Baugh To Talk Founders' Day

Founders' Day exercises will take place on the afternoon of Thursday, February 16, 1939, in Bomberger Chapel. Dr. Albert Croll Baugh, professor of English at the University of Pennsylvania since 1928, will deliver the address.

This will be the second annual observance of the founding of Ursinus after a lapse of three years between 1935 and 1938 interrupted the yearly commemoration of the day.

Starting about 1914, the founding of the College was commemorated annually by appropriate exercises until 1935, when the event was cancelled because of the critical illness of Dr. George L. Omwake, then president of the College. In 1936, the exercises were again called off because C. C. Burdan, first vice-president of the Board of Directors, had died suddenly and was to be buried on the date set for Founders' Day.

In 1937 the exercises were omitted out of respect to the memory of Dr. Omwake and E. M. Hershey, both members of the Board, who died but a short time before the customary date of the occasion.

Speaker Distinguished

The speaker of the day is a distinguished professor at Penn. Dr. Baugh was graduated from that institution in 1912, received his Master's Degree in 1914 and the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy in 1915, both from the university. He was assistant professor of English there from 1912-1928 in which year he was made professor of English.

In 1929, Dr. Baugh and President Norman E. McClure together edited "Essays on Living." Dr. Baugh has been editor of numerous papers and publications, among them William Haughton's "Englishmen for My Money" and the Schelling Anniversary Papers, and associate editor of the Philological Quarterly. He is author of "History of the English Language."

Rose Marionettes Arrive Tomorrow

A lecture on marionettes will be a special feature of the big show next Tuesday when the Rufus Rose marionettes come to Ursinus. Mr. Rose in person will explain the art of handling the dolls which have made him popular all over the world.

Rufus and Margo Rose learned marionettes from the bottom up—up to the top, for they were associated for several years with Tony Sarg, foremost maker of marionettes in the world and author of "Tony Sarg's Book on Marionettes."

The twenty-two foot marionette stage will be put up in the gym on Tuesday, and the company will give two performances, matinee and evening.

"Pinocchio," the story of a naughty puppet, will be the matinee offering. The evening bill includes "Treasure Island" and "Continental Variety Show." Tariff for the afternoon is 35 cents, for the evening 50 cents.

Last Weekly of 1938

The Christmas recess begins this Friday, December 16, at 5 p. m. and ends on Tuesday, January 3, 1939, at 8 a. m. The next issue of the Weekly will appear on Monday, January 9.

Student Party, Banquet Feature Christmas Week

The Greatest Show on Earth, a musical farce in four acts, will make its first and only appearance on the stage of the Thompson-Gay Gymnasium immediately following the annual Christmas Banquet on Wednesday, December 14.

The banquet is scheduled to start promptly at 6:00 p. m. in the Freeland dining rooms, with the white coated surefooted garçons of Harry Price's cuisine dishing it out. The girls will eat in the upper dining room with frills and gaiety as usual, and the boys will eat in the lower.

Novel Entertainment

"The entertainment for this year's Christmas party is novel," said William Wimer '39, chairman of the committee in charge of the banquet and party. "It is not just a group of amateurs, but a farcical drama which really has a plot."

The action centers about the crazy antics of mad diplomats who celebrate peace on earth by having the biggest blowout since the World War. The play takes you into more places than "Paradise Lost," added chairman Wimer.

The biggest feature of the show will be a bevy of "chorines," the Rockettes. Charles Steinmetz '40, will be the premiere danseuse of the Rockettes. Two new maitress du plaisanterie will be introduced during the course of events. They are William Parkinson '41, and Harry Byrne '40.

The entertainment of the evening will be concluded by a dance for which the College dance orchestra will play.

The Men's Student Council and the Women's Student Government Association are sponsoring the evening's program. They urge that all students cooperate by coming to the gym before 8:00 o'clock, so that the program may start on time.

Communion Thursday

Ursinus' annual Candlelight Communion will be held in Bomberger Hall on Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock. The services will be conducted by Reverend John Lentz and Reverend Whorten A. Kline.

Albert Bartholomew '39, who is in charge of the traditional program, has urged that all attending be seated on the main floor of the chapel by 6:55 p. m. All students and faculty members are invited.

Parties Follow

At 8:15 o'clock on Thursday evening, immediately following the carol service in Bomberger, parties for men students, sponsored by the Young Men's Christian Assoc-

Guest Artists Praise Work of Choir In Thursday Rendition of The Messiah

By Robert Yoh '40

Rising out of his mediocrity, old King George II set the traditional custom of standing during the Hallelujah Chorus. However, it was not any mere custom which brought a capacity audience of some 800 people reverently to its feet at the close of last Thursday night's performance of "The Messiah."

It would seem as if the heavenly choir which sang 2,000 years ago in Bethlehem, must have been singing again in the heart of Frederick Handel as he composed "The Messiah." Its presentation has been inspiring other men ever since.

Such a work is deserving of the highest talent and deepest feeling on the part of those whose privilege it is to interpret it. These qualities were very evident in the presentation on Thursday evening, Dec. 8. Unfortunate indeed is the man who does not feel just a little different for having heard "The Messiah."

Four noted New York artists, members of the Curtis Institute Orchestra, and the Ursinus College Choir combined to produce one of the most noteworthy musical presentations in the history of the College.

Dr. Philip Conductor

Dr. William F. Philip is to be congratulated for his management and his conducting of this masterpiece. The College is fortunate in having a musical director who can successfully present such an ambitious production.

The tenor role was sung by Mr. Steele Jamison. It is regrettable that because of the brevity of his role he did not have more opportunity to delight the audience with his beautiful high tenor voice and excellent interpretation.

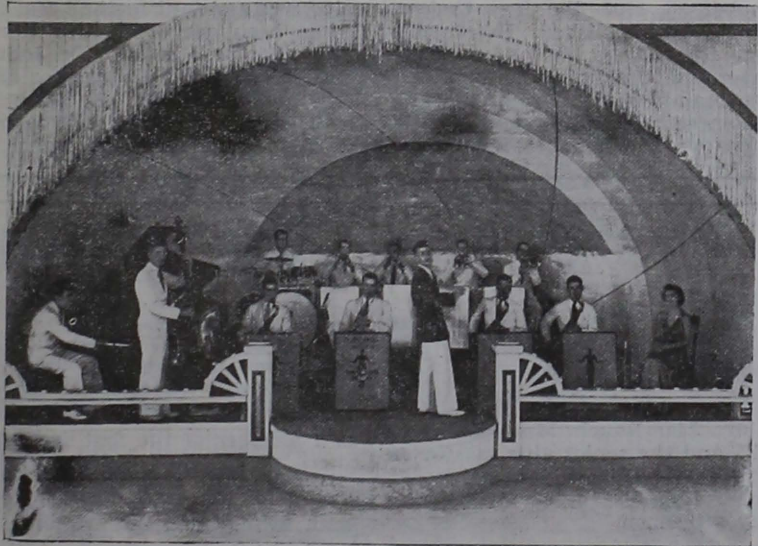

Ralph Magelssen, the baritone, showed his ability to sing difficult parts. Only a well-trained artist can capably perform the long runs so characteristic of the baritone parts of "The Messiah."

Masterful control of high notes characterized the performance of Miss Margaret Daum in the soprano role. There was a delightful flexibility to her voice which made her rendition of "Come Unto Me" one of the most satisfying selections of the entire oratorio.

Too much praise cannot be given Miss Joanne de Nault. This artist, who has devoted the greatest part of her musical career to oratorio singing, seemed to cap-

Soph Hop's Don Pike Signed to Play Return Engagement For Interfraternity-Sorority Ball

Pike, an accomplished trumpet player, leads an 11-piece band, with Helene King, female vocalist, lending the lyrical touch to the entertainment. This orchestra, which pleased a record Soph Hop crowd last year, features smooth modern arrangements.

The committee has decided that the dance will be formal for women, and informal for the men. Chairman Paul Wilson '40, emphasizes the fact that the dance is open to everyone — and he does mean everyone!

Chaperons for the dance include Mr. and Mrs. Eugene H. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mattern, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred M. Wilcox.

Tickets for the dance, at $1.50, will be on sale after the holidays. Dancing will be from 8 to 12.

The committee in charge, besides Chairman Wilson, includes Louise Rothermel '39, Peg Claffin '39, Doris Gallagher '39, Dorothy Reifsnnyder '40, Charles Steinmetz '40, Gordon Astheimer '39, Raymond Harbaugh '39, and Harold Chern '40.

Seniors Present Comedy, Ball As Final Social Contributions

By Jerome Salinger '41

On the evening of December tenth, the Senior Class, under the direction of Dr. and Mrs. Reginald S. Sibbald, offered "Lady Of Letters," a three-act farce by Turner Bullock.

Though undoubtedly guilty of too few rehearsals, the players nevertheless made a courageous attempt at salvaging most of the somewhat feeble Bullock humor, and, according to the gusty and frequent laughs of the audience, successfully introduced some relative, or otherwise, personal allusions to our own college by way of make-up and delivery.

"Lady Of Letters" is set in the living-room of Professor Willifer's home in a small college town.

Briefly, the plot is concerned with the professor's wife, Adelaide, a sweet and simple female, eighty percent idiot and twenty percent imbecile.

Adelaide, certain that she is

Hundred Ten Attend Ball

One hundred and ten couples braved the elements Friday night to attend the Senior Ball.

Although the orchestra was not Ray Keating's, as had been advertised, the substitutes from Philadelphia did a fair job of syncopating in his place.

Decorations were unusually gay with shining silver and blue the color motif.

destined for greater things than playing the mandolin with one finger, buys the unpublished manuscript of a young-and-starving author, and promptly has it published under her own name. Immediately, the unworthy Adelaide is hailed as a genius by all, save those intimates who know her and prefer to remain skeptical. Her husband, mother, and step-daughter are bewildered; the president of the college does not "feel equipped to handle genius"—until, however, certain pecuniary considerations are taken in behalf of the college.

Ultimately, details develop, in typical farce manner, bringing out the truth, and Adelaide is forced, temporarily, to suffer the results of

Three Trips Scheduled For Men's Debate Team

The Men's Debating Club will be quite active during the coming season if tentative plans materialize, according to debate manager Nelson Doland '39.

Three trips have been planned thus far. The northern trip, beginning the first week in March, will include Rutgers University, Drew University, Wagner College, and possibly Yeshiva, of New York City.

The western trip will include Franklin and Marshall, Gettysburg, Juniata and Dickinson. This trip will take place during the third week in February.

The southern trip will include Loyola, the Calvert Debate Club of the University of Maryland, and two other colleges in that vicinity.

A radio debate with the University of Pennsylvania will be held on January 7. The current T.K.A. question will be the topic for discussion. Ursinus will be represented by Alfred Gemmell '39, and Samuel Laucks '39.

Curtain Club To Stage 'Mr. Pim' at Spring City

Upholding its policy of being one of the more active organizations on the Ursinus campus, the Curtain Club will present some of its talented members at Spring City on Thursday evening of this week, when the farcical comedy, "Mr. Pim Passes By," will be given at the high school of that city.

Staging plays for organizations of other localities is not an entirely new idea at Ursinus. "The Ghost Train," the junior play of the Class of '38, had a replay of four productions: Spring City High School, Norristown High School, Yeadon High School, and Ursinus Open House Day of 1936.

"Holiday," the spring play of 1936, was also presented at the Norristown High School on May 16 of that year. At the present time other inquiries are being received by Dr. and Mrs. Reginald S. Sibbald concerning Curtain Club productions. This demand is indicative of the recognition of the type of production staged at Ursinus.

The cast of "Mr. Pim" includes William Wimer '39, Roberta Byron '39, Dorothy Peoples '39, Raymond Harbaugh '39, Alfred Gemmell '39, and Margaret Luckner '39. Marthella Anderson '40, will take the role held by Ruth Shoemaker '39, last year.

A Friend Has Left Us

Every student who lingers—however briefly—at Ursinus leaves behind him some symbol of his presence. Others, coming after, may never stop to analyze in the growth of years the contributions of the individual, but each and all, for good or ill, they have builded Ursinus.

And occasionally there comes a sudden pause, a stillness in which the influence of one is suddenly blazoned and lit for all to see. The firm foundation blocks and the delicate sculpturings of an individual workman are revealed as if some corner of a soul were glimpsed.

So it is that today we stand with bowed heads and glistening eyes. It is our greatest tribute to Ellen Schlaybach that no one of us ever knew how much she meant to the Class of '38, and to Ursinus. No one of us ever dreamed how many people, from highest to lowest in the College, would feel so poignantly the loss which has been ours.

As sets the evening star when comes the morn,
 Yet still keeps shining though outshone by day,
 So set this star of mortals to adorn
 With grace a heavenly country long away.
 Ah, yes, you say that such a youthful star
 Should fade not yet and vanish from our sight,
 Why should she now so soon be called afar,
 And we, who mourn, be left without her light?
 Help us, oh spirit, who controls the skies,
 The stars, the comets, and the earth,
 To cast the sorrow and the darkness from our eyes
 Which so short a time ago were filled with mirth.
 We know that such a gem was never meant.
 For us—and happy must the heavenly regions be
 To receive again the star that Thou had lent
 To shine for us with its brief radiancy.

The Oklahoma Daily Gives Carter Tribute

Dr. Harvey L. Carter, of the Department of History, received the tribute of a "Faculty Forum" column in a recent copy of "The Oklahoma Daily," news organ of the University of Oklahoma.

The column, by Virgile Glenn Wilhite, fellow student of Dr. Carter at the University of Wisconsin, was a discussion of a paper by Dr. Carter on "The United States as a Setting for Fascism."

Dr. Carter's paper listed and explained the conditions propitious to the growth of fascism. Among them he included economic, social, and cultural factors in the rise of European dictatorships.

The Oklahoma column continued with a discussion of Dr. Carter's first basis for the rise of fascism: the absence of a well-established democratic tradition and practice. The importance of this factor is illustrated by the democratic resistance to dictatorship shown in France and Great Britain, compared with the rapid rise of Mussolini in Italy and of Hitler in Germany.

Dr. Carter pointed out that our democratic tradition is older and stronger than was that of Germany, our resistance therefore better. Our elections are relatively fair and free from coercion, which both Hitler and Mussolini employed in their rise to power.

Dr. Carter's conclusion was that the United States is reasonably well safeguarded in the tradition of a vigorous democracy.

-- The Skipped Diploma --

Train Ride:

After swabbing his hairy overcoat several times across our face, a ruddy-faced gentleman (whom we shall refer to as Mr. X) sat down beside us on the Philadelphia-New York-bound train. Mr. X was particularly friendly, and in no time at all we were taken into the fold. The details of our short association are hereforth revealed,—whereby our many thousands of readers may have a clearer understanding of why darkies were born.

Mr. X: College feller?

Us: (cautiously) Yes.

Mr. X: Thought so. Heh! heh! Larry—that's my oldest boy—he goes to college too. Plays football. You play?

Us: N-no.

Mr. X: Well, I guess ya need a little weight. Heh! heh!

Us: Heh! heh!

(At that point, Mr. X modestly informed me that his oldest boy, Larry, was not only an expert football player, but also an Assistant Scoutmaster, an old-lady-across-the-street-taker, and the indifferent object of Miss, Mrs., and Grandmother America's violent affections. In short, Larry has fallen heir to all the goodies beneath the X family tree.)

Mr. X: (after a bit, but with the same determination) Ya really wanna gain some weight though.

Us: (between gritted young, strong teeth) Can you suggest a plan? I refuse to eat breakfast foods.

Mr. X: (happily) Well, why don't ya drop my oldest boy, Larry, a line? He'll be able to tell ya.

Us: (momentarily struck with brilliance) You have been so kind that you don't deserve to be kept in the dark. . . . The truth is, unfortunately, that for generations our family has suffered from beriberi.

Mr. X: (retreating slightly) Oh. (From this point on, the conversation became pleasantly sluggish, Mr. X being most considerate of our condition. Our farewell at Pennsylvania Station was friendly, and with little ado Mr. X took leave of our skinny person.)

The Ursinus Weekly

Memories of the Past

By Paul Wise '41

Flash—Ursinus completes undefeated football season! With nine straight victories and no defeats, Ursinus team is rated one of the strongest in the East.

- Ursinus 63—Muhlenberg 0
- Ursinus 17—Williamson 0
- Ursinus 6—Dickinson 0
- Ursinus 38—Lebanon Valley 0
- Ursinus 16—New York Univ. 0
- Ursinus 16—Rutgers 0
- Ursinus 16—Swarthmore 10
- Ursinus 6—Haverford 5
- Ursinus 16—F. and M. 0

This might have appeared on the front page of a Weekly back in 1902, when Ursinus was busy building a tradition of having fine athletic teams.

However, an undefeated football team was not the only unusual feature of that year, for on September 26, 1902, the first Ursinus Weekly was published. Before this time the College had a monthly paper, the Ursinus Bulletin, which was mainly a literary publication. The need was keenly felt for a paper which could better present news events more often, and which could devote more space to campus happenings; consequently, a four-page Ursinus Weekly resulted. Since that time succeeding generations of Ursinusites have striven to keep it close to its original purpose of being a faithful voice of the student body. A literary supplement to the Weekly was published bi-monthly.

Many personalities familiar to us today were prominent at Ursinus in 1902. Dean Whorten A. Kline, who had been graduated in the class of 1893, was professor of ancient languages. The class of 1902 dedicated its Ruby to Dr. James Lynn Barnard, present head of the Department of Political Science, who had served the college as professor of History and Political Science since 1897. Rev. John Lentz, D.D., our present College pastor, was assistant football coach. He had been one of Ursinus' best athletes the year before. Dr. John B. Price, College physician, was an active student in 1902. He starred at left end on the football team and was regular baseball catcher.

SORORITY AND SOCIETY

The girls of "944" entertained at a Christmas tea on Thursday afternoon, December 8.

Mrs. Mae Rauch, Mrs. Marcus C. Old, and the senior girls of Maples Hall were guests of the girls of Super House at a tea last Thursday afternoon.

On Wednesday afternoon, December 7, the Ursinus Circle met at the home of Mrs. Franklin I. Sheeder. Dorothea McCorkle '39, Betty Usinger '40, and Betty Trout '40, sang selections in keeping with the holiday season. Jane Poling '39, spoke to the group on her travels during the summer. Following the program team was served.

Mrs. Norman E. McClure will entertain at a Christmas party for the girls of Ursinus College on Monday and Tuesday nights, December 12 and 13. The sophomores and seniors will attend on Monday night while the Freshmen and Juniors will attend on Tuesday night. The program will consist of a reading by Marthella Anderson '40, a girls' trio by Dorothea McCorkle '39, Betty Usinger '40, and Betty Trout '40, and a solo by Dorothea McCorkle. Miss Camilla B. Stahr, acting Dean of Women, will speak to the girls.

The various halls will hold their annual Christmas parties this week. The girls have been decorating the dormitories in keeping with this occasion.

Japan and China Films Shown On Wednesday As Part of Local Far East Emergency Drive

Two films entitled "Japan and her Problems" and "Glimpses of Modern China" were shown in the Science Building Auditorium, Wednesday evening, December 7, as part of the College program to obtain funds for Far Eastern students.

These pictures, produced with the view to fostering an amicable feeling toward the Chinese and Japanese through understanding of the problems confronting each, were shown through the cooperation of the Far Eastern Student Service Fund.

Starting with the historical background of Japan, the first film reflected the industries, education, government, sports, and customs of the people and showed their progress from an isolated, feudalistic country to one of major importance in the world today.

In the second picture the Chinese, the oldest continuous race of people living, who have long fought a losing battle against westernization, were shown to be gradually realizing the need for the adoption of modern methods and are introducing them, while at the same time retaining their individuality and ancient charm.

During the intermission, Mrs. Eugene Miller, wife of Mr. Miller of the Department of History, gave numerous pertinent facts concerning the importance of the return student, one who has studied in a university outside of his own country, as the leader of the people in place of the former classical student.

on advanced mathematical topics at the meeting of the Mathematics Group held in the Science Building, Tuesday evening, December 6.

This meeting was the first of a series to be held by the group this year for the purpose of having members of the Mathematics 21-22 course present reports as part of the course requirement.

Jewish Refugee Problem Discussed at I.R.C. Meeting

The Jewish refugee problem, particularly that of the Jews driven from Germany by Nazi persecution, was discussed at the I. R. C. meeting last Tuesday night in Shreiner Hall.

Richard Shoemaker '41, outlined the history of the problem up to 1937. Charles Blum '41, speaking on the current aspect of the question, advocated a policy of collective security by other nations to curb Hitler's intolerance.

Plans for attending the regional I. R. C. conference at Swarthmore this Friday and Saturday were discussed during the short business session. Dr. Elizabeth B. White, club advisor, Dorothy Hutt '39, and Joseph Dubuque '41, will represent Ursinus.

New I. R. C. Quarterly Reflects Student Views On The Netherlands and Collective Security

By Dr. Harvey L. Carter

For years the International Relations Club has been a going concern on the Ursinus campus, reflecting the deep interest and wide acquaintance of Dr. Elizabeth B. White with the diplomatic ups and downs of the world. Last week marked the appearance of a quarterly sponsored by the club. In form it is a pamphlet of twenty-six mimeographed pages. With an editorial or production staff of five and a business staff of seven to market the product, the new publication is organized quite in the modern manner.

The initial issue centers around fascist foreign policies and their effects. As the editorial introduction points out, this should be of interest to every student. In the leading article, by Mr. Eugene H. Miller, attention is called to F. L. Schuman's advance analysis of Chamberlain's motives. Subsequent events have confirmed Schuman's double thesis, in my opinion. If, on reading it, you agree, then you will agree that Mr. Miller has done well to publicize Schuman's analysis.

Two six-page articles follow. Robert Yoh '40, tells in positive fashion of the apparent failure of Mussert's fascist movement in the Netherlands. If the author is correct in saying that "there is no other race in Europe so filled with nationalistic pride and fervor as the Dutch race" (he uses superlatives throughout), then my own conclusion would be that the Dutch are nearer to fascism than he supposes, for extreme pride of race is a leading fascist trait. Charles Blum '41, writes with ardor and conviction in favor of collective security. In his enthusiasm he views it as a success, but in the opinion of this reviewer the past twenty years is a graveyard filled with the bones of collective security pacts, including the League of Nations.

The reports of I.R.C. discussions concerning the Munich Pact are well prepared, informative, and interesting. That on France fails to recognize French dependence upon England. The sole book review is timely and suggestive. Cartoons by Charles Steinmetz '40, enliven the work throughout. Errors of commission are not frequent or very important. There is a case of non sequitur, lines 11-14, page 9; it is implied that Ethiopians are not Christians, page 12; who has heard of the individual police department of the Middle West? page 13; it is implied that prior to Munich, Italy was not subordinate in importance to Germany, page 23.

It is to be hoped that the I.R.C. will find it possible to continue its publication. College students need to be encouraged in expressing their views; otherwise it is futile to expect them to be leaders after graduation. They also should learn to receive and profit by criticism, for that will not be lacking in life. Let us hope, then, that the I.R.C. Quarterly will receive support, readers, and criticism, all in good measure.

Michael Addresses Seniors

Urging that seniors desiring to obtain employment other than teaching after graduation apply for positions as soon as possible, Mr. Eugene B. Michael, head of the College Placement Bureau, spoke before a meeting of these seniors Thursday, December 8.

Campus Visitor

Rev. James W. Meminger '84

... of Lancaster, who was guest speaker during special services at St. Luke's Reformed Church, Trappe, last week, December 4 to 11.

Dr. Meminger, a member of the College Board of Directors, was for thirty-three years pastor of St. Paul's Reformed Church, Lancaster, building up that congregation to the largest in the city and one of the largest in the denomination.

For twenty-five years Dr. Meminger has been secretary of the Board of Ministerial Relief of the Reformed Church. He is also president of the Teachers' Protective Union of Lancaster.

Mr. Michael advised against waiting until spring to file applications for jobs. If possible, this should be done during the Christmas holidays or between semesters, he said.

A PERFECT WAY TO SAY
MERRY CHRISTMAS

The Observer

I observed basketball practice and as I observed I pondered. Then I became pessimistic. I had no current reason for adopting such an attitude; it just arrived naturally after my due reflections. In the past I had predicted great futures for our football teams. Pre-season potentialities were high—high enough at least to tempt my bright forecasts. In my freshman and sophomore years I watched high spirited but mediocre teams give their best.

Last year I saw a fighting eleven rise and fall, finally permitting the conference championship to slip from its grasp. This year's football prospects appeared greater than ever and you know the outcome. Last year I promised great things for the basketball team and again I failed. How can I help but reflect before I again prognosticate?

As I watched this year's basketball candidates participate in several heated scrimmages I noticed the sharp, quick passes, the deceptive cuts toward the basket, and the constant, clever faking of the players to pull their opposition off balance. I was also mindful of the high spirit and team play that prevailed. But these same characteristics were common to this very same group of players last year and their record was not even mildly impressive. Why was this?

Potentialities High

I don't intend to explain this condition, at least not now. I will say that I realize the high potentialities of the group of players that are going to represent Ursinus this year. Talent is well dispersed among the players. I know competition before an enthusiastic crowd spurs on several of our players to their very best, but I am alert also to the fact that these same players can present a woeful exhibition to that particular enthusiastic crowd when the breaks of the game go against them.

I am aware that cooperation and team spirit, not only among the players but between the team and the coach was not what it should have been, nor do I think that it has improved sufficiently this year. Such a statement calls for immediate justification; but then again it is an issue that can be discussed to greater advantage only after the team has swung into its regular schedule.

However, it must be remembered that Coach Hashagen has drilled the team well and hard in basketball's fundamentals. He has taught them to meet all the situations that arise in an ordinary game. Granted that the players have natural ability, it is apparent then that the burden is upon their shoulders alone. That they are capable of carrying this burden is known; whether they will support it, is not.

We Need Wins

Lastly, I cannot lose cognizance of the fact that the student body, the faculty, the alumni, and many others are depending upon Coach Hashagen and his eleven or twelve well-talented individuals to offset the large number of losses suffered by Ursinus teams this year. Our record for victories has reached a new low and our Director of Athletics, "Jing" Johnson, if approached concerning this subject, does not fail to impress this fact strongly upon your mind.

The essence of this column was not to strike an editorial vein as it obviously has. It was and is to remind the players that the game they love to play pulls not only on their athletic talents but that it demands a sincere intent to win; to win constantly is great, but to win again after a stinging defeat is much greater.

This present squad has or hasn't that ability to click when the pressure is heaviest. Last year this quality was sadly lacking. The team failed to regain its stride and it could have if—and the team knows the answer. As for this year—well, I'm still a pessimist, but a very amenable one.

Basketeers Priming For Opening Game Of Season; Squad, Except For Bodley, Intact From Last Year

With no scheduled games until after Christmas vacation, the Ursinus College basketball squad is drilling on fundamentals and the perfection of a teamwork system that will give much trouble to its opponents.

Coach Ken Hashagen is taking advantage of an ample training season by stressing teamwork and attempting to find a combination that will combine speed, cleverness in ball handling, accuracy in shooting, and excellence in defensive work. As in previous years, he is drilling his squad on foul-shooting, which was a potent factor in the success of the squad last year.

The opening game will bring Albright here on January 6. The schedule will be practically the same as last year, with the exception of St. Joe's instead of Villanova. Although the Ursinus team will play most of its games on foreign courts, it will have the advantage of playing four out of its first five games in the Thompson-Gay Field Cage.

Forwards will again be Hal Chern and Hal Moyer, whose talents supplement each other to the best degree. Chern, who possesses one of the best left arms in basketball, will play left forward, and his running mate will be right-handed Hal Moyer.

At center stringy Sparky Meade will get the call because of his aggressive play and clever backboard work. Bob Keehn has virtually clinched one of the guard positions because of his accurate long distance marksmanship. The other guard position will probably be won by Bill Power, the only senior on the squad, over contender John Wise, who is now in mid-season condition. On the second line of action will be Howard Wise, Dave Jacobs, George Biery, and Nat Johnson, all of whom will see action whenever needed.

Court Team, With Seven Veterans, Greatly Improved This Year

By Coach Ken Hashagen As Told To Al Lucyk '41

The success of the coming court season depends upon the attitude of the student body.

The team is greatly improved. The players are more experienced. All of the first five saw action last year. We lost only one man, Captain Jus Bodley, by graduation. That is an indication of what to expect.

In scrimmaging Penn A. C. and Penn, the team was impressive. We'll iron out a few more rusty spots when we again meet U. of P. and Brown Prep in practice.

So far, we are able to detect a weak defense. Our offense is as good—if not better—than that of last year. An attempt is being made to improve this defensive weakness. If successful we will be able to give every team plenty of trouble.

We are able to line up two good teams. Our offense this year will be centered about five men instead of two. A two man offense is, and always was, disastrous. Last year Muhlenberg had Bob Keehn and Hal Chern bottled up. This year Doggie Julian will find our offense radically different.

The Lineup?

Well, I think you could name it yourself and probably get the right "combine."

Hal Chern, an old standby and high scorer for last year, should start at forward. He is a smart and consistent ball player, good on offense; but what is more, as forward, he is also our best defensive man. Add to that the fact that he is a better game player than a practice player.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

Sammy Roeder, F. and M. captain and fullback, was placed on the Little All-American eleven.

Fred Todt was accorded honorable mention along with Vic Obeck of Springfield College who filled in Todt's shoes at Audubon (N. J.) High School.

"Reggie" resents the inference that he is out of shape.

Xmas suggestions: For Don: A 200 pound bulk who can run, kick, and pass. Would settle for less.

For Hash: The season he ought to have.

For Jing: A 10-foot pole to keep the wolves at bay who are howling over the carcass of the dead football season.

Apple polishing has been legalized for Thursday night.

According to his team-mates, "Hal" Moyer is the most improved player on the basketball club.

A professional presentation of the "Messiah" and a trip to the opera added a spot of culture to our campus life last week.

Don Kellett is off to "Chi" after Xmas with a talent seeking stop-over in "Angie" Vaccaro's Steubenville (Ohio).

Hal Moyer, at the other forward position is the most improved player on the squad, both defensively and offensively.

Sparky Meade, who starred at Lansdowne High, is becoming a smarter ball player, and a clever rebound retriever. He ought to hold down center.

Johnny Wise, at one guard, is doing very good work. John is in perfect condition, and undoubtedly will see much action during the season. He has been training conscientiously for some time to achieve the condition he is in.

Bobby Keehn will be at the other guard post. His team play this year is very conspicuous. Bob, who always has been a sparkling individual player, looks even better as a team man. Look for Keehn as the potential high-scoring, yet efficient, guard.

Bill Power, the only senior on the team, will be there to replace Wise when a fast cutting game is played. Power, along with two newcomers, George Biery and Dave Jacobs, has not fully accomplished the transition from football to basketball; therefore they are slow on starts. Bill was injured during football season, so that may also slow him down. Jacobs is showing promise, and is pushing Sparky Meade for center post. Jacobs is aggressive and always fighting. Biery is clever and shifty and should make a good guard substitute.

Howey Wise, a veteran of last year, is being groomed for a forward position. Nat Johnson, another newcomer is learning rapidly and should see action as a forward.

Unfortunately, Ed Thompson will not be with us when the first whistle sounds. He will be sorely missed for about a month. Ed is a good man, willing to cooperate and capable of grasping things quickly.

Opponents Strong

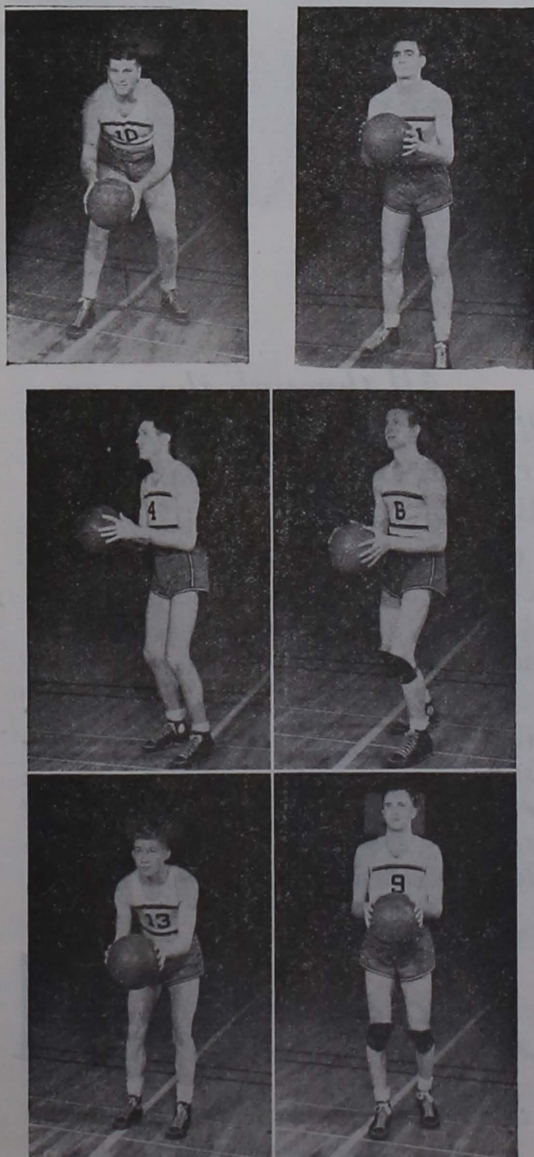

Opponents will be exceptionally strong this year. Gettysburg comes back with its full conference championship team. Muhlenberg, with last year's team plus a couple of good freshmen, means real business; as does F. and M. Lebanon Valley hasn't lost a man. Remember 61-38.

Albright and Drexel are on a par with us. Meaning at least four more tight games.

To sum up the conference, I'll predict that the winning team will lose 3 or 4 games in league competition.

Swarthmore is expected to give us our closest game. Recall that thriller last year—Ursinus 45, Swarthmore 44. St. Josephs, Dickinson, and P. M. C.—not one breather on the schedule.

With your support, we will go places.

tivate the audience with her gracious charm, and her pleasing smile had a fascinating quality about it. An even, deep resonant quality was present in her rich contralto voice. Her depth of interpretation seemed to show that she was actually living her part.

College Choir Praised

No further praise of the competent performance of the choir need be given than this, that all four guest artists were very lavish in their congratulations of its almost professional work.

Maryjane Mayhew Barton, who will be remembered for her lovely harp recital several weeks ago, was responsible for obtaining ten members of the orchestra of the Curtis Institute of Philadelphia, which accompanied the oratorio. This orchestra, supported by nine Ursinus students, must be given praise for its very creditable performance. Special honor should be given Franklin Morris '41, who presided at the piano.

Not often is such a difficult work of music presented so perfectly. The finished production will be remembered long by the students, faculty, and friends of Ursinus.

Lantern Out Tomorrow

The first issue of the Lantern will appear on campus tomorrow, Tuesday, December 13. The magazine was not ready for publication today as was previously announced.

Sympathy

The entire College and its friends extend their sincere sympathy to Mildred Sattazahn '39, in her recent bereavement.

Mr. Hendricks was graduated from Ursinus in 1888. He was District Attorney of Montgomery County from 1898-1904, Assistant District Attorney from 1911-1923, and since 1936. He has long been prominent in the life of Montgomery County and is a Thirty-third Degree Mason. The club is at present concerned chiefly with craft work. Earlier this year, the club members helped to make the decorations for the Varsity Club dance.

Play

her deception. But all ends well, entertainingly far from realism.

Byron Leads

As the Gracie Allen-like Adelaide, Roberta Byron was without reproach, upholding her leading role throughout the play, and looking most attractive. As Professor Wilfifer, her disgusted and Adelaide-weary husband, Clifford Laudenslager proved that even an inexperienced actor may be adequate.

Mary Helen Stoudt filled the insignificant role of Daughter Susie to its scant capacity. As her abruptly-found heart and young-and-starving writer, Richard Mays, Raymond Harbaugh offered an intelligent performance.

As Adelaide's mother, Evelyn Cornish was splendid, lending perhaps the clearest-thinking interpretation of the play. As her colored maid, Henrietta, Mabel Ditter was sufficient. As Cornelia Lawrence, Lillian Bedner and her trick hat received the bulk of the first-act laughs.

The part of Mr. Creepmore, the registrar of the college, was humorously acted by William Wimer via a twitch in his nose and a frog in his throat. Kenneth Seagrave, as Dr. Newberry, the president of the college, delivered his few lines forcefully and impressively. Glenn Eshbach, in the role of publicity-agent Warren Ainsley, had a winning way with a telephone receiver, but failed to be cautious enough of his enunciation. This failing, however, was evident, if less intense, on the part of perhaps the entire cast.

Winifred Shaw, a literary critic, was a minute part, but well-played by Geraldine Yerger.

Between the acts there was music by the College orchestra under the direction of Dr. William F. Phillip.
