Re: Revised Manuscript, The Lived Experience of Indonesian Nurses in Kuwait: A Phenomenological Study

Date: 14 August 2020

Dear Prof doc. PhDr. Sylva Bártlová, Ph.D.

Thank you for your email dated 16th July 2020 with the reviewer comments for the manuscript titled “The Lived Experience of Indonesian Nurses in Kuwait: A Phenomenological Study”. As directed by your correspondence, we are submitting the revised manuscript with red highlighted that addresses all reviewer comments and suggestions. Below, please find our responses to the reviewer’s and editor’s comments. We thank you for the opportunity to submit this revised manuscript.

Reviewer: 1	Response
The present article deals with and describes an issue that is very specific and concerns a certain group of nurses. On the other hand, it is a question of experience with the performance of the nursing profession abroad and in a foreign country, and this topic is already broader and may be interesting for a larger circle of readers. Another benefit of the article is the introduction of the use of phenomenological study in qualitative research. I would like to make a few recommendations here. Qualitative research emphasizes the analytical phase of the method, I think this is not clearly and in more detail presented in the presented article. The main idea of phenomenology is human experience, so it is the key to knowing phenomena. The researcher should analyze the reflected experience of the phenomenon in more detail and carefully. I also recommend describing the analysis of the obtained data in more detail. Furthermore, I would like to point out the non-compliance with the instructions for authors when providing references to the sources used in the text. There are several typos in the text /shift shifts, in other counties/, a small typo in the abstract - after the colon there should be a capital letter in the word participants’.	Thank you very much for raising this concern, we have revised it according to your comments.
Reviewer: 2
The topic is very interesting and in current worldwide situation important. Using qualitative methodological approach can be considered as adequate and I consider the manuscript well prepared.	Thank you very much, we have revised as suggested.

I have several comments which should be addressed by authors: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - in the Abstract, part Discussion: participant's economic... with capital letter Participant's... - citations in the text: corret according to guidelines when citing two and three or more authors - correct the title Methods to "Materials and methods" - in the section "Procedure" there is missing information on how the structured part of the interview was created. Adding more information how you have chosen these specific questions is needed. I consider it important also from the perspective of the validity of the approach and data. - correct the information for the Scientific article type of references in List of references by adding: No, Volume and page of the article(s). I recommend publishing the article after considering these above mentioned comments.
Reviewer 3
Overall Impression: The article is very superficial. I see major shortcomings: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • 1) In the Introduction section, the overview of the existing literature is somewhat superficial. The authors could have included some other relevant studies, e.g. Al-Enezi et al. (2009), a survey of 500 nurses with multicultural background working in Kuwait (nurses from Indonesia were included), also a study on Indonesian nurse returnees (Ferry Efendi et al. 2019) etc. • 2) The methods section is extremely brief and unclear. What was the interview based on? How exactly did the authors conduct data analysis using NVIVO software? How exactly did Van Manen (1997) guide the development of the 6 themes? How was trustworthiness evaluated? How were "credibility, appropriateness, and applicability in research conducted"? 	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. We have added citations as suggested. 2. Thank you very much, we have added some information to strengthen the methods section. 3. We have revised the conclusion based on the major findings.

• 3) The results and discussion are superficial as well, leading to superficial conclusion. For example, the recommendation mentioned in the conclusion... "Preparing Indonesian nurses with a tailored program on ...cultural issues is critical" appears to be a recommendation arising from a single comment by participant P9. This is unconvincing. attached is a version of your paper after technical edits. We need you to take a look at the highlighted parts of the list of references and adjust the highlighted references according to the notes attached to them.

The whole list of references had to be edited to comply with our guide for authors (https://kont.zsf.jcu.cz/artkey/inf-990000-0400_guide-for-authors.php) with considerable effort, so if you submit any further papers in the future, make sure to follow the directions.

Besides the above mentioned issues, there are some notes from the reviewers that you need to address before the article is accepted for publication:

- The methods section is partially unclear. Van Manen is mentioned, without providing proper reference. How exactly were "credibility, dependence, appropriateness, and applicability in research conducted"? While a brief and general statement is provided, it should be more specific and could be illustrated by providing specifics.
 - Table 1 - please explain abbreviation. I do not understand the line for the salary - is this also percentages? Percentage of what?
 - The results section could provide an example of results obtained in NVIVO (e.g. a picture).
- Overall, the topic is interesting. The article could be published after addressing the comments.*

After addressing these issues, please send the paper back to me via email. Work with the attached version.

Thank you for your cooperation.

Sincerely,

Jiří Šimek
