REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS TO THE ASHLAND SCHOOL BOARD

I take pleasure in presenting my first annual school report. My duties as superintendent of your schools began the first of last August. When I assumed my duties, the yearly budget had been made, the programs of studies for the various schools had been adopted, and the teachers had all been engaged. Consequently in the main I have carried out the plans formed previous to my arrival. Now and then some things have been changed to meet the conditions of the present year.

The Ashland supervisory union now consists of six towns namely: Ashland, Bridgewater, Groton, Holderness, Hebron and New Hampton. Since I have been on the job I have managed to become acquainted with the geography of the various districts, the six school boards, and the six groups of teachers and scholars. I have observed and studied the social, economic and educational factors of the communities over which my duties extend.

In the course of this report I endeavor to give you an account of my activities, investigations, conclusions drawn, and suggestions and recommendations for improvements.

I have secured and furnished text books and supplies for the teachers and the janitor. I have visited schools frequently, and helped teachers with their class room problems. Teachers' meetings have been called often in order to discuss our problems as a group. I have done all my office work without clerical assistance. I have attended school board meetings on an average of once a month in the six towns of the supervisory union. I have spoken in the interest of the schools before various organizations in the different towns. These statements are made to give you some conception of the manner in which the superintendent uses his time,

A Study of Retardation, Acceleration, and Normal Progress of the Ashland School Children

I have asked the teachers of Ashland to make out age-grade tables of this year's enrollment of pupils. I have used these tables to make a study of the school progress of children from the point of view of yearly promotion. All the children who have made one grade a year for the number of years they have been in school I have considered as having made normal progress. The ones who have skipped grades are considered accelerated, and the ones who have had to repeat have been classified as retarded. While this classification is not strictly scientific, it is good enough for practical purposes. The table below which I have prepared from the data collected, tells an interesting story.

Table Showing Retardation, Acceleration, and Normal Progress of the Ashland School Children

Grade	No. of Children	Retarded	Accelerated	Normal Progress
1	35	4	0	31
2	18	8	0	10
3	29	8	5	16
4	32	5	1	26
5	27	7	2	18
6	24	10	1	13
7	27	13	1	13
8	20	9	0	11
9	30	27	1	2
10	19	17	1	1
11	13	7	2	4
12	12	0	0	12
Calley school	15	4	0	11
Totals	301	119	14	168

A word in regard to the interpretation of the above figures. The usual percentage of retarded, accelerated and normal progress of children throughout the country for every one hundred school children is as follows: twenty-two per cent retarded, eighteen per cent accelerated, and sixty per cent normal progress. The Ashland school children show up as follows: thirty-nine per cent retarded, five per cent accelerated, and fifty-six per cent normal progress.

During the fall term intelligence tests were given by the teachers under my direction in all the grades. The tests were given with a twofold purpose, to find out what we have to do with in the way of natural ability on the part of our pupils, and to see if lack of school progress is due to lack of ability or to other causes. It is significant that out of the one hundred-nineteen pupils found to be retarded, only seventeen are mentally somewhat below average. There are many reasons why children often fail to make normal progress. Unsatisfactory home conditions, poor home training, poor attendance, poor teaching, sickness, lack of child guidance, selfishness of parents, failure to fit the school to the needs and capacities of the child, all have played a part in these results. Similar investigations show similar conditions in thousands of American communities. Ashland therefore is not an exception. All up-to-date communities at the present time are making an attempt to analyze their educational situations in order to discover weaknesses, set up modern educational programs, adopt new policies, change the philosophy of education, so as to enable all classes of children to find school attendance profitable, and that all branches of society may work together for the successful schooling of the child.

The High School

At the present time in the high school building we have roughly speaking three groups or organizations. Miss Gomo is in charge of the seventh grade, Mrs. Simons is in charge of the eighth grade and Mr. Cotton is in charge of grades nine to twelve. It is my belief that all the six grades housed in the high school building should function together as one unit. That is to say that there should be a well planned and connected course of studies consisting of a six year offering. The entire six grades should function as one unit in matters of routine, and discipline. They should function together in athletics, in club activities, and in the general life of the school.

Considering that the majority of girls will sooner or later be home makers, a greater offering of home economics courses should be available. Provision should be made to enable pupils wanting Latin to pursue the study of it for four years. Since we have a commercial course we should also offer the study of Business Law, and Economics, two very important subjects in this field. Greater provision should be made for the entire school to engage in physical activities. Some provision is made for such activities at the present time.

In my opinion the improvements herein advocated can be brought about with the same number of teachers we now have from the seventh grade up, namely six. In the main this is a problem of reorganization, and a somewhat modified program of studies. If we develop the high school along present day educational practices, the school will be able to attract many more scholars than it does now, from neighboring towns without a high school. Besides we shall be able to keep children in school longer, and eliminate the conditions described above in our discussion about retardation, acceleration, and normal progress of the Ashland school children.

We have sufficient facilities to conduct a junior high school organization in the proposed six year plan. We have a manual training room, and a domestic arts laboratory both adequate to teach wood work, and domestic arts respectively in the seventh and in the eighth grades. Furthermore I propose an introductory business course in the seventh grade, and a year in introductory French in the eighth grade. The courses in Manual Training, Domestic Arts, Introductory Business, and Introductory French are intended as exploratory or tryout courses. The experience afforded by the aforementioned subjects in the junior grades, will serve as a guide for the pupils when they reach the ninth grade, and are faced with the problem of choosing a high school course from the courses offered in the four upper grades of the high school. The courses which we offer at the present time are: College Preparatory, Domestic Arts, General, and Commercial. The plan suggested is the best type of vocational guidance which we can offer our pupils.

A six year high school is in keeping with present day educational tendencies. It is more economical. A six year high school will give Ashland a larger high school, enabling teachers and pupils to work with larger units. This will enlarge the social contacts of the pupils. It will create greater competition and inspiration in sports, scholarship, and all other worthwhile school activities.

I have not been here long enough to collect data concerning the yearly output, in the way of graduates, of the Ashland high school. Nor have I any definite data as to what our graduates are doing. Judging from the small number of graduates last June, the small number of pupils in this year's graduating class, and the small number of pupils in the junior class, who next year will be seniors, there is too much pupil mortality all along the line. This is unfortunate when we consider the great effort which Ashland is making to furnish free secondary education to her boys and girls. A prominent man in this town asked me if the Ashland high school is a paying proposition. My answer is that the Ashland high school will be a paying proposition as soon as it will turn out a yearly output of graduates in proportion to its population, and to the financial effort which the town is making to furnish high school education. We have arrived at a point in American life when any one without at least a high school education will find himself at a great disadvantage in his struggle for a living, and in his enjoyment of the institutions of life. This is a problem in which the parent, the child, the teacher, the school system, and the whole community is involved. Ashland needs an educational revival. It is our ambition to help bring it about.

This is all which I am ready to say at this time concerning the more serious problems facing the Ashland school system. There still remain other problems concerning elementary and secondary education in Ashland which I am leaving for further consideration. In due time I shall submit the results of my continued study, investigations, and observations, with my suggestions to raise the Ashland school system to a higher level.

Repairs

The Calley school which is the only rural school maintained by Ashland at the present time, was thoroughly overhauled last summer. The cross lights were done away with. A new Blackboard was installed. The walls and the ceiling of the school room were painted. The entry still presents an unfavorable impression as compared with the interior of the building. This passageway should be made more attractive.

The seventh grade room in the high school received extensive repairs in the way of a new steel ceiling, and a more satisfactory electric light system.

The electric light arrangement of the whole high school building has been considerably improved.

The steps on the front of the elementary school building should be painted.

The tops of many desks in both buildings should be made smooth. The desks in question have very rough surfaces, as a result of both age, and abuse.

I suggest that for next year stationary adjustable seats be used in the eighth grade room. The ones now in use cannot be adjusted to the size of the pupils, and they are too easily moved about.

Fifty folding chairs should be secured for use in the assembly hall in order that on special occasions we may accommodate the whole student body, and visitors.

The wooden fence inclosing the school grounds should be repaired. The advisability of replacing the old fence with an iron one should be considered.

The play field should be further graded, and made more safe.

Medical Inspection

This year for the first time we have asked the children's parents to be present at the time of the medical examination, in order that the parents might have an opportunity for a personal consultation concerning their children with the doctor. Too much cannot be said about the physical welfare of children. We should follow the philosophy that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Defective teeth, adenoids, tonsils, poor eye sight, and so forth, keep the child from achieving his highest mental and physical development. A word to the wise is sufficient.

In Conclusion

I have checked up both by class room visits and from teachers' reports on the amount of school work covered in the various grades, by the end of the fall term. In this respect normal progress is being made for this time of the year. I am also pleased to report that I have received a certificate of approval from the State Board of Education for the high school for the present year.

It is our aim to have the Ashland high school put on the approved list of the College Entrance Certificate Board, and also on the approved list of colleges such as, Dartmouth, Harvard, and others in that class, so as to enable our graduates to enter higher institutions of learning without having to take college entrance examinations. Greater than all, it is our aim, to fit our boys and girls for life, regardless of whether or not they are going to college.

The recommendations herein advocated are in keeping with the best educational traditions of Ashland. The program considered is not beyond the means and resources of the town. Ashland has great possibilities for development in the way of water power, agriculture, fruit growing, as a summer resort. If we develop an educational system in keeping with these possibilities, the schools will contribute greatly toward attracting ambitious and energetic people to settle here, and transform this community into a greater center of human activity.

Respectfully submitted,

VINCENT GATTO,

Superintendent of Schools.
