Remembrance Day

In these days of stress, tension and confusion, when, in the short interval after a great war the state of the world seems as bad as ever, there is a natural tendency to grow disillusioned over the causes for which men have fought and died. It is natural but it is wrong and there can be, if one thinks about it at all, no excuse for such an attitude. The only way in which the sum can be added up—the sum of sacrifice and effect—is not by counting the cost and studying the world that is, but by counting the cost and remembering the world which would have been had defeat not victory marked its end.

What would our world have been like had the war of 1914-1918 ended in a German victory? What would our world have been if Hitler's armies had not been defeated? What would our world be like should another aggressor be allowed to run his course unchecked? These are the questions which we should ask ourselves.

War is waste but twice that waste has been dedicated to hurling back disaster. With all its faults and short-comings, the world of today, for us, is still a free world. What would it have been under Hitler? A major operation on the body of society, which is what the surgery of war amounts to, must leave the patient weaker but the infection is removed.

There is no reason, looking at the state of the world, why we should ever doubt how essential were the victories which cost so many lives. There is rather every reason why they should insure that we guard with great determination and warm fervor those things for which those same lives were sacrificed.

Every sacrifice on behalf of an ideal makes that ideal more vital and more valuable. The young man who died on the Somme and his son who died in the last war should make us determined to achieve the peace and security which they sought to preserve.

No one should look at the world and the condition it is in with despair. Out of the first war came a great loathing for war and a conviction that such strife must somehow be ended. Out of it came the idea of collective security, a living ideal which lacked only a clear appreciation of the difficulties of its enforcement. The belief that men can avoid war and dictate peace was accepted.

Out of the second war have come the great liberating movements of the Far East, fine experiments like U.N.R.R.A. and the Marshall Plan and, above all, a growing faith that no matter what the disappointments, we must make the idea of collective security work. The past few months, indeed, have been a striking demonstration that the free world is determined that aggression must stop.

Here in Canada two wars have served to create a nation and a form of society which, again, though it may possess many imperfections has rarely been equalled in the gifts that it gives to its people and the opportunities it offers its children. Only if we abandon the faith, which distinguished those who died, do their deaths become in vain. But the principles for which they fought remain a part of the Canadian character; the sacrifices which have been made have achieved their purposes.

Under the stress and strain of today amid all the confusion and uncertainty around us, the one great course which Remembrance Day dictates is that we stand fast for the causes for which so many died.

Remembrance Day therefore becomes an occasion for re-dedication, an opportunity given us once a year to assess our stature as the inheritors of a great mission. On this day we are called upon to make an accounting of our part in a civilization for which millions have died twice in this century. Those who today live lonely lives because of the war, cannot really be comforted. Those who died have an immortality which is guaranteed by our efforts. As long as we are prepared to repeat the sacrifices which they have made, then so long are those sacrifices the living heart of our future.

Wanted: Highway Information

With winter driving conditions already present on the higher elevations, the Department of Highways should take immediate steps to provide the travelling public with accurate information regarding driving conditions over the major highways, at least.

Last year the lack of accurate information caused considerable inconvenience to thousands of persons desiring to travel between the Interior and the coast. There was little accurate information regarding conditions on the Allison Pass and, even when the pass was reached, there was no information at Hope or Princeton as to whether chains were necessary or advisable.

It is true, that the police for a time did have some meagre information about general road conditions, but even this was cut off from the general public by some absurd and never-explained ruling that the police could not give highway information to the press and radio.

Washington, Alberta, Ontario and many other states and provinces provide a daily news service as to road conditions during the winter months. Information regarding Stevens, Blewett and Snoqualmie passes is available to Washington State travellers. In B.C. there are only two roads east and west, the Trans-Canada and the Southern Trans-Provincial. Surely it is not too much to ask the public works department to provide timely and accurate information regarding snow and ice conditions on these two important arteries?

Highways are built for use and the more they are used the greater the revenue, through gasoline and oil consumption, they return to the province. Every time a car travels from Kelowna to the coast, the provincial revenues benefit to the extent of about $1.50. The more cars making the trip, the greater the province's take. Accurate information regarding snow conditions on the two major east-west arteries would tend to encourage winter travel. It is the uncertainty of what may lie ahead that bothers most motorists and discourages them.

Accurate and timely information regarding road conditions is a definite responsibility of the highway department. It is Continued on Page 12 we will remember that the ideals of freedom and truth and justice for which they fought and died are still the noblest principles for men to live by.

Industry Survey to Be Made in Okanagan

A SURVEY, which when completed will provide the department of trade and industry at Victoria with many vital facts about the flow of trade in and out of the Okanagan, will be undertaken in January if the co-operation of the boards of trade and junior chambers of commerce can be obtained. This statement was made by J. R. Meredith, senior research assistant, bureau of economics and statistics, Victoria.

Mr. Meredith told a small luncheon group Wednesday that if the Okanagan, for instance, is to obtain new industries, certain market facts must be available for potential industries. These facts are not available now and the only possible way of obtaining them is through a survey which can only be successful with the co-operation of the businesses and merchants of the affected area.

His department plans to make certain regional surveys and proposes to have the Okanagan done first. The survey would include the area from Enderby to the border, Grand Forks and the Similkameen. When completed the figures would be broken down to cover the various communities.

The co-operation of the boards of trade and junior chambers of commerce is essential for two reasons, Mr. Meredith said. The first is a moral one: the support of these organizations should encourage the co-operation of the individual from whom information is sought.

The second is that a committee working with department officials is necessary for the short period of the survey.

Need Co-operation
Such co-operation was requisite throughout the entire valley, said the official, as the area to be surveyed embraced the Okanagan and adjoining territory.

Also in attendance at the luncheon was John T. Gawthrop, director, regional development division, department of trade and industry, Victoria. G. Y. L. Crossley is field representative, with offices in Kelowna.

TOLD TO FIND SOME SOLUTION TO AMBULANCE

Mayor W. B. Hughes-Games told Alderman Bob Knox to find some solution to the ambulance question and not to submit a recommendation to the council until every possible angle has been explored.

The matter was briefly discussed at Monday night's council meeting when Mr. Knox said he was endeavoring to arrange a meeting of the ambulance committee. He agreed that there seems to be something radically wrong when the City of Kamloops can make a profit in operating the service, and the cost to Vernon amounts to around $18 a month.

Recently the ambulance operators, Pendozi Taxi Co., said they had to be guaranteed $150 a month in order to provide the service.

Possibility of the vehicle being operated from the fire hall is also being considered, it was stated. However, it is understood the fire department requires an extra driver before this service could be given.

Herb Capozzi In Italy Armistice Day Message Given As Herb Surveys Rows of White Crosses

EDITOR'S NOTE—Following is another in a series of articles written by Harold (Herb) Capozzi for The Kelowna Courier. Capozzi is at present studying at the University of Perugia, north of Rome, after being awarded a Rotary Foundation Scholarship.

United Nations week has come to a close but let us hope that the spirit of the United Nations will endure for every week, for every month, for all the years.

We of the new world have a tendency to forget our wars rather quickly, without the torn buildings, with out the memory of hunger, or of night bombings. With our loved ones safe back home we forget those feverish words and hopes for peace, that we had when the war was a close and a terrible thing.

Instead of being workers for the peace, we find ourselves hoping for

MISSION MAN IS KILLED IN LOG ACCIDENT

Richard Miller, aged 39, Okanagan Mission resident, died in Vernon Jubilee Hospital yesterday afternoon about two and a half hours after he was severely injured in a logging accident on Silver Star Mountain.

He was employed by B.C. Forest Service. Details of the accident were not immediately available.

RCMP in Vernon said an inquest had been called for tomorrow afternoon. His wife and two brothers are among the survivors.

Marjorie and Rusty Come to The "End of The Trail" Completing 300-Mile Ride From Coast to Kelowna

Marjorie and Rusty have come to the "end of the trail". The pretty 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Childerstone and her nine-year-old sorrel gelding arrived in Kelowna at 4:15 p.m. Monday, 11 days after leaving New Westminster on a 300-mile ride to this Okanagan fruit centre.

And what did Marjorie want to do first when she reached Kelowna? "Bed Rusty down," she said with a laugh, "and then get out of this cowboy outfit and into some clean clothes." Mrs. C. E. Davis, of Davis Stables, had a hot bran mash waiting for Rusty when they rode into the farm yard. There, Marjorie left her faithful horse and spent the night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Neid, East Kelowna, where her mother and twin sisters, Pat and Barbara, were awaiting her.

The pretty, blue-eyed blonde, wearing riding boots and gloves, a roll brim Stetson and denim shirt and trousers, was happy and healthy.

She slept at farm houses and auto courts en route and the whole trip cost $7. Actually Marjorie covered the distance in ten days. She rested for 24 hours at Towers Ranch, 80 miles west of Princeton. Average distance was about 30 miles a day, Marjorie said.

People Wonderful!
"People were wonderful!" Marjorie exclaimed when interviewed by a Courier reporter at her new East Kelowna home. "They would not accept any money for meals or sleeping accommodation. I guess I

THREE LOCAL ORGANIZATIONS RECEIVE GRANTS

Three local organizations, in letters to city council Monday night, thanked city fathers for donations. The Kelowna Band Association said junior band members are progressing favorably and within the near future, 40 students will be taking band instruction in the school.

"The success is due to the wonderful support of the council, the press and the service clubs," the letter stated.

Salvation Army also thanked the city for the $75 donation, and the Canadian National Institute for the Blind did likewise after receiving a $50 grant.

POWER COMPANY BUYS PROPERTY

City of Kelowna accepted the offer from West Kootenay Power and Light Company to purchase a piece of property in the south end of the city for $450, where the new sub-station will be located. The power company also offered to pay 75 per cent of the survey costs.

J. D. McEwen, superintendent for West Kootenay, said his company is prepared to begin construction as soon as the transfer deed is signed.

Public Utilities Commission Approves Boost in Phone Rates

New Rates Are Effective Next Wednesday

THE new telephone rates going into effect throughout its system at midnight next Wednesday, November 15, will now enable the Okanagan Telephone Company to continue with its vast program of modernization and dial conversion, a spokesman for the company stated this morning.

The Public Utilities Commission has now accepted the rates as requested, with but a few minor exceptions. The application for increased rates was filed with the commission on May 16, of this year, and a public hearing was held in Kelowna in June.

The new rates, the first general rate revision since 1921, will provide the telephone company with an average increase of 15.3 per cent in operating revenue.

Details of new telephone rentals and toll rates may be found on page eight, first section, of this issue. However, an example of the new proposed individual business rates in the various exchanges are:

Enderby, Lumby, Peachland and Westbank	$4.00
Armstrong	4.25
Revelstoke, Salmon Arm and Summerland	4.75
Kelowna, Penticton and Vernon	5.75
The proposed individual residence rates are:
Enderby, Lumby, Peachland and Westbank	$2.75
Armstrong	3.00
Revelstoke, Salmon Arm and Summerland	3.25
Kelowna, Penticton and Vernon	3.75

Among the changes in the new arrangements is the elimination of surcharges on desk and monophone instruments. The wall set, used both business and residence, will receive a discount of 25c per month from the proposed rates.

Increased Base Rate Areas
In addition, it is proposed to increase the base rate areas in Kelowna, Penticton and Vernon from one (1) mile to one and one-quarter (1 1/4) mile radius from the central office. This will mean the elimination of mileage charges in this extended area.

The commission's acceptance of the telephone company's application provides the "go ahead" signal for the ordering of dial equipment for the Penticton and Vernon exchanges. Orders were tentatively placed in August with Siemens Bros. (Canada) Ltd., for close to $500,000 worth of intricate dial equipment for these exchanges to insure the manufacturer's delivery schedule. However, these orders were placed at that time subject to

Brian Gets Chance With Medicine Hat

Local speedball Brian Casey will board the train this afternoon for Medicine Hat and what he believes will be his "big chance" in hockey.

This latest chapter in the starry life of the valley's fleet-footed ace was begun early this week when ex-National Hockey League Joe Fisher, coach of the Medicine Hat Tigers of the Western Canada Junior Hockey League, read an article on the front page of the October 28 Kelowna Courier.

Announcement has been made that Douglas Dewar, C.B.E., has been elected chairman of the board of Okanagan Investments Limited and Okanagan Trust Company.

John J. West has been added to the boards of both companies as director.

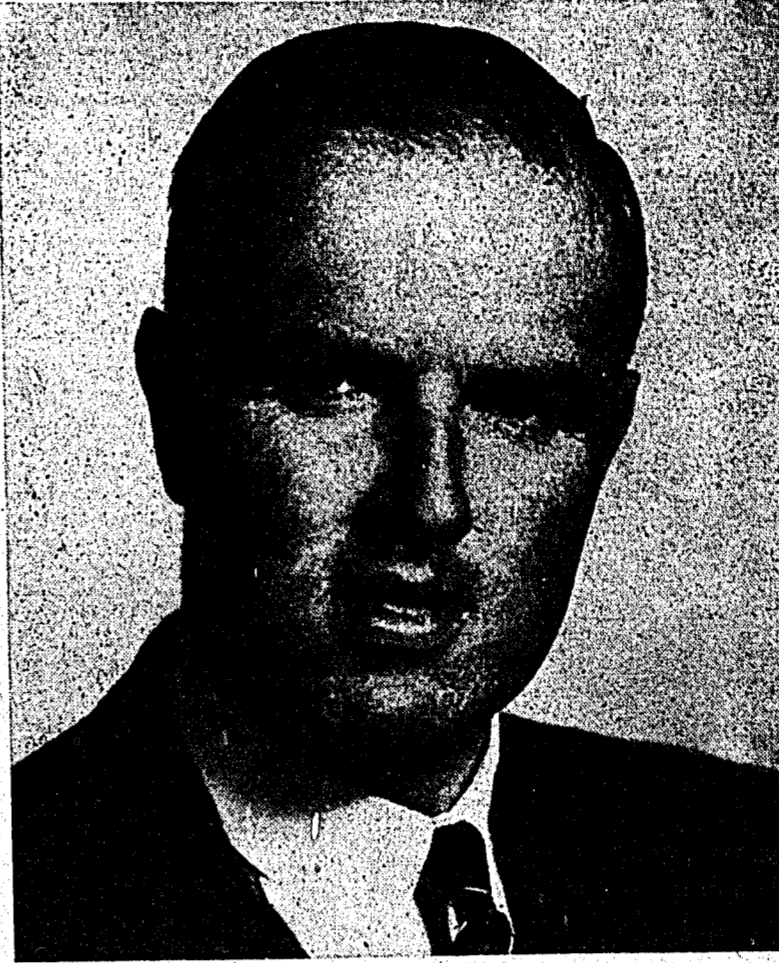

The Okanagan Investments Limited and Okanagan Trust Company were founded in May, 1909. The company transacts a general financial and trust company business in the Okanagan Valley with offices in Kelowna and Penticton.

Mr. Dewar succeeds J. R. Beale as chairman of the Board of these companies. However, Mr. Beale is remaining as a director—a position that he has held for the past 25 years and in addition was appointed honorary chairman.

C. R. Bull, of Kelowna, is vice-chairman of the board; O. St. P. Aitkens is general manager and director and J. J. Ladd is the other director. Secretary of the investment company is Gordon Bennett, while secretary and manager of the trust company is H. V. Webb.

Mr. Dewar brings a wide background of international business experience to his present appointment. He was the resident partner and general manager of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co. in New York for many years. During the second World War he served the Canadian government with distinction as one of the directors of Canada's civilian war effort.

Two-Way Tourist Trade

The extent of Canada's tourist industry is well illustrated by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics' latest travel report. In 1949 it is estimated that tourists in Canada spent $286 millions or an amount equal to $20 for every man, woman and child in the nation. Of the total our American friends contributed $268 millions or 94 per cent.

Among the visitors from the United States, expenditures by motorists made up 54 per cent; train tourists just under 20 per cent; those on boat cruises 6 per cent; bus travellers 9 per cent and air travellers 7 per cent. U.S. tourists travelling by car spent an average of $125 each; those by train $96 each; those by boat $51 each; those by bus $136 each.

Of the motorists coming into Canada, by far the greatest spending per capita was by the "summer residents" who from 1945 to 1949 averaged annually over $400 each as compared with $66.47 in 1949 per capita for the transient motor tourist. Thus communities which have been able to encourage their American neighbors to buy or build summer homes have made the greatest gains.

All Canadian provinces have shared in the benefits of the tourist trade although it is estimated that Ontario, with the most extensive advertising promotion, secured 55 per cent, Quebec 18 per cent and British Columbia 11 per cent.

It is somewhat disturbing to note however that the rapid growth in the external tourist trade of the Dominion which increased from $166 millions in 1945 to $280 millions in 1948, has been on the decline in the last two years, the jump from 1948 to 1949 being less than would be offset by the declining value of the dollar. Again, these latest statistics prove that while our tourist trade is great, it is still in the infant stage.

For example, in 1949 Canadians spent $192 millions for travel outside the Dominion, an expenditure equal to $14 per capita, of which $164 millions were spent in the United States. On a per capita basis, U.S. expenditure in Canada was about $1.66 while Canadian expenditure on tourist travel in the United States was $11.75, or over seven times as great. Moreover, Canadian travel in the U.S.A. is increasing rapidly while U.S. travel here is declining.

More than 80 per cent of the U.S. motor tourists hail from the states immediately adjoining Canada. Vehicles from more distant states, however, have been gaining in importance each year and have increased from 2.6 per cent of the total in 1945 to 6.5 per cent in 1949. But it looks as though we have a lot of selling to do yet before this U.S.-Canadian tourist trade operates on an even keel.

Travel Barrier Raised

The federal government is moving with considerable caution in removing its restrictions on American money and American goods. Typical of this is the relaxation now announced in the "rationing" of U.S. funds for travel purposes. The controls are not being done away with; it will still be necessary to fill out "Form H" before you can secure more than $50 for a trip to the States. The only difference is that now your bank can sell you up to $500 a year for pleasure travel and up to $500 a trip for business journeys, without having to consult the Foreign Exchange Control Board itself.

This, we imagine, will satisfy most people. Even in these days of inflated prices, $500 will cover a two-or-three-week vacation in most parts of the United States, and few Canadians can afford anything more. It should be adequate for the average business trip, too, unless the travelling businessman finds it necessary to do much entertaining of "prospects" as custom seems to demand in some U.S. cities.

Remaining in the same position as before are those who have to make long visits to the States for reasons of health, either for medical treatment or—in the case of elderly people or sufferers from certain diseases—to escape the Canadian winter. They will in most cases need to apply to the control board for permission to purchase the substantial sums required. With the dollar situation easier, it is to be hoped that the board will be considerate with them.

To most Canadian families, "travel" has been almost synonymous with travel in the U.S. Before the dollar crisis, the flow of Canadians southwards in summer nearly matched the northward flood of American tourists. With the restrictions eased, this friendly invasion should soon be back at its old levels.

They Brought In Industry

Nashua, New Hampshire, is in the news again. Two years ago its big industry, the giant textile-making Texton, Inc.

shut its local plant and one quarter of the city's entire labor force was out of work. It looked like municipal disaster.

Today Nashua is better off than before the big blow. In the old mill where Texton employed 3,000 actually 4,500 are checking in today. And that is not all. This little city which 24 months ago was fearful of total collapse, now has more applicants from outside industry for plant space than is immediately available and new modern factory buildings are being planned.

The transformation is largely the work of a local committee composed of bankers, business and labor leaders. They raised a kitty of $105,000 by subscription and personal cheques. They made a down payment of $100,000 on the shutdown mill, took out a $400,000 mortgage for the balance. They scouted around for new industries. Now a score of products are being made where before production was textiles only. Sales of space have completely paid off the mortgage and all other indebtedness and in addition there is a continuous and substantial source of income from rentals.

Nashua back on its feet, should be an example to towns and small cities all over this continent. There are few places in Canada that have not some unique advantages for a certain type of industry or operation. What is needed is an energetic committee with the backing of the whole municipality to point out these advantages, contact the proper prospects and bring them in.

PUCK PRACTICE

Kelowna Rural Athletic Club will be holding another practice for the hockey midgets and juveniles this coming Friday, from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Teams are looking for recruits and anyone wishing to play from the city or district is invited to turn out.

PENTICTON WINS TWICE

PENTICTON—Local teams swept the cage front here Saturday against Kamloops, winning 55-28 in the intermediate B fixture and 78-44 in the inter A contest. Both were exhibitions. Nelson is the next W.I.H.L. team to show in the Okanagan, appearing in Kelowna on Nov. 18.

Mercantile Puck League Has Protest in First Game

CHEVRONS 2, RUTLAND 0 MILL 6, STAMPEDEERS 2 FIREMEN 7, BLACK BOMBERS 0 TWO shutouts, some smart hockey and a protest over what is claimed an ineligible player were the highlights on Sunday as the Commercial Hockey League swung into action. Rutland filed the protest with league officials after Chevrans took to the ice with Al Laface, spare netman with the Kelowna Packers, in goal. A special league meeting was called for this week to deal with the protest and other league matters arising from Sunday's openers.

A league meeting Tuesday night upheld Rutland's protest, awarding the points to the Rutland team. Al Laface was ruled ineligible to play. The meeting also passed a unanimous resolution that in effect will prohibit from playing any team that fails to live up to the regulations of paying ice fees before the practice or game.

Rule 13 of the league's setup, approved this year, stipulates that "any player playing with any organized team outside commercial hockey shall be considered ineligible to play in the Commercial Hockey League."

The game in question was won by the Chevrans 2-0. Chevrans actually showed up for the game without a complete team. They enlisted the aid of Brian Casey, Bob Wolfe and Ken Lipsitt of the Lipsett Club.

Biggest disappointment to the fairly large crowd attending the three Sunday games was the dismal showing of the scrapping Black Bombers. They melted before the Firemen, taking a 7-0 lashing. H. Poyer, Tom Lee and R. Fritz contributed the main blows for the Firemen, each scoring twice. B. Barlee got the singleton. Poyer picked up two assists for four points for the day. Lee and Fritz ended with three points each, both drawing an assist.

Bombers seldom could get an organized attack going and when ever they did get near the Firemen's net, twinstender Hugh McCormack was equal to the challenge.

Mill Powerhouse A powerful squad from Simpson's were given a tough tussle by the always dangerous Stampedeers before they skated off the ice with a 6-2 triumph. Gordon Mirtle, late of the Packers, sparked the Mill with two goals and two helpers.

Arrangements also scored twice while Ken Amundrud and H. Taylor took care of the rest of the goals for the Mill. Hugh Drybrough and Dave Newton were the Stampers' marksmen.

Rowing Clubbers, who get the commercial league's ice time, tonight after the senior game, will see their first action on Sunday when they take on the Bombers in the first game of the day. Time is 1 p.m.

In the second, due to go at 2:30, Mill tangles with the Chevrans. The four o'clock fixture will be between the Stampedeers and the Firemen.

It's In The Game

By AL DENEGRE

TRUE STRENGTH WILL SHOW BEFORE MUCH LONGER. Everyone will concede without much of an argument which is the weakest team—so far—in our senior hockey circuit. But if you wanted to pick out the strongest well, you've got a wager on your hands in four cities.

It depends where you happen to be hanging your hat at the time. Anyone so bold as to come to KELOWNA (or just live here; for that matter) and proclaim KAMLOOPS ELKS as the team to beat again, will have to "put up or shut up." Or up in VERNON no one's going to get away with singing the praises of NANAIMO without an argument on his or her hands, backed by a solid and unashamed display of Canadian currency.

It's a tight market right now and how the chips will fall is going to take some telling yet. A better indication of things to come late in February will be ours when all teams up in the interior complete a home-and-home series with the pair at sea level.

A major test of strength that has everyone around here going about with a hungry look is looming for this week-end. It will be the first meeting between the PACKERS and the front-running CLIPPERS on the latter's home ice. The odds usually favor the home team and in this case the odds are fairly steep, seeing as how the Packers will be playing five games in as many nights and traveling some 300 miles between the first and second.

But it doesn't always work out that way. Take KIMBERLEY DYNAMITERS, for example. Unlike Kamloops and Vernon on their long junkets, the Kootenays managed to get a 4-3 edge on their opposition, though two of them were easy ones at the expense of the so-far-lustreless KERRISDALE MONARCHS.

Just what effect Kelowna's 9-2 drubbing of Kimberley last Thursday will have on some YANCOUVER sports writers also remains to be seen. How they can still sell the MOAHL short, with the change going to the Kootenays, after what the Kamloops Elks did last year is one of life's present day mysteries.

A late report from the Coast had it that ex-Packer GORDON SMITH, recently released by Kamloops, joined up with the Monarchs. Players are allowed to stay in the game in the same province after being released by one club, even though the November 1 residence deadline is past. Latest statistics available about the scoring leaders in the Western International have FRANK SULLIVAN for their stepping stone. In six meetings with CHUCK MILLMAN'S boys, the Clippers have won five. Their other three victories are once over Kamloops, SPOKANE and Kimberley.

Bearing this out still further, you will recall that when Kerrisdale made their first trek up this way, the Monarchs absorbed beatings here and in Vernon and managed one point for their trouble by tieing the Clippers. If these carryings on meant anything—which they don't because our hockey has become as unpredictable as the war in KOREA—then the poor cousins upcountry should be able to sit and eat at the same table as Cook's capitalists.

This also applies to DAVE MAC-KAY'S clan, who are a lot tougher than their present fourth berth would indicate. Apart from the hapless Monarchs, who yet may hit a winning stride, this year's puck parade to the post promises enough excitement to keep the hands cold and clammy from nervousness all winter long.

AL-DEN-ETTES Just what effect Kelowna's 9-2 drubbing of Kimberley last Thursday will have on some YANCOUVER sports writers also remains to be seen. Kelowna Lawn Bowling club has announced Thursday, Nov. 16, as the date of the annual general meeting. Site is the Willow Inn, beginning at 8 p.m. Included on the agenda are elections of officers, presentation of cups to the past season's winners and outlining a plan for improvements to the club-house.

OWLS PREP FOR TRAPP TECH IN CAGE MEET HERE

(Trapp Technical of New Westminster, as great a name for basketball or other sports as can be found on the Coast, will put in an exhibition cage appearance on Friday, coming up against the Kelowna Senior High Golden Owls in the senior high gym. A preliminary at 7:30 p.m. will see the KHS Owlettes take on Pentiction High School girls. The Trapp Tech-Owls feature follows, starting around 8:30.

Two Johnny badboys got punished this week—one in Kamloops and one in TRAIL. JOHN URSAKIS two-game ban was the toughest one handed out yet by DR. (Bent your denture?) MEL BUTLER yet for profanity. MEL JOHN RYPIEN of Trail was benched for 10 games following a ruckus with NELSON'S JOE ZUBACK, the latter getting in the face within wrinking distance of the left eye, from the former's skate.

Which harkens us back a couple of years ago when Nanaimo's RON MONTOMERY got two years for giving the blade treatment to JACK KIRK, then with Kamloops. Kirk and Monty are now pally-wally on the Clippers' defence.

Vets Teach Bears Sound Hoop Lesson

Dr. George Athans floored a fighting band of Kelowna Bears, composed of veterans and newcomers, but they were no match for the highly-polished Pentiction Vets in an exhibition tilt at Pentiction Tuesday. Bears, in their first outing of the season, were set back, but hard, by a 78-36 count.

The canny Vets, already seasoned campaigners, rolled up a 42-20 count by half-time and then kept up the pace to outscore the visitors by 36-18 in the last half. Bill Raptis was the big gun for the winners with 23 points.

Bill Kane paced the losers with 11 points, 10 of them coming in the first half. Twenty-eight fouls were called on the Bears; 17 on the Vets.

KINGPIN FOR CANUCKS on both the defence and at the opposition end, rearguard Tommy Stecyk has been the big reason for the Vernontites coasting along on a three-game win streak. He and his cohorts will appear here tonight against the Kelowna Packers, starting at 8:30.

DON'T SELL YOUR BONDS IF YOU NEED QUICK CASH

Like hundreds of thousands of Canadians in recent years, you probably have bought a nest-egg of bonds for your future. But now you may need money to meet an emergency or opportunity, and the question is whether to sell these bonds. Fred Baines, the Bank of Montreal's branch manager at Kelowna strongly advises against it. "Bonds represent money you've already saved," he says. "If your proposition is sound, you can keep your nest-egg intact by simply borrowing against your bonds at the B of M. When you've repaid your loan in easy instalments, you'll still have your savings in reserve."

You'll be in good company if you take Mr. Baines' advice. Many thousands of people, he says, use their bonds to borrow at the B of M every year. The entire cost of a loan against Government Bonds is exceedingly small; indeed, it is little more than the interest you receive on the bonds themselves.

October was Dull Month

From the B.C. Capital

While no official record is kept of hours of sunshine here, the past month was generally conceded as being one of the duller for some time. This followed a sunny September, during which clouds and rain were conspicuous by their almost complete absence. But if it was damp and dreary in Kelowna nearly all of last month there is some consolation in the knowledge that similar conditions existed virtually all over the west. Instruments of official weather observer here, R. P. Walrod, showed precipitation of varying degrees fell on 16 of the 31 days. Heaviest fall came in the 24-hour period from 8 a.m. October 28 to 8 a.m. October 27 when 31 of an inch was recorded. Just a trace was noted on three of the 16 days. While the overcast skies kept the mean high down to a chilly $5.09, it also worked the other way, keeping Jack Frost away for most of the time. Frost was recorded on only five nights, with the lowest mercury reading at 28 on October 2. Mean low for the month was 37.84. Highest temperature during the month was 65 on October 10. Rainfall during the month totalled 12 inches. Slightly more than twice as much moisture came down in the Joe Rich Valley, according to the official records kept by observer Mrs. Mary Weddell. There 2.46 was measured, covering the precipitation for 15 days. This did not include snowfalls of 1/4 inch and 1 inch on October 1 and 2 respectively. Nearly all the rest of the 15 days at Joe Rich cloudiness prevailed. High for the month was 58 on four separate days—7, 8, 10 and 11—while a low of 14 above was recorded on October 8. Frost nipped Joe Rich during 17 nights. Following are the month's records for Kelowna and Joe Rich: (Precipitation in inches.)

The first step in the further expansion of the John Hart Power Development at Campbell River at an approximate cost of $790,000 has been approved by the executive council on the recommendation of the B.C. Power Commission, it was announced by Hon. Gordon S. Wismer, attorney-general, in the absence of the premier.

The expansion is to meet the requirements of the new pulp mill now being established at Duncan Bay by the Elk Falls Company Limited, Mr. Wismer explained. The executive council, in adopting the recommendation of the B.C. Power Commission, also ratified an agreement to deliver power to the Elk Falls Company Limited on the following quantitative basis:

1. By May 1st, 1952, 16,000 horsepower; 2. By August 15th, 1952, 17,300 horsepower; 3. By February 15, 1954, 21,300 horsepower; 4. Following the last date, the B.C. Power Commission undertakes, upon receiving written notice, to deliver 26,000 horsepower.

This schedule of delivery has been arranged so as to meet the gradual increase in capacity of the plant as its production is stepped up and also as it comes into full production capacity. As the first step in meeting the terms of this agreement, the B.C. Power Commission has been authorized to construct some 2 1/4 miles of transmission line from its Campbell River plant to the Duncan Bay mill site. The transmission line will be of a 138,000 volt transmission and consequently a sub-station will be constructed near the mill site to step this voltage down to 30,000.

Later, as the demand for power increases, it will be necessary for the B.C. Power Commission to submit further recommendations to the executive council for the further development of generating facilities.

Monthly Bulletin

In announcing the release of the monthly bulletin of his department, Hon. L. H. Eyles, minister of trade and industry, reported that employment in non-agricultural industries of British Columbia showed a favorable movement at the beginning of August of this year.

This is the sixth consecutive discovery. He will find, I think, that the people have a curious character both proud and humble, that they do many things they don't like because it's "proper," and many things they do like because of a zest for living, that they have a wonderful tolerance if you chide them about their toilets or their interminable brussels sprouts and a gimlet eye if you touch a more sensitive spot such as their present role as a world power.

He will find that the English will like him if he is prepared to like them and he will, of course, because it is in his bones.

Our Town

By JACK SCOTT

VOYAGE HOME
My friend, Russell, leaves tomorrow for England. I'm a bright green with envy. I keep trying to think of good reasons why the paper should send me to England. The paper always thinks of better reasons why I should stay home. It will be Russell's first visit there. His parents are both transplanted from England. So, of course he's heard a great deal about the country. He may not realize it, but much of his upbringing has been conditioned by the life his parents knew over there.

Perhaps that's why he decided on this trip. He might have gone to South America, even Australia. The purely geographic pull is stronger in those directions. But he decided on England. "Going home," his mother said.

He has the usual quota of cock-eyed ideas about what he will find there. Canadians who have never been to England frequently think of the country in the form of a confusing montage involving Eton boys on the playing fields, quaint pubs, castles, hedges, fox hunters and the rest.

I have warned Russell not to expect to find a come-to-life version of the fine old English hunting prints that adorn the walls of his parents' home. There is much of that to be seen, it's true. But he will find the people leading everyday lives very similar to the lives that lead us here. Those similarities may impress him more than the differences.

This discovery was a familiar one with Canadian servicemen (and even the odd American) after a few weeks in England. They were pleased to find themselves feeling at home. I have heard it described as much the same feeling a migratory duck must have on its first flight north, a feeling of going back... going back to where it has never been.

Russell is a young man. A month or two more in England can't help but broaden his character. I think when my own kids have reached the age when they can travel that Overseas will be part of their education.

I find it hard to put into words, but there is a constant invitation in England to find a personal perspective to pleasant living. It links up with a lot of unsatisfactory words: maturity, serenity, detachment, tranquility. The hands on the English clock seem less urgent. The delicate balance between ambition and peace of mind seems more easily reached.

There's an enigma here hard to wrap up neatly in words. The English are militant trade unionists. They voted Socialist. They worship speed in racing cars, jet planes and greyhounds. They are the world's most confirmed gamblers. Like all island people, they sail out restlessly for the most unlikely horizons.

Yet nowhere in England—no, not even in London—do you encounter that desperate North American atmosphere of high-pressure, that feeling that everybody is wound up too tight, like a mechanical toy, that finger-nail-biting, wild-eyed, not-enough-time serenity, detachment, tranquility, the sense of the frantic new world.

Of course my friend is going to find some unpleasant things, too, things he may not laugh about until they are a memory.

He will make the usual jokes about the cooking. There's just no getting away from it. As bad cooks they're inspired. He will wonder, as we all did, how a nation can make the Spitfire and yet not produce the toilet that will flush without a master mechanic. He will probably mistake the calm for the phlegmatic, the reserve for apathy.

But when he's had these apathy...

Proceeds From Firemen's Ball Go Toward Building Local Contingency Fund

THE firemen's ball is not being held just as "another social event," according to Fire Chief Fred Gore. "The purpose of the ball is to raise funds for the firemen's contingency fund," he told a Courier reporter when trying to sell him a ticket to the Firemen's Ball being held next Wednesday in the Legion Hall.

"Next Wednesday? I've already got an assignment for that date," the reporter countered. "You can take the dance in after you have covered the other meeting," the Chief reasoned. "And anyway, even if you can't go you should support the firemen's contingency fund."

"The firemen's contingency fund? Never heard of it. What's that?" the reporter asked.

"Two years ago the volunteers in the brigade decided that a contingency fund should be established in order that any needed assistance might be provided to volunteer firemen who might be killed or injured in the course of their duty," Mr. Gore explained.

"But are not the firemen covered by insurance?" the reporter queried.

"Yes," the Chief admitted, "they are, but the amount in case of death is only $1,000 which is not much, especially if a family is left behind. It would do little more than pay the funeral expenses. The hope is that should a fireman be killed, a thousand dollars could be given from the fund."

"But you can't build up a fund on the proceeds from dances. Surely you must have some other idea of raising money for it?"

"Firemen Contribute." "The volunteers themselves are making contributions," the Chief hastened to explain. "When the fund was first organized two years ago, all the volunteer members agreed to make a contribution of one dollar a month or $12 a year. They have been doing that for two years, you must have about $800 in the kitty now."

"That's just about right. Another thing when a man leaves the brigade he cannot withdraw the money he has put into the contingency fund. That is an outright gift to be used to assist firemen injured or killed in the line of duty."

"Agreement Fund." "Your reserve certainly could not stand very many donations at the moment," the reporter commented. "That is just the point. We never know just when one of our men may be killed or seriously injured. It may be today or it may be tomorrow. We hope not. But we never know. That is the reason why we are holding this ball in the hope that we can augment our fund by several hundreds of dollars at least."

"You speak of firemen being killed or seriously injured. Has that happened in Kelowna?"

"We have had men injured, yes. But not totally disabled nor have we ever had a man killed here. But the firemen's job is becoming more dangerous all the time."

"Why?"

"Well, there are two primary reasons. First we are getting bigger buildings. Second, we are using more chemicals. Both these things make the firemen's job more dangerous. If there is much smoke a fireman might go into a big building today and never come out. There have been one or two close calls right here and there, men being frequently killed in other places."

"The point I want to emphasize," Chief Gore went on, "is that the firemen's ball has not been revived just for the fun of it. It has a very definite purpose—namely, to try to build up our fund to give a little more assistance to the families of injured or killed firemen. And that accident may occur while he is fighting a fire in your own building."

"The boys of the brigade did not want to go out and make a straight collection. They wanted to give value for the money and so they decided to revive the ball. The preparations for the ball resulted in a great deal of work for the boys of the brigade. They are gladly giving their time for this purpose."

"And, at the same time, do not forget, that they are not asking the public to buy a dance ticket, but to come and have a good time. The public will get good value for their money. The point is we must sell enough tickets to pay the expense of the ball and to provide, we hope, a substantial amount for this fund to assist firemen who may be injured or killed in fighting a fire in, possibly, your own building. We need to sell every ticket we can."

The reporter surmised: "Well, you've sold me. Where's the ticket?"

HANDICAPPED PEOPLE TAKE SWIM LESSONS

For the first time in Canada, volunteers are being trained to teach swimming to the handicapped—to paraplegics and spastics, to polio victims and to the blind—at a pilot program inaugurated by the Canadian Red Cross Society in Toronto this month.

Some 35 Red Cross volunteer swimming and water safety instructors are receiving special training in an 18-hour course conducted at the University of Toronto under the direction of medical specialists and swimming experts.

The medical profession is realizing more and more that remedial swimming is a valuable aid in a convalescent program of recovery, said Dr. Harvey Doney, Red Cross national director of Swimming and Water Safety.

"And for those patients, such as paraplegics and spastics, who either cannot or have difficulty walking on land, swimming opens a new world. They can learn to walk in water, to enjoy swimming as a recreation, to gain a new aid in their readjustment to life."

While swimming for the handicapped is being taught in some locations across the country, there is great need for trained volunteers, which Red Cross hopes to help fill by this course of instruction. Other courses may soon be given in other centres in Canada.

OKANAGAN MISSION

OKANAGAN MISSION—A few cases of chicken pox and whooping cough are present among the children.

Mrs. H. R. McClure and Kenneth have returned home, via the S.S. Aorang, from a four-month visit with relatives in Australia.

The dance, sponsored by the Rural Athletic Club and the U-Go-I-Go Club, held in the Community Hall last Friday evening was enjoyed by some 80 people. The music supplied by Cass Lehnars Orchestra was exceptionally popular. The small crowd present was very disappointing and did not make it a financial success.

The linen network table cloth raffled by the ladies of the U-Go-I-Go Club was won by Mrs. Janet Davis, Okanagan Mission.

Congratulations are being extended to Rev. and Mrs. F. D. Wyatt on the birth of a daughter at the Kelowna General Hospital.

Little Shawn McGladery has returned from the Kelowna General Hospital, but will be confined to his home for some time.

Mrs. Bob Dyson, with Dianne and Linda, left this week to join her husband at Prince George, where they will make their home.

An Okanagan Mission Badminton Club has been formed at the Mission with Bert Seguss elected as president and Jack Neidham as secretary. About twenty members have enrolled to date, with play being three nights a week, Tuesday, Friday and Sunday at 7:30.

Pro-Rec Classes have started once again in the Okanagan Mission Community Hall with Kelowna and District Pro-Rec Instructor Auggie Ciancone in charge and assisted by Miss Fournier of the Kelowna Junior High School. The classes are held every Wednesday evening from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. It is expected that a large number of the residents will enjoy this healthful recreation.

The St. Andrews Parish Guild held a sale of used clothing and miscellaneous articles in the Community Hall on Saturday afternoon. Most of the articles were disposed of successfully.

The monthly meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. R. Butler on Wednesday afternoon and the following week a preview of bazaar articles will be held at the home of Mrs. H. C. S. Collett. The bazaar will be held Nov. 23, in the afternoon, at the Okanagan Mission Community Hall.

GLENMORE

GLENMORE—Archie Rankin accompanied by Charles Ross, of East Kelowna, returned home last week after a week's hunting trip in the Cariboo district. They each brought home a moose.

Guy Reed and Gordon Marshall returned home a few days ago from a hunting trip to Rock Creek. They failed to see any deer, but brought home some ducks.

Steve Wood is back at work again after several days at home with a siege of flu.

Mrs. J. Baron, of Sidney, V.I., arrived on Monday to visit her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hume.

Apple picking and hauling was finished last week and outside pickers have now left the district.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Moubrey have returned from hunting up at Christian Lake, going up on Wednesday of last week and returning on Friday, with a four-point buck.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Caldwell accompanied by Mr. Caldwell's sister, Mrs. Twinn, of Kelowna, left last Saturday to spend a week at the coast.

REQUEST TREES BE REMOVED
Gordon's Master Market has asked the city to remove three trees in front of their new market now under construction on Bernard Avenue, as they will interfere with the operation of the food store. The request was referred to Alderman R. F. L. Keller for investigation with power to act.

More About 4 MARJORIE AND RUSTY (From Page 1, Col. 5) Marjorie admitted she was surprised over the amount of interest taken in her trip. She was the first individual to make the 300-mile ride since the Hope-Princeton Highway was opened. "People would stop on the highway and offer me sandwiches and coffee. Some even offered me money, but I wouldn't take it. Quite a few insisted on giving me a photograph," she said. "I never thought I would see a celebrity overnight!" "Rusty went for a day and a half without food when I was unable to get any for him. I had to feed him myself. He didn't like them. Neither of us knew what to make of them."

Marjorie generally "hit the road" around 8 a.m. and stopped about 4 p.m. She did not feel stiff after Rusty had already taken to his new surroundings. A few minutes before the Courier camera took his picture, Rusty made short work of munching through three apples which he would gnaw off a tree.

Fixing Up New Home Marjorie's mother and her twin sisters, Pat and Barbara, arrived here about a week ago, while Mr. Childerstone arrived at noon on Tuesday after bringing the family's furniture from the coast via truck. At present they are busy fixing up their new home in East Kelowna, but after they get settled, both Marjorie and her father, a retired Royal Canadian Mounted Police officer, plan on getting some work.

A pleasant family, the Childerstones are looking forward to their stay in the Okanagan.

THIS IS AN AIR VIEW of Shigatse, the second largest city in Tibet, surrounded by the typical mountainous ranges of the country. The Chinese Communist radio at Peking has announced that China's Red army has been ordered to march into Tibet to free 3,000,000 Tibetans from imperialist oppression. The little-known mountain-plateau land of Tibet covers 478,000 square miles. It was nominally under the rule of China, but broke China's hold during the 1911 revolution. -Central Press Canadian.

INDUSTRY SURVEY

(From Page 1, Col. 4) Local representatives at the luncheon included C. D. Gaddes, R. F. Parkinson, R. P. MacLean, and T. R. Hill, of the Kelowna Board of Trade; Claude McLure, Retail Merchants Bureau; G. W. L. Crossley, regional development division, department of trade and industry; and seven members of the Kelowna Junior Chamber of Commerce. These were: President Ernie Gray, industries chairman Roy Wignall, Roy Winsby, Ed Hunt, Les Wilson, George Spence and Craig Brodie.

Verone Approves Move Those present gave their spontaneous approval to the idea and supported the speaker regarding the conduct of the survey which will get underway next January.

A meeting held at Vernon the previous night had also given its approval to the idea and had definite terms in mind. All information received in the survey will be held in strictest confidence; simplified forms will enable retail and wholesale firms to complete them with a minimum of time and effort. Only approximate figures are required and it is hoped that all will co-operate in making the survey in the shortest possible time.

Surveys in U.S. Such surveys have been made in the United States and results have been gratifying, indeed, before any progress can be made as far as new industry is concerned, such information must be available, Mr. Meredith said.

Since it covers all types of products, businesses will be presented with a form, the simplicity of which will be explained to them and they need to do is to fill it out. Six minutes should be sufficient.

Mr. Meredith revealed in his informal address, that his department is keenly aware of the great need for information and that industrial inquiries frequently reach his office. "But we have no marketing information available," he stated. "And this is absolutely essential in order to show the industrial potential of an area."

Market Information The speaker stated that suggestions and criticisms were welcomed. "We want this marketing information," he said, "not production information. Newspapers seek such facts almost daily. Retail sales figures, Columbia last year were $963,000,000, but this information is of little value to anyone. It tells nothing."

Survey forms will be sent direct to Victoria and will be strictly confidential. No facts would be divulged by the bureau, he said, as he stressed the absolute secrecy of the entire survey.

Roy Wignall, chairman of the industries committee of the Jaycees stated that they "are rarin' to go."

MANY ATTEND SPRAY TALK AT RUTLAND

"Sprays and Spray Oil" was the subject of the address given by Frank Morton, assistant district horticulturist, at a farm service meeting, a project sponsored by Imperial Oil Limited, at the Rutland Community Hall Tuesday night.

Other speakers were Floyd Partlo, farm service manager for B.C. division of Imperial Oil Limited, and Stan Ferguson, resident manager of the Okanagan Valley.

About 150 people attended the meeting, at which films were shown. Door prizes were won by Willard Cross and I. Yamaoka, while four boxes of chocolates were given away to the ladies.

Chairman was A. R. Pollard. The ladies of the Rutland United Church served refreshments.

BOARD RULES ON TWO APPEALS

Building appeal board recently granted the appeal of Kelowna Holding Society, against the building inspector's refusal to issue a building permit because the structure would not be set back ten feet from Bertram Street.

The board, however, refused the appeal of John Mehalechon for construction of a garage at 994 Manhattan Drive. As an alternative it would allow a combined woodshed and garage with a setback from the street of five feet provided the present woodshed is taken down and a combined garage and woodshed is kept in good state of repair and appearance.

TRY STORING VEGETABLES A NEW WAY

Feasibility of keeping root vegetables during the winter in easily prepared outdoor storages in the milder parts of the Pacific coast is being studied, although the two most important factors, insulation from frost and freedom from excessive moisture, are relatively easy to provide.

The Dominion Experimental Station, Saanichton, B.C., has shown that a soil covering of six inches gives adequate protection to beets in the coldest winters, when up to 24 degrees of frost have been recorded. Where lower temperatures are experienced, more protection would be required. Excess moisture will not be a problem provided a well drained site is selected.

Storages for small lots can be very simple and easy to handle. For example, the roots may be placed in layers in apple boxes with straw, set against an unheated outside wall, and the whole covered with leaves or straw for added insulation. Providing excess moisture is excluded, no difficulty should be experienced.

The ramp is an old country method of storage deserving of wider use in this country. It is simple in construction and effective. The first essential is a conveniently located piece of well-drained ground. The procedure may vary somewhat according to local conditions and preferences. One method is to lay a bed of straw on the ground, and then pile up the roots upon it. A convenient system is to make a separate pile for each kind of root vegetable so that each may be easily identified and readily accessible at any time. For large piles build the pile around drain tile placed vertically to ensure proper ventilation. For smaller piles up to eighteen inches in height, no ventilation should be necessary. Place a layer of straw over the roots and then an inch or two of soil. As the weather here comes colder, add more soil to the depth necessary for protection from frost.

HORTICULTURAL HEAD VISITS ORCHARD CITY

L. F. Burrows, secretary of the Canadian Horticultural Council, Ottawa, conferred with officials of the fruit industry here over the week-end.

Mr. Burrows was responsible in 1923 for the formation of the Canadian Horticultural Council, the national organization through which all representations of the fruit growing industry of Canada are made to the federal government.

No stranger to B.C., Mr. Burrows was supervisor for the soldier settlement board here, following Great War I. During World War II, he was administrator of metal conservation. He is also secretary of the Canadian Fruit Wholesalers' Association.

Mr. Burrows was accompanied on his western tour by Wilfred Cluny, of Halifax, and Bert Fiewelling, St. John, N.B., current president of the Canadian Fruit Wholesalers' Association.

Gruelling Five-Game Test For Packers Begins Here Tonight

PACKERS embark on their stiffest test of the season tonight when they take on the Vernon Canadians here in the first of their five-games-in-as-many-nights grind. The local pucksters start their first road trip tomorrow morning in fine fettle and in excellent condition—providing nothing happens to any of the players in tonight's tangle with the hustling Canucks.

Dave MacKay and his boys will be no soft touch tonight, as events from 8:30 on probably will show. They are currently riding along on a three-win string—their best to date. As they take to the ice tonight, the Canucks can boast of a 6-2 win over the Packers, a 5-4 job on Kimberley Dynamiters and a 5-2 trimming of the Kamloops Elks—all on their home ice, in the past three starts.

Bill MacKenzie's charges hold no fear for the rampaging Vernonites, traditionally Kelowna's arch-rivals, and the team that can bring out the largest crowds in Memorial Arena here. In meetings to date, the Packers have a 3-2 edge, including a 7-1 pasting over the Canucks in their last appearance here. Ice Newcomers Canadians will show some newcomers tonight while the same 14 men who piled up the 9-2 verdict over Kimberley last week will be in the orange-and-black of the Packers.

New faces on the Canucks' roster will be goalie Cliff Dobson and defenceman Leo Lucchini. A report that the blond boxer, Lou Holmes, and flashy winger Len Wallington would be back off the injured list, could not be confirmed at this writing. The former Packers currently are firmly entrenched in second place, while Vernon is slowly scrambling out of fourth spot. But no matter how the battle goes tonight, it will not affect the standings. It's right into bed after the game.

Arena Rinkles

Thursday, November 11, 1948, was the official opening day of Kelowna and District Memorial Arena, a living memorial, dedicated to gallant hearts, and designed to perpetuate their memory. Those who paid the supreme sacrifice in Great War are not forgotten. Each Armistice Day their names are recalled with deepest humility and throughout the year they are also remembered. It would take too long to describe their names; many columns to mention them all. To describe their names; many columns to mention them all. To describe their names; many columns to mention them all.

Those two words "and district" are very important when one mentions the Memorial Arena. Why? Because residents in all rural areas near Kelowna, contributed handsomely to the building fund. Kelowna was one of the first cities in Canada to go on record as pledging the erection of a "living" memorial and within a matter of a few weeks close to $100,000 was contributed by Kelowna and district residents. This city is an unparalleled record for "doing" in record time. "I've been all over Canada, several times, have lived on the prairies and Vancouver. I travel all over the interior, in fact, pretty well all over Canada, and I'll tell you frankly, I'll take Kelowna". So said a well-known commercial traveller recently, who could live anywhere in Canada.

The writer of Arena Rinkles is not paid by anyone to give people the name of a matter of fact, they don't know their name is going to be mentioned until they pick up a Courier and see their name in type. Right now is a good time to give the arena a name. We've been fortunate in having men on the commission who have taken a keen interest in the arena, devoting valuable time and thought to its success. They've all done a marvellous job and deserve a hearty vote of thanks. Sound the trumpet for manager Percy Downton, too. Conscientious, alert to his responsibilities. Perce is "on the job" at all times. Born in Delisle and an old Saskatchewaner, he and Mrs. Downton—and their charming little daughter—have all acquired a fond liking for Kelowna. Percy has travelled extensively and seen many arenas and thinks "ours" is one of the best. Saskatchewan, says Perce, has a very fine arena. Incidentally, did you know that Kelowna got dominion-wide publicity on November 13, 1949, when the arena opened? Foster Hewitt, Canadian premier hockey commentator, paid his tribute over a national network. He shoots! He scores! (Packers, that is) now echoes through the arena. Commercial hockey, figure skating, ice shows, lacrosse, headline attractions and numerous other activities, have made the arena a mecca for all for miles around.

It's "hockey night" again tonight and the Vernon Canadians will give the Kelowna Packers in another thrilling contest. Every Packer backer will be cheering for a victorious send-off as the Packers embark on their first coastal jaunt this week-end. The Packers have won the hearts of the fans, have great team spirit and more than one is convinced that they are playoff bound. Game time tonight is 8:30. Remember to give the Kelowna City Bar lots of hearty applause. And don't forget the Lions cushions. Only a dime. All proceeds go to helping the blind.

CANADIANS FLY WITH BIG WIN OVER KAMLOOPS First Victory Over Elks Boosts Vernon's Current Win Streak to Three (Special To The Kelowna Courier) VERNON—A pepped-up bunch of Vernon Canadians ran their victory string to three straight Tuesday night with a decisive 5-2 win over the Kamloops Elks in Civic Arena here. It was the Canucks' first win of the season over the third-place Elks. The victory made no change in the league standings but pulled the Canadians closer to the Elks and still farther away from the Kerrisdale Monarchs, floundering in the basement. Canucks led all the way. They enjoyed a 1-0 margin at the end of the first, raised it to 3-1 at the end of the second and 4-1 at the end of the third. The Elks 2-1 in the final. The new goaltender—Cliff Dobson, last year with the Saskatoon Quakers—was the individual star of the game, beating Elks snipers on many a close-in try. Just a shade behind him was starry Tom-

KAMLOOPS ELKS' ace warrior, garrulous Johnny Ursaki is doing his worrying on the sidelines this week, handed a two-game suspension for an abusive verbal barrage to the referees on Oct. 28. He missed Tuesday's game at Vernon and will sit out Saturday's Vernon at Kamloops tilt.

GOLF WIND-UP SATURDAY Presentation of fall season awards, a supper and 19th hole festivities are planned for this coming Saturday afternoon and evening as the men's section of the Kelowna Golf Club officially wrap up the 1950 campaign.

MacKay Draws Major Stecyk fired home two goals and assisted on a third. Bernie Bathgate scored Elks' two goals, assisted on both by Don Campbell. Playing-coach Dave MacKay picked up a major penalty at the 13:35 mark of the last period as he slashed Harvey Stein across the thigh, sending him to the ice. Referee John Kubasek ruled a five-minute major penalty for slashing with intent to injure.

The Kamloops trainer later reported that Stein was badly bruised but did not suffer a broken leg as was originally supposed. Elks failed to show their usual effectiveness with a man advantage and when they did get through Dobson stopped them cold. Paul Thompson was scrambling his lines all night long, being only eight feet from the goal with no replacement for the suspended Johnny Ursaki.

First period—1, Vernon, Thomas (Davison) 19:08. Penalty: McNaughton. Second period—2, Vernon, Stecyk (Jakes) 3:05; 3, Kamloops, Bathgate (Campbell) 3:37; 4, Vernon, Elks (Stecyk, Jakes) 9:57. Penalties: None.

Third period—5, Kamloops, Bathgate (Campbell) 3:48; 6, Vernon, Lucchini (Jakes, MacKay) 6:54; 7, Vernon, Stecyk (Ritson) 11:30. Penalties: Turner (2), McNaughton, Bathgate, MacKay (major).

CANADA'S DOOR FOR SETTLERS IS WIDE OPEN

Application for Immigrants May Be Made at Local Customs Office

Canada "in vital need of new settlers," is looking for immigrants. This was the word today from H. B. Merrick, of the settlement branch of the Kelowna office of the department of immigration.

"We are looking for suitable immigrants from all of western Europe," explained Mr. Merrick, "and foreign-born Canadians can help us."

Gone are the days of "red tape" and confusion in Canadian immigration. Today's program, said Mr. Merrick, has been "streamlined from the ground up."

Under the new "open-door" policy, recent Canadian settlers can bring distant relatives and even friends to Canada on as little as 48 hours notice. Under the old policy, only the immediate family and close relatives could be brought to Canada by immigrants.

Germans, for instance, are no longer on the "enemy alien" list. "All we ask," said the immigration official, "is that they are in good health, desirable settlers and have a reasonable guarantee of employment when they arrive."

Settlement officers at present overseas are contacting individuals and groups in the United Kingdom, Belgium, France, Holland and the Scandinavian countries.

What is the definition of a suitable immigrant? One who, in the eyes of the minister of citizenship and immigration, is "not undesirable owing to his peculiar customs, habits, modes of life, methods of holding property or because of his probable inability to become readily adopted and integrated into the life of a Canadian community, and to assume the duties of Canadian citizenship."

Local Office
Canadians with relatives and friends in Europe are being urged to bring them to Canada. "We need settlers. Every immigrant is a producer and a consumer and essential to Canada's economy," said Mr. Merrick.

In the event of local residents being interested in submitting an application for relatives or friends from Europe, they are requested to contact the immigration office in the customs department of the Kelowna postoffice.

CHIROPRACTIC FOR HEALTH

TONSILLITIS

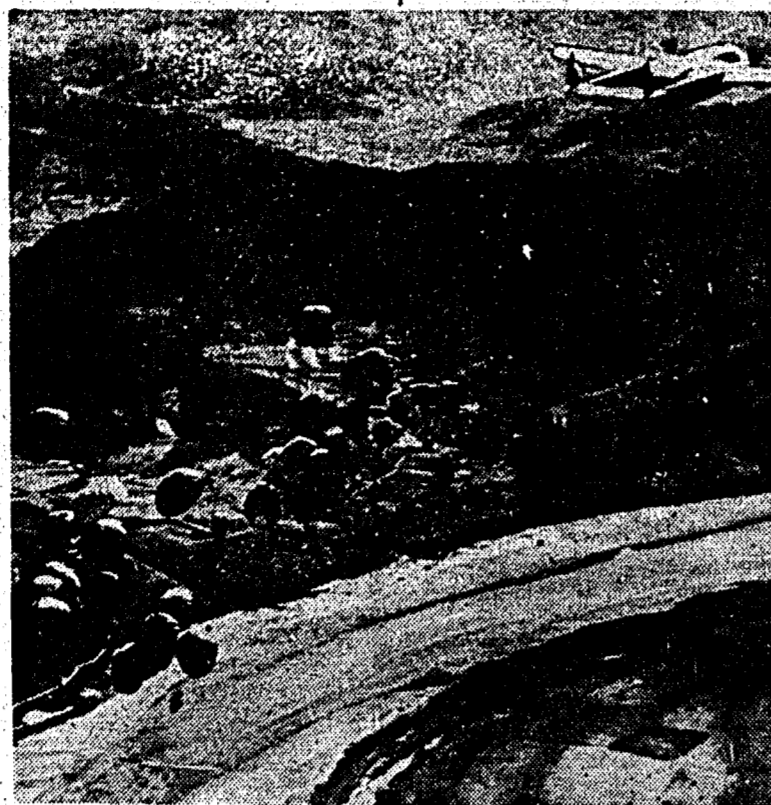

Your body is a permanent battleground. Poisons and bacteria are constantly present, ready to attack whenever the resistance is lowered. In the body, certain glands and organs, such as the lymph glands, liver, spleen, kidneys and tonsils, are constantly on the defence. Their job is to tackle the invaders, render them harmless, and eliminate them through the normal channels.

Under today's sanitary conditions, the tonsils have the easiest job, as the other defences can usually handle the enemy. However, in an emergency such as an epidemic, all the forces of the body are required to operate at peak efficiency.

Chronic tonsillitis does not necessarily mean that the tonsils are entirely at fault. It may be that, over the years, they have become diseased or permanently degenerated to the point where their removal may be advisable. On the other hand, it will usually be found that a constant overload has been thrown on the tonsils because one or more of the other defence glands and organs have not been operating efficiently.

Since the nerves control the function of all these glands and organs, the chiropractor first examines the nervous system to determine whether or not a spinal misalignment is causing pressure on the nerves in question, interfering with the controlling impulses. If so, an adjustment is given to free these nerves, resulting in restoration of normal function to the areas involved. When all the defence mechanisms are operating efficiently, the tonsillitis will disappear.

Tale of 'Misery and Grief in Greece Unfolded By Unitarian Committee Speaker to Members of Oyama W.I.

By JEAN NORMAN

OYAMA—On Thursday evening of last week, the Kalamanka (Oyama) Women's Institute was glad to receive once again Dr. Lotta Hitchmanova of the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada.

Those who were fortunate enough to be present were delighted to hear Dr. Hitchmanova despite the tale of misery and grief that she unfolded. We who live in this wonderful valley have so little idea of how much help is needed to help stop the spread of Communism. Our hearts ached for the poor people of Greece, especially those living in mountainous regions who suffered so much from the Germans, then our arrival to relieve them and their own people who turned guerrilla fighters. She told of seeing babies wrapped only in newspapers, covered with sores. These people have no chance of cleanliness because of the lack of soap. A bar of soap costs between 70¢ and 80¢. In one village only three houses remained intact out of 700 and the people are sleeping on the ground. In another village there were only middle-aged women. All the men had been killed and the children died of hunger and disease. Women of forty look like women of 70.

Pictures were shown of the work being done in France and Italy for the children who were wounded by allied bombs, artificial legs and arms provided for by the generous people of Canada. Already the Girl Guides of Flin Flon, Manitoba, have raised over $300 for limbs. The children are taught useful trades such as watchmaking and cobbling for the boys and dressmaking for the girls. Children wearing artificial limbs are just as clever with them as any normal child and are grateful for the chance to make themselves self-supporting.

One young lad in Greece, aged 17, lost his hands and forearms but he draws beautifully and we saw a picture Dr. Hitchmanova had received from him recently. He manoeuvres the pencil with his stumps and for straight lines uses his teeth. Surely our hearts must be touched by the tales of the courage of these unfortunate children and we should all strive to do our best to help the good cause.

Dr. Hitchmanova was loud in her praise of our Institute. We have adopted our ninth child, at a cost of $45 per child, for a period of special care in special homes.

We have already started a drive for "Diapers for the Doctor" under the convenship of Mrs. W. Chapman. Everyone in Oyama should send as many diapers as possible to Mrs. W. Chapman.

A tea was held on Friday, Nov. 3, at the home of Mrs. F. Segerstrom in honor of Dr. Hitchmanova. Hostesses were Mr. F. Whipple, Mrs. R. Tucker and Mrs. V. Towgood.

A recent meeting of the Anglican W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. A. S. Towgood. Approximately 15 members were present. Arrangements were made for a Christmas bazaar to be held Nov. 23.

OYAMA GROUPS JOIN TOGETHER FOR PARTY

OYAMA—A joint effort on the part of the members of the Oyama Community Club, Legion, K.W.I. and school teachers gave the Oyama children and their friends two very successful Halloween parties.

Clever and amusing costumes were seen at the school where elementary and pre-school children gathered for a gala evening. The costumes were judged by Mrs. L. Norman, Mrs. E. Hull and Miss Jean Crossley, and prizes awarded as follows:

Pre-School
Best dressed boy, soldier—Richard Braund; girl, queen of hearts, Gladys Schuster.

Best comic boy, hobo, Billy Allan; girl, clown, Judy Kenney. Spirit of Halloween, boy, pumpkin, Dave Flavel; girl, Red Riding Hood, Wendy Thomson.

Group, Dutch costumes, Sandra and Brenda Thomson.

Primary Class
Best dressed boy, Indian, Allen Polhewer; girl, shepherdess, Arlene Trevith.

Best comic boy, turtle, Walter Gibb; girl, Hawaiian dancer, Sandra Houghton.

Spirit of Halloween, boy, United Nations, Steve Dunagate; girl, witch, Phyllis Sterling.

Intermediates
Best dressed boy, Hungarian, Dave Craig; girl, drum majorette, Marilyn Monkus.

Best comic boy, scarecrow, David McClure; girl, Dutch girl, Barbara Brown.

Spirit of Halloween, boy, devil, Glenn Carr; girl, cat, Gail Braund. Prizes for the best decorated pumpkins were judged by Mr. J. Schaumleffel, Mr. N. Allingham, Mr. G. Allingham were awarded as follows: pre-school Chris Young; primary, Walter Gibb; intermediate Eleanor Zimmer.

Games for the evening were supervised by Mr. Braund for the older children and Miss Myrtle assisted by Mrs. H. Butterworth, Mrs. N. Allingham and Mrs. R. Dunagate, for the tots.

Refreshments were served in the lunchroom by Mrs. W. Chapman, Mrs. D. Braund, Mrs. J. Gooch, Mrs. T. Towgood, Mrs. J. Sterling and Mrs. J. Young, when Mr. Charles Gallagher, president of the Community Club presented the awards.

The high school party held in the Community Hall featured modern and paid for will become the property of the department.

and oldtime dancing. Mr. H. Smith was largely responsible for the arrangements. Mr. M. Brummett called the square dances. Mrs. G. McClure and Mr. H. Butterworth were pianists. Mrs. Shaw-MacLaren supervised in the kitchen. Mr. C. Gallagher was on the door.

GOOD SEED YIELD E. Sheppard, Waupoos, sets a mark PICTON, Ont. (CP)—A big yield to shoot at. A total of 1,699 pounds of alfalfa seed on the farm of John of seed was threshed from 20 acres.

The taste's the test for tea! Canadians buy more Salada than any other brand.

"SALADA" TEA

Oyama representatives to the United Church Sunday School conference held Thursday, Nov. 2, were Mrs. S. Thorlakson and daughter Kenna. Mrs. Thorlakson led the conference in the devotion.

A recent guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Laidman was Miss Francine Poole of Bussum, Holland.

The egret, once nearly exterminated by the feather hunters, is becoming common again in marshes all over the East in late summers and early fall.

POST OFFICE SEEKING NEW STAMP DESIGN

Postmaster General G. Edouard Rimfret announced this week that the post office department plans to invite Canadian artists to submit designs for Canadian postage stamps.

The Postmaster General desires that the character of Canada and Canadian art be displayed and publicized more adequately through the medium of Canadian postage stamps. It is hoped that the enlistment of the interest of Canadian artists in postage stamp designs will result in more variety and modern treatment.

The Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, P.C., C.H., has consented to act as chairman of a selection committee, the other members of which will be Professor Charles Comfort, R.C.A., Professor Arthur Cluade, and a member of the post office department. The facilities of the National Gallery of Canada and the wide experience of its officers will be made available to assist the department and the selection committee.

The officers of the National Gallery of Canada will assist in the circularization of artists, notifying them of the regulations that are to apply. Initially, the department desires to receive designs representing any one or one significant aspect

The Week at Ottawa

Specially Written for The Courier
 By H. DENT HODGSON

OTTAWA—One of the most popular governor-generals Canada has ever had—Viscount Alexander of Tunis—is going to stay another year.

Normally, "Alex" as he is popularly known, would have ended his term next April 10. Now Prime Minister St. Laurent has announced that he will stay until April, 1952. It makes him the fourth of Canada's 17 governor-generals to serve more than the allotted five years.

Affable and ative at 58, the governor-general is still rumored for another military job, possibly with the United Nations forces now coming gradually into being. Meanwhile, he'll stay in a country he has come to know as few native Canadians can know it.

The Field Marshal who won some of his greatest battles on the snows of Canada, he is a familiar figure in the capital at hockey and football games. In his travels from coast to coast and up into the Northwest Territories, he has found his favorite national spots for fishing, golf and hunting.

Many clubs—large and small—in many parts of the Dominion, know him as a witty, entertaining and democratic speaker. Editors of papers of every province welcomed his stay for another year.

Tighten Instalment Buying
 Those "easy payment" schemes for instalment buying aren't so easy any more. The government brought down regulations to make it harder to get things on credit by paying "a little bit down."

The move is designated as an anti-inflationary measure to discourage needless buying. The regulations came into effect Nov. 1. They set minimums for down payments and clamp an 18-month maximum on time payments. Everything is affected except building materials, fuel, buses, trucks and educational and religious books.

Pacific Pact Urged
 The idea of a Pacific Pact similar to the North Atlantic Pact was broached by an eminent visitor to Ottawa from "down under," External Affairs Minister Spender of Australia. With the spotlight on the Far East in recent weeks, there were indications that Prime Minister St. Laurent and other cabinet ministers with whom Mr. Spender talked might lend a sympathetic ear.

Mr. Spender, on a brief visit from New York, where he is head of the Australian delegation to the United Nations, suggested a five-nation pact. He urged that Canada, the United States and the United Kingdom should join Australia and New Zealand in forming a Pacific bloc.

He suggested that Australia would welcome Indonesia and the Philippines if they wished to join such a defensive alliance. The friendship and co-operation of Asia were of "great potential importance" to the western world and the effects could be far-reaching if the U.S. and the Commonwealth would divert some of their wealth and power into Asia's economic channels.

Recently, however, Canada has shown that she feels the more immediate defensive needs lie in Europe. This week, she added another military attaché to her gradually-expanding military listening-post abroad. Latest move was appointment of a military attaché to Germany.

During the last few months the activities and movements of Canadian military men abroad have quite often been in the news. Canada now maintains army and air attachés in 11 foreign countries exclusive of the United States and the United Kingdom, where she has more elaborate military missions to tie up two major allies.

Recently this country set up liaison services with Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in Japan. In addition, she maintains air attachés in Argentina, France, Sweden, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Belgium and Russia. She has—or soon will have—army attachés in France, Germany, Italy, Holland, Sweden, Yugoslavia, Turkey and Russia. She has been frustrated in efforts to get a new military attaché into Poland.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

EXPRESSES FEELINGS IN POETRY

Editor, The Courier:

Dear Sir—
 Our sympathies rest with the Matheson boy, His parents, whose feelings are sorrow and joy; If all of his actions were done for God will not, He cannot deny His reward.

We truly admire all the Baptists who preach
 Out there on the corners, the lost that were done
 And we are so sorry for those who are jailed,
 Although in respect of the bylaws they failed.

In Catholic Quebec they expected of course
 to find all their efforts resisted by force,
 But still they proceeded the gospel to give

That perishing sinners might take it and live.
 They counted the cost and they stuck to their ground
 Like soldiers of Christ on His services bound,
 And God will remember all deeds that were done
 In simple desire just to honor His Son.

In Protestant parts, like Kelowna for instance,
 We think to proceed there without interference.
 But two years ago now with gospel refrain
 Just there on the corner of Abbott and Main

When Christians from Westbank once preached to a crowd—
 "The Salvation Army alone was allowed,"
 "Objection" you ask? Why the same as Quebec—
 "The traffic all panned into bottle and neck!"

(What nonsense I say, for the crowd wouldn't stop,
 With eyes looking forward they kept on the hop)
 But those who deny they are sinners and lost
 Are always opposed to the gospel of course.

Were Knights of Columbus proposing to ride
 And bottle the traffic, would they be denied?
 Those men in authority—what is their hope?
 To bow to the gospel, or follow the pope?

Not only Val d'Or has its sinners to save,
 Kelowna has lots on the brink of the grave
 Who never will enter the doors of a church;
 Are they to be left all alone in the land,
 When councils and officers take it in hand
 To silence the gospel all over the land,
 To Baptists and others the challenge is plain—
 "Just try out your preaching on Abbott and Main."

A. E. HEWLETT,
 Westbank, B.C.

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S RESOURCES AT WORK

POWER Huge water power resources mean available primary power amounting to more than 11,000,000 h.p.—primary power for mining, forestry, agriculture and manufacturing.

FORESTRY In 1949, the production in the forests of British Columbia totalled $360,000,000 and 1950 is expected to bring a yield which will set a new high for dollar and production value. Modern conservation and reforestation methods are working hand in hand in this great production. Stands of timber include Douglas Fir, Western Hemlock, Western Red Cedar, Sitka Spruce, Western White Pine and Western Larch. Products of these forests include, lumber, plywood, pulp and paper, shingles and many other products.

AGRICULTURE This industry provides a livelihood directly and indirectly for more than 400,000 British Columbians. The value of commodities produced in 1949 is estimated at the record amount of $145,000,000. Agriculture ranks second in dollar value among the primary industries of B.C.

MINING This important industry is still the backbone of much of the development throughout the Province. Production value in 1949 was $140,000,000. As mining depends on a resource which once gone can never be replaced, your Government, University and Mining Companies are constantly searching for new mineral deposits.

FISHING British Columbia fisheries are famed throughout the world and are an important part of her revenue. Of the 31 species of marine life contributing to production of approximately $58,000,000, salmon, rich in protein and delicious flavor, is the best known and most valuable. This industry provides work for thousands of fishermen, cannery workers, shipbuilders and a host of associated industries.

These are your resources at work for you, for your Province and for the whole Dominion of Canada.

Empress Theatre Setting For Philharmonic Concert

Tomorrow evening at 8 p.m. the footlights at the Empress Theatre will dim to golds, red russets, silks and greens as Andre Kostelanetz leads his Ballet Theatre Orchestra in the glorious strains of the introduction in Tchaikovsky's Swan Lake Ballet as the six-teen consoles of the Philharmonic pour the sounds of cellos, trombones, trumpets, harp arpeggios and violins mounting in stream upon stream among the beautiful pieces furnished for the first concert by George Sutherland's Kelowna Furniture Co. Ltd., chosen and set by Mrs. Beth Wilson.

Walls softly reflect the sound and the color mirror the reproductions of ballerinas, old and new, in their positions, tour de force, pas de deux, enchantelle a pied, as the same lights gently mold the water color portraits by M. Rogers of Arthur Rubenstein, Johann Brahms, and Julius Katchen, who appear in the first concert of the Philharmonic Series.

The new grand piano reproducer, the first of its kind, will occupy a central position on the salon stage. Through this instrument, Julius Katchen will play the Brahms' Sonata No. 3 for pianoforte, "The Magnificent"; and Arthur Rubenstein, accompanied on a new Long Play recording by the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, will give his transcendental interpretation of the Tchaikovsky Concerto No. 1 for piano and symphony orchestra.

Advanced ticket sales are continuing at the Ritz Music Shop and Modern Appliances.

MISS ANNA ENGLEMAN, who captured top honors in the B.C. Registered Nurses' examinations, Miss Engleman, a graduate of Royal Inland Hospital, Kamloops, took first place in a list of 182 nurses. Daughter of Mrs. K. Engleman, she has lived in Kelowna all her life and attended school here, receiving among other awards, the C.K.O.V. scholarship during her junior matriculation year, 1948.

Miss Engleman feels that the early influence of Miss Wealthy Grigg, operating room supervisor at Kelowna General Hospital, with whom she lived for some time, had a good deal to do with her desire to enter the nursing profession.

Winner of the proficiency award at graduation exercises at Kamloops last May, Miss Engleman plans now to enter Shaughnessy Hospital in Vancouver. She will leave at the end of this week.

Other Kelowna girls who were successful in the recent examinations were Vera Whittington, who also trained at Kamloops; and Norma Hill, Ruth Pollard and Joyce Harrison, all who trained at Vancouver.

Exchange Teacher Children In Canada Can Express Themselves Better Says Miss Phyllis Hatcher

School children in Canada are more open and ready to express themselves than the English students, says Miss Phyllis Hatcher, on exchange from England for a year. Instructing in a grade five class at Kelowna Elementary School, Miss Hatcher feels Canadian children are much easier to get along with, and was surprised at their friendliness.

But apart from that there seems to be very little difference in the classes. In fact, she was amazed that two class-rooms nearly six thousand miles apart could be so similar.

Miss Hatcher, who is staying at the home of Mayor and Mrs. W. B. Hughes-Games, Abbott Street, is a teacher at Halesworth, Suffolk, on the east coast of England. She is exchanging with Miss Eve Goodship, who with Miss Lynn Crossley is teaching at the same school for the year. Miss Hatcher stated Kelowna teachers are the first exchange teachers ever to be in that part of the country.

Comparing teaching methods, Miss Hatcher remarked that the subject matter is much the same. However, in England, text books behind a course are not set out for them by a state department. It is entirely up to the teacher and the headmaster and his staff to decide how and what to teach. But it is readily realized that people do not move about in England as much as they do here, especially in the west, and therefore they do not require a set standard of conformity. Also, the writing style, set here by the department of education, is not ruled over by any authority other than the local headmaster.

MEN'S CHORAL GROUP NEEDS MORE MEMBERS

The Kelowna men's choral and glee club held its organization meeting under the auspices of the night school classes on Tuesday evening in the new high school, with Dr. Ivan Beadle as instructor.

Each man present was asked to make it known to friends that the class is open to all men and that more members are needed to make the group a success. The class is from 7:30 to 9:30 each Tuesday night and will continue until the end of March, at which time it is expected a public concert will be given.

LOGE HEADS ARE INSTALLED

At the annual installation of officers of the B.P.O.E. Lodge No. 52, last Monday night, at the Elkley Hall, Mr. H. Thomas, district deputy grand exalted ruler, of Oliver, officially installed A. Fernley as exalted ruler of the Kelowna chapter.

Other officers installed were: past exalted ruler, A. Ollerich, leading knight, Ralph Ellison; loyal knight, Jack Martin; lecturing knight, Alec Taylor; esquire, J. Bennett; chaplain, Ken Parks; secretary-treasurer, Cecil Dodds; organist, A. Carlson; historian, George Morris; inner guard, Jack Krimmer; Tyler, R. Hamilton; trustees, A. Bennett, R. Patrinquin and Jack Minette.

Following the installation service, a social was enjoyed by the members and their wives, and a number of visitors from the Oliver and Penticton branches. Feature of the evening was the "Interior Attractions Limited" starring Shirley Elmer, Harold Pettman, Babe Newman and Red Hughes.

"Build B.C. Payrolls"

One interesting point brought up by Miss Hatcher was the fact that there is no stumbling block to a thorough education, if the ability and brains are already there. Through a system, newly-inaugurated, of scholarships and bursaries, a student is afforded the opportunity of continuing his studies right through to Oxford or Cambridge, with pocket money even being provided in event of necessity. However, the system is not an easy one, and any student who gets that far must have really earned his way.

Likes Canada

Asked if she would like to return to Canada some day, Miss Hatcher replied very much to the affirmative. "I had wanted to come in 1939, but then decided to wait a while, and then the war came along and made it impossible."

Why did she choose Kelowna?

Well, to make a long story short, because she has relatives in British Columbia. In New Janet, Westminister, whom she has not yet visited, but with whom she will spend Christmas, she chose B.C. And then when the authorities in London were running their fingers down the list, she decided that Kelowna was too big. Then the agent, Mrs. M. L. name Kelowna came up and it confirmation when the rate order was received. Steps are now being taken to finalize the purchase of this equipment.

Six-Year Program

The telephone company's program for modernization and dial conversion is to be completed in two phases. The first phase, a three-year, three-million dollar program, will see the three largest Valley centres of Kelowna, Penticton and Vernon, converted to automatic telephone service. Completion of this phase will see 88 per cent of the company's subscribers with dial service.

From 1954 to 1956 similar programs are planned for Revelstoke, Salmon Arm and Enderby, as the second phase.

The telephone company is now well into the initial stages of the first phase of its plan, with the completion of its $70,000 building addition in Vernon; the start of construction of a $50,000 dial exchange in Kelowna; the placing of orders for close to $1,000,000 worth of dial equipment for Kelowna, Penticton and Vernon, and for proposed community dial offices at Oyanam and Windfield. These latter two exchanges will "go dial" in the summer of 1951.

2 ARMISTICE DAY

More About

who knows what suffering or what parental sacrifice and how much hope, how many dreams, how many bright, shiny futures lie beneath these crosses. How many great inventions that will never be discovered. How many great books that will never be written. How many potential doctors that will never cure an illness.

Row after row of white crosses. Row after row of tragedies. Of heartbreak, of sorrow for how many loved ones?

But what makes this particular scene so important is that a scant distance away is a German War cemetery. Here again the white crosses stand guard over men who are just as dead, whose blood flowed just as red, whose hopes were just as bright, even though they were Germans. Who knows if American soldier "John Murphy, K 147,221, Died May 17, 1943, Row 4, Plot 65" had met "German Soldier, unknown, Died May 18, 1943, Row 30, Plot 13" they would have been friends. They would have exchanged photographs of loved ones, drank beer together, joked and laughed. They would have been friends. Here instead they lie almost side by side fertilizing the land of Italy with those hands that were never clasped in friendship.

There have been great words written about wars, about soldiers, about death:

They shall not grow old,
As we that are left grow old,
Their days shall not weary them,
Nor the years condemn.
At the going down of the sun
And in the morning
We shall remember them.
Robert Brooke glorified the spirit of patriotism in his:

If I should die,
Think only this of me
That there's some corner
Of a foreign field,
That is forever England,
And there shall be
In that rich earth
A richer dust concealed.
To those some day someone will
Add a description of the empires,
The sorrow, the heartbreak of those rows of crosses.

There they lie, our countries earth.
A thousand fathers' pride,
And there shall fall upon that earth
A thousand mothers' tears.
The sorrow of a thousand wives and lovers,
The anguish of a thousand sons,
Those
And there but hopes in those now
empty eyes,
Shall cast a dark eternal shadow
On this now sacred land.

Horace C. Cramp, Active in Local Musical Circles, Dies in Hospital

Horace Charles Cramp, 73, a resident of the district for the past 42 years and active in musical circles

Horace C. Cramp here for many years, died in the Kelowna hospital early Wednesday morning. He had been in failing health for several months.

Ven. D. S. Catchpole will conduct the funeral service tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from St. Michael and All Angels' Church. Interment will be in Kelowna cemetery in the family plot beside his wife who predeceased him here in July, 1942.

Native of Sussex, Eng., the late Mr. Cramp left the Old Country to come direct to Kelowna in 1908. He was a veteran of World War I, serving in the regimental band of the 172nd Battalion. He was leader of the Kelowna band for several years during the early 20's. A member of the Sons of England Lodge, the late Mr. Cramp labored at various occupations, employed for many years at Rowcliffe Canning Co. Ltd. Late residence was 1378 St. Paul Street. He leaves to mourn his passing one daughter, Mrs. Peter Maguire, Kelowna; three grandchildren and one great-granddaughter. Two sisters in England also survive. Remains are resting at Kelowna Funeral Directors, entrusted with the arrangements.

6 REMEM. SERVICE

will also take part in the parade that forms at the Canadian Legion Hall at 10:30 a.m. The parade then moves to the park where Legion Chaplain, Ven. D. S. Catchpole will officiate at the memorial service.

The two-minute silence at 11 a.m. observed all over the world—will be mute tribute to the fallen comrades. Last Post will be sounded then by Legion Bugler R. E. Oatman. O. L. Jones, M.P. for Yale, will deliver the memorial address.

Lay On Wreaths

Wreaths purchased on Poppy Day last Saturday will then be placed on the Cenotaph. The parade re-forms, continues on to Kelowna and District Memorial Arena where Legion President J. L. Gordon will place a wreath on the memorial plaque.

The Lament then will be played by the Legion Pipe Band. Paraders then return to the Legion Hall to disband.

All veterans are urged to turn out Saturday, with their Legion caps and their medals.

Boy Scouts and Cubs will meet at the Scout Hall at 9:45 in full uniform. If the weather is cold they will not be required to wear shorts.

In the afternoon all children in the city and district may enjoy free skating at the arena, through courtesy of the local branch of the Canadian Legion.

Saturday morning some churches will hold special memorial services in ample time so as not to interfere with program at the Cenotaph.

Legion spokesmen have requested as possible to attend their churches and the Cenotaph ceremony, and pray that a just and lasting peace will prevail.

NEVER TOO OLD

WINNIPEG (CP)—Joseph Soar, 78, who worked all his life as a watchmaker and now is blind, is learning to type. He doesn't expect to do much with the ability, he says, but he's having fun.

WHEN BABY COUGHS

When sickness strikes the youngest member of your family—the infant, your first thought may be to buy a simple remedy which has been recommended to you. So you visit your pharmacist and ask him, perhaps, for a cough preparation for the little one.

There is no legal restriction to prevent the pharmacist from selling you a cough syrup. But there is a strong, unwritten ethical obligation in Pharmacy which leads him to suggest diagnosis by a physician before any medicine is given to a coughing baby. This is exactly the same advice he gives his wife when their own child is sick—"Call the doctor."

Once the physician has diagnosed a baby's illness and prescribed the appropriate medication, the pharmacist's responsibility begins. He renders his professional service to the little patient by preparing the prescribed medicine with skill and care acquired through years of scientific training.—Reprinted from a copyrighted advertisement published by Parke, Davis & Company.

BCFGA PARLEY WILL BE HELD NOVEMBER 22, 23

The B.C. Federation of Agriculture announced today that when the delegates for their 20,000 farmer members in B.C. gather in Hotel Vancouver for their annual convention on November 22 and 23, more time will be devoted this year to discussion of resolutions. It is therefore highly important that all agricultural organizations forward resolutions covering their problems as early as possible.

Lemon Hart has made a most popular brand in Great Britain & British Columbia. This advertisement is not published or displayed by the Liquor Control Board or by the Government of British Columbia.

Behind a "prefab" house in Bedfordshire, Britain's only backyard-built one-man submarine is now nearing completion. The boat has been built by Frank Russell, shown, over the last two years at a cost of $380. It is made of quarter-inch steel plate and will weigh about half a ton when fully loaded. If this vessel is a success it may become the prototype for a much heavier craft capable of descending 1,000 feet and suitable for an expedition in search of the "lost continent" of Atlantis in the Atlantic ocean which Mr. Russell hopes one day to join. —Central Press Canadian

Many Canadians Suffer Financial Loss Through Mislaid Insurance Book, Says Unemployment Officials

With many disrupting factors today affecting all branches of agriculture there is every indication that this convention will be most interesting and informative. Both meetings are open to the public.

The number of Canadians covered by the Unemployment Insurance Act approaches 3,000,000. Each of these persons has a direct interest in the insurance book which records contributions made.

In spite of this, insurance books are mislaid for various reasons, thus adding to the difficulties of the individuals concerned, particularly if they find it necessary to claim benefit.

In view of the importance of the matter to a large number of Canadians, the commission feels that the value of the insurance book should be impressed on the public. The following story was released by the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Although Canada's Unemployment Insurance Act has been in force since July 1, 1941, there are still many instances where insured persons suffer inconvenience, and sometimes loss, due to their insurance books not being available when they are needed. Most people realize the value of their insurance book but others seem unaware of its importance.

The Unemployment Insurance Commission renews insurance books each year for every insured worker in Canada, through its chain of national employment offices. The books are renewed without cost to insured persons, and each insured worker should make it a point to know at all times exactly where his current insurance book is located. While he is working it should be in the hands of his employer. At other times it should be lodged at the local national employment office for safekeeping if the insured person does not intend to re-engage in insurable employment right away. The insurance book is vital, of course, if a claim for benefit is contemplated.

Potential Benefit Each insured worker should consider the actual value of his insurance book by realizing that it can contain over $25 worth of individual contributions. It is similar to a bank book as it shows the contributions which each insured person has made. Also, that same book can contain potential benefit rights of over $100 and no one should be careless about a matter of this importance.

WALK TO HEALTH

To combine physical and mental exercise, try walking, taking up one of the branches of nature study to add interest. There's a world of fascinating things to be learned about birds, flowers, rocks, animals and insects, and to study these things you have to get out into the country. Walking will benefit every muscle in your body, and it is more economical than most of the other outdoor sports—no expensive equipment necessary and a streetcar or bus ticket will usually take you out to the city limits to where the gravel roads or woodland trails begin. One of these subjects at least, that of the wild birds, can be enjoyed in both summer and winter weather.

MOTHER KNOWS BEST!

Don't expect too many miracles in this Push-button Age!

Every year science is creating more "miracles" to make living easier in countless ways. And what we see today is only the beginning of an amazing new era of comfort and convenience.

But it seems to me that some people are expecting too many miracles. For instance, they believe that, by some kind of magic, old-age benefits will provide all the money they're ever going to need when they retire.

"I believe in security for everyone, but I want mine planned to suit my own individual needs. That's why I have my own life insurance."

It'll take all the insurance I've got now, and maybe more, to help provide the kind of retirement income I want and when I want it!

"My life insurance is flexible, too. I had my choice of dozens of different kinds of policies. And my life underwriter helped me arrange a balanced programme that gives my family protection now, while it builds a better income for my old age."

"Come what may, I'm still relying on my own life insurance. Like millions of other Canadians, I've found it the sure road to security!"

Major-General William A. Scott, CB, CBE, Director of Signals of the British War Office, will begin a tour of Canadian Army signals installations Monday, November 6, with a conference with Col. W. Lockhart, Director Royal Canadian Signals at Army Headquarters, Ottawa.

Later in the day the two communications chiefs will motor to Kingston where, on Tuesday, General Scott will inspect the Royal Canadian School of Signals. The party will return to Ottawa late Tuesday afternoon.

On Wednesday, General Scott will speak at a meeting of the Joint Telecommunications Committee, and British Joint Communications Board in the Chateau Laurier. In the evening he will be tendered a reception by Sir Alexander Cluttbuck, United Kingdom High Commissioner.

Thursday morning, with Col. Lockhart and Col. B. Lake, OBE, ED, Director of Electricity and Communications Development for the Canadian Army, General Scott will visit the Canadian Signals Research and Development Establishment just outside the city. He will conclude his tour Thursday afternoon with a visit to the tape relay centre at Army Headquarters and a further round of discussions with Col. Lockhart. General Scott will leave Ottawa for the United Kingdom Friday, November 10.

Soldiers of Canada's Special United Nations Brigade haven't lost touch of graphic description.

At Fort Lewis, Washington, where the advance party of the Korean force recently staged, the size of the 100,000 acre camp and the vast array of barrack blocks defies description by masters of words. Figures, facts and descriptions prove interesting and informative but not colorfully adequate.

But overheard in a bar room conversation, a purposefully unaffiliated soldier (unnamed in order to maintain friendly relations with the Sergeant-Major) caught the spirit of Fort Lewis in his description of the tremendous gravel parade square.

To his small audience he handed out these words: "D'ja ever see such a square? If old 'Rusty Lungs' (the Sergeant-Major) stood at one end and hollered his commands to a squad at the other end, he could go into the snook bar, have coffee and doughnuts, and come out in time to give us hell for not doing the movement properly."

IN THE NAVY

Hanging on a bulkhead in the navigating officer's cabin on board HMCS Athabaskan, one of the three Canadian destroyers serving in the Korean theatre, is a framed official card of commemoration. Bearing the signature of the Minister of National Defence for Naval Services, the card was addressed to the parents of Richard Hugh Leir, Midshipman, RCN, of Penticton, B.C., who, it said, had given his life in the service of his country.

Yet the occupant of this same cabin is Richard Hugh Leir, now Lieutenant, RCN, navigator of the Athabaskan, and very much alive. Leir was "lost" in 1942, while serving in the British cruiser Exeter. The Exeter was part of a small force of British, Netherlands and American units which was virtually wiped out by a vastly superior Japanese fleet in the Battle of the Java Sea.

One group of about 300 survivors was picked up by the Japanese and their names were eventually reported. Another smaller group was picked up later, but the Japanese made no effort to add their names to the original list. Leir was one of these.

After weeks had passed and no report was forthcoming, Leir was listed as missing and presumed dead. Six months later he was discharged dead and his parents received the card of commemoration and the Memorial Cross.

It is no trick, then to imagine their surprise and happiness when they received word, three years later, that their son was alive. During those three years he had been forced to work in a mine in Indonesia, as a laborer in a South American oilfield, on a plantation in Java, in another oilfield, this time in Sumatra, and, finally, in a motor car assembly plant in Batavia.

He became quite a handyman—and he also accumulated quite a sizable chunk of back pay, gratuities and allowance. All the same, Leir would just as soon not go through the experience again, thank you.

IN THE AIR FORCE

The RCAF Flyers, who won the Olympic hockey championships in 1948, are still playing hockey, but you would hardly recognize the team. Only four of the original 18 Olympic champs are still battling pucks for the Flyers, although Wing Commander Sandy Watson remains as manager and Cpl. George McFaul is team trainer as before.

The remainder are spread all over Canada. Coach Sgt. Frankie Boucher is in London and coaching the Wembley Lions on the side; Sgt. Ross King was last heard of up in North West Air Command; Flying Officer Frank Dunstan is a casual navigator at Summerside, PEI; P/Sgt. Louis Lecompte is a hockey referee in the Ottawa district; Wally Halder and George Mara are in business in Toronto; Sgt. Palay Gutzler is in the Air Force headquarters orderly room and coaching intermediate hockey; AC Pete Lechnitz is playing for the Army team in the Eastern Canada league; AC Murray Downey pitches top-notch softball for "The Tops" in Toronto; Flying Officer Reg. Schroeder is a civil servant in Ottawa; Cpl. Irving Taylor is at Air Material Command headquarters; AC Andre Lapierre is a graduate from the University of Montreal; Sgt. Andy Gilpin plays with the Rockliffe air station team, and Flight Lieutenant John Pease

Vancouver Group Reveals Plans For New Penticton Hotel Costing $300,000

Penticton—Plans for a projected new hotel in Penticton, it is expected, will be presented for the city council's attention at its meeting this week, or at any rate in the very near future.

W. A. Lougheed, spokesman for a group of Vancouver associates who are interested in this development was in Penticton for a brief visit between planes last week and acknowledged that a $300,000 building investment is contemplated in the original stage.

The group has had its plans completed by C. B. K. Van Norman, well-known Vancouver architect. Mr. Lougheed explained that he wished to present the plan to the mayor and the members of his council first, before discussing them in detail in a public way.

From his remarks, however, it is gathered that this building group does not intend to apply for a beer parlor license.

It is understood that the Liquor Control Board has set a 75-room minimum in new hotel construction here, before assenting to a new license.

Smart Hotel

"We are satisfied that if we pro-flag that flew over the sprawling fortifications was a reproduction of the Union Jack as it was when the fort was built.

He was in for a shock, though, for as he strolled past the old officers' mess he came upon a log building apparently occupied by the caretaker. (The log building itself might have fitted into the last century easily enough, but not the television aerial which rose prominently from its roof.

vide Penticton with a smart hotel, with many improvements and amenities, that we will secure sufficient patronage to justify our investment up to a 50-room point," Mr. Lougheed stated. "But we are planning our structure in such a way that it could be enlarged to provide a hundred rooms at a later date. If future business warrants it, we shall certainly do that."

He added that "we are really proud of our plans and can assure Penticton that we are contemplating no cheap project."

For that reason, the property on which to build the hotel is of "extreme importance," he emphasized. To meet the plans, it should be of such a size and shape as to enable the builders to have attractive setback rooms above the rather extensive ground floor, and adequate parking facilities.

Plan For Expansion

Present plans call for a ground floor containing, in addition to the lobby, a coffee shop, dining room, two banquet halls, and an outdoor terraced restaurant as a summer tourist feature. The structure would be of three floors to begin with, expanded to five, with elevator service, when the full hundred-room program was fulfilled.

When asked as to where the group considered locating such a hotel project, which would measure about 120 by 240 feet, Mr. Lougheed explained that the city-owned property at the corner of Martin Street and Nanaimo Avenue extending to the location of the firehall "is naturally of very real interest to us."

It has the size, shape and location, he admitted. "But cost will be

Kelowna Tennis Players Dominated Interior Meets During Past Season

The Rosemead Avenue clay courts clan have hung up their rackets for the season but not without a feeling of satisfaction.

As they look back on the second year on the new site they see giant strides have been made towards putting the Orchard City back on the country's tennis map.

The second successive B.C. Interior tournament was another resounding success, attracting some of the finest talent in the province. Local players made great showings in valley competitions and the juniors, particularly, took few backseats to others in any group in this part of the province.

Here is a recap of the past season:

1. KELOWNA JUNIOR TOURNAMENT—Winners were: girls' singles, Valerie Winter; girls' doubles, Irene Oatman, Valerie Winter; boys' singles, Darryl Delcourt; boys' doubles, Darryl Delcourt, Bruce Catchpole; mixed doubles, Moira Brown, Ted Van der Vliet.

2. KELOWNA LAWN TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS—The winners: ladies' singles, Frances Campbell; ladies' doubles, Mary Stubbs, Moira Brown; men's singles, Ernie Winter; men's doubles, Bob Robinson, Dave Chapman; mixed doubles, Valerie Winter, Ernie Winter.

3. B.C. INTERIOR CHAMPIONSHIPS—Local players failed to reach the coveted prizes, but fared well nevertheless. Faithful stand-bys on the executive—H. G. M. Gardner, R. H. Stubbs, Willie Metcalfe, Ernie Winter and others—were credited with doing a fine job in staging the tournament.

4. OKANAGAN VALLEY CHAMPIONSHIPS (Kamloops to Oliver)—Valley champions are: girls' singles, Norma Horner, Oliver; girls' doubles, Moira Brown, Norma Horner; boys' singles, Darryl Delcourt; boys' doubles, Bill Barlee, Darryl Delcourt; mixed doubles, Valerie Winter, Darryl Delcourt; Irene Oatman won the girls under 15 singles title.

5. PROVINCIAL CHAMPIONSHIPS—The following, representing the interior, made good showings at Vancouver, though they were out of the "money": Irene Oatman, Valerie Winter, Darryl Delcourt, Bill Barlee and John Logie.

6. HANKEY CUP PLAY—The annual tournament at Vernon, symbolic of the men's doubles championship of the valley, saw Ernie Winter and Floyd Torgart win the cup. Kass Hyashi, Ches Larson, Dick Steele and Dave Chapman also gave a good account of themselves in the two-day meet.

7. OKANAGAN CENTRE MIXED DOUBLES TOURNAMENT—Mr. and Mrs. Garlick of Kamloops captured the honors but not without a stiff battle from Ernie and Valerie Winter, Doris Termuende and Dick Steele, Moira Brown and Ches Larson.

8. OKANAGAN SENIOR TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP—Ernie Winter reached the men's singles semifinals and also the semi-finals of the mixed doubles with his daughter Valerie.

9. KOOTENAY JUNIOR TOURNAMENT AT TRAIL—Bill Barlee ruled the young men's ranks, defeating Darryl Delcourt in the final.

(Information for the above was supplied by C. J. Larson of the Kelowna Lawn Tennis Club.)

DYNAMITERS WIN ONE AT EXPENSE OF PAUL'S ELKS

(Special to The Kelowna Courier)

KAMLOOPS—Ability to capitalize on opponents' penalties paid off for Kimberley Dynamiters here Saturday night as they edged the Kamloops Elks 2-2 in an MOAHL-WIHL interchange game.

Kimberley's first win in the Okanagan tour of the Mainline-Okanagan circuit also marked the first time this season the Elks have been scored on while short-handed.

Sammy Calles, Doug McDonald and Doc Livingstone scored for Kimberley. Defencemen Moose McNaughton and Don Johnston tallied for Kamloops. A packed house of 2,770 fans saw the game.

Lines Reshuffled

Although two Kamloops rearguards scored the Elks' two goals, it was penalties to defencemen that lost the game. Elks were leading 2-0 midway through the second period when Terry went off for cross-checking. While he was off Calles took a pass from Sandy Sanderson for Kimberley's first goal.

Terry was penalized again in the third, and this time McDonald deflected in Bin Barker's pass to tie the count.

A few minutes later while McNaughton was in the sin-bin, Doc Livingstone potted the winner from a scramble.

Following the effects of a full week's layoff and a complete reshuffling of the forward lines, were good only in spots.

KIMBERLEY—Quigley, Sullivan, Barker, Calles, Sanderson, Matthews. Alternates: Merkowsky, Cruikshanks, McDonald, Livingstone, Barre, Bell, Beattie, Pontarello.

Kamloops—Lussier, Johnston, Kuly, Babin, Carson, Stein, Alexander, Terry, McNaughton, Ursaki, Swaine, Andrews, Bathgate, Stewart, Campbell.

First period—1, Kamloops, McNaughton (Andrews, Ursaki) 13:04. Penalties: North 1, Valley 0.

BOWLADROME MIXED LEAGUE Friday

Three sweeps in four actual contests and another four-pointer due to a bye featured the play Friday night. Only losers to scramble in with a point were the Arena lads and lasses who lost 3-1 to Inland Refrigeration.

Honors were split among three teams. Ribelin Kapps captured both team ribbons with 1,036 and 2,762. Lipsett's W. Beaver-Jones copped the men's single high with 303, while Don Peters of the Kapps cornered the triple with his 751.

Styllemart produced both ladies' laurels, M. Turk getting the best single of 279 and S. Miller rolling a 609 for the high triple.

BOWLADROME MEN'S LEAGUE Monday

Only a week after the first 900-plus score was turned in at the Bowladrome in league play to date, the second one came Monday night. It was Bill Pearson this time. He put together 287, 278 and 355 for a 920. But it was seven points shy of Stan Matsuba's 927 of the previous week.

Pearson's 355 was also tops for the night.

K.G.E.'s 1,283 with 100 handicap was the best team since Monday while Industrial Electric No. 1 rolled a neat 3,306 for the team three honors.

COPPS (3)—Merriam 692, Ritch 430, Stephens 550, Would 618, Pearson 920, 1,062, 1,047, 1,101—3,210.

PRECIOUS EYESIGHT

When a man loses a limb or his teeth, or his hearing becomes impaired, there are artificial substitutes or aids he can purchase to help him sustain the loss, but there is no substitute for lost eyesight. Only by care and good treatment can you expect a lifetime of service from your eyes. DON'T read or do close work under poor lighting conditions; protect your eyes from glare, flying particles and strain. Periodic examination of your eyes, especially after 40 years of age, is essential to prevent the unsuspected onset of eye diseases and for the provision of necessary glasses. Always consult a medical eye doctor.

ASTHMA RELIEF

No need to wheeze, gasp, cough, choke—Templeton's RAZ-MAH loosens the straggling phlegm—gives you quick comforting relief. Lets you sleep restfully on your back. Recommended by users for Hay Fever and Bronchitis.

Pa's proud of my MAGIC cakes!

Magic Ice-Box Cake

Combine 1/2 c. melted shortening and 1 c. light corn syrup. Beat in 2 eggs. Sift together 2 c. sifted all-purpose flour, 4 tps. Magic Baking Powder, 1/2 tsp. salt; add alternately with 1/2 c. milk and 1 tsp. vanilla extract to first mixture stirring well after each addition. Bake in 2 greased 9" layer pans in 350° oven 25-30 min. Cool, halve each layer lengthwise making 4 layers.

LEMON FILLING: Blend 1/2 c. four with 1/2 c. water to make smooth paste. Add 1/2 c. water and 1/2 c. corn syrup. Cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Beat egg yolk; gradually add cooled mixture to it. Return to heat; cook 1 min. Stir in 1 tbs. lemon rind, few grains salt and 1/2 c. sugar. Spread filling between layers and on top of cake. Chill. Top with white icing.

Library Circulation Shows Decrease For First Time in Several Months

For the first time in many months, circulation at the Okanagan Union Library showed a decrease compared with the corresponding month last year. Figures released this week showed that 5,871 books were distributed during the month of October, while 6,354 were read during the same month last year. Circulation figures were made up of 1,297 non-fiction books; 3,194 fiction, and 1,380 juvenile books.

Registration at the library also showed a sharp drop, a total of 82 people joining compared with 130 during October, 1949. Forty-two adults registered and 50 juveniles.

Following is a list of new books added to the library shelves during the past month:

Fiction
 Across the river and into the trees—Hemingway; The adventurer—Waltari; Blaze of noon—Beatrice; The quiet light—Wohl; The

Non-Fiction
 Lands and peoples, Vols. 1-7; Within the harbor—Almedingen; Private army—Penikoff; The cost of a best seller—Keyes; Tree crops—Smith; Birds of the west—Booth; Behind closed doors—Zacharias;

Do Apples Keep as Well As They Did In The Past?

From Canadian Grower

Statements have been made by many people associated with the apple industry in different parts of Canada to the effect that apples do not store as well now as they did twenty-five to forty years ago. Scientific records of keeping quality only extend for a period of sixteen years. If change in keeping behavior were a consistent one throughout the years some evidence should be plain from this sixteen years period. By consulting the records no evidence was found to show that keeping behavior has changed this time provided growing, harvesting, climatic and storage conditions were the same.

This suggests that if keeping behavior has changed it has been the direct result of a change in growing conditions, methods of harvest and storage. There is little doubt that all of these have changed to greater or lesser degree during the growth of the industry. Nothing specific, however, could be gleaned from statistics, or consultations with men associated with the industry. All that could be learned was that recently commercial fertilizers have been used more extensively, and storage conditions have changed to conform with ever changing mode of life and grading regulations have been more generally applied. These changes, of course, have been more or less gradual over a twenty-five to thirty-five year period.

Study Fertilizers
 Kentville, Ottawa, and Summerland, have been studying the effect of fertilizers of all types on the storage behavior of apples. This is a big field and involves many complexities which have not yet been fully understood. One complexity is that a certain fertilizer applied may increase susceptibility to one disorder while reducing susceptibility to another. For example, in 1938 the keeping behavior of McIntosh apples grown on trees receiving various boron treatments indicated that although boron was instrumental in controlling cork conditions, it also resulted in a higher core flush incidence. This is cited as an example to show that in soil nutrition problems, not only primary but secondary and even tertiary conditions have to be taken into account.

The sum and substance of all our findings is that starved conditions contribute to good storage behavior. If the nutritional program is applied to correct orchard disorders, increase crop and the general vigor of the tree, it should be carried out in a balanced manner; if storage behavior is not going to be seriously impaired, this is borne out with experimental work at Ottawa when it was shown that apples grown on sod, no fertilizer, had less than 5% core flush after six months of storage whereas the application of 100 lbs. of ammonia increased core flush to 70% and a complete fertilizer reduced core flush to less than 30%. At Kentville work with Gravenstein and Wagener showed breakdown of 31% to 39% with no fertilizer, 22% to 37% with incomplete and 2.3% to 24% with complete. Similarly at Summerland it has been shown that high nitrogen delays maturity thereby increasing core flush.

Harvest Too Early?
 As the harvesting procedures (which includes picking, packing, grading and transportation to storage) it is agreed by all concerned that at the present time (particularly with McIntosh) there is a tendency to harvest too immature.

In general, however, it is felt that the most compelling factors are fear of dropping, freezing and lack of picking help. Once apples approach maturity, a fruit grower knows that picking operations are delayed the crop may be too mature or on the ground before he can finish picking. Later on in the season frost danger exists with later varieties. As production and orchard size increases these factors are going to become more imminent.

Thus immature harvest is presented as a possible explanation for a trend in storage behavior. As the factors associated with harvest it has been assumed that enforcement of grading regulations and consistent inspection should improve rather than decrease storage behavior. There has been a tendency to decrease the time elapsing between harvest and storage. This latter is based on the fact that growers are becoming more conscious of errors caused by such delays.

Growth of the industry, however, has possibly presented physical barriers which oppose the good intentions of many growers. In the Annapolis Valley it has been shown that there has been a gradual development from cellar to warehouse to mechanically refrigerated storage. Each step has been compelled by rapid increase in production rates. Cellar storages usually prove satisfactory for small quantities of later maturing varieties when weather conditions are suitable. Both cellars and warehouses, when overtaxed, bring about disastrous results because of inadequate cooling.

Likewise, in all parts of Canada, even in mechanically refrigerated storages, there is a tendency to overload equipment. This results in slow cooling, shortening storage life. Frequently, too, storage space is rented during the summer for commodities other than apples. Delays in the removal of such products have interfered with the proper handling of the apple crop.

Another contributing factor to poor storage is indiscriminate shipments out of storage to dealers, brokers and others at distributing points. It is not uncommon to load up a dealer with a month's supply of apples. These are frequently held at high temperatures and under conditions where depreciation is rapid.

Certain Temperature
 Another point relative to storage practices is that the eating qualities of McIntosh apples do not reach as high a point during storage at 32 degrees Fahrenheit as they do at 30 degrees or 38 degrees Fahrenheit. Unfortunately, however,

In other words, slight losses in eating quality are sacrificed for longer storage life at 32 degrees Fahrenheit. Thus if apples stored at 32 degrees Fahrenheit are compared with cellar or common warehouse apples early in storage life the quality of the latter would be judged higher.

Thus considering storage factors at large, it might be said that if expansion of equipment and facilities have not kept pace with the growth of the industry, it might be responsible for the reduction of storage life, or it may be possible that we are comparing apples at their best with those in ordinary storage at the end of storage life. Over and above all these factors, we are comparing the storage behavior of apples to a large extent upon human memories. Most evaluations are based on comparison. Thus as our standards increase in value, our judgment becomes more critical. In other words, a low quality apple today may, in our own estimation, have been of reasonably high quality forty years ago.

Summing up these findings we make the following statements:

- Possible Factors:
1. During the period of scientific records there has been no evidence to show that the storage behavior of Canadian apples has deteriorated.
 2. If over a more extended period storage behavior has decreased the following are possible explanations:
 - Immature harvest.
 - Improper handling and overtaxing of storage equipment.
 - Misuse of fertilizers and adopting practices not conducive to normal ripening.
 - Indiscriminate marketing practices.
 - Mechanical refrigerated storage does prevent the development of maximum aromatic flavors to a slight extent.
 - 3. The whole question of judging the quality of storage behavior of apples may be influenced by a change in our standards of comparison.

Announcing a great new motor oil NEW "RPM" DEVELOPED BY ATOMIC ENERGY

Our atom scientists equipped test engines with piston rings treated at the Atomic Energy Commission's Oak Ridge Plant. For the first time they measured wear as it happened—determined with Geiger Counters why motor oils fail. An entirely new "RPM" was developed!

Cold-operation tests under rigid controls were used to simulate stop-and-go driving conditions, toughest kind a motor meets. New "RPM" was compared with the best of conventional motor oils. Results were startling!

New RPM Motor Oil was proved in laboratory tests to double the life of average automobile engines between major overhauls due to lubrication. Severe road service backed it up. Sold with money-back guarantee of satisfaction.

Doubles engine life!

...in the toughest test a motor gets!

All tests showed the same thing... that no motor oil gives you better protection than New "RPM." Compared with conventional motor oils,* it doubles the life of average auto engines between major overhauls due to lubrication. It cuts in half the wear-rate of critical engine parts. It doubles protection against gummy carbon, acid, corrosion, rust and varnish... maintains the low-oil-consumption life of the average auto engine twice as long. Sold with a money-back guarantee of satisfaction.

Australian Growers Have Their Problems

Growers and packers in Canada have had their troubles these past few years in getting help in the packing sheds. Experienced graders, sorters and packers are scarce and hard to keep.

But look at the situation that confronts an Australian grower or fruit shipper, as a result of the "Fruit-growing Industry Award of 1949." Australia is a highly unionized and highly socialistic country which has had a left-wing government for some years, up until the last few months.

Here is some indication of what happens when bureaucrats run wild. To begin with, this "award" governs all operations in all packing sheds where 15,000 cases of fruit are sorted and packed for sale or any packing shed or smaller volume if the owner is not packing his own fruit. Some 2,000 individual packing houses are involved.

This government order puts definite scales of wages on every job, limits the types of work which can be done by women, regulates hours and overtime, specifies working conditions and must be met; it even demands that "hot water be provided at meal time for making tea."

Preference in employment must be given to members of the Australian Worker's Union and union secretaries have the right of entry into packing premises under certain conditions.

Picking Regulations

Growers in Canada have been in the habit of using women, teen-age girls and boys as pickers, and good ones they are too. The Ontario Farm Service Force has been created and staffed to house just such a supply of young, transient help. But pity the poor Australian fruit grower—"in fruit picking" runs the award, "females of 18 years or more and juveniles shall not, unless paid wages at the prescribed rates for adult males be employed in greater proportion than one female of 18 years or more and one juvenile to each adult male."

And to make matters worse—"no child under 15 years of age shall be employed in any capacity unless with the consent of the Union." This does not apply to the employer's children, the award kindly adds. But you can "hire aged and infirm workers at lower rates by arrangement with the union."

Working Hours

Growers everywhere are familiar with the result of weather on the harvest and how uncertain picking conditions are. But the bureaucrats have not such worries. The Australian fruit growers must somehow gain control over weather for "employees may be worked on shifts which shall not exceed eight hours without payment of overtime; afternoon and night shifts to be paid 10 per cent more than standard rates. All time worked in excess of eight hours per shift shall be at time and one half for the first three hours and double time thereafter. Notwithstanding the foregoing, during the harvesting period all work done in excess of 44 hours a week shall be paid for at time and one half for the first ten hours which may include four hours on Sunday, all extra at double time including any time on Sunday in excess of four hours."

And that is not all. When the fruit comes in from the trees to the packing shed, the same eight hour shifts plus overtime over 40 hours applies, but all Sunday work is double time, and Saturday work is time and one half for the first four hours, and double time thereafter.

What do Australian growers do when the crop ripens just before the week-end?

Rates of Pay

The work in the field and shed has been classified and definite rates of pay set. Of course the usual sick leave benefits, holidays with pay, and statutory holidays with pay applies. Casual labor, in fact, must be paid a premium of 10 per cent over standard rates in place of these benefits. The rates of pay are quite complicated. (In fact, it takes 27 pages of closely typed writing to list the award). The basic rate is the same for all workers, but each job carries an extra pay. A truck driver gets another $3.25 a week, or $3.50 if his truck is over three tons. A grader gets an extra $5.00, the man who does the weighing only $4.00, and the person stacking boxes only $3.00, which is 50 cents more than the man who repairs boxes, or the man who cleans up the grader, while the man who dumps the picking boxes into the grader gets just $2.80 over the base pay.

What about a fellow doing more than one job. That too is taken care of—"an employee, engaged in any one day or shift for a time exceeding four hours all together, on work carrying a higher rate of pay than his ordinary work, shall be paid the higher rate for that day or shift."

What about the nicer things of life? Well—"no employee shall work for more than four and a half hours without a break for a meal, and thirty minutes in every shift be allotted to each worker for "smoking." Any worker who works overtime after 6 p.m. shall be allowed tea money extra unless they can reasonably go home for the meal or have been notified the day before of their overtime. Sitting accommodation must be provided for female workers in packing sheds and matting for concrete floors. Casual help living in the grower's houses must be given free wood, and permanent help get their wood at cost. Each packing shed shall have changing rooms for male and female workers with lockers, showers and hand basins when necessary."

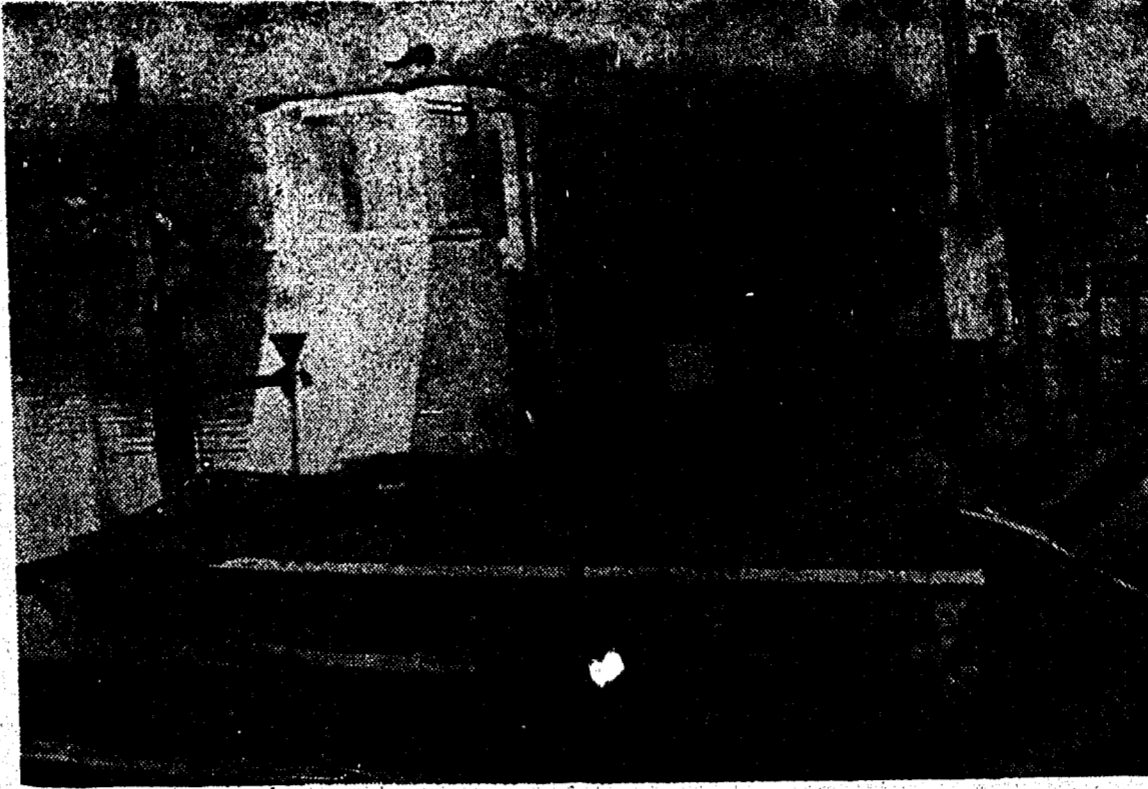

"Time and wage books must be kept with provision for inspection by the union officer, and the union has the right to post notices on union business."

Cost of Living

So far, the award has been relatively simple; the hard part is yet to come. The basic rates of pay and the additional rates for special jobs are based on a cost of living index, which is adjusted quarterly.

For work done during each future period of or near a quarter beginning with the first Saturday in an August, a November, a February or a May, the amounts of the amounts of the rates prescribed in paragraphs (1), (2), (3), (4) and (5) of "Table A" in sub-clause (a) and in "Table B" in sub-clause (b) of clause 7 of this award shall be adjusted and fluctuations if any of the Court's "All Items" retail price index numbers (second series).

With added items like this: "The employer may allow annual leave to an employee before the right thereto has accrued due, but where leave is taken in such a case

LITTLE THEATRE GROUP MAKING GOOD PROGRESS

At the general meeting of the Kelowna Little Theatre recently, reports from the directors of the various one-act plays revealed much progress. So, too, can the same be said of the three-act play presently being whipped into shape for public performance on December 1 and 2. Frank Bishop, director of "Ladies in Retirement," has announced the casting is completed. Taking a quick glance down the list, one finds a group of proven players.

Take, for instance, as has already been mentioned, Red Hughes, who is cast in the only male role, "Albert." Then Kay Dunaway as Lucy, Betts Hall as Leonora, Mary Kerr as Ellen, Margaret Mill as Louise, Ethelwyn Logan as Emily, and Vivian Dooley as Sister Theresa, can't help but produce a worthwhile production.

Maj.-Gen. R. F. L. Keller, newly-elected president of the Little Theatre, acted as chairman throughout the meeting, while entertainment co-chairmen were Mrs. D. Anderson and Miss Nancy Gale. Members enjoyed a social hour in which square-dancing predominated, with Red Hughes doing the calling and Kay Dunaway and Art Vipond providing the accompaniment.

A work party under stage-manager William Buss, was held at the Scout Hall headquarters on Friday night for the purpose of assembling the portable stage.

Looking ahead, members of the Little Theatre plan to hold a New Year's Eve party for members and their guests. The proposal to make it a masquerade was adopted with much enthusiasm. More on this later.

COSTUME PRIZES GIVEN KIDDIES AT PEACHLAND

PEACHLAND—A Halloween party sponsored by the P-TA was held in the Athletic Hall last week, the gay decorations being left up from the Halloween dance. The children in many fancy and original costumes paraded around the hall, while the judges Mrs. F. E. Witt and Mrs. J. P. Long made their selection. Prizes were awarded for the best-dressed children. Pre-school: Carol Arnison, Johnny Garraway; grades 1-2, Clare Le Duke, Wayne Inglis; 3-4, Marilyn Inglis, Donnie Cousins; 5-6, Carole Moore, Teddy Mohler; 7-8, Donna Clements; 9-12, Doreen Clements, Alfred Mash. The teachers J. Kushneruk, Miss E. Rees and Mrs. G. Arnison and Mrs. G. Smith helped with the games that followed the parade, and then a peanut scramble, before lunch with Mrs. C. O. Whinton in charge of the kitchen.

Colorful Hallowe'en Party Held For Children of East Kelowna Area

EAST KELOWNA—The Hallowe'en party was held in the community hall, which was attractively decorated for the occasion with pumpkins, witches, black cats, and numerous cut outs. Drawings were done by the school children. The parade was very colorful with such a variety of costumes making the judges' task a very difficult one. The pre-school children were judged first. Gregory Neid as a smart little soldier won the boy's prize, while Pat Cox, as a beautiful gipsy, and Anne Thorneloe as a Dutch girl, carried off the girls. In the older group the prize winners were Paulette Jannachitz, the best dressed girl; Jean Thorneloe, a witch; Beverly Christie, as autumn; Inez Haase, a gipsy. The best dressed boy was Robert Thorneloe as an Indian, Eddie Bashmann as autumn, Kenny Ross, a skeleton, and Cecil Lunan, a minstrel. The children played "Farmer in the Dell," "London Bridge" and "The Cat and the Mouse." There was Hallowe'en candy and candied apples, to add to the fun, and lots of appealing refreshments. The party was sponsored by the members of the Parent-Teacher Association with Mrs. D. Evans convener of the refreshments; Mrs. F. J. Foot and Mrs. R. T. Graham the judges, with Mr. R. Pethybridge, master of ceremonies.

BETTER RETURNS FROM CERTIFIED SEED POTATOES

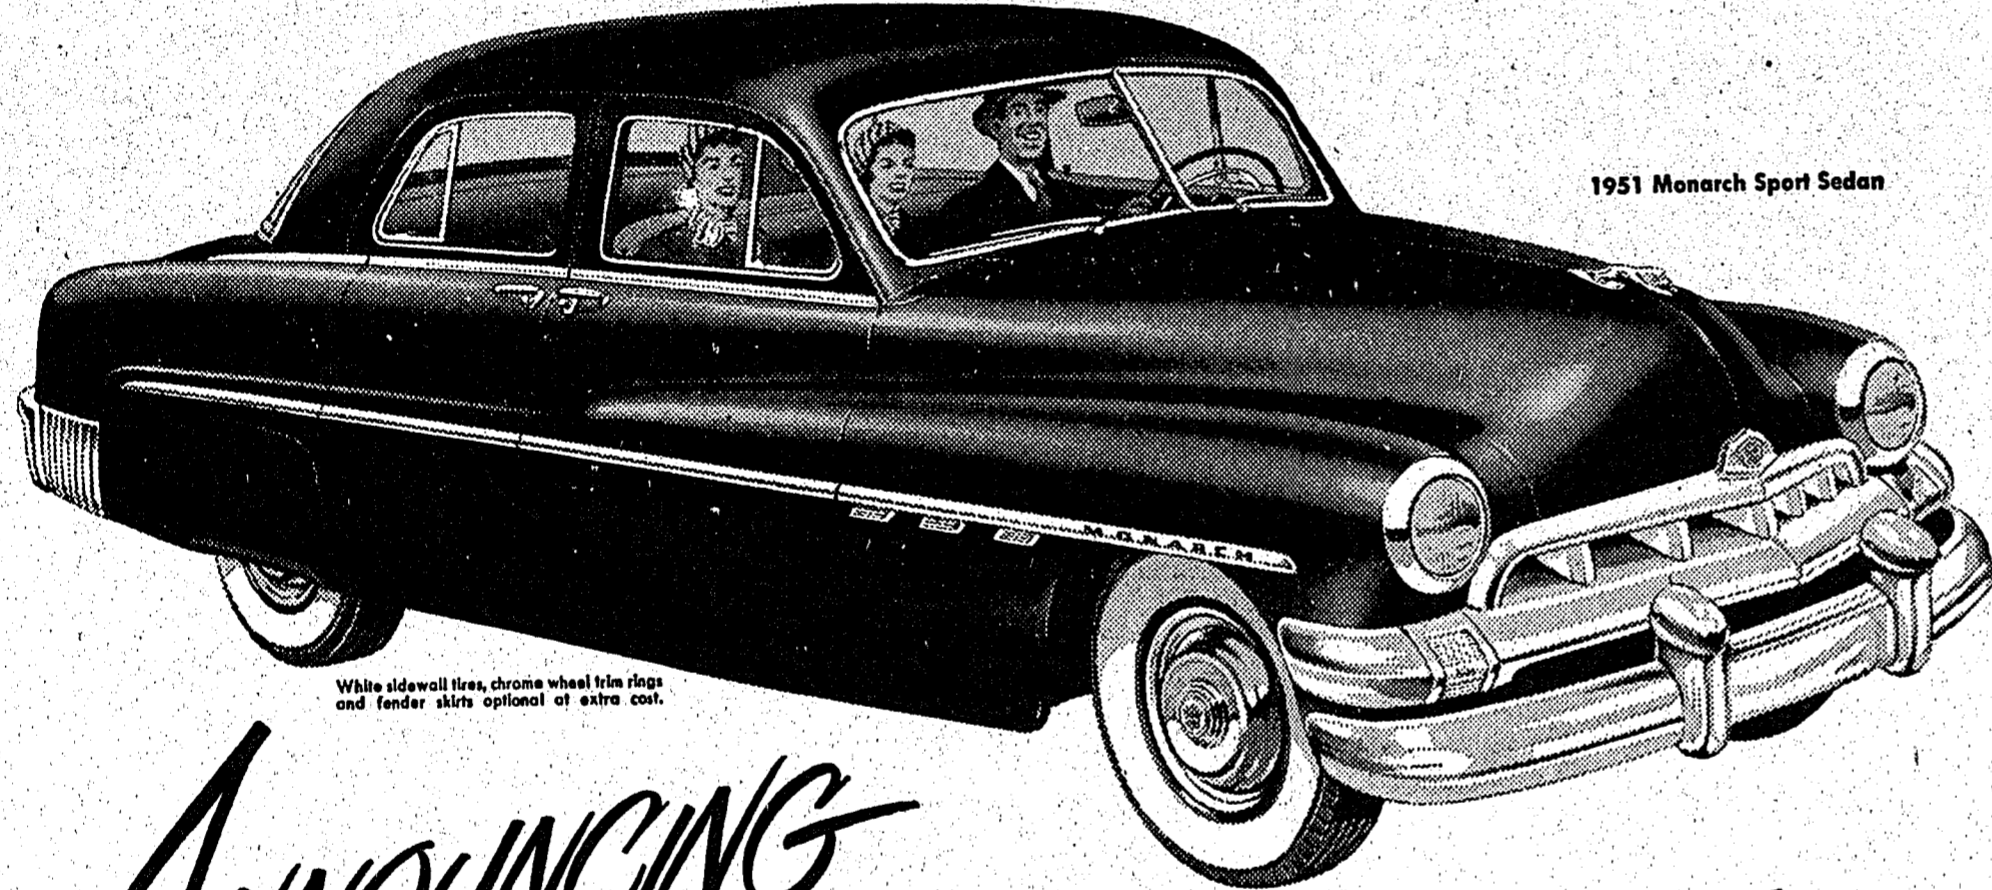

Because of adverse weather conditions in 1950, officials of the department of agriculture, Ottawa, point out that much of the registered and certified seed will likely be graded "Registered No. 3" and "Certified No. 2," mainly owing to discoloration. Prospective buyers of seed should bear in mind that even the lowest grades of registered and certified seed are of selected seed stocks which have been well processed and which offer more reliability than the top grades of general commercial seed. Registered and certified seed are selected seeds of recorded pedigree, which have been tested for purity as to variety, freedom from weed seeds and other kinds of seed, and have been inspected, graded and sealed in closed containers by an inspector of the department of agriculture.

WILL SETTLE VERNON BUS SERVICE SOON

VERNON—Within the next two weeks, Vernon residents will know whether a city bus service will operate here this winter. If satisfactory equipment can be purchased at the right price, Columbia Coach Ways, of Penticton, will commence operations. If efforts to obtain suitable buses are unsuccessful then the company's option, now extended two weeks by the city, will be dropped voluntarily. Such is the summation of information given the city council by Hugh G. Wilson, company manager. Mr. Wilson said he realized that the council was anxious to have a bus service in operation during the winter months. He asked that the option be extended two weeks while efforts were made to obtain buses and he promised that by this time a definite decision would be available. Local men are reported to be interested in a transit system and Mr. Wilson was promised by the council that if these men make an offer inside of two weeks he will be given a chance to better it or surrender the option. Following the surrender of the bus franchise held by Carswell Coach Lines, the Columbia Coach Ways secured an option but stipulated that service would be dependent upon the securing of a school bus contract. Bidding on school contracts held by Carswell and some of their equipment at bankruptcy proceedings here recently, the Penticton company was unsuccessful in its tender. However, Mr. Wilson told the council that T. Ralph Bulman, school trustee, had said that further contracts would be awarded in June and the company had decided to go ahead. Sidney Spyer, trustee in bankruptcy, said that the successful bidders on the contracts and equipment could not be announced because the matter was not settled yet. Details, Mr. Spyer said, would be available in a few days. Mr. Wilson told the council that due to the international situation and the steel tieup, new buses could not be obtained without a time lag of at least 90 days. Second hand equipment of the right type, also hard to obtain and is not available in B.C. However, the company will try to secure buses in the east and if successful will inform the city as soon as possible.

PLANT WILD RICE

ROUYN, Que. (CP)—The Rouyn-Noranda Hunting and Fishing Association now is carrying out a program of planting wild rice in nearby lakes. It is hoped that more ducks and geese will thus be attracted to this area next fall. Fine of $2.50 was paid by waiver on Oct. 23 by O. I. Horn for driving through a red light.

A NERVOUS GROOM is this unnamed kangaroo imported from Australia to set up housekeeping with Marana, the lonely lady of the Toronto Zoo. Marana was presented to the zoo a couple of years ago by the Toronto Men's Press club. When the two were introduced the bashful groom kept running around the cage so that Marana lost interest.
