Work of Alumni Shows Up As Students Register At A. & I.

Over seven hundred students registered for the first quarter, October 2, from every section of Tennessee; many giving reasons that reflect on the local alumni associations all over the State. Many students expressed their confidence in their former teachers who are members of the Alumni Association and claim that they learned to appreciate State College because of the love and high esteem its former students held for it. In the student body for the year 1933-1934 we can see many duplicates of students of former years in actions and manner, which does much to make the traditions of our college permanent. Good chapters of the Alumni Association are doing good work all over Tennessee as well as other parts of the United States and a good crowd is expected

TENNESSEE AGRICULTURAL AND INDUSTRIAL STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE

General Information

The State Normal Schools of Tennessee were established by an Act of the General Assembly of 1909. That Act is popularly known as the General Education Bill, and included appropriations for all public school agencies of the State. It provided that thirteen per cent. of the State School Fund, which was thirty-three and one-third per cent. of the gross revenues of the State, should be used for the establishment and maintenance of Normal Schools.

The Agricultural and Industrial State Normal School at Nashville opened June 9, 1912. In 1922 the institution was raised to the status of a 4-year state teachers college and empowered to grant the bachelor's degree. The first degree class was graduated in June, 1924.

The present valuation of the plant is more than a million dollars. A Women's Building, located on the west campus, and an Industrial Arts Building, located on the south campus, were erected during 1931-32 at a cost of $400,000. Negotiations are under way for the erection of additional major buildings for home economics, agriculture, health, practice school and administration, to be erected across the boulevard from the present campus at a cost of $600,000.

Purpose of the School

The General Education Law of 1909 which created the state teacher training schools clearly defined the purpose for which they were established. The law outlined the nature and scope of "the education and professional training of the teachers for the public schools of the State." Accordingly, the Agricultural and Industrial State Teachers College attempts to give those who attend it the education, discipline, training and skill that will best prepare them to teach in the public schools of Tennessee. The aim of the school is to prepare teachers for high school and elementary positions and to carry out the agricultural and industrial program laid down for land grant colleges.

Location

The college is situated within the corporate limits of Nashville, on an ideal site overlooking the gentle slopes leading to the Cumberland River. The campus abounds in natural scenery. The Jefferson Street car line extends to the College gate, thus making the institution within a few minutes of the shopping district of Nashville.

RESOLUTIONS FOR PRESIDENT'S DAY

Whereas, The law-making body of the great State of Tennessee saw fit to found the A. and I. State Normal School which is a God-sent blessing to the Colored Race and an honor to this Southland.

Whereas, This great institution, founded as it is in the very heart of Tennessee and especially in the City of Nashville, better known as the Athens of the South, making it available and accessible to all the pupils and teachers of our great State, and this great school has leaped forth into full blast almost instantaneously and is accomplishing untold good by sending well prepared men and women to all parts of the State, and

Whereas, The work is going so smoothly, being presided over by that far-sighted, cool-headed, big-hearted, princely leader, that wide-awake hustling teacher, President Hale; therefore be it

Resolved, That we, the 900 teachers of the State here assembled, do most heartily appreciate and highly endorse the exercises just concluded.

Resolved, further that the first Thursday after the Fourth of July each year be known as "President Hale's Day" with exercise similar to that of today.

Respectfully submitted,
M. I. Morrison, Chairman.

gro. This was based on the fact that financially and educationally the Negro has made a marked advance, and as time passes, the race will be more fit to compete with other peoples. Because of the intricate problem now facing industrial life the speaker showed why it would not only take time, but also a bonded unity of all phases in life, creeds and utilities to rid the world of its great economic chaos. He further stated reasons why certain steps such as education, religion, and war would not break down the barriers to such complex circumstances.

Mrs. Bass presented Mr. J. H. Shackelford who in turn introduced the speaker. Other speakers of the afternoon were Mr. Leroy S. Hart of the California Eagle, and Mr. Wolfe, director of the Ross Snyder Playground. Mrs. C. Kimbrough gave a report on current Negro books and lectures.

Rev. G. W. Reed, Jr., opened the meeting by offering prayer, and group singing was then led by Mrs. S. P. Johnson. Mr. Claude Faucett, one of the younger members of the Council, acted as chairman of finance.

Echoes from Negro business people were then heard, and several new members were added to the roll. Mrs. Ruth Butler served as mistress of ceremonies.

CORRESPONDENCE

Cosmopolitan Hotel
Freetown, Sierra Leone, Africa
August 11, 1933

My Dear President Hale:
Just a few more days and I will be home. I was in Barcelona, Spain, in the Mediterranean Coast for over two weeks. I am waiting for another steam ship now to continue my long trek home.
I am merely sending this to reopen once more our correspondence. I stopped writing because all my classmates were engaged in different kinds of work while I was inactive (though studying).
Tell Mrs. Lawson that I completed the first aid course she suggested to me in 1931. I took the course with the New York City Chapter of the American National Red Cross. Certificate was issued me as an instructor in that field. I thank her very much for that useful suggestion.
Since I left you I became intensely interested in the soil, and have studied enough about it to do a noticeable work in anybody's field. Plan was made for me to return to State to pursue some Agricultural subjects in connection with a small task I left undone. But difficulties which I am not prepared to discuss in this letter got in the way. However, look for me between now and 1938. By that time I will have put in full operation my own institution among my people.

There is a young man named Kylander in this city, desiring to come to U. S. for a course in Agriculture. I have recommended Tennessee State College to him. He saw my two year books and was very enthused over them. You will likely hear from him soon. Please admit him. He is coming from a very fine family. I talked with his uncle who will support his venture. I hope to meet him there when I return.

Please remember me to all. Health, wealth and happiness to and for you, always.

I am
Sincerely yours,
Philip T. (Davis) Forgae.

P. S.—I have dropped the Davis name, taking my own father's name. I hope it is not difficult to pronounce.

hoodooed frame of mind, they need not be afraid.
It would only be the students of the Tennessee State Agricultural and Industrial School learning some of the customs of their ancestors from a real African chieftain who is in their midst. That is, Prof. Charles G. Blooah might have been a chieftain of his tribe in the hinterlands of the free republic of Liberia had he not run away when he was 12 or 14 years old because the elders of his tribe were about to make him chief. Boy-like he didn't want to quit playing and frolicking about to accept the heavy responsibilities. And so through the jungle he ran for 7 or 8 miles until he reached the nearest Christian mission post.
Now, 20 years later as he teaches anthropology to members of his race in this country he dreams of going back to his tribe and of setting up a school where he may teach his countrymen the best African culture and the finer things of Western civilization.

THE LAW ON IT

*Each of the 10 new Government agencies described in this article is built on a law passed by Congress. History, civics, and current events classes will find the laws helpful in understanding the New Deal. Any of the laws listed can be obtained through your Congressman.

Strange new initials are getting into the newspapers. Do you know what they stand for? Can you name the 10 new Federal Agencies whose long names have shrunk to initial letters? Do you know the purpose of each of these 10 weapons Congress has given to the President to wage the recovery campaign? Every principal and every teacher will be eager to have pupils understand the details of the New Deal in American government. But the facts can't be found in textbooks. Not yet. The aid of the 10 agencies is to prime the pump of national prosperity by spreading employment, by expanding credit, by trying new methods of Nationwide cooperation on common problems.

A. AND I ADOPTS FRA CODE

Instead of adopting the NRA code for their gridmen, coaches at Tennessee State have formed their own one. It is called the FRA code. Translated it means Football Recovery Administration. All students and faculty members of the college have signed the pledge stating that they will cooperate 100 hundred per cent with the coaches and football players in seeing to it that the code is a huge success. President W. J. Hale was one of the first pledgers of the code. And maybe it was the logical thing to do. Listen to this:

During the summer months when the students were on their summer vacation, some had football he-bandit broke into the store room and stole practically all of the football equipment. A bad situation was faced. Would there be a football team for this year? Th-economic phase may have added to the seriousness of this question. So the students and faculty members of the college adopted the FRA code—and said—"We play our part." By this plan the college hopes to stage a comeback both in the playing of the game and the financing and buying of equipment and supplies. The Tigers have a renewed energy that might spell disaster for all teams that they may play. Watch the Tigers?
