Ruby Staff Offers 10% Commission For Ads Obtained

Once again the business staff of the Ruby is making an all-out effort to meet the expenses of publication through advertisements. Not only will the ads secured aid the yearbook, but they will also bring 10 percent commission to every student who obtains them.

The staff has announced that all advertising contracts must be completed before February 14. The cost of advertising may be listed as follows: full page, $50; half page, $30; one-quarter page, $20; and one-eighth page, $10.

Contracts, Ruby writing paper, and any other information required may be obtained from Elaine Bickhart '47, or Jules Pearlstone '47.

Ads may be sold by any students interested. Seniors, especially, are urged to cooperate with the business staff in order to assure the class a better and bigger yearbook.

The Ruby staff is making another plea for snapshots. Haven't you some pictures of your crowd that would help make this book more interesting? The staff members have promised to return all pictures which have the owners name on the back as soon as the Ruby is published. The snaps are badly needed so canvass your dorm and give those favorite ones to Dorothy Kleppinger '47, Joan Wilmot '47, Jeanne Loomis '47, or Calvin Garber '47.

Dr. Brown Selects "A Drop of Blood" For Pre-Med Talk

James Barbash '48, in the absence of Harold Fishman '47, president of the James M. Anders Pre-Medical Society, introduced Dr. Leland Brown, an eminent haematologist of Philadelphia and instructor at Hahnemann Medical College, as the society's guest speaker last Tuesday evening.

The speaker chose "A Drop of Blood" for his interesting and informative talk. In relating his own experiences in acquiring scientific knowledge, he explained that we accept as true those things which we can see. He continued by enumerating the contents of a drop of blood, which next to sea water, contains a greater number of different elements and compounds per unit volume than any other substance. He showed by diagrams the various types of white blood cells that are found, how they are classified, and how a more simple modern classification was arrived at.

Dr. Brown further explained how a percentage count of the white blood cells could be used in diagnosis and as an indication of a patient's condition in many illnesses.

At the conclusion of his speech the speaker answered questions from the floor. One of the most interesting of these was one concerning the RH factor in the blood. This factor, explained Dr. Brown, is related to the elimination and destruction of red blood cells. The speaker continued to explain why certain combinations of positive and negative RH of parents may cause the death of an unborn baby, why the first child would be normal, and also that modern medicine has found a means of saving the second baby by transfusion at about the eighth month of fetal life.

"The Sudden Guest" Discussed At English Club Meeting Tonight

Carolyn Howells '47, will review "The Sudden Guest" by Christopher La Farge at the English club meeting tonight at the home of Dr. Norman E. McClure at 9 p. m. This is a fictional story of the two disastrous New England hurricanes of recent years. Miss Carrie Leckton, a New England spinster, recalls, during the second hurricane, events that took place during the first one. The action takes place in two days, one from each disaster.

Students Receive Pledge for F.T.A. Wednesday Night

Last Wednesday the Future Teachers of America held their monthly meeting at which time Mr. J. Allen Minnich, instructor of education, administered the pledge to the new members of the organization.

Richard Eckenroth '47, who represented the organization at the recent meeting of the Pennsylvania State Education Association in Harrisburg, discussed the meeting of the House of Delegates and the nomination procedure which the organization employs.

Dr. Jesse Heiges, sponsor of the Future Teachers of America organization at Ursinus, told the members present the highlights of the general meeting held at Harrisburg. He explained that the newly-elected Governor Duff stressed the need for better conditions for teachers in his address. Dr. Heiges continued to discuss the great strides which have been made in public education in the last century, and the changes which have taken place in teacher certification.

At the February meeting the organization plans to have a panel discussion on "Pitfalls of the Beginning Teacher." The participants will be teachers and supervisors in the Pennsylvania schools.

The recently revived Legal Society under the sponsorship of Mr. Donald L. Helfferich, vice-president of the college, elected Joseph Jones '47, as president for the remainder of this academic year. Richard Clark '48, will serve as vice-president and Richard Reid '49, secretary-treasurer.

French Club Elects W. Johnson, M. Hewitt, V.-Pres., Secretary

Wesley Johnson '49, and Margaret Hewitt '49, were elected last Wednesday to fill the positions of vice-president and secretary, respectively, of the French Club. Martha Seip '47, and Evelyn Moyer '48, are president and treasurer of the club.

Dr. Helen Garrett, club advisor, had new songs of French liberation for the group. After a period of singing the students read letters which they had received from France as a result of a correspondence project.

It was also agreed that the French club would assist the International Relations club in obtaining a French student already in this country to spend an evening at Ursinus.

Scholarships Offered By School of Nursing At Cornell University

Five scholarships recently established for students applying for entrance to the Cornell University-New York Hospital School of Nursing in the fall of 1947, brings the total value of available nursing scholarships and loan funds for students and faculty of the school and for members of the nursing staff to approximately $12,700.

The new scholarships of $300 each have been made possible through a grant by the trustees under the will of the late Arthur Williams of New York City, and will be applied on the expenses of the three-year course. Only students who have completed two years of college are eligible for entrance to the school. On graduation, they receive B.S. degrees in Nursing from Cornell University.

Other scholarships to encourage further study for graduates of the school and for graduates of other schools who are doing outstanding work on the faculty of the school and the staff of the hospital are also available through the alumnae and others interested in the school.

"We believe," said Virginia M. Dunbar, Dean of the School of Nursing and Director of the Nursing Service of The New York Hospital, "that the health and welfare of the nation cannot be improved without the help of well-educated nurses. For that reason, we believe that all possible encouragement should be given to young women on our staff who want to continue their academic work.

"We hope," Miss Dunbar continued, "that the encouragement of young college women to enter the profession of nursing will be recognized as a public responsibility. The public itself has the most to gain by insisting on raising the standards of nursing education."

Information may be obtained by writing to Miss Helene J. Jordan, Director of Public Information, Cornell University-New York Nursing School, 525 E. 68th Street, New York 21, N. Y.

Ursinus Delegates Support Measures Adopted by Urbana Student Assembly

by Barbara Dietz '48, and Jean Anne Schultz '48

"Why don't we? . . . Why don't we?"

Challenges such as these found a new significance at the National Student Assembly where delegates were confronted with the problems of widespread campus and community indifference to the chaotic conditions of the world. Dr. Howard Thurman's posing of the question "Why don't we?" crystallized the purpose for calling students to decide what is their role in an atomic era. What keeps us from building a real peace, from bringing about racial harmony, from finding a solution to our economic problems?

Searching for the answers, the Student Christian Movement held its legislative congress during the Christmas vacation at the University of Illinois to rediscover its goals in the light of Christian faith. Issues were debated, policies were discussed, and a program of "Faith in Action" emerged at the end of seven days of fellowship and serious thinking.

Twelve hundred students were gathered from states across the nation and from seven foreign countries ranged from the slow drawl of the Southerners and the nasal voices of the Bostonians to the flatness of the Nebraskians and the slightly "Dutch" expressions of the six Ursinus delegates. Many races and creeds participated alike in the experiences of the Assembly. The almost-down-to-zero weather didn't seem to deter heated discussions which occurred at any hour of the day along the icy walks of the "Illini" campus, or in the spacious auditorium.

Charles Bolte, organizer and chairman of the progressive American Veterans' Committee, opened the Assembly on December 28 with a talk on "The Veteran Looks at the Peace" in which he strongly Betty Walton will serve as the chairman of this committee which will function for the remainder of the academic year. The main job of the committee is to supervise the elections for the major campus officers in the spring.

Speaker Discusses Life's Foundation

William Nikel's talk at Vespers last evening centered around the primary foundations which we are now building in college. "This is our January," the beginning of our future lives which, for the first time, are being planned independently.

After stating the general need of good foundations in the home in various professions such as law, medicine, and teaching, and in government, the speaker centered his idea on our personal need for a strong, firm foundation in our social and spiritual lives. Up to this time our parents have ably guided us, but the possibility of their answering to our every "beck and call" is not possible now. Here at college we are learning to think for ourselves, make decisions, and resist the many temptations which we face.

Religious ideals as foundations, continued the speaker, will set a rightful and steadfast beginning. The challenge is whether to build a foundation of "stone" or be satisfied

Debaters Continue Activities With Temple and Rider

In keeping with the tradition of starting the New Year with lots of activity, the Ursinus Debating Club held an intercollegiate debate at its first meeting in the New Year. The visiting team, Richard Ott-schuler and Karl Van Ahen of Temple University, debated the negative side of the question, "Resolved: That labor should have a direct share in the management of industry." Robert McKee '49, and Hal Grossman '49, upheld the affirmative side for Ursinus.

The debate was an interesting one with emphasis on the words, "direct share." A bombardment of questions from the negative side tried to force the affirmative side to pin point their definition of "direct share" to a specific, actual phases of industrial policy.

This same question will be debated tomorrow afternoon with Rider College. Grace Neuman '48, and Leona Bechtold '47, will debate for Ursinus on the affirmative side. The debate will be held in Room 7 of Bomberger Hall at 3 p. m. All students are invited to come.

The club has expanded its membership by accepting Richard Brandon '49, Randolph Warden '48, Richard Taylor '50, and Doris Dalby '50, as members.

Support the Ruby

One of the most popular and outstanding traditions of almost every college is the year-book which preserves for each student memories of his college days. Here at Ursinus the responsibility of the yearbook is placed entirely in the hands of students. By this we mean that no aid is given to the staff by the school. The Ruby must pay for itself.

In previous years we have heard a cry for bigger and better year books from the students. There is only one way in which the staff will be able to comply with that request this year. They must have the full cooperation of the student body. An early estimation places the cost of the 1947 Ruby in the neighborhood of $4,000. Each additional page costs $22 alone plus the cost of the engravings. In order to meet this expense at least six hundred books must be sold in addition to the goal of one thousand dollars in advertising.

The Ruby has offered a ten percent commission on all advertisements. Would it be too much to ask every student to make an attempt to secure one ad in their hometown during semester vacation? It would be your contribution towards a better and bigger 1947 Ruby.

The senior class has been asked to set an example by establishing a goal of 100 percent purchase among its members. It is their year-book and they should support it whole-heartedly.

The editors and their staff have been working conscientiously on the content and arrangement of the material. They are doing their part; the rest must be left to the students.

Collegiate Review

A new type of college program is being offered this year by Transylvania College, according to a recent announcement by President Raymond F. McLain.

The new program will have no required courses for graduation, but through an individual counseling system will allow the student to take courses centering about a major field of interest even though these courses cut across departmental and divisional lines. Emphasis will be placed on a general education program designed to give the individual a knowledge of the peoples and cultures and philosophies of the entire world.

The plan calls for three types of courses—general education, departmental courses and noncredit courses. In the second classification, the economics and sociology department is offering business administration type courses such as accounting, business law, marketing and government and business. Industrial management and statistics are being added, and the finance course is being split into a corporation finance and investments course and a money, credit and banking course.

Appointment of Dr. Earl English, of the University of Missouri School of Journalism, as executive secretary of the Accrediting Committee was announced by Dwight Marvin, editor Troy Record and president of the American Council on Education for Journalism, to complete the organization developed to accredit schools of journalism in the United States.

The first step of the Accrediting Committee will be to gather data on budgets, teaching staff, curricula, equipment, libraries, standards of instruction, and records of graduates of the schools. By the first of the year it hopes to be able to present to the American Council recommendations for standards of accreditation. The council will then issue invitations to schools to apply for accreditation.

C. Garber Elected Head of YMCA To Replace Newlin

Calvin Garber '47, has been elected president of the YMCA to succeed Joseph Newlin, who will graduate at the close of this semester.

Since entering Ursinus in the fall of 1942, Cal has been active in numerous campus organizations, devoting most of his time to the Y. His first duties were with the social committee, of which he was elected chairman in his sophomore year. At the time of his entrance into the Signal Corps in 1944, Cal was vice-president of the Y.

Discharged last July, Cal returned to Ursinus this fall. At present he is a member of the Ruby staff, Alpha Psi Epsilon fraternity, Curta Club, and chairman of the Interdenominational committee. After receiving his B.S. degree in June, the new president plans to teach after taking his master's degree.

The Y leader said that he sees no need for a change in any of the organizations policies, and that it will continue its well-planned activities.

GAFF from the GRIZZLY

or What's Bruin

Here we are with exams just around the corner and everyone has that "I wish I'd read this before" feeling . . . Adamthwaite is worried about his 98 average . . . even the three big bad wolves from the Annex are aware of the approaching doom — Turner dusted off his English book, and Mac evicted the moths from his notebook so they could take up residence in George's wallet again.

Plans are being made to enlarge Stine's reception room—Lou Oddo and Fritz Romer find it a little small for both of them — making up the front steps group — Ray and Bill waiting for Chris and Biz, and lately, a new rooter—how 'bout it Dettie?

Looks like the Renner-Vance combination was too much for Jack and Jose . . . seven, seven, come eleven — but they're still game for more.

Question of the week . . . Who called the meeting of Dick Reid, Lois Goldstein, Sully, Cal Garber, Connie Bartholomew, Kromka, and Ann Harting and then failed to show up to reveal what this group, working together, could accomplish?

Guess Sunny and Ken, Jo and Walt, Elmer and Ken, Pete and Bill and a few others will look twice at the buses to Collegeville from Norristown after the Schwenksville bus went on its merry way leaving them with a nice walk home.

Cheers for both the J.V. and Varsity basketball teams for their great showing against Drexel and Haverford—looks like we're headed for another good season.

Here and There: Andy Souerwine's favorite line " . . . say about 9:30 tonight?" . . . Sid Sponaule, latest addition to Joe Jones' harem . . . Sully opening with a four card suit, jack high . . . Joe Much a changed man since he came back to school — student council yet!! . . . Dave Bahney suddenly very interested in getting to class half an hour early when asked to play bridge . . . Roy Weidman 'n June Ellis switching off with Anita Mann and Bud Bartholomew.

Students were quite surprised to see that modern indirect lighting had been installed in room 5 during Christmas vacation. Dr. Matern's only remark on the subject was, "They'd make good ice cube trays."

And that does it for this week—see you later.

The German Problem

During the recent war, the efforts of the Allies were directed to defeat the Germans wherever they had occupied territory. Achievement of the goal, as far as military activities were concerned, was realized on VE Day when the cessation of hostilities in Europe was announced. The problem of what to do with Germany, a defeated nation, once more loomed into the foreground.

The Yalta Agreement of February 1945 had made three important decisions regarding the status of a defeated Germany. The first decision was to the effect of dividing Germany into four occupational zones, one for England, the United States, Russia, and France. These zones were to be controlled and co-ordinated through an Allied Control Council in Berlin. The second decision concerned German industries used for military production which were either to be eliminated or controlled by the four powers and the determination of principles of denazification, demilitarization, and disarmament. The third decision was to the effect of fixing the Russo-Polish boundary approximately along the Curzon Line and promising Poland that she should be "compensated by substantial accessions of territory in the North and West."

The first decision of the Yalta Agreement has been carried out. Four occupational zones now constitute Germany with Allied headquarters in Berlin. The Clayes-Robertson plan, however, which went into effect January 1, 1947, has modified the administration of the zones by providing for an economic merger of the English and American zones. This merger is an important step in the direction of German unity. Under this plan, five bi-partite interzonal policy committees have been organized to supervise finance, transportation, communication, food, and agriculture.

Denazification, a part of the second decision, has been carried on, although not too successfully, in each of the zones. The amnesty granted by the United States in the American Zone has cleared 800,000 from prosecution as former Nazis. This amnesty is valuable in three ways, economically because many of the 800,000 now are free to work in industries producing goods for export; politically, because the amnesty represents a step toward attaining stability in Germany; and administratively because more time can be given to concentration on more important Nazis by the denazification board.

Control or elimination of industry used for military purposes has been carried on in each of the zones. Russia has even transported some of the industry from her zone, but most of the plant removals have now ceased. Industries such as coal and steel, used indirectly for military purposes, are producing again under the supervision of the particular government in the zone.

The third decision of the Yalta Agreement has been put into effect, but still must be accepted at the peace table when settlement of the German question comes up. Poland has been compensated but "far beyond a reasonable interpretation of the agreement" as James Warburg has stated in his recent booklet "Germany—Nation or No-Man's Land." The Potsdam Declaration established the German-Polish frontier at the Oder-Neisse Line, thus taking away from Germany Upper Silesia, East Prussia, except for the upper half, Pomerania, Lower Silesia, and parts of Brandenburg. This territory contains about nine million Germans and could produce food for about seventeen million Germans, thereby greatly alleviating the food problem in Germany.

Regarding this apparent land grab of Poland, James Byrnes in his Stuttgart speech said very vaguely that Poland should be allowed to keep some of the provinces, the ones with the coal and heavy industry, but give back some of the agricultural lands.

In spite of the vagueness of Byrnes' speech, subsequent actions such as the economic merger, amnesty, and the possibility of a Franco-Soviet compromise on Germany to get reparations, the prospect for agreement seems better than at any time since Potsdam. There is disagreement, however, on what to do with a united Germany if Germany reaches that status. Russia wants a communist Germany, U.S. a federated and democratic Germany, and England prefers a socialist Germany capable of acting as a buffer between Britain and Russia. These conflicting views will be debated when the council of foreign ministers meets in Moscow in March. But more important will be in taking decisive steps to achieve German unity in order to make Germany a nation or a no-man's land.

Jay Vees Drop Initial Tilt to Drexel Scrubs In Overtime Contest

Preceding the varsity Drexel fracas last Wednesday night, the junior Bruins dropped a heart-breaker to the Dragon jayvees by a 42-38 count. The game went into an overtime period before being described.

The Cubs, composed chiefly of frosh hardwooders displayed very little court savvy during the first half, but suddenly sprang to life during the final period, fighting a scintillating uphill battle to knot the count seconds before the final gun. The apprentice dragons, dipping two-pointers with amazing accuracy from far beyond the foul circle busted into a 11-7 edge by the end of the first quarter and swelled the score to 16-11 by half time. Coach Seeders, in order to witness each of his novice Bruins in action, substituted freely during the half but was unable to uncover a clicking combination.

With Davidson and Kern bearing the scoring brunt, and Bahney and Sanders performing nobly beneath the bucket, the Cubs found the range during the last ten minutes to close the Drexel gap. However, in a five minute overtime period the tiring Cubs were held scoreless while Drexel dropped two quick field goals to ice the fray.

Sextet Practices For Opening Game Against Albright

Looking forward hopefully to a bright season, the girls basketball team is now preparing for its opening game against Albright on January 21. All but one of last year's varsity is returning.

Jane Brusck '47, is captain of this year's team. This will be Jane's third year as a forward on the varsity; last year she received honorable mention on the Inter-collegiate team. Another returning senior is Erma Keyes. Erm has contributed to the varsity for two years and is well known for her shots under the basket. Bugs Calhoun, Winnie Mutchler, and Connie Warren, all sophomores, complete the list of veteran forwards this year. Bugs was another one to receive honorable mention on the Inter-collegiate team.

Betty Jean Moyer, Peg Hunter, Evie Moyer, Bunny Baum, and Floy Lewis are back again this year in the guarding position. Mo saved many a basket last year due to her ability to block shots. Mary Evans, a frosh from Lansdowne, will probably see a lot of action this year. Mary showed her technique and speed in hockey and it appears that she has equal ability in basketball.

The schedule this season looks plenty tough. In addition to last year's opponents, Immaculata has been added. Immaculata has always had one of the best teams around and they will be quite a challenge to our sextet.

Coach Seeders' Debut a Success As Defending Champs Win Easily

The basketball season opened here officially last Wednesday evening when the charges of Coach Jerry Seeders defeated Drexel 60 to 50. A sizable crowd was on hand to see the local quintet hurdle the first step in their quest for retention of the southern division crown of the Middle Atlantic Conference. Picked by coach Seeders to start this initial contest were Brandt and Ziegler, forwards, Forsyth and Moore, guards, and Snyder at center.

The game was hotly contested throughout. The local lads gained the lead in the first quarter and despite numerous threats by the Dragons they were able to stay ahead and go on to win. Early in the opening chapter, several long set shots by Dave Ziegler did much toward offsetting the uncanny shooting of Kollar of Drexel. The Bears held the lead throughout the first two quarters, and at the half the scoreboard read Ursinus 29, Drexel 24. As the second half got under way, Drexel pulled to within three points of the Bears, and it appeared for a time that the visitors had at last fathomed the defense that Coach Seeders has stressed all season.

However, much to the relief of the crowd, Snyder and Moore connected for two ringers apiece, to boost the Bruin margin to eleven points. That put an end to Drexel's threat and the fourth quarter consisted of ball stealing by both teams. At the final gun the Red, Old Gold, and Black was on the long end of a 60 to 50 score.

Sparklers for the home five were John Snyder with 16 points and George Moore, the highest jumper on the floor, with 14. The Bears yielded top scoring honors for the night to Kollar of Drexel whose 21 points were a positive indication of his ability.

Ursinus Independents Win Over Collegeville Commodores, 43-37

On last Tuesday night the Ursinus Collegians opened their season with a bang by edging out a clean cut 43-37 triumph over the Collegeville Commodores, a leading independent club of this vicinity. The Collegians are composed entirely of Ursinus students, who have represented the school on the court in years past either in varsity or frosh togs, but who, for various reasons, are not wearing Bear spangles this season.

The Collegians, who are often referred to as the Black Knights, started a quintet consisting of Jack Kemp and Roy Todd at forwards, Lew Ross at center, and Bob Juppe and Lou Myers at guards. This five opened cautiously, and maintained a steady, even pace until relieved later in the half by Jose Amadeo, Gene Massey, John Kajmo, and Ken Reinhart. The first half was close and hard fought and wound up in a knotted count of 16-16.

In the second half, the Black Knights went to work and built up a lead of seven points which was often threatened but never overcome. The tussle ended with the Collegians victorious by six points.

Featuring a stiff defense and a fast breaking attack throughout, the Rah-Rah boys played a surprisingly smooth game for a season's inaugural tilt. Soon as some rough spots are ironed out they

Bears Capture Second Victory; Down Fords In Spine Tingler, 48-46

Ziegler Tops Scorers; Forsyth's Tally in Final Minute Decides

In Saturday's thrilling game, the likes of which probably won't be seen for the rest of the season, Haverford's lowly rated five was downed by a spirited Bear quintet by a 48-46 count. Starting off like the proverbial house-on-fire, Ursinus seemed set to give the 'Fords the thumping of the decade. All of a sudden the Main Liners started cashing in on any shot taken and pushed into the lead as the Collegeville rooting section sat in quiet amazement. Having once broken into the dominant position, Haverford protected their lead until the final two minutes when nothing could stop the rebounding Bears.

Making good on 19 out of 69 shots, the Bears proved that once again they have a team to beat. Haverford, dropping 18 of 64 attempts, was paced by Frank Kennedy and Hal Whitcomb, who amassed 26 points between them. Dave Ziegler, with 13 markers, was the scoring star of the night for the victors.

The Bears quickly amassed a 7-2 lead after the opening whistle on field goals by Forsyth, Ziegler, and Moore. They soon raised this lead to 15-3 as Moore, Ziegler, and Snyder came through in quick order with two-pointers. After Forsyth connected with a foul, the 'Fords rang up 14 straight punts before a bewildered audience comprised of an equal number of fans for both teams. The Bears' defense seemed to crumble completely and shot after shot was dropped from the front of the basket. Not until Snyder tapped Moore's missed foul through the bucket could the Bears penetrate the 'Fords' defense and the clubs continued on even terms until halftime, which found Jerry Seeders' group on the wrong end of a 26-23 score.

Two different teams failed to stop the 'Fords from piling up their lead until, at one time, it reached 12 points. When Brandt connected on a set shot and Much tallied twice in succession the picture grew brighter, but Haverford still held a 42-33 lead as the starting team appeared on the floor after a lengthy rest.

Here was a new team and a new ball game, and it didn't take anyone long to realize it. Ziegler hit on a duck and Moore followed with a one-hand stab to cut the lead to five points. The 'Fords notched two more field goals and then vanished from the scoring scene as the players and Ursinus fans went wild. Snyder dropped three foul shots. Ziegler hit on a foul and his sixth field goal of the evening, and Brandt sank a one-hander to run the score to 45-46. With less than a minute to go, Bill Forsyth settled everything with a two-point shot from under the basket and added a foul for good measure. Victory number two was officially in the books.

Footballers Name Parks, Detwiler 1946 Co-Captains

The '46 football squad met last Friday to name an honorary captain for the past season, and unanimously chose Paul Detwiler senior halfback, and E. G. Parks graduating center to bear the honors, as co-captains for the year. Coach Stevens presided over the meeting, and was well-satisfied with the selection.

Parks, a married veteran, entered Ursinus in 1939 during which year he participated in Frosh football. He was forced to forego any further college training until 1941 when he returned to campus to nailed down the varsity first string pivot slot. 1942 found the likeable husky in one of his most outstanding sessions of college football, and his last until this past fall. In the interim, E. G. saw considerable service with the Navy, serving as a Lieutenant aboard one of Admiral Nimitz's fighting craft in the Pacific. This year Parks' stabilizing influence in the center of a stalwart but largely green line was one of the highlights of an otherwise none-to-prosperous schedule. Oftimes, when a foe drive seemed headed certainly for pay territory, E.G. came through from his line-backer slot with bone-jarring tackles to halt opposing backs on the minus side of the scrimmage line. It was this display of drive that many times bolstered a sagging forward wall and sparked it to defensive heights. Parks will graduate this spring, and will be seeking a coaching career.

Paul Detwiler, hailing from nearby Lansdale, is one of that city's many able contributions to Ursinus athletics. Paul, in his four years at Ursinus, has been outstanding both on the gridiron and on the cinder path. A sprinter on the track team, Detwiler cavorted from the wingback spot on the '40 Frosh eleven and the '41 and '42 varsity clubs. This year Paul found a new system at Ursinus, but was quick to pick up the intricacies of T-formation right half-backing. He was particularly outstanding in the Swarthmore tilt in which he reeled off several long gains including a 20-yard touchdown gallop. During the war Paul spent his time in the ETO with the Army. He is a Business Administration major, president of his class, member of the Men's Student Council, and active in various other organizations on campus.

almost caught the winners. Randall's eleven points topped the scorers and Dick Davidson's brilliant play helped to keep the losers in the ball game.

Looking 'Em Over

Last Wednesday night a large throng of loyal followers of Ursinus hardwood fortunes jammed Thompson-Gay gym to watch Coach Jerry Seeders, in his debut at Ursinus, rip the cellophane from a brand new basketball season. The crowd was soon stirred to tumult as the '47 bucket crew fired often and true at the Drexel hoop to halt the high-scoring Dragon aggregation to the tune of 60-50. Defending champs of the laurels garnered by last season's efficient five, the current Bear edition boasts but one returning regular from '46. That man, Roy Love, did not see service in the opening tussle, but the eight men employed in the Drexel rout displayed well-drilled talent in all departments. Weaving an intricate pattern of "figure 8" offensive maneuvering, and alternating with an effective pivot system, the Bear five exhibited fine form both on lay-ups and on shots from outside. Only twice did the blistering attack falter, once near the end of the first half, when the Drexel fast-break caught five tired young men from Ursinus flatfooted and managed to slice a ten point margin to a five point halftime edge, and later in the final chapter when the tiring Bruins came to a standstill. On the latter occasion Coach Seeders bolstered his combination with fresh men and the assault continued.

Those who started the wolf call earlier in the campaign when the slight mentor carved his squad with seemingly peculiar discrimination have been stymied for the nonce. In his first experience as a collegiate coach, Seeders handled a heterogeneous gathering of hopefuls most successfully. Unable to boast any tremendous height so popular with modern day basketball, Coach Seeders juggled his charges masterfully in order to realize the best possible attack, while sacrificing no defensive possibilities. The Bear basketekers controlled both backboards exclusively, with the exception of a few occasions on which Drexel's driving pivot man Joe Kollar slipped beneath the iron to tap in two-pointers. To further attest the balance of the five, the scoring efforts were well distributed with only left-winging John Snyder and "Rocky" Moore hitting for double digits, while each of the remaining performers contributed to the total.

On Tuesday night of last week, Roy Todd, diminutive sportster on campus, gathered an array of mixed athletes to do battle on the high school court with the Collegeville Commodores, local independent outfit. The local CTHS alumni ruled strong favorites over the collegians having the edge in both experience as a club, and organization, but when the shouting had died away there was no joy in Collegeville. After a disappointing start during which it seemed both clubs were dancing merely to erase several conspicuous panaches, so congruous with independent basketball, the Todd-trained gentlemen found the area beneath the Commodore goal quite comforting and proceeded to all but run the locals from their own floor. The Commodores managed to plug a few gaps in their sinking hull, however, and knotted the count by intermission, only to find the better conditioned collegians even more warmed to the situation during the second session. The final count was 43-37 in favor of the collegians, who plan an extensive campaign that will find them matching shots with some of the finer sandlot outfits in this area.

This will let you know "Looking 'Em Over" is not overlooking any "simon-pure" athletic endeavors on or off campus that involves Ursinus talent.

Fire Causes Slight Damage When Sparks Ignite Fircroft Roof

Collegeville firemen answered an alarm on January 6th when sparks from a chimney ignited the roof of Fircroft Hall, Ursinus College dormitory for women on Main St. near the Collegeville-Trappe borough line. Firemen had little difficulty in extinguishing the flames. Damage was slight. The flames were first seen by D. L. Helfferich, vice-president of the college; and Horace E. Godshall, superintendent of grounds at the school; who were driving by. They rushed into the house and warned the residents, Dr. and Mrs. Foster Dennis, and two women students. Normally the building houses eight women students. The residents and the two officers of the school formed a bucket brigade to fight the fire until the arrival of the firemen.
