Longitudinal Surveys of Australian Youth

Longitudinal Surveys of Australian Youth is a program of annual surveys of young people jointly managed by ACER and the Commonwealth Department of Education, Training and Youth Affairs. The surveys focus on the education and labour market experiences of groups of young Australians, beginning from their middle years of secondary schooling. Data collected include basic demographic variables, as well as information about educational and labour force participation extending over a number of years.

The 1995 Year 9 Cohort (Y95)

In 1995, a nationally representative sample of approximately 13,000 Year 9 students was selected to form the first cohort of the new Longitudinal Surveys of Australian Youth program. The sample was constructed by randomly selecting two Year 9 classes from a national sample of 300 schools designed to represent state and sector. Reading and numeracy tests were administered to students in their schools to provide information on early school achievement for use in later analyses of educational and labour market participation. Students also completed a background questionnaire about their educational and vocational plans and attitudes to school. In 1996 these students provided information in response to a mailed questionnaire. Information was also obtained from their schools about curricula and organisation. In 1997 members of the sample were contacted in the first of the annual telephone interviews (conducted by AC Nielsen, then Rerak Research). That questionnaire included questions on school; transitions from school; post school education and training; work; job history; job search history; non-labour force activities; health, living arrangements and finance; and general attitudes. Subsequent surveys have asked similar questions but with the emphasis changing over time from school, to post-school education and training, and work .

The 1998 Telephone Survey

In 1998 the 1995 Year 9 sample consisted primarily of young people in Year 12 in secondary school. Therefore, the emphasis was school activities. The section on school included questions on subjects being studied in 1998 and whether they were being studied at tertiary-entrance level and questions on vocational education and training. These topics were included in addition to the areas on which information is sought annually (see above).

AC Nielsen conducted the 1998 telephone survey. They approached a total 10,249 panel members and 9738 were successfully interviewed, representing a response rate of 95%. There were 289 refusals, 182 were unable to be contacted and 40 were unable to be interviewed for other reasons. This technical report details the responses provided by cohort members in 1998.

Dimensions of data set

Number of respondents: 9738

Number of variables: 559

Method of data collection:

Telephone interviews

Data gathering staff

ACER staff: John Ainley, Nicole Fleming, Sue Fullarton, Stephen Lamb, Mike Long, Phil McKenzie, Gary Marks, Julie Zubrinich

LSAY Steering Committee: The LSAY program operates under the direction of a Steering Committee which sets overall policy and approves the analytical program. The Committee has 10 members representing national and state authorities concerned with education, training, and employment in Australia.

LSAY Reference Group: The Reference Group, which comprises representatives from DETYA and DEWRSB, advises ACER on priorities in the analytical program and survey development.
