THE AWARDS

1991 CLASS GIFT

From a letter presented to the Superintendent by the 1991 graduating classes.

"In January 1989, the idea was proposed that each year's graduating class leave some measure of appreciation to the institution which has broadened our professional and educational skills. Thus the tradition was born that graduating classes give a "class gift" to the Naval Postgraduate School.

Previous "class gifts" have shared the common thread of improving the campus area for all future students. They have included a bench for the quadrangle, educational equipment for La Mesa grade school and a California Redwood to beautify the campus.

We the Class of 1991 offer a gift that will continue this tradition by donating a decorative outdoor clock for placement in the academic quad area. It is a gift, we believe, will be enjoyed by all visitors and students for many years to come.

This gift is extended as a small expression of our sincere appreciation to faculty and staff for their professional and educational contribution to the future leadership of the military services."

ABOUT THE SCHOOL

The Naval Postgraduate School opened at Annapolis in 1909 and then shifted its location to Monterey in 1952. During that period of time it has conferred over 22,000 degrees. The typical student is a married U.S. Naval Officer who has completed an operational tour, is living in nearby government housing, and is engaged in intensive studies leading to a master's degree in one of 42 different curricula. This student would spend 18 to 27 months here in an educational endeavor which has been specifically tailored to include certain educational skill requirements necessary for subsequent assignments. Students are obliged to remain in service for about four years after they complete their schooling. Although most of the Graduates receive master's degrees, there are normally a dozen or so students working on professional engineering degrees and another dozen or so on doctoral degrees.

Students arrive every quarter, although the heaviest inputs are in June and September. Of the approximately 1831 students now enrolled, 64% are in the United States Navy, 22% are from other United States services such as the Army, Air Force, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, NOAA, civilian labs, etc., and the remaining 14% are from allied foreign countries.

The faculty consists of approximately 350 professors, many of whom are internationally recognized in their respective fields. Two thirds of them are on a tenured track while the rest are adjunct professors; this arrangement allows the necessary flexibility to deal with variable academic demands. In order to keep abreast in their fields they are encouraged to do research beneficial to other governmental agencies. Over $18 million of research is conducted or administered annually from this campus.

The School is administered by the Superintendent, RADM Ralph W. West, Jr., who is assisted by the Provost, Dr. Harrison Shull. There is also a civilian Dean of Faculty and Graduate Education; two Navy Captains serve as the Director of Students and Programs, and as the Director of Military Operations.

The following eleven academic departments comprise the Postgraduate School: Administrative Sciences, Mathematics, Computer Science, Operations Research, National Security Affairs, Physics, Electrical and Computer Engineering, Meteorology, Aeronautical and Astronautical Engineering, Mechanical Engineering, and Oceanography.

The School became an Echelon II Command in October 1983 and, as such, now reports directly to the Vice Chief of Naval Operations.

Guests are invited to tour the School grounds and to visit the Naval Postgraduate School Museum located in the basement of Herrmann Hall. The museum is designed to capture both the history of the School and that of the Old Del Monte Hotel through displays and artifacts.
