MOON FLIGHT GETS OFF TO GOOD START

Apollo Thunders Out Into Space On Pillar Of Fire

By AL ROSSITER Jr., UPI Space Writer
CAPE KENNEDY — Apollo 8, thundering on a pillar of flame and smoke into history's greatest adventure, carried three astronauts into an aiming orbit today for man's first voyage around the moon.

"We seem to be going along well," announced Navigator James Lovell as he, Command Pilot Frank Borman and systems engineer William Anders soared into a brief layover in earth orbit before beginning the lonely, six-day journey around the moon and back.

The astronauts selected to become the first men ever to see the dark side of the moon were "operating in strictly businesslike fashion," ground controllers reported, as they made final checks before blasting away from their 118-mile high orbit.

A "go-no go" decision on the historic breakaway was expected by midmorning.

If all goes well, Apollo 8 will drop into orbit 69 miles above the moon on Christmas eve and circle the eerie lunar landscape 10 times.

"Lift-off," cried Borman joyously as the engines of the 36-story Saturn 5, the biggest rocket men have ever ridden, speared out of a massive cloud of smoke exactly on schedule at 7:51 a. m. EST. They reached earth orbit 11 and one-half minutes later.

"All looks great," flight controllers told the astronauts.

The rocket rose majestically out of a massive cloud of smoke that spouted a quarter mile into the air at blast-off.

The spaceship soared across the blue sky, glittering whitely in the early morning sun and trailing a 600-foot spear of flame.

The first and second stages broke away on schedule and the third stage remained with the spacecraft to blast it out of orbit. The assembly weighed a record 253,213 pounds as it circled earth.

"Staging was smooth," Borman reported, "and the ride now is even smoother." He and his companions appeared well on their way to becoming the first men ever to see the dark side of the moon.

Apollo 8 was headed toward a 119-mile high earth orbit. It was to circle the earth twice while the astronauts made final checks of its systems. Then, shortly after 10 a. m., Borman was to restart the rocket's third stage and blast away from orbit toward the moon.

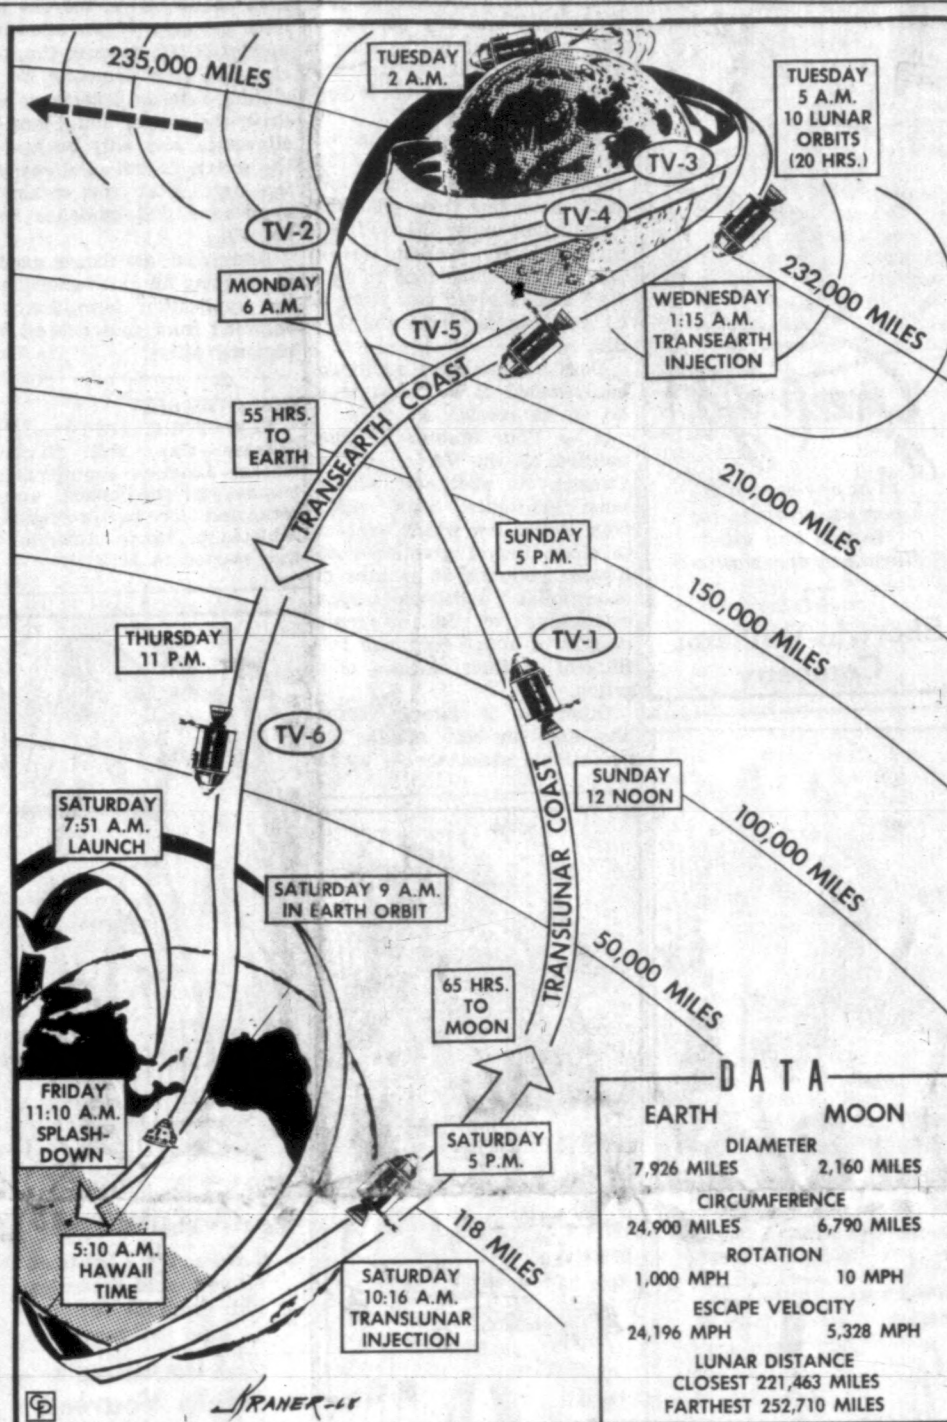

Astronaut Michael Collins at Houston told Borman the moonship's course was on target.

The 36-story Saturn 5, the mightiest rocket men have ever flown, cleared its 445-foot unblighted tower with agonizing slowness 10 seconds after its huge engines ignited.

At the moment of ignition a river of orange flame burst from the bottom of the rocket, sending a towering column of smoke up over the oceanside launch pad and obscuring the rocket to the view of tourists until it was far above the unblighted tower.

It emerged from the shroud of smoke with deliberate majesty, gleaming white in the early morning sun in the first seconds of the lonely six-day journey.

THIS SCHEMATIC of the Apollo 8 flight simplifies the navigation of lunar orbit and back. Astronauts Borman, Lovell and Anders aim for a spot in space way ahead of the Moon on leaving Earth, somewhat like skeet shooters "leading" a target. It is believed observations of unseen far side of Moon will increase knowledge of that area by 300 fold.

Local Woman Killed Near Memphis Friday In Auto Accident

Mrs. Ruby Mae Smotherman, wife of Tommy Smotherman of Murray Route Three, was killed in an automobile accident on Interstate 55 near West Memphis, Ark., last night about seven o'clock.

Also killed in the accident was Mrs. Smotherman's brother-in-law, Albert C. Smotherman of Hayti, Mo.

The funeral home spokesman said the accident occurred at the 7th Street overpass on Interstate 55. Reports are that a car rammed the Smotherman car from the rear, causing the Smotherman car to turn over and roll across the interstate highway.

Luke 2:11

"And so we come again to Christmas with all its color and joy, its magic and wonder, its spirit of good will and warmth. But how do we come to Christmas? What it means to us depends on what we bring to it."

City Police, And Firemen Accept Hike

Mayor Holmes Ellis announced this morning that he had met with representatives of the Police Department and Fire Department in an effort to resolve the pay increases requested by both departments of the City of Murray.

Mayor Ellis said that in order to resolve the issue of pay increases, that the Police and Fire Departments have agreed to accept the 9% pay increase proposed by the Mayor and City Council, and Mayor Ellis further agreed that should the Mayor and Council during the year of 1969 find additional sources of revenue available, and if the City's finances permitted, that he would recommend to the Council that the pay increase sought by the Police Department be made effective during the year of 1969, and that the same would also be applicable to the Fire Department.

The Police Department indicated that they would immediately proceed to fulfill all the duties and responsibilities of the Department and acknowledged appreciation to the Mayor for his continued efforts on behalf of the City and its employees.

Both departments had threatened walkouts or slowdowns if demands for large pay increases were not met. Efforts were made this week by the Ledger and Times for a conference with Police Chief Brent Manning to get the full viewpoint of the City Police Department, however he would not meet with the newspaper representative.

Unconfirmed reports are that Chief Manning will resign his office as of January 1, 1969.

He refused an order from the Willow Run High School principal to have his hair cut, and got "some time off," but no suspension. Ashmall says his hair is not the real issue. Veterans Questions and Answers

Q — Will the Veterans Administration pay a 1969 dividend on the National Service Life insurance policy I have had in force from World War II? (I converted it to a permanent plan policy in 1960.) When will the dividend be paid and must I make application for it? I recently borrowed half of the cash value of my policy. Will this affect the amount of my 1969 NSLI dividend?

A — To answer your question in order:
Yes, VA will pay a 1969 dividend on World War II NSLI policies (converted or not) just as in past years.

The dividend will be paid automatically on the anniversary date of the policy as you need not apply to VA for it.

The fact that you borrowed against the cash surrender value of the policy will not reduce the amount of your dividend. You are, of course, paying four per cent interest on your NSLI loan and any amount of the loan unpaid at the time of your death will be deducted from the insurance paid to your beneficiaries.

Q — I read recently that veterans in service after the Korean Conflict (after Jan. 31, 1955) have had their education entitlement under the G. I. Bill increased. My brother was in service from June 1963 to June 1965 and received two years of college training under the G. I. Bill.

Does he now have additional entitlement? If so, what must he do to receive it?

A — Your brother is being notified by the VA of his entitlement to additional educational assistance. This results from a new law which went into effect Dec. 1 granting Post-Korean veterans 36 months of educational assistance upon completion of 18 or more months of active duty and fulfillment of their military obligation.

Otherwise a veteran earns one and one-half months of educational assistance — up to the maximum of 36 months — for each month of service.

Previously, entitlement was limited to one month of assistance for each month of service.

Your brother should advise VA of the additional education he desires. His revised Certificate of Eligibility has already been computed and will be issued to him soon after receipt of his application.

Q — I was permanently blinded while serving with the Army in Viet-Nam. Obviously, I cannot drive a car. However, am I eligible for an allowance toward the purchase of an automobile which my wife can drive?

A — Yes. Even though a veteran cannot drive, the law permits payment of an allowance up to $1,600 toward the purchase of an automobile for an eligible veteran if someone will drive the car for him. Since the allowance may only be paid to the seller, do not take any action until after you obtain an application and guidance from the VA.

Additional assistance needed in applying for this benefit, and the application form, may be obtained from your nearest VA regional office.

BOATING

By JACK WOLISTON

NEW YORK (UPI) — The latest amphibian to hit the market is a somewhat weird-looking six-wheeled vehicle that moves across land at a top speed of 35 miles per hour but at a considerably slower rate when it takes to the water.

Called the Amphicat, it weighs a little less than 80 pounds and has a carrying capacity of 480 pounds, with seats for two and a large cargo bin. It is 81 inches long, 53 inches wide and 34 inches tall.

The double-use vehicle is powered by a 16-horsepower air-cooled engine which drives six fat, low-pressure tubeless tires. The wheels, three on a side, act almost like tank treads, allowing the Amphicat to crawl over mud, sand and rough terrain.

In the water, low ridges on the tires act as a sort of paddlewheel, providing a speed of about two miles an hour. Provision is made for mounting an outboard aft and a five-horsepower motor, for example, will raise water speed to about five miles per hour.

So far, about 100 of the "cats" have been produced by Mobility Unlimited, a Royal Oak, Mich., firm headed by Andre Dubel, who will be showing his product at a number of boat shows around the country this year.

Right now, according to Dubel, its owners use it mostly for fun, but it also is used for fishing and skin-diving or as a dinghy for houseboats and cruisers.

"It's primarily a fun vehicle," says Dubel. "But we find some customers are using them in their work. For instance, a logging foreman uses one to check work sites and a telephone company has one for inspecting rural lines."

The controls consist of a hand throttle and two braking levers. A pull on the right lever brakes the three wheels on that side and the Amphicat turns right. The left lever controls the left-hand brakes. Pull both levers and the vehicle stops.

The two-piece body is constructed of an unbreakable molded ABS plastic called Cycloac, developed by Borg-Warner's Marbon Chemical Division. The first models were made of plastic, but Dubel switched to Cycloac on the grounds it is more durable and longer-lasting.

The big difference between the Amphicat and others of its breed, of course, are the tires, which were developed by B.F. Goodrich and use only one pound of pressure. This inflates them to a circumference of 5 1/4 feet.

Seen among new products at the early boat shows: —A cast aluminum safety deck which fits all transoms and allows safe boarding and debarking.

—A 12-foot clear plastic scuba pram with a free-flooding well and trap door with stairs down into the water, which permits divers easy entry and exit.

—A paint-on, liquid plastic which virtually lets you "mothball" the corrosive metals of your boat.

—A device which allows one person to hoist a good-sized boat from ground to car-top carrier.

—A surfboard with a small motor contained inside making it possible to ride on calm water with no surf at all.

—A non-metallic, plastic outboard propeller which alters shape slightly under heavy operation and is guaranteed against blade breakage.

Down the Garden Path

By Mrs. W. P. WILLIAMS

As we plan Christmas for our own loved ones and for the less fortunate, let's not forget another group of friends - the birds, who have given us pleasure through the year. Most of us have shrubs with berries that attract birds, but all of us can put out seed for them.

There is one thing to remember, however, and that is if we start feeding them it is wise to keep it up, especially when snow or ice cover the ground.

And let's not forget the water. Someone has suggested that, in severe weather, a brick be heated and placed in the container of water. It will keep the water at a temperature above freezing for a long time.

Melted suet packed with sunflower seed make an attractive tidbit for the larger birds, but even a handful of bread crumbs will be appreciated during times when there is no natural food.

Feeding birds is one kind act that is truly rewarding. They express their gratefulness with their twittering and an occasional song, but most of all with their mere presence at the feeder.

We might put out some corn for the squirrels, also. We are told that the acorn and nut supply is short this fall and these fuzzy little creatures may need help before the cold days are over.

Houses are becoming aglow with Christmas lights and pine boughs and holly berries, Christmas trees and tinsel, beautifully wrapped packages under the tree - all the glamor and glitter of the holiday season. But I think best of all it is a time of smiling faces, of good wishes, a hand held out to the unfortunate, a time when we say to each other, "God bless us, everyone."

Grace Noll Crowell, one of my favorite poets, has written a lovely bit of verse so I will let it be my message to you for Christmas:

Whatever else be lost among the years,
Let us keep Christmas still a shining thing:
Whatever doubts assail us, or what fears,
Let us hold close one day, remembering
Its poignant meaning for the hearts of men.
Let us get back our childlike faith again.

Mr. Thweatt's Day

PRINCIPAL APPRECIATION DAY: Mr. and Mrs. Barney Thweatt on Thursday, December 12, at North Marshall High School where Mr. Thweatt is principal.

Three weeks of top secretive activity came to an end Thursday, December 12, at North Marshall High School when Barney Thweatt, principal, was honored by the entire student body and faculty marking "Principal Appreciation Day". Mr. Thweatt was presented a three piece set of luggage, a gift of the faculty and students, as a token of appreciation for the new image the principal has given North Marshall High School.

Everyone associated with the school and Mrs. Thweatt were in on the top secret; of course, Mr. Thweatt was completely surprised. Reed Conder, superintendent of Marshall County Board of Education, had Mr. Thweatt on a trip for more than two hours on the morning of the big day so final preparations could be made.

Speakers included Mr. Breeden, Mrs. Fox, Herman Harrington, Janna O'Dell, and Reed Conder. The principal heard himself described as having the wisdom of Solomon, the patience of Job, and perseverance of David.

Mr. Thweatt presented Mr. Thweatt with letters of praise from Dr. Harry M. Sparks, MSU president, and Governor Louie B. Nunn.

Special guests other than Mrs. Thweatt were Shelby McCallum of Benton, state representative, and Tom Butler of Paducah for WPSD-TV.

Dear Abby

Boss 'Advances' For the Holidays

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 22, my friends say I'm pretty, and I am the new girl in a five-girl office. My boss told me if I needed a cash advance to buy Christmas presents he could arrange it and I wouldn't have to sign any notes or pay any interest. Then he took hold of both my shoulders and sort of pulled me toward him, but I made out like I thought it was a joke and I got away from him.

The truth is, I could sure use about $200, but I am wondering if it would be a mistake to accept a cash advance?
BETTY IN BUFFALO

DEAR BETTY: I hate to spoil your Christmas, Kiddo, but there ain't no Santa Claus. If you could use a little cash (and who couldn't?) borrow it from a bank and be prepared to pay a legitimate rate of interest. At least when the note comes due you won't have to wrestle your banker for it.

DEAR ABBY: How does a mother go about telling her 7-year-old son that she and his father are getting a divorce? On the advice of his attorney, my husband moved out of our house nearly 2 weeks ago, and I haven't the heart to tell our little boy that he is not coming back. (I told him that Daddy was away on a business trip.) Our son is a very sensitive child and he adores his father. How can I soften the blow?
CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: Tell him the truth—that his father and you have decided that you would be happier living apart. And be sure to mention the word "divorce." It is better that he hear it from you than from the neighbors or the kids at school.

DEAR ABBY: I am a young widow with three small children. My income is limited, but I do get a sitter in when I am invited out for an evening by a certain gentleman who has been paying me quite a lot of attention lately. Question: Would it be proper to ask the gentleman to pay for my sitter? He has lots of money and isn't stingy with it.
ORANGEBURG, S. C.

DEAR ORANGEBURG: It's not proper to ASK, but if you "hint" a little and he OFFERS, it's proper to accept.

DEAR ABBY: Is it true that a child born out of wedlock cannot be christened? Answer in the paper, please.
NEEDS TO KNOW

DEAR NEEDS: NO! A child born out of wedlock can indeed be christened, and special efforts are usually made to do so. Talk to your clergyman.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FINS & FEATHERS

Jerry and Jackie Russell of Aurora, along with Ronald Phillips, Phillip Bogard and Jimmie Burkeen of Murray, caught 18 coons on a hunt, Friday 13, in the Land Between the Lakes. The boys were accompanied by a Land Between the Lakes official, who went along to observe the hunt. The hunters had three dogs on the hunt, none of which is registered. Seventeen of the coons were brought home by the boys, who were home by midnight. The other coon was left behind, lodged in a tree.

GOLDEN POND, KENTUCKY, December 19—Center Station, the visitor reception building in the Conservation Education Center in Land Between the Lakes will be closed for renovation from December 23 through January 31, the Tennessee Valley Authority announced today.

The visitor reception building houses an information center, a theatre where films on Land Between the Lakes are shown, and displays of native wildlife, geological formations, relics of the local iron industry, and other area exhibits.

Visitors to the Conservation Education Center this winter are invited to hike the many woodland trails, visit the old iron furnace ruins, and see the wintering flock of Canadian geese from the Silo Overlook on Lake Barkley.

Many of the back country drives in Land Between the Lakes offer excellent opportunities to observe deer, wild turkey, bald and golden eagles, and other wildlife. Campers, hunters, and fishermen visiting the area can still enjoy the twenty (20) lake access areas that offer picnic tables, cooking grills, launching ramps, and chemical toilets. Four of these areas offer potable water year-round.

Several hunting seasons remain open in Land Between the Lakes. Squirrel season will be open through December 31. The quail and rabbit season in the Kentucky portion of Land Between the Lakes will remain open through January 31; the Tennessee season for these species will close December 31. The goose season will close January 12 throughout Land Between the Lakes. The duck season will close in Kentucky portion of the area on January 1; and the Tennessee portion on January 5. The raccoon and opossum season will close with two weekend hunts, on December 20 and 21 and January 10 and 11. A permit is required to hunt game in Land Between the Lakes. The permit can be acquired free of charge by presenting your hunting license at the TVA information office at Golden Pond.

Graves Morris and Edd Morgan killed 4 geese on December 18, 1968.

GOLDEN POND, KENTUCKY, December 17—Coon hunters are enjoying the most successful raccoon season in the history of Land Between the Lakes, the Tennessee Valley Authority announced today.

The first two of four weekend hunts were held December 6 and 7 and 13 and 14. A total of 149 hunting parties composed of 430 hunters participated in the two hunts tagging 274 raccoons. Two more weekend hunts are scheduled for December 20 and 21 and January 10 and 11.

"We are pleased with the results of the raccoon hunt," said W. Sherrill Milliken, Operations Manager for Land Between the Lakes. "Our raccoon population is unusually large this year and the success of the coon hunters is contributing to the overall success of our wildlife management program in Land Between the Lakes. We hope coon hunters in the surrounding area will take advantage of the two weekends remaining in the season."

Hunters are requested to check in and out of the three checking stations located in Land Between the Lakes. The stations are located at the intersection of Blue Springs Road and Tennessee Highway 49; TVA headquarters at Golden Pond; and on Kentucky Highway 453 near the former site of Twin Lakes, three miles south of Barkley Canal. The check-in stations open at 4:30 p.m. and hunting hours are from 5:00 p.m. to 11:00 p.m.

There is no limit on coons in the Kentucky portion of Land Between the Lakes; there is a limit of one per person in the Tennessee section. A small game permit is required to hunt raccoons in Land Between the Lakes. The permits can be acquired without charge by presenting your hunting license at the information office in Golden Pond or at any of the check-in stations. There is no hunting on Sunday in Land Between the Lakes.

Guidance Counsellor Is Important

By DAVID NYDICK UPI Education Specialist The guidance counsellor in a high school is a most important person in the individualization of the program. He or she is the one who can help and advise each individual student and the parent. The guidance counsellor should not always make the decisions but should try to help the individual arrive at his own understanding. The guidance counsellor can be the difference between success and failure of a student. What are some of the ways in which a counsellor can be helpful? Should a student be in a general, commercial, vocational or college preparatory program? The counsellor can help the student design a program and provide opportunities which are realistic and yet not limit his ambitions. High school students may develop social problems. The counsellor can be an excellent sounding board and advisor in helping the students arrive at solutions. A most important area of operations for the guidance counsellor is that of assisting with college admissions. This can be a difficult task for students who don't know how to go about it. Colleges vary in specialties, admission requirements, and size. The counsellor is familiar with many colleges and can be most help in suggesting appropriate choices. An area of concern which has received much recent publicity is that of drop-outs. Students drop out of school for a variety of reasons. Regardless of the cause, they may suffer for the rest of their lives. Research has shown that drop-outs are more likely to be unemployed. They face many financial problems as adults. The guidance counsellor can play an important role in helping these students to remain in school until graduation. All in all, the guidance counsellor has a very important part in a high school program. He is the person who can help each individual student to be a successful graduate and adult.

WAYNE, N.J. (UPI) - Human hair acts as a filter and traps nearly all the dirt it comes into contact with. As a result, city dwellers usually must shampoo more often than rural residents. Hair should be shampooed whenever it looks or feels dirty, no matter what the frequency, according to John H. Breck, Inc., producer of hair care products.

SKORZENY OUSTED

ROME UPI - The former Nazi SS colonel who freed Italian Dictator Benito Mussolini in World War II never got a chance to reenact his feat for television Wednesday. Italy ordered him home as an undesirable. Former Col. Otto Skorzeny who now is a businessman in Spain arrived in Italy for reconstruction of his exploit for a CBS television crew. Police met the plane and told Skorzeny he was unwelcome in Italy, putting him on the next plane out.

Named 4-H Forestry Winner

Roger Cline, 17, of Olive Hill, is the state's top 4-H forester this year. Cline, who has followed projects in the forestry program for three years, began by planting 2,000 black walnut trees. Since then he has completed studies and activities in conservation, forest safety and lumbering lore. He received the championship rosette and gold cup for his forestry demonstration at the Kentucky State Fair this year. "I have learned a greater respect for trees and the role they play in our lives," he said. "I also learned that many of our hardwood trees are now in great demand because there has not been an adequate replanting program to replace those cut."

Cline is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Cline. The elder Cline is a lumber inspector. Cline received a pen and pencil set from the American Forestry Institute, sponsor of the 4-H Forestry program. His work was selected for honors by the Cooperative Extension Service at the University of Kentucky.

Utah Champs

LEAVING THE MOON—This drawing illustrates the Apollo 8 starting for Earth from its Moon orbit by firing its 20,500-pound-thrust service propulsion system. This moves the spacecraft from lunar orbit and sends it into an Earth-bound trajectory.

voyage to the moon and back. Skies over the launch site cleared sufficiently during the night to allay concern that fog and low clouds might delay the launch. "This is very favorable for launch," a spokesman said. Everything else was reported "go." Tracking stations and recovery forces spread out around the world were ready. Confidence exuded from the thousands of persons who have been working for months to get Apollo 8 ready for its appointment with the moon. The 36-story rocket was bathed by floodlights and visible for miles to the pre-dawn darkness. Vapor swirled around the enormous space machine as technicians pumped 783,900 gallons of frigid liquid oxygen and liquid hydrogen into the three stages of the Saturn 5. At 2:30 a. m. EST, astronaut chief Duke Slayton awakened Borman, Lovell and Anders in their crew quarters at the manned spacecraft operations building. After passing a final physical checkup, the astronauts ate a breakfast of filet mignon, scrambled eggs and toast. At 4:32 a. m., bulky in their gleaming white spacesuits and bubble helmets, the astronauts filed out of the building. Borman first, followed by Lovell and then Anders. With their right hands they waved. In their left they carried their suit air conditioners. They were running about 10 minutes ahead of schedule. Slayton said the astronauts had a good night's sleep and were in "fine" spirits. He said they took "some goodies" in the way of mementoes in their personal kits, but refused to elaborate. "I see some stars up there," said Slayton, looking at the dark. "They're going to be real happy about that." The astronauts boarded the white van, decorated with blue and red stripes, for the six-mile ride to their spaceship. Lovell's wife Marilyn and their four children were on hand at the cape to see the launch—the third for the Navy captain, who has logged more time in space than anyone else. Susan Borman and Valerie Anders remained home in Houston to watch the spectacular launch on color television. A Late Christmas The three families planned to celebrate Christmas after the astronauts' return. Some of the moon pilots' gifts were expected to be mementoes carried around the moon. The $310 million moon orbiting journey was by far the most daring space journey ever attempted. But to Borman, "The risks are acceptable" and he considered them no greater than a fighter pilot's tour in Vietnam. The 580,000 mile voyage was expected to blaze a trail for Americans to land on the surface of the moon as early as July. A success also may add enormously to man's knowledge of the sphere that has awed and puzzled earthlings since the dawn of intelligence. Apollo 8 marked man's 51st try to inspect the celestial body that Galileo described 350 years ago as a world of mountains and chasms with contrasts of blinding light and total shadows. Robot machines made the first 50 moonshots and more than half failed. To get to the moon, the Apollo 8 astronauts had to aim toward a point in space where the moon will be Christmas Eve—like a duck hunter leading his target. Arrive Christmas Eve They are scheduled to rendezvous with the moon early Dec. 24. As Apollo 8 curves around the moon's back, Slayton said, Borman will fire a four-minute blast from the ship's main rocket engine to slow the craft and allow the Moon's gravity to pull it into lunar orbit 69 miles high. Once in orbit, the astronauts will see the earth as one of the finest sights in the heavens—shrunk in size but brilliantly drenched in sunlight over more than half its surface. The moon's surface below will appear like a gigantic drab wasteland—back to earth for pocked flats and awesome mountains. On the night before Christmas, the astronauts are expected to stage a special Yule telecast—one of six during their mission—back to earth for much of the world's television viewers to watch. After looping the Moon 10 times, the astronauts will trigger their 20,500 pound thrust rocket engine again to blast out of lunar orbit and head back to earth. It will be the most critical maneuver of the whole mission. If the rocket fails, the astronauts will be left to die in orbit around the moon. Apollo 8's cone-shaped command module will dive back into earth's atmospheric blanket at a sizzling 24,740 miles per hour—7,000 mph faster than previous returns of American and Soviet astronauts. The aircraft carrier Yorktown will be standing by 750 miles southwest of Hawaii to retrieve the astronauts after their pre-dawn splashdown Dec. 27.

GOD GRANT YOU The LIGHT of Christmas, Which is faith, The RADIANCE of Christmas, Which is hope, The WARMTH of Christmas, Which is love, The ALL of Christmas, Which is CHRIST!!

Rev. Warford pointed out something else we have touched on from time and that is entertaining international students at Murray State. Many are thousands of miles from home and will be alone this Christmas during the holidays.

A call to the university could place several of the students in homes for the holidays, or at least on Christmas Day.

Jackie Kennedy To Retire From The Public Eye, Report

NEW YORK UPI — Mrs. Aristotle Onassis has already made her New Year's resolution. She is going to retire to private life with no publicity, if she can help it. That was the word today from the former Mrs. John F. Kennedy's secretary, Nancy Tuckerman. "It's the way it's going to be," said Miss Tuckerman in refusing to divulge when Mrs. Onassis is flying to Europe to join her Greek shipping tycoon husband for the Christmas holidays, reportedly on the island of Skopelos. "From now on there will be no information as to where she is going and when she is going or anything else," Miss Tuckerman said in tones of definite finality. "That's the way she feels."

Mrs. Onassis' first venture forth as a strictly private person was her visit to Washington Tuesday to see the girl born to her former sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy, last week. She travelled by shuttle flight, used a rented limousine under protest, visited Arlington National Cemetery without notifying authorities, refused to use an airlines VIP room, and munched a hotdog at a stand-up airport lunch counter. From other sources it was learned that Mrs. Kennedy will leave New York by Friday night with her two children, Caroline and John, to meet Onassis, who has been in Paris this week. They will spend both Christmas and New Year's on Skopelos and have scheduled a New Year's Eve party on the Onassis yacht, Christina.
