P.S. I thank you for your introduction to Dr. Morris which however I return as we are obliged to do something with our Boy before his Holidays

Dear Sir,

I am ashamed of not having earlier returned to your Lady Wop's excellent Letter. How could you trust me with them?

Mr. Bawys' is beautiful

(Bishop Chase's)

The other Mr. C. is making, & I will, & will take care to return them. It is pleasant to hear of good Men in health & activity, for I find that some are taken, too early according to human perception; of some situations where the place they fill cannot, according to human sight, be well supplied. God's will be done.

Mr. Judson resists
all entreaties to publish his own Sermon. He has written to Mr. Gilly, but he thinks the only result will be the publication of the Decantation Service, and some introductory remarks. Could you must him, say ^{Tuesday} Friday a dismantled House, with something to eat, and a Carrier, at six o'clock, & try to prevail on him to publish? I should beg pardon for such an invitation, yet if that is so I should not have given it.

I am

Dear Sir

Yours ever sincerely

W. Cowburn

Dismantled House
Tuesday -

I dare not add to the weight of the frank & therefore write here. Miss Ward 1825
is named, with the full consent of her Parents, to a Mr Chapman, of a flourishing mercantile house in the City of London, and is to live in Regents' Park, a very desirable spot for those who must be resident within reach of the City. Mr C. is said to be a very good young man. I have seen him once at their

G. W. Marriott Esq
house, and all I observed confirmed the report.
Should you not write to congratulate the family?
It is not yet determined who should refund the £60 for New York & Connecticut in the first instance. It must ultimately come from the funds gone to America, but it is alleged by Magdalen College that a schedule accompanied the remittance from them, & the consequence of this is that some one, or more of the Bankers must be in fault. Mr

Wison has on this account staid his hand as writing to have the money paid in New York. I have had the great satisfaction sending £321 to S. Carolina as the profits on Dehon.
