OFFICIAL OPENING

The new Riverside High School was officially opened January 18, 1964. At two o'clock, the ceremonies began when the flag was raised and the plaque was unveiled by Mr. A. Reaume, M.P.P. in the main corridor. In the auditorium, the programme commenced with the singing of O Canada. Father McNabb then gave the invocation. Mrs. Davis, Chairman of the Riverside Board of Education, expressed the hope that parents would encourage the students to use the new facilities to the utmost.

After Mr. Pentland introduced the platform party, the ceremony of presenting the keys began. Mr. Odette of Eastern Construction presented the keys of the school to Mr. Johnson, one of the architects who designed our school, then Mr. Johnson in turn gave the keys to Mr. Burnell of the building committee of the Riverside Board of Education. After assuring those present that Mr. Pentland and his fellow educators would do their utmost to increase the knowledge of the community's future leaders, Mr. Burnell, in his turn, presented the keys to Mr. Pentland, who then stated his hope that by his efforts, and the efforts of his staff, the students would gain knowledge, goodness, and discipline. Mr. G. R. Stewart, Mayor of Riverside and also the guest speaker, was introduced by Dr. Mills. Mayor Stewart urged that students be encouraged to complete high school and said that this school showed vision and courage on the part of our community. Greetings and best wishes from the Department of Education were expressed by Mr. W. Wood, a Secondary School Inspector.

Our new Composite High School received several gifts from various organizations. Pictures of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip were given to Jane Johnston, vice-president of Student Council, by Logan Photography. Later, Jane also accepted a Bible from the Ontario School Trustees and Ratepayers Association. Two flags from the Canadian Legion were received by the School cadet corps.

Jane Johnston expressed thanks on behalf of the school. The ceremonies closed after Reverend L. Howan gave the benediction, and those present sang God Save The Queen.

VICE-PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

MR. S. KREWENCH, B.A.

We left behind the old "Riverside High School" and moved into our new quarters in September 1963.

Our present structure contains highly qualified teachers, effervescent students, efficient secretaries, industrious caretakers, and the most modern equipment.

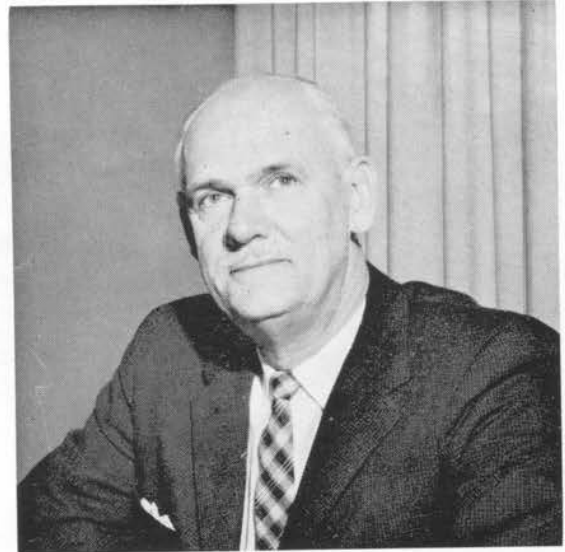

The school is the core where the essential ingredients are poured, shaped and produce the finished mould—"Education."

Students should be aware of the fact that "Education" is a continuing process and will never end provided the student keeps wondering and constantly searching.

It also helps at certain times to "pause," "reflect" and "smile."

To the graduating class of 1964—Remember the glorious past—Live the chaotic present—Think of the mysterious future.

S. Krewench,
Vice-Principal.

TECHNICAL DIRECTOR'S MESSAGE

MR. C. N. COLE

It is again my pleasure to have the privilege of extending the best wishes of the new Science, Technology and Trades Department of the Riverside High School to the members of this year's graduating class.

Last year, I did as its lone representative, work at the task of establishing such a department.

This year there are seven highly qualified teachers working in instructional areas that have equipment, with which you have undoubtedly been impressed, and where they are offering a sound training in the fundamentals of interesting, livelihood earning occupations and professions.

Being able to offer these subjects to the students of the Arts and Science and of the Business and Commerce Programmes, as options, has been a real pleasure to the teachers of this department too.

With zeal and determination we are looking forward to 1966 when we intend that the ranks of the graduating class of that year will include the first worthy representatives of this Department.

C. N. Cole.

Principal's Message . . .

MR. J. R. M. PENTLAND, B.A.

A great deal is being said these days about the importance of staying in school. It is obvious to all that the finished student will be a better, more highly paid worker; that he will make a better citizen in a complex society; that he will be a more cultured, happier individual. Riverside students, although some may be what Shakespeare called "reluctant schoolboys" are, I am sure, happier than most to remain in school. Certainly the fine surroundings, marvellous equipment and excellent staff of our school give every encouragement to the student.

Just staying in school is not enough, however. Effort is required if the student is to benefit from his school environment. Home study is unavoidable if he is to keep abreast of his class. Participation in extracurricular activities is important if he is to become a well-rounded individual. God has given you many talents — develop them! Your parents have taught you good manners, morals and attitudes — display them. Your town has provided you with this fine new school — make the most of your opportunity here.

One special word must go to those who have persevered and will graduate this year. To them we say, "Go forth with faith and pride and determination. Let not one moment be lost in the struggle for accomplishment. Remember that the future becomes the past all too soon. Good luck and God speed."

Commencement

On December 20 the Commencement Exercises for the last graduating class of the "old" Riverside High School marked the ending of an era in our school's history. On either side of the stage were huge floral arrangements of golden-yellow "pom-pom" mums trimmed with black bows. These carried out the traditional school colours of black and gold.

Before the Exercises actually began, parents and friends of the graduates were entertained by Chris Steed at the piano. The evening opened with the Graduation March and the singing of "O Canada." The Invocation was delivered by Reverend H. R. Stuart of Riverside United Church. Mr. Pentland then extended a welcome to the audience. Mrs. Cecilia Davis, Chairman of the Riverside Board of Education, congratulated the graduates on behalf of the Board. Mr. St. Aubin introduced Mr. Charles M. Jackson, from the Western Institute of Technology, the guest speaker of the evening. Mr. Jackson stressed the importance of that field in the twentieth century. Phil Street, accompanied by Chris Steed played "Going Home" from the "New World Symphony" by Dvorak. Neil St. Clair, who presented the valedictory address relived many of the humorous occurrences which happened throughout the class' last year at Riverside High.

Thirty-three honour Graduation Diplomas were presented by Mr. F. Cross. Mr. R. Proudfoot gave out seventy-five Secondary School Graduation Diplomas.

Mr. R. Burnell made the introduction of scholarship and bursary winners. Ontario Scholarships were presented to Neil St. Clair and Ken Woodall by Mr. W. A. Shaw. Mr. Hugh Thompson awarded Roger Touchie the Hiram Walker Scholarship. Dave Phillips received a Kiwanis Club of Riverside Bursary which was presented to him by Mr. Basil MacMillan. Dr. L. Schiller presented fourteen Student Council Scholarships. These were presented to: Elizabeth Barron, Bruce Davidson, Juri Kasemets, Michael Loring, Robert McCallum, Dave Merschback, Walter Pastorious, David Phillips, Lynne Rozich, Neel St. Clair, Bruce Stott, Roger Touchie, Maya Van Diessen, and Ken Woodall. Dominion-Provincial Student Aid Bursaries were presented to Bob McCallum, Dave Merschback, David Phillips, Neil St. Clair and Bruce Stott. # SCHOOL CALENDAR

- May 3/63: The decoration committee of the Maytime Rhapsody did an excellent job of transforming our old gymnasium into a Chinese garden. The formal was a success and greatly enjoyed by all present.
- May 15: Our track and field athletes swept one girls' and all three boys' team championships to win the county meet.

SUMMER VACATIONS

STUDENT COUNCIL

Left to right: Pete Baxter (Treasurer), Janie Johnston (Vice-President), Mr. O'Gorman, Dave Dent (President), Pam Alewick (Secretary).

After hectic campaigns and elections this year's executive was chosen as follows:

David Dent—President

Jane Johnston—Vice-President

Peter Baxter—Treasurer

Pamela Alewick—Secretary

The first year in the new school has proved extremely successful. For the first time we went over our quota in our annual magazine drive. The Student Council also sponsored a chocolate bar drive in order to raise money to send to "Doc Carter" and this also proved successful.

The Student Council gave scholarships to last year's grade thirteen students who received better than 66% on their final examinations and these were presented at Commencement which was held on Friday, December 21st.

As usual the Student Council put on the Christmas Assembly where many of the teachers were given small gifts. A talent assembly was also held in April.

The biggest event of the year — the Maytime Rhapsody was held in the school cafeteria on May 8th with the unusual theme "Cinderella." Jane Johnston was in charge of all the formal committees.

In closing the Student Council wishes to express their sincere thanks to their advisor, Mr. O'Gorman who is always willing to help the students.

Secretary: Pam Alewick.

Nineteen hundred and sixty-four brought about a new school and new challenges for our thirty-five member club, and during the period of this year we have tried our best and accomplished many things to fill the halls of the new Riverside High with pride.

This year we held two events; namely, a Halloween party at the Children's Aid Society, and Basketball Clinic for elementary schools, for which we were rewarded with children's glowing faces.

The "Black and Gold," the running of school dances, officiating at swim meets and the decorating of the school Christmas tree were just some of the things that we did to try to build spirit in the new school of which we are so proud.

The feeling which we received when we attended worship in the various Riverside churches will surely not be forgotten.

The Second Annual Riverside Key Club Science and Arts Fair was held and we hope that we have encouraged or interested some in fields that they may choose for a future occupation.

What will most be remembered by us from this year's work is our work and associations with the Riverside and Windsor Kiwanis Clubs, especially in the paper sale and in the slave auction. Our experience with these business men is surely beneficial.

We would like to thank the entire staff for their co-operation and especially for the help from Mr. Pentland, Mr. Krewench, and our staff advisor Mr. Walton.

This, the first year in the new school has brought challenges which have done much to build strong character and to round out the personalities of all members.

Dave Ringler.

RIFLE TEAM

At the end of the school term last year, the Rifle Team had won the Lord Strathcona Shield for Marksmanship in Ontario and the Howard A. Hunt Challenge Shield for the best Rifle Team among Sea Cadets in all Canada.

During the months from September through February, training was progressing satisfactorily. In February we received a telegram ordering us to ship all rifles back to Longueuil, Quebec.

Training recommenced on Monday, March 10, when the rifles were returned, and we were able to compete for the available trophies.

C.P.O. Mike Hunter.

R.C.S.C.C. ADMIRAL HOSE

Success again! Last year's cadet training drew to a close on May 6, when the annual inspection held at Riverside Memorial Centre yielded a demonstration of sailing, communications, and precision marching. As our reward for hard and vigorous training, we were, for the sixth consecutive year, presented the Lord Strathcome Shield for General Proficiency. This treasured award is presented annually to the best high school Sea Cadet corps in Ontario.

During the past summer, a number of cadets spent two weeks at H.M.C.S. Acadia and seven weeks at H.M.C.S. Cornwallis.

The cadets this year were unlucky in one respect, but fortunate in another. We were sorry to see Lt. Krewench resign his appointment, but are very pleased with our new commanding officer, Lt. Sabo. We are presently preparing for our inspection and are pulling together to make this and many another year a truly successful one.

Chief Petty Officer, Kenneth Harris.

The Black and Gold was published monthly this year under the auspices of the Key Club with Angus Mumby as editor, and assisted by Don Grant, Virgil Duff and Douglas Allan.

LIBRARY CLUB

Under the direction of Mr. Stone, the Library Club made available to the students the many fine books in our library. The following people were enrolled in the club: Sharon Bell, Jo-Anne Bernhart, Julie Brennan, Shirley Brennan, Bonnie Budwin, Cathy Calcott, Nancy Curtis, Linda Dent, Judy Harcastle, Myrna Holsey, Judy Kelly, Gerry Kelly, Bob Meloche, Linda Morgan, Judy Munroe, Brenda Steed, Marilyn Wakeley, Nancy Watret, and Kathy White.

It was their responsibility to be in the library one night every two weeks to stamp out books, card and shelve all incoming books, write overdue notices and count the day's circulation.

Mr. Stone and Bob Meloche worked throughout the year to install the Dewey Decimal Catalogue System.

Entertainment was enjoyed in the form of a trip to the Ballet or to see Cleopatra. This trip was enjoyed by all who attended.

R.H.S. Library Club
Julie Brennan, President.

DEBATING CLUB

This year we have a new, beautiful school and with the expanding education system much inspiration and school spirit filled us all. Many new clubs formed and old ones flourished. We feel that because this is the first year we have spent in the new school and also the first year of the debating society, we can be very proud of our success.

The Debating Society is a part of education just like Math, or Science — we learn to arrange facts, to present them and to overcome shyness. We learn to accept other points of view. This club is a great opportunity for students to express themselves and the gain that self-confidence which is so important to all of us. Therefore, we would like to extend a warm invitation to any students who would be interested next year.

The executive was: President, Edie Miller; Secretary, Sue Podolsky.

In conclusion, we can only say that we hope the Debating Society will become one of the best-supported clubs in our school and that we can all return next year to learn more and to become better people for a better world.

Sue Podolsky.

DRAMA CLUB

This school year of 1963-1964 has certainly proved to be a very eventful year in the history of the Riverside High School Drama Club. We not only moved into a beautiful new school with a superb stage and the most modern lighting equipment but we also staged a play, The Diary of Anne Frank, which was the greatest success ever experienced by the club. This year's executives who have ably led the club are: President, Olwyn Veighey, 12C; Vice-President, Secretary-Treasurer, Wayne Yared, 12C; and Publicity Convenor, Paul Cooper, 10A. During the past year our membership has increased from about twenty-five active members to about forty at present.

Expecting many difficulties with the new stage and equipment, all the members of the club worked their utmost throughout the year to produce excellent plays and to ensure good attendance at them.

The Diary of Anne Frank, our first production in the new high school, was surely a play that will not soon be forgotten. Starring in the cast were: Janis Nickleson, Anne Frank; Wayne Yared, Peter Van Daan; Olwyn Veighey, Mrs. Frank; Christopher Steed, Mr. Frank; Cynthia Chesney, Mrs. Van Daan; Paul Cooper, Mr. Van Daan; Barbara Taylor, Margot Frank; Cathie Calcott, Miep; Denny Courier, Mr. Dussel; Philip Ochs, Mr. Kraler.

The play took place in Amsterdam in the year 1941. It centered around two families, the Franks and the Van Daans, and a Mr. Dussel, who are all hiding from the Nazis in an attic room. They are being aided by Miep and Mr. Kraler who are the only people that know their whereabouts. From this situation springs a romance between Anne Frank and Peter Van Daan which last until the end of the play when they are finally captured by the Nazis. After all the years of being hidden away they were all sent to concentration camps and the only person to return was Mr. Frank who at the end of the play still recalls Anne's last words — "And in spite of everything, I still believe that people are really good at heart."

We must not forget now to thank all the people who made our production possible. Our deepest gratitude goes to Mr. D. Stone our director, who encouraged us at the times when we most needed it. Thanks also are extended to Mrs. Kominar, Mr. Walton, Mr. Winterton, Mr. Clifford, Mr. Krewench, Mr. Pentland, and all the members of the teaching staff. We would also like to thank those students who helped in any way back stage to lighten the burden on the actors and to make a smooth production.

Now in the planning are three one-act plays which will be produced in the spring of this year. They will be directed by three teachers and we are confident that here too we can again duplicate our success which we had with The Diary of Anne Frank, and make the year 1964 a truly memorable year in the history of the Riverside High School Drama Club.

Wayne Yared.

I.S.C.F.

This has been the twenty-fifth year of I.S.C.F. in our school and a most interesting and encouraging year it has been. Our meeting time has been changed from noon to after school on Tuesdays where students of all denominations follow our club motto: 'To Know Christ and to make Him Known.'

With the guidance of Mrs. Steeves and our able executives, President Dennis Reaume and Vice-president Pete Lapsley, we have had a great variety of meetings which included film strips, short plays, group discussions, bible studies, and the following guest speakers: Mr. Ken Dresser of New Guinea, Mr. Bill Fulton and Mr. Harry Robinson of Toronto, Mr. Dresser, Mr. Bernie Smith, and Mr. Bob Simpson of Windsor.

We have held two social evenings: one at Mrs. Raison's home and a Hallowe'en Party with the Leamington I.S.C.F. club.

Some of our members have attended week-end camps at Sarnia, Huntsville and Guelph where international missionaries provided excellent leadership.

I would like to take this opportunity on behalf of the entire club to personally invite you to attend our fellowship.

Ted Williams, Secretary.

RIVERVIEW CLUB

Blessed are they who understand
My faltering step and palsied hand.

Blessed are they who know my ears today

Must strain to catch the things they say.

Blessed are they who seem to know

That my eyes are dim and my wits are slow.

Blessed are they who looked away

When my coffee spilt at the table
today.

Blessed are they with a cheery smile

Who stop to chat for a little while.

Blessed are they who never say:
"You've told that story twice today."

Blessed are they who know the ways

To bring back memories of yester-
days.

Blessed are they who make it known

That I'm loved, respected, and not alone.

Blessed are they who know I'm at a loss

And have no strength to carry the cross.

Blessed are they who ease the
days

On my journey to "rest" in loving ways.

We of the Riverview Club of Riverside High are proud of our success, but will never be satisfied with our membership. We will always want and need more support — so next . . . "give a little."

Our thanks to Mr. Clifford who gave us his valued time and excellent guidance to help this club organize.

Susan Podolsky.

TRIP TO THE UNITED NATIONS

Last October, I was given the great honour of representing Riverside High School at the United Nations headquarters in New York. I, and seven other girls from the various Windsor schools, spent four wonderful days in this cosmopolitan city.

The first morning, we toured the buildings and the gardens of the United Nations. Every member country had contributed to its construction and the only word to describe the buildings was massive. In the afternoon, we met the third Under-Secretary of State for the Canadian Delegation, Mr. Filleul, and spent some fascinating hours learning a few of the intricacies in such a large and important international organization.

The following morning, we attended a special committee which was discussing the problem of Apartheid and South Africa. The session became quite heated as remarks went flying around the room. Later in the day came the climax of our visit when we listened to the President of Bolivia address the General Assembly.

Being in New York, we naturally did some sightseeing as well — a boat trip around Manhattan, visits to Greenwich Village, Chinatown, Rockefeller Centre. We also went to the Broadway show, "Tovarich."

Yet, it was our brief survey of the United Nations, with its world-wide importance, that gave every one of us a greater understanding of the difficulties that the world's leaders are trying to overcome. The whole trip, both the serious and the frivolous aspects, is one which I shall never forget.

Aline Stannard.

MEMORIES

I walked along the halls of Edith Cavell
And heard the calls which shook the walls.
I called out to, and then I saw.
The walls I once knew are just as tall.
The numerous cracks, which were the tracks
Of our cheers throughout the years,
Are now all gone as I look on.
But even still silence is lost
As one goes down the halls of Edith Cavell.

Bill Hedley 10C.

SONG

A Little tune, a melody,
To cheer a soul of misery,
Can it leave joy to tortured mind,
A Lightness, can it leave behind?

Yes, my friend, and if you try
You won't have time to weep or sigh,
But cast your fate to crowd or throng,
And sing yourself a Little song.

Mary Holod 11D.

DEATH OF A STAR

I saw the star—and even now
I see in thought the other earths,
That in celestial homage bow
To dying deaths and reborn births.

Through ageless time, infinity,
Millenniums hence a star was made,
To shine in God's divinity
And in the heaven's bosom laid.

The smallest atom in the sky,
A tiny molecule indeed,
This sees the mad beholder's eye,
A glowing speck, a flower seed.

But oh ye fools, how vast that world
Created by God's artful hand,
And in the constellations hurled—
A foreign body, an alien land.

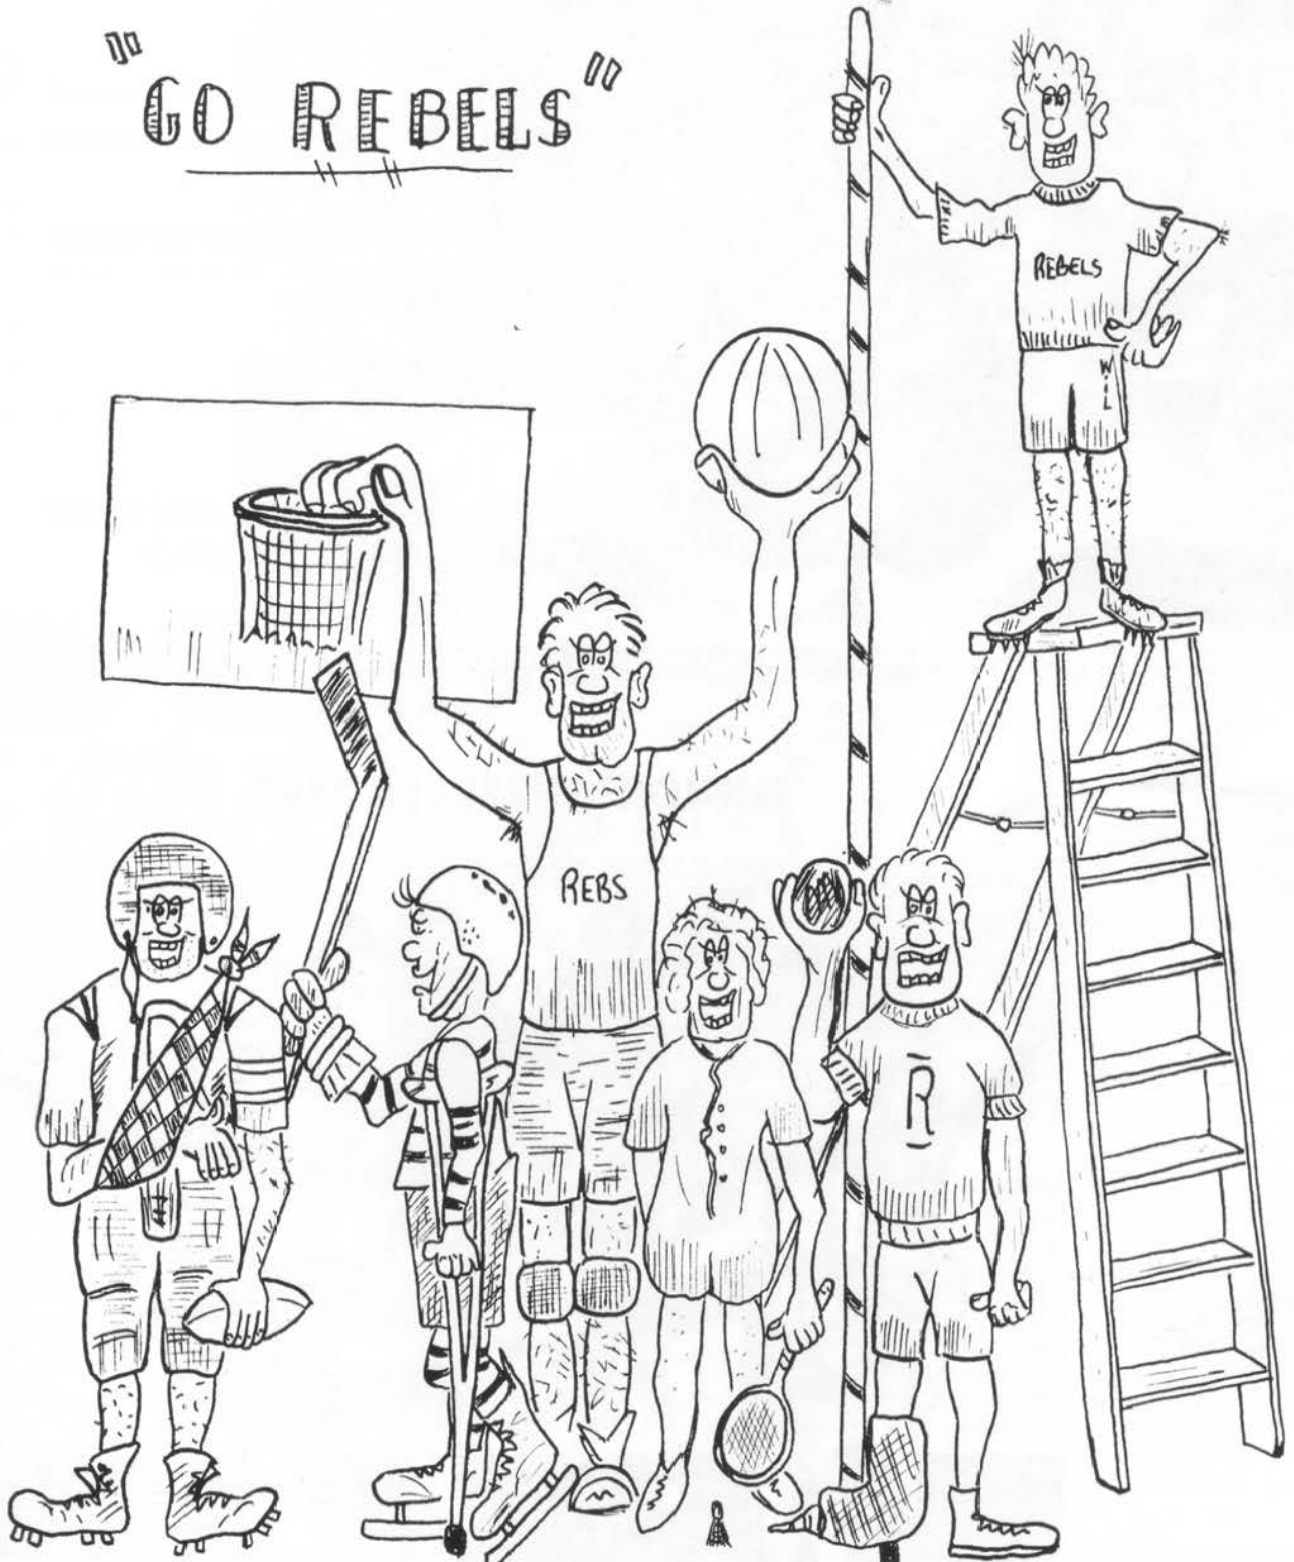

I saw destruction come at last,
From birth to death an endless space,
But how it comes and happens fast
To every human and each place.

A million fragments, countless more
Were shattered with a blinding light,
And thrown into eternity's core—
Then everlasting night.

Mary Holod 11D.

The Girls' Athletic Association is a new organization started under the guidance of Mrs. Larson. The executive of the Association for the 1963-64 season was: President, Anne Emerson; Secretary, Beth Purdy; Vice President, Sue Whitley; Treasurer, Marie Valkonen. A representative from each class was chosen to be responsible for having intermural Volleyball Tournament held at our school with ten outside schools in attendance. The girls bought and made refreshments. We also helped the boys sell tickets to their basketball game at St. Denis Hall. The girls showed their school spirit by making posters for school games; also they were interested in supporting girls' sports in the school. During a pep rally the girls put on a skit to put emphasis on their ability to work as a team. We were also asked to help the Key Club usher at the school opening. The next projects which the Athletic Association took on was not quite as successful as the Volleyball Tournament. We decided to sell school crests on January 21. We all hope that our Association has helped to bring just a little bit more support for girls' sports and just a little more school spirit into our bigger and better school.

FOOTBALL

The senior Rebels football team had a rough and tough season. After three victories and one defeat in the season's games, the Rebels found themselves in the championship game against the Essex Raiders. The team, whose co-captains were Ozzie Stahl and Ron Young, lost this closely fought game by a score of 7-1. The team was coached by Mr. Giroux and Mr. Snyder.

The junior team had a more successful year in that they tied for first place, losing only one game in the season. In the championship game against the defending champs, St. Louis High School, the Rebels came out on top by a score of 25-6. The co-captains were John Woodall and Alan Dresser, while other stalwarts were R. Gheetti, B. Prime, M. Haugh, G. Hale, B. Ferguson, B. Ruel, B. Ruiter, and our star quarterback B. Kell. The coaches were Mr. Giroux, Mr. Snyder, and Mr. Darroch.

BASKETBALL

The senior team had a very excellent year. After winning the E.C.S.S.A. championship by going undefeated in the league, they proceeded to defeat Wallaceburg for the S.W.O.S.S.A. "A" title. However, they were beaten by a fired up Herman team in the S.W.O.S.S.A. "AA" by a score of 56-47. The team, coached by Mr. Burleigh, played well all year. The starting five were O. Stahl, B. Brookbanks, J. Voy, T. Hawken, and R. Hornsey.

The junior team was less fortunate since they did not go as far as the seniors. After winning the E.C.S.S.A. championship, they were defeated by a scrappy Chatham Tecumseh team in a heart-breaker. After losing the first game by three points, the Rebels won the second by one point, but lost the series by one basket. The usual starting five were M. Haugh, A. Dresser, B. Barker, G. Ormseth, and B. Ruiter.

SWIM TEAM

This year Riverside students saw the first sign of a swim team destined for victory. Out of the five schools which were challenged by, and competed with Riverside, two were defeated in the junior class, and the rest threatened. In the tri-meet held at Riverside, with Beal Tech of London, Ontario, Herman Collegiate of Windsor, and Riverside competing, the standings were Herman first with 46 points, Beal second with 43 points, and Riverside third with thirteen points.

The four individual winners of this season are G. Gosselin (Senior freestyle, fifty and one hundred yards), D. McNair (Junior backstroke, fifty yards), D. Loaring (Junior breaststroke, one hundred yards and the one hundred yard individual medley), and D. Ponic (Junior freestyle, fifty yards and one hundred yards). The consistent placers in all meets were R. Jubenville, R. Lauzon, R. Tripp, P. Hobson, B. Hedley, G. Ouellette, and B. Mercer. A swim clinic was held at the Riverside pool on Saturday, February first and was well attended. The special guest at the clinic was Mr. Robert B. Eyon, swim coach at the University of Western Ontario.

TRACK AND FIELD

Our Junior, Intermediate, and Senior teams, all emerged victorious last year. Senior winners included: Ted Williams, 100, 220, and High Jump; Ken Woodall, 880; Tom Hawken, Broad Jump, Hop-step-and-jump, and Pole-vault; Herb Miller, Shot Put and Discus. Intermediate winners were: Ken Harris, 440; Bruce Davidson, 880; Pete Lapsley, High Jump; and Gary Ambrose, Discus. In the Junior Division: Mike Haugh, Shot Put, Discus, and Javelin; Grant Housely, Hurdles and 440; Bill Ruiter, 100; Wayne Ocalisan, 220; Bob Whitely, 880 and mile; Paul Mongay, High Jump and Pole-vault; Richard Summers, Broad Jump. Our relay teams fared well in capturing both the Senior and Junior 440 yards. Later, Mike Haugh went on to capture firsts at the Ontario and Canadian meets.

BASKETBALL

Here's an introduction to our manager Faye
Who is always with us — at home and away.
Janet is there to keep the score right,
Ellen watches the clock every Friday night.
Our captains are Jane and Jeanette,
Marie is a guard; Donna is a cinch at the net.
Six "Sues" contribute a lot to our team,
Forwards and Guards — all on the beam.
Marg and Marilyn, two streaks of lightning.
Dianne does some dribbling for one
She generally has all the fun.
Guarding Anne who is a dandy,
The taller ones are left for Candy.
All our Lindas do their best;
They strut their stuff with the rest.
Agnes guards the ones her size
While Mrs. Larson sits on the bench and cries,
"Check, guards, intercept and check!"
Until she is a nervous wreck.
Norma, Diane and Celia join the fun
They step, they shoot, they bounce, they run.
Tilly and Tony have a yen to learn,
Sandy and Wendy guard in their turn.
And now I've told you of our fame,
Why don't you come out and see a game?

Sue Podolsky,

GIRLS' SWIMMING TEAM

For the first time a swim team was organized at Riverside High. As soon as the pool opened in December, the team started nightly, co-ed practices from 4:00 to 5:45 p.m. with no exceptions for the girls in the rigorous training programme.

Our first and last meets were open meets against Herman. On January 17, we lost to Herman 40-16, but on February 21, we defeated Herman 51-47, showing a great improvement within one month. In other meets the Juniors lost to Walkerville, but the Seniors tied; Forster bowed to a severe defeat from both Rebel teams; and although the Juniors lost to Kennedy, the Seniors won, ending the season with three victories and two losses.

This year's senior stars were: Janice Loree, Diane Prime, Beth Purdy, Loree Tripp, and Sue Whitley.

Some of Mr. Martin's prospective stars for the future are: Bernice Duke, Maureen Loaring, Susan Malmberg, Carol Menna, Jill Patterson, Karen Snider, and Brenda Switlicki.

Carol Menna.

CHEERLEADERS

All will agree that 1963-64 was a year of change at Riverside High School. The senior cheerleaders did not change though. They were: Captain Jane Johnston, Co-captain Brenda Steel, Pam Alewick, Brenda Fryer, Edie Miller, Susan Nantau, Beth Purdy, and Bonnie Weiss. Vicki Wachna was the senior substitute.

Junior cheerleaders were introduced this year. They were: Captain Mary Smith, Co-captain Carol Little, Olga Campbell, Maureen Coulson, Patty Jones, Joann Lester, Teri Rusinck, and Ruth Thrasher. The junior substitute was Brenda Unger. These girls showed much spirit during the year. Their captain Mary should be commended for the hard work she did during the year.

The seniors purchased new uniforms this year and the majority of the spectators felt that their bright colours livened the spirit.

The school spirit reached a peak this year with the aid of the spirit club under the leadership of Jack Kitson and Tom Miller.

Some highlights of the 1963-64 year were: the "Rebel Ghost" romping around the football field and the hockey games against our rival Ann Arbor. But many will feel the most exciting games this year were basketball. Who can forget the Riverside-Leamington game at Leamington when our crowds brough signs and nearly out-yelled Leamington, or the Riverside-Chatham-Wallaceburg games when the school spirit reached its peak. I would like to thank everyone who supported all the teams this year. Your spirit was appreciated and you showed good sportsmanship.

Jane Johnston.

LITERARY

1963

The moon shed an eerie light on the trash cans and a cat skulked in the shadows of the dingy buildings. All was still.

Click — click — click. Several footsteps began to click on the cobblestones. Slowly the footsteps came forward. The cat slipped away behind a trash can, his eyes gleaming wildly.

Someone else hurriedly backed up. A shuffle — a muffled sord — fading footsteps — silence.

"Is it O.K.?"

"Yeah."

"Get her out."

Three young holligans, chewing gum and wearing tight black pants and shiny black jerkins, dragged a young woman out of the shadows. Terror lurked in her eyes and her muscles were tense. She stumbled a little in her high heels as one ruffian, with his hand roughly covering her mouth, pulled her forward. She mumbled something.

"Shut up."

She relaxed and he took his hand away.

"We're going to kill you."

"But why?" Incredulity was in her voice and amazement was written all over her face. "I've never seen you before. I don't know you. I . . ."

"Shut up."

"Listen. I hear something. Someone's coming," said another.

They were galvanized into action. They grabbed the woman and hastily hid behind the trash cans, their hearts beating, wondering if they would be caught.

A little man with a bald head that shone in the moonlight came onto the scene carrying some huge parcels. He was whistling merrily and his step was jaunty. As the weather was warm, he wore no jacket, just a long-sleeve shirt and a tie. Suddenly he lost his footing, and dropped his parcels. Fortunately nothing rolled out of them, but he noticed that his pen had slipped from his shirt pocket. The hoodlums could have stretched out their hands and grasped it. The man picked up his pen as the moon went behind a cloud, gathered his parcels, and went on his way.

They pulled the woman out into the open. She seemed calmer now. She looked steadily and firmly into their eyes and this seemed to make the hooligans a little nervous. The leader of the gangsters hesitated for a little, but then his face hardened. He whipped out a knife that glinted in the light. He tensed his arm, adjusted his grip and walked towards her. She stood firm. He swallowed a couple of times.

"What's the matter," jeered one, "Are you chicken or something?"

"Shut up."

"Come on then."

"Shut up, I tell you."

He took another step towards her and, as he did so, she raised her head more, and looked directly into his eyes.

With sudden determination, his hand shot forward and fear gripped him. A slight groan escaped from her lips as she stumbled. Pain seared through her body and she fell to her knees. Her eyes were wide, her face a deathly colour. She fell heavily to the ground and her tense muscles relaxed.

The killer shook his head in disbelief and he and his gang backed up, turned around, and ran in pure terror.

The cat emerged and with a sinuous slinking movement went over to the body, sniffed it and silently disappeared. The moon faded into the pale light of early dawn. The buildings, the cobblestones, the trash cans — all were a dirty grey. Yet now, a trickle of blood ran like a sluggish river between the cobblestones. Its source? A Negro woman whose only crime was the colour of her skin.

FORGOTTEN

A house stands in the forest,
Its shingles are worn with time,
Harbouring memories of childhood —
Creaking doors and clocks that chime
Forgotten. Except to me.

IS IT TRUE?

Oh, God in the sky so blue,
Is it true? Is it true? Is it true?
That you sent your son to reign
To heel the sick and walk the lame.
Born in a manger, died on a cross,
And to the earth all sinners were lost.

Geri Kelly 11A.

THE ICONOCLASTIC CAT

It sat staring there in the fog, the symbol of half-asleep, almost the embodiment of a philosophy or a science of relaxation itself, this cat. It appeared to have reached its own Nirvana. But, had it really escaped that certain Nemesis?

From a short distance, if you knew she was there, the green phosphorescence would be imagined to be the glow from her eyes, but it was those ugly sneering signs that despised people on Front Street, a block from the bay. Around the back is the alley, around the back are the wharves, jetties that are sole dividers between the droplets of the half-intangible fog and the elusive water of the tide, upon which it sits so restlessly. Long spars stuck up, silently swaying with every whim of the moody ebb of the sea. Creaks of anguish were wrenched from the aging scows, much too unworthy to sail, doomed to rot. No one stirred there. No one always stirs at that hour of the night. The cat could hear the limpid water lick the filthy pier. Beauty and the ugliness of filth are mixed here, and the sea strives to purify that which, at the same time, it putrifies. Voices of the night called, beckoned. She sits still there, that cat. So quietly. The eerie invisibility of her relations is conspicuous. But the morning came. The sea threw off her blue-black bedclothes and danced under the glittering rays in a subtle green suit. The cat sat. Still staring; trying mentally to defeat the sea. Voices of the sea cried to her, tore relentlessly at the open sore, at the inmost core of her heart. Suddenly, as if after much cogitation she had decided her fate, she dashed down on the wharf, paused a breath of a moment, and, tensely, with a pitiful uncat-like wheeze, plunged into her silent cold grave to be with her kittens.

THE FUGITIVE

I paused under the willow with the pretence of listening for some sound in the mansion of foliage — all done in green decor — that would render certain the supposition that this was the tenor of the fugitive's flight. I knew full well the undisguised genesis of my sojourn beneath this fountain-like tree whose branches fell to the ground as the cascades from "Old Faithful." I was tired.

Earlier this morning, I had returned my shaving kit to our room. I had opened the door noiselessly, not wishing to awaken my still-sleeping wife. I paused in the doorway, staring in fascination at my wife's physiognomy illuminated by a golden ray of sunshine which fell through the window across her countenance, emphasizing the sharp profile of her long straight nose, her embedded eyes which lit up with excitement during her waking hours. I marvelled at how she had changed since our adolescence in New York. Seven months it had taken me to persuade her of the benefits, of the ecstasy of this simple country life here in Wisconsin. At last she consented to live in the cabin I had repaired and at last we were married. And as I slipped the diamond ring over the exquisitely soft structure of her finger, it seemed to refract the diversified segments of our newly joined lives that would be enhanced and intensified by our pilgrimage to life amidst the natural beauties in the blazing sunlight. Here the view was unmarred by giant structures of glass and brick.

And as I glanced at that same diamond ring resting on the ledge of the open window, glinting in the light of the dawning sun, and as I felt the cool morning breeze strike my newly-shaved face (the tingling sensation of ice on flesh), I felt the ecstasy of revitalization and rebirth which had constantly recurred during the recent months in this secluded region, strengthening my confidence in my resolution to avoid the temptation of languid procrastination induced by city living.

Then, without warning, I was startled from my speculation by the unexpected phenomenon of a thief boldly seizing the ring from the window ledge and disappearing instantly. I raced out of the bedroom, snatched a box of shells from the kitchen shelf, grabbed the gun from above the door, and bolted out of the screen door in time to descry the course taken by the thief. In frantic pursuit, I too raced to the timberland which fringed the expanse of my private empire here in Wisconsin.

Breathless from the exhausting dash across the broken field, I stopped at the wood's edge absorbed in attempting to pinpoint some sound that would establish the fugitive's whereabouts. One mile and a half I had raced across the rugged field and now, as I paused under the willow, the chances of finding the thief in this forest were slim indeed. As I rested, I placed a single shell in my carbine and, as I rose to resume my search, I heard the unmistakable sound of the object of my quest. I glanced towards the direction of the noise and, glimpsing the thief, I raised the gun to my shoulder and, in one resounding boom, I felled the fugitive. As the thief hit the ground, my stomach felt like the knot in the lace of the anxious hockey player as he ties his skates for the last time before the metal blades slit the ice. I raced to the body and, picking up that shriveled black crow with its body torn nearly in two, seized the ring which had lodged in its throat and fell to the ground sobbing uncontrollably.

Virgil Duff 13A.

A CRICKET AS SEEN BY AN ESSAYIST IN SEARCH OF A POEM

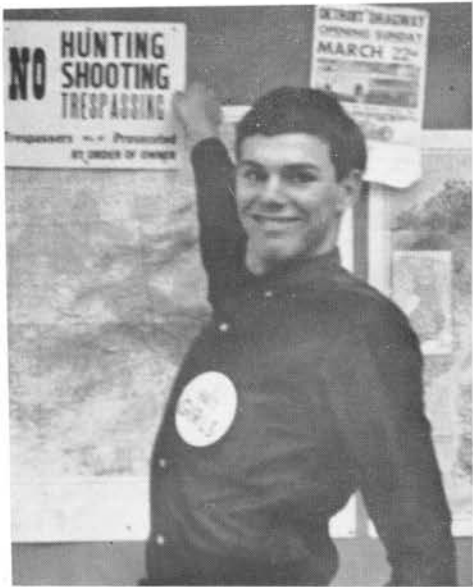

It is small, very small, a thing of no consequence whatsoever in this mighty rocket-roaring, lord-lying world. But hear the songs! Rising above giants, it pushes its way into the sky. "Alive, alive, alive!" It shouts its heart theme — it cannot be still. It lives! How grand it is, this meaningless thing! Footsteps thunder about it. Grotesque are the works of man, but how beautiful the song, a work of God. It splashes life into the heart. Its body is torn with life — it has to scream; but the scream is the song again, hunting. It is on the ascent still — the Apogee is in sight. Hear it! Hear it! It still sings! From the broken body, rushes the rilling sound. "Still I live! Still! Still!"

It stumbles forward to the Perfect Place; it is not beaten; anonymity is its shield. Every step is another note, another part of the harmony. The sounds it utters are the wind tossing leaves about its head and the waves laying lace along the shore.

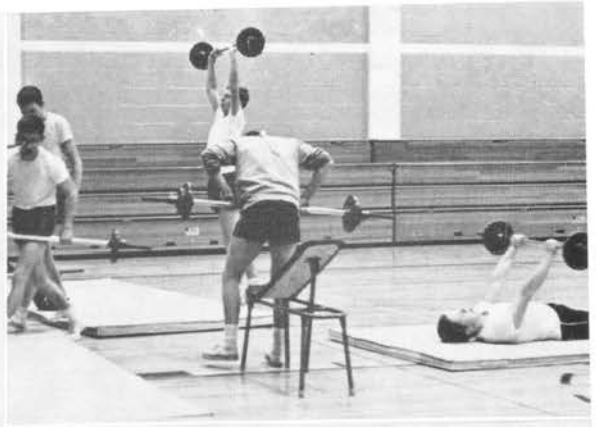

Oh mighty man, you envy it! This humble being is on the pinnacle you cannot find, yet it moves ever higher. For this, the hate churns and bubbles in your veins. And killing is a balm. Kill it, person. It is your way, but listen: even after death, its song permeates the fields, and here you are lost.

I wished a wish a wish or two
I wished so hard that I turned blue.
Then I waited for light, it slowly came
And crept on through my window frame.
The beams were bright so I could not see
So I went to the door and turned the key.
My thoughts sailed on through dreamy seas
Of moon and stars and galaxies.
Until my candle flickered out
So mad was I that I started to pout.
My servants called, but not a foot
Instead I went and fell asleep.

A FAITHFUL TEENAGER

A teenager's life is just what it seems,
A day full of hope, a day full of dreams
Wondering if you passed the test,
Studying you know you did your best.
Your favourite class is where you really shine,
And Anthony is asking Cleopatra "will you be mine?"

Acting innocent when the teacher's around,
Searching for your Latin book which you've just found.

Finally you know you really belong,
For at three-thirty a bell rings about a merciful sound.

Carol Lachance 11A.

THE BALLOON MAN

Over on the corner
The balloon man stands,
Holding tightly the long threads
Wound around his hands.

I like to see him standing,
With many colours bright,
Over on the corner,
To brighten up the night.

LIFE OR DEATH ?

What is life?

Is it forever heart-breaking sorrow—
A fear of what will bring tomorrow?
Or is this lifetime filled with bliss,
Can one day pass with nothing amiss?

I wonder . . .

And what is death?

Is it tender and serene as one
Untroubled in a dream?
Or is it our eternal strife
To wake and relive another life?

I wonder . . .

ON WRITING POETRY

Writing poetry is hard to do,
Although this is not true for some of you.

I try and try and try in vain,
But nothing seems to come out same.

I know not why this talent I lack,
I only wish I had the knack.

For some the words are easily found,
Bearing blunt endings with the same sound.

Rhyme for others comes by chance
Whose beat will make you want to dance.

Although my attitude may seem strange
I doubt that it will ever change.
