Here we are - The babe and me taken for you by Kellogg Pere!
And all of us wishing you a merry Christmas - you dearest friend of us all.

We want her to have a little silver plate from you, perfectly plain (I chose it yesterday) from which she is to eat on happiest festival days - birthdays - your birthday

04915 and Christmas ^[2] or as some special reward —

As she gets bigger she shall have it on those same days as her bread and butter plate, and then when she is grown she can still use it — and will it to her children!

And we want you to write what you would like to have on the plate

By way of inscription — I shall have it copied in your own handwriting.
Now that isn't a ring, but don't you like the idea?
Please say you do and let us have a card
with the inscription.

I am going up tomorrow to see what can be done for my sister's poor little babe, which is ~~making~~ a desperate struggle to get any food to nourish it.

We have lived over and enjoyed your visit again and again. Affectionately
Charles Kellogg
