Principal's Message

The Riverside High School story over these past several years has been one of growth - growth in staff, growth in student body. Unfortunately, and unavoidably, this expansion has not extended to our facilities. Thus, it has been necessary to use an extended day with some students coming early and some late, some leaving before the rest, some studying in the cafeteria to clear classrooms for others. Only Riverside students and staff could have accepted the difficulties and responsibilities of such a programme with the tremendous spirit of co-operation that has been evident throughout this past school year. My thanks to all of you for your assistance during this trying time! My congratulations on the accomplishments which I feel sure will show clearly when the results of the examinations are announed.

I wish, also, to extol the energy and talent that has been employed in preparing this year's excellent Rebelogue. All those who have taken part in its preparation can take just pride in a job well done.

It is with special enthusiasm that we recognize you, the Graduates of the Business and Commerce Course, and the Science, Technology and Trades Courses. You are the first to step out of Riverside High School into the world of Business and Industry.

Although your training has included skills required in Business and Industry, it is our hope that you have received a total education. Begin your job with the view that you will contribute economically, socially and culturally. Be alive and active. Approach your vocations with enthusiasm, a sense of values and self-confidence.

We have enjoyed working with you. In the past three years you have helped us to establish a sound Vocational Programme. Remember now that you have the added responsibility of being the salesman in assisting us to place the future gradvates of our school.

Clarence N. Cole Technical Director

Robert J. Martin Commercial Director.

Rebelogue ' 66 marks the close of another school year. This has been a year of changes.

In September, with over eleven hundred eager students enrolled, the school experienced the first twinges of growing pains. There was just not enough space for everyone. The extended day, however, has proved to be an accepted solution to the problem despite $8: 15$ classes for many.

In January, we offically became a part of the expanding thriving city of Windsor. This move was greeted with mixed emotions because of the pride we held for our little Town. But now we must express this same pride in the greater city - our city, Windsor. It is surely with "pride in progress" that we dedicate this year's book to the growth of our school and our city.

Of course, this yearbook could not even hope to exist without the many hours of work spent in its creation and production. I would personally like to thank the entire staff and all others who have devoted their time and wholehearted effort to make this yearbook a success. On behalf of the Rebelogue staff and entire student body, I would like to express sincerest appreciation to the staff advisors: Mr. Eid, who was chief advisor, Miss Baxter, Literary and Features and Mr. Magda, Advertising, as well as to all other members of the staff who have given up their precious time in helping to make our school the "R. H. S. of which we are proud!"

We come from R. H. S....
We 're proud because we are the best,
We're free to raise our battle cry,
And fill our souls with prestige high,
We'll win the fight against the foe,
Our fighting team will strike the blow,
We'll all rejoice in victory,
Three cheers for the Black and Gold,
Rah! Rah! Rah!

Bonnie Weiss

For the past year we've all been working very hard so that we could graduate tonight, but they say "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," so we mixed in a lot of fun with the studying.

Some fooling around was necessary in grade thirteen because we just couldn't take it completely seriously. The threat of the departmental examinations hung over us from September to June, and due to changes last year we didn't know what to expect. Some thought they'd wait until the end of the year and then really hit the books, but I'd like to warn the grade twelve graduates now that this just doesn't work.

We learned some useful information in our classroom discussions that has never been on the course of study. In French Authors, besides discovering Mike Hunter's secret recipe for cooking a catfish so that it would be edible, we learned a lot about the inhabitants of "La Petite Poule d'Eau" region of Manitoba that was not included in the novel.

The experiments in Physics and Chemistry weren't always done according to instructions, and very often things went wrong. John Voy found out how to electrocute himself.

The Stratford actors have never performed Shakespeare's plays as well as 13A1. Although our renditions became pretty ridiculous after a few weeks, they actually did help us appreciate the play more. The day before the final English exam I was reading King Lear and worrying about not having enough time to finish it when I came to the scene where Lear and his youngest daughter Cordelia are reunited. When I though of Frank Abbott's stirring performance as the beautiful Cordelia, I had a good laugh and resumed my studies in a much more relaxed manner.

Then there was the time Bernie Ruel performed his fabulous green giant experiment in Botany...

Before you get the wrong impression, I better explain that we didn't act this way in all our classes. Some subjects had to be taken a little more seriously than others because they were so much more involved.

People have been talking about abolishing grade thirteen, but many don't realize its real purpose. Its importance doesn't lie in the facts you learn, but what it does for you. Grade thirteen is one of the greatest challenges we have to face before entering the business world. It prepares us for life because it is the first time we HAVE to buckle down and forego the things we want to do, for homework. It prepares us for further schooling because we develop good study habits in thirteen, and therefore we know better than to skip classes and ignore hamework.

As last June approached, many of us thought we might crack at the prospect of writing departmentals. It was pretty frightening to think of sitting down to a two-hour exam that was supposed to measure all that we had learned about a subject during the past year, and yet despite all our fears of failing certain subjects, after it was all over we had an exceptionally great feeling of accomplishment. As you can see, the facts we learned in grade thirteen were not nearly as important as the things we discovered about ourselves. By the way we looked at grade thirteen, we could tell how we would look at the challenges of life.

We have to give our teachers a lot of thanks. They spent much of their extra time helping us to understand the lessons better, and also managed to keep us working. I don't know if our teachers, or even we ourselves, realize how much they've influenced us and how much we owe to them.

It's sad to think that our high school days are over, but we're now going into something else different and exciting with the knowledge that, because of our grade thirteen training, we will be able to meet new challenges and establish ourselves as useful and successful citizens.

Students Council Executive

In September of 1965, elections were held for the executive of the Student Council. After an exciting week of campaigning, the results were as follows: Chris Brennan - Head Boy (President), Ruth Thrasher - Head Girl (Vice-President), Carl Purdy - Treasurer, and Susan Nantau - Secretary.

The Student Council again sponsored the annual magazine drive. Although we did not reach our quota, the drive was a success on the whole.

Commencement was held on Saturday, November 6. The Student Council presented scholarships to all those students in grade thirteen last year who received $70 \%$ on their final examinations.

The Maytime Rhapsody was held on May 6th, in the school cafeteria, with the music of Bill Richardson's Orchestra. This year's theme was "Springtime in Paris".

The Student Council had a successful year and would like to extend their thanks and appreciation to their advisors, Mr. Sabo and Mr. Beck, for their whole-hearted support.

Susan Nantau, Secretary

SORROW, SYMPATHY, SATISFACTIONS

Who are the world's beasts of burden, Scapegoats for all the aging failures, Ever accused,
Never acquited, Born to play the part of Satan?

Sit all day in open prisons, Empty vessels to be filled;
Ever questioned,
Never answered,
Destined always to be seeking.
Time is not their own for spending:
Others choose the when and how;
Ever shortening,
Never sufficing,
Losing the battle they're ever racing.
And what's to become of these slaves, Who hold the future in their hands?
Ever needed,
Never praised,
Only waiting for their chance?
The pale moon glances at the sobbing girl,
And sighs in sympathetic sorrow.
Tear-like stars sparkle in the black eyes of heaven.
This delicate creature, this young woman, has lost her love....
Dew-tears find her still reclining beneath the weeping willow.
Morn is here, mourn does she for the man she needs; her love. "Would that he comes back to me," Her lonely longing confesses self. "His gentle smile, his tender touch.... Oh, Lord, I need him....oh, so much!" Golden rays of glorious sun
 Dry her last tear.
A smile glows on ivory features....
For, see!
Her love is near!
Dancing eyes and laughing lips Match swiftly running feet.
With a gentle embrace, a tender kiss The happy lovers meet.
The platimum moon glances at the couple dear,
And smiles in sweet satisfaction.
Diamond-stars sparkle in the heavens, Like the diamond in her ring.
This delicate creature, this young woman, Has found her love.... forever.

ODE TO A TRUE BLUE HAROLD

Little Bo-Peep has lost her sheep And doesn't know where to find them. She went to the Police with a piece of fleece Which one of the sheep left behind him.

She said it was a clue but knew not what to do So the Captain called out for Little Boy Blue. He jumped on his Harley and split the scene He tore up the road, this cat was mean.

He rode up a storm as he played on his horn And his tach showed red line six thousand. Rubber through first, a wheely through second; Third and fourth were behind him.

He flew through the woods to get the goods on the hoods But took the wrong turn at the pass. He screamed to a halt and spun out on the salt And slid on his (fundamental orophas) in the grass.

When he revived, he was still alive And recognized the place as Red's dive. He picked up his horn and let loose with a peep But was trampled to death by a flock of sheep.

Now little Bo-Peep had lost her sheep And Little Boy Blue did find them. The end of the story is kind of gory As no-one will have to remind them.

- Frank Anderson 12D

BEAUTY IN DISGUISE

There she stood at the door So graceful and so fine. Never had I seen before, A creature so divine.

To me she was my only thought, My one and only care, She even won a prize last year, Participating in the fair.

Her dark brown hair was glossy, Brushed it every day;
Her big brown eyes shone in the sun Even sparkled, you might say!

She truly was my pride and joy I cannot explain how But she was mine, and only mine, "My little Jersey Cow."

THE LIGHT

What is it that outshines the rest
And glows throughout the night?
What is it that can only be the best
And yet be out of sight?
What is it that can touch each man
Where no man has been touched?
What is it that can shift the sand
And yet be used as if a crutch?
There is but one who knows all living things, The flowers, birds, trees and men, And to each one happiness brings; It is only the light that God sends.

- Olga Campbell 12A

A REPLY TO ODE ON SOLITUDE

Happy is he who is not bound With cares of age or loneliness By wish or care or reason sound Ten friends, no less.

The city yields his daily bread, His clothes, first class, and tailor-made, His warmth of heart be never dead Or ever fade.

No time shall ever slide away, Each hour brings chance to live or die. His life is full; goes not astray: a searching eye.

A heal thy mind sleeps sound at night In solitude or company.
His worldly thoughts in dream take flight O'er land and sea.

With friend or foe he'll always live And unlamented will he die, To all mankind he'll give:

His endless sigh.

- Mike Volkner 12D

FROM THE RIVER'S EDGE

Life goes on for others but stops for me, As I sit and think by the river's edge. Listening to the wind blow softly through the trees, Which fills the sails of the boat at sea. I hear the birds in their nests in the hedge, And watch the daisies nod their heads. The waves are dashing against the shore, While far above the seagulls soar. I see spread before me a life of dreams, Of joy and love and bright sun beams. From my place I see many things dear, But much more than that I feel God is here.

SEVEN YEARS to ONE

When I was eight they brought him home, An auburn daschund of two months, A long brown pup in infant's clothes, Or a stallion on our Indian hunts.

Then seven was he and I was nine, For one brief moment the same were we, And seven more fast years flew by, While ten was I, an adolescent he.

How fast he aged this dog of mine, He is my father's age you know, Seems odd that after all these years, My age has just begun to show.

I love this pained rheumatic dog, His precious, wrinkled weary face, How true, he trembles weak and worn, On his mat before the fire-place.

I can't believe, it is not true,

I feel sick with fear and dread,
A quiet home, no dancing tail,
Oh, no. My lifelong friend's not dead.

From eight to twenty I have seen The joys and sorrow love can bring, A happiness beyond compare, A memory to which I'II cling.
"Superstitions & Ancient Beliefs;
A Menace to Our Modern Society" - Ann Carlsen 11B
The saying, "I've had good luck, touch wood," is common today. It developed from the earlybelief in tree nymphs, who protected man from evil spirits made envious by hearing about someone's continuous good luck. However, these tree nymphs had to be summoned by tapping wood; hence we get touch wood.

The superstition "breaking a mirror brings seven years bad luck" also goes back to the time of the belief in spirits. It was believed that when looking at one's reflection in a pool or shiny object, it was not the image of oneself that was seen, but it was actvally their spirit staring back at them! If any harm should come to this reflecting surface, then naturally their soul would be endangered.

These superstitions might sound far-fetched to you, yet we are still influenced by them today. For instance, how many of you can honestly say that you feel no qualms whatsoever while walking under a ladder?

The religious following of superstitions by men in the scientific field has always hindered man's understanding of the unknown; we still face this stumbling block today.

Mental illness, until this last century or so, was thought to be caused by the devil's possession of the mind; consequently, the doctors had no reason to investigate a cure. It was only after they realized mental illness was a disease and not the result of sorcery, that research was instigated.

A good example of superstitions interfering with our understanding of the unknown in modern times, can best be illustrated by our fear of ghosts. The word "ghost" invariably conjures pictures of villans returning to earth to haunt us. for so it has been through the history of mankind. A few men today, known as parapsychologists, have broken through the barrier of superstitions concerning ghosts, and have delved so deeply into the matter that they have found a reason for ghosts, as well as a method to exercise them scientifically. This is not done by the usual religious methods, but by talking to the ghost itself through a medium.

As a matter of fact, Columbia University and the University of Southern California have a department which deals solely in parapsychology.

Even though these superstitions concerning ghosts have been proven unfounded, the majority of us still hold the same brightful view of ghosts as our ancestors.

This is only one example of superstitions hindering our understanding of the unknown. How many other discoveries are hidden from our eyes by centuries of superstitions and ancient beliefs?

Superstitions hinder our advancements, for advancements can only occur with discoveries; the same discoveries to which we are blinded.

There is another danger of superstitions in this modern day of automation. With modern equipment, who can afford to follow beliefs set when carts were considered complicated vehicles. A superstitious man has no right behind a steering wheel, for what would happen if a black cat were about to cross his path? A busy street is no place for a hasty U-turn.

We should realize that we should not impare our physical or mental capacities by holding some unfounded belief.

Yes, this is how our great modern society of today is menaced by superstitions and ancient beliefs.

DAFFODILS

The daffodil opened from tight-held bud to full-fledged bloom of spring. The leaves, strips of emerald, held to catch reflecting light of life: of daffodils.

Each golden head, gleaming bright, beheld the world of love and strife. For every hate a tear was sprung: for every love, the tear was turned to dew drops for the sun. - Ann Carlsen

LIFE IN THE FUTURE

STONEHENGE

What does life in the future hold for us? This is a common question asked among people all over the world. In order to give you my opinion of the answer, we must first journey into the future, one hundred years from now.

Where do we find ourselves? We look around and the place seems familiar, only there is something different. For instance, the ground we are standing on is green and has tiny holes in it like a sponge! You guessed correct! We are on the moon and it is really made of green cheese.

But how did the people of earth end up on the moon? The answer is simple. Over the years the population of earth increased, doubled and almost tripled. Because of this "Population Explosion" a colony on the moon was set up. The first volunteers were, naturally, plump women who learned that your weight is decreased on the moon. Others soon followed with the result that there is now a thriving community here.

The houses are arranged in a pattern similar to the one used on earth. They are domeshaped glass structures with all the modern devices. The doors open automatically and every chore is done by pressing a button. Of course, this means a lot of wear and tear on the fingertips, but then even the easiest life has its trials. Each family owns a rocket and there is usually a quarrel every time Junior wants to borrow Dad's rocket to take his girl out. This can be remedied by becoming a two rocket family.

Fashion was of little importance at first because everyone wears a spacesuit. Later, however, new designs came out. Now there are madras, paisley and burgundy spacesuits as well as many other colours. Women decorate their helmets with feathers and flowers just as on earth.

Recreation and sports are quite different to those on earth. There are globe trotting contests as well as meteorite throwing events. Roller skating and ice skating are impossible, but there is sky-soaring. Restaurants and stores are also quite different. Some of them are located high in the air. For example, the Air & W. is quite famous for its cheeseburgers made from green cheese and craters.

Well, that is enough about the moon. Let's get back to Earth again. My version of life one hundred years from now may seem ridiculous, but it's not impossible. With all the scientific developments, who knows, we may find ourselves on the moon some day.

My only worry is that if automation does take over, won't man be more like a vegetable sitting around with nathing to do, but to press a button? All the maney put into scientific experiments on how to reach the moon, couldn't it be put to better use? Medicine still needs many cures for diseases. Countries in the world are starving and we waste our time and money on new rockets with greater thrust.

Shouldn't man be content with his life here on earth instead of searching for other universes? Or is it that this is a means of escaping from our earthly problems by occupying our time with space plans? Whatever the answer may be, we do know this: Man has a great mind'to be developed and used accordingly, now and in the future.

There are many legends about Stonehenge, but the most fascinating is the true story which I would like to tell you about now.

Stonehenge is a temple and observatory situated near the Avon River on the Salisbury Plain in Southern England. Three groups of people built Stonehenge, but they were extinct by the time of the Druids. I will mention each group and what they did to Stonehenge.

The first part built by the Late Stone Age people, began about 1900 B.C. They dug the ditch with antlers, and were also responsible for the bank, the Aubrey Holes, stones 91 to 94, and stones " A " to " H ". The heel stone was put there also.

The second wave of activity started about 1750 B,C. by the Beaker People. These people were given their neme because of the type of pottery they made. They put in two circles of bluestones and widened the avenue. These bluestones were brought from the Prescelly Mountains in Wales a distance of 240 miles. They accomplished the 215 miles by use of latticed canoes. The remaining miles by land would be done by use of rollers beneath sledges.

The Wessex People tore down this double circle and constructed a circle of saren stones in the same area. The five monsterous trilithons were erected in a horseshoe shape and also the slaughter stone was positioned. The name of this stone does not mean that sacrifices were carried out, but the name was given to it at a later date by the Romantics. The alter stone was was erected, but the significance and original location of this stone is still a mystery. A circle of bluestones was erected between the saren circle and horseshoe. Also a horseshoe of bluestones was placed within the saren horseshoe.

This was the end of its building.
Why did they do all this? Well, here are a few of the reasons:

1. It indicated when the planting season was about to begin and to help the fishermen to tell tides.
2. They used Stonehenge to worship their Gods.
3. The priest would gain power by fortelling the eclipses and equinoxes.
4. This would give the people an interest, and they would feel honoured that they had some connection with this temple.
5. They were admired by other nations for knowledge of Stonehenge had even reached the Mediterranean region.

These prehistoric people worshipped the sun and the moon because they were the most important in their eyes, and had a relationship with all changes around them.

Gerald Hawkins, an archaeologist had an idea that there might be more in the position of stones other than midsummer sunrise. And this is what he discovered. All sunrises, sunsets, moonrises, and moonsets were marked, besides, eclipses and equinoxes.

This staggers the imagination for in these times information was only passed by word of mouth. It would take centuries to even notice these eclipses and equinoxes and to predict them. Think of all the skill, strength, and patience there would have to be used to put these stones in their correct positions. Considering the fact that these people had not yet discovered the means of simple transportation or a system of recording their thoughts and ideas, I think that this is a tremendous monument to the basic ingenuity and intelligence of mankind.

All aboard! Lugging suitcases and blue Centennial flight bags, twenty-four students left Windsor last August bound for Manitoba as part of the Student Exchange Programme. Many of us had become acquainted earlier while hosting a similar group from Saskatchewan. But as we ventured into the unknown a closer bound grew.

The purpose of these inter-provincial trips was to acquaint students with the geography of other provinces, to promote a better understanding among Canadians and thereby drawing the provinces closer together.
As the train sped through the scenic north we were enraptured by the wilderness of small lakes and unusual landscapes forming a part of the Canadian Shield described in our textbooks. But as vivacious teenagers we also found lots to do in frolicsome fun and serious discussion.

At Winnipeg we were escorted by bag-pipes to our bus which took us to our billets. We enjoyed many interesting tours including the Forest Reserve, mink farm, eviscertaing plant, and most fascinating of all a Hutterite Colony. Entertainment included horseback riding, bowling, a shopping spree in Winnipeg, a beach party and a farewell barbeque.

Wherever we went we extended our friendship to show that Ontario was indeed the friendliest of provinces. Thank you for giving me this opportunity to represent our school. It was an experience and honour I will never forget.

Radio RJS

Just before the first term exams, R.H.S. Radio was born. At first it was just known as a record club and it had only four members. Rapidly, however, our membership climbed to ten, and R.H.S. Radio was bringing music to all lunch periods.

The playing of records in the cafeteria during lunch is rather new and unique at the Windsor area; Riverside High leading the way. Each member of R.H.S. has two shows a week, with such titles as Count Rudolf, the Fox, the Night Train Lane Show and Faul's Follies.

We, the D. J.'s of wonderful R.H.S. Radio had a lot of fun spinning the records and briefing the student body on upcomming events. Also, we gained valuable experience in talking to a large group. We sincerely hope that the student body of Riverside High enjoyed listening to the music, as much as we enjoyed playing it.

would like to introduce you to your Foster Child...
His name is Wong Chee Wai. This twelve year old boy lives in Hong Kong with his family in abject poverty. At Christmas he stood fourth in his class of fourty-four. His hope is to someday be a doctor. With our help he may attain his goal. Through funds donated by you we are able to support him for twelve months of the year. Each month he receives an allowance plus a blanket or some other article precious to him and his family.

This year THE FOSTER CHILD CLUB undertook several projects to raise the necessary $$ 192.00$ needed to support him.

Following in an excerpt from one of his letters.

SENIOR BOYS' SWIMMING TEAM

This year's Senior Boys' Swimming Team has proven to be of top quality with a great depth in swimming ability. The 200 Medley Relay Team of Bill Headley, Dave Loaring, Dave McNair and John Collinson is only seconds off the W. S. S. A. record. This team is supported by individuals such as Jim Brown, John Holland, Bob Mercer, Gary Ouellette, Eric Schmidt, and Carl Purdy.

The Senior Boys' Team attended an Invitational Meet at the University of Western Ontario in London. Although competition was tough, the Senior Boys came through with a fine display of swimming ability. The hard, vigorous training by the coaches has welded a strong Senior Boys' Team capable of winning the W. S. S. A. championship.

JUNIOR BOYS' SWIMMING TEAM

The Junior Boys' Swimming Team has several members who show great promise. In their exhibition swimming meets held at Riverside High School, the Juniors have proved their worth as a strong team. This year the team is composed of a great number of Grade Nine students.

Brad Bald, Pat Hunter, Mike Tripp, Ian Wilson, and Jack Leake are solidly backed by Dave McIntyre, John Purdy, Wayne Spragge, Greg Vigneux, and Kevin Brown.

The Junior Boys' Swimming Team will offer stiff competition to all schools at the W.S.S.A. Swimming Championships.

CROSS-COUNTRY 65-66

This year, for the fourth consecutive time, Riverside's powerful warrior team brought home a S. W. O. S. S. A. championship. Coach Durbin's victorious team consisted of five senior stalwarts: Eric Danter, John Kelton, Dave Loaring, Greg Sherman, and Bob Whitley. Brian Sherman placed well in the Junior classification.

In the all-Ontario warrior championships, the rugged team of rebels placed fifth among 60 schools. Not one of Toronto's twenty high schools surpassed the Riverside squad--a tribute to the high level of track in this area.

- Dave Loaring.

JUNIOR GIRLS' VOLLEYBALL

The captain of the Junior team, this year was Judy Palmeri.

First string players were Karen LaVigne, Linda LeLisle, Susan Rogers, Beth Holland and Carol Wilkinson.

New comers this year show promise for next year's team are Gerry Oke, Carol Hope, Inge Berger, Marianne Stack, Mary Pylak, Leslie Oke, Bev Hadley, Dorothy Mombourquette, and Nancy Bassingwaite.

The lead cheerleader of the junior section was Leslie, who, when not playing led the others in shouts.

SENIOR GIRLS' VOLLEYBALL

Captain of the Senior Girls' team was Sue Lang. Sue led the team in the work and was an excellent player.

The spikers of the team were Penny Oke, Leslie Cutter, and Melody Stanley.

Due to a thumb injory, new-comer, Carol George, did not play too much ball, but she looks promising for next year.

Veteran, Linda Henderson, played her usual good game, and with her in this rank are Leslie McCallum and Brenda Switlicki. Other players were Carolyn MacDonald and Joyce Evanack.

Pam Hines did not play, but was scorer for every game.

Three cheers for Miss Lavoie!

SENIOR GIRLS' BASKETBALL

Although our Senior girls did not win one of 7 games played, they have a spirit second to none.

They may be seen working out at 4:00 in their half of the gym, any school day. Penny Oke, captain, provides a lot of push for this year's team. She is an excellent shot (top scorer for the team) and a good all-round player.

The jumps are taken by Leslie Cutter, and our basket is guarded by Debbie MacMillan Linda Delisle, Kim Fellows, Linda Henderson, Melody Stanley, and Vicki Lade.

Our shooting forwards were Pat Kelly, Judy Palmeri (who is small enough to sneak out of any tight squeeze) Carol Wilkenson, a foul shooter, Jeanne McConnell who has a good long shot, Beth Holland, and Susan Lang.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Marie Valkonen 13B
This years G. A. A. is headed by Sue Lang and the executive consists of Vice-President, Penny Oke; Treasurer, Sandy Solomchuck; Secretary, Marie Valkonen. A representative from each class was appointed to the Association.

The first meeting of the year dealt with the formation of a Referee Clinic. This clinic would enable its members to be known as Junior referees and they could referee public school games.

The main fund raising project of the $G$. A.A. started on January 2, 1966. The campaign was known as the "Popsicle Pete Drive." Popsicle Pete coupons were collected and redeemed at a later date for gifts that were distributed to Children's hospitals. All in all it was a very successful year for the G. A. A.!

Riverside High School should be very proud of its eight member cheerleading squad. On Friday, October 15, 1965, the Riverside cheerleaders competed with nine schools for the title of "Misses Red Feather". Under the captainship of Susan Nantau, they won the decision after performing two - minute routines in front of the spectators. This was the second successive win for the Riverside team. The deserving members of the team were Captain Susan Nantau, Co-captain Maureen Coulson, Susan Baerg, Olga Campbell, Kim Fellows, Debbie MacMillan, Mary Russell, and Debbie O'Toole. Congratulations are in order to Gia Bernhardt for her fine job as substitute cheerleader.
The cheerleaders did not just confine their activities to cheering at the games. They were responsible for the numerous signs that decked the halls before each game and who can forget their memorable participation in the Christmas assembly as dolls? Let us show our appreciation of their efforts by giving them our support at future football and basketball games.

ABSENT: Zoran Zonjic.

Well Sport Fans! The students of Riverside High School have finally recognized and supported football as a sport. Even though the team was victorious in one game only, there were many exciting moments. At one point a few students got carried away in spirit and performed a "PAINTRIOTIC" deed. This brought to light the ever existing rivalry between the Rebels and the Cardinals.

With the help of "All-City Selections," Bill Ruiter on offense and Allen Dresser, a stalwart on defense, plus the fighting spirit of the whole Riverside team, the Rebels were able to make the play-offs.

Although pitted against the highly rated Assumption squad in the quarter finals, the Rebels were able to make a good showing even when they lost by a mere seven points.

Thanks to Mr. Day and his assistants, for the many hours they spent making football very enjoyable for the fans and players.

With the added experience and the return of certain veterans we will put the Windsor teams in afix when the Rebels come alive in "66".

Under the able coaching of Mr. Burleigh, this year's Rebels had a most successful season. The team finished a strong second in the Eastern Division by defeating such opponents as Walkerville, Brennan, Patterson, Assumption and Kennedy. After beating Kennedy in theplay-offs, the rebels were nipped by the Walkerville Tartans in the semi-finals in a very close game.

John Voy, Mike Haugh, Alan Dresser, Bill Ruiter and Pete Lapsley made up the first string, while strong bench strength came from Dave Anderson, Fred Waymouth, John Izgherian, Randy Chedour, Joe Slule and Paul Mingay. Pete Lapsley achieved All-City Honours while Bill Ruiter and Mike Haugh were placed on the thrid team.

Team

The Riverside Volleyball team for the 1965-66 season had an average, yet successful year. With the able coaching of Mr. McLean and under the leadership of Captain Peter Lapsley, we were victorious in three out of seven games. Brennan, King George and Herman were defeated with the assistance of John Izcherian, Fred Waymouth, Rino Ghetti. The games which were lost were very close. The Rebel Spirit drove the stars on and gave the competitors a fight which they had not expected. Even though half of the players were inexperienced at the beginning of the year, they played with exceptional co-ordination and efficient team acrion. This year gave the Volleyball team priceless experience and we are looking forward to greater heights

JUNIOR FOOTBALL

The Junior Football team made an outstanding showing in the regular season this year. They were not short of talent and Mr. Snyder had little difficulty in getting the boys into shape and eager to play. Untimely injuries, however, hampered the team's effort. Although there was little support from the student body, this handicap did not stop the rebels from staying at the top of the league for the season. The team appreciates the coaching of Mr. Snyder and wishes to thank him for the time and effort he spent in leading the juniors to the football title.

- Dennis Laporte.

BOYS' RIFLE TEAM

Most of the rifle team members are new; hence, they require instruction and a great deal of practice before they will become high calibre marksmen. The best rifle shots, who are presently on the team, acquired their skill only through experience and a desire to become better. Boys who are serious about this sport and who show a desire to excel in it, are encouraged by Mr. Busby, the team's qualified instructor, to practice as much as possible.

JUNIOR BASKETBALL

This year's junior boys' basketball team al though getting off a slow start, showed great signs of improvement to Mr. Burleigh's future senior team.

Backed by the rebounding of big Bob Westrop and the accurate shooting of John Mussleman, they claimed Forester as their first victim. Glen Gerelus, a great asset to the team, moved to Manitoba in January. Miles McGeough and Dave Bravo are usually in the starting lineup. Other prominent players such as Jack McCrae, Bruce MacPherson and Jeff Mawdesley provided considerable bench strength to the team, while small but agile, guards Chris Bowman and Scott Scorgie proved to be of great value to the team.
-Scott Scorgie.

GOLF
There were forty golfers who tried out for the school golf team. After two qualifying rounds, the five boys who left to represent the school team were Dave Anderson, Bob McCabe, Bob Mercer, Mark Thomas and Bill Ruiter.

In the tournament against the Windsor schools, our team placed fourth behind the Massey winners. Mr. Wilkinson was the team's fine coach.

Maytime Rhapsody 1965

The social calendar of the 1964-1965 school year was brought to a close at the annual Maytime Rhapsody. Margaret Woodall, chairman of the decorations and the many students that helped her did a wonderful job of transforming the cafeteria into an underwater paradise.

Queen Bonnie Weiss was crowned by Jane Johnston, last year's queen.
The princesses included Beth Purdy, Jaye Reid, Ruth Thrasher, Loreli Tripp, Brenda Unger, and Margaret Woodall.
The entire evening was an unqualified success.

WE LIKE IT HERE!

General Motors has "lived" in Windsor for a long time. We know it and we like it. We like the location, the facilities, and most of all, we like the attitude of the people. Down-to-earth and down-to-business. That's why Windsor was the logical choice for the only automatic transmission plant in Canada and for the new interior trim plant.
We like it here and hope that the feeling is mutual.

It's funny how a little piece of paper can put you in a whole new world

Getting your driver's license makes the whole world a brighter place to live in.

You can move.
Without pestering Mom or Dad to drive you. Without depending on anybody else.
But now a lot of other people are suddenly depending on you.

Not for rides (although you like the feeling when you give somebody a lift).

But for their lives. And their property.
So don't take chances. Don't try to prove anything when you drive - except that you are qualified to do it.

In every way.

Become a Beautiful Beautician with that exclusive Linda Brooks Look

No other field offers you so much. A high income right from the start. Your choice of wonderful positions as a respected, well-rewarded beautician. And an exciting new social life as well.

But you need the training that no ordinary beauty culture school can offer you. You need the vital "extra" of Linda Brooks Charm and Beauty Training as well as the standard beautician's training.

Ours is the only school in this area selected to offer the famous Linda Brooks Charm Training in conjunction with our complete beauty culture course.
