Princeton Captures Debating Crown at Annual Tournament

Last Friday and Saturday the second annual Benjamin Franklin debating tournament was held at Princeton University. The topic was the national question, "Resolved that Labor Should be Given a Direct Share in the Management of Industry." Two teams consisting of Andrew Souerwine '47, Dean Evans '49, Leona Bechtold '47, and Randolph Warden '48, represented Ursinus in the tournament, which was won by Princeton.

The negative team from Princeton defeated the affirmative team from Temple in the finals to win the silver cup presented to the debating conference by the Philadelphia Inquirer. In a tie for third place were Swarthmore, Bryn Mawr, and Rutgers. Ursinus, Villanova, Penn, Rider, and St. Joseph's followed in that order, Ursinus tying with the three following schools for fourth place. Accompanying the Ursinus team as judge was the college chaplain, Rev. Charles C. Wallick.

An interesting forum was held for the debaters on Friday evening with the former ambassador to Poland, Mr. Arthur Bliss Lane, as guest speaker. This was Mr. Lane's first public appearance since his resignation several weeks ago. He spoke of the growing communist influence in Poland, and his resignation itself represented a split with the foreign policy of this nation in that area. He expressed the belief that Russia would not now accede to any US or UN demands that she withdraw her influence from Poland or the other satellite nations.

Pageant Based on Nutcracker Suite Selected for May 10

Preparations are underway for the pageant, The Nutcracker Fantasy written by Phyllis Bright '48, to be presented on May Day, Saturday, May 10.

Based on the Nutcracker Suite, the pageant centers around a little girl named Polly. After receiving many wonderful presents from her friends on her birthday, Polly disdainfully discards a nutcracker given to her by Peter, a poor little boy. The nut cracker is magic and comes to life as a handsome prince who grants Polly the chance to make a wish come true.

She asks that her presents be permitted to come to life. The Russian and the Chinese dolls, the tin soldiers, and the jack-in-the-box dance for her. The charming prince falls in love with the fairy queen who dances with her court. When they leave, Polly is left alone. Peter returns and she realizes that he is her true love.

Miss Natalie Hoagland, physical education instructor, and Ruth Reese '47, student assistant, will direct the production of the Nutcracker Fantasy with the aid of various committee chairmen and committees. These include the following: costumes for May Court, Elaine Bickhart '47; costumes for pageant, Flora McCaughin '47; grounds, Erma Keyes '47; hospitality, Janice Wenkenbach '47; music, Carolyn Howells '47; program, Betty Ruskie '47; and properties, Dorothy Kleppinger '47.

Hilarious Show Nears Final Rehearsals As Ronnie Sare Directs Very Good Eddie

by Carol Schoeppe '48

A week before its performance the rehearsals for the musical comedy, "Very Good, Eddie" are in full swing. Ronnie Sare '48, seems to be about the busiest person there, for she, as student director as well as actress must watch every action, and has quite an active job coaching the chorus with a "Right! Left!", a frown, then a grin. Mr. Helfferich seems to enjoy getting in a few chorus steps himself.

The plot of "Very Good, Eddie" is quite hilarious. Two honey moon couples on a Hudson River day boat become involved in a confusing situation when half of each couple gets stranded on the shore while the "lesser halves" sail up the river. This causes the two meek, weak-willed little people, Eddie Kettle (Richard Brandon '49) and Elsie Darling (Marian Bell '48) to reluctantly pretend to be man and wife after being abandoned by their strong-willed partners for life, Georgina (Jean Robertson '48) and Percy (John McCluskey '50). They all arrive at a hotel up the river, including Madame Metrappo, a comic opera teacher (Ronnie Sare), her six pupils, one of whom is Eddie's old girl-friend, Elsie Lilly (Dorris Renner '47), and Elsie's admirer, Dick Rivers, (Dave

Dr. N. McClure Names Kurt Wieneke Coach Of Football, Wrestling

President Norman E. McClure, of Ursinus College, has announced the appointment of Kurt Wieneke, wrestling coach here from 1934-'37, as head football coach. He succeeds Pete Stevens, who has moved on to Temple as backfield mentor. Wieneke will again handle wrestling, as well as teach in the Physical Education Department.

Wieneke is a graduate of Springfield College, and obtained his master's degree in physical education from Penn State in 1931. He was coach of football at Phoenixville High School for ten years, during which time his teams won seven Philadelphia Suburban High School championships. Moving to Norristown High School, his first grid unit captured the suburban crown. After serving as a Red Cross field director in North Africa and Italy for two years during the war, he returned to Norristown to coach football in 1945-46.

Wieneke is a resident of Phoenixville, where he lives with his wife and two boys.

Model UN Attracts Forty-one Colleges; Ursinus Attends

by Dorothy Marple '48

One hundred fifty students representing forty-one eastern colleges and universities met at Swarthmore College, April 2, for a three day meeting of the Model General Assembly of the United Nations. This meeting was sponsored by the American Association for the UN as the twenty-first in a series of intercollegiate conferences which began in 1930 as a model League of Nations.

The student delegates were assigned to represent the member countries of the UN and to take the same position in the model conference as the UN member-states have taken in the actual UN conference.

Ursinus students present at the conference were Harold Grossman '49, John Harsch '48, Dorothy Marple '48, and Nancy-Jeanne Talcott '47. Mr. J. Douglas Davis, adviser of the International Relations Club, accompanied the group to Swarthmore. These students represented Saudi Arabia and helped to form a strong Arab League. Each of the four delegates represented Saudi Arabia on one of the four commissions; namely, the political and security commission; the economic and financial commission; the social, humanitarian, and cultural commission; and the atomic energy commission. The commissions convened separately for these sessions in order to prepare reports for the plenary session of the General Assembly. Such topics as UNESCO, the international trade organization, atomic energy, developmental authority, trusteeships, particularly Palestine, admission of new members to the UN were discussed and reported on.

Officers of the Model General Assembly included Helen Chopin of Vassar College, president and Barbara Danon, Swarthmore College, secretary-general. The official advisor to the conference from the UN was Dr. Walter A. Chudson of the Department of Economic Affairs, UN Secretariat. Dr. Bryce Wood of the Swarthmore faculty was also a consultant to the conference.

Featured speakers were Professor Arnold Wolfers from Yale and Mr. Olaf Paus-Grunt from the Educational Services Section, UN Secretariat. Prof. Wolfers spoke on the "International Control of Atomic Energy" in which he emphasized the necessity for creating an international development authority that would be free to inspect any activity that might become dangerous. Mr. Paus-Grunt addressed the conference on the theme, "The United Nations and Its Public," describing the purpose of the Education Service Section of the UN and emphasizing the importance of spreading information about the UN.

Delegation Attends Model Legislature

Ursinus was well represented with a delegation of ten students at the Intercollegiate Conference on Government held at Harrisburg this past week-end.

Approximately 500 students from 40 colleges of Pennsylvania joined in executing the duties of the Pennsylvania Legislature. The Ursinus delegation, amidst the turmoil of all-night caucuses, blocs and lobbying, fared very well. John Dahlman '48, served as chairman of the Health and Welfare Committee and Pat Dougherty '50, was given the political plum of Assistant Clerk of the general sessions.

In addition to these honors the Ursinus delegation was able to have made into law four of the six bills it presented. Dorothy-Arden Dean '49, one of four delegates selected for outstanding work at the conference, broadcasted over radio station WHP, Harrisburg. The broadcast was a discussion of possible legislation aimed at solving the labor problems of Pennsylvania.

The delegation was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. G. Sieber Pancoast. Included in the delegation were Dorothy-Arden Dean, Katherine Sheppard '47, John Dahlman, Herbert Dahlman '49, Pat Dougherty, Harold Bucken '49, Joseph Jones '47, Wallace Smiley '50, William Lambie '47, and James Lorimer '48.

J. R. C. Commentator

The Communists in America

"It is the unanimous opinion of this committee that the communist party of the United States is in fact the agent of a foreign government."

Such was the report recently published by the Un-American Activities Committee. Our problem, then, is how to effect a program that will render useless any communistic activities in the U. S. Or, don't you feel that there is a cause for anxiety? If the communist movement here is not injurious, is it as harmless, let us say, as the pre-Pearl Harbor Bund?

Some people seem to discount any new Red threat, and are prone to drift back to those complacent feelings reminiscent of the early Hitler period that culminated in an empty place at many a family table. Maybe the Bill of Rights guarantees the convening privileges of those hopped-up advocates of the Stalin gang. Then, again, cannot these actions be condemned as aspiring to Fifth Column heights? This is where the complications arise. A purge of Red organizations would, in the end, defeat its own purpose. Communism can no more be outlawed than can a war be fought to end all wars.

We must avoid any recurrence of the "Inquisition" that followed World War I when the "Red Scare" was prevalent. Communistic activities were temporarily halted but there were also a number of injustices against some radical, yet loyal citizens. There exists, however, a marked difference between the loosely organized communists of the 1919 era, and the tightly-knit units now in operation. Granted, that the party strength of present day communists in the U. S. is small, does that detract from its potency? Ex-Ambassador Bullitt is quoted in the April 7 issue of Newsweek as saying: "what is important is the claim of the communists . . . that for every party member there are ten others ready, willing, and able to do the party's work."

While the Russian bear is still in hibernation, recovering that strength lost in the past struggle for survival, his cubs are romping about abroad and are laying the groundwork for future communistic gains. Our handling of these agencies may greatly affect our security if we are ever required to engage Russia in a third World War.

In two forums this year, we have heard speakers touch upon the question of communism. We must be less pacifistic than Norman Thomas, who, although recognizing the dangers lurking in the Soviet shadow, abhors military preparedness; more realistic than Professor Michael Karpovitch, who seems to believe that nature will take its course and all will end well. Our foreign policy has recently taken a turn and we appear to be treating Russia more firmly. In order to continue an effective policy toward the Soviet, however, we cannot permit our bases, for example, Hawaii, to deteriorate militarily, which is exactly what is happening as penny-wise politicians lacerate the military budget.

The handling of domestic communistic activities will be dictated by our treatment of the guiding light. Russia, under her present government, will always consider any capitalistic nation as a threat. We won't alienate potential good will by military preparedness. Russia probably will not be in a condition to fight even three years from now. But then, at the rate we are going, we won't either.

Getting back to the home front, it would be a good idea to view with suspicion the anti-war organizations—those "Peace Forever" clubs—and take a little salt when you swallow the propaganda of brotherly love contingents. Sure, they proclaim worthy ideals and perhaps some of the groups are sincere, but think before you contribute to their cause. Take much more sodium-chloride when you digest the Russophile's literature about a benevolent bear. All this doesn't mean carrying a chip on our shoulder; rather, it advocates the use of rust-preventative on our island defenses and proposes a bit of domestic housecleaning.

If those dreamers, who are snowed-under by the promising future of communism, can be convinced of two factors: first of all, the red color of communism is not to be likened unto roses; secondly, our present system of government seems to be a pretty effective and beneficial method; then, that 10-1 ratio of supporters who are "ready, willing, and able" should be reduced and the effectiveness of U. S. placed communist groups ought to be as weak as the party enrollment appears. To convince such dreamers, however, is not an easy task, and that is primarily due to the apparent lily-whiteness of the "front" organizations whose cause they are blindly supporting. It is not necessary to attempt to exterminate communism; but it must be rendered ineffective.

Resolution on the Death of Dr. Bancroft

Again it is necessary to record with sorrow the death of a colleague, and a privilege to register a brief and inadequate appreciation of his character and achievements.

William Wallace Bancroft, a graduate of this college in the class of 1919, had been a member of the Faculty since 1925, a stimulating and faithful teacher in the departments of English literature and philosophy. Dr. Bancroft was respected for his unassuming dignity, admired for his culture and erudition, honored for his high ideals of conduct and character, and highly regarded for his friendliness and willing cooperation. An innate fastidiousness held him somewhat aloof from many of the interests of the ordinary man. He was concerned chiefly with truth and beauty in many of their aspects; he preferred to ignore the mean, the trifling and the base. His appreciation of profound thought and noble expression he succeeded in communicating to and sharing with congenial minds. While he was valued most by those who thus came most directly under his influence, Professor Bancroft was also esteemed by a much wider circle of acquaintances. He has made his mark on the institution, and will live long in the minds and hearts of those who survive him here.

Bears Trounce Haverford in Opener; Bow to LaSalle

Haverford Tripped By Bears' Base-Hit Barrage in Opener

Ziegler Twirls 5-Hitter; Simons, Kemp Sparkle in Hitting Roles

Ursinus opened its baseball season with an impressive 7-1 win at Haverford on Thursday, behind the effective pitching of Dave (Boom-Boom) Ziegler. For eight innings, Zi kept the Fords runless as he scattered four of their six-hit total over those frames. In the last canto, however, Haverford bunched a walk and two singles to break into the scoring column.

Craig Heberton, ace Ford twirler, found himself in hot water in the initial stanza as lead-off man Archie Simmons doubled and scampered home on another double by Jack Kemp. Kemp advanced to third on Troutman's ground-out, from where he scored on a wild pitch. After two were away, Ziegler lowered the boom for the third, twin-master of the inning, but Heberton whiffed White and Ursinus held a lead they never relinquished.

The Bears were kept in check for the next four innings. Then Snyder gained first on Hughes' error, took second when Ziegler sacrificed, and tallied on Dale White's long double to left field. The Trigger tied the home team in knots, despite the chilly weather, and, for eight innings, the contest was pretty much of a pitcher's battle. The complexion of the game changed in the ninth, however, as Eddie Miller beat out a grounder, went to second on Simon's sacrifice, and sped home as Kemp slashed out his second hit of the day. Troutman was safe on a miscue by Howe, and when the shortstop couldn't handle Snyder's hard grounder, Kemp chalked up the fifth marker. Ziegler slammed out another safety to score Troutman, and when Heberton threw wildly as Snyder came into third, Big John romped across the plate.

Calhoun began the last half of the ninth with a walk; Price singled and both runners moved up on Dark Dave's balk. Brewer then lifted a blooper into short left, driving in the run that broke the ice. A Simons to Kemp to Snyder double play retarded the fire and the Wrightsville warrior whipped three fast ones past Matlack to end the ball game.

Penn Relays to Test Track Stars in First Bid to Alter Marks

Running against the clock for the first time this season, Coach Ray Gurzynski's cinderpaths turned in some surprisingly fine 440 times last Tuesday. With the date for the Penn Relays drawing closer, Gurzynski had practically the entire squad participating in the time trials for the quarter-mile event, hoping that he might find six men fast enough to represent the school in the annual mile relay event. Karl and Don Smith checked in with the top times of the day, the former stepping off a 56.5 quarter with the latter arriving home 56.7 seconds after the starting gun. Two other speedsters, footballer Dick Gladwohl, and Dick Fink, ace wing of the soccer team, broke 60 seconds. Both were clocked in 58.3. Hartzell, Rothween, Tori, Schiller, Heed, Shaw, and Helmbreck showed possibilities of being named to the team. Several men have not been timed as yet, so the final selection will not be made until the early part of next week. Four men will be picked as starters and two alternates will be chosen.

The Relays will be held at Franklin Field next Friday and Saturday, April 25 and 26. Gurzynski is hoping for a little more luck than that which was carried by last year's squad. At that time a fine squad composed of Bob Poole, Skee Olweiler, George Glisson, and Jack Brill was forced out of the running when, after taking an early lead, Olweiler was tripped and all chances of victory smashed.

The times posted thus far top those made by last year's squad, so indications are that the Collegeville lads may stand a very good chance in their first test.

Softball Squad Prepares for Opening Tussle With Albright

With practice now in full swing, Coach Eleanor Snell is rounding her varsity softball team into shape for their opening tussle with Albright College on April 29.

Nine of last year's varsity squad have returned for service again this year. Pitcher and captain Erma Keyes hopes to add a few no-hit no-run games to her record. Hilda Anderson will hold down her spot behind the plate again. First baseman Jane Brusich is the only other regular infield player back.

Lois Cain, Evie Moyer, and Anne Sysenbach, left, center, and right on hand. Although Sis Bosler was not a regular starter she played enough at second base to win her letter. Betty Jean Moyer has been sharing the pitching duties with Erma.

Doris Stierly, a powerful hitter, has been showing up quite well thus far too. Frosh Sue Lienbach and Mary Evans look like a great addition to the squad. Sue's fielding ability has been outstanding as has versatile Mary Evan's steadiness.

Looking 'Em Over

Baseball season opened officially at the ole skule last Thursday afternoon on an auspicious note when lead-off swinger Archie Simons clipped a Haverford hurler's initial slant for a two-ply swat, and came tripping home seconds later when the next man, Jack Kemp, dumped a duplicating double to send home the first Ursinus counter.

The Bruins, nattily clad in brand new just-like-the A's greys, went on to thrash the Fords 7-1 behind the masterful 5-hit twirling of Big Dave Zeigler, erstwhile court ace.

Dave's capable stickwork at the dish has earned him an outfield slot on the days when he's not toiling on the hill. The lackadaisical thumper will probably take his cuts in the clean-up slot when not pitching, and in fifth position when pitching, a situation not dissimilar to the sandlot days when the biggest kid in the block pitched and did his slugging on potent occasions.

Seib will probably rely on Ron Landes and Dave almost exclusively this spring, using his other four hurlers only in relief roles. Alternating and pitching but once a week, these two worthies should pretty well be able to handle the mound chores. Lefty lost a heart-breaker to LaSalle Saturday when he weakened in the eleventh and allowed the Explorers to clinch the fray with a four run uprising.

If nothing else, the Bears will boast the "mistiest" backstop in the circuit in the person of diminutive Roy Todd. The knee-high version of Bill Dickey took over in the LaSalle contest when Eddie Miller split a digit on the meat hand, and provided the four Bruin blows collected from a pair of Explorer tossers.

College baseball always produces its crop of freak occurrences, and this season will be no exception. Heralding the oddities the Muhlenberg nine turned in a 3-2 verdict over the Gettysburg Bullets last Saturday although Mule hitters were able to garner but one base-hit. This situation bears out the brutal truth that college baseball will never be of big-time calibre, because the pitchers are always from three weeks to a month and a half "ahead" of the hitters.

It is rumored that John Snyder, Bear first-sacker and former Main Line League performer will spend as much of his time beating base-hits out of the scorer as he will swinging for them at the plate. The big boy is not unlike the immortal Babe, who could divorce the cover from the pellet or whiff viciously with as impressive a gesture.

Haven't heard too much from Coach Ray Gurzynski recently in regard to his scanty-clads, but it is the general belief that the Ursinus track will blossom forth with a more impressive crop of speedsters than this area has seen in many a moon. The Penn Relays in the near future will serve as an excellent proving ground for the track talent, when the boys match spikes with some of the better small college trackmen in the section.

Intramurals Begin With Softball Tilts In Campus Flag Race

This week Joe Much, well-known Ursinus athlete, was appointed student director of Intra-Mural athletics for the spring and summer seasons. The post is a new one created by athletic director Everett M. Bailey in hopes that an extensive and well-rounded program of athletics for all students of Ursinus will take place. Plans have already been made for organization of an Intra-Mural Softball League similar to the Inter-Dorm basketball league which functioned in the wintertime and included clubs from Curtis, Brodbeck, off-campus, and the Annex. Competition in the popular softball circuit promises to be mighty keen this spring, and undoubtedly the league will be reorganized for the summer session as well.

Tennis will also come in for its share of the spotlight almost immediately with a tennis tourney for prospective racquet wielders not of varsity timber getting underway shortly. This summer when students return for an eight week period of "hitting the books" the Intra Mural program will really blossom forth, and provide the scholars many moments of healthy recreation. Much, a top notch athlete himself has big plans for a wide range program of summer sports including softball, tennis, golf, and possibly participation in the English game of cricket. There is a likely possibility that an informal group of cricket players will organize and participate this spring as well as during the summer under the helm of Dr. Baker.

All in all, Mr. Bailey and Joe Much have high hopes that their prospective policy of "sports for all" which will go into effect right September, 1949. Following the

Explorers' Late Rally Nips Bears In Home Contest

Landes Superb, Whiffs Eight, but Bruins Fail to Produce at Plate

A pair of unearned runs sent Ursinus into extra innings and defeat at the hands of a visiting LaSalle club on Saturday, 6-2. The Explorers broke a 2-2 tie in the 11th to chase Ron Landes to the showers, after the portsider had lasted through ten innings of well-pitched ball in his first appearance of the season.

Landes erred on Harry Miller's sacrifice, that was sandwiched between free passes to Williams and Lutek, and found himself with the bases loaded and none away in the 11th. Up until that time, the staunch lefty had been in complete control; but the strain of his overtime initial assignment became apparent as he weakened in the finale. Pascucci hit a long fly to score Williams, and Vince O'Donnell followed with a drive into right field that sent Miller across with LaSalle's fourth run; Ziegler found difficulty in fielding the liner and Lutek tallied. Ray Hallman came in to put out the fire and was greeted by Daniel's blow that chased home O'Donnell.

Ursinus had jumped into a 1-0 lead on Simon's walk, Kemp's sacrifice, and successive singles by Snyder and Ziegler. Landes kept LaSalle hitless until the 5th when Vince O'Donnell smashed out a clean hit, stole second, and slid safely into third as Kemp threw low on a fielder's choice. Hal O'Donnell fled to deep right and brother Vince raced home to tie the score. The second unearned run came in the 6th on Lutek's single that scored Williams, who had gained passage in Simon's binned to score run number two to tie it up in their half after two were out, as White walked, plifered second, and countered on Troutman's bingle.

Ursini missed its best chance to capture the victory in the last of the 7th, when Todd opened with a single and Landes reached first on Daniel's error. Simons' attempted sacrifice went awry and Todd was thrown out at third; Kemp and Snyder hit into force plays and the threat was overcome. The loss, however, was no disgrace, for Landes displayed plenty of stuff and the miscues were made by an otherwise reliable double-play combination.

Dr. Edgar Cale Outlines Background, Present Aspects of U. S. Foreign Policy

by Jean Anne Schultz '48

Dr. Edgar Cale, director of the summer school and professor of political science at the University of Pennsylvania, lectured in Bomberger Hall on Wednesday on the United States foreign policy in the Mediterranean.

Dr. Cale limited his talk to the aspects of the situation in Greece and Turkey where the United States has been asked to take over Britain's responsibility. Beginning with a survey of the historical background, he showed how the trend of British-American relations has been from a dominance of Britain to a balance of power and, more recently, to a sharing of responsibilities.

Now Great Britain's financial resources are reduced and she is forced to withdraw from some of her imperial commitments. Since the policy of Americans and Britains has been a common one in some areas, the continuance of that policy is now left to the United States.

The situation in the Near East concerns three critical points, according to Dr. Cale. Some of the world's largest oil wells, important to the United States because of her rapidly-decreasing supply, are found there. The Russians are again crusading for a warm water port, which would increase their world importance immeasurably. The ultimate aim of the Communist regime is to extend Marxist philosophy to all Europe.

The Truman Doctrine represents a distinct change in our foreign policy. Contrary to our policy of non-intervention, we are now contemplating intervention on a national scale. There is ground for the criticism, said Dr. Cale, that we are not justified in so by-passing the United Nations.

Dr. Cale pointed out the extensive consequences involved in accepting the British commitments in Greece. The United States might be called upon to give real military aid in the event of trouble in the Balkans. And in order to keep Great Britain solvent, we may be required to intervene in British situations in India and South Africa.

Harmony between Russia and the United States is possible now, Dr. Cale seemed to think, if both countries strain every effort to keep the compromise. It is quite possible that When Russia has achieved a higher standard of living, she will become less aggressive; and when the extremes of Communism have been erased, the compromise will be more easy. Meanwhile, it is possible for the United States and Russia to have a satisfactory trade agreement.

IRC Hears Report on Work of Model United Nations' Assembly

The International Relations Club met last Tuesday evening to discuss the work accomplished at the Model General Assembly of the U. N. held at Swarthmore College April 3, 4, and 5.

Dorothy Marple '48, and John Harsch '48, gave reports pertaining to the various commission work. All the delegates in attendance found the Model Assembly extremely enlightening and helpful in understanding the great problems that now exist among nations.

IRC will open its spring membership drive this week. Any student interested in participating in the discussions of current international affairs should apply to Lois Williams '47, John Harsch '48, Nancy-Jeanne Talcott '47, or Mr. J. Douglas Davis before next Monday.

H. Conner Reviews Seeing Things By J. M. Brown for English Club

Seeing Things, a book by John Mason Brown, was reviewed by Harriet Conner '47, last Monday evening at the meeting of the English Club at the home of Dr. Norman E. McClure.

This book is composed of various selections from Mr. Brown's column in the Saturday Review of Literature. Miss Conner included in her review comments on such people as George H. Cohen, Billy Rose, and Walt Disney.

Following this, other members of the club participated in an English quiz conducted by Dr. McClure.
