

THE CAIRNS INSTITUTE
Research in tropical societies

Plasticene Marine

Exhibition to be opened by

Matt Wheldon

Tangaroa Blue &

Professor Iain Gordon

James Cook University

Plasticene Marine evokes encounters between marine life and plastics. The exhibition brings James Cook University researchers in the arts and marine sciences together with community activists to share a sense of urgency about the need for human behavioural change as plastic pollution dramatically impacts the ecologies of ocean habitats.

Participants: Barbara Dover, Robyn Glade-Wright, Mark Hamann, Mia Hoogenboom, Helen Ramoutsaki, Bennett Walker, Matt Wheldon

Friday 16 March 2018 | 5:15 pm | The Cairns Institute D3 Foyer

See website for more details:

<https://plasticenemarine.squarespace.com/residences/>

Contact information

maxine.newlands@jcu.edu.au

Cairns

Singapore

Townsville