun, who developed a paper-making mould in 2 A.D., probably wouldn't believe a new $10 million paper machine at Boise Cascade's mill here.

Name Fooled 'Em PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Two gunmen escaped from Security Escrows here recently with $6.02.

The robbers — thinking the establishment was a bank — found only 2 cents in the cash box. Their big $6 haul came from a secretary's purse.

Introducing the 1969 Volkswagens. They're harder to take than ever.

Once upon a time, you couldn't give away a Volkswagen.

But with all the improvements we've made over the years, things have changed.

Now people actually steal them. To help stop this, we're putting a new ignition/steering wheel lock in every 1969 VW.

When you shut off the ignition and remove the key, it locks the front wheels in position.

So if someone ever breaks in and jumps the wires, he'll probably wind up just going in circles.

He may even end up going straight. Of course, this isn't our only improvement for '69. There are 28 others. Including an optional fully-automatic transmission for the Fastback and Squareback.

(The bug and Ghia have our optional automatic stick shift. Which we introduced earlier this year.)

Whichever VW suits you best, the best way to see all its changes is with a test drive.

Because, as usual, most of our improvements aren't on the outside where you can look at them.

They're deep down inside. Where they make new VWs run better.

And where they don't make old VWs look obsolete.

England's Old Sheep Dog Now "In" Pooch of Year

An English shepherd and his trusty sheep dog.

By JOSEPH WHITT

Central Press Association Correspondent

LONDON—There has been a shift in English dog "styles." The old English sheep dog is the "in" dog this year. "We can't breed enough of them," said a British dog breeder. "Englishmen are buying them and so are many Americans. About 237 were exported to the United States for breeding purposes. And we have orders for many more."

Fashions in dogs change, the breeder explained, but apparently all the experts were taken by surprise by the sheep dog's victory. "The Beattles own one," the breeder said. "So do the Kennedys. Yet the original sheep dog was more at home with a shepherd. It was usually a drover's dog. Its job was to protect sheep and cattle, and to drive them from the hills to the market."

The owners of sheep dogs were usually poor folk. And their dogs were exempt from taxation as working dogs. "What's strange about the sheep dog becoming fashionable now is that it is a rather large dog and needs much living space. Most people live in small homes."

Also its coat needs attention and people just don't have the time for such a chore. Besides, it is definitely a breed of humble origin. "In 1936 the cocker spaniel finally defeated the Alsatian and held the championship until 1954—when it lost out to the miniature poodle," the breeder said.

"Only a short while later the Alsatian broke the so-called rule that a former champion never makes a comeback. It looks all set for the present time. It has had a great publicity boost from the police and the armed forces."

"The sheep dog is strong competition for any of the other breeds. It is an excellent guard, as any shepherd can tell you. It isn't bothered by any kind of climate—hot or cold. "Despite its ambling walk, it is really agile. It is at its best in the wide open spaces where it can move at a fast gallop. It is alert, trainable and very intelligent."

"Will the old English sheep dog move from 'in' dog to top dog? No one knows. But it'll certainly put up a good fight."

ually be a bit more clean and honest than the process of running most other social institutions.

The following was picked up from the First Baptist Church bulletin, and is entitled "Beatitudes for Friends of the Aged".

"Blessed are they who understand shaking hand.

"Blessed are they who know that my ears today must strain to catch the word they say.

"Blessed are they who seem to know that my eyes are dim and my wits are slow.

"Blessed are they who looked away when coffee spilled today.

"Blessed are they with a cheery smile who stop to chat for a while.

"Blessed are they who never say, 'you've told that story twice today.'"

"Blessed are they who know the ways to bring back lovely yesterdays.

"Blessed are they who make it known that I am loved, not left alone.

"Blessed are they who know the loss of strength I need to bear the cross.

"Blessed are they who ease the days on my journey home in so many loving ways."

One thing a young person should know about older people is that they just get tired, by golly. There is no other way to explain it, except that your get up and go, just gets up and goes.

You get to the point where it is a heck of a lot easier to do nothing than it is to do something. One thing for sure, it will reach everyone, sooner or later. However as Uncle Charlie used to say, "It's better to get old than not to."

Population and Power ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—The declining cost of nuclear-generated electric power may make it possible for the world to support 9 billion people along current U.S. standards.

So says Harrison Brown, a geochemist and professor at the California Institute of Technology. Brown, speaking at a University of Michigan conference on "Fertility and Family Planning", called the dropping cost of nuclear-generated electricity a "quiet revolution" by which new developments in agricultural methods could open up vast areas of the world for human habitation on a self-supporting basis. It would make possible the support of 40 billion persons at subsistence levels, or 9 billion by U.S. levels of consumption, he said.

Toadstool Park near Crawford, Neb., is so named because rock formations resemble toadstools.
