Heckman, Curtis, and Callahan
Discuss Far East before IRC

The conflict in the Far East and its implications was the subject of a panel discussion at the meeting of the International Relations Club held Tuesday in Shreiner Hall. Frank Curtis '43, discussed recent naval developments in the Eastern theatre of the war. Marian Heckman '44, analyzed the international effects of the conflict in this region and also discussed Australian and Dutch opinion of the measures taken by the Allies. Norman Callahan '42, presented the latest information concerning action in China.

Patt Patterson '42, president of the YWCA, announced that IRC aid would be appreciated in the forthcoming World Student Service Fund Drive. The group decided to inquire concerning the possibility of presenting another movie, the proceeds to be turned over to the W. S. S. F.

Tuvers and Swartley Present Book Reviews to English Club Monday

Joyce Tuvers '42, and Carol Swartley '43, will review books at a meeting of the English Club to be held at 8:00 p. m. next Monday evening at the home of Dr. McClure.

England Is My Village, to be reviewed by Miss Tuvers, is a story of living and fighting in the Royal Air Force told by John Llewelyn Rhys, a young flight lieutenant who was killed last August.

To Lieutenant Rhys as he flies above England, the country seems small as a village. He writes with beautiful power of the life and death of airmen in action and in hours of ease on this island-village. Carol Swartley will review Pilgrim's Way, the unique autobiography of John Buchan, Lord Tweedsmuir, finished only a week before his death.

This is the story of a many-sided life. Lord Tweedsmuir was a novelist, poet, historian, explorer, member of parliament, and Governor General of Canada.

Called "An Essay in Recollection" by the author, Pilgrim's Way is subtly philosophic and very readable. It is vivid in backgrounds of nature and rich in humor.

Beardwoods Hear Speaker on Photographic Analysis of Steels

"Photography in the Analysis of Steels" was the topic discussed by Mr. Fielding Ellis at the regular meeting of the Beardwood Chemical Society held last Tuesday evening in the Science Building Auditorium.

Mr. Ellis, a representative of the Alan Wood Steel Company, of Conshohocken, gave blackboard illustrations to supplement his talk. In discussing the analysis of steels, he showed the part that thermocouples play in steel manufacture. Part of his talk was also devoted to an explanation of the difference in the various boiling temperatures of steels.

Men's Debating Team Opens Away
Season in Literal Blaze of Glory

Literally arriving in a blaze of glory, the Ursinus men debaters opened their debate tour last Wednesday afternoon at Western Maryland. After extinguishing the flames which suddenly had engulfed the motor of the vehicle in which they traveled, an Oregon style debate was held with Western Maryland on the labor question. The negative side was upheld here by Ursinus.

After the car trouble had been attended to, the debaters resumed their jaunt to the campuses of Gettysburg, Elizabethtown, and Franklin and Marshall, while the question of government regulation of labor unions was held as a bone of contention for sharp clashes of wit. All of the debates were non-decision.

The debaters who were on the trip included Robert Wilson '45, Blaine Fister '44, Frank Curtis '43, and Denton Herber '42.

This evening at 7:00 p. m. Al Wells '44, and Andrew Souerwine '45, will meet a team from Yeshiva College, New York City. They will support the negative side of the labor question. On Wednesday evening a deputation from Elizabethtown College will visit the Ursinus campus to debate upon the labor question. The debates are open to all students who are interested.

Drive To Aid War-Stricken Students
Will Aim for $200 Goal This Week

WSSF Fund Will Relieve Chinese
Profs and Students

Ursinus students who have "wanted to do something about it" for a long time will get their chance. This week Ursinus students will have the opportunity of sending aid to Chinese students by giving money to the World Student Service Fund.

The Ursinus goal is $200, to be raised by contributions from faculty and students alike. The purpose of the fund is to give aid to students and professors who are war victims. One half the money goes to China, while of the remainder, there is part for European students and part for refugee student relief in the United States.

Appeals Only to Students

The WSSF is unique in that it appeals only to the students of America and not to the general public. It is endorsed by all leading universities and colleges of the nation, and is the only organization of its kind.

Both Dr. Asher R. Kepler, the Chinese missionary who spoke in chapel, and Mr. David Adney, last Sunday's vespers speaker, mentioned that they had seen the direct use of the WSSF funds in China. Both men told of the Chinese gratitude for these funds. But both men pointed out that the need in China is still great.

Plebescite Taken

Last Thursday a poll was held on campus to determine the attitude of the students on giving up three desserts—the money for which will be added to the drive. By an overwhelming vote—275-22—the proposal was approved. The desserts of lunch and dinner will be given up as well as that of Wednesday's lunch.

The drive hopes for further help from personal solicitation and from the showing of Ray Scott's all-color film of China, "Kukan". This picture, lauded by movie critics throughout the country, will be shown in the Science Building Auditorium on Wednesday, March 4.

Dr. Philip Willauer
To Speak at Forum
Here Next Tuesday

PEACE RECONSTRUCTION WILL BE SUBJECT

Dr. Philip B. Willauer, former assistant professor of political science at Ursinus, will address the forum next Tuesday night, February 24. Willauer, one of the most popular of Ursinus professors, left the College in 1938 to become a member of the Philadelphia law firm of Duane, Morris, and Heckscher.

His topic for the forum will be "The Bases for Reconstruction after the Conclusion of the War".

In a letter to Marion Byron '42, chairman of the forum committee, Dr. Willauer expressed his belief that the subject probably has extensive ramifications. He said, "Naturally this is a difficult subject and one where dogmatic conceptions are both undesirable and unfruitful. My address, therefore, shall be in the nature of suggesting various courses of action that could be followed, the sole thought being to stimulate a discussion on matters which, unfortunately, are not receiving enough consideration, due to the pressing interest in active military operations and the like."

His appearance before the forum next Wednesday evening will not be the first time Dr. Willauer has spoken on such an occasion here. Two years ago he spoke at a forum and his analysis of the foreign situation then aroused the interest of his audience and induced its participation in a free discussion in traditional forum style.

Pre-Meds To Hear Talk
By Dr. Paul Mattis on
Two Aspects of Insulin

"The Experimental and Therapeutical Aspect of Insulin" will be the topic of the talk to be given by Dr. Paul A. Mattis at the regular meeting of the James M. Anders Pre-Medical Society tomorrow evening at 8:00 p. m. in the Science Building auditorium.

Dr. Mattis was graduated from Ursinus College in 1930 and then attended the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy. He was also a member of the graduate departments of several other institutions. At the present time he is a member of the research department of Sharp and Dome Company.

Having done extensive experimental research work in the field of insulin, Dr. Mattis is qualified to speak on that subject.

His illustrated lecture will be supplemented by a discussion of the development and application of the sulfa-drugs in the field of medicine.

Brotherhood of St. Paul
To Inaugurate Services
During Lenten Season

The Brotherhood of St. Paul is completing plans for a series of Lenten Services to be held in Bomberger during the weeks preceding Easter from 5:00 to 5:50 p. m. every Wednesday.

The speaker for the first service will be Father Niblo, of St. John's Episcopal Church, Norristown. Other speakers include Dr. George F. Finnie, of the Calvary Baptist Church, Norristown; the Rev. Henry Kistler, of Pennsburg Lutheran Church; Dr. Jesse M. Corum, Jr., of the First Presbyterian Church, Norristown; the Rev. George Tovey, of the Spring City Methodist Church; and the Rev. Frederick Wentzel, director of young people's work in the Reformed Synod of this district.

Members of the music department under the direction of Dr. William Philip will render musical selections at the services to which all members of the faculty and student body are invited.

Oh, Look At The Girls That We Got — . . .

Women Debaters Begin
Active Season Against
Three College Opponents

When the Women's Debating Club meets tonight at 7:00 p. m. in Shreiner Hall, the program will include a debate by the freshman women debaters on the question, "Resolved, that every able-bodied male should have one year of military training before the present draft age."

The affirmative side will be upheld by Dorothy Waltz '45, Lois Ann Fairlie '45, and Betty Jane Wieder '45, while the negative side will be supported by Libby Rubin '45, Betty Dowd '45, and Betty Cassatt '45.

A modified form of debate will be the feature on Thursday, February 19, when the Ursinus women meet Albright at home to discuss the question, "What limitations on civil liberties are justified by war conditions?"

The debate will be in the style of a forum with each team discussing two aspects of the question. Mary Virginia Ernest '43, and Peggy Brown '43, representing Ursinus, will discuss the possible limitations on radio and the press. The Albright team will consider the role of speech and politics.

Marjorie Downs '44, and Marion Byron '42, will represent Ursinus at Cedar Crest College tomorrow, to debate the question, "Resolved, that the federal government should regulate by law all labor unions in the United States". Ursinus will defend the affirmative side in this Oregon style debate.

ATTENTION, FRESHMEN!

Freshmen must attend the open house parties this evening of all frats who entertained them at individual rushing parties. All freshmen who fail to observe this rule will not be permitted to accept bids to join any fraternity.

All freshmen must be in their rooms at 11:00 p. m. this evening.

Zero Hour Nears,
Co-eds Nab Dates
For Lorelei Dance

SIRENS LURE MALES TO FRIDAY'S EXTRAVAGANZA

"She will call at 9:00 sharp for her date.

It's his time to punish—he'll make her wait.

But she can take it you may be sure,

So she'll flash him a smile that's all but demure,

The dancing's divine—her wit sharp as a knife—

The amazed male wonders where she's been all his life.

These words, written by Amanda Squinch '99, under the title of "Ode to the Sirens", were recently discovered by Bobby Guinness, Chief M. C. (male catcher) as she wistfully paged through old editions of the Ruby in the library, seeking inspiration for Friday night's annual Lorelei. The dance, featuring the music of Wally Spotts, will give the Ursinus girls the chance they have so long been waiting for.

"Doubtless this little poem", said Miss Guinness, "was written during the Lorelei season of the Spanish-American War. It is quite apropos today.

"We, too, are conducting the dance this year with one eye for national defense and the international situation. We realize its importance. Nevertheless, there is no truth in the story that defense stamps will be served for refreshments", Miss Guinness went on. "Furthermore, there is no truth in the rumor that the 'Catch as Catch Can Dance' will feature me in a lion's skin playing a piccolo, and draped on rocks in the center of the floor."

Miss Guinness did reveal, however, that the usual rules for getting a date are still in effect, and men are hereby warned. Tickets for the fray at $1.65 per couple will be on sale after lunch this week.

Vespers Speaker
Calls for Faith
In Prayer to God

DR. HOMRIGHAUSEN TELLS OF VARIOUS TYPES OF PRAYER

Calling attention to the World Day of Prayer for Students, Dr. George S. Homrighausen addressed the Ursinus vespers service last evening in Bomberger in these words, "In thinking of this great discipline of the soul, we are thinking about one of the most important things of the world." When prayer has died, according to Dr. Homrighausen, religion is slain.

The speaker, after introducing the subject of prayer, proceeded to present several aspects of real prayer. These include adoration, praise, or exaltation. Again, prayer is genuine confession to God "Who also resolves our sinfulness." Other aspects are those of petitioning and genuine intercession. In fact, prayer is genuine conversation with God, "a genuine joy in his presence", a wordless companionship which is expressed by some simple sentence.

Misconceptions About Prayer

There are some misconceptions about the nature of prayer extant in the world today, according to the speaker. "Some people regard prayer as a bit of magic." Another objection comes from the scientific world, but "we don't know enough to deny the efficacy of prayer!" Another misconceived purpose of prayer is the quieting of the mind, really an escape from reality.

Prayer also makes certain demands upon a person. First we must believe. Then we must possess the qualities of persistence, social-mindedness, and obedience. The results of prayer are the achievement of a dominant purpose, a clean conscience, love for all, development of faith, release from confusion, and a sense of power—"A man is invincible when he is rooted in God . . . What we need today is to have life rooted in God . . . Prayer is the rooting of God in life."

Mary Anna Wiley '43, and Blaine Fister '44, were student leaders for the service. Averil Fox '42, presented a soprano solo, and William Heefner '42, was at the organ.

Plan for Combination
Of Y Organizations
Is Retreat Proposal

A part of the business transacted at the Y Retreat on Sunday, February 8, was the creation of a special committee to study the constitutions of the Christian associations of other colleges and to formulate a model to be adopted by the Ursinus Y organizations. The committee appointed to this task includes the following: Garnet Adams '42, Pat Patterson '42, Robert Bauer '43, Grace Brandt '43, Betty Knoll '43, and Blaine Fister '44.

Since the adoption of a constitution would necessarily entail the reorganization of the Y, the question of combining the YM-YWCA into one organization was discussed. Many large as well as small colleges have only one group, generally called the Student Christian Association. Although the Y group here has expressed its approval of reorganizing the system of committee appointments, there has been considerable debate about cutting the organization down to a single set of officers, an operation which would be necessary in such a revision. There will be further discussion on this question before any action can take place on the matter.

Ursinus is contributing to the World Student Service Fund through the proceeds derived from the picture "Kukan", a portrayal of Chinese life, to be shown on Wednesday evening, March 4, in the Science Building. There will be two shows with the admission scaled at 15 cents per student and 50 cents for the general public.

Squeals, Hugs, Kisses, and Tears
Rock Bomberger

Midst a bedlam of wild jubilation and joyful osculation, the five campus sororities handed out bids to 43 freshman women and welcomed them most affectionately into the sisterhoods last Saturday noon in Bomberger Chapel.

From the standpoint of numbers, the neophyte sisters were fairly evenly distributed among the sororities. Omega Chi had the largest catch with 11, but Kappa Delta Kappa and Tau Sigma Gamma were a close second and third with 10 and 9 respectively. Alpha Sigma Nu, with 7, and Phi Alpha Psi, with 6, complete the reckoning.

The names of the sororities and their new sisters follow:

Alpha Sigma Nu: Marie Blackburn, Elaine Dorner, Lillian Goldberg, Emily Long, Betty Meehan, Alice Sircorn, and Gladys Williams.

Kappa Delta Kappa: Peggy Crump, Barbara Djour, Lois Fairlie, Ruth Hansen, Betty Harrison, Emma Hartman, Portia Mollard, Norma Nebinger, Glen Stewart, and Dorothy Waltz.

Omega Chi: Peggy Allen, Nancy Bousfield, Elisabeth Hochbaum, Betty Hunter, Ruth Kepner, June Lamprechter, Lois Manning, Dorothy Ohlmeyer, Libby Ruben, Mary Tershowska, and Doris Titzsch.

Phi Alpha Psi: Anne Baird; Betty Brown, Beverly Cloud, Peggy Hudson, Peggy McKinney, and Betty Wieder.

Tau Sigma Gamma: Betty Bradley, Betty Dowd, Alice Davis, Jean Featherer, Vivian Grimsley, Shirley Klein, Adele Kuntz, Laura Lautenbach, and Betty Umstad.

SO LITTLE CAN DO SO MUCH

"China is at 4:55 in the morning." These words of Dr. Kepler are quite significant. China has struggled on for centuries under unheard-of oppression, under unheard-of standards of living. Endowed with the greatest population of any country on earth, China has been a real problem. It could never be sufficiently united; it was continually overrun by conquering Mongolians and by other warlike neighbors. Yes, at times it enjoyed the blessings of a good and successful rule, but this constituted a very little part of China's great history.

But now China is awakening. After a long night of darkness and oppression, dawn is finally breaking. China is achieving unity at last, under a democratic system and with Christians guiding the government. But not yet have the troubles of China ended. Once again she has been invaded by warlike neighbors, jealous of her vast expanses of land and of her treasures of undeveloped resources. Education has been developing in China; thousands of Chinese have been attending colleges and universities; but under what conditions!

Practically every college in China has been forced to move hundreds, even thousands of miles into the interior, in order to secure themselves from the Japanese aggressor. And still they are not safe. For the Japanese are bombing these new university centers, knowing full well that at these places lies China's future strength. For the Chinese, realizing the importance of the student's part in the future of their country, have spared their students from the armed forces. They, being more farsighted than many western civilizations, realize that this war is not an end in itself, but rather that it is a means to an end—the new China.

But where do we fit into the picture? After all, that is China, and this is the United States of America. But we must realize that no longer are we justified in thinking of our nation alone, disregarding the interest and welfare of all other national entities. No, we are fast becoming citizens of the world, and as such we should be vitally concerned with each and every nation in the world. China is standing alone; she needs our help.

There are but forty-five thousand students remaining in college today; fifteen thousand depend upon relief for their education. That is, one third of the students in China today would be unable to attend college if it were not for our contributions to the World Student Service Fund. Ninety-one out of one hundred and eight Chinese universities have been destroyed, but the Chinese are still carrying on. Starvation sits in every classroom, but the Chinese are still carrying on. Food is scarce and costly; often education must be sacrificed in order to pay for the substance of life, but the Chinese are still carrying on.

We at Ursinus, in our comparative security and comfort, must awake to the need of young China. It means little to us to give up a dessert or two; but when the whole college cooperates, it means a lot to China. But this is not enough; we should contribute in whatever way possible, as much as is humanly possible, to the future of China. Let us get behind the World Student Service Fund Drive one hundred percent!

Things'n Stuff

By IHRIE

IT'S DISGUSTIN'

To a sports writer who has seen victory-starved football, basketball, wrestling, baseball, track, tennis, golf and soccer teams at Ursinus since the day he entered, and who has written nothing but bitter defeats with a hope and a prayer that perhaps one season one squad will fare better than fifty-fifty, it's mighty disgusting to watch Ken Hashagen's hard luck basketballers be booted in the face time after time again by Dame Fortune.

In the beginning of the year I thought this was it, this was the team that would pull Ursinus out of the athletic doldrums. It wasn't only a good team, but a great team. I still think it's a great team!

When, of course, there are enough good men on an Ursinus team to win a conference championship and knock around any team in the league, I might have guessed that Lady Luck would step in. Ursinus must just not be destined to win.

I wouldn't have believed that any basketball five in the country could lose six games in a row, each in the last three minutes and only one by more than half a dozen points. Only Ursinus could have a record like that.

With no impartiality, Ursinus lost to every team in the league except Bucknell (just wait until we play them), always by about a three point margin, usually after leading the entire game. Good squads and bad squads alike were victorious in the same way.

It's uncanny that any team can lose almost exactly the same to one of the best basketball machines in the country and to a bunch of punks from Podunk. It shouldn't happen to a dog.

With the exception of the lacing at Albright and the initial tilt of the season at Lehigh, Ursinus could have and should have taken every game on the schedule. I didn't see one school, which outfought, outplayed or even outscored the local lads, excepting for those last few seconds.

Yet, a glance at the league standings would seem to indicate that Ursinus basketballers just play along for the fun of losing. You'd think after a while the law of averages would at least try to even things up.

To a school accustomed to winning it wouldn't be so disgusting to have a hard-luck season, but why, oh why, must it happen to Ursinus, which has a team like that once in a college lifetime. Those boys could so easily be champs; Dame Fortune made them chumps.

I haven't even mentioned the fact that MacMahon is injured, the Rorers are ineligible, Wadsworth and Barab have joined Uncle Sam's skyfighters and—why go on.

Believe me, from the bottom of my heart I extend deepest sympathies to Coach Hashagen. He's having as tough luck as you could wish on one man, a natural for Ursinus.

EDUCATION BY INDOCTRINATION?

In the United States there has long raged a conflict of opinion between the practical and the idealistic as to whether in a democracy, the philosophy of government "Of the people, by the people, and for the people" should be indoctrinated or assimilated. According to a prominent educator, "If we are to achieve the aims of education, problems that are really controversial and upon which there is widespread difference of opinion must be treated with the greatest endeavor to be fair to all sides in the issue". There is no greater or more controversial problem facing the world today than that of the relative merits of democracy and totalitarianism.

Should schools in the United States propagandize for democracy? Or should they depend upon developing proper attitudes toward it by first developing general powers of reason, with the supposition that by applying these powers youth will arrive at the "proper" decision? Should we depend upon the individual's intellect to accept an ideal, the support of which is the bulwark of our government, the foundation of our way of life?

Why should we, on our side of the fence, risk even minute losses on the home front? Why not remove even a possibility of individual doubt as to the superiority of democracy? Consider the successful pursuance of a propagandized totalitarian ideology, with all its obvious defects. While we do not agree with ideals, we must admit those it teaches are taught well. Employing similar methods, consider how tremendously successful a program of propagandized democracy must surely be, with all its obvious advantages.

In this age of speed, of fast thinking and faster action, there is no place, we have not time, to merely hope our children see the light. This is an age of efficiency of doing things and doing them properly and as quickly as possible. Can our present system of education meet the competition of a scientifically organized national or international program of education, whose sole objective is the complete acceptance of an absolute form of government. The emphasis should be placed on a more efficient democracy through a more perfect national system of education. A good educative system should be the means to that end—not an end in itself.

This is an age of science. In the fields of science and instruction in science, absolute impartiality is an acknowledged pre-requisite. This condition should, of course, be maintained. Science itself is one of the best teachers of democracy in that the nature of the work stresses individuality. However, studies concerned with the formation of social attitudes and habits should, particularly in the earliest years, instill a high regard for the vital factors composing the backbone of our government. In the higher levels of instruction there is time to bring to the pupil an awareness of opposing doctrines.

If we are convinced of the superiority of our way of life, why follow a wishy-washy policy of offering the pupils of the United States alternatives, with the emphasis on how they arrived at their conclusion, not the conclusion itself. Conclusions are the only things of importance today. In national life the method of achieving them is becoming of less and less importance. In time of war between the higher ideals of government, a war in which there is no peace, the ideals of education must be sacrificed. While this policy is not ideal, it is of undeniable practical value in the materialistic world of today.

SUGAR & PICE by CUE BALL

For the benefit of you shy lassies, Dottie Dix has written this form letter, so you will have an easy way to ask that certain someone to the Friday night shindig—just fill in his name at the top and yours at the bottom, submit it to the lucky fellow and you're all set.

Dear.....
 As I sat before my fireplace tonight with my pet panther, Murgatroy, lying at my feet, I suddenly looked up at an ancient portrait of one of my weather-beaten ancestors hanging over the mantel, and I immediately thought of you. Then I thought—Oh Gazooks!—there's a big question I want to put to you! It's about that dance we're having at dear old "U", on Feb. 20th, which is commonly known as the Lorelei. That's like in the funnies where Daisy Mae goes trompin' after L'il Abner, so I'm a-trompin' after you all.

Come on now, alligator, let's get h-to-the-j, and swing on down at our Thompson-Gay r-race building. Rustle up dem bones, Pahnner, and spread your wings and make like eagles. We're gonna' dance like gang-busters that night, and it's even (going to be) better than swingin' at the Apoth. It won't be very hard to push the conversation and me along for about three short hours, and why should you mind? You're not paying for the ticket!

Dancing is startink at 9 p. m., so to boots and saddle now, as we gally dig a hep-step, you in your rute zoot, and me in my glad plaid. Don't dissappoint me now, fellow, and be an icky, 'cause if you accept you'll make a mad gal slightly madder. (And I don't mean angry!)

Times is tough, so that's how's come I can use only one sheet of writing paper, and must now close. Let's make with the quick answer, huh?

Love and Kisses,

P. S.—Aln't it awful what I didn't learn from a college eddication.

THE MAIL BOX

To Helen Moll—R. N.

I wish to thank the Weekly for its very touching and beautiful article about Miss Helen Moll. Too often some of us in places of responsibility are apt to appear abrupt and dogmatic. This is very often the case where stern discipline and decision means the difference between defeat and victory. Sometimes there is one who has the softening touch and the art of gentle care that soothes the pang that comes with shock and pain and with disappointment. Such a person was Helen Moll. If I were to write of all her virtues, I would be lost in a maze of words and thoughts. But to me she was the loyal, faithful, and ever present helper, who was always the most important factor in the many cases and problems which concerned us.

Some few years ago, I talked with Sir Wilfred Grenfell—the pioneer doctor and missionary of Labrador. I asked him what was his philosophy. He said, "Doctor, it is very simple—one must do what one has to do, when he meets up with it". Ah—that's it, and that was Miss Moll's philosophy.

I often thought her name should have been Martha, instead of Helen. You no doubt know the story of the daughters of Lazarus who entertained the Lord. Martha did the work; Mary did the entertaining. And when Martha asked Mary to help, Jesus rebuked her, and said that Mary had chosen the better part. And then you remember what Kipling said about the Marthas—

"It is their care in all the ages To take the pain and buffet the shock It is their care that the gear engages It is their care that the switches lock It is their care to embark and entertain Tally and transport and deliver duly

The sons of Mary, by land and main." Well—she has gone because she felt, as she said so often to me, "Some one has to do it". How we shall miss her! The forces of righteousness and the Army are receiving one of its finest recruits. John D. Price, M. D.

SOCIETY NOTES

A Valentine tea was given by South Hall yesterday with some of the women of the College being entertained as guests.

After the sorority bids were extended to the freshmen last Saturday afternoon and the final choices made, the enlarged sisterhoods joyfully went from Bomberger Hall to informal parties held to welcome the new members. Tau Sigma Gamma Sorority went to Brad's Sandwich Shop, Phi Alpha Psi Sorority went to the Kopper Kettle, Omega Chi visited its sponsors, Mrs. Maurice Bone and Mrs. William Pettit, Kappa Delta Kappa entertained at the Bakery, and Alpha Sigma Nu at the Drug.

WEEKLY SPORTS

Freshman Quintet Loses Three Tilts In Week's Play

The Bear Cubs of Coach Sieb Pancoast dropped all three contests this past week to finish one of the most disastrous weeks of their season.

On Monday night the Cubs were stopped by the Swarthmore Frosh by a 39-27 score; Wednesday afternoon the Cubs were handed their second defeat when the Hill School quintet dropped them 40-33. Saturday night, they lost to Muhlenberg Frosh by a 51-26 score.

Against the Swarthmore Frosh the Cubs were led by Leo Carraza who netted five goals and four fouls to score over half of the Cubs total. The scoring of the Little Quakers Cope and Boardman who scored 12 and 16 points respectively was too much for the Frosh who were led all the way by their opponents.

The Hill School five once again led the Cubs through the whole game in spite of the work of George Moore who tallied ten points. Once again their opponents were led by one high-scorer who kept them constantly in the lead. Hill School's Yeabsley tallied 17 points and led his team to victory over the Cubs.

On Saturday night the Berg Freshmen copped their second win of the season over the Cubs at the Allentown high gym. The scoring of the Cubs was well scattered with Mitey Roy Todd and Leo Carraza each garnering five points to lead the Cubs. The Berg frosh were clearly superior in all departments and were never in danger. They were led by Center Bibighaus who tallied 17 points, and Heberling who had 10.

As far as I am concerned there can be no bigger news or no more fitting topic of discussion than the World Student Service Fund Drive which begins today. This drive is the first real opportunity for Ursinus students to show what they are going to do in this time of crisis as a student body!

To many this drive will seem like another appeal for a so-called worthwhile cause by the Y organizations. But to those who are thinking about the world of tomorrow, or those who have the slightest amount of respect for those who are striving for an education in spite of the greatest hardships, the drive will be of unsurmountable importance.

Without a doubt I believe that if the Y organizations were to ask for $1.00 per person they would be entirely reasonable and just. But even half that amount will help us to go over the top of our $200 goal. Just $.50 from each student!!!

And take it from me, Ursinus Students, the so-called world of tomorrow in which our children can live without threat of war can only be achieved by our own personal sacrifices. It's going to be a sharing world and the time to start sharing is in a drive like this, if for no other reason than the personal rewards you will get from your investment in the reconstructed world of tomorrow.

Co-ed Sextet Conquers Penn Saturday by 31-27

Trailing by eight points throughout the first three quarters last Friday, the University of Pennsylvania girls' basketball team made a final threat to the Ursinus sextette but lost on their own court to the tune of 31-27.

Doris Harrington took the scoring honors, accounting for ten foul shots and three field goals, while Nat Hogeland and Allie Dougherty followed with ten and five markers respectively.

Guards Marion Bright, Jeanne Mathieu and Nancy Landis baffled the highly-rated Red and Blue forwards with zone, man-to-man, and shifting zone defenses. In the final period, Penn's lanky Sarah Lippincott found her eye and began to roll up the points, only to be stopped by substitute guard Peg Keagle.

Bear Quintet Drops Games to Mules And Little Quakers in Past Week

Bear Rally Fails To Overcome Little Quaker's Lead 48-43

Losing in the last three minutes for the sixth consecutive time, the Ursinus basketeers of Coach Ken Hashagen extended their hard luck streak to the tune of 48-43 in a tilt with Swarthmore in the Thompson-Gay Gymnasium on Monday night.

A starting team of Eckenroth and Ross at forwards, Fetch and Hutchinson at guards, and Roy Walz at center, held the visitors to a 10-9 score for the first ten minutes of the initial half, but the usual lineup of Kuhn, Heckman, Ziegler, Walz and Hutch could sink only five foul shots for the remainder of the period and the halftime score was 26-14.

With less than two minutes to play, field goals by Ziegler and Neustadter put the count at 42-41, the closest Ursinus came to the lads from Swarthmore during the entire contest; but Walz committed two fouls, one of which was good and the other tapped in, and the game was virtually sewed up at 45-41.

Dave Ziegler sank one of his dazzling set shots, but a last second foul by Wolfe and field goal by Cope made the final score 48 to 43.

Mules Step Out in Second Half To Win 43-32

With the score tied at 15-all at the end of the first half, the league-leading Muhlenberg quintet got "red hot" at the start of the second half and defeated the hapless Bears by the score of 43 to 32, in the Allentown High "Little Palestra" Saturday night.

Bears Start Fast

The Bears started off fast and led at the end of the first couple minutes by an 8 to 1 score and it looked like an upset in the making. The Mules came back strong, however, and tied the score at the end of the half at 15-15.

In the second half goals by Stone and Mayerdierks pushed the Mules far ahead of the Bears who could score but two goals in the third period as the Mules scored seven plus some fouls. The Bears came back again in the last quarter to match the Mules but could not overcome their third quarter advantage.

Kuhn Leads Bears

Arno Kuhn was the high spot for the Bears both on offense and defense. Arno scored 11 points to lead the Bear's scoring. Ziegler and Walz each contributed six with Walz doing most of his work in controlling the back boards.

The Mules were led by Stone and Mayerdierks who scored 12 and 14 points respectively, most of which came in the last half of play.

Mule Wrestlers Humble Bear Squads Thursday

Meeting Muhlenberg College in Allentown last Thursday night, the Ursinus wrestlers suffered their worst defeat of this season. The junior varsity and varsity were thoroughly beaten by the respective scores of 29-6 and 29-3.

Don Stamm won a decision over Beisel of Muhlenberg in the junior varsity meet. Jay Meagher registered the other three points in this contest by pinning his opponent in six minutes with a body press but only after he had been pinned with the same hold in the second period.

Tropp Still Undefeated

The Bear varsity was less successful. The Mules here won their matches in every class but the heavyweight which was won by the still undefeated Joe Tropp, who defeated Kech 6-0.

Ihrle, wrestling at 121 pounds was pinned in 39 seconds with a head lock and body press. Hunt's opponent also took five points with a fall and Arnold followed by losing a decision. Wells was next pinned with a bar arm and chancery, and Maykut and Green were both decisioned. Tredinnick, wrestling his first match of the season, gave the Mules their last victory when he was pinned with a chancery and arm lock.

Dead Shot . . . Dave Zeigler

Without a doubt the best shot on the Hash's varsity outfit is none other than Sophomore Dave Zeigler. In the last five or six games Dave has either been the high scorer or among the highest scorers. Dave hails from Wrightsville, Pa.

When basketball is played in Wrightsville, it is the fellow who can score the most points who is regarded as the best player; and the best team is the team that can make the most shots. Dave has been an advocate of this theory and is certainly making it look like a very good theory in the past games.

Against Swarthmore, Dave was particularly outstanding and cries of "give it to Zeigler" were frequent throughout the game. Besides playing a mean game of basketball, Dave is noted for the "mean" game of cards he plays.

SLANTS ON INTRAMURALS

By COOKY

Passing the mid-season mark with a rush, Basketball steals the limelight this week as a total of thirteen bloody battles surged from basket to basket. Out of the melee came one self-evident fact. Curtis is in the playoff again. By notching wins over Day 30-12, Derr by forfeit, Freeland 53-13, and Brodbeck 41-23, the Marines ran their total of wins to five with nary a loss.

Stine moved in to second place, despite a defeat at the hands of third rank Brodbeck, by winning over Freeland, Day, and Derr. In that Freeland game the boys really went hot, racking up a total of fifty-eight points to set the mark for scoring in a single game.

The standing:

Team	Won	Lost
Curtis	5	0
Stine	3	1
Brodbeck	3	2
Faculty	1	2
Day Study	1	2
Derr	1	3
Freeland	1	3
Highland	0	2

The basketball schedule has been completely revised so we herewith present the official roster for the coming week. Follow this unless special announcements are made altering it.

Monday: No games
 (Frat. nite, boys)
Tuesday: Highland vs. Freeland 8:30.
 Derr vs. Day, 9:15.
Thursday: Curtis vs. Stine, 8:30.
 Day vs. Freeland, 9:15.
Friday: Highland vs. Stine, 8:30.
 Faculty vs. Derr, 9:15.
Saturday: Curtis vs. Faculty, 9:15.
 Brodbeck vs. Freeland, 10:00.
 Highland vs. Day, 10:45.

What say we turn out for boxing and wrestling fellows? If Intramural Night is to be a success there must be matches in every weight class. The number of candidates in the light and heavyweight classes of boxing has been particularly small. Don't forget you need those ten workouts by March 11.
