Drive Extended To Obtain $2000 For Fighter Plane

Jane Reifsnyder Wins War Bond; Second Prize To Be Awarded

In order to obtain the extra $2000 needed to buy a trainer plane, the Ursinus War Bond drive has been extended for an additional two weeks.

At the close of the original four week period, the total stood at $12,775 with Jane Reifsnyder '46, winning the War Bond by an individual total of $4500. Other high scorers were Eileen Smith '44, $3425; Sally Deibler '46, $3400, and Marjory Gelpke '45, $800.

By Monday, March 13, the end of the additional two week period, the student with the highest total, excluding the winner of the War Bond, will receive $10 in War Stamps.

Since dormitories have not fulfilled their pledges a prize will be awarded on March 13 to the dorm most closely fulfilling its pledge regardless of the amount pledged.

NEED FOR CHRISTIANITY STRESSED AT VESPERS

Speaking on the place of the church in the future, Fred Knieriem '46, pointed out the need for Christianity in politics, international relations and social work at Vespers last evening in Bomberger chapel.

Knieriem defined the church as an organized group of humanity working for Christianity, and stressed the importance of the diligence of this group. He quoted the Goodspeed translation of a well-known Bible verse, "Get up and stand in front," and applied this to the church and its workers.

In answer to the question, "Where are we going and how do we get there?" Knieriem said that Christianity should be our goal and the church can be a means of achievement.

NAVY PLANS TO CONTINUE COLLEGE TRAINING PROGRAM

Rear Admiral Randall Jacobs, chief of naval personnel, declares the navy department has no plans to discontinue its college training program.

Jacobs said his bureau has recently received a number of inquiries concerning reports that the navy college program may be stopped.

In a statement, he declared:

"The U.S. navy is still expanding. The urgent need for technically trained young officers continues, and the colleges and universities participating in the V-12 program are doing a splendid job of producing such officers. While changing wartime conditions may, from time to time, necessitate revision in the quotas for the program in order to conform with the needs of the service, the navy does not contemplate discontinuance of the program."

Educated Women Needed Now In Armed Forces, Later in Post-War Work

Trying to summarize the present situation and to foretell what kind of an education would be best to prepare college women for the post-war world, the Committee on College Women Students and the War has issued a Bulletin in an attempt to help college advisers guide their students.

One outstanding need at present is for more college women in the armed forces, for the WAC, WAVES, SPARS, and Marines all state their need for college graduates as officer candidates. Therefore, advisers should impress upon students the fact that in time of war, the armed forces have the first claim on men and women alike.

Nursing is another field which has an outstanding need for college women. The importance of the nursing profession in war time and its significance in postwar health work cannot be overemphasized, and attention should be called to the fact that opportunities for postwar education and other benefits mentioned for the armed forces will be available for Army and Navy nurses.

War demands for college trained persons have created unusual opportunities for women in civil ser-

DR. W. D. FULLER WILL SPEAK AT FORUM THIS WEDNESDAY

Dr. Walter Deane Fuller, president of the Curtis Publishing company and regional chairman of the Committee for Economic Development, will speak at eight o'clock Wednesday night in Bomberger on Prosperity and Jobs.

Former president of the National Association of Manufacturers, Dr. Fuller is a man of wide business experience. He is the third of a series of prominent speakers to address the Ursinus Forum this year on subjects of current and post-war national and international importance.

The Ursinus Forum will present Dr. Fuller to an audience composed of college students, members of the Perkiomen Branch of the American Association of University Women, and residents of this community.

vice work, the needs being particularly acute in the fields of public and business administration, economics, economic geography, library science, history, public welfare, statistics, mathematics, and agriculture, physical and occupational therapy, the women's land army, offering opportunity for college girls with summer recesses, and engineering aids. All are calling for college women; and it should be emphasized that in all the foregoing fields increasing stress is being laid on the need for college graduates with the ability to act as supervisors or to assume other positions of special responsibility.

The committee cannot foresee just what the specific demands will be in the post-war world but it seems likely that the number of women physicists and mathematicians required will fall off rather sharply, and the demand for educated women workers in the welfare fields will continue. Medicine, nursing, social welfare, housing, recreation, public health, and teaching will be important, and it is women educated in these fields who will probably be the most useful in postwar reconstruction work at home and abroad.

Thirty Colleges to Hold Model United Nations Conference March 30

Continuing a tradition established in order to give college students an opportunity to express their opinions about current world problems, the Middle Atlantic Division of the Eighteenth Model assembly, which will represent a conference of the United Nations, will meet from March 30 to April 1 at Bryn Mawr college. An attempt will be made to resolve some of the problems faced by the United Nations in establishing an international organization.

Delegations from about thirty colleges, each representing an allied nation, will spend three days at the conference discussing the aspects of the country they represent and what part this country will play at the peace conference.

Dr. Helen Dwight Roid, professor of political science at Bryn Mawr, is chairman of the continuation committee. A president will be elected from among the delegates present at the conference.

This conference is particularly significant because it represents an effort on the part of the youth of America to assume its responsibilities in the post-war world by debating controversial matters and formulating sound plans now.

Warning to Men: Lorelei is March 18

Plans are now being made for the Lorelei dance, which will be held Saturday evening, March 18, in the Thompson-Gay gymnasium.

Turn about is fair play. Therefore, as in previous years, the girls will do the inviting. It is up to them to do the asking and the paying. To help out the new Navy students, the boys who haven't dates, and all other stay-at-homes a date bureau will be established. Through this, it will be possible for the girls to find out which boys have not yet been invited and wish to be asked. If it proves successful, the date bureau will become a permanent feature.

Contrary to custom, the dance will be informal this year. The committee is using St. Patrick's day as the theme for the decorations.

Co-chairmen of the Lorelei committee are Shirley Klein and Doris Titzck, both '45. Assisting them are Margaret Richter '46, Irene Sufas '46, Marjory Gelpke '46, Eileen Smith '44, Ruth Titus '46, Stanley McCausland '47, and Grace Knopf '44, with the Booster committee.

THROUGH THE LIBRARY WINDOW

We will not agree with all that Lin Yutang says. It is not important that we do. It is important that thinking people read this book—millions of them. We have been so impressed with it, that we wish to quote at length from it.

From the jacket: "Now sorrowful, now joking, but always in deadly earnest, the Chinese philosopher faces the grim facts of war and the grimmer prospects of peace. Dismayed by the materialism of the West, he offers not a 'blueprint' for the postwar world, but an approach to thinking about it, that is new to us but not new at all to the Orient, wise in the ways of Man. . . . This book is a positive contribution from the store of Chinese political philosophy to the vexed problem of world peace. More important than the Four Freedoms, says Lin, is Freedom from Humbug. The changes in our thinking must be basic if we are to be saved from utter disaster. We cannot be saved by science, by mathematics, by modern mechanism. We need deep draughts of the wine of wisdom, matured thru four thousand years by Asiatic thought and experience in learning how man must deal with man. No citizen of the Western world can ignore this wisdom and this warning, except at his own peril."

From the text: "The great thing about the teaching of history is that we must teach history but must not let history teach us.

"If the East and the West differ in political philosophy, it is usually in this: we disagree on the usefulness of temporary success achieved by arms. The Asiatic takes the more subtle view that in the long run, good will or bad blood does count, that force is futile and that there can be no peace until there is peace in the human heart (justice).

Generation Without Faith

"It happens that we are a generation without faith.

"Who can gainsay the fact that we are living in a decade of moral and spiritual bankruptcy, and of the elimination of morals from politics?

"Peace is not possible only in Europe. And peace in Asia will become impossible only when Asia assumes the European pattern of balance of power. Of all the five continents of the earth, only Europe has not yet learned to live at peace. Europe is the focus of infection of this earth, and imperialism is the toxin by which it spreads until the whole world is so sick, so sick.

"I am not worried lest America may not be able to assert a leadership of force and power; I am worried lest she may. I am concerned to see America assume a moral leadership, a leadership of humility, so that the world may pay her glad homage and uphold her forever.

"The elimination of conscience from western scholarship has gone far enough.

Objectivity Is Unreliable

"I accuse western scholarship of being amoral, which is a splendid attitude in the natural sciences, but downright decadent and obscene in the sphere of human studies. I maintain that the academic attitude, deprived of warm emotions for our fellow men, is a dangerous attitude to teach in our college classrooms. I maintain that this trend of thought has produced a Hitler, and will produce more Hitlers wherever this type of moral prostitution prevails. I maintain, further, that this method of strict objectivity, useful in the natural sciences, is unreliable and dangerous in the human sciences. I maintain that objective thinking in human relations is an impossibility and never exists. Consequently, I maintain that no human science, in the sense of a true natural science, is possible, except physiology—and its related studies, medicine and anthropology. I believe that the scientific technique is inadequate in the so-called human sciences and must be supplemented by insight and simple wisdom, and that, unless we do so, we are heading for disaster. THE MAIL BOX

Dear Editor:

In a feature entitled Jack Bradford Has Sandwich Shop Where Elite Meet to Eat—Meat, which was printed in the last Weekly (February 7), the following statements were included: "After a not too good meal in the 'U' dining room . . ." and later in the same paragraph "What a meal, . . ."

Criticism of the food served in the dining room is most unfair this year. There is much more variety and more appetizing dishes and fresh vegetables are served oftener than ever before. Of course, the food isn't like that prepared by mother—feeding several hundred people is far different from feeding four or five. Then, too, individual likes and dislikes cannot be taken into consideration — if a person doesn't care for Popeye's favorite food, he can just skip the spinach and forget to "knock" the terrible food" (terrible only because one item isn't what the individual would order in a restaurant).

For innovation and variations such as raisin bread, bread and butter pickles, dishes of sliced carrots or pickled beets, fewer boiled potatoes, fried oysters, French fried potatoes, steak, sliced cake, etc., we should thank Mr. Beltz. Special credit goes to Mr. Beltz because meal planning is extra difficult under food rationing necessary in wartime.

From the exchange column of The Wilson Billboard, Wilson college:

WAVES and WACS we know, but the WEEDS are something new. At the Illinois Institute of Technology WEEDS stands for Womens Emergency Engineering Drafting society.

At West Texas State college there is a "courting fence" just high enough and wide enough for sitting. Furthermore, it's reserved for freshmen!

Drexel freshmen girls are more fortunate than Ursinus frosh—they wear flowers instead of green bands. There must be a hitch somewhere though!

The YWCA at Juniata college has a unique way of increasing its funds. By paying either ten or fifteen cents in accordance with your preference for solid colors or "two-tones" your shoes will be shined by some "Y" member. This day is denoted as the YW's Shoe Shine day.

The students of Hood college, according to the Blue and Gray, the college's publication, are participants in several of their own radio shows. Some write scripts for the Frederick, Maryland, station while other girls sing, play musical instruments, tell stories, and act in "soap box" operas of their own writing.

Most college papers tell of the patriotic zeal of their students in buying war stamps and bonds. Beaver college's drive was stimulated by the fact that each purchaser of either a stamp or a bond was permitted to cast one vote for her favorite—Frank Sinatra or Bing Crosby. Bing came out on top with a total of 4,500 votes to the 3,545 that "Frankie" received.

Glamorous movie star Lucille Ball urged the men and women of Temple university to buy war bonds as the surest and quickest way to victory. With such an inspiration you can readily see why Temple went far over its quota.

The Drexel Triangle speaks of the Institute's "Good Will Hour." This get-together is in the form of a tea and enables the women to meet one another outside the classroom and become better acquainted. They discuss various problems and questions common to all. All that is lacking is Mr. Anthony's enlightening advice.

At the University of Texas there is a Spanish prof who gives a nickel for each correct answer! That would be enough alone. But there's a story that he once asked a freshman if she had ever been in Venice. She answered in the affirmative, and received a nickel. Then he asked if she had ever been there in the eighteenth century. Again she responded affirmatively—and received another nickel!

At Juniata as an "exam pickup," a tea was given every afternoon during exam week with the idea of creating a friendly, relaxing atmosphere during a time of mental strain. Examination teas are an old Juniatian custom.

Auction-goers at Bucknell university, Lewisburg, Pa., were puzzled when the Sigma Phi Epsilon chapter, forced to close because of loss of more than two-thirds of its members to the services, put up for sale one unused tombstone, along with kitchenware, furniture and athletic equipment.

Members of the fraternity explained that when the chapter's pet dog was killed recently a sympathetic alumnus donated a handsome memorial. But the sale came along before the memorial could be erected and Fido's tombstone went for $1.25.

Burglars who broke into the University of Georgia library ransacked the rare book room but stole only a flashlight.

Dr. Schuichi Kusaka, a Japanese who has joined the Smith college faculty as a physics instructor, was recommended for the post by a Chinese member of the department, Miss Chien Shung Wu.

A University of California coed, Jean Bartel, currently holds the title of Miss America.

An edition of Diophantu's Arithmetic, published in Latin and Greek in 1621, has been presented to the University of New Hampshire by Dean Herman L. Slobin of the university's graduate school.

The city council at Cambridge, Mass., passed a resolution calling upon Harvard university to "donate to the war effort the many tons of bronze statues given by the German government and now in storage at the university's Germanic museum.

Then a university spokesman revealed the statues were plaster of Paris, painted to represent bronze.

We Can Help Red Cross

During the month of March, college students throughout the country will be asked to contribute to the 1944 Red Cross War fund, as a share of the things those not already active in the war can and must do to help members of our armed forces and also former college students.

Many one-time students are serving in the ranks of the Red Cross throughout the world, following the professional lines for which their training has prepared them. They are to be found in social work here and abroad, or, professional skill cast aside, they may be serving coffee and doughnuts, writing letters for wounded men, or doing any of the hundreds of essential tasks which help make the war seem less terrible. Very often a Red Cross club has provided a pleasant bull session that brings back memories of a similar campus get-together.

The Red Cross program of service is worldwide and its statistics are overwhelming. Its most appreciated services abroad are meals served to the armed forces and the regular visit to outpost areas of clubmobiles. Sewing, knitting, bandage-making, and visits to the blood donor center are important, but the Red Cross depends for its existence upon this annual campaign. We can help.

What About Our Pledges?

An unorthodox, but effective method of upping War Bond and Stamp sales is reported from Harvard university. The student War Bond chairman blocks the exit from the dining hall and talks War Bonds until he has made a sale. If would-be passers say they have no money with them, he cheerfully follows them up to their rooms and completes the sale there.

Students at Augsburg college, Minnesota, have given a war-time twist to a peace-time tradition. They have an annual early-morning man-catching race, with the coeds pursuing male students. Girls who tag their men before the man reaches the finish line can insist on a date. This year, the coeds chased their men with the object of selling them War Bonds and Stamps.

At Ursinus, we tell a different story about how we sell our Bonds and Stamps—we proudly say that students voluntarily pledged to buy a certain amount each week—no chasing a prospective buyer or talking a person into it. However, it seems that pledging is as far as it got. Have we forgotten to fulfill our pledges?

Girls' Basketball Team Ties Penn With Foul Shot In Closing Seconds

by Jeanne Loomis '47

The Penn game on Thursday, February 10, which ended 23-23 showed the Ursinus coeds to be a much improved team but a team that could have won had they cashed in on free throws. Lee Phillips and Betty Kirlin shared the scoring honors with ten and nine points respectively.

Ursinus started scoring from the very first minute when Annette Danenhower took the center throw from Lee, passed to Kirly who took an overhead shot for two points. This was followed by Kirly tallying two points on foul shots. The Collegeville sextette used nice plays and exhibited especially fine teamwork. Lee came through to add two more points to the score when she received a shovel pass from Kirly and took a lay-up shot. The quarter ended with Betty Kirlin again scoring a field goal by using a pivot shot from the center making the score 7-6 for Ursinus.

Captain Marion Bright broke up many Penn scoring plays by coming from nowhere to intercept their passes. Betty Bradway with her fakes and fighting spirit accounted for the first Ursinus goal in the increasing Ursinus score after receiving short, quick passes from Kirly and Brad.

The Ursinus girls were out to win and kept fighting throughout the entire game. The half ended with these lassies leading 16-14.

The third quarter was the lowest scoring one in the game, but the Penn girls exhibited a new burst of speed and determination. Lee scored on a right hand shot from the side to which Danny added a conversion from the foul line. This spurt of speed by the Penn forwards kept our guards moving, but they proved to be more than able to handle the situation. Snell's belles held a one point advantage, 19-18, at the end of the third quarter.

Kirly opened the final quarter with a long shot from the middle of the court followed by a foul shot to bring the Ursinus total to 22. Penn equaled this with two field goals and a foul to put them ahead 23-22. With only a few seconds to go, freshman Annette Danenhower had a foul shot which decided the outcome of the game. Up to this time Danny had made only one out of her five tries at the foul line. She made it good and the game ended 23-23.

If you were away in camp, you'd know how much that call means.

You can help the service men by not making any casual Long Distance calls between 7 and 10 at night.

That's when most of them call and there's a big rush on many circuits.

GONE, BUT NOT FORGOTTEN

A mixed up crew, the Bears this year. From schools far off and near they came

To help Ursinus at the game Of basketball, while they were here At Uncle Sam's request.

From Albright, West Chester, they hid, From Earlham, Brooklyn, Washington;

No matter where, they came as one To help the cause, and on the side To play with our own best.

It took a while to make them smooth— They'd played all kinds of ball before.

A few mistakes, defeats, what more? And then they started in to move, To reap a little glory.

Five in a row; a pause, then three Straight games is how they finished it,

To score about their farewell hit 'Fore most of them put out to sea. And this concludes my story.

Recognition! . . . It took a little prodding, but finally the Philadelphia papers came around and condescended to put some of our leading scorers in with their records of individual performances of the Philadelphia district. George Moore finished fifth in effectiveness with a 12.8 average.

The Ursinus ball team is in for a good trip to Annapolis on April 8. There is a possibility that one or two additional games will be scheduled with a Southern school, making it not impossible that the Bears will have a "southern trip." Sounds like the good old days.

Letters . . . The boys who helped put basketball and wrestling over the top this winter were rewarded unexpectedly for their efforts. Thanks to Sieb, varsity letters were returned to the curriculum.

GIRLS' THIRD TEAM DEFEATS MAIN LINERS BY TWO POINTS

Adding another feather to the Ursinus basketball squad's hat, the girls' third team downed Bryn Mawr's third sextette on Saturday, to the tune of 24-22.

Jane Brusch, Jeanne Loomis and Erma Keyes sparked the forward berths for Ursinus. Lay-ups and pivot shots added most of the points to the Bears' score. Jean Caton, Gene Masters, and Marge Bizilia were the defensive trio that kept the Bryn Mawr girls out of scoring territory.

Forward substitutes were Phyl Palacio, Jackie Landis, Ann Eysenbach, Beverly Cloud, and Teddy Knopf. Peggy Hudson substituted at guard position.

The Ursinus lassies added another tie to their record on Saturday when they played Bryn Mawr to a 20-20 game. Ursinus could have won the game if they had converted all of their tries from the foul line. Ursinus made two out of nine while Bryn Mawr tallied two out of six.

The height of the Bryn Mawr girls presented an obstacle to Snell's belles from the opening whistle until the game ended. The guards played their usual steady game with many interceptions, and Mar-ion Bright completely confused the Bryn Mawr forwards with her fakes.

Bryn Mawr Pulls Up

Lee Phillips, Betty Kirlin, and Annette Danenhower were the starting forwards for Ursinus. They kept moving the ball fast, and Lee took a pass from Danny to tally the first two points of the game. She followed this up with a long shot from the foul line. Kirly and Lee added two foul shots and the quarter ended with the score 6-2 in favor of Ursinus.

Since the Bryn Mawr girls had discovered that they were unable to penetrate the Ursinus defense, they began to take long shots when the second quarter opened. They converted two successive long shots from the left, and just before the half ended they added another two points as a result of a "once in a lifetime" shot from the center of the floor.

Despite the fact that the coeds from Collegeville were doing some nice passing and cutting, they were unable to make their shots good. It was Bryn Mawr throughout the whole quarter and they led 8-6 at halftime.

Kirly's shots were outstanding in the third quarter, especially a long shot from the right side of the court and a pivot shot also from the right. Danny's and Brad's passes set up many of the scoring plays. Kirly tallied a total of eight points, and Danny added two with an overhead shot under the basket to put Ursinus in the lead again, 18-13.

Ursinus Ahead at Quarter

In the first few minutes of the final quarter Bryn Mawr converted two more long shots from behind the foul line and a foul shot to put them ahead 20-18. With three minutes to go, Lee tallied a field goal to tie the score. Both teams missed two foul shots in those last few minutes which might have broken the tie, besides some wild longshots and lay-ups.

Betty Kirlin and Lee Phillips shared the scoring honors with nine apiece, but it was only their teamwork that kept the Ursinus coeds from being on the losing side of the score.

Second Team Trims Bryn Mawr Sextette

Coach Natalie Hogeland's Jayvee sextette netted another victory for the Ursinus basketball squad, when they played the Bryn Mawr lassies last Saturday morning, and defeated them, 26-20.

Starting for Ursinus in the forward berths were Shirley Klein, whose pivot shots added many points to the mounting score. Mid Halbruegge, whose sure eye for the basket few on the squad can better, and freshman Jeanne Loomis, whose fast, aggressive playing kept the game at a swift pace.

At the defense positions for Ursinus were Tess Umstad, Kathleen Sinclair, and Marge Gelpke. Interceptions, off-the-backboard recoveries, and tie-balls were highlights in the defensive part of the court.

In the first quarter, Shirley Klein and Mid Halbruegge shot them up time and time again, but the basket seemed to have a lid on it. In the beginning of the second quarter, the score was in Ursinus' favor by a slight margin.

Courtenay Richardson entered the game in Jeanne Loomis' place and added to the total with her foul shots. The game took on a faster pace and at the end of the half the score was Ursinus 12, Bryn Mawr, 5.

In the second half Ursinus piled up 14 points while Bryn Mawr came up from behind to add 15 to their score.

Have a "Coke" = Hallo, Bracie

(HELLO, BROTHER)

... a way to say "Pardner" to a visiting Pole

When a Polish flyer says Hallo, Bracie, he greets you as a brother. The American means the same thing when he says Have a "Coke", whether he offers it away from home or from his icebox at home. Around the world, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes,—the global high-sign of the kind-hearted.

"Coke" = Coca-Cola
It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

GROUPS PLAN SEMESTER WORK AT Y RETREAT YESTERDAY

The combined YM-YWCA made a new start for the second semester yesterday afternoon at a Retreat held in the Reformed church.

Despite the few people who attended, each committee met with its chairman and then each chairman reported to the whole group on his committee's plans for the spring semester.

The Social Service committee of the Y, under the leadership of Emily Terrill '44, is starting its work with the annual World Student Service fund drive. The civilian students, by a vote of 169 to 8, decided to give up two desserts this week and two next. The money from this will go into the WSSF, the inter-national, non-sectarian, non-political drive to provide direct relief for students and professors who are victims of war.

For prisoners and internees, the money collected will provide recreation, music, or books; for Chinese, Russian, Greek, and Japanese-American students the fund supplies food, clothing, medical supplies, and scholarships. Each dollar Ursinus students and faculty members contribute to the fund through its Y representatives this week, will mean aid to some less fortunate student somewhere in the world.

The Social Service committee's plans also include the usual trip to a settlement house in Philadelphia; continuance of the Spanish Child support; and relief-worker volunteers for the River Crest preventorium. Emphasis on these activities will come, the leaders assure, after the present drive has been completed.

Lois Ann Fairlie '44, Program committee head, is stressing the Greek War Relief program. Representatives in each dormitory will gather together old clothes to be sent to the needy.

Under the guidance of Calvin Garber '45, and Betty Jane Cassatt

'45, the Y's social committee again has a big program lined up. Wednesday evening dances will continue; "sings" on Freeland steps will be started again; and several parties are under way. Meetings of the committee will be held the first Sunday afternoon of each month.

Among Our Alumni

Lt. George S. Spohn '42, has been presented with the Distinguished Service Cross, the second highest army decoration, as a citation for displaying extraordinary heroism during a landing operation in the Sicilian campaign.

Lt. Spohn was a platoon leader in charge of shore engineer work, when he found that his men and other landing craft approaching the beach were under gun fire from an enemy position a short distance inland. He, with one enlisted man, moved forward in the face of heavy gun fire and forced the surrender of its crew by delivering sub-machine gun fire and throwing hand grenades. This information comes from Italy in a clipping from the Stars and Stripes of February 1.

Ann Harting ex-'46, is in training as a member of the Nurses' Cadet Corps at Cornell New York hospital, New York City.

Paul Guest '38, was a member of the 22nd class of aviation cadets to graduate from the new Columbus Army Air field near Columbus, Miss., last month. He received the silver wings of a flying officer and commission as a second lieutenant in the Army Air Forces. Before he enlisted for pilot training he had attended the University of Pennsylvania Law School.

Aviation Cadet George A. Gambone, a former Ursinus student, has reported at Carlsbad, New Mexico, Army air field, where he will receive advanced flight training in high-level bombardiering and dead-reckoning navigation.

Report to the Nation:

When the 4th War Loan Ended-- Our Fighting Men Kept Firing!

NEWS that the 4th war Loan goal of $14,000,000,000 has been reached and passed will cheer American boys from Italy to the Marshalls. But they will hear the news not only over sputtering radios but over the din of battle.

For the war still goes on with ever mounting fury. And that means that our War Bond buying must go on unabated, too.

To the millions who bought extra War Bonds in this drive, all America gives thanks.

To the 5,000,000 and more volunteer workers who contributed their time and abilities to help make the drive a success, your Government and your fighting men give thanks.

To the thousands of patriotic newspapers, magazines, radio stations and networks, members of the motion picture industry, the outdoor industry, advertisers and agencies, retail stores, banks, post offices, credit unions, building and loan associations, labor unions, fraternal organizations and farm credit associations, the Nation gives thanks.

Once again Americans have proved their determination to "back the attack" to the full.

But the attack goes on

Look at Italy. When the 4th War Loan drive ended at midnight February 15, the drive on Rome was still going on. American boys were still crouching in water-filled foxholes—clinging with bitter and bloody tenacity to a beachhead the Germans were equally determined to take back.

Thus on the same midnight that witnessed the end of the 4th War Loan drive, the hands of the clock met like shears to snip the lives of scores of American boys engaged in the March on Rome. And the fight goes on.

Look at Japan. At the same hour that saw the end of the 4th War Loan, the "March of Death" that shocked all America to a realization of Jap brutality to American prisoners of war—that march was still going on.

To liberate those heroes of Bataan and Corregidor before it is "too late," other American boys stormed and took the Marshalls on the road to Tokyo.

But that March to Tokyo—still 2,000 miles away—that march goes on.

And we on the home front

—can we afford to stop now that the 4th War Loan is history, while our all-important job of supplying and financing this costliest war of all time still goes on? We have won a home front battle here, yes. But just as our boys continue even more vigorously once they have established a beachhead, so we must continue to build on the success we have already achieved.

The Bonds we bought last week and the week before are today's exploding bombs and shells, and spent bullets can never be used again. We must provide for tomorrow, too. The need for new guns, planes, ships and tanks goes on.

For the war still goes on with ever mounting fury. So while all of those on the home front who have bought Bonds and have worked hard to make the 4th War Loan drive a success have earned the Nation's thanks, none of us can afford to forget that our home front job, including Bond buying, also still goes on!
