

An anatomical illustration of the human torso, showing the internal organs and skeletal structure. The illustration is rendered in a blue, semi-transparent style. A prominent feature is a bright red, glowing area in the lower abdominal region, which likely represents the site of acute abdominal pain. The background is dark, making the blue and red elements stand out.

Acute Abdominal Pain

Considerations
on Diagnosis and Management

Boudewijn Toorenvliet

