Brief History

2009:

- Subscribed to LibGuides (LGs)
- Librarians responsible content & layout
- Colors were not locked

Brief History

2011:

- Practicum Student Riley Stoermer investigated Best Practices for LGs
- Small usability study (UX) was done
 - indicated a lack of awareness
 - Confusion about order/arrangement of content

Poll: Which of the following describes the LibGuides at your institution?

1. Have color scheme and fonts locked down.
2. Are formatted according to guidelines or a template--but with room for some flexibility.
3. Both 1 and 2.
4. Are designed and formatted completely by the authors. No attempt is made at a uniform layout or appearance.
5. None of the above.

2013:

- Number of LGs and authors proliferated
- Wide variety of layouts and colors
- Admin wanted more uniformity plus UX
- Admin appointed a LG administrator
- LG admin formed a UX team

Poll: Has usability (UX) testing been done on your institution's LibGuides?

1. Yes.
2. No.
3. I don't know.

Why uniformity and usability testing?

- Inconsistency likely reduced LGs effectiveness
- LGs didn't look like part of library website
- Maintenance was difficult because of no reusable LG contents

Preparation

- Examined LGs as they currently existed
 - too much variety
 - best to use a template
 - here are a few examples
 - disclaimer

Examples: LG 1 - Original

The screenshot displays the Wright State University Libraries website. At the top, a green navigation bar contains links for 'WRIGHT STATE UNIVERSITY', 'LIBRARIES HOME', 'RESEARCH QUICK START', 'MY ACCOUNT', and 'WINGS'. Below this is a banner with the 'universitylibraries wright state university' logo and a red 'ASK A LIBRARIAN' button. The main content area is titled 'Tests & Measurements' and includes a breadcrumb trail: 'University Libraries » Research Quick Start » Tests & Measurements'. A search bar and 'Go' button are present. The main content is divided into two columns. The left column, titled 'Find Tests & Measurements in Psychology and Related areas', contains a section for 'Tests and Measurements' with a descriptive paragraph and a list of 'Electronic Indexes' including 'Mental Measurements Yearbook', 'HaPI (Health and Psychosocial Instruments)', 'PsyclINFO', 'ERIC (Educational Resources Information Center)', and 'CINAHL (Cumulative Index to Nursing and Allied Health Literature)'. Below this is a 'Key Reference Books' section listing 'Mental Measurements Yearbook (MMY)' and 'Directory of Unpublished Experimental Mental Measures'. The right column, titled 'Subject Guide', features a profile picture of a librarian, contact information for the Dunbar Library, and links to 'Profile & Guides' and 'Subjects' (Psychology, Health Sciences).

Find Articles

Scifinder Scholar
Provides comprehensive coverage of chemical information from 1907 and also information from related fields such as biochemistry, geochemistry, environmental science, physics, medicine, and toxicology (WSU only)

Science Citation Index Expanded
Offers information from about 6000 journals covering all fields of science from 1965

Scopus (trial)
Journals and proceedings covering all areas of science from about 1996

Academic Search Complete
A good starting point for students wanting to find full-text, recent chemical information in a multi-disciplinary database

Environment Complete
Provides coverage of environmental literature from the 1950s to the present

BROSIS Previews
Used by chemists to find biochemical and environmental science information

History of Science, Technology and Medicine
Offers information on the history of chemistry published since 1975

Preparation continued

- Team members made a questionnaire. Examples:
 - What do you think is the purpose of this area?

The screenshot shows the Wright State University Libraries website. At the top, there is a navigation bar with links for 'WRIGHT STATE UNIVERSITY', 'LIBRARIES HOME', 'SPECIAL COLLECTIONS & ARCHIVES', 'MY ACCOUNT', 'WINGS', and 'MOBILE SITE'. Below this is the 'university libraries wright state university' logo and an 'ASK A LIBRARIAN' button. The main content area is divided into several sections: 'QuickSearch' with a search box and filters; 'Search Resources' with links to Catalog, eJournals, Databases, CORE Scholar, and Course Reserves; 'Library Hours' for October 29th, 2014; 'Special Collections & Archives' including the STAC; 'Upcoming Events & Workshops'; 'Libraries News'; 'Your Research QuickSTART' (highlighted with a red box and a red arrow); 'Featured Services' including OhioLINK, Interlibrary Loan, and eBooks; and 'Writing Help' including the Writing Center and RefWorks. At the bottom, there is a footer with 'LIBRARY SERVICES', 'LIBRARY INFORMATION', 'SUPPORT US', and 'NEED HELP?' sections, along with contact information and a copyright notice.

- More questionnaire examples:
 - What do you think is the purpose of this guide?
 - What would you do if you needed to find...?
 - Anything missing from the guide that you think should be there?
 - What would you do if you needed help with another subject?

- Decided to test 5 users on each template
- Decided to do testing in various buildings' lobbies
- Checked to see if we needed IRB approval
- Adapted NIH's "Informed Consent/Video Release Form" for WSU Libraries

- Asked for an easel and a poster to use in testing
- Asked for incentives
- Invited interested colleagues to help with usability testing

More Preparation

- Gathered equipment available to us:

The Testing

- Total number of users: 15
- Mostly undergraduates
- Multiple days, various locations (Student Union, classroom buildings)
- 5 librarians administered the tests
- Transcribed all results into a spreadsheet
- Met and chose template that seemed to test best

Things that went wrong

- Cart height made people stoop
- Laptop with Camtasia on it had tiny screen
- Couldn't move Camtasia to laptop with bigger screen
- Laptop had Deep Freeze on it
- Transferring Camtasia from laptop to desktop made recordings inaccessible

Things that went right

- We think we got good results
- Students eagerly participated
- Students enjoyed the process
- Good variety of students tested
- Most librarians were on board for revisions
- Admin was happy

Implementation

- Presented findings to staff – all design elements were researched-based
- Departmental goals were that all LGs published would be:
 - revised in accordance with the template,
 - unpublished if no longer used, or
 - converted to a web page
- Provided workshops and written instructions for adopting template
