Board names honorees

by Michelle Greenawalt
associate editor

Homecoming weekend was the setting for the first meeting of the board of trustees this school year. At this meeting, the board approved the names of two sections of the communication arts building and voted to give special recognition to several administrators.

Last spring, the board voted that Rupp Communication Arts Center should be the name of the communication arts building currently under construction, according to Daryl Yost, provost/executive vice president.

At the meeting last weekend, the board voted and approved the name Mitchell Theatre for the theatre. The theatre greenroom/faculty lounge will be named the Gladys M. Greathouse Greenroom, in honor of Gladys Greathouse, who taught theatre courses and directed plays at Taylor from 1960 to 1971 and chaired the department from 1965-1970.

"Ms. Greathouse taught here for a number of years and was in charge of the theatre program," Yost said.

In addition the board recognized several members of the administration.

"The board voted to give special recognition to Rebecca Moore (assistant to the dean of the university) for her outstanding efforts during the summer of 1993 while the dean's position was in transition.

"They also voted to give special recognition to Tom Beers (associate vice president for university advancement) for his work in directing a very successful capital campaign," Yost said.

In addition, "Special recognition was given to Charles Newman, retiring executive director of the William Taylor Foundation, for his outstanding service in that capacity," Yost said.

Also at the meeting, Dr. Dwight Jessup, vice president for academic affairs and dean of the university, and Dr. Robert Nienhuis, dean of TUFW, were formally introduced to the board.

In addition, the various committees of the board gave their reports.

Currently there are 25 voting members, including the president, on the board of trustees, according to Yost. The board meets three times a year: in October, January and May.

Weekend to unite TU families

by Jason Mucher, Herb Harjes and Karl Martin
staff reporters

As autumn's leaves and temperatures continue to fall, the Taylor community gears up for another fall tradition—Parent's Weekend.

Parents' Weekend '93 activities begin today, including concert performances, play productions, a family breakfast, athletic events, and a variety of other social get-togethers designed to reunite parents with their children, many of whom haven't been together since late August.

Jim and Mary Kay Altizer will be in concert with the Symphonic Band tonight at 8:15 p.m. in the Rediger Auditorium. The Altizers combine a variety of instruments with anecdotes and lessons from God's Word. Jim Altizer plays the trumpet and flute; Mary Kay Altizer is a symphony pianist who also plays the viola.

John and Mary Giger will perform with the Taylor Sounds Saturday at 8:15 in the Rediger Auditorium. Committed to a performance that is biblically supported and doctrinally profound, the Gigers sing in the tradition of the great hymns of faith.

Among the Gigers' credits are a 1983 performance for the National Day of Prayer at Constitutional Hall in Washington, D.C.

Productions of "Tales from Rogues' Hollow" will be presented Friday and Saturday evening at 8:15 in the Little Theatre. The play, which depicts the heartwarming and hair-raising experiences of the citizens of Rogues' Hollow, is sold out for both performances.

According to Doug Moore, senior cast member, "We love to perform to sold out crowds, but there is a little nervousness when performing in front of parents. That little guy inside of you wants to impress the socks off the parents."

Parents and students will also have the opportunity to attend Taylor athletic events on Saturday. The soccer team will take on Indiana Wesleyan University at 11 a.m. at the varsity soccer field and the football squad will host Hanover College at 1:30 p.m. at Wheeler Memorial Stadium.

Having experienced a number of losses in her life, Marilyn Heavilin will speak to parents and students on the topic of grief following the Saturday morning family breakfast in the Hodson Dining Commons. The breakfast begins at 7:45 a.m. and the program at 8:30 a.m.

Heavilin speaks for Mothers Against Drunk Drivers and for other national conventions. She has authored several books and is a frequent guest on radio and television programs.

The weekend's activities are planned by the 36 member Parents' Association Cabinet. Each member of the cabinet is elected to serve a three year term. Dr. Robert Burden is this year's president.

"One of the purposes of Parents' Weekend is to provide a continuing community for parents and students," said Thomas Beers, associate vice president for development. "Just because the students left home doesn't mean there's no relationship."

Other events are also scheduled as part of the weekend's activities.

The annual craft sale, sponsored by the Parents' Association, begins tomorrow at 10 a.m. in the Hodson Dining Commons. The proceeds from the sale will go toward the Student Assistance Fund.

From 1 to 10 p.m. Saturday, residence halls will be holding open houses. This provides parents with an opportunity to see how their children live in their home away from home.

Faculty coffees will also be held Saturday, from 10 to 11:30 a.m. at various locations around campus.

Dr. Jay Kesler, university president, will be the speaker for the chapel service which kicks off the weekend. He will also be the featured speaker at the worship service Sunday at 10 a.m. in the Rediger Chapel/Auditorium.

PERSPECTIVES AND ISSUES

PG Weekend

by Norman Yatooma

Running, walking,
screaming, talking.

Fighting playing,
Eating, praying.

Asking for money,
Finding that funny.

Driving the car,
Being the star.

Proclaiming good grades,
Rude roller blades.

Old school of thought,
What a nickel once bought.

Harmonious singing,
Siblings are clinging.

Lost on the loop,
Always feel pooped.

Men with no hair,
Women who care.

Brothers that spill,
Sisters that shrill.

Cousin Ed and Aunt Em,
Why'd they bring them?

Uncle Lou and Aunt Marge,
With collars too large.

"Back in my day,"
He always would say.

Hugs and kisses,
Demands and wishes.

"Well, this is my mom,
Meet new boyfriend, Tom."

Dad threatens the guy,
Mom's evil eye.

Dad picks out the girl,
Mom's abhorred by the Hurl.

Concerts and functions,
Atypical luncheons.

Hearts full of affection.
Dread radio selection.

Cheerful greetings,
Big shot meetings.

"I love you," you say,
Making their day.

Tearful goodbyes,
Mom always cries.

Tell them you care,
And soon you'll be there.

For what's all the fuss?
Finally, thankfully, Parent's
Weekend's with us!

Just a new perspective for viewing that which we will always treasure—our family.

Parnassus starts up

by Tracy Doude
staff reporter

Parnassus, Taylor's literary magazine, is now receiving submissions for its 1993-94 edition.

Entries can be from any of these four categories: poetry, short fiction, short essay, and art (black and white for the interior, color for the cover design contest).

"Parnassus is looking for material that is free and honest—no cliches," editor Robert Donahue, senior, said. Both students and faculty may submit entries.

Students pay a $1 fee to enter an unlimited number of submissions. Contest winners will be chosen from all four categories published in the magazine and cash prizes will be awarded. Faculty do not pay an entry fee, and do not win any prizes.

"We want to open it up to more people this year. We want to make it a general outlet for all kinds of student and faculty expression," Donahue said.

A committee of 13 students decides upon the content of the magazine. Contest winners are decided on by an outside judge. Professor Richard Hill, director of writing, is the sponsor.

Entries may be brought to the English department. The deadline is the end of November.

The magazine was first published in 1964. This year's Parnassus will go on sale during the spring semester.

Chapel to honor Newmans

by Julie Shinabery
from basic reporting

Chuck and Erma Newman will be honored during this year's Heritage Chapel Wednesday, Nov. 3.

The Newmans are being honored for their "involvement with Taylor as well as the community of Upland," said Bonnie Houser, director of the archives. "We hope that the town can see how we appreciate them."

Chuck Newman is the retired executive director of the William Taylor Foundation, which he founded in 1933. He was also involved with Wandering Wheels and was a leader in the first Wheels tripto Israel. According to Houser, he was an important man who liked to stay "behind the scenes."

Erma Newman worked in the business office in the mid-1970s. She later became a secretary for the Learning Support Center after the Zondervan Library was built, according to Houser.

There will be a slide show and narrative honoring the Newmans during the chapel service. The couple will also be honored at a private luncheon following the chapel.

The Newmans have loaned personal belongings to the archives to be displayed beginning Wednesday.

Vision '93 continues

by Lillian Foo
staff reporter

High school students from around the country will arrive at Taylor today for Campus Visitation Day.

According to Randy Mejeur, Personal Touch Staff coordinator, about 260 students are expected on campus for the visitation. Many of the students' parents and siblings are expected to accompany them as well.

Mejeur also said that though the majority of these prospective students hail from around the Midwest, some come from as far away as Maine, Washington and Massachusetts.

Visitors will participate in programs specially planned out for them. Activities include chapel, opportunities to attend various classes, as well as question and answer sessions.

Campus Visitation Day, which presents the opportunity for prospective students to experience a morsel of Taylor life, is held twice every semester.

Greenwalt charged

by David J. Chamberlin editor

Former campus safety officer John Greenwalt has been charged with false informing, a class B misdemeanor, according to the Grant County prosecutor's office.

As of Tuesday, no court date had been set because the warrant for his arrest had not been read to him, the Grant County Court said.

Greenwalt can receive a maximum of 180 days in jail and/or a $1,000 fine.

Kline speaks English

Joel and Lyn Kline

by Sara Banks
staff reporter

"Man on the floor!" English Hall is currently housing its first male. His name is Joel Kline and he is newly married to Lyn (Robbins) Kline, English Hall director.

How does it feel to be the first and only man in English?

"It feels really good," he said, "it's nice to meet the girls and find out where they are from and who they really are."

Joel is a former Wengatz man and an alumnus of Taylor. He graduated in 1987 with a business systems degree. Currently, he is employed at Wabash MPI as a district manager for the Western United States.

Joel and Lyn were wed June 12 at Huntington Union Church in Huntington, Ind. The wedding followed a three year courtship (it was four if you ask Lyn).

For the first couple months of their marriage the newlyweds lived in the quiet of a vacant hall. Things changed, though, at the beginning of the year when the women moved in.

"It was really hard at the beginning of the year," said Lyn, "but it is getting a lot better now. We saw each other for 45 minutes yesterday!"

Wednesday evenings are reserved by the Klins as time to themselves and they ask the women to come to them only in an emergency, and the system has been working out well.

Even though the newlyweds are doing fine in their apartment, there are awkward times, according to Joel.

"Sometimes I'll be sitting on the couch in the living room when suddenly I'll have to make a dive for the bedroom because a girl will come in and I'll realize that I'm in only my boxers!" Sorry, Joel.

Does Joel feel intimidated living in a hall with hundreds of women? No Way!

"Joel is really outgoing, he doesn't have a problem talking to the girls," Lyn said. He also enjoys counseling the women and giving them tips and advice on their classes.

During the Finrock scare, Joel served as a guardian for the hall.

"He was always looking out the window—doing surveillance," Lyn said. To prepare for his time in English, Joel even went out and bought a "bevy of tools" this summer so he can take care of some minor repairs as they come up.

Overall, the arrangement is working out quite well. The women of English seem well adjusted to a male in their midst, and Joel and Lyn seem well adjusted to one another, and 232 women. It helps that Joel has a high regard for them, though.

"The women of English Hall are the finest women on campus," Joel said.

Rhythm Review... Lisa Germano

by Randy Dillinger
campus editor

It's a good thing when someone who has been in the background for years finally takes a step forward. It's even more of a treat when they offer something new and worthwhile to the world around them. Lisa Germano does just that with Happiness, her new solo release.

Germano's poetry is peppered with sarcasm and emotion; her words will make you uncomfortable. Happiness isn't really a happy album. It cries out intensely for something good, but it offers no cure for the human condition. Maybe that's why it is such a good album! It leaves you with an emptiness, because it brings you in touch with your own insecurities.

This album carries influences of other female artists such as Sinead O'Connor and Suzanne Vega. Most of the music is folk-based, but Germano's exceptional talent with the violin sets Happiness apart in a style all its own. The other musicians set a nice background for the vocals and violin, but add nothing outstanding to the overall sound.

Germano offers good, honest music with this album. It's a good listen if you want to think deep thoughts and be alone for awhile, but if you want to be happy, don't listen to Happiness.

Family feelings expressed

by Mindy Leonard features editor

Well, this is the last Parents' Weekend of my Taylor career and, fortunately, my mama and daddy have been able to come to every one.

This year is a little bit different, though. My sister, Katie, and my nephew, Daniel, are also coming this year. (I've got plenty of pictures if you'd like to see the most beautiful child in the world!)

You see, even though the weekend is titled specifically for parents, I've taken the liberty of creating "family weekend."

My situation may be a bit odd. If you would refer back to issue one of The Echo, you'd see that I live with my sister and brother-in-law in the summer. While I do enjoy my time with them, it's more a matter of convenience than anything else.

During my three summers with them, they have become not only my friends, but also examples for Christian living. They provide me with emotional support and have attempted to help me become a responsible adult (Yes, I said attempted).

Of course, our parents should fill these roles as well. I'm very proud to say that mine do, but it's really nice to know that I've got more than one set of "parent types."

Hence the name, "family weekend." This weekend wouldn't be nearly as meaningful if I couldn't have both sets here, or at least parts of them. Unfortunately, my brother-in-law, Lowell, wasn't able to come.

I hope your weekend will be just as enjoyable as I know mine will be.

If you happen to run into an adorable red-headed 2-year-old, he's probably with me!

Trojans complete week of success

by Scott Balyo
sports editor

The sports editor and sophomore Michael Brady defeated fellow sophomores Christie Allen and Beth Ockers in a game of Taboo last Friday.

While Taboo is not an officially sanctioned sport by the NAIA, the sports that the Taylor teams participate in are, so here is look at last week's action.

Football

The Trojan defense allowed only 84 total offensive yards and one touchdown in the second half, as Taylor pulled away from a 28-28 half-time tie to defeat Malone College 45-35 Saturday, and posted a homecoming victory.

Four offensive records were broken on the day by junior wide-receiver Doug Bonura and sophomore quarterback Kenny Locke.

Locke guided the Trojans as he was 15-for-27 for 273 passing yards and three touchdowns.

Locke also set the Taylor career touchdown passes record, as he now has 29 for his career, breaking the old record of 28 set by Kevin Doss.

Junior Wide receiver Doug Bonura was the recipient of Locke's touchdown passes, as he scored on plays of 73, 28 and 60 yards in the first half.

The three touchdowns in one game ties him for most touchdowns in a game with several past Trojan players.

Bonura had six catches for 200 receiving yards and three touchdowns. He also set two Taylor records for receiving.

He now has 1,127 receiving yards this season, which breaks the mark of 1,032 yards in a season set by Steve Wild in 1985.

Bonura's 13 touchdown receptions also set a record, breaking Casey Sparrow's record of 12 set in 1992.

Bonura is currently ranked 7th in the NAIA in catches per game with 6.75.

Freshman running back John Cornett rushed for 140 yards on 22 carries, and scored two touchdowns.

Defensively the Trojans were led by senior Mike Garty and sophomore J.J. Guedet.

Garty, who was named the NAIA District 21 player of the week, recorded 11 tackles and scored a touchdown on a 44-yard fumble recovery. The touchdown was the fourth of his career.

Guedet added ten tackles and one quarterback sack, which was his fifth sack of the season.

The Trojans (3-5) will take on the Hanover College Panthers (2-5) Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at Wheeler Memorial Stadium.

Volleyball

The volleyball team upped their record to 29-5 as they split two matches over the weekend, and won a five game match against District 21 rival IUPUI Tuesday.

The team defeated Purdue-Calumet 3-0 (15-6, 15-12, 15-0) Saturday, but were then defeated by Mount Saint Joseph 3-0 (1-15, 12-15, 8-15).

Senior Anne Lee led the Lady Trojans with 17 kills and seven digs for the two matches, while sophomore Gretchen Newhouse tallied 15 assists and 10 digs.

Junior Kristy Price recorded 29 assists and 10 digs, and sophomore Natalie Stanislaw had 14 kills.

The Lady Trojans needed five games to defeat IUPUI Tuesday, as they won 3-2 (3-15, 15-4, 15-13, 0-15, 15-7).

Lee had 13 kills, and sophomore Amy Lock had nine.

In assists, Price had 21, while Newhouse added 18, and Stanislaw contributed 10 digs.

The team will be in action this weekend at Indiana Wesleyan University, as they compete in the Mid-Central Conference tournament.

Soccer

The Trojans were defeated 3-1 by DePauw Saturday, but rebounded with the 2-0 victory over Earlham College Wednesday, Oct. 27.

Junior Matt Sarkela scored the only goal against DePauw. DePauw was ranked in the top 20 in the NCAA Division III.

The team traveled to Richmond, Ind. to take on Earlham and came away with a 2-0 shutout.

Goals were scored by sophomore Dave McWhinnie and freshman David Landt.

The Trojans 5-10-1 will host Indiana Wesleyan Saturday at 11 a.m.

Women's Cross-country

The women's cross-country team won the Spring Arbor Invitational as they defeated seven other teams.

Pacing the Lady Trojans was senior Naomi Fruchey, who finished second overall with a time of 19:16 over the 3.1 mile course.

Other top finishers for Taylor included freshman Christen Milligan (6th) with a time of 20:35, senior Sara Smearsoll (9th) in 20:38.

Seniors Krista Hasenmeyer and Amy Stone rounded out the top five for Taylor, as Hasenmeyer (11th) finished in 20:51, and Stone (12th) had a time of 21:08.

The team will be running in the Mid-Central Conference championship meet at Indiana Wesleyan Saturday, Oct. 29.

Men's Cross-country

The men's cross-country team finished second at the Spring Arbor Invitational, as freshman James Njoroge took second place overall, running the five-mile course in 25:04, which was his best time of the year.

Following Njoroge was sophomore Phil Steiner (8th) with a time of 26:27, and freshman Josh Hawkins (14th) with a time of 26:53.

The Trojans were ranked 13th in the NAIA national poll at the end of last week.

The team will not be in action this weekend, but will run in the NAIA District meet at Goshen College, November 6.
