

December 7, 1990

"Ye shall know the truth"

Students return from semester in Singapore

WELCOME HOME-A Taylor welcome (top) greets students returning from Singapore as freshman Karen Olson (below) embraces (from left) freshmen Ann Lipp and Amy Stone.

by Jenifer Voskuil associate editor

Taylor freshmen who attended their first semester of college in Singapore, flew into Indianapolis Airport late Wednesday night and were greeted by Taylor students, friends and family.

As the group anxiously awaited their arrival, parents, students, and friends prepared their Welcome Home sign while singing the Taylor song.

"The suspense is killing me," said Ivan Lee, sophomore.

After a debriefing, the 11 students will be able to return to their homes this weekend.

Karen Muselman, coordinator of admissions counselors, believes the warm welcome from Taylor students and faculty will be helpful in their adjustment to the new surroundings.

"Our welcome will help in their transition," she said. "It may be hard at times, because all of their peers have made friends."

"They have been away from Taylor, but they're a part of Taylor." Muselman and the students believe that the Singapore semester has been a "once in a lifetime experience."

"It was an adventurous experience for these students," Muselman said.

"We grew more than we thought we would," said Rachelle Baker. "Dealing with another culture has been one of the best growing experiences."

"I see the world differently," Jared Smith said, "I'm not as narrow in my thinking."

"I learned so much in a short period of time," said Jennifer West. "I was encouraged by the way God was working on the trip."

The students in the program included Brad Butts, Brian Hoover, Marc Curless, Cathryn Robertson, Karen Olson, Anne Ellison, Daniel Leach, Jennifer West, Anne Eddy, occupancy next spring," Stanislaw Jared Smith, and Rachelle Baker.

The 11 students were hand picked from the freshmen program next year.

applicants.

Because there was a large waiting list for the fall semester, admissions developed a program to allow some of the freshmen applicants to become Taylor students on the Singapore campus.

The students will fill the vacancies that open in the spring semester.

"We will have close to full said.

Admissions hopes to repeat the Chapels set to worship, celebrate Christmas

by Jenifer Voskuil associate editor

Special Christmas chapels will be held for the last two chapel services of the semester.

The chapels will celebrate different aspects of the holiday season with a sacred worship service on Wednesday and a celebration chapel on Friday.

The chapels have very different purposes, according to Fred Luchtenburg, student assistant to the campus pastor.

"Students should enter Wednesday's chapel with a mindset of worship, not entertainment," he said.

Friday's Christmas Celebration Chapel, however, will focus on entertainment.

"The purpose of Friday's chapel relate to it in some way."

is to allow students to vent steam before next week's finals," he said. "The chapel is really a celebration of the whole year."

The worship chapel is being organized by the music department and will feature the Taylor Ringers, under the direction of Dr. Richard Parker, professor of music, and the Taylor University Chorale, under the direction of Dr. Philip Kroeker, professor of music.

Although partially a surprise, Luchtenburg did say that the celebration chapel will also use video to "tell a story touching on a Christmas theme."

"It will be entertaining, but it will also be meaningful," he said. "Every student will be able to

Taylor Life to be broadcast over new station

by Mark E. Sulka entertainment editor

Central Indiana has a new low power television station and Taylor University has a new and unique opportunity, according to Dr. Charles Kirkpatrick, associate for the production of the program, professor of communication arts.

The new station, WSBC-TV is owned and operated by Sunnycrest Baptist Church of Marion.

The new opportunity belongs to Taylor as it will re-broadcast chapel services on the station twice weekly, beginning Monday at 11 a.m. and also Wednesday at 8:30 p.m.

The half-hour program has been titled, Taylor Life, and is produced by Taylor students for WSBC-TV.

According to Kirkpatrick, the air time is paid for on a "sustainingbasis," which means it only costs Taylor the expense of creating the program.

The Communication Arts department provides the equipment according to Kirkpatrick

Taylor students operate the equipment, which has all been recently added or updated, and capture the chapel services for the Marion community to see.

"It is exciting to know we are not only gaining experience in production, but we are able to influence the community in a positive way," said assistant director Erika Pflederer, sophomore.

"I'm thankful to be a part of the outreach," Pflederer said.

The Taylor Life production team consists of director/producer Alyson Flynn, senior, director Don Hoesel, junior, along with Pflederer.

Also, camerapersons Diane Drooger, junior, Rob Newcomer, sophomore, John Ochs, junior, Kelly Tipple, junior and Eric VanVlymen, freshman.

"The usual broadcast radius for a station the size and power of WSBC is about 25 miles," Kirkpatrick said, "but because the land around Marion is very even and the antenna is located on a high point, the signal actually reaches about 40 miles."

WSBC has been broadcasting since late November, according to Kirkpatrick, and features more than just Sunnycrest's church services and Taylor's chapels.

WSBC carries ACTS Network programming, a Southern Baptist satellite network in Dallas, when it is not broadcasting it's own according programming, Kirkpatrick.

"The station also covers local events along with high school and college athletics in the Marion area," Kirkpatrick said.

WSBC aired the Taylor vs. Indiana Wesleyan men's basketball season opener and the Taylor Women's Volleyball championship last month during Thanksgiving break.

"The basketball opener was the sporting event for Thanksgiving Day on WSBC," Kirkpatrick said.

The Ivanhoe's/Taylor Classic basketball tournament will be taped and re-broadcast this weekend.

Friday's games will air Saturday at 8:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. with Saturday's games airing later that evening at 11 p.m. and 12:30 a.m.

All of Taylor's home basketball games will be televised on WSBC, Kirkpatrick said.

"Students can tune to the station on the campus cable system on channel 7 when students are not producing WTVT," Kirkpatrick said.

Campus News

Perspectives and Issues Corduan to teach in Germany Association, which sponsors the uniqueness of Christ, Corduan said.

Chapel policy reviewed by Tim Schoon student body president

This week, the University Cabinet discussed the issue of the voluntary chapel attendence policy.

The policy was reviewed because there are around three hundred students who do not attend chapel.

It was decied to keep chapel voluntary because requiring chapel does not yield the spiritual and educational growth results which Taylor wishes, and it does not create an atmosphere favorable for internalizing spiritual values.

It also fails to express a true freedom to worship and to provide an opportunity for responsible behavior.

According to the cabinet, universities that have a required chapel lack the interest, energy, and enthusiasm as Taylor's.

Chapel attendance is expected to complement the total educational, and community experiences on campus.

Regular attendance is understood as a mature response on the part of the faculty and students in fulfillment of Taylor's educational growth goals.

Three or fewer absences each semester are considered acceptable. Taylor's chapel attendance policy places strong emphasis on individual honor, total faculty support, and a carefully planned and high quality chapel program.

The "expected" philosophy means precisely that-each member of the community is expected to attend chapel.

Dr. Win Corduan, professor of philosophy and religion, will be

by Beth Charles

guest reporter

teaching at the Neues Leben Seminary in Germany over Interterm.

Corduan, who speaks German fluently, will teach one course on Eastern religions to approximately 40 students.

The Neues Leben Seminary, meaning "new life," has trained German students for ministry for the past five years, Corduan said.

The whole student body is required to take Corduan's class since he only visits the seminary about every four years.

Corduan last taught at the seminary in the fall of 1986.

The Neues Leben Evangelistic

Amahl and the Night Visitors

In last week's issue of The Echo, we inadvertantly printed the incorrect date for the Performing Artist Series performance of Amahl and the Night Visitors.

The performance will be at 8:15 p.m. on Dec. 14 in the Rediger Chapel/Auditorium.

Seats may be reserved by calling ext. 5289 and will also be sold at the door.

ID ticket price: $5; children under 12, $3.50.

seminary, is arranging speaking engagements for Corduan at Germany, said he will also be churches in the area.

Corduan, who is a native of visiting his parents who live an hour The talks will focus on the from the seminary.

Professor places in stock game

by Lynn Warden guest reporter

Professor Christopher Bennett assistant professor of business, made a $19,000 investment that placed him third in the nation among college educators in the AT&T Investment Challege during the week of Nov. 9.

Bennett, along with two other Taylor professors and about 25 Taylor students, is participating in the simulation stock exchange game which is offered to any undergraduate student or professor. Every Monday, USA Today ranks the current top ten contestants nationally.

Although Bennett is no longer in the top ten, Bennett supports the game as an opportunity for students to gain realistic stock market experience without losing actual money.

"Some don't like the game, they say it encourages irresponsible investment," Bennett said.

challenge, Bennett said. A contestant starts with $500,000 and is allowed to buy and sell various has sponsored this nationwide runs through Feb. 28 each year.

The challenge begins Nov. 1 and

This will be the third year AT&T stocks at market price. Although students who do well in the game do not make money through the game, a $25,000 cash prize is offered to the student who finishes the game first in the nation.

There are also several other prizes awarded, including a top college award which is given to the top student on each campus with a participating group.

Taylor's students are not ranked as a group because a university must have at least 40 students participating to qualify.

Cruise Ship Jobs HIRING Men - Women. Summer/ Year Round. PHOTOGRAPHERS, TOUR GUIDES, RECREATION PERSONNEL Excellent pay plus FREE travel. Caribbean Hawaii, Bahamas, South Pacific, Mexico. CALL NOW! Call refundable. 1-206-736-0775, Ext. 600N

SWALLOW ROBINI-Senior and Swallow Robin resident Larry Butt prepares for the traditional Swallow Robini dinner. The dinner, prepared by the residents of Swallow Robin Hall, featured Italian food and was attended by both students and faculty.

1990-1991

Editor	Ann Calkins
Associate Editor
Campus Editor	Michael Mortensen
Features Editor
Entertainment Editor
Sports Editor	Mark Syswerda
Photography Editor
Business Manager
Advertising Manager
Advertising Design
Distribution Coordinator
Editorial Adviser
Financial Adviser

Published weekly since 1913, September through May, except for exam week and school holidays. Guest columns and letters do not necessarily reflect the position of the editor or Taylor University. All letters, questions or comments may be sent to The Echo, Taylor University Upland, IN 46989. Offices are located upstairs in the Student Union (317-998-5359). Member of the Associated Collegiate Press. The Echo is printed by the Fairmount News-Sun in Fairmount, Ind.

Features

Entertainment column

by Mark E. Sulka entertainment editor

The Best of Times...

I imagine many of you are stockpiling laundry to do at home. "Hey," you think, "I'll save a few bucks."

That's smart thinking. What's even smarter is wearing your dress clothes after your last turtleneck is on the pile.

So, as long as you're looking pretty good and have some quarters to spare, why not take yourself out to a good show or timely event? Better yet, why not take yourself and another sharp and thrifty prospect out to a good show or timely event? Now, that's the smartest thinking you've done all semester.

•The Taylor/Ivanhoe Classic shakes Odle Gymnasium starting at 6 p.m. tonight.

The double deluxe sandwich of teams includes Taylor, Marian College of Indy, Wilberforce College of Ohio and Belmont College of Nashville.

Catch it live or on campus cable channel seven.

The games continue at 1 p.m. tomorrow and are relatively inexpensive.

(See related stories page one and four)

•Christmas at the Zoo promises much cheer 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. today through Dec. 23 at the Indianapolis Zoo.

Actual flying deer demonstrations and elf tossing.

Admission is $3.50 for bi-ped carnivores that are non-members of the Zoo.

· "A Christmas Carol" humbugs into the Wabash Winterfest 8 p.m. Saturday.

The Wabash Musical Association sponsors the play in the Honeywell Center.

Tickets are $7 for students and $15 for adults.

For more information and directions to Wabash, call (219) 563-1102 · "Christmas with Jay" happens at 9 p.m. Saturday in the Hodson

Dining Commons featuring the 1952 video rental smash, "It's a Wonderful Life."

ICC sponsors the traditional gathering of pajamas, food and eggnog without the 'nog'.

You'll have to change from the dress clothes into PJ's to get in free or it will cost $1.

(See related story this page)

•Marion Philharmonic Concerto commences at 10 a.m. Saturday in Hermanson Music Center.

•Taylor Brass Choir & Taylor Sounds team up to bring you the concert of the season Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Recital Hall.

The free performances feature holiday hits from better times.

· "Romero" will be shown Tuesday at 7:30 in the Flood Room of the Library.

The movie is part of the Human Rights Day's festivities and will be free for all human beings.

· "Honey, I Shrunk the Kids" hits the silver screen Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. in Rediger Auditorium.

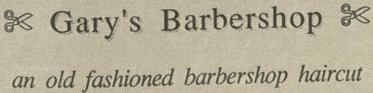

SAC sponsors this. (Hey, Rick Moranis, next time wash 'em in cold.)

· "Taylor Unplugged" takes over the Isley Room of the DC Thursday from 7:30 p.m. to 11:30 p.m.

Underground bands show their instrumental aptitude and invite you to, too.

A full menu of snacks and refreshments is available for your munching convenience.

Bring a Slim Whitman album and get in free, otherwise it's twenty push-ups.

at old fashioned prices

301 N. Main, Upland

Play planned for February

by Annette Combs staff reporter

The 14 member cast for the upcoming play, Whose Life is it Anyway, by Brian Clark, has been selected.

The play is based on the life of Claire Harrison, played by senior Patty Carroll.

Harrison becomes paralyzed in a car accident and is kept alive by support systems in a hospital.

She decides that if she cannot live as a woman, she does not want to exist as a medical achievement and invokes the law of habcas corpus.

A judge is brought into the battle between Harrison and her physician to decide just whose life is it anyway.

The play will be under the direction of Dr. Oliver Hubbard, professor of communication arts, and he will be assisted by junior Jennifer Baginski.

According to Hubbard, the play "is not necessarily about euthanasia, but about who has the right to make the choice. Is it the person's right, the hospital's, the judge's, or even society's?"

Other cast members beside Carroll include Shelly Dudelston, Charity Smith, Jim Palmer, Joe Johns, Lisa Curless, Joy Pearson, the cast, five have never participated Stout, Lori Sue Red, Tracy Tobey, freshmen. Jason Welch, and Deanne Slough.

46 students who turned out for the audition, 30 of whom were women. will be Feb. 21-23, and Feb. 27-

Karen Stafford, Dan Young, Kurt in a play at Taylor, and four are Hubbard believes this will make Hubbard was pleased with the for an exciting and interesting play. The performances for the play

Of the 14 members chosen for March 2 in the Ayres Little Theatre.

CHRISTMAS CONCERTS-The Taylor Sounds will present two concerts in the area for the Christmas season. The concerts will be performed this Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church in Muncie at 10:30 a.m. and at Chapel Hill United Methodist Chruch in Indianapolis at 7 p.m. The Taylor Sounds will be performing Silent Night, Rejoice the Lord is King, and Over the Hills Maria Went.

Keslers part of Christmas spirit; ICC sponsors Jay's Christmas special

Charity Singleton staff reporter

To Taylor University students, Christmases with their family. the Christmas season brings to mind Christmas Special?

sponsoring the fourth annual Jay Christmas," Reany said. Kesler Christmas Special Saturday, Nov. 8 at 9 p.m. in the Hodson Dining Commons.

According to Lisa Reany, chairman of ICC, Dr. Kesler, president of the university, and his

Parnassus

Pamassus 1990 will be on sale next week in the Hodson Dining Commons for $1. Copies of Pamassus 1989 will also be on sale for 50 cents, and copies of other years will be 25 cents or less. Hurry to the DC next week to buy your copy of Taylor's Contest information for the 1991 edition of Parnassus will be featured in a story in The literary magazine.

Echo next week.

998-2791

wife Janie will highlight this special event by recapturing some Christmas memories of past

Dr. Daryl Yost, provost/ the advent, the nativity, Christmas executive vice president, and his break, and ... the Jay Kesler wife Joenita will also be on hand for the Jay Kesler Christmas special to The Inter-Class Council is read "Twas the Night Before

Other activities for the evening include the showing of the movie It's a Wonderful Life, a slipper and stuffed animal contest with holiday prizes, and a visit from a special guest dressed in red.

Refreshments will also be served. The cost for the evening is $1 or free if pajamas are worn.

not good with any other offer

Lady Trojans improve record; defeat IWU

TAYLOR VICTORY—Sophomore Taylor guard Dawn Greer fights for the ball against Indiana Wesleyan University's Angie Vanosdol in last night's game in the Odle Gymnasium. Taylor defeated IWU 81-68 improving their season record to 5-2.

by Mark Syswerda

sports editor

The Taylor Lady Trojans improved their record to 5-2 with an 81-68 victory over visiting Indiana Wesleyan University last night at Don J. Odle Gymnasium.

Indiana Wesleyan dropped to 4-4.

Leading for the Lady Trojans was junior Rachel Haley, who poured in 27 points as five players scored in double figures.

Junior Paula Smead added 21 points, 15 in the first half, while senior Shannon Warfield had 11. Senior Heidi White and junior Rhonda Andrew chipped in with 10 each.

According to Head Coach Tena Krause, the keys to the team's victory were sticking with their manto-man pressure defense and running the offense much better in the second half.

On Tuesday night, the Lady Trojans defeated St. Francis College 72-56.

Haley scored 16 points to lead a scoring attack that saw four players in double figures.

Smead had 14 points and 11 rebounds, White 11 points and 10 rebounds, and Andrew chipped in with 10 points.

According to Krause, the game did not start well for the Trojans, as St. Francis led 32-31 at the half, but Taylor's "concentration picked up in the second half", leading them to the victory.

Last weekend, the Lady Trojans captured the Concordia College Classic, beating Concordia 67-65 in the championship after defeating Manchester College 71-63 in the semifinals.

In the championship game, Haley led with 19, followed by White with 13, while Andrew followed with 12 points and 10 rebounds.

In the Manchester game, Haley again led with 20 points, while played well on Friday, but played White had 17, Andrew followed its best game of the season on with 14, and Smead added 10 points Saturday. and 11 rebounds.

tournament while White made the down to the wire," Krause said. all-tournament team.

According to Krause, the team

"I think our players showed real Haley was named MVP of the determination as the game went right

Taylor hosts Ivanhoe Classic; WSBC to broadcast games

by Mark E. Sulka entertainment editor

Taylor's men's basketball picked up two victories at the Belmont/ Coca-Cola Classic in Nashville last weekend making their current standing 7-1.

The Trojans defeated ninthranked Auburn University at Montgomery in the first game 70-60 with "consistent effort," according to Coach Paul Patterson.

Patterson said the second game against Bethel College was a struggle in the first half, but Steve Mozingo, freshman, came in the second half to help turn it around 69-64.

championship game, but,"we didn't handle the ball well and we didn't guard well on defense," Patterson games will be televised on WSBC.

said. Belmont led at the half by 12 and defeated Taylor 74-62.

Taylor has a chance to even the score this weekend, as Belmont, Marian College of Indianapolis and Wilberforce of Ohio visit for the Taylor/Ivanhoe Classic tonight and tomorrow.

Marian of Indy and Belmont begin the tournament tonight at 6.

Taylor will play Wilberforce at 8 p.m. The consolation game starts at 1 p.m. tomorrow and the championship starts at 3 p.m.

The games will be televised on WSBC-TV from Marion, which is shown on campus cable channel seven.

Friday's games will air Saturday Taylor played the 14th-ranked at 8:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. with Belmont in the tournament Saturday's games airing later that evening at 11 p.m. and 12:30 a.m. All of Taylor's home basketball

Equestrians place in Ball State competition

by Stacie L. Blosser guest reporter

The Equestrian Club placed second in the Ball State Equestrian Competition last weekend.

According to Lisa Loy, president of the club, this is the best Taylor has done in competition since the club started six years ago.

Fifteen teams competed in the event in which Taylor shared the second place title on Saturday, tying with Purdue in the English competition. Friday, Taylor placed third in the western competition.

Judging of the competition is based on how well the riders look and how well they can control their horses.

According to Loy, this was Taylor's third show of the semester. There will be two shows next semester

Junior Jerry Mick placed third in advanced one stock seat in Friday and Saturday's western division, while sophomore Wendy Laidig placed first in intermediate two stock seat on Friday and second on Saturday.

Joy Rogers placed third in beginning stock scat.

In Saturday's English division Loy placed first in open flat, Jessica Burkard, junior, placed first in intermediate flat, Julie Adams, freshman, placed first in advanced walk-trot-canter, and Sandy Baker, junior, placed third in beginning walk-trot-canter.

Susan Jackson placed second on Sunday in the English division in open flat, and Mary Chambers, junior, placed third in novice flat.

Notice to Athletes

Mandatory meeting for all athletes!

All athletes must attend a mandatory NAIA presentation on steroids Tuesday, Dec. 11 at 10 a.m. in the Recital Hall.

There will be a sign in for attendance.

If you have questions contact Bill Kauth at x5132.